The Iron or Brass Bed adds much to the comfort of sleeping on hot nights. Compare if you will the high posted wooden bedstead solid in construction and shutting out all chance of ventilation, with the open construction of our sanitary metal beds. With the latter you have a free circulation of air which is productive of rest and sleep. Fitted with an iron frame spring and one of our comfort mattresses you have the ideal bed to sleep in—not costly either.

Full size Iron Beds, $1.98 to $15.00. Brass Beds, from $15.00 to $40.00. All Iron Spring Beds, $3.00 to $5.00. Comfort Mattresses, from $3.00 to $7 50—more costly ones of course, if you so desire.

DROWNING

Of Bathhouse Attendant at Nantasket.

Was Swimming With Wollaston Man.

Engulfed by Huge Wave and was Overcome.

The first drowning accident in five years took place Monday afternoon off the Metropolitan bath house at Nantasket beach when Walter L. Bradbury, one of the attendants, was the victim. Fred G. Thayer of Wollaston, another attendant, was with him at the time and made heroic efforts to rescue him but was unsuccessful.

"Dr." Bradbury, as he was called, was a third-year man at Tufts College, where he was studying medicine and was employed at the state bath-house on the Nantasket Beach reservation as an attendant.

Monday afternoon Bradbury and another attendant, Frederick G. Thayer, went in bathing from the bath-house. The strong easterly wind caused a very heavy surf and the breakers ran high. Both men were good swimmers and were not daunted by the heavy sea.

When out some distance from the beach a great breaker came rolling in and enveloped both men. When Thayer came to the surface after the breaker had passed, he called to Bradbury but received no answer. He could see the doctor's head just above the water and went to his assistance.

There was an agonizing expression on his face, and he was struggling and unable to speak. Thayer says he was conscious and grasped his wrist, and an effort was made to reach the shore with him.

Another breaker caused Bradbury to lose his hold. He tried to catch Thayer around the neck, but this, Thayer prevented, as it would have meant death to both. Another breaker and Bradbury disappeared.

Thayer succeeded in reaching the shore, exhausted. As soon as he landed he gave the alarm and Life Guard Reynolds of the bath-house corps launched the lifeboat and went out in search of the missing man.

All effort to find him was futile, however, and the search was abandoned. It is supposed the heavy undertow drew him under and swept him out to sea. The water was so rough that it was impossible to use grappling irons in prosecuting the search.

A northeast storm is raging and it is likely that until there is a change the body will not be recovered. A watch, however, is being kept night and day.

Mr. Bradbury was a native of Burlington, Me., and 28 years old. His brother, Charles H. Bradbury, who conducts a drug store at 559 Dudley street, Roxbury, went to the beach yesterday afternoon, when he was informed of the accident, and left instructions to have the body forwarded to Burlington, Me., if recovered.

Fred G. Thayer has been at the State bathhouse about three years, but it was Mr. Bradburys first season. Another Wollaston young man at the bathhouse is George Brown.

At noon today Thayer had recovered from exhaustion, but was feeling very sad at the loss of his companion.

GAMES OF CHANCE.

Machines Seized at Houghs Neck and Men in Court.

Agents of the Watch and Ward society were at Houghs Neck last week. As a result of their visit four business men of that section appeared in court this morning for running gaming machines.

The devices seized were what is known as the card machine. When a penny is dropped into the slot, a poker hand is thrown into views.

If certain combinations of cards are shown this player is rewarded with cigars, the number depending upon the value of the hand. In nine cases out of ten, however, the player gets nothing. It is clearly a game of chance.

The society agents seized the machines and swore out the complaints which were served by Chief Burrell.

The parties summoned into court were: E. P. Vinton, Alfred Peterson, Renton & Fullmore and Nicholas Garbarino.

MAY NOT RUN.

Ex-Mayor Bryant Not a Candidate for Councillor.

The political editor of the Globe learns that ex-Mayor Bryant of Quincy, who has been talked about as the opponent of Col. Sidney O. Bigney of Attleboro for the republican nomination in the 2d councillor district, may not run, it is now said. Mr. Bryant is quoted by a leading republican and a close personal friend as saying that he will not be a candidate for the nomination.

Mr. Bryant, it is said, has offered to support Ex-Representative Arthur Russell for the nomination, but the latter is quoted as saying that he did not care to make the run against Col. Bigney.

Now that neither Bryant nor Russell are likely to run against the Attleboro man, the politicians of the Boston end of the district have begun to look around for somebody to lead the opposition to Bigney.

Col. Bigney, who is spending much of his spare time about Boston of late, says that he doesn't care who is trotted out against him. "The more the merrier," observed the colonel yesterday. "I'll only have to step a bit livelier, and the faster the race the better I'll like it. There's no glory in going into a campaign with nobody to lick."

The Q. Y. C. Cruise.

The annual cruise of the Quincy Yacht club will be held next week. The boats to participate in the cruise will leave the club house at Houghs Neck on Monday morning, Aug. 7, at 7.15 o'clock. They will sail directly for Marblehead where they will participate in the races of the Boston Yacht club. The idea of chartering the yacht Edith A for non-yacht owners has been given up, not enough members having signified their intention to participate.

—The American Surety Company of New York has promptly paid the claim in full, amounting to $8200, of the Oxford National Bank, at Oxford, Mass., under its suretyship for Frank E. Vinton former cashier of that bank, who has disappeared.

$18.30

Tax Rate of Quincy for 1905.

Not As Large As Was Expected.

However Never Larger But Once in This City.

The Assessors report a tax rate of $18.30 for 1905.

This is a surprise as property owners generally expected it would be larger.

It is an increase of 30 cents over 1904, and just $1 over 1903.

At the same time it is the largest rate but one ever levied in Quincy either as a city or town.

In 1899 our tax rate was $19.20, which is our high water mark.

One city this year has reported a tax rate of $21.80 and in some towns it is even higher.

The gain in valuation is $1,546,340.00.

This is the largest increase since the first year of the city government in 1889 when the valuation was jumped up $2,561,285.

About a million dollars has been the average increase under the city government, as in seventeen years the increase has been $15,820,750.

The total levy this year is $585,546.39 against $549,192.66 last year; an increase of $36,353.73.

Some of the items of increase are:

Increase in City and Park debt, $8,864.00.

Increase in State tax, $10,830.00.

Increase in County tax, $6,897.77.

Increase in South Metropolitan sewer, $4,262.50.

Increase in Metropolitan Park, $359.65.

Increase in Metropolitan water, $1,748.26.

Increase in amount for municipal current expenses, $9,660.11.

NEW SHIPYARD.

New London Company to Have Fleet of 100 Coasters.

The stockholders of the Gilbert Transportation Company of New London says a dispatch to the Transcript, have authorized the directors to increase the capital stock of the corporation from $500,000 to $2,500,000. The entire amount of new stock authorized will not be issued at once, but new shares will be put out as the needs of the business may from time to time demand and warrant.

The company has elected these directors: Prentiss Howard of Webster, Mass., Eli Attwood of Lebanon, Pa., Daniel E. Ford and Amos R. Carver of New York city, M. L. Gilbert, O. A. Gilbert, Benjamin F. Williams and C. H. Williams of Mystic and Thomas Hamilton, Charles R. Hanscom and F. W. Allen of New London.

It is the intention ultimately to acquire control of a fleet of at least one hundred coasting vessels. It is likely that the company will decide to have a shipyard of its own for repairing and refitting its vessels. The bonds which the corporation is to issue will be underwritten by the Manufacturers' Trust Company of Providence and will bear six per cent interest.

Boston New Dry Dock.

The first vessel to enter the new dry dock at the Boston navy yard, says the Boston Advertiser, will be the cruiser Maryland, which will return to this port after a trip to Provincetown, where she sailed Monday for standardization tests, departing later for New York.

In the official tests of the new dock, the Maryland will be used, after which the dock will be formally accepted by the government.

It was believed that the battleship Massachusetts would be selected for this honor, but Sec. Bonaparte decided otherwise.

It is expected that the dock will be in readiness for the Maryland's reception in 3 or 4 days, and Friday is named as the day for the experiment.

No notification has as yet been received at the navy yard relative to the appointment of the board which will pass on the dock's acceptance and supervise the test.

—Lewis A. Fales of Dedham has been elected superintendent of schools at Attleboro.

The Tax Rates.

Previous to 1865 the tax rate of Quincy was never in excess of $10.00 per $1,000, and usually much less. Since 1865 the rate has been as follows, the high water mark being $19.20, but in excess of $18.00 only four years:

| | | | | |
| In | 1865, | $13 00 | 1886, | $15 40 |

Drift of Opinion.

☞James H. Hyde expresses a willingness to assist the attorney general in his suit against "James H. Hyde and his associates." Possibly Mr. Hyde's assistance would not be of that character which would assist.—Beverly Times.

☞The world is growing better. We are often led to believe that graft is running riot in our government and politics, but I believe that is untrue. In our treasury department the wrongdoing is very slight among the office holders. In the postoffice department the same thing is now true and in our agricultural department office holders have been removed for graft, that is, they have used their office to further their own ends and citizenship has so far advanced that when the facts become known, the end is certain.—Ex-Gov. Long at Marshfield.

☞But there are different schools of honesty. There is the every-day, old-fashioned, log-cabin, rag-carpet sort of honesty that obtained in a day when diplomacy was direct and folk ate dinner at noon—the day of our fathers, when every man could say a prayer and shoot a gun, and did—an honesty which turns from every venality, howsoever whitely pure hypocrisy may paint it, or the daily conduct of Scribes and Pharisees throw over it the protection of respectable precedent. Such is the Morton honesty. It was the honesty of the dead Sterling Morton; it is the honesty of the present Equitable Morton, his son.

As against this there is a second sort of honesty, which, since there's nothing in a name, for a purpose of convenience may be called the New York honesty. The distinguishing feature of this latter honesty lies in this: He who possesses it is unfaltering opposed to all robberies save those in which—as a beneficiary—he is personally interested.—Human Life.

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

CROP STATISTICS

Will Be Placed In Hands of Thoroughly Competent Men

WILSON NOT TO RESIGN

Intends to Continue Upbuilding of His Department, Which He Declares to Be "Sound as a Nut"—Backed by President

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Secretary Wilson will reorganize thoroughly the crop statistics bureau of the department of agriculture, according to information here. Already he is seeking men of character, standing and education to conduct the work of the bureau, men in whom the farmers and growers of the country will have implicit confidence and who will place the reports of the bureau on a standard of excellence which has never heretofore been achieved.

One man he has found, although he does not at this time wish to publish his name. The other three he hopes to secure in a short time. Two of them will be southern men and both will be experts in cotton and tobacco statistics. This, in brief, is one of the ideas which Secretary Wilson elucidated to President Roosevelt.

In response to invitations twice extended, Secretary Wilson visited the president at Sagamore Hill. Prior to his conference with the president, Secretary Wilson was not communicative.

In addition to the inquiry which is being made into the alleged irregularities which have developed, the secretary on his own account is making a rigid investigation of other bureaus of the department, his determination being to absolutely purge it of any taint of corruption. In his work Wilson has the approval of the president, whose direction has been to eliminate every form of "grafter" in the department.

At the conclusion of the conference Secretary Wilson talked frankly about some phases of some work in his department. He was asked whether there was any likelihood of his early relinquishment of his portfolio as secretary of agriculture and he replied:

"I haven't been asked to go and I am not intending to resign. I am going to stick to my post and continue to build up that great department. You will recall that when I went there I found practically nothing but a few roll-top desks and a half dozen half-starved scientists. Since that time we have built up an important branch of the government service.

"The agricultural department today is a great department and I may say it is as sound as a nut. We are trying every day to make it better. Since I took charge of it 279 people have been let out of its service for various reasons, many of them on charges of one kind or other. We make it a point to keep only first-class men and women. The purpose of the investigations now in progress is to purge the department of all selfishness and corruption and that end will be accomplished. It is my purpose and it is the purpose of the president.

"Have you heard anything about Mr. Hyde?"

"Well, he has gone to Europe," replied the secretary, grimly. "I had no idea he was going away from the country when he left the department. I received a letter from Mrs. Hyde explaining that she was responsible for his departure, that she had herself purchased his steamship transportation and had insisted that he go away on account of his health. She said he was in danger of a nervous collapse."

Concerning the inquiries now being made into the scandals by the department of justice, Secretary Wilson did not care to talk. "Manifestly," said he, "it would scarcely be proper for me to discuss the work of another department, particularly in the present circumstances.

"Only two cases are now before the attorney general from my department, that of Holmes and that of Dr. Moore. What may be the result of the inquiries I have no idea. Dr. Moore had accomplished some fine results and if he had only made clear to the department his entire connection with the nitro culture company I think we could have kept him on a straight course."

Secretary Wilson left at 4:20 p. m. for Washington. He will go west in a few days, probably, but the date for his trip has not been fixed.

Took Picture of Fortifications

Kingston, Ja., Aug. 1.—The investigation of the charge made against Dr. Franklin Clarke of Boston of wrongfully obtaining a photograph of the fortifications at Port Royal resulted in Clarke being committed to trial before the circuit court. A British non-commissioned officer, who assisted him in gaining an entrance to the fortress, will be court-martialled.

Coal Disturbances Unlikely

New York, Aug. 1.—The probability that the anthracite coal strike disturbances of 1900 and 1902 will not be repeated next year is brought out by David Willcox, president of the Delaware and Hudson company, in an article in the August North American Review.

Slept on Railway Track

Taunton, Mass., Aug. 1.—John Haverstraw, aged 35, was killed by an electric car at Dighton. He was lying asleep on the track and was not seen by the motorman in time to stop the car.

STOLE NEARLY $150,000

Boston Fugitive From Justice Located In South Africa

Boston, Aug. 1.—A fugitive from justice for nearly nine years, Frank C. Miles, 62 years old, charged with embezzling nearly $150,000 from the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust company and the fashionable Union club, of which he had been treasurer, has been definitely located in Cape Town, South Africa, and will be extradited if the proceedings which were started a few days ago prove successful.

Despite rumors that Miles had killed himself, the bonding company of New York, which lost $30,000 because of his alleged embezzlement, was convinced that he was alive and kept up the search.

A short time ago the company learned that Miles was living comfortably in Cape Town, and immediately informed Chief Watts and the state officials. Identification was secured, and Governor Douglas and Attorney General Parker at once applied to the state department for the arrest and extradition of Miles.

Communication with the authorities in Cape Town brought a favorable answer, and his arrest, it is believed, was effected yesterday.

Germany's Good Faith Doubted

Paris, Aug. 1.—The activity of the German commercial agents and officials with reference to the Moroccan situation is causing grave doubts on the part of the French people as to Germany's good faith. Despite the decision of the two governments not to interfere with the status quo until the international conference meets, the Germans are trying their utmost to extract commercial concessions from the sultan, hoping thereby to strengthen Germany's position at the conference.

Many Undesirable Immigrants

New York, Aug. 1.—Undesirable immigrants from all parts of Europe are pouring into this country, according to Commissioner Watchorn, at an increased rate. In rough figures, 48,000 immigrants arrived during the month of July, against 36,000 in July of last year. More than 1000 were deported during July, as against 645 in July, 1904. The special boards of inquiry are working particularly hard in order to prevent the undesirable immigrant from landing.

Pope Blesses All Americans

Rome, Aug. 1.—The pope received in private audience the American pilgrimage headed by Rev. John J. Mograne. The pontiff made a long address, saying that he loved all Americans, even the non-Catholics, the latter for the liberty they allowed the church. He therefore sent his blessing to all Americans. This may be considered entirely unprecedented benevolence.

Yellow Fever Gaining Ground

New Orleans, Aug. 1.—New cases of yellow fever yesterday, 21; cases to date, 320; deaths yesterday, 5. Total deaths since July 13, 62; new centres 5; total centres, 46. Another new case was discovered outside of the city, being that of an Italian who left here a week ago with several others and took up his residence in Morgan City.

Steel Plant For Staten Island

New York, Aug. 1.—A large plant for the manufacture of structural steel, steel plates and blooms, and possibly also steel rails, is to be built on Staten Island. George Reis, one of Andrew Carnegie's former associates, will be at the head of the company. It is said that $1,000,000 in cash has already been placed for the new plant.

Cutting Out Isthmus Merchants

Panama, Aug. 1.—The canal commission has decided to establish commissariat stations for the supply of food, etc., for canal laborers along the zone, excluding Panama and Colon. Until now the United States refrained from doing so on account of the protests of Colon and Panama merchants.

The Taft Party's Progress

Nagasaki, Aug. 1.—Steamer Manchuria arrived at 7 o'clock this morning. The governor, the mayor and other officers went aboard and extended an official welcome to Secretary Taft and Miss Roosevelt. The party landed at 9 o'clock and lunched at the American consulate.

Steamship Companies Agree

Glasgow, Aug. 1.—The Allan and Donaldson steamship lines, after a month of rate cutting, have come to terms with regard to second and third-class trans-Atlantic passenger tickets. The second-class rate is restored to $35 and the third-class rate to $25.

Satisfied With Present Position

New York, Aug. 1.—District Attorney Jerome has issued a formal statement in which he declares that he is a candidate for the office of district attorney and that he does not desire to be a candidate for the office of mayor of New York.

Contract Laborers For Panama

Colon, Aug. 1.—Four hundred Cartagena contract canal laborers have arrived here. This is the first rapproachment between Colombia and Panama. Two hundred West Indian laborers have also arrived here.

Arkansas Declares Quarantine

Little Rock, Aug. 1.—The Arkansas state board of health last night declared a quarantine for this state against all places where yellow fever exists.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Wednesday, Aug. 2.
Sun rises—4:38; sets—7:03.
Moon sets—8:05 p. m.
High water—12 a. m.; 12 p. m.
Fair weather is indicated for New England.

FOUR MONTHS' DIVIDEND

Operatives of Bourne Mills to Share in the Profits

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 1.—The following circular, signed by Treasurer Chace, was distributed among the operatives of the Bourne mills:

"It gives me more than ordinary pleasure to be able to announce to you that the board of directors at the quarterly meeting held this day voted to declare a dividend of 2½ percent upon wages earned during the four months ending Dec. 2, 1905, by all employes who shall be entitled to share in the profits under the simple rules of faithful, efficient and continuous service; payable Dec. 23, 1905. The amount each employe will receive will be in proportion to what he earns during the next four months—the more you earn the larger the dividend. I am pleased that the rate of dividend has been fixed in advance, so that each may calculate from week to week what you may ultimately be paid on Saturday morning before next Christmas."

The circular means a resumption of the profit-sharing system at the mill, but it differs from the system in previous use in that it declares at the beginning of the profit-sharing term how much the dividend will be. The term is also shortened two months, the payments in other years having been made semi-annually. The new plan will probably aid materially in securing a permanent class of operatives, as it is one of the essentials that the employe shall work continuously.

Bold Work of Thugs

Boston, Aug. 1.—Three men nearly killed a man on the common between 6 and 7 o'clock last evening while they were robbing him of his money. The common was thronged with people at the time. Though two policemen gave chase, the thugs escaped by jumping on a car after they had run from the common. Their victim, half dead, was taken to a hospital. In the afternoon a bold attempt was made by a thief to rob a Sharon man in Corn court. That the attempt was not successful was probably due to a man who witnessed the affair, and came to the rescue of the man from Sharon.

Maine Vital Statistics

Augusta, Me., Aug. 1.—During the past year 946 divorces were decreed in Maine, the wife being the libellant in 684 actions, according to the annual report of Dr. Young, registrar of vital statistics. Five divorces were granted before the married life lasted six months, and in 28 cases after more than 30 years of married life. The whole number of deaths for the year was 11,009, of which 3628 were males. The death rate per thousand was 15.85 percent. The number of births was 14,583, of which 7406 were males.

More Rain Than Wanted

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 1.—Unusually heavy rains for midsummer which have prevailed for the past few days in northern Vermont have overflowed the rivers, damaged crops and caused numerous washouts. Along the Winooski river considerable hay in the meadows has been ruined and cornfields have been damaged. Washouts have interfered with railroad traffic to some extent.

Shot Through Brain and Lives

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 1.—Mrs. Elmira Furrow, who was shot through the brain by her son-in-law, William R. Labelle, last February, is able to sit up in a chair, but is almost helpless and practically speechless. She may live a long time and she may die suddenly. Dr. Weiser says that she is in such a condition that the wound she received will eventually cause her death.

Heat, Light and Power Deal

Leominster, Mass., Aug. 1.—The Heat, Light and Power corporation of Boston has made a deal for the purchase of the Leominster Light and Power company. The ratification of the deal and the transfer of stock will be made next week. The price agreed upon is about par for the capital stock of the Leominster company, which is $50,000.

Prominent Elk Kills Himself

Keene, N. H., Aug. 1.—Walter H. Litchfield, aged 30, was found dead with a bullet hole in his right temple in the Elks' hall, of which order Litchfield was a prominent member. A revolver was found in his hand, and the medical referee pronounced death by suicide.

Sale of Granite Quarry Land

Barre, Vt., Aug. 1.—Three hundred acres of granite quarry land at Newark and East Burke has been purchased by Bugbee & Alexander, a granite firm in this city, at a cost of $100,000. When the quarry is in full operation it will give employment to 1000 men.

Conductor Crushed to Death

Boston, Aug. 1.— F. Bean, 48 years old, a conductor on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was crushed last night between two cars in the South Terminal station yard. He died on the way to a hospital.

Killed by Fall From Brother's Car

New Haven, Aug. 1.—Miss Josephine McCormick, the sister of a motorman on the Consolidated railroad, while in a faint was thrown from her brother's car last night and almost instantly killed. She died on the way to a hospital.

Alleged Attempt at Poisoning

Rumford Falls, Me., Aug. 1.—Mrs. John Flagg, who was arrested on a charge of attempting to poison her husband, was held in $1000 bonds for her appearance before the supreme court. Bail was furnished.

DON'T BOLT YOUR FOOD.

There Is Pleasure as Well as Health In Deliberate Eating.

Fast eating is sure to be injurious, because to properly prepare the food for digestion it must be thoroughly masticated.

Rapid eating is still worse when it is caused by the hurry of business or by anxiety or nervous irritability or by the common habit of "bolting" the food. Such eating is sure to produce indigestion or dyspepsia.

The teeth, as well as the stomach, are made for labor, and neither can have their proper work to do if only paps and broths and puddings and hashes and other soft and artificially prepared foods are crowded into the stomach as though the cook in the kitchen could masticate and digest the food better than the natural grinders and the chemical action and assimilating power of the stomach.

Those people who shovel great vulgar mouthfuls of food into their mouths and bolt it down as though they had but ten minutes for a meal are gormandizers instead of polite people.

They know little of the pleasure of deliberate eating or the luxury of satisfying hunger, and certainly they are laying the foundation of disease.

Dry, hard food, vigorously chewed, stimulates the flow of saliva, strengthens the teeth and keeps them healthy and invigorates the digestion.

HE TOOK LONG CHANCES.

But the Tailor's Anxiety and Bill Were Both Finally Settled.

The doctor of an English regiment stationed in India received a letter from his tailor inclosing a long overdue account and concluding with a polite inquiry after the debtor's state of health. The sawbones replied thus:

"I have received your hypocritical letter hoping that I am in a good state of health. Hear, then, what your chances of my living long enough to be able to pay your bill are. I attend assiduously every cholera case in the camp, and I am making smallpox a special study. I swim every morning in a lake swarming with alligators. At a recent attack on a hill fort I went with the forlorn hope and was one of the three who returned unwounded. Tomorrow morning I shall go unaccompanied and on foot into the jungle and wait for the man eating tigress as she returns at dawn to her cave and cubs. If it be she who fails I shall spend my leave in the fever haunted jungle following up big game, and if I survive that I shall cool myself after its heat by joining a party to ascend the peak of Dhawalagiri, whose snow slopes and glaciers are as stiff as your prices."

The doctor eventually returned home in safety, and the tailor's anxiety and his bill were both settled.

WOMEN IN PARLIAMENT.

Down to Time of Edward III. They Had Right of Voting.

The ladies of birth and quality sat in council with the Saxon Witas. The Abbess Hilda presided in an ecclesiastical synod.

In Wighfred's great council at Becconceld, A. D. 694, the abbesses sat and deliberated, and five of them signed the decrees of that council along with the king, bishops and nobles.

King Edgar's charter to the abbey of Crowland, A. D. 961, was with the consent of the nobles and abbesses, who subscribed the charter.

In Henry III. and Edward I.'s time four abbesses were summoned to parliament—viz, of Shaftesbury, Berking, St. Mary of Winchester, and of Wilton.

In the thirty-fifth of Edward III. were summoned by writ to parliament, to appear by their proxies, Mary, countess of Norfolk; Alienor, countess of Ormond; Anna Dispenser, Phillippa, countess of March; Johanna Fitz Water, Agneta, countess of Pembroke; Mary de St. Paul, countess of Pembroke; Margaret de Roos, Matilda, countess of Oxford; Catherine, countess of Athol. These ladies were called by their proxies, a privilege peculiar to the peerage, to appear and act by proxy.—"Antiquities of Parliament."

Sleep and Death.

An animal deprived of sleep dies more quickly than from hunger. One of the cruelest of Chinese punishments is to kill a man by preventing sleep, he dying insane about the fourteenth day. All animals sleep for some period of the twenty-four hours. How and when they do so depend upon their natural habits. But they all have this in common—that after any unusual exertion they sleep longer.—London Mail.

The Hazard of the Die.

A.—Where are you off to? B.—I am going to ask Mr. K——, the wealthy banker, for the hand of one of his daughters. A.—Indeed! Which of them? B.—I don't know yet. If he is in a good humor, I will take the youngest; if in a bad humor, the eldest.—Lustige Blatter.

An Anxious Father.

Sue Deering—I'm afraid papa was angry when you asked him for me, was he, Jack? Jack Hillow—Not at all. He asked me if I knew any more respectable men who would be likely to marry your five sisters if properly coaxed.

Men and Women.

He—I think every woman is entitled to be considered man's equal. She—Well, if she is willing to bring herself down to his level I don't see why she shouldn't be allowed to pose as his equal.—Illustrated Bits.

A Repulse.

He—I would lay the world at your feet. She (laughingly)—My dear sir, it is there already. Don't assume credit for the law of gravitation.

CITY BREVITIES

August.

Hop this evening by the Quincy Yacht club at the clubhouse.

Many of the places of business in the city will be closed tomorrow—Grocers' day.

The carriages and personal property of the late C. A. Spear will be sold by Auctioneer Johnson on Wednesday of next week.

The Quincy Yacht club boats will not participate in the inter-club race under the auspices of the Squantum Yacht club on Saturday as they will all be in attendance at the races at Hull.

MacFarland has certainly proved to be a find for the Merrymounts. He has batted for 500 and has fielded his position without an error since he has joined the team.

The new block on Granite street has begun to assume shape. The rear brick wall is completed and it will not be many days before the first block of stores is closed in. The work is being done under the direction of Peter J. Williams, the contractor.

The granite manufacturers did not want rain on Saturday, the seashore attractions did not want it on Sunday, the washerwomen did not want it Monday, and they are certain it should not rain Tuesday if Monday is rainy. But the rain has done lots of good.

A MILITANT SPIRIT

Strengthened In Russia by the Czar's Words on Peace.

PLANS TO UNIFY NATION

Promulgation of Acceptable Reform Project Will Make Acceptance of Peace Conference Decision Much Easier

St. Petersburg, Aug. 1.—Emperor Nicholas' martial message to the Orerburg clergy, in which he expressed his determination never to conclude a peace dishonorable to Russia or unworthy of her greatness, and which was gazetted yesterday, is re-printed in every paper in Russia today. It has struck a responsive chord in many quarters, even among the friends of peace.

The czar's words, however, by no means bear out the construction placed upon them by the jubilant war party, nor do they at all exclude the idea of a successful termination of the approaching negotiations at Portsmouth, but they certainly strengthen the militant spirit aroused by the cabled versions of the Sato interviews and the cold figures representing the supposed extent of the contribution to be demanded by Japan.

Subsequent explanations have failed to efface this idea of oppression entirely, and many voices have been raised to urge the government to resist too onerous conditions. For example, the merchants of Moscow, who are largely Old Believers and who control much of the wealth of the nation, are sending an address to General Linevitch to express confidence that the army will defend Russia's honor and that a humiliating peace will not be made.

While many influences tending to unify the nation, if it should be necessary to continue the war, are evidently in operation, no disposition is shown to anticipate the results of the peace conferences nor to make the task of the commissioners more difficult, and M. Witte's presence at the head of the mission is regarded as a guarantee that acceptance of a basis of peace will be found if possible.

In significant connection with the peace conference is the meeting of the czar's chosen counsellors, 22 in number, representative of both the liberal and conservative schools, as well as the ministers, which will be held tomorrow, a day sooner than was expected, to pass their verdict on the national assembly project. The deliberations probably will continue a week, perhaps longer, but the czar wishes to reach a conclusion before the birthday of Grand Duke Alexis Nikolaievitch, heir to the throne, Aug. 12, and a manifesto generally is expected on that day. The promulgation of an acceptable reform project would make the acceptance of the decision of the peace conference, either for or against peace, much easier.

Several papers comment on the proposition to make the Baltic a mare clausum. The question is generally regarded as one between Great Britain and Germany, in which Russia is a disinterested spectator.

Will Go Beyond Prize Court

London, Aug. 1.—In reply to a question in the house of lords, Foreign Secretary Lansdowne said the government had intimated to Russia that claims for compensation to the respective owners and crews of the British steamers St. Kilda and Ikhona, which were sunk by Russian auxiliary cruisers after the battle of the Sea of Japan, would be pressed, irrespective of the findings of the original prize court.

Caughnawaga an Easy Winner

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Dull gray skies and drizzling rain, a slow track and the usual large crowd marked the opening of the Saratoga race meeting. Staunch Old Caughnawaga captured the feature event of the day, the Saratoga $10,000 handicap, for his owner, John Sanford, in easy style, outfooting such cracks as Ort Wells, Beldame and Tarya.

Astronomical Sharps in Algeria

Bona, Algeria, Aug. 1.—The United States cruiser Minneapolis, conveying members of the American scientific mission which will observe the eclipse of the sun Aug. 30, has arrived here. She is anchored alongside the cruiser Dixie, which has on board the instruments and materials for the observation stations.

Probing the Bennington Disaster

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 1.—The board of inquiry appointed by Admiral Goodrich to hear evidence pertaining to the disastrous boiler explosion on the gunboat Bennington in San Diego harbor on July 21 has convened on board the flagship Chicago. The work of the board will require several days.

The Kaiser In Denmark

Copenhagen, Aug. 1.—The meeting between Emperor William of Germany and King Christian was of a very quiet and informal character, but the emperor's absorbed demeanor seemed to show that he attached great importance to the visit. There was no formal reception. The party entered carriages and drove to Bernstoff castle amidst much cheering by the spectators. Throughout the drive the emperor was in earnest conversation with the king and took little notice of the decorations or the populace. Last evening there was a state dinner. King Christian briefly thanked the emperor for his visit, and the latter expressed his thanks for having been two years ago appointed a Danish admiral.

Czar Is Minus $750,000

London, Aug. 1.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Telegraph states that the emperor, the empress, and the dowager empress each invested $750,000 in the Yalu timber enterprise. When the accounts were made up the whole of this money was found to be missing. Arrangements were then made to reimburse them from the war fund, but when this proposal was submitted to the emperor he struck out his own name, leaving only the names of the two empresses.

Carnegie Mills to Be "Open"

Pittsburg, Aug. 1.—The advisory board of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers met here to consider the question of declaring the Carnegie Steel company plants in Ohio open. After a long session the board decided to leave the matter to a vote of the lodges directly interested. This is equivalent to declaring the five mills "open," inasmuch as the lodges last week secured authority from President Shaffer to declare the strike off.

Country Without a Government

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 1.—Owing to the great division among political parties the country has been without a government for two months. A dozen ministerial combinations have failed, and, in view of the critical situation, President Riesco has called upon his personal friends to form a presidential ministry.

Horsemen Got a Jolt

Cleveland, Aug. 1.—The grand circuit races, which were to have started here yesterday, were declared off after the proclamation of Mayor Johnson that pool selling would not be permitted. This announcement coming at the last moment created consternation among horsemen and the members of the Cleveland Driving Park association.

Mutineers' Thorny Path

Sebastopol, Aug. 1.—Letters received from members of the crew of the Russian battleship Kniaz Potemkine indicate that the former mutineers are suffering many handships in Roumania. They have had difficulty in obtaining employment, as the Roumanian workmen refused to work with them.

To Resume Recruiting

St. Johns, Aug. 1.—The British admiralty has reconsidered its decision to cease recruiting for the Newfoundland naval reserve and has decided to enlist 126 reservists annually, embarking them for six months' sea training every winter. The reserve is very popular among young fisherfolk.

Sixty Thousand Threaten to Strike

London, Aug. 1.—The 60,000 Lancashirecotton operatives have decided by an enormous majority to strike on Aug. 19 unless the advance of wages demanded by them is conceded. The demand is for 5 percent advance in wages.

Thought It Was Empty.

Cholly—I have a beastly cold in my head.

Molly—Well, that's something.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Serenade.

My song rose on the midnight air,
When suddenly a broken chair
Fell on my head from way up above—
Her dad has queer ideas of love.
—Detroit Free Press.

Eventually.

"Who gets the bulk of Pemberton's estate?"

"The lawyers."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

John Chink to Uncle Sam.

The Chinaman exclaimed: "Again
By modern minds we'll be advised.
We'll try to boycott now and then
To show we're getting civilized."
—Washington Star.

WHAT SHE PLAYED.

The Last Music That Theodore Thomas Heard on Earth.

During the last illness of Theodore Thomas, although he was not at any time unconscious or delirious, he hardly noticed the members of his family as they came and went at the bedside. But one morning he seemed to be better.

He made little jokes with the doctors and his sons and talked about his White mountain home. At 12 o'clock he seemed tired. The editor of his autobiography says that he sank into a dreamy state, and then roused himself to say to his wife in a lingering, ecstatic voice:

"I have had a beautiful vision—a beautiful vision!"

Then he drifted off into silence.

His wife thought he was tired and went downstairs to luncheon, but chiefly with the purpose of leaving him to rest. He had given her a chime of bells, to be used in summoning the family to meals, and because of his illness they had never been rung in the house. Now, because he seemed so much better, she played on them a little bugle call that came into her head.

"Do you know what you have played?" asked one of the family. "Taps—the call that is sounded over the graves of dead soldiers."

She rushed back to the bells and played the call engraved on a metal plate above them. Afterward she found that this was reveille, the soldier's signal to rise.

So it had chanced that the last music Theodore Thomas heard on earth had been symbolic of death and the resurrection.—Youth's Companion.

THE DAINTY WASP.

Apparatus With Which He Makes His Complicated Toilet.

"Wasps are exceedingly dainty in their habits," says a writer in the Pilgrim, "and, in order that they may gratify their instinct for neatness to the utmost, nature has provided them with a set of marvelously delicate combs and brushes. If we look closely at the wasp's legs we will find that each bears on its outermost long joint two small, movable spines, known as the apical spurs, and if we examine these with a magnifying glass each is seen to be provided with a row of fine teeth, so that the apparatus answers for a coarse and fine toothed comb.

"The tidying up process consists of various perfectly definite steps, usually taking place in a particular sequence. First, it passes both front legs over the face from above downward, and after repeating this movement several times draws them through the jaws. This is to remove any foreign substance which may have collected on them. The legs are then passed backward from the forehead, much as we should smooth back our hair. The wings are then stroked again and again from the base to the tip, although the most careful observer would fail to detect anything upon them. The abdomen is next carefully stroked from base to tip until every hair points in the right direction and a gloss as fine as satin is attained. Last of all, each of the six legs, in turn, is laboriously drawn between two of its fellows, so the wasp is once more ready to face its world."

A Story of Washington.

George Washington's head gardener was from some European kingdom, where he had worked in the royal grounds. But coming to America he left his wife behind. Homesickness for his "gude" woman's face soon began to prey on him, and Washington noticed the anxious eye and drooping spirits of his servant. Finally the man went down to the river and declared his intention of shipping to the old country, when who should come up and lean over the side of a newly arrived vessel but his wife. The kind hearted general had secretly sent for the woman, and she fortunately surprised her loving husband in one of his fits of despondency.

A Startled Guest.

Mme. Patti took elaborate precautions against burglars at Craig-y-Nos, her castle in Wales. A guest there who was spending a sleepless night rose before dawn to open his bedroom window. Immediately there was a violent ringing of bells in different parts of the castle. The visitor made his way downstairs, only to find himself in imminent danger of being lacerated by a whole troop of snapping and snarling dogs. It turned out that he had unwittingly set the diva's patent burglar traps going, the dogs being released from their chains by an electric connection with the window.

Cats' Eyes.

What is the correct color for cats' eyes as related to the color of the cats? is the question which has been answered as follows: A black cat or one known as a "blue" cat should have amber or orange eyes. White cats must have blue eyes, chinchillas green, though orange are permissible; orange, cream or fawn cats must have orange or hazel eyes; smokes, orange eyes.

Belated Advice.

"That coat looks shabby," remarked Hicks to his intimate friend, the poet. "Why don't you have it turned?"

"Do you think this coat has three sides?" asked the impecunious one sadly. And nothing more was said on the subject.

Patriotic.

"That horrid Uxorly has married again?"

"Yes, and he's awfully fond of his latest wife. He says she's his glorious fourth."—Chicago Tribune.

The haughty are always the victims of their own rash conclusions.—Le Sage.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Fair and warmer tomorrow.

John Cunniff, letter carrier, is enjoying his vacation.

"When it rains in August it rains honey and wine."

William Crawford of Weymouth has accepted a position at the shipyard.

Unusually low temperature for August; at 7 A. M., the mercury was in the 50s.

Fire was started in some of the heaters in the business blocks of the city today.

James Lord of Brook street, for many years engaged in the express business, has retired.

Judge Albert E. Avery of the district court has returned from a month's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Pollard of Edison street, have returned from a visit in New Jersey.

Miss Bertha Seller of Woburn is visiting her brother, H. B. Seller of Edwards street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shaw and family have gone to New Hampshire for the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugune DeNormandie of Highland avenue have returned from a visit at St. Louis.

John B. Hart, head time-keeper at the ship-yard is spending his vacation at Lake Sunapee, N. H.

Mr. James Chandler and Mr. Joseph Bartlett of Willow street have returned from an automobile trip to Dover.

Mrs. C. Wendall Garey and Master Willis Garey go to Brant Rock on Wednesday for a few weeks' outing.

It is reported that a man believed to be crazy is wandering about Wollaston Park. It behooves us to keep our doors locked.

Thursday, on the Floating Hospital, will be in memory of Sarah Gregg Faxon, with Mrs. Henry M. Faxon of Quincy, as patroness.

Miss Grace L. Barry of West Quincy, clerk in the claim agents'department at the Old Colony Street Railway, has gone to Lake Canobie, N. H.

Manning C. Davy, a well known resident, died at his home on Linden place this morning aged 60 years. Mr. Davy was an expert accountant and was associated with his son. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter.

Less than an inch of rain fell in Boston during the month of July, an unusually dry month. The normal fall is nearly four inches. Quincy must have had more rain than Boston.

The Wollaston boys who are working in the State Bath House, Nantasket, were greatly shocked at the loss of their comrade and director, Dr. Bradbury, who was drowned Monday in the surf.

VISITING NURSE.

Duties Defined—Pay Expected—Needs for the Work.

Instructive Visiting Nursing has been started under the auspices of the Philantropy Committee of the Quincy Women's club. The nurse has her headquarters at the Women's Clubhouse, 148 Goffe street, telephone number 304-3 Quincy.

As this work does not seem to be generally understood, we would like to make a few statements, and answer some questions asked in regard to it.

What is instructive visiting nursing?

It is to help people who are sick, the rich or poor. To go for a short time, do what one can for the comfort of the patient. To carry out the physician's orders as if doing private nursing for him. To teach some members of the household as far as possible how to do properly the many things required in sickness, such as arranging bed, moving patient, giving baths, care of mother and child, preparing foods, making poultices, etc, etc.

Also going with physician to assist at operations, and doing surgical dressing.

Calls are made each day or when needed and continued as long as the case demands.

The patient pays what he can for each visit, or nothing if he cannot afford it.

This fee goes to the Quincy Women's Club to be used by the Philanthropy Committee in continuing this work, and furnishing supplies.

The nurse is on a salary which is paid by subscriptions from various organizations and from private individuals.

In order to prevent misunderstanding, the following rules have been adopted, a copy of which has been sent to each physician in the city.

1—The service of the Visiting Nurse can be secured only at the request of the physician in charge of the case, the preference being given to the patient in greatest need.

2—The Nurse shall not attend contagious cases.

3—The Nurse cannot attend the first call of obstetrical cases, except in extreme emergency. The after calls will be attended as far as possible.

4—The maximum duration of a visit shall not exceed 45 minutes except in extreme cases.

5—The patients are expected to make some payments for the Nurse's service to the Women's Club when it is possible, the maximum charge being 50 cents a visit.

6—The Nurse will not only care for the patient, but endeavor to instruct some members of the family in such service.

7—The Nurse's working hours are from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M., and calls coming after 1 P. M. will be taken the following day except in cases of emergency.

8—No new calls will be taken on Sunday except in cases of great necessity.

9—As far as practicable, the nurse shall collect the fee at each visit.

The nurse will always try to be at her rooms from 7 to 8 A. M. Any other time when she is not there the care-taker is expected to answer the telephone. Each call will be taken in rotation except in cases of great necessity.

A beginning has been made with one nurse only, which seems inadequate for a city of the size of Quincy. But one nurse can accomplish a great deal if given the opportunity, and we hope in time for more nurses, as the work demands and the funds increase.

One of the most important details of the work is the supply and loan closet. As the contributions to this increase we hope to be able to loan or give as the case requires :—old linen, cotton, sheets, pillow-slips, night-clothes, infants' clothings, towels, wash-cloths, etc. Anything in fact which can be of use in sickness.

A few of these articles have been received, also contributions toward the bag and druggist supplies for the daily use of the nurse. These articles were very much needed, and we desire to thank the friends who have contributed in any way. For the Committee.

Dr. Everett at King's Chapel.

At the morning service at King's Chapel Sunday Dr. William Everett occupied the pulpit, and based his address upon the text "Behold, we have forsaken all and followed Thee." The central figure of the sermon was the Apostle James, whose association with Christ was shown to have been characterized by an admiration for the Master no less sublime than that of Christ for his beloved apostle. Criticism was directed toward some of the favorite doctrines of the day, agnosticism being particularly mentioned as showing one direction in which popular religious thought is drifting.—Transcript.

Many Floral Tributes.

The funeral of Albert A. youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Myatte was held from his parents home Beacon street, Quincy Point, on Monday afternoon, the burial being at Randolph. There was an abundance of flowers in memory of the little fellow, including: wreath from Quincy Associate club; cross, from Mr. and Mrs. Thayer; and sprays of flowers from Mrs. Bovard, Mr. Beaton, Mrs. Christine Levangie, Mrs. Edwin Myatte, Mrs. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Foster, Mr. Drake, Mrs. Charles Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. McDonnell, Miss Laura Myatte, Misses Margaret and Christina McDonnell and several bouquets from his little playmates.

Quincy Man Not Guilty.

The continued case of William St. Pierre of Quincy charged with a statutory offense at Nantasket, came up before Judge Hudson in the District Court at Abington this morning. He was found not guilty and was discharged. J. L. Goodman appeared for the government and J. D. McKay for the defendant.

At the same sitting of the court the self-confessed bigamist, Charles W. Pattri was arraigned. He was not represented by counsel. He pleaded guilty, and was bound over to await the action of the grand jury. There are three women living who claim Pattri as their husband.

From Four States.

During the vacation of Rev. E. N. Hardy the following clergymen will preach at Bethany Congregational church:

Aug. 6 — Rev. Norman Plass of Topeka, Kansas.

Aug. 13 — Rev. A. A. Walker of Wellesley Hills, Mass.

DIRECTORS SUED

Attorney General Mayer Acts on Equitable Case

FORTY-NINE DEFENDANTS

Demands an Accounting For Their Management and Return of Moneys Diverted From the Proper Course--Net Surplus Must Go to Policyholders

New York, Aug. 1.—An action has been instituted by State Attorney General Mayer in the supreme court, New York county, in the name of the people of the state of New York against the Equitable Life Insurance society, its officers, directors and members of the executive and finance committees, all of which are named in the complaint. The 49 defendants are allowed 20 days from the time of service to file their answers.

The complaint contains 21 sections and covers 33 pages of trypewritten matter. It refers to the Frick committee report and the investigation made by State Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks and is based on information and belief. Attorney General Mayer, in his prayer to the court, says that the action was brought on behalf of the people of the state of New York in the public interests and pursuant to the provisions of law. He therefore asks:

"1—That the defendants, and each of them, other than the defendant, the Equitable Life Assurance society of the United States, account for their official conduct in the management and disposition of the funds and property committed to their charge.

"2—That the individual defendants and each of them be compelled to pay to the defendant, the Equitable Life Assurance society of the United States, any money and the value of any property which they or any of them have acquired to themselves, or transferred to others, or lost or wasted, by a violation of their duties.

"3—That any defendant or defendants, now a director or directors or officer in the defendant society, upon proof of misconduct, be removed and that a new election be held by the board of the defendant society, purely authorized to hold the same, in order to supply the vacancy or vacancies created by the removal.

"4—That the net surplus of defendant society, after deducting a sufficient amount to cover all outstanding risks and obligations, be paid to, or credited to, or applied for the benefit of, the present policyholders in equitable proportions, in accordance with the charter and with law.

"5—That the plaintiff have such other or further relief as may be just, equitable and profitable."

The complaint charges that the individual defendants, disregarding their duty to the society of which they were directors, "negligently, improperly and improvidently performed such duties and have habitually and continuously done or suffered to be done wrongful, illegal and improper acts, whereof the defendant society has suffered great loss and damage."

The individual defendants are further charged with having "acquired to themselves or caused or permitted to be transferred to others, in violation of their duties, money, property and the value of property belonging to the defendant society."

Section 10 of the complaint deals with the lease of premises in New York to the Mercantile Safe Deposit company, the rental of which is declared to have been inadequate and the terms of the lease greatly to the disadvantage of the Equitable society; furthermore, that Hyde, Alexander, Tarbell and other defendants were directors in the Mercantile Safe Deposit company and thereby derived a profit in violation of their duty to the Equitable society.

Referring to the purchase of the capital stock of the Missouri Safe Deposit company, for which the Equitable paid $250 for each $100 par value, the 11th section of the complaint declares that the Equitable received but a nominal rent for the premises occupied by the safe deposit company; that at the time of the stock purchase 1410 shares out of a total of 2000 were owned by James H. Hyde and the remainder by others of the individual defendants, some of whom were officers in the safe deposit company and in the Equitable; furthermore that at the time of the purchase the safe deposit company had no assets beyond the lease, and the good will of the business by virtue of the lease.

The complaint charges that the individual defendants "wastefully, improvidently and improperly" permitted the defendant society to make large excessive and unwarranted loans to agents, which loans the insurance department of this and other states had decided could not be considered as assets of the society, and that, in order to avoid the effect of such decisions, the individual defendants caused, every six months, portions of balances due from such agents to be assigned to various trust companies, which credited the society with the amounts as loans by them to the society and that "the defendant society reported such amounts as cash on deposit, thereby attaining credit for the same in its annual statement."

A Sadly Stricken City

Valparaiso, Aug. 1.—Tremendous rains have fallen recently and the lower bay of the city of Valparaiso is flooded. Smallpox is raging in severe form.

YOUTH IS CONTAGIOUS.

And Young Wives, It Is Calmed, Rejuvenate Old Husbands.

"Strange statistics," said an insurance agent, "are collected in my business.

"I have found that the more times a man marries the younger in comparison with himself he wants his wife to be. For instance, his first wife on the average is four years younger than he. His second is ten. His third is twenty or thirty.

"What do these statistics prove? Do they prove that as a man gains in years and experience he finds that it is best, for many reasons, to be almost as old as his wife's father, or do they only prove that as men approach old age they are more foolish than they were in youth?

"Old X., aged seventy, with a third wife of twenty-three, said on this head the other day:

"'You can't marry a girl too young. The younger she is the longer she'll keep her health and strength and beauty. Furthermore, the older you are the more respect she'll have for you. She'll reverence you and obey you as she would her own father or grandfather.'

"Young wives rejuvenate old husbands," the insurance agent ended. "They make these old fellows dress younger, talk younger, act younger and feel younger. Youth is contagious. A young wife is believed to prolong an old husband's life. If a man of seventy insured in my company should marry a girl of twenty, I'd consider him a better risk by 8 per cent than he had been before."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A CAUTIOUS ELEPHANT.

The Sagacity Displayed by the Animal When Near Quicksand.

One elephant which an officer of the Royal artillery lent to assist in extricating some camels which were being engulfed in the quicksands showed an amount of sagacity which was positively marvelous. It was with the utmost difficulty that we could get him to go near enough to attach a drag rope to one camel I wanted to rescue. In spite of our being about fifty yards from the bank of the river, he evinced the greatest anxiety, while his movements were made with extreme caution.

Despite coaxing, persuasive remonstrance and at last a shower of heavy blows dealt upon his head by the exasperated mahout, this elephant stubbornly refused to go where he was wanted, but with his trunk shoved out in front of him kept feeling his way with his ponderous feet, placing them before him slowly, deliberately and methodically, treading all the while with the velvety softness of a cat and taking only one step at a time. Then suddenly he would break out into a suppressed kind of shriek and retreat backward in great haste.

When the animal had nearly completed a circuit of the ground with the same caution and deliberation, he advanced to within ten yards of the poor camel, but not another inch would he move, though several men were walking between him and the camel without any signs of the ground giving way.—"The Camel," Major A. G. Leonard.

A Daily Mystery.

A man whose income is $50 a day lunching alone in a fifteen cent restaurant and a clerk whose income is $50 a month lunching with a young woman in a restaurant where the cash register doesn't ring up anything under $1. Which is cause and which is effect? Does the fifty-dollar-a-day man lunch thus cheaply that he may be reminded of troubles on earth, or does the fifty-dollar-a-month man dine thus expensively because he wants to forget? Or is the one a fifty-dollar-a-day man because he is careful and the other a fifty-dollar-a-month man because he is a spendthrift?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Sensitiveness of Plants.

Darwin gave it as his opinion that some plants can see, and an Indian botanist relates some curious incidents which tend to verify the belief. Observing one morning that the tendrils of a convolvulus on his veranda had decidedly leaned over toward his leg as he lay in an attitude of repose, he tried a series of experiments with a long pole, placing it in such a position that the leaves would have to turn away from the light in order to reach it. In every case he found that the tendrils set themselves visibly toward the pole and in a few hours had twined themselves closely around it.

Animals and Flesh Eating.

Arguing against the eating of meat, an English writer remarks: "Almost any animal can be made to eat flesh. The kangaroo has canine teeth. Horses, oxen and sheep may be taught to eat flesh. Norwegian cows have been known to eat flesh. Goldsmith saw a sheep eat flesh. A carnivor sheep is now in London. Spallanzani has shown that a pigeon may be made to live on flesh and an eagle on bread."

Beautiful Comparisons.

The horse shares with woman the gift of the greatest animate physical beauty, and the classification does the lady no discredit. As for man, his partner in pulchritude is away down the line, probably a mule and maybe a burro.—San Francisco Call.

The Last Word.

"Does your wife insist on having the last word?" said the man who asks impertinent questions.

"Certainly not," answered Mr. Meekton. "She doesn't have to insist."—Washington Star.

Be extraordinary in your excellence if you like, but be ordinary in your display of it.—Balthasar Gracian.

CAUGHT BY POSSE

Alleged Wife Murderer Was Trailed Through Woods

A BAY STATE MAN HUNT

Charles Tiedman Charged With Firing a Revolver Through a Window and Putting a Bullet In His Wife's Head

Chester, Mass., Aug. 2.—Fleeing from his father-in-law's home, where his wife lay dead with a bullet wound in the head, Charles Tiedman, a brakeman, was overtaken late yesterday afternoon about three miles from the scene of the crime and nine hours after the shooting, by a posse of officers and citizens. He was brought back, locked up in the town jail and will probably be arraigned on a charge of wife murder.

Tiedman, who is 25 years old, was married about two years ago, but has not lived with his wife for nearly a year on account, it is said, of his drinking habits. He has worked from time to time on the local division of the New York Central railroad, but for the past six months has been reported as roving about the country, returning occasionally to Chester.

Yesterday he suddenly appeared at his father-in-law's home, where his wife has been living. There was no one in the house at the time, but it is said by those living in the vicinity that Tiedman went up to a window and fired a revolver at his wife, the bullet striking the woman behind the ear. She died within half an hour without regaining consciousness.

Tiedman fled to the woods in the direction of Huntington, but so quickly did the news spread about the town that within an hour a body of citizens, headed by Deputy Sheriff Alvord, had started in pursuit. The trail led through the woods and over the hills in the direction of Chester Centre, and when the posse arrived there about 1 o'clock it was learned that Tiedman was about two hours ahead.

Just before reaching Chester Centre, Tiedman was overtaken by another posse of four unarmed men, one of them the uncle of the murdered woman, but he easily held them at bay with his revolver. He then disappeared into the woods back of the farm of A. A. Edwards, and at 1:30 was seen walking rapidly through the brush by a son of Edwards.

At 2 o'clock Sheriff Alvord's little army plunged into the dense woods, determined to find the man. Word was sent to Huntington and Pittsfield and another body started for the scene, in the opposite direction. By 4 o'clock it was felt that the fugitive was nearly surrounded, and an hour later a little crowd which was cautiously making its way down the Huntington road was suddenly brought to a standstill by the appearance of Tiedman emerging from the wood. Those who were armed covered him with their revolvers. Walking up to Dr. Shepardson, the leader of the party, Tiedman handed him his revolver, a 38-calibre weapon, saying: "I guess you've got me." He was surrounded, pinioned, and taken back to Chester. During his nine-hour flight Tiedman had covered only three miles.

Although the town was intensely excited over the murder, and the main street was thronged, there was no attempt to harm the prisoner as he was led to the jail. He will probably be taken to the district court at Westfield.

Publisher Under Arrest

St. Paul, Aug. 2.—John C. Hanley, publisher of The Alliance Advocate and well known throughout the west as a leader in the Farmers' alliance and other political movements, has been arrested on a charge of using the mails in connection with a scheme to defraud. The charge is that in advertising matter sent through the mails for the purpose of selling stock in the Consolidated Farm and Ranch company, of which he is president, Hanley misrepresented the financial condition of the company.

Japs Treat Americans Well

Nagasaki, Aug. 2.—Steamer Manchuria, with the Taft party on board, sailed at 7 o'clock last evening. During the afternoon Secretary Taft and Miss Roosevelt attended an out-door fete given by the governor. A hearty reception was given the visitors. Before the departure of the party Secretary Taft said that they were wholly unprepared for the enthusiastic reception given them at the hands of the Japanese government and people.

Land Fraud Argument

Portland, Or., Aug. 2.—Judge Bennett has commenced the argument for Biggs, Gessner and Congressman Williamson, charged with defrauding the United States of public lands. Bennett charged that District Attorney Heney was seeking "the big fish," but not the men big in crime. He said the former good character of the defendants should be a strong point in their favor.

Three Deaths From Windstorm

Beaumont, Tex., Aug. 2.—Three boys were killed outright and 20 other persons more or less seriously injured during a heavy windstorm which struck Bessmay, La. The town is situated in a forest of pine timber, and the wind uprooted several trees which fell on houses, killing or injuring the occupants.

SIX WITNESSES.

Examined Relative to Disaster to H. & L. Truck.

The investigation of the accident to H. & L. 2 of Wollaston on the morning of July 4, which was commenced some days ago was continued Tuesday night. The investigation was held in one of the Council committee rooms. Chief Engineer Williams, Chief of Police Burrell, City Solicitor Thomas, and a stenographer were present.

There were six witnesses, all of whom were examined separately. They were: Fred Bent, George Baker, Fred Nelson, Richard Colbert, Lieut. Daniel R. McKay and Dr. Burke.

The evidence given at the investigation will be reviewed later by Mayor Thompson.

Slight Fire.

The alarm from Box 26 at 6.35 Tuesday night was for a slight fire in the house at 100 Upland road owned by G. B. Bates and occupied by John Alexander. The fire started from a jar of naptha exploding. The daughter of Mrs. Wilbur, the housekeeper, was carrying a jar of naptha up stairs to do some cleaning when it took fire.

She threw the jar from her, and then extinguished the flames with some bed clothing. A mattress which took fire was thrown out doors. Miss Wilbur's hand was quite severely burned. The fire loss was small.

—Elaborate preparations are being made by the Red Men of Lynn for a grand reception to be given to G. Frank Connor of that city who has been elected grand sachem of Massachusetts, on the evening of Aug. 31.

GROCERS' DAY

Ideal Weather for their Outing.

Sail on Narranganset Bay.

With Dinner and Sports at Crescent Park.

Today is grocers' day and business in that line is suspended throughout the city. The closing of stores however is not as general as it has been in some other years, and the city therefore does not present that deserted, Sunday-like appearance.

The clothing, boot and shoe, jewelry, dry goods, drug and news stores are open as usual, so that there will be something doing, and a stranger visiting the city will not think that he is lost.

The day is an ideal one for the outing and a grand good trip should be enjoyed.

A special train of thirteen cars left Quincy at 8.23 and made stops all along the line to South Braintree, Abington, South Weymouth and Whitman.

About fifty, including a number of ladies, took the train from Quincy.

The train ran direct to Fall River, when the steamer was taken for a five-hour sail on Narraganset bay. A stop at noon for dinner will be made at Crescent Park, R. I.

The party remains at Crescent park about four hours, when the steamer will be taken for the return trip. They will arrive back at Fall River about 7 o'clock when the train will again be taken for home.

Firemen's Fund.

S. B. Hanson reports the following additions to his subscription list for the firemen's fund:

|---|---|
| E. G. Badger | $5.00 |
| W. S. Pinkham | $5.00 |
| O. A. Minot | $1.00 |

G. W. Rhodes has received the following additionals:

|---|---|
| J. Franklin Faxon | $10.00 |
| Richard Colbert | $1.00 |

A. B. Hultman acknowledges these additional subscriptions:

| Foster Gourley, | $1.00 |
| A. W. Stetson, | 1.00 |
| Joseph F. Hogan, | 1.00 |

Not Saved by License.

The tax rate on each $1,000 in Fitchburg for 1905 is to be $20.40, the highest rate in the history of the city, notwithstanding the fact that the city this year had the benefit of something like $30,000 rum license money, the first wet goods cash it has received since 1900, save the paltry sum derived from drug licenses of the sixth class; and also the fact that the valuation has gained nearly a half million dollars this year over last.

| Braintree | 22.60 | 19.60 |
| Leominster | 19.50 | 17.50 |

Braintree Rate.

Taxes are rather high in Braintree this year, the assessors reporting a rate of $22.60 per $1000, which is just $3 more than last year. The assessors found 1909 polls, 484 horses and 413 cows.

Named by Mrs. Dunne.

Mrs. Edward F. Dunne, wife of the mayor of Chicago, who was a guest of Quincy friends last week, believes in police reform. A Chicago dispatch says she is responsible for the appointment of John M. Collins, the new and strenuous chief of police, who has made 535 arrests in five days in raids on gambling dens and places of vice. Mayor Dunne permitted his wife to make the choice, and says she will hold her responsible for the record Collins makes. Mayor Dunne was more perplexed over the choice of a police department head than over any other place in his cabinet.

"Why don't you appoint a man whom every one can trust?" asked Mrs. Dunne. "Why bother about politicians? I am a woman and I don't like to hear of women being in saloons. I don't think gambling is a good thing for the young, and I believe the laws relating to saloons ought to be enforced."

"Well, mother, whom would you appoint for chief of police if you were mayor?" asked her husband.

Her response was prompt, "John M. Collins."

"Very well," the mayor is quoted as saying, "you shall name him as a member of my cabinet, and I will see to it that his appointment is confirmed. He shall have full power to make Chicago a law-abiding city, and if he fails to do so I will hold you responsible for it."

Torpedo Boat Destroyers.

A year ago the navy department directed what was then regarded by many as a hazardous undertaking in ordering a flotilla of torpedo boat destroyers to proceed under their own steam to the Philippines. The voyage having been made with complete success, the frail craft having long since arrived at their destination, the department is now going one step further and ordering a flotilla of the still smaller ordinary torpedo boats to make the same voyage. They will take the safest route possible, clinging close to land, so far as they can. The voyage is expected to take about six months, and when the little craft arrive we shall have a larger torpedo flotilla in eastern waters than any other power save Japan.

Another Veteran Gone.

Manning C. Davy, aged 60, who died at his residence, 10 Linden place, on Tuesday, was one of the youngest veterans of the Civil War and a member of Charles Ward post, G. A. R. Also a prominent 32d degree Mason. Funeral on Thursday at 3 P. M.

Profitable Exhibit.

Those who subscribed for the Barre granite exhibit at the World's Fair at St. Louis in 1904 have just been awarded a dividend of ninety per cent., which is very satisfactory.

Bennington Victim.

The body of Josephus Newcomb, the Quincy boy who was killed in the explosion on the gunboat Bennington is expected to reach Quincy some time Friday. Funeral services will be held on Sunday.

Drift of Opinion.

☞There is something else more fundamental than education. It is morality. It is character. Education without sound moral character is a much greater menace than ignorance with sound moral character. The educated lawbreaker is capable of doing almost infinitely more harm than the ignorant criminal. The educated man who constantly trangresses the moral law and ignores the ethics of his relations to his neighbor and the state is the worst enemy society has. His power to do harm is multiplied by his knowledge. It is not education alone, but education coupled with morality that will root out crime. And morality is more elemental than education. — Beverly Times.

☞The memorial prepared by a representative convention of the people of Porto Rico, asking the American Congress to make certain rather sweeping changes in the government of their island, is only what many recent reports from there have led us to expect. There is no question that dissatisfaction with American rule in the island is very general, and practically no question that, to some extent at least, it is justified. This business of over-sea administration is new to us, and it was hardly possible that we should not make some blunders at first. Some of the officials we have sent to the island have not been competent and some of the methods of administration we have tried have not proved successful. In time, of course, we shall be able to do much better. Meanwhile any suggestions the islanders of responsible position may make to us should be received with all courtesy and carefully considered without prejudice.—Providence Journal.

Battleship West Virginia.

A dispatch from Newport, R. I., says the new cruiser West Virginia will sail today to her final acceptance trial. She will remain at sea until Saturday, when she will put into New York harbor. The final test of the cruiser's capabilities will consist of speed runs and gun firing. The guns will be fired separately and then simultaneously, and upon the report made to the navy department by the trial officers rests the final acceptance of the cruiser.

—An exchange says: "Kansas and the far West have begun operations in the wheat field. There is the usual scarcity of laborers, and college boys are again taking advantage of this opportunity for a job. Their white hands, patent leather shoes, Panama hats, mohair shirts, and silk neckties distinguish them from those who have before worked beneath hot summer suns. But the farmers are very glad to get help of this kind, those who have labored on the football team preferred."

CLASH IS IMMINENT

Louisiana and Mississippi at Odds Over Quarantine

NAVAL BRIGADE TO ACT

Louisiana's Dignity Offended by Armed Invasion From Sister State--Federal Government Is Brought Into the Muddle

New Orleans, Aug. 2.—The relations between the states of Louisiana and Mississippi have reached an acute stage and from indications it will change from interviews about the concealment of yellow fever cases to a much more serious matter.

From information that has come to hand the dignity of the state of Louisiana has been offended by an armed invasion from the sister state, and Governor Blanchard has communicated with the captain of the naval brigade, which has a fully equipped gunboat, with the view of having it dispatched to the borders to protect Louisiana citizens from further indignities.

Mississippi has five armed boats patrolling the coast to prevent fishermen from breaking through the quarantine lines. These vessels are also assisted by the United States revenue cutter Winona. The Mississippi boats will not allow Louisiana fishermen to even enter Mississippi sound, east of St. Joe light, but from reports received here it appears that one of these patrol boats came into Lake Borgne, which is distinctly Louisiana territory, and one report says it came up to the mouth of Lake Borgne canal, which extends from the lake to the Mississippi river, only a distance of 4½ miles.

The naval brigade vessel Stranger draws too much water for service in that vicinity, but a light draft boat will be impressed into service armed with a Howitzer or two and manned by officers from the brigade and will be sent out to prevent further aggressions.

Last night it was learned authoritatively that the schooner Grace of Gulfport and another vessel had been lying five miles inside of the Louisiana line most of the time for the past week and at times even entering the Rigolets, the outlet from Lake Ponchartrain into Lake Borgne, and during that time had taken 18 Louisiana boats, some of them schooners and others luggers, and turned them over to the Winona and towed them to Ship island, where the crews were immured.

This brings the federal government into the muddle. Governor Blanchard has wired to Washington, but the text of his message has not been given out. Some of the territory now patrolled by the Mississippi boats is now in dispute before the supreme court of the United States, both states having laid claim to it since the legislature of Louisiana created an oyster commission and passed laws to protect the valuable oyster beds in that vicinity.

Fever Continues to Gain

New Orleans, Aug. 2.—Following is the yellow fever record up to 6 o'clock last night: New cases, 42; total cases to date, 346; deaths yesterday, 6; total deaths to date, 68. The large number of new cases, the largest yet reported in a single day, shows that the tertiary infection among the panic-stricken people in the original district is appearing.

Case of Fever at Shreveport

Shreveport, La., Aug. 2.—Barney Tracy, a traveling man of Chicago, is in the detention camp just outside the corporate limits of this city, suffering from yellow fever. The infection has been traced directly to New Orleans, although Tracy spent but a few hours there on July 25. When the existence of the disease became known here there was almost a panic, several hundred persons leaving on outgoing trains.

Military to Enforce Quarantine

Little Rock, Aug. 2.—Governor Davis last night issued an order directing General Haynes, commander of the state National Guard, to detail as many men as may be necessary to establish a strict state quarantine against all points where yellow fever may exist. The militia will act as guards on all trains entering the state and at all points where boats may land.

Strict Quarantine in Texas

Houston, Aug. 2.—Dr. Tabor, state health officer, says he is enforcing the quarantine against the entire state of Louisiana and that not a human being shall pass the Texas line without six days' detention. The Southern Pacific today cancelled two of its passenger trains to New Orleans, leaving only one in operation each way daily.

Case in Montgomery Pesthouse

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 2.—It is officially declared that a case of yellow fever is at the pesthouse here.

Not Yellow Fever Cases

New York, Aug. 2.—Six members of the crew of the steamer Segaranca and five of the crew of El Sud, both from southern ports, who have been kept in quarantine to make sure they were not ill with yellow fever, have been released.

Cloudburst Ties Up Railway

Colorado Springs, Col., Aug. 2.—The Rock Island railway is temporarily tied up in this city as a result of a cloudburst north of here. The tracks for a distance of nearly a mile are buried under from eight to ten feet of sand.

AMERICANS WITH JAPAN

Kaneko Calls It a Bright Page In His Country's History

New York, Aug. 2.—A reception was given at the Nippon club last night to Baron Komura, Minister Takahira and Baron Kaneko by the Japanese of the city. Baron Komura carefully refrained from any allusion to the approaching peace conference and confined himself to urging his audience to do all they could to strengthen the bonds that held Japan and America together.

Baron Kaneko said: "There are 80,000,000 people in America and they are all in sympathy with Japan in her time of victory. This we ought never to forget. Let us hand it down to our posterity that this people were with us in our triumph and let us write it on pages of our history. For my part, I cannot see why these sentiments should ever change or the time should ever come when our two nations should be at variance. In the commercial world there is no conflict of interest, for there is a clear line of demarcation between what we export to America and what it sends to us. With us there is no need to fear commercial rivalry and we can exchange our products with mutual advantage."

The Czar's Latest Break

London, Aug. 2.—A dispatch to The Times from St. Petersburg says that another imperial telegram, even more warlike than the czar's reply to the Orenburg clergy, appears in today's Official Messenger. The czar, replying to an address from Khabarovsk, heartily approves the recommendation to continue the war until the enemy is crushed and, above all, not to think of the cession of territory or the payment of an indemnity.

Linevitch's Faith In His Army

St. Petersburg, Aug. 2.—General Linevitch has telegraphed to the czar, denying the reports that his army is completely surrounded. He says that the army has never been in a dangerous position. The flanks have never been turned, although the Japanese sought to do so. The general adds: "The morale of the troops inspires me with complete confidence that the army is ready for any task."

Another Russian Defeat

Tokio, Aug. 2.—An official report from Japanese headquarters on the island of Sakhalin says: "The Japanese army on July 28 defeated the Russians south of Rykoff and later occupied Palero after hard fighting. The Russians retired southward. General Saraguchi, commander-in-chief of the Sakhalin forces, ordered the establishment of a civil administration.

Preparing to Meet Peace Envoys

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 2.—Governor McLane, who has been arranging the details for the reception by the state of the peace envoys next week, announces that he has decided to order a regiment of the state militia to this city for the day. About a dozen companies will be in attendance.

Sluggers Resort to Torture

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Apparent evidence that labor sluggers maintain in Chicago a place where systematic torture is meted to those who have incurred the displeasure of the sluggers has just come to light in the strange case of W. H. Wilder. He disappeared July 6, was held captive for three weeks and was then set at liberty, half starved and so dazed that he has not been able to give a coherent account of his captivity. Wilder is a bold, outspoken fellow of 37, who gloried in his physical ability to take care of himself and defied pickets or sluggers to intimidate him.

A Lack of Officers

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 2.—The naval court of inquiry, which is hearing evidence in the disaster to the gunboat Bennington, is holding its sessions behind closed doors. No disclosures of the proceedings will be made until the final report is formulated. It is understood that a portion of this report will deal with the alleged shortage of officers on the Bennington, to which reference was made by Commander Young in a letter to Admiral Goodrich three days before the explosion.

Dolphin's Foremast Carried Away

New York, Aug. 2.—While the United States dispatch boat Dolphin was making its way into the berth assigned to it at the Brooklyn navy yard a high wind drove it out of its course and the arms of a derrick struck the fore-topmast of the ship and carried it away. The damage to the ship can be repaired before the Dolphin is needed to take the Japanese envoys to Oyster Bay.

Bank Defies Haitian Government

Port Au Prince, Haiti, Aug. 2.—The National bank, which has refused to surrender certain customs receipts claimed by the government, persists in its attitude in spite of the passage by parliament of a resolution ordering it to comply with the law and to place the sums in dispute at the disposal of the government.

Streets Patrolled by Soldiers

Reval, Russia, Aug. 2.—The strike situation has assumed a serious aspect. The governor has posted a notice warning the people that arms will be used against crowds refusing to disperse. Lessers disorders have already occurred. The soldiery is patrolling the streets.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Thursday, Aug. 3.
Sun rises—4:39; sets—7:02.
Moon sets—8:41 p. m.
High water—12:15 a. m.; 12:45 p. m.
The weather will be generally fair in New England. Temperature changes will not be marked.

THE SACRED BO TREE.

One of the Most Wonderful Natural Growths Ever Known.

In October, 1887, the sacred bo tree, at that time supposed to be the oldest living vegetable monument on the earth's surface, was uprooted and destroyed by a cyclone which swept over the island of Ceylon. The oldest written description of the sacred bo tree now in existence is that by the celebrated Chinese historian, Fa Hian, who visited the island and the sacred tree in the year 414 A. D. According to this learned Chinaman, the tree was at that time 702 years old, having been planted in the year 288 before our era by King Devinipiatissa.

As soon as it was known throughout the island that the tree had been destroyed by the fury of the elements great crowds of mourners gathered around its "sacred remains" and held regular funeral services for two or three weeks. After the season of mourning was over the tree was cut into proper lengths, each piece wrapped separately in white cloth and cremated with the same funeral rites which would have been given a member of the royal family.

So perished the sacred bo tree, one of the most wonderful natural growths known to the world—a tree which had been worshiped daily, one might almost say hourly, for 2,175 years.

THE CHOICE OF MATES.

Artificial Matrimonial Selection Has Given Poor Results.

No one knows what type will be the best for survival in an unknown future environment. We often see the extinction of families of parents whom any physician would have pronounced ideal, but their children lacked resistance to the invasion of pathogenic organisms or there was some other defect which made them easy targets for climatic causes of physical decay.

On the other hand, we quite often find that parents below par physically have fine families. The curious unions which take place must be the result of laws such as we find in every biologic phenomenon. Man has the same instinct found in lower animals to select a mate who is more or less different from himself.

Should like types mate, their common characteristics may be so exaggerated as to be harmful and the line perish. It is an instinct of those of great intelligence to marry those of less than the average, for the offspring revert to the better average. It is very evident that if we try to improve the race intellectually by the marriage of like types we will violate the natural law upon which our existence is based. Artificial matrimonial selection has been tried, though the results were disastrous.—American Medicine.

HIS "KINGSMAN."

The Silk Neckerchief Worn by the London Costermonger.

Speaking of London costermongers, Mayhew says: "The man who does not wear his silk neckerchief—his 'kingsman,' as it is called—is known to be in desperate circumstances." The neckerchief is more prized than any other item of his attire and a coster's caste is at stake if his kingsman be not of the most approved pattern.

This habit is derived from the gypsies and doubtless dates from some long forgotten oriental custom. It is very curious that a taste for similar colors prevails among the Hindoos, gypsies and costermongers. Red and yellow are the favorite colors and the oldest. Of these, the coster chooses his plush waistcoat and his kingsman, the gypsy his breeches and his wife her shawl and gown; the Hindoo his robe and turban. If a fight occurs, the favorite colored article of dress receives the greatest care. The pugilistic coster ties his kingsman round his waist or his leg, where, by the rule of the ring, it is comparatively safe.—London Telegraph.

The Origin of Grocer.

Grocer appears in Holinshed's Chronicle, 1580, as "grosser," and in other mediaeval records it is sometimes written "engrossen," and was applied to the spicers and pepperers who were wholesale dealers in various spices—that is, who dealt en gros—in large quantities, as distinguished from "regrators," who were retail dealers. The Grocers' company first adopted the word grocer in 1373, when the spicers and pepperers allied themselves into a single corporation.—London Express.

Bad Writer With a Good Memory.

Harvey Waters, an expert on patent cases, had occasion to write Rufus Choate on some important question, and when he received the reply was unable to read a word of it, so took the missive to Mr. Choate and asked him what he had written. Mr. Choate replied: "I never can read my writing after the ink is dry, but if you tell me what it is about I will tell you what I have written." And he did.

The circle will meet at the home of Mrs. Annie Grignon on Thursday, August 3.

School Garden.

The children of the Massachusetts Fields school are delighted with the appearance of their flower garden which with the help of their principal, Charles E. Finch, they planted last spring. One would do well to walk down and take a look at it, for it is really a very pretty sight.

—All parts of New England had more rain last week than Boston. In Northfield the rainfall was over three inches, and in Portland over two.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

COTTON MEN KICK

Evidently After the Scalp of Secretary Wilson

THE RECENT EXPOSURES

Claim That Efforts Are Being Made to Divert Attention From "Deficiencies" of Agricultural Department-- Four Demands

Washington, Aug. 2.—President Jordan and Secretary Cheatham of the Southern Cotton association have issued the following statement to the members of the association:

"The members of the association have been apprised through the public press from day to day of the work done by the officers of the association at Washington. As a result of their charges the unreliability of the reports of the department of agriculture relating to the cotton crop has been fully disclosed and the maladministration of that department under its present head has been made evident.

"Following these exposures efforts are now being made to divert public attention from the main issue. Under the system at present in vogue, and which promises to be undisturbed unless public attention shall be aroused to the need of reform, the reports issued by the department of agriculture are, in their last analysis, simply the individual opinion of a few officials of doubtful experience and honor by which the value of the cotton crop may be, and has been, affected as much as $75,000,000 in a single day.

"No such power should be delegated to any individual or statistical board, except under conditions which guarantee the most incorruptible, expert and intelligent opinion, arrived at by the application of the most scientific methods and safeguarded by the most scientific precautions. It is therefore urgently recommended to the members of the Southern Cotton association that they exert their influence and that of the association toward securing the immediate reorganization of the agricultural department, especially with reference to its reports on the cotton crop, and that their representatives in congress be requested specifically to demand:

"1—The establishment within the department of agriculture of a bureau to be known as the 'cotton bureau,' charged specially and solely with the duty of reporting upon the cotton crop and all matters concerning that staple.

"2—The appointment as the head of that bureau, at an adequate salary, of a man whose reputation and antecedents shall be beyond reproach and whose familiarity with cotton cultivation shall be an additional guarantee of his fitness.

"3—An organization of the bureau so established upon thoroughly scientific lines as will insure that no possible bias in favor of either buyer or seller, or producer or manufacturer can be presupposed or asserted.

"4—The passage of a law that will be more specific in its scope and under which government employes can be prosecuted for giving away or selling valuable information, as has been done in the statistical bureau.

"We have no doubt of the zeal of the officers of the department, but it seems to be as misdirected in the crisis as it was in the antecedent process. All the powers and influence of the department, of the lawyers and of every man of the government seems to be devoted to the attempt to dragnet a lot of irresponsible speculators.

"That there have been for years 'leaks' in the department is as well known to the trade as the existence of the department itself; but these are insignificant as compared with the fundamental mismanagement. At this time, however, there is a manifest endeavor to divert attention from the radical errors and deficiencies of the department itself to the thieving propensities of a few unworthy officials.

"Let us not be misled by any such misdirected energy. Let us reform at the top and not on the side. Let us root out the offenders, cleanse the personnel, change the methods and renovate the department from root to branch. Then the cause of cotton and good government will alike be served in Roseveltian fashion."

Wilson Not Disturbed

Washington, Aug. 2.—Secretary Wilson, upon his return here, said he was not disturbed by the demands for his resignation, made by certain officials of the Southern Cotton association, and that he heartily approved of the expressed intention of President Jordan of the association to go to President Roosevelt with his demands. "I have reported my course to President Roosevelt," added Wilson, "and I have not taken President Jordan into my confidence. Yes, I hope Jordan will carry his demands to Oyster Bay."

Turkey For Peace Envoys

Maysville, Ky., Aug. 2.—A local company has shipped to a firm at Portsmouth, N. H., 300 young bronze turkeys. A farmer of this county supplied them. The letter from the firm states that the turkeys are intended for dinners to be given the Japanese-Russian peace commissioners.

Don't Pull Well Together

Cincinnati, Aug. 2.—It is announced on excellent authority that Manager Kelley will not fill that position for the Cincinnati baseball team another season. Personal animosities are given as the cause of some of the poor playing.

A SENSATIONAL EPISODE

Woman Takes Child From Former Husband and Flees

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 2.—Katherine, the 11-year-old daughter of H. B. Nichols of New York, was taken by force from her father, with whom she was standing in the railroad depot here, late yesterday afternoon. They were about to take a train for New York when Mrs. F. S. Forest, the mother of Katherine, rushed up to them and, catching hold of the girl's arm, ran out of the station with her and jumped into a buggy.

Nichols put after Mrs. Forest and his daughter, but was approached by two men and warned not to make any attempt to rescue his daughter. Before Nichols realized it Mrs. Forest and the girl were speeding toward Port Chester, just over the state line in New York. Deputy Sheriff Ritch of this place went to Port Chester and when he reached there he found that Mrs. Forest and her daughter had boarded a train for New York, reaching the Fifth Avenue hotel in that city at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Forest and her former husband, H. B. Nichols, were separated about two years ago. By the terms of their divorce each was given the custody of their daughter, Katherine, for six months of the year.

Detective Shot and Killed

Somerville, Mass., Aug. 2.—George L. Fraser, a private detective, was shot and killed last night while trying to gain entrance to the house of Joseph Evans of this city. Fraser and two other detectives accompanied A. J. Barber of Woonsocket, R. I., to Evans' home in search of Barber's wife, who, it was said, was Evans' housekeeper. When the detectives attempted to enter the house Evans objected and in the fracas which followed it is alleged that Evans shot Fraser.

Fatally Shot by Playmate

Boston, Aug. 2.—Fred D. Young of Weymouth, 12 years old, died at a hospital in this city, the result of having been shot in the stomach by his playmate, Arthur Delorey, aged 10. The two boys had been playing about the Young home in Weymouth, when they came across an old horse pistol in the grass. While examining it Delorey pulled the trigger, it is alleged, and a bullet lodged in his companion's stomach.

Hard Work Caused Breakdown

North Andover, Mass., Aug. 2.—Oliver Stevens, who at the age of 89 has just resigned after 30 years of service as district attorney of Suffolk county, is lying seriously ill at his summer home. He is unable to leave his bed and has recently been unable to see anybody except his immediate family. "A nervous breakdown, due to many long years of hard work," is the diagnosis of the doctors.

Tracing Miss Tucker's Movements

Rochester, N. H., Aug. 2.—The search for Miss Mary A. Tucker of Providence, who disappeared from a camp near Wolfboro a week ago yesterday, is being conducted with vigor. Miss Tucker's movements have been traced as late as Saturday, when she was seen at South Lebanon, Me., going in the direction of Somersworth, N. H.

Panama Jobs Go Begging

Boston, Aug. 2.—Several months ago young men all over New England showed a deep interest in the Panama canal work and did their best to get appointments, but now there is practically no interest. There is only one applicant for the examination which is to be held in Boston today.

Consistent Takes Another Race

Providence, Aug. 2.—In the Breakers handicap, purse $1200, at Narragansett park, Mrs. R. W. Walden's brown filly, Consistent, led a fast field from just before the half to the wire and won handily by two lengths. Consistent during the local meeting has now won three stake races.

Alleged Insurance Frauds

Philadelphia, Aug. 2.—In a bill filed in the common pleas court here, five directors of the Odd Fellows' Mutual Life Insurance society of Pennsylvania are charged by Receiver Walton with wrecking that concern. He accuses them of fraudulently transferring $60,000 from the treasury to the Mutual Life Insurance company of Pennsylvania and of illegally collecting $50,000 in premiums on Odd Fellows' policies.

Koch Not Guilty of Murder

Mankato, Minn., Aug. 2.—The jury in the case of Dr. G. R. Koch returned a verdict acquitting him of the murder of Dr. L. A. Gebhard. Dr. Koch is a dentist of New Ulm and Gebhard was a fellow practitioner. Gebhard was found in his office with his skull crushed in.

Woman Jockey on the Track

Albany, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Dean of Westboro, Mass., a woman jockey, attracted much attention at the racing at Island park, where she brought her bay mare, Moorish Dance, second in the only running race of the day. The race was a three-quarter mile dash for a purse of $200.

Indian Lands For Agriculture

Washington, Aug. 2.—The secretary of the interior has ordered the leasing of over 400,000 acres of the Kiowa and Comanche lands in Oklahoma for agricultural purposes, the leases to run for five years from Jan. 1 next. The bids are to be opened on Dec. 4 next.

Day's Conference at Sagamore Hill

Taunton Gets Lowell Franchise

Boston, Aug. 2.—The Lowell team in the New England Baseball league has been dropped and the franchise given to Taunton. The Taunton independent team, which will have the Lowell franchise, will have the first choice of the old Lowell players.

Railroad Telegraphers' Troubles

St. Paul, Aug. 2.—Upon the breaking off of negotiations between the railway officials and the representatives of the Order of Railway Telegraphers General Manager Horne of the Northern Pacific followed the example set by the Great Northern and gave orders for a general lockout of all telegraphers on the company's lines who refused to sign the revised schedule and agreement relating to rules and wages.

St. Paul, Aug. 2.—A general strike of the telegraphers on the lines of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways was declared at 11 o'clock last night by President Perham of the Order of Railway Telegraphers.

President Is After Grafters

Washington, Aug. 2.—If there are "grafters" in the government departments they have reason to feel uneasy, for President Roosevelt has inaugurated his campaign to drive them out of the public service. The disclosures in the agricultural department have stirred up a vigorous investigation, to be followed in all the other departments. The "grafter" must go, is the edict of the president. He has the co-operation of every member of his cabinet and the advice of two of legal mind connected therewith, Secretary of State Root and Attorney General Moody.

Prompt Replies Requested

Washington, Aug. 2.—The Keep commission, appointed by the president to investigate business methods in the executive departments of the government and to suggest any desirable changes, has prepared 107 questions, which it has forwarded to the heads of departments with requests for prompt replies. These questions relate principally to the general subjects of the departments' organization, personnel, correspondence and files, the purchase of supplies, and accounts and miscellaneous matters.

Ex-Bartender Clerk of Court

New York, Aug. 2.—Charles W. Culkin was unanimously elected chief clerk of the court of special sessions by the justices of that court for 10 years. District Attorney Jerome made public a few days ago a protest against the election of Culkin because he was formerly a bartender.

Shot For Being "Mean" to Boy

New York, Aug. 2.—William Fink, 12 years old, of Grasmere, S. I., shot and mortally wounded Arthur Jane, 23 years old. The boy says he shot Jane because the young man was mean to him. Jane is unconscious and expected to die.

Moroccan Conference at Madrid

London, Aug. 2.—The Madrid correspondent of The Daily Mail says that it has been decided to hold the Moroccan international conference at Madrid early in November.

Answers For Napier.

Sir Charles Napier hated a man who had not an answer ready for him. He once asked Richard Burton, the explorer, how many bricks there were in a newly built bridge. Richard, knowing his foible, answered without hesitation, "Two hundred and twenty-nine thousand and ten, Sir Charles." He turned away and smiled. Another time he ordered a review on a grand scale to impress certain chiefs. "Lieutenant Burton, be pleased to inform these gentlemen that I propose to form these men into line, then to break into echelon by the right and to form square on the center battalion," and so on, for about five minutes, in military technical terms for which there were no equivalents in these men's dialects. "Yes, sir," said Richard, saluting. Turning to the chiefs, Richard said, "Oh, chiefs, our great man is going to show you the way we fight, and you must be attentive to the rules!" He then touched his cap to Sir Charles. "Have you explained all?" he asked. "Everything, sir," answered Richard. "A most concentrated language that must be," said Sir Charles, riding off with his nose in the air.

The Strongest King.

The strongest king on record, so the story goes, appears to have been Caius Julius Verus Maximus, the son of a Thracian peasant and emperor of Rome. It is related that with one of his fingers he stopped a chariot dashing by at full speed, that he could draw a loaded wagon, by a blow of his fist could break the hardest stones between his fingers and split trees with his hand. This redoubtable sovereign was eight feet high, and his wife's bracelets served him for finger rings. We have passed over Og, the king of Bashan, who, as the rabbis say, was nearly six miles high, drank water from the clouds and toasted fish by holding them up to the sun and who, when Noah refused him shelter in the ark, survived those troublous times by wading through the flood, which only reached to his knees, and of Atlas, king of Mauritania, who is said to have supported the world upon his shoulders.

A Bored Princess.

F. Leveson-Gower, long prominent in England, published a volume of reminiscences, in which he tells the story of Princess Lieven: "What the princess chiefly suffered from was intense boredom, which amounted almost to a disease. If nobody called during the afternoon, she would roll on the floor from ennui. On one occasion, when on her way from England, she got so much alarmed at the prospect of traveling from Calais to Paris alone that she offered a seat in her carriage to a respectable looking clergyman on board the steamer, which he joyfully accepted. When seated beside her, he talked so incessantly as to drive her wild. She could only relieve her feelings by putting her head out of the window and screaming out to the wind, 'Il m'ennuie —il m'ennuie!' (He fatigues me.)"

A Clever Ruse.

When Thurlow was lord chancellor of England he was much at outs with the bishop of London. The latter was visited one day by a clergyman who sought appointment to a fat living then vacant. He wanted a letter of recommendation to Lord Thurlow, but the bishop said such a letter was likely to do more harm than good. Nevertheless he wrote it. When Thurlow read the missive he said, "Well, as that scoundrel, the bishop of London, has introduced you, you won't get the living." "So the bishop said, my lord," was the meek reply. "Did the bishop say so?" roared Thurlow. "Then I'll prove him a liar, for you shall have the living." And he was as good as his word.

Good Both Ways.

Bishop Wilson of Calcutta, whose speeches are often quoted, had the happy faculty of saying the right thing at all times.

On one occasion two young people whose fathers were famous for their diverse and peculiar views on Biblical subjects came to see the bishop.

"Ah," said he as he greeted one, "your father wrote a great work on the Apocalypse. I congratulate you on being the daughter of such a man."

Then, turning to his other guest, he said: "And your father forbore to write about the Apocalypse—a wise forbearance. You are to be congratulated on having so wise a father."

A Bishop's Pun.

Henry Niles Pierce, Episcopal bishop of Arkansas, was as inveterate and clever a punster as the noted English divine, Sydney Smith. On one occasion a lady in expressing her admiration of his erudition exclaimed:

"Why, bishop, you are a perfect ocean of learning."

"No, madam," was the modest rejoinder, "I'm only a part of the sea of Arkansas."

Worse Than East Africa.

The worst climate I have ever experienced is that of New York, which presents all the disadvantages of the arctic and torrid zones.—From "The East African Protectorate," by Sir Charles Eliot.

Wise Daughter.

Father—If you paid more attention to cooking and less to dress, my dear, you would make a much better wife. Daughter—Yes, father. But who would marry me?

Not Often.

Bacon—Did you say he talked through his nose?

Egbert—When his wife gives him a chance.—Yonkers Statesman.

Fate's Differences.

In life some fearful contrasts lurk.
Each has its own position.
Some men are born to go to work
And some to go a-fishin'.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

A good smart shower about 1 o'clock.

Another family is moving into the Revere apartments on Revere road.

The address of Archie F. Macleod for two weeks is Oxford Hotel, Yarmouth, N. S.

Miss Louise, daughter of George Hinkley of Billings street is at Barnstable.

It was a quiet day at the district court today. There were no new criminal cases.

Miss Jessie McDonald of Barre, Vt., is a guest of Mrs. Crammond of Intervale street.

Proposals are wanted by the Commissioner of Public Works for schoolhouse plumbing.

Officer Alfred W. Goodhue has started the erection of a house on the extension of Glencoe place.

Mrs. Josiah Kendall of Walker street is convalescing from her recent fall and is able to walk about.

Thirty-six mails,—eighteen each way, per day, is the status of Atlantic post office. Very good service.

City Auditor George A. Sidelinger will spend the greater part of the month of August in the woods of Maine.

Are you quite sure there are no brown-tail or gypsy moths in your trees? They are reported on apple, pear, elm and other trees.

Some of the young men of Atlantic are camping at Silver Lake. The party consists of Ralph Reed, George Hinkley, Clifton Hill and Allan Johnston.

The windows in the Faxon hall building have been repaired. In one window every pane had been broken by stones, but efforts to apprehend the guilty parties have been unsuccessful.

Samuel Melville and Fred Smith started at an early hour this morning for a tandem tour, from Quincy Point to Boston, Cambridge and Arlington to New Hampshire. They anticipate a pleasant trip.

Miss Thompson, the faithful and obliging clerk at the office of the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company, has returned from her visit to Nova Scotia, and says she saw a lot of nice young gentlemen and had a grand good time.

Miss Nana Dinnie of Garfield street and Miss Jennie M. Laing and Miss Elizabeth B. Laing of Bigelow Park, left this morning for St. George, New Brunswick, where they are to spend two weeks' vacation.

Charles Safford of Clive street, has joined his family at Elgin, New Brunswick, for four weeks. His niece Miss Emma King of Worcester, a teacher in the Quincy school accompanied Mr. Safford, and will remain at Elgin through August.

Miss Millie Gassett of Billings street starts on her vacation of two weeks today. She visits Hartford and Black Point, Conn. Miss Gassett is sister of Councilman William Gassett and a popular employe at City Hall. Her many friends wish her an enjoyable outing.

No Trace of Dr. Bradbury.

Employes and others at the State bath house at Nantasket beach made an unsuccessful attempt this morning to recover the body of Dr. Bradbury, who was drowned while bathing on Monday.

The beach and flats were dragged with grappling irons, but without result. It is now thought that the body must have been carried out to sea by the undertow.

—Prof. C. L. Marlett, acting chief of the United States bureau of etomology and government expert on gypsy and browntail moths, is making a tour of inspection of Boston's suburban districts where the work of devastation by the pest has been greatest.

AUGUST MERCURY.

Highest and Lowest Noon Temperature for Nine Years.

The highest noon temperature in August during the last nine years has been 95 degrees, which was reached August 10 in 1896 and again on August 11 in 1900.

The lowest noon temperature during the same period was 58 on August 30 of 1903.

It may be of interest to know how high the mercury has soared on different days in August, and also how low it has reached. The Daily Ledger therefore presents these figures of noon temperature covering nine years since August 1, 1896:

| Highest. | August. | Lowest. |

JOLLY AT NIGHT.

Sea Street a Great Promenade at Houghs Neck.

Things are booming at Houghs Neck just at present. Nearly every cottage at the beach is occupied. On pleasant days hundreds of people come down for the day, and mingle with the cottagers so that there is an almost constant stream of people passing back and forth on Sea street.

It is not until night, however, that things liven up. Then, from the time one leaves the fountain until he reaches the Yacht Club house, there is the sound of music from the dance halls mingled with the heavy roll of the nine pin balls, and the merry laughter of the young people. It is an animated scene.

James E. Shannon of Cambridge is at the Mabel cottage on Shannon street.

Nicolas Burlo of South Boston, with family enjoy life in one of the Shaw cottages on Great Hill.

Edward J. O'Brien of South Boston is occupying the Mary Esther cottage on Crosby street.

James Adams of Roxbury, with family are in the James cottage on Turner street.

William J. Carter has moved into his new cottage on Littlewood street.

Richard W. Kennedy and James Pendergast with their families of Somerville are in the Doris cottage.

Charles F. Fallon of Cambripge has moved into his new cottage on Turner street.

John McGirney and family of Cambridge are in their new cottage on Turner street.

William J. Ford of Roxbury, with family have taken the Bousang cottage for the month of August.

George F. Clark and family of Jamaica Plain are in the Loyal Club cottage.

J. J. Williams and family are in the Alpha cottage.

J. H. Sullivan of Boston with family are in the Bass cottage.

Charles Mattson and family of Campello are in the Isabelle cottage on Darrow street.

The mooring cottage is occupied by H. M. Gragg and family of Waltham.

The new cottage of George E. Bell is completed and is occupied.

The Lastella cottage on Centre road is being occupied by James T. Shaunessy of Cambridge.

Mr. anc Mrs. Neil Reagan of Brockton, who occupy the Relief cottage at "Reagan Beach" entertained a party of friends on Monday evening.

Women's Relief Corp.

At the last regular meeting of the W. R. C. the resignation of Mrs. Mary A. H. Crane as treasurer was accepted, and Mrs. Laura Holt was unanimously elected. Mrs. Holt thanked the corp for the honor conferred on her, and spoke very feelingly of Mrs. Crane's illness and the good work she had done the corp as treasurer for many years. Memorial services on the death of Commander Blackmar were held.

Not as pleasant this afternoon as the early morning gave promise.

Unknown Body.

The body of an unknown man was washed ashore at Black Rock, Cohasset, on Tuesday, which had been in the water about twelve hours. The body is that of a stout, well developed, well nourished man, 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighing more than 200 pounds and apparently about 55 years old. The face was round and full, the eyes blue. He had a straggling gray mustache and rather prominent eyebrows, black, turning to gray. The head was mostly bald.

BATTLEFIELD ORATIONS.

A Great Deal of Fiction About the Recorded Martial Speeches.

Somebody once asked the Duke of Wellington if speeches on the battlefield were really made as reported and what was their effect. The duke said, "What effect on the whole army can be made by a speech since you cannot conveniently make it heard by more than a thousand men standing about you?" Then the duke was asked if it were not the fact that Napoleon delivered some rather notable orations on the field. The duke would not have it. "The proclamations you read of in the French army were much more seen in the papers than by the soldiers—they were meant for Paris." It was all right, the duke agreed, to address a regiment upon presenting it with colors and that sort of thing. On the whole, French troops might be more impressed by a speech than the English, who in the duke's Waterloo army were, he declared, "the scum of the earth, who had all enlisted for drink." The French, with their system of conscription, had a fair sprinkling of all classes.

"No," comments a writer, "all these martial obiter dicta which our histories treasure up for us were for the most part never spoken at all. The 'last words' of dying men and the speeches made on the battlefield or the deck of an admiral's flagship are not to be regarded as having been actually uttered. The famous 'Up, guards, and at 'em!' accredited to Wellington at Waterloo, was never spoken. Wellington himself denied it."

SELLING GOODS.

The Methods That Lead to Success In Business Life.

When a customer comes in, don't, whatever you do, drag yourself out of the chair as though you were disturbed from a rest, but jump up and greet her or him as though you were really glad to wait on them. Act so they will ask for you the next time they come to the store. The salesman who is constantly being asked for by customers never has to worry about a job.

Don't be stiff and act or feel as though you were far the mental superior of the customer. If you do, no sale will result.

Just for the sake of argument, let us take all the successes in your city, no matter what line they are in. Do they advertise?

The public, somehow or other, seem to be able to read between the lines. If your ad. is not truthful they will not respond.

It takes more than a mere cut to attract the eye to make your ad. pay. There must be solid, honest store news of good values behind it.

Never underrate the intelligence of your customer. He may know more about the article you are showing than you do.

Post yourself on every article you are expected to sell, so you can talk convincingly and knowingly. That is what sells goods—convincing talks. Never mind the price; that will take care of itself.—Brains.

A Stevenson Story.

A book on Stevenson tells of a speech he made at a gathering of Scotchmen in Samoa. He said: "I cannot say why we are proud to be Scotsmen, but the fact remains that we are. It is not that our land is sunny like these tropical isles, and its climate is not even lovely. Scotland's history contains little that is not disgusting to people of humane feelings. That long brawl which is called Scottish history contains scarcely one object that Scots have patience with." The address drew tears to the eyes of a German who had gone to the meeting violently prejudiced against Stevenson. No sooner had the speaker finished than the meeting proceeded to clasp hands and sing "Auld Lang Syne."

Curious Titles.

The English reformers adopted some curious titles for their devotional and controversial works. "Matches Lighted at the Divine Fire," "The Gun of Penitence," "The Shop of the Spiritual Apothecary," "The Bank of Faith," "Sixpennyworth of Divine Spirit," "Some Fine Biscuits Baked In the Oven of Charity, Carefully Conserved For the Chickens of the Church," "The Sparrows of the Spirit" and "The Sweet Swallows of Salvation" are among the number.

Four Nations.

Practical idealism takes with the German chiefly the form of devotion to duty. In the Russian it is a readiness to sacrifice everything to his inward feeling. In the Anglo-Saxon it is the staking of the whole person for a concrete, palpable and distinctly fixed purpose. In the Frenchman it is a general idea which carries him away to great deeds.—Baron F. von Wrangell in Contemporary Review.

Success Easier Than Failure.

We say success is easier than failure; that a man who makes a success in life works less, worries less and has an easier time generally than the man who makes a failure and spends his time in telling how he is smarter than other people, but that "luck" has been against him.—Atchison Globe.

An Optimist.

"Oh, yes, he's quite an enthusiast. He goes in for things in real earnest."

"Yes, if some one were to send him on a wild goose chase he'd speak of himself afterward as a sportsman."—Philadelphia Press.

His Opposite.

She—They say that persons of opposite qualities make the happiest marriages. He—That's why I'm looking for a girl with money.

LOW PRICED HOME.

A Cosy, Modern and Attractive Dwelling For $900.

[Copyright, 1905, by Stanley A. Dennis, 234 Broadway, New York.]

We show here an original design for a model low priced home for a single or narrow lot, which can be erected under favorable conditions for $900.

There is a cellar seven feet high under the entire house, with walls of stone laid in cement. The floor is concrete, and the cellar contains coal bins and a hot air furnace which heats the whole house. The frame is of hemlock. The exterior walls are sheathed, papered, sided and shingled. The main roof is covered with dimension cypress shingles. All windows but those of the cellar are fitted with outside blinds, hung with up to date hinges and fasteners. The exterior is painted with two coats of pure white lead and linseed oil paints, colors to suit.

The floors are of narrow yellow pine. The trim throughout is of cypress, including the stairs, except the newels, rails and balusters, which are of turned cherry. The interior walls are plastered with two coats of patent plaster, sand finished. The interior woodwork is finished in the natural wood, properly filled, rubbed and varnished. The hardware is of plain dark bronze, with knobs to match and combination roses and escutcheons. The mantels are oak, with tile facings, bronze summer pieces and bevel plate mirrors.

The grills are of special design in oak. The kitchen contains sink, with fittings and wash tubs. The house is piped for gas and fitted with gas fixtures.

From close examination of these plans one will readily see the many desirable features and conveniences of this cozy and attractive little house. It has been used very extensively and from every point of view is a model home of its kind and size.

Cement the Future Building Material

Reports from building statistics collectors show that the development and expansion in the cement industry during the last decade have been phenomenal. In 1895 the production in this country amounted to 990,324 barrels. In 1904 more than 22,000,000 barrels were produced, with an additional 3,000,000 imported to provide for shortage of supply. The reason for this development is that the product is immeasurably cheaper than stone, brick, wood, etc., their equal for most purposes and superior for many. Within the last few years the process of manufacture has so much improved as to reduce its cost more than 100 per cent. Thomas A. Edison recently said that "cement and steel are to be the building materials of the future. Skyscrapers will be built of framework of steel, with walls of portland cement, the steel work incased in cement as well." He further says "some of the fire insurance people will go out of business, so far as building risks are concerned or write risks on what will then be obsolete buildings."

FEVER IS STILL GAINING

Federal Campaign Results In Turning Up Cases In the Most Unexpected Places--Mosquito Ordinance May Check Disease

New Orleans, Aug. 3.—No apprehension exists of any serious results from the trouble that has arisen on the Mississippi and Louisiana borders over the enforcement of the Mississippi quarantine. Reports of Captain Bostick of the naval reserve and of Colonel Porellate of Governor Blanchard's staff confirmed the charges that Louisiana fishermen, boatmen and citizens have been interfered with, and that there had been some obstruction to traffic in Lake Borgne canal, and that the revenue cutter Winona, which is doing service under the direction of Surgeon Wasdin, has interfered with Louisiana boats.

These reports led Governor Blanchard to order Captain Bostick and the mosquito fleet of the oyster commission to the scene. With Governor Vardaman anxious to avoid any conflict with the Louisiana authorities, it is thought that the Mississippi soldiers, who have, it is said, been coming across the Louisiana line, will hereafter be required to keep on their side of the border, and thus all further possibility of clashes will be removed.

The yellow fever record up to 6 o'clock last night is as follows: New cases yesterday, 32; total cases to date, 378; deaths yesterday, 11; total deaths to date, 79.

There will be no relaxation of energy in fighting the fever. While the fever spells a serious state of affairs, it is not believed that there is justification for the terror which seems to have spread over the country outside of New Orleans.

The city board of health's report of Tuesday's 42 new cases and six deaths shows that the Italian patients numbered 35, while the six dead were all Italians. The Italians are stricken with panic and turn in fear from the health officers.

It was due largely to the energy with which the marine hospital forces set about the work of discovering hidden cases that Tuesday's record was made so large. Since this federal campaign has been in progress cases have been turning up in the most unexpected places.

In one instance, when the officers had made a thorough inspection of a house and had failed to find a patient, they went through a skylight and found a sick man lying on the roof. In another case they found a patient concealed under a cistern. A wagon, loaded with household goods and accompanied by Italians, started to cross on one of the ferries. Officers insisted on an investigation and when the goods were unloaded a sick man was found in the bottom of the wagon.

Italians are said to be prone to sleeping without mosquito bars, while 99 percent of other people in New Orleans in the summer sleep under netting.

Louisiana officers expect little modification of the quarantine regulations until the fever is entirely stamped out.

The question of whether federal control of the situation ought to be invited is still discussed, but until graver conditions arise it is not likely there will be any movement in that direction.

Mayor Behrman yesterday signed the mosquito ordinance as soon as it was placed on his desk. It requires that cisterns shall be oiled or screened within 48 hours by each property owner or his agent.

Vardaman's Pacific Statement

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 3.—When asked for a statement regarding the reported invasion of Louisiana soil by Mississippi troops doing quarantine duty on the gulf coast and a complaint received from Governor Blanchard to this effect, Governor Vardaman declared that the whole affair was "much ado about nothing." He attached very little seriousness to the rumors of an impending conflict between the two states. He said:

"I have received a telegram from Governor Blanchard stating that the Mississippi quarantine guards had entered the territory of Louisiana and otherwise interfered with the rights of the people of Louisiana. I wired Governor Blanchard that this was without my knowledge or order, and that I should see to it that this was not repeated."

Third of Illinois Quarantined

Cairo, Ills., Aug. 3.—Southern Illinois, a third of the state, from St. Louis to Vincennes, Ind., has been declared quarantined against all the new fever infected points. The quarantine was ordered by Secretary Egan of the Illinois state board of health.

HOUSE STRUCK.

None of the Inmates Were Injured.

Rain in Parts of the City.

While There Was Sunshine in Other Parts.

Some parts of the city received a drenching Wednesday afternoon and some did not. Along about 4 o'clock there was a heavy roll of thunder accompanied by flashes of lightning. In City Square the sun was shining bright and clear, but in the eastern horizon it was black and threatening.

There was a slight shower in City Square about 4.30 but no hard rain. At the time when the sun was shining brightly in Quincy, Atlantic, a part of Wollaston and the section around Norfolk Downs was getting a drenching.

At Norfolk Downs and as far up Hancock street as the High school it came down in torrents. The streets were flooded and for a few minutes the gutters run rivers. The heavy shower, however, lasted but a few minutes.

At North Weymouth, the residence of Andrew J. DeYoung on Bridge street was struck by lightning and damaged to the amount of $150. The bolt entered the roof and went through several rooms ripping off plastering, etc. The people in the house were not injured.

SOME SUGGESTIONS.

As to the Christening of United States Battleships.

"American ships should be christened with American liquid."—Daily paper.

Our battleships and merchantmen
That sail the stormy main
We should not christen any more
With foreign-made champagne,
But leave the amber fizz to foam
At dinners long and late,
And name our ships with some distilled
Production of each state.

The craft for Louisiana trade,
Or built within her bays,
With New Orleans molasses should
Be started down the ways.
For prohibition Maine a cup
Of water clear will do,
And maple-syrup for Vermont
Would be the proper brew.

The Middle West may launch her ships
With Kansas kerosene,
A topaz flood may do the trick
Where bottled beer is queen.
The moonshine dew of Tennessee
Good luck will surely bring,
While Texas with her herds will find
That bouillion is the thing.

Virginia with a demijohn
Of cider new and sweet,
Can send another cruiser off
To join a mighty fleet.
And lo! New York, the Empire State,
The land of power and money
Can christen hers from golden flakes
Of mingled milk and honey.

Maine Blueberries.

The blueberry season in Brunswick, Maine, is now at its height, and hundreds of pickers may be seen on the Brunswick plains every pleasant day. The pickers are mostly residents of the town, but many come from Freeport, Yarmouth, Bowdoinham, Lisbon Falls, Lewiston, Auburn, Bath and other towns and cities, the Brunswick blueberry plains being famous all over the state. It is estimated that the average crop of blueberries on the plains is about 2,000 bushels, worth about $5,000.

Pickers average about eight cents a quart for their work, and rapid pickers are able to gather as many as 30 quarts of berries a day.

The blueberry season lasts about seven weeks, and many families take advantage of it to add to their income, it sometimes being possible to find every member of a family hard at work on the plains picking berries. Formerly many pickers camped on the plains, but now the electric cars run through the heart of the blueberry district, and the majority of pickers find that it is much easier to live at home and make the journey to the plains each day rather than to enjoy the discomforts of camp life.

Miss Addie Gove, matron of the Quincy day nursery, visited Miss Emily A. Silver of the Wales Home at Brockton on Sunday.

IN A PREDICAMENT.

Went Swimming in Pond and Lost His Clothes.

Boston papers tell the story of a very awkward predicament of a man who was in search of Quincy friends. The Boston Advertiser is the most dramatic and says:

Clothed in nothing but deep thought, John Murray awoke from a long sleep in an apple orchard, 200 miles from home, without money, friend, or clothes, about as bad a predicament as a man could get into.

Tuesday, Murray came from Jersey City to visit friends in Dorchester or Quincy. He wandered from the South Station out to the place where he thought his friends lived. He hunted for them long, but could not find them. He drank many refreshing, though intoxicating drinks.

A shoe store loomed into view at Field's Corner, and inasmuch as he had walked a long while, searching for his friends he thought a new pair of shoes would add to his appearance. He bought a pair of congress shoes and wended his way, still looking for his friends.

The new shoes began to pinch a little; he was dusty, tired and hot. A pond of cool water came within his range of vision.

Murray limped painfully to the edge of the pond, sat down and ripped off the offending shoes, clothes came off in rapid succession, and he stood on the shore, cool and comfortable. He kicked the shoes in his wrath and with an exultant shout plunged into the pond.

Wednesday afternoon a policeman found a pile of clothes which contained $15, and a brand new pair of congress shoes on the shore of the old Mill pond near Neponset avenue, Dorchester.

"A suicide or a person accidentally drowned," thought the patrolman in the formula, as he gathered up the rain-soaked garments and carried them to station 11, but a short distance away. The pond is affected by the tide and the police decided to drag for the body of the "drowned person" at low tide, lamenting the while because of the extra work forced upon them.

At 3:15 P. M. an excited man dashed into the station and yelled at Capt. Hunt:

"There's a naked man wandering around, hiding behind the trees of the old orchard near the Mill pond. He may be a wild man."

The captain tried to reassure the excited individual. The seargent of the desk remarked that the "wild man might be the owner of the clothes found on the edge of the pond."

A man walking serenely along Neponset avenue passed the old apple orchard and was surprised to hear somebody yell at him. He paused, but could see no one. Somebody shouted.

"Hey! Come over here a minute. I'm in a an awful fix. Help me out, will you?"

Not a little alarmed the predestrian hurried to the stone wall which separated the orchard from the street. He could see a vague outline of a shivering man behind a tree, and paused in mortal terror.

A plaintive voice asked him for the love of Heaven to get him some clothes. The individual addressed did not stop to ask any questions, but ran to his house, a short distance away, and got a pair of trousers and a coat.

Hurrying back to what he supposed must be a shivering hobo, divested of his clothing by some boon companions he was met with a great show of gratitude, by the person who hustled into the clothes in breathless haste.

A galloping horse down the avenue attracted the attention of the shiverer and his saviour. It was the patrol wagon of station 11, despatched by Capt. Hunt to find and bring back the "wild man."

At the station house wrapped up in blankets, waiting for his clothes to dry, John Murray told his adventures to the captain.

He did not remember a thing from the time that he plunged into the pond until he awoke in the orchard with nothing but the "shade of the old apple tree" for a covering.

He did not remember where he had been or where he had left his clothing.

President Graham.

John R. Graham, formerly of Quincy, is president and one of the directors of the Bangor & Northern Railroad Company organized this week at Bangor, Maine. For the present, says the Commercial, the road will be under the personal management of John R. Graham, whose great success in handling railroads in and about Bangor is well known. Mr. Graham's policy will be vigorous and work has already been begun towards improving the road and putting it into better condition to handle both freight and passenger traffic.

LARGE PARTY

On Annual Excursion of the Grocers.

Favored with Delightful Day.

Sail on Bay, Base Ball, Dinner and other Attractions.

While the residents of Quincy were busy dodging showers on Wednesday, the party which participated in the grocers' outing were basking in the sunshine and were having the time of their life.

The only time the shower hit them was while they were on the train coming home. Lack of showers, however, did not prevent some of the party from getting wet. While shooting the shoots several got a ducking, and while outer garments dried quickly the under garments of some did not.

The ladies, however, did not mind a little thing like that.

There were 763 in the party when the train arrived at Fall River, and a few minutes later all were safely aboard the steamer sailing down the bay. The sail was a delightful one and was enlivened by music by an orchestra.

The boat arrived at Crescent Park about 1 o'clock, and while waiting for dinner a game of ball was started. The two nines were named Invincibles and Easy Marks. It was a great game and errors and runs followed each other in rapid succession.

The call for dinner brought the game to a sudden end. In the rush for the dining hall the score was lost, and who won the game will forever remain in doubt.

After dinner the party patronized the various amusements, such as shooting the shoots, gapping the gap, the old mill, etc.

Then came the call "all aboard" for home. After another sail in the bay, Fall River was reached safe and sound.

At 7 o'clock with a sharp toot of the engine, the special train pulled out on the homeward trip.

The train arrived in Quincy about 9.15.

Western Farms.

From the Journal Gazette of Mattoon, Ill., received this week by Dr. McFall, who with his wife is a guest of Mrs. Isabelle Davis of Spear street, one gets some ideas of the wealth of Western farms.

One item says: The bumper wheat yield in this county to date is reported from near Ashmore, where Charles Winkleblack threshed 440 bushels from a little over ten acres of land. This is only one of many good yields reported throughout the county and indicates that wheat raising will again come into favor in this part of Illinois.

Another item: J. E. Miller has thirty acres of corn which was planted on May 15, some of the stalks of which now measure over fourteen feet in length, and over ten feet to the upper point of the ears. Mr. Miller considers this pretty fair for corn planted at that time.

Two Eclipses This Month.

There will be a partial eclipse of the moon on Monday evening, Aug. 14, visible in New England between 9.39 and 11.43 P. M.

The total eclipse of the sun Aug. 30 will be visible in New England as a partial eclipse between 5.39 and 7.37 A. M.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Senator Depew has "come home to the storm center," as he expresses it, but he has not yet said how he likes it. Perhaps that will come after he has made answer to the allegations of Attorney General Mayer, addressed to him by name.—Lynn Item.

A Browning Enigma.

Elizabeth Barrett Browning has set quite a Homeric problem as to the place of her birth. The Encyclopaedia Britannica gives London, but the Dictionary of National Biography prefers Burn Hall, Durham, and there is an entry in the register of Kelloe church referring to "Elizabeth Barrett Moulton Barrett, daughter and first child of Edward Barrett Moulton Barrett of Coxhoe Hall." Browning himself, however, declared that his wife was born at Carlton Hall, Durham. Now, Carlton Hall is in Yorkshire. Finally the authorities are not agreed as to whether Mrs. Browning was born on March 4 or on March 6, but, of course, the outstanding fact is that she was born.—London Globe.

Not Perfect Without Mrs. Kingsley.

Even a brief holiday at the seaside was to Charles Kingsley too long an absence from his wife. "This place, 'tis perfect," he wrote on one occasion, "but it seems a dream and imperfect without you. Blessed be God for the rest, though I never before felt the loneliness of being without the beloved being whose every look and word and motion is the keynote of my life. People talk of love ending at the altar. Fools!"

Ancient Jewelry.

The jewelry found in an excavation near one of the pyramids of old Memphis, Egypt, exhibits about as much skill in working gold and precious stones as now exists, although the articles found were made 4,300 years ago. The figures cut on amethyst and carnelian are described as exquisite and anatomically correct. The gold is skillfully worked, and precious stones are let into it so as to give the effect of enameling.

A Helping Hand.

"I'm not engaged yet," replied the fair girl, "but I hope to be soon."

"Er—how soon?" he asked.

THE POWER OF STEAM.

Many May See But It Takes Genius to Realize.

When James Watt saw the steam causing the kettle lid to jump up and down he said "There must be power in that steam that it can lift such a weight."

There was.

Millions prior to him had seen the same phenomenon and regarded it as an unexplained mystery.

Recent scientific research has put its finger on the "cause" of Dandruff, Falling Hair, and consequent Baldness, and has unearthed a tiny germ which eats the life from the roots of human hair.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys this germ and consequently restores the hair to its natural state.

MAYOR IS MISSING

Paterson Executive In Questionable Transactions

PARTNER LOYAL TO HIM

Belcher Telephoning to Himself Indicates That His Mind Was Astray--The Banks to Whom Money Is Due Are Secured

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 3.—Mayor Belcher of this city has not returned to his home here and there is considerable speculation as to his whereabouts. Allen M. Chalmers, his law partner, in a statement yesterday, said that Belcher had been found and that he would return to Paterson in the afternoon. This was later modified to the effect that the mayor had not come to Paterson, but was in New York. Search there has not revealed him. Word has been sent to relatives in Newport, R. I., Pittsfield, Mass., and Virginia, notifying them of Belcher's absence from home.

Prosecutor Emley of Paterson has begun an investigation based on statements that Belcher was indebted to certain banks, among them the German-American Trust company. The prosecutor has taken steps to have the officers of the German-American Trust company and George Allee, secretary of the Manchester Building and Loan association, before him to obtain the details.

Mr. Allee is credited with a statement that his signature had been forged in certain transactions by which money was raised from Paterson banking institutions on the stock books of the building association.

Mr. Chalmers said last evening: "One day last week the mayor called up my office on the telephone and asked if he (Belcher) was in. When I answered I did not recognize his voice and I told him that he was not in, but that he was expected here any moment. Belcher then hung up the receiver and came around to the office himself. He appeared to be dazed and did not seem to know what was going on about him. He was told of the telephone incident, but appeared to know nothing of it. He left the office immediately and returned to the city hall and called himself up on the telephone again, but that time I recognized his voice and went to the city hall myself and found him telephoning to himself."

Mr. Chalmers also made the statement that the mayor's financial difficulties had all been adjusted; that Belcher owed something over $10,000 and that $75,000 had been pledged to aid him and that the claims had all been paid in cash by himself.

President Weiss of the German-American Trust company, which has a claim of $5800 against the mayor, summed up the situation from the bankers' viewpoint with the statement: "We have not been paid, but we are not worrying. One reason is that the amount involved is small to such an institution as ours. Another is that we have been secured by friends of Belcher and if he comes back we will be paid, but I very much doubt if anyone bothers to pay the debts of a dead one—yes, a dead man."

At the other banks the replies are about on the same line. They all agree that they have not been paid, but that they have been secured.

Mr. Chalmers stated that the cashier of the German-American Trust company had assured him that the signature of George Allee to certain pass books of the Manchester Building and Loan association, upon which Belcher borrowed money, were not forged, as the cashier knew Allee's signature and knew the signature of the books to be Allee's.

Mr. Chalmers admits that there is a possibility that Belcher may not return to Paterson. He said that for a long time past his partner had not been himself. The illness, coupled with his hard work as a lawyer and mayor, appeared to have worn him out.

Heavy Storm at Providence

Providence, Aug. 3.—An electrical storm of uncommon severity passed over this section last night, the lightning striking in several places, but doing no considerable amount of damage. The flashes of lightning were most vivid and the downpour of rain approached a cloudburst for a few moments. A portion of the local electric lighting service was temporarily crippled.

Great Underground Freight Traffic

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Underground connections have been completed by the Illinois Tunnel company with all the freight houses and yards of every steam railway here. The company is now handling about 7000 tons of freight daily and estimates that the completion of the connections with the steam railways means immediate doubling of that haulage.

PROTECTING HIS HOME

The Claim of Joseph Evans, Who Shot and Killed a Detective

Somerville, Mass., Aug. 3.—"I bought the pistol to protect myself. I had no idea who the visitors were. I had my children and my property to protect, and feared that burglars were attempting to break into my home."

This is the statement behind which Joseph Evans, charged with the murder of Private Detective Fraser in the hallway of his home on Tuesday night, defends himself for the act with which he is charged by the Somerville police.

Meanwhile, held without bail until Aug. 14, the accused was removed from the Somerville police court to the Cambridge jail on the charge of murder in the first degree. That the ultimate finding will be justifiable homicide is the opinion of the prisoner's friends.

A significant point in connection with this claim is that the Somerville police who accompanied A. J. Barber to Evans' home in the latter's effort to see his wife, refrained from any attempt to enter the house.

Allen J. Barber of Woonsocket, R. I., husband of Mrs. Gertrude Barber, who has been acting as Evans' housekeeper, believes that Evans had the revolver ready because he expected him to call.

Conducted a "Bucket Shop"

Boston, Aug. 3.—The receiver's first report on the Haight & Freese company affair was filed in the United States circuit court by Receiver Colt. He finds that the business carried on by the company "was that of a 'bucket shop.' No orders were actually executed, unless in any particular instance a customer insisted upon it; but these instances were rare and exceptional, in comparison with the great bulk of the business. It is clear that the company is insolvent." He alleged that Lillis and Turner, the principal owners, have withdrawn more than $300,000 for their own use.

Held on Larceny Charge

Boston, Aug. 3.—William F. Campbell of Chicago was arrested here by Boston police inspectors on the specific charge of larceny of $25 from the Boston Blacking company, the police, however, alleging that Campbell has been conducting a wholesale swindling scheme. He is said to have represented himself as being of a Canadian firm and sold a powder for cutting gum shellac. The police claim that the powder was valueless.

Triple Drowning Accident

Nashua, N. H., Aug. 3.—Three Greeks who were returning from a boating excursion up the Nashua river were drowned within 100 yards of the landing through the overturning of their boat. The accident took place directly in front of one of the factories and was due, it is said, to an attempt of two of the men to change places. The dead men are George Brown, George Faranconkonfar and Theodore Karhanis.

Took Overdose of Morphine

New Haven, Aug. 3.—Will Loomis, aged 48, formerly business manager of the Hartford Sunday Globe, died as the result of an overdose of morphine. Loomis registered at the Globe hotel as "J. H. Lewis, Worcester, Mass.," and after several vain attempts to summon him the door of his room was broken open and he was found in a dying condition. He was hurried to a hospital, but died soon afterward.

Perhaps Killed by Acid

Boston, Aug. 3.—Peter F. McKearney of Lexington, aged 50, was found in a dying condition on Boston common. Beside him was a bottle of carbolic acid solution, which, it is said, he used as a wash for a wound on his face. He died on the way to a hospital. The medical examiner will perform an autopsy if deemed necessary.

No Trace of Miss Tucker

Rochester, N. H., Aug. 3.—A party of over 75 men made a thorough, but unsuccessful, search through the greater part of the town of Lebanon, Me., in the hope of finding some trace of Miss Mary A. Tucker, who disappeared from a camp near Wolfboro, N. H., on July 25. Miss Tucker was last seen in Lebanon last Saturday.

"Mental Irresponsibility"

Westfield, Mass., Aug. 3.—Charles Tiedman of Chester, charged with the murder of his wife, Bessie A. Tiedman, in Chester, pleaded not guilty. The one important development was an indication of the probability of the adoption of "mental irresponsibility" as the line of defense.

Faithful Domestic's Sad End

Adams, Mass., Aug. 3.—Margaret Cavanaugh, a domestic in the family of Charles P. Plunkett, died from the effect of terrible burns received through the explosion of a lamp. Miss Cavanaugh was 50 years old and had been employed in the Plunkett household for nearly 30 years.

Whaler Had Good Luck

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 3.—The whaling schooner E. B. Conwell, Captain Gonsalves, has arrived after a 10 months' cruise in the north Atlantic, during which she stocked 560 barrels of sperm oil. The catch is one of the best of the year.

Auto Trophy Goes to Pierce

Heredity Mysteries.

"If there is much virtue in the doctrine of inherited qualities, why is there such a vast difference, as we see in a multitude of instances, between brothers or between sisters?" said an observer of men and things. "Years ago I began to make a study of this matter, and I have a book at home filled with cases bearing on fraternal disparities. I know of a learned jurist, and a most excellent man from every point of view, who has a brother in the penitentiary. I knew of a family of six brothers, three of whom were men of the highest social and business standing, while the other three were knaves and vagabonds, outcasts from society. They had the same father and mother, the same moral and intellectual training. Whence the difference? I know of two sisters, one of whom is an angel and the other a totally depraved creature. Inherited qualities often exist and are influential in the formation of character, but the law of their transmission is wholly uncertain."—Washington Post.

Motley's First London Dinner.

When Mr. Motley, the historian, was American minister to London he had trouble at his first dinner party. Mr. Leveson-Gower says: "At that time couples were sent in to dinner in pairs, but nobody's place was fixed. Unfortunately the Turkish ambassador was allotted to Lady Waldegrave, who did not care to have him as her neighbor. She consequently told him that his place was at the other side of the table. He, with oriental politeness, did as she bade him and sat down opposite to her. This upset the whole arrangement. The couples wandered about the room like sheep that were being driven out of a field. Mr. Motley, who had every merit except a good temper, went into a passion, and I nearly died of laughing."

CITY BREVITIES

The 215th day of the year.

High tides at noon and midnight.

The vacation season is now at its height. Many people are away and others are going every day.

The days have decreased nearly an hour in length, the afternoons being over twenty minutes shorter.

Now that the tax rate has been announced the next thing on the program will be the receipt of the tax bills.

Mayor Thompson is expected back from New Hampshire next week. His health has improved somewhat during his absence.

The barn on the Reinhalter estate on Miller street has been moved to the corner of Miller and Copeland streets and is being altered into a pool room.

Everybody is invited to send news to the Daily Ledger. Your guests will be pleased to be noticed. Where will you spend your vacation? It is important that name of sender should accompany all news.

THE HOTEL CHILD.

Dangers That Beset the Luckless Offspring of Restless Parents.

It is not the material aids to existence which are the bane of the hotel child; it is the mental and spiritual attitude accompanying this life which is to be deprecated. It destroys a democratic spirit through emphasizing the difference between the servant and the served, it exaggerates the power of money, fosters a spirit of dependence and unfits the pampered individual for any other kind of life, and, worst of all, in a child so brought up there can be no understanding or love of home. There may be some future for the child who knows nothing of art, some function for the one to whom literature makes no appeal and who is not sensitive to music, but there is no place in the state for the man who has neither initiative, self reliance, patriotism nor love of home. He is a social menace, a disease. The community is better off without this satellite of the manager, parasite of the bell boy and source of supply for the waiter.

If there is one child in our community who is superfluous it is the hotel child. As places for temporary occupation by homeless and childless adults hotels are to be tolerated, but as residences for children they are without the possibility of excuse.—Miss Martha S. Bensley in Everybody's Magazine.

FIVE MINUTES.

Under Some Circumstances It Seems a Very Long Time.

In a murder trial before a western court the prisoner was able to account for the whole of his time except five minutes on the evening when the crime was committed. His counsel argued that it was impossible for him to have killed the man under the circumstances in so brief a period, and on that plea largely based his defense, the other testimony being strongly against his client.

When the prosecuting attorney replied, he said: "How long a time really is five minutes? Let us see. Will his honor command absolute silence in the courtroom for that space?"

The judge graciously complied. There was a clock on the wall. Every eye in the courtroom was fixed upon it as the pendulum ticked off the seconds. There was a breathless silence.

We all know how time which is waited for creeps and halts and at last does not seem to move at all.

The keen witted counsel waited until the tired audience gave a sigh of relief at the close of the period, and then asked quietly:

"Could he not have struck one fatal blow in all that time?"

The prisoner was found guilty, and, as it was proved afterward, justly.

THE DOG'S COAT.

Brush It, but Do Not Wash It, If You Want It Perfect.

In the Country Calendar Reginald F. Mahew writes: "Even careful feeding will not give a dog's coat that glow which is such a sure sign of health if he is continually washed with soap and water. Owners who allow their dogs to live in the house are forever washing the wretched animal and forever complain that his coat is coming out. The oftener the dog is washed and scrubbed the more will his coat leave its trail and the deader and duller will it look. The health and growth of a dog's coat depend entirely on a natural oil from the skin. As often as the dog is washed so often is the oil washed out and so much more is the destruction of the coat. If a dog were brushed every day for five or ten minutes against as well as with the grain his coat would not only have a luster, but would cease to distribute itself all over the place except for a very short time once or twice a year. Besides this, brushing has a stimulating effect on the whole system, helps the blood circulation; by this the digestion, and so the general health."

MacMahon's Epigrams.

When Marshal MacMahon in the Crimean campaign took the Malakoff by storm and wrote his celebrated dispatch, "J'y suis, j'y reste" ("Here I am; here I stay"), these words made him famous all over the world. Yet his friends said that the worthy soldier had written them in the most matter of fact manner, with no thought of phrase making. The most surprised person over the success of this epigram was MacMahon himself.

ARRIVAL OF WITTE

Denies Having Commented on Japan's Peace Terms

HE THANKS NEWSPAPERS

Realizes Power of Press to Establish Peace and Friendship Among Nations--Hopes For Continuance of Russo-American Cordiality

New York, Aug. 3.—Eight officials of the Russian peace commission arrived here on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. Besides the chief plenipotentiary, Sergius Witte, there were J. Shipoff, Major General Yermoleff, Mr. Nabokoff, Jean Korotovitz, Georges Plancon, General Samoiloff and Professor De Martens. A tug, bearing 22 members of the committee of the Slavonic league, went to quarantine to meet the incoming steamer, and there three members of this committee boarded the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse.

Mr. Witte, immediately on his arrival, emphatically denied having said that Japan's peace terms were intolerable. He also denied positively that he had predicted that the conference would break up in a week.

When the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse arrived at her pier Witte handed to De Martens the following statement, which De Martens read aloud:

"For the friendly greetings of the American newspapers upon my first visit to the hospitable shores of the United States, I offer my heartfelt thanks. This kind atention touches me all the more profoundly because I realize the vastness of the power wielded by the press of the United States and admire the keen intelligence with which it is uniformly directed. I am glad to be able to add that I also appreciate the ethical worth of the aims for the attainment of which that power is so often and so successfully employed.

"One of the noblest of these aims is the establishment of peace and friendship among nations, and it is to the praiseworthy efforts of the people of the United States in this direction that my visit to the new world is attributable. For it is in compliance with the American people's desire for peace, of which President Roosevelt was the authorized exponent, that his majesty the czar has empowered me to come hither and ascertain the conditions which our gallant adversary deems necessary and adequate as a basis for peace negotiations.

"I need hardly point out that it is my ardent desire that the two chivalrous foes, who first became acquainted on the field of battle, may have found in each other's sterling qualities motives powerful enough to cultivate that acquaintanceship until it ripens into lasting friendship.

"Meanwhile, however, the terms offered must first be ascertained, weighed and judged admissible by Russia before she can proceed to formal negotiations. Hitherto, as you are aware, it was customary, in cases like this, to settle all such preliminaries before the meeting of the plenipotentiaries whose task it was to come to a final agreement on the matters under discussion.

"Now the very fact that his majesty the czar consented to take a course involving departure from this ancient diplomatic usage and to appoint a mission to learn the nature of our brave enemy's terms is an eloquent token of the friendly feeling which he and his subjects continue to cherish towards the people of the United States. I say continue to cherish, because at no epoch in our history have our traditional relations with this great republic been other than cordial.

"And now I should like to say, aye, and to prove to your people who live less in the past than in the present and the future, that it is the fervent wish of the emperor and the people of Russia further to strengthen the ties of friendship which have hitherto subsisted between the two nations.

"It is in virtue of that sincere desire that his majesty the czar, waiving all other considerations, has unhesitatingly accepted the cordial invitation of your first citizen and genial leader. And if my mission should prove in all other respects barren and the endeavor to find a common basis for peace negotiations should fail for the time being, the signal proof of friendship given by his majesty the czar and the Russian nation would still stand out as a memorable event, fraught, I trust, with far-reaching and beneficent results to the two great peoples of the West and the East."

As Witte does not speak English, he was not pressed for an interview, but the members of his party were each approached for their views about the negotiations. Naturally on a subject of such delicacy they were reticent, but this much was ascertained beyond a doubt:

In scope the powers of Witte equal in every way the powers handed to Baron Komura by the Japanese emperor. Mr. Witte brings with him instructions prepared by the czar which outline the general policy which he is authorized to pursue. They are in many respects elastic and will aid rather than hamper Witte, provided the terms submitted by Japan, in his opinion, appear reasonable. It was also made plain by several of Witte's suite that he had not come to the Washington conference to obtain peace at any price. Officially the Russian mission is, of course, unaware of Japan's terms, and until they have been handed to Witte by Komura, "Russia will," as a close friend of Witte expressed the attitude of his countryman, "await results patiently and without anxiety."

At the headquarters of the Japanese peace commission no comment was made upon the interview with Witte. Almar Sato, who has met all interviewers since the Japanese delegation arrived in New York, said that Baron Komura would make no statement at this time and from a personal standpoint he (Sato) thought that to make any statement or comment at all would be entering the controversy prematurely.

Murder Settles a Score

New York, Aug. 3.—Samuel Bernstein, a master baker of Brooklyn, is dead, and Isaac Feder, his assistant, is in a critical condition as a result of an assault by a man armed with a pistol who entered Bernstein's shop and opened fire upon the two men. Before dying Bernstein identified John Ciperino, 19 years old, as his assailant. Ciperino was arrested. He was recently treated for a gunshot wound, the origin of which he would not explain, saying that he would settle his score himself as soon as he recovered.

Robbers Return Valuable Papers

Detroit, Aug. 3.—Lieutenant Lally of the local detective department has received a mysterious package which contained checks, notes and other important papers, aggregating in value about $25,000, belonging to the Crystal Salt company of St. Clair, Mich. The offices of the company had been robbed and the papers stolen. It is supposed that the burglars found themselves unable to dispose of the valuable papers and decided to return them.

Bennington Popular Memorial

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 3.—Funds raised by popular subscription to erect a monument in the military cemetery to commemorate the victims of the Bennington disaster exceed $1000. The government, it is announced, will erect a monument in memory of the dead seamen. In view of this, it has been decided to enlarge the scope of the popular memorial and endeavor to secure $50,000 to build and equip a clubhouse for sailors.

Pocket Picked on Gangplank

New York, Aug. 3.—Mrs. Dora Jennings, who said that she lived in Scranton, Pa., was arrested as she left the White Star steamer Oceanic, which docked last night. She is charged with larceny, the complainant being Benjamin Haycock, who alleges that the woman took from his pocket a purse containing $24 as they were coming down the gangplank. Both complainant and prisoner were first cabin passengers.

Wilson Selects New Statistician

Washington, Aug. 3.—Secretary Wilson has designated as a member of the new board of statistics of the department of agriculture P. L. Hutchinson. It is the secretary's intention to displace the members of the temporary board recently appointed as soon as he can find suitable men to fill the positions. Hutchinson, who is the first selection, is a resident of New Orleans.

Aimed at Yankee Fishermen

St. Johns, Aug. 3.—The government of Newfoundland is now considering the enforcement of the herring fishery laws against American fishermen on the west coast during the autumn and winter. One policy suggested is to refuse to permit the purchase of herring from colonial fisherfolk, and another is to levy an export duty on all such herring conveyed to American markets.

Jab at American Aristocracy

New York, Aug. 3.—Comparing the American and European types of aristocracy, Colonel Henry Watterson, who has just returned from a trip to Europe, said: "Foreign aristocracy is of a much better grade than the American article. There aristocracy means lineage and brains. Here—well it ranges chiefly from bad whisky to Standard Oil."

Healthiest Spot on Isthmus

Panama, Aug. 3.—The healthiest spot between Panama and Colon being Ancon, the isthmian commission has decided to construct the administration buildings and the residences of the governor and the employes there. A 700-foot zone around Ancon will be cleared of all brush and mosquito breeding places.

To Push Beef Trust Prosecution

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Among matters which the president and Attorney General Moody considered at their conference here was the prosecution of the meat packers under indictment in Chicago. The prosecution will be pressed vigorously by the government.

Old Couple Maltreated

Rushford, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Three masked men bound and gagged an old couple named Lanigan near Caneadea. The old people were tortured until they told where $90 was concealed. The robbers escaped and the victims later released themselves.

Convicted of Terrible Crime

Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Henry W. Manzer was found guilty of murder in the first degree for the killing of Cora Sweet, 12 years old. The defense was insanity, Manzer confessing the crime and admitting that he had criminally assaulted the child.

Strike Is on In Earnest

St. Paul, Aug. 3.—General Manager Horn of the Northern Pacific road says that President Perham's strike order to the telegraphers on the Northern Pacific was generally obeyed and on all the 10 divisions of the system many operators have left their keys. Fruit, vegetables, eggs, poultry, fish, perishable shipments of all sorts destined for towns between St. Paul and the state of Washington have been refused with a few exceptions by the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific roads. The Northern Pacific refused perishable freight in any quantity, regardless of destination.

Kaiser on Side of Peace

Turin, Italy, Aug. 3.—Count De Busca, the Italian ambassador to Germany, who has just arrived here from Berlin, says that there is no truth in the report that Emperor William is endeavoring to secure for the Baltic sea the status of a mare clausum. The emperor, he says, is anxious for peace.

Heavy Pruning of Assets

Buffalo, Aug. 3.—The report of the appraisers of the defunct German bank was filed at the county clerk's office. It shows that the face value of the bank's assets was $6,709,176. The actual value of these assets are estimated by the appraisers to be worth only $3,930,707.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

A meeting of the board of health will be held tonight.

Clement Nix is building an eight room house on Beacon street.

Miss Margaret Todd of South Boston, is visiting friends in this city.

William H. Horton of Appleton street is spending his vacation at home.

Mrs. James E. Curtin has joined her daughter Helen at Fitzwilliam, N. H.

A new boarding-house is soon to be erected on East Howard street near south.

Albert Pitts is back in Wollaston for a short time with his uncle, Dr. H. N. Willard.

Mrs. A. Cain of South street has returned from a pleasant visit in Worcester, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey of Briggs street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son.

Mrs. Herbert D. Adams of Washington street is enjoying a rest in Fitzwilliam, N. H.

Mrs. Karl Weinschank of Clive street has returned after a month's vacation at New Haven, Conn.

The Merrymount base ball club will play the Quincy's Saturday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock in Merrymount park.

Mrs. Edith Bird of Beach street has returned from the Emerson Hospital where she was operated upon three weeks ago for appendicitis.

Lieut. Fred W. Tirrell and Lieut. George H. Wilson were among those who attended the annual outing of the "Ten of Us Club" of the Ancients at Point Shirley. A Boston paper speaks of Lieut. Tirrell as the man "who nearly became Mayor of Quincy."

Tate, formerly of the South Quincy base ball team, played third base on Wednesday for the Littletons at Littleton, N. H., in their game with Bethlehem, and made the only run for his team. The visitors won 2 to 1. Tate's record was one base hit, three put outs, two assists, and no errors.

The Theta Sigma Phi Society of the Quincy High school was entertained Wednesday at Hayward's grove by one of its members, Miss Ella Packard. Bathing and a delightful trip in Mr. Hayward's steam launch were enjoyed by the young ladies, after which they were carried to their several homes in Mr. Packard's wagonette.

MISS McLAUGHLIN.

Three Societies in Attendance at the Funeral Services.

It is with sorrow we record the passing away of Jeannie McLaughlin, eldest daughter of James and Jane H. McLaughlin of 57 Crescent street, West Quincy, at the early age of 26 years. Her life work though short was one of continual good, ever ready by her benevolence to help the poor and needy. She is deeply mourned by all who knew her.

The funeral which took place Monday was largely attended. Services were held at her late home by the Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor, No. 1, after which high mass of the requiem was held at St. Mary's church by the Rev. Father Powers. Services were also conducted at the grave by Abigail Adams Circle, No. 529, Companions of the Forest of America, and Pride of Granite Lodge, No. 30, Independent Order of Odd Ladies, Manchester Unity, of which orders she was a member.

The floral tributes were numerous, including:—

Standing wreath, from C. of F. of A.
Gates Ajar, from Odd Ladies.
Pillow, from Loyal Ladies.
Wreath and base, from girls at Powder Point Hall, Duxbury.
Pillow, from guests at Powder Point Hall, Duxbury.
Wreath, from Mr. James Hector.
Wreath, from Mr. Joseph F. Donovan.
Wreath, from Mr. and Mrs. Bainbridge of Barre, Vt.
Basket, from Mrs. Margaret Middlemas.
Cut Flowers, from Mrs. C. F. Kittridge of Ashmont.
Basket, from Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon.
Cut Flowers, from Mr. and Mrs. William Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William Parkinson and Baby Parkinson.

The pall bearers were Mr. Thomas Roughan, Robert Smith, Michael Tracy, Michael J. O'Brien, Thomas Joyce and Robert Smallet.

STOLE CHERRIES.

Gang of Atlantic Boys Come to Grief.

Unless the parents or friends of Fred Geister and James Gillon, Atlantic boys, come to their rescue, the chances are that they will spend the next eight days behind the doors of Dedham jail.

These boys with two others were arrested early in July for robbing Councilman Gassett's cherry tree. They not only stole the cherries, but they broke the limbs of the tree, and when the ladies of the house remonstrated the boys were anything but polite in their replies.

When the case first came into court they were all fined $3 apiece. One boy paid but the cases of Walter Southerberg, Fred Geister and James Gillon were continued until this morning to enable them to get their fines.

This morning Southerberg did not appear, and was defaulted. Geister appealed, and must furnish bonds or go to jail until next September. Gillen had no money and unless someone pays his fine he will also go to jail.

At noon time, both Geister and Gillen were locked up in the cage at the court room awaiting a journey to Dedham with the court officer.

BODY ARRIVES.

Funeral on Sunday of One of Bennington Dead.

The body of Josephus Thomas Newcomb, who was killed in the explosion on the gunboat Bennington, arrived in Quincy, from San Diego, Cal., this morning. It was taken in charge by Undertaker Hall.

The arrangements for the funeral are not completed as yet. It is thought, however, that it will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from Christ church.

Evans a Quincy Boy.

It is said that Joseph Evans, who shot and killed George L. Fraser, a private detective at Somerville, was a former Quincy boy and a son of the late Thomas Evans. Evans claims the reason he shot was that he feared the men might be robbers and that he was protecting his home.

Clam Men Discharged.

The continued cases of Charles Anderson, Hans Hanson, Morton Lyman, John Mitchell and John Newman, who were charged with taking clams from land of Mrs. L. B. Titus, was tried out in court on Wednesday and consumed a good part of the day. In the end the men were found not guilty and were discharged. According to the ruling of Judge Avery but little can be done to stop men of this kind until the city adopts some regulation governing the flats along its shore front.

TODAY'S COURT.

Henry W. Patterson was arraigned for exceeding the automobile speed limit at the Blue Hills reservation.

Fred H. Jackson was arraigned for violation of the town by-laws of Milton, by obstructing the sidewalk by refusing to move after being requested to do so by an officer. He was fined $2.

The case of the twelve game cocks and scales, seized by the Braintree officers when they raided a cocking main at Braintree, came up for disposition. The game cocks were ordered killed and the scales destroyed.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in chesper paper?

LAMONT'S ENTERPRISE

The Achievements of a Former Cabinet Minister.

DISPLAYED TACT AS A POLITICIAN

While President Cleveland's Private Secretary He Lifted the Office Almost to the Dignity of a Cabinet Position—Changes He Made at the White House—His Services as Secretary of War.

The late Dan Lamont, Grover Cleveland's private secretary, is better remembered in Washington than Daniel Scott Lamont, the secretary of war, says the Washington correspondent of the New York Post. Before Lamont's day the president's private secretary was concerned solely with routine business, the disposition of mail, replying to unimportant correspondence and the making of appointments for his chief. Mr. Lamont, during his tenure of the office, to some extent made it an added cabinet position. His personal influence with Mr. Cleveland was on a par with that of any one of the seven counselors provided by law.

Mr. Lamont was a perfect complement for his chief. He had tactfulness, unfailing politeness, the widest acquaintance with public men of any man of his day, an alert, acquisitive mind, a personal poise that could not be disturbed, and a temper that was never ruffled. The personal impression that Cleveland made on the country during his first four years in the White House was largely due to Mr. Lamont's suavity and diplomacy. He mirrored his chief to the public as he would have him appear; not wholly as he was. The angles were blunted and the rough sides made smooth. No one recognized more than Mr. Cleveland how much of his popularity was due to his efficient private secretary.

Mr. Lamont's newspaper training stood him in excellent service. He knew the limitations of the correspondent's work, the meaning and value of news, the difficulties with which it was gathered, the importance of accuracy and the vital necessity of writing accounts of events while they were fresh. He was democratic and helpful, he knew men and affairs and how much to tell of all the "inside" events that came under his eye or of which he had, because of his position, first hand knowledge. He made the White House a source of accurate, fresh, valuable information such as it had never been before, and he was in the best sense of the word what Mr. Cleveland never became—a "politician."

Commentators on public affairs in Washington who had known private secretaries under other presidents were so amazed and delighted at the changes Mr. Lamont made at the White House and so appreciative of the public value of his services that some of them to this day are inclined to call him "the brains of the first Cleveland administration." This, of course, is an exaggerated estimate, but it will serve to show how striking an impression the new private secretary made on men who were not accustomed to loosing their tongues in praise of public officers unless tribute was eminently well deserved. Here is a description of him, written "off the griddle," so to speak, in the days when he was new to the capital:

His private secretary is Daniel S. Lamont. Lamont is a wonder. He is a small blond young man of thirty-six, with sandy hair and mustache. He has a modest personal appearance, dresses very neatly, and there is no man in New York state, not excepting Samuel J. Tilden, who has a larger acquaintance with prominent Democrats. He is honest, knows a man at a glance, and the moment any one comes into Cleveland's office he can tell what his business is. He signifies to his chief by a nod of his head what he thinks of the request about to be made. He never loses his head, has been with politicians all his life and yet has the most exemplary habits. He never smokes and never swears. He is of slight stature and does not at first command the attention to which his abilities are entitled.

A sketch of Mr. Lamont, written in 1884, bears the caption "The Pleasant History of a Pink of Politeness." In 1882, when Mr. Lamont was a nominee for the clerk of the New York senate, he had already developed a modesty, a merit and an organizing and working capacity which had won for him the respect, the regard and the confidence of all who had been brought into relations with him. He had made his mark so deeply at Albany that when Mr. Cleveland became president it was taken for granted that his private secretary would accompany him to Washington. One who knew him in the Albany days contributes this glimpse of the methods that made Mr. Lamont so widely known after he reached Washington:

"In the executive chamber he always got up to receive visitors, and his universal knowledge of public men at Washington again held good. He saw every one coming in at the distant door and spoke their name to the governor, who was quick to hear. So when Smith of Wayback came in and said, 'You don't remember me, governor, I am afraid,' the governor promptly responded:

"'Oh, yes, I do, Mr. Smith. How are the folks in Wayback?'

"When the governor wrote his famous personal comfort letter about Grady he handed the copy to Lamont and said, 'Dan, I'll wager you a dollar you would not write a letter like that?'

"Dan read it and fired up: 'I certainly wouldn't, governor. It is not called for. It will do no good, and it will put you in a bad light. It is influencing elections, and that is not right.'

"The governor laughed. 'You almost persuade me to be a— What is the expression?' he said.

"'I wish it was politician,' replied Dan.

"But as we all know, the governor sent the letter."

Mr. Lamont took so prominent a part in the presidential campaign preceding Mr. Cleveland's election that a New York city newspaper felt constrained to ask in its editorial columns, "If Cleveland is elected will he or Colonel Lamont be president?" Colonel Lamont used to tell how he came to Washington with Mr. Cleveland. On the morning after election he casually remarked to the governor that, judging from the returns then in, he seemed to be elected. "Well," said Mr. Cleveland, "if I am elected, you are elected. I must have you with me if I go to Washington." That was all that was said about the matter.

One peculiarity that his intimates often commented upon while he was in Washington, and which has recurred to their minds vividly because of the manner of his death, was his keen distaste for being left alone. He always contrived that some one should be in the office with him at every minute of the day. No one ever saw him take a walk of even two or three blocks unaccompanied. If, when it came time for him to leave his office, no one else was ready to go he would wait for one of the clerks. After he became secretary of war and while his family was out of town he used frequently to drop in at the White House in the late afternoon and get one of the young executive clerks, whose company he enjoyed, to go to dinner with him at a hotel. He never said why he always showed such scrupulous care to avoid being left alone.

One of the first things Mr. Lamont did as secretary of war was to weed out a lot of worthless clerks in his department. Six were discharged and fifty reduced in grade and pay in one day. Another incident that army officers are fond of recalling occurred in 1895:

Senator Harris of Tennessee was in Secretary Lamont's office when Paymaster General Stanton entered and began his explanation of the financial condition of the service, referring particularly to the lack of funds for the month of June. Secretary Lamont asked what amount would be necessary to pay off all the June salaries.

"Oh, something like $50,000," replied General Stanton.

"If you could borrow that amount," said the secretary, "would it be sufficient?"

"You get me the money, Mr. Secretary, and I'll make the payment, all right," said the paymaster.

"Well, I'm thinking about advancing it myself," replied Mr. Lamont.

There was a gasp of astonishment from General Stanton and Senator Harris.

"I mean it," continued the secretary. "The army ought to be paid, and the sooner they get it the better."

"I can only say, Mr. Secretary," said General Stanton, "that if you find me the money I shall make arrangements to pay off the officers and men who did not receive their salaries for the month of June."

They used to call Mr. Lamont "the silent secretary" in the last years of his service at Washington. He was thoroughly methodical in his habit and did not waste a minute.

Among the reforms and improvements that marked Mr. Lamont's administration of the war department were the abandonment of the small outlying military posts and the concentration of the army at important railroad centers, on the seaboard and on the northern and southern frontiers, and the reduction of the term of enlistment from five to three years. He secured the repeal of the statute making ten years the maximum period of service of enlisted men. He was instrumental in securing the adoption of the new magazine rifle and carbine of reduced caliber for the army and was an earnest and consistent advocate of a general improvement of the seacoast defenses under approved projects, including the development of disappearing gun carriages. He brought about a reduction in the number of military posts from about ninety-five to seventy-five, resulting in the concentration of troops in large commands, and by so doing improving the morals, discipline and education of the army.

Compulsory M. P.'s.

The Norwegian parliament consists of 114 members, many of whom sit in the house under protest, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. All Norwegians over twenty-five years of age who satisfy certain conditions of residence, etc., meet in the local parish church once in three years and choose one man out of every 100 present to select the members of parliament for the country. The men so selected are bound to serve, whether they like the honor or not. Immediately parliament meets one-fourth of the members are chosen to form the upper house, the remaining three-fourths constituting the lower house.

Japan's Postmortem Honors.

About fifty-three hundred officers and men who have been killed since the battle of Liaoyang up to the battle of Mukden will receive the Golden Kite, says the Japanese Weekly Mail. This posthumous honor is already sanctioned by the emperor and will shortly be published by the Official Gazette.

A Temperance Move.

By way of combating the tendency to take strong drink, the royal railway directors of Cassel, Germany, have decided to manufacture bottled lemonade and mineral water and sell it to the employees only, at about a cent a bottle, the bottle to be returned.

Team Work Wins In Baseball

Manager McGraw of the Champion New York Nationals Says All Members of a Successful Club Must Work Together.

Those who have watched the fortunes of the champion New York Nationals realize that it would be a hard task to equal the work of John J. McGraw, the field leader. Under his tutelage the men have developed a system of team work which is as smooth as the running of a well lubricated machine.

Next to being an umpire, it would seem to the uninitiated that managing a champion team must require about as much self control and determination as the average man is capable of. McGraw's appearance does not contradict this conclusion.

He is little above medium height, with the stockily built frame that marks the average player on the diamond. He is smooth shaved, with dark hair and eyes deeply set under a brow which, in conjunction with the rigid shape of his lower face, gives him a strongly marked individuality. His sentences are terse enough to telegraph, and there is no undecided "perhaps" or "possibly" in his verbal equipment.

"I stopped playing regularly three years ago," says McGraw. "I think it is a good thing for a man to know when to stop.

"If he doesn't it is only a question of time when some one will have to tell him, and that is a good deal harder to stand for a man who is fond of the game and has been successful. If you go yourself, you have no regrets.

"I worked my way to the management after I played actively for fifteen years. I commenced when I was fifteen."

"What is the length of the active life of a professional baseball man?" was asked.

"I see no reason why, if a man takes care of himself, he should not play for twenty or even twenty-five years. Naturally that depends on the time a man begins. If he starts in while he is still in his teens, he has a better chance of continuing, for his muscles are earlier hardened, and his whole form is better than if he waits until he is twenty-three or twenty-four.

"When a baseball player gives up the work on the team, if he has no regular trade or profession to fall back on, he is by no means at a loss, for there are always exhibition games where the men get good prices. He can coach, and the probability is that he has saved enough money to go into business or learn a trade.

"What system do I employ for the men? Simply what we call team work.

"The individual is a unit merely. His work is subordinated in the general scheme of things to the good of the whole. He has no preferences which are consulted as to his place; no special praise is given him and no particular blame.

"The only way for a company of men to achieve anything, whether it happens to be in baseball or in some other work, is to forget that they have any predilections and remember that the honor of the organization is in their hands. As soon as a man puts personal ambition ahead of anything else, just so soon he spoils the harmony of the entire arrangement."

"What is the attitude of the team when the game is lost through the error of a single player?"

"There is no attitude, any more than there is when a game is won. If a man is conscientious in his work and has done his best, that is all that could be expected by the most rigorous manager. It is only when a man plays repeatedly in error that the knowledge comes that he must be dropped."

"What are the requirements of a player?"

"First of all I should say without hesitation that I would demand speed. After that comes general fitness. He must have good sight for the ball too. In fact, good eyesight is almost as essential as speed."

| Nahant | 8,933.38 |
| Needham | 1,662.04 |
| New Bedford | 9,788.42 |
| Newton | 112,218.92 |
| QUINCY | 74,241.90 |
| Revere | 39,007.28 |
| Saugus | 1,683.87 |
| Somerville | 171,313.05 |
| Springfield | 6,728.38 |
| Stoneham | 16,256.96 |
| Swampscott | 3,022.55 |
| Wakefield | 10,658.35 |
| Waltham | 37,976.37 |

| Winthrop | 20,037.87 |
| Woburn | 16,263.08 |
| Worcester | 6,104.59 |
| Total | $3,827,028.91 |

Some of the large cities and towns assessed less than Quincy are Everett, Medford, Lynn, Melrose, Milton, Revere and Waltham.

The figures are taken from a pamphlet issued by State Treasurer Chapin, which shows the total assessments on cities and towns on account of water, parks, sewers and armories for 1905.

For water, Commissioner Sprague says "The annual assessments are made to pay interest, sinking fund and maintenance charges. Boston is assessed the proportion which its valuation bears to the total valuation of the district. The other municipalities are assessed one-third in proportion to their valuations and two-thirds in proportion to their population, except that those having still sufficient local supplies pay only one-sixth of the full assessment; but in 1906 consumption of water will be substituted for population in the basis of assessment."

Relative to parks, Commissioner Casas says: The parks now include 7,283.83 acres of wood land; 1,799.85 acres—forming a frontage of 47 miles—of river bank, and 163 acres—forming a frontage of 9.86 miles—of seashore. The total of the park loans is $8,474,000, and the sinking fund on Jan. 1, 1905, amounted to $928,401.09. With accumulations at 3 per cent., this will aggregate at maturity of bonds $2,397,410.26, leaving a balance to be sunk of $6,076,589.74. The sinking fund requirements for 1905 total $110,359.28.

For sewers, Commissioner Sprague says: "An apportionment of expenditures for the sewerage systems among the various cities and towns, is made every five years by a commission appointed by the supreme judicial court. These commissions have in all cases apportioned the cost of construction among the municipalities according to their respective valuations, and the cost of maintenance and operation according to their respective populations. The necessary charges for sinking fund interest and maintenance are assessed each year upon the several cities and towns."

TOMORROW'S GAME.

Quincys Hope to Turn Tables on the Merrymounts.

What should prove to be one of the best games of the season will be that at Merrymount Park on Saturday, when the Merrymounts and Quincys will meet for the second time.

Merrymount won the first game by the close score of 4 to 3, and Manager Flynn of the Quincys will try hard to turn the tables.

Merrymounts up to the present time have proved themselves to be one of the strongest semiprofessional teams in the state and the team that defeats them will have to travel pretty fast.

Quincy and Merrymount have always had a large attendance and as the game on Saturday is the only one in the city the fans will undoubtedly turn out to see a fast contest.

The Quincys and Merrymounts have always played the article of ball that pleases the fans. All games being gentlemanly as well as finely contested.

Owing to the fact that Eldridge of the Quincys is confined in the hospital, the outfield will be different than in previous games. The team, however, will be as strong as heretofore.

Joe Reagan of Baltimore, who has become famous as an umpire, having in the past been a player of no mean ability, will be one of the officials. Joe has become quite popular in this city and is styled "Silk O'Loughlin, Jr." Game at 3.30.

H. B. Sprague of Milton was in Bangor, Maine last week.

PRESENTATION.

The Rebekahs Surprise a Retiring Officer.

Miss M. Jennie Davies, who has been Financial Secretary of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge ever since it was instituted, over seven years ago, has tendered her resignation, being about to embark on the matrimonial sea. The resignation was accepted with regret, at the regular meeting held Thursday evening in I. O. O. F. hall. About 75 members were in attendance.

Under the head of the good of the order, Mrs. Melissa McCormick, noble grand, in a few well spoken words, in behalf of the members of the lodge, presented Miss Davies with a cut glass berry dish and a silver card case, inscribed "From the members of George L. Gill Rebekah Lodge, Aug. 3,1905." Both were in a white satin lined box.

Miss Davies was completely surprised and was overcome, but after a short time recovered and thanked the members for their kindness and remembrance, which she shall always cherish.

Miss Davies will reside in Vermont and her departure from Quincy will be greatly regretted by her many friends, acquaintances and associates, with whom she has mingled in this city all her life.

Funeral of Veteran.

The funeral of Manning C. Davy was held Thursday afternoon from his late residence on Linden place. The services were conducted by Rev. E. A. Horton. The burial which was private was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Delegations from the Masonic bodies with which he was affiliated and Charles Ward Post, G. A. R., were present. There were many beautiful flowers.

Mr. Davy was born in Montreal and came to Massachusetts with his parents when three years of age. He had been for a number of years connected with the firm of William H. Mitchell & Son in Province court, Boston. He was a veteran of the Civil War, enlisting in the Thirty-Eighth Massachusetts Infantry at sixteen. He served through the war, being in the battles of Cedar Creek, Winchester and others in which his regiment participated. He was a member of Charles Ward Post, G. A. R., of Newton. Mr. Davy was a 32d-degree Mason, a member of Winslow Lewis Lodge of Boston, and a former member of St. Omar Commandery. He leaves a widow and three children.

Floating Hospital.

Bright weather, with some promise of heat, brought forth a large crowd of mothers with their infants to the Boston Floating Hospital Boat, Thursday and the number of patients which went on the day's trip down the harbor was therefore correspondingly large. Of the whole number aboard, sixty are under treatment in the permanent wards, that being the limit of babies possible to accommodate. On the upper, or open air deck the number is not limited; that is, the managers always are able to receive and care for as many babies as are brought to their attention.

The trip was given by Mrs. Henry M. Faxon of Quincy "In memory of Sarah Gregg Faxon," and young Mrs. Faxon was one of the guests on the boat, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. R. Elmer Morrison of Braintree; her sister, Mrs. James D. Ellsworth of Savin Hill, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Max F. Blau of Princeton, N. J., as well as Miss Ellen Pike of Quincy.

John F. Anderson, assistant manager of the hospital, is arranging to tell of its work before guests of several summer hotels along the Massachusetts shores and elsewhere. He already this summer has spoken in several churches in this state and in New Hampshire.

Newton Figures.

The tax rate of the rich city of Newton is not very low this year, being $18.00 per $1,000 against $17.80 last year. There has been an increase of $570,500 in real property and $1,090,160 in personal property valuation, or $1,660,660 in all, compared with 1904.

MILITARY HONORS

Army and Navy Will be Represented

At Funeral of J. T. Newcombe.

Arrangements Being Made by the Spanish War Veterans.

The funeral of Josephus Thomas Newcombe of the ill fated U. S. S. Bennington will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Christ church.

He will be buried with full military honors by John A. Boyd camp, National Legion of Spanish War Veterans, who are making all arrangements.

It is expected that a squad of blue jackets will be present from the Boston navy yard to represent the Navy, and a firing squad from K company, Fifth regiment, of Hingham, to represent the Army. Camp Boyd will parade with full ranks, and invite all soldiers and sailors of the Spanish war to march with them.

The camp will assemble at headquarters at G. A. R. hall on Sunday at 1.30 P. M., the services at the church being at 2 o'clock.

Serious Fall.

Mrs. James Gregg of Lowell, who is summering at the Stanwell cottage, Houghs Neck, slipped and fell against the gunwale of a boat, Thursday afternoon, while making a landing at the yacht club float. She was rendered unconscious by her fall. She was attended by physicians who said that she was suffering from a nervous shock rather than any injury. After she revived she was taken to her home.

Nuisance Alleged.

The Board of Health will give a public hearing Monday evening, August 21, on the petition of William D. Burns and others, to abate the nuisance of what is known as Gragg's pond, situated off Crescent street, West Quincy.

The petitioners claim that the land is wet and spongy and is covered with stagnant water that at times a disagreeable odor arises from the pond and that it causes malaria.

Body Identified.

The body found on the shore at Cohasset of Tuesday has been identified as Prof. A. A. Woodbridge of Boston, an insurance man.

☞Eyeglasses fitted scientifically. No guess work.—Williams.

COURT BUSINESS.

Increase of Over Sixty Per Cent. in Number of Cases.

The report of Probation Officer Francis A. Spear for the month of July, shows the total number of criminal cases before the district court that month to have been 309, an increase of 124 over July 1904.

The increase is in a measure due to the enforcing of the law relative to speeding with automobiles. The number for this offense being 60, of which 25 were at the Metropolitan Park.

Of the 309 cases 84 were for drunkenness. Of this number 34 were released on statements.

The other complaints were as follows: assault, 37; larceny, 20; search for liquor, 15; liquor nuisance, breaking and entering and illegal taking of clams, 7 each; breaking glass and keeping intoxicating liquor, 6 each; setting bonfire, 8; violation of by-laws, 5; search for gaming implements, being present at a cock fight, and disturbance on a street car, 4 each; attempting to rescue prisoner, neglected children, 3 each; adultery, assault with dangerous weapon, evading fare, threat, violation of Lord's Day act, and sale of liquor, 2 each; assault on an officer, non-support, tramp, vagrant, search by Board of Health, search for stolen goods, one each.

Packard Reunion.

The annual reunion of the Packard family will be held at Highland Park, next Wednesday, August 9. A social hour will be spent before dinner, which will be served by well-known cooks of the Packard family. Following the repast, a business meeting will be called and an election of officers will take place. Then will come an entertainment.

—The Dennison Manufacturing Co. of Franklin street, Boston, have ornamented one of their store windows in a unique manner. Young people who canoe on Charles river will be interested. The little craft is of sage green color with gilt stripes. It is at the moorings on a lily pond, cushioned complete, with paddles in rest, ready for two. A box of Page and Shaw's shows thought for a fair occupant. The whole is under a bower of roses.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ This pleasing anniversary is now in full tide of success here in the old Bay State, and the sons and daughters, who left the firesides long ago, are back again among the well remembered places which were dear to them in the days agone. The floodgates of memory are busy with old-time memories, when life to them was young and the future all before them, their success or failure all dependent upon their own exertions, with no money or patronage back of them to push them forward in the race for wealth and position, Here it is, the old homestead where they were born, the house now perhaps owned and occupied by strangers. But it was their birthplace, around which cluster many happy memories, when youth was at the prow and all looked bright and cheerful through young eyes and hopeful hearts.—Gloucester Times.

☞ "What is news?" is a question that is very difficult to answer. Here is an illustration: There is probably not a farmer in the world who raises sheep but has time after time been followed by one or more lambs for two, three, five or ten minutes. When the plebeian lamb follows the average farmer it is not a matter of news. But the other day two lambs followed J. J. Van Alen, who married into the Astor family, and immediately the "event" was celebrated in the New York newspapers in three or four hundred words. On his own merits Mr. Van Alen might not be worth two lines of an obituary following a soap advertisement, but because he is worth several millions of dollars and married an Astor, not even an infant sheep can smell his coat-tails without the fact's being set forth in the New York prints under attractive headlines.—Savannah News.

☞ It is wonderful how men and women manifest in vacation time their dominant traits; the selfish mortal insists on getting the best of everything, and even the good rejoice when fortune refuses to favor him; the woman whose desire to rule is strong attempts to control all the other guests, and reduces the hotel staff, from manager to bell boy, to abject subjection; despite what may be said to the contrary, the arrogant disposition secures more for its possessor than does the gentle, sacrificing spirit; the fussy person soon establishes a reputation for making others nervous and is studiously avoided; and the man who has one story and wants to tell it continually has difficulty in securing an audience; the guest "who doesn't mind" being imposed upon frequently knows it by heart, and newcomers are promptly put on their guard by the omnipresent individual whose sense of duty is rampant.—Mr. Robertson in Donahues Magazine.

AN EXCITING RACE

Effort to Arrest Marine Gamblers of Chicago

POLICE CIRCUMVENTED

"Excursionists" Took a Small Steamer and Were Transferred to Floating Poolroom In Midlake--Lively Racing When the Gamblers Attempted to Land

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Gamblers intent on playing the races and policemen determined to prevent all race track betting on Lake Michigan furnished an exciting struggle between law and sport. Policemen and gamblers raced around the lake, first into Michigan waters, then close to the shores of Illinois and then into the jurisdiction of Indiana.

Chief of Police Collins announced that he would no longer permit the operation of the floating poolroom City of Traverse and that he would arrest all men who attempted to board the steamer, saying that they were about to commit an illegal act which brought them within police jurisdiction.

The gamblers yesterday caused the steamer City of Traverse to be run out into the lake, where she lay waiting for the cargo of bettors. Large details of police guarded the approaches to all the docks from which the gamblers might make their way to the lake. It was the expectation of the authorities that the bettors would leave Chicago on the City of Traverse, but instead of this a small excursion steamer, the Eagle, had been chartered and the gamblers, walking past the police, embarked and started for the City of Traverse. The police were powerless to intercept any of the "excursionists," as they called themselves, and watched them sail away.

The announced program of the managers of the floating poolroom was that all passengers would be landed at Ninety-Second street, where the Calumet river empties into Lake Michigan. Chief Collins, balked in his attempt to prevent the sailing of the gamblers on the Eagle, transferred his forces to Ninety-Second street and posted them along the shore in such manner that it would have been impossible for any man from the City of Traverse or the Eagle to set foot on shore and escape arrest. Last evening the Eagle steamed into the river at South Chicago loaded with 200 men who were anxious to reach shore. As soon as the boat was well in the mouth of the river the bridge was swung behind it. With escape to the lake cut off by the bridge and no possible chance of a safe landing on shore, the case of the gamblers for a time looked desperate. The Eagle circled around in the river, tooting its whistle for the bridge to turn and allow the steamer to return to the lake. The police stood on the shore and laughed.

A mudscow came up and whistled for the bridge to open. The bridgetender was compelled to swing the bridge and the Eagle, planting its bow squarely in the stern of the mudscow, crowded it closely as it passed through the bridge and then made a run for the open lake. As the bridge opened the police made a rush for the firetug Yosemite and by the time the Eagle was entering the waters of the lake the tug, loaded with officers, was tearing after it.

The Eagle headed directly toward the waters which are within the jurisdiction of Indiana, with the Yosemite in chase. The Eagle steadily drew away from the tug and, after a run of 10 miles, the police turned back and returned to South Chicago. The Eagle continued its course and landed at Indiana Harbor, from where all of its passengers made their way to Chicago by train.

Before the arrival of the Eagle a launch came in at South Chicago bearing a number of gamblers from the City of Traverse and several fishermen. All the passengers on the launch were lined up on the pier and compelled to stand in a heavy rain while the police weeded out the fishermen from the "excursionists." Fourteen men who could not prove that they had been fishing were arrested.

Chief Collins declared himself disappointed by the escape of the Eagle, but found some comfort in the fact that the passengers of the launch had been gathered in. "Of course," he said, "we can do nothing when the boat is in Indiana water, but if the gamblers attempt to board the boat again we will arrest them at the pier before they get near the boat."

FORMAL INTRODUCTIONS

Komura Will Take Precedence Over Witte In Presentation to President Because He Arrived First In This Country

New York, Aug. 4.—Acting for the president, Third Assistant Secretary of State Peirce has communicated to Baron Rosen, the Russian ambassador, and Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, the official program for the formal presentation to the president of the Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries to the Washington conference. This program has for weeks been a subject of much study on the part of the president and Peirce.

As the president's representative, Peirce will accompany Komura and Takahira and their suite to the pier of the New York Yacht club at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, where the delegation will board the protected cruiser Tacoma, and the vessel will start for Oyster Bay.

Half an hour later Peirce will perform a similar ceremony for Witte and Rosen, the Russian plenipotentiaries, and their suite, who will go aboard the protected cruiser Chattanooga. Peirce will then board the yacht Sylph, which, steaming rapidly ahead, will pass the Tacoma and Chattanooga, taking position at the front of the column.

Arriving at Oyster Bay about noon, the "peace squadron" will anchor, its arrival being heralded by the firing of an ambassadorial salute of 19 guns for each mission from the Galveston, Mayflower and Dolphin, which will be in waiting to convey the plenipotentiaries to Portsmouth. Mr. Peirce, on leaving the Sylph, will board the Mayflower and will await the arrival of the president. The president will board the Mayflower and will be given the presidential salute of 21 guns from all the vessels in the harbor. As soon as his flag is hoisted on the Mayflower the Japanese plenipotentiaries will come on board from the Tacoma and be presented by Peirce.

Half an hour later the Russian envoys will come aboard and be presented. Immediately the president will formally present the Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries to each other. A buffet luncheon on the Mayflower will follow. At its conclusion the Japanese mission will take leave of the president and board the Dolphin, Peirce will go aboard the cruiser Galveston, and the president will then take leave of the Russian mission and go ashore, again receiving a salute of 21 guns.

Under convoy of the cruiser Galveston, with Peirce aboard, the Russians, on the Mayflower, and the Japanese, on the Dolphin, will sail for Portsmouth. The squadron will steam slowly, so as not to arrive there before 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Desirous of being strictly neutral in all the arrangements for the presentation, it was decided at the outset by the Washington government that the president would recognize no precedence based on successes in the present war. Because Komura was presented to him almost a week before Witte arrived in this country, it was decided that for this reason Komura must take precedence over Witte. This, however, will be recognized only in the half-hour's difference in the time of the presentation of the two missions.

Mr. Witte had an active day yesterday. He has seen more of New York than most visitors see in a week. Accompanied by Mr. Wilenkine, Russia's financial agent at Washington, Witte left his hotel at 9 o'clock in an automobile on a ride through Central park, then to Grant's tomb, where he went into the mausoleum to stand for a few moments at the tomb of the general. From there he went to the Stock Exchange, where he spent more than an hour studying its workings, and mingling freely with the crowds. From there he went to the top of one of the towering down town buildings to get a birdseye view of the city. This quite enchanted him. "The most magnificent of all," he exclaimed. Mr. Witte then went into the subway and took an express train up town.

Back down into Houston street he went, in an automobile, through the Chinese, Jewish, Russian, and Italian quarters. Soon after reaching this section of the city Witte got out of the automobile and made a considerable part of the trip on foot. When he reached the more crowded sections he walked in the street. Many times throughout the trip he was recognized from his pictures and he punctiliously returned each greeting by doffing his hat. Last night he dined quietly at his hotel with his suite.

Paris Thinks Peace Doubtful

Paris, Aug. 4.—The arrival at New York of M. Witte is the source of considerable comment in official and diplomatic circles. The prevailing view is pessimistic over the success of the conference and this sentiment is increased by St. Petersburg dispatches stating that the war element is now in complete ascendancy.

Twelve New Destroyers For Russia

St. Petersburg, Aug. 4.—The admiralty has given orders for 12 turbine torpedo boat destroyers, ranging from 220 to 230 tons displacement, for coast service.

GUARDING BORDER

Louisiana Naval Brigade Will Watch Mississippians

YELLOW FEVER SPREADS

Sixty-Six Centers of Infection at New Orleans--A Movement to Encourage Italian Immigration on a Large Scale Is Checked

New Orleans, Aug. 4.—To prevent possible interference by Mississippi quarantine guards with Louisiana citizens Governor Blanchard telegraphed Commander Bostick to take his naval brigade to the state border. Immediately on receipt of the order Bostick dispatched two squads of men to the oyster commission schooner Majestic, lying in Bayou St. John, and already in commission, and prepared for the journey. Fifty men were sent out.

The Majestic is only one of five vessels which will be used by the naval brigade. Two other schooners and launches will be used. The men are going fully equipped for a stay of some length. The first destination of the naval brigade is the Rigolets, from which place the men will disembark to cover all necessary points on the Louisiana coast.

Governor Blanchard made another move in his effort to protect Louisiana citizens from molestation by the Mississippi guards. The governor wired to the sheriffs of St. Bernard, Plaquemines and Orleans to arrest all armed boats found in Louisiana waters and present the evidence immediately to the grand juries, which he has asked the district attorneys to hold in readiness.

Thursday's record of the yellow fever situation showed an increase in the number of new cases, 54, as against 32 Wednesday, and a considerable spread of centres of infection, 11 new foci being reported yesterday and four Thursday. The total cases to date number 432; deaths yesterday, 5; total deaths to date, 84; total foci, 66.

Among the ignorant classes there is still great antipathy to make public cases of sickness and much of the inspectors' time is taken up in running down suspicious cases reported by citizens. The foreign section of the city, however, is being steadily finecombed.

It is not improbable that the movement to bring Italian immigration here on a large scale will suffer, partly because of the terror which the present infection has spread among the Italians and partly because of prejudice which has arisen against extensive Italian colonization.

With the negroes flocking to the cities, Louisiana and Mississippi planters have had a difficult problem to solve in obtaining adequate labor to till their fields. Thousands of Italians have in recent years replaced negroes in the sugar fields of Louisiana. It is the Italians who have infected not only New Orleans, but points in other states.

Shaw Asks For Facts

Washington, Aug. 4.—Secretary Shaw has notified Governor Blanchard of Louisiana that if any unauthorized acts and abuses of discretion have been committed by the revenue cutter Winona, now assisting the public health and marine hospital service in the campaign against yellow fever, they will be corrected as far as possible. This declaration of the secretary followed the receipt of several dispatches from Blanchard complaining of the action of the cutter in interfering with fishing vessels belonging to the people of Louisiana and specifically referring to a case where, it is asserted, a boat was captured and towed away.

Secretary Shaw also has asked for a detailed report of all the operations of the public health and marine hospital service and the revenue cutter Winona in the work along the gulf coast, with a view to ascertaining the exact condition of affairs which has given rise to the complaints of Governor Blanchard.

"No Mosquitoes--No Yellow Fever"

Washington, Aug. 4.—The public health and marine hospital service has issued a circular on the prevention of yellow fever. The directions given look to the suppression of the mosquito as the only means of preventing its spread. No mosquitoes, no yellow fever, is the motto announced in big black letters at the top of the circular. The document says that the infection of yellow fever is carried by mosquitoes, and by no other means is the infection spread. The necessity of drainage and screening is dwelt upon with much emphasis. The postoffice department is sending 15,000 copies of the circular to postoffices of seven southern states.

Missouri Authorities Act

St. Louis, Aug. 4.—The Missouri state board of health has declared a rigid quarantine against all places infected by yellow fever. All passengers in transit from infected places will be detained at point of detention for five days.

Shotgun Quarantines In Texas

Houston, Tex., Aug. 4.—Since the report of a suspicious case of fever at Texarkana, Ark., a sort of panic has seized some of the towns and counties in northwest Texas and shotgun quarantines are being put into effect.

Strike Settled by Citizens

Bay City, Mich., Aug. 4.—The street railway strike here was settled through the efforts of a citizens' committee.

MISTAKE IN SIGNALS

Possible Cause of Collision In Which Many Were Hurt

Attleboro, Mass., Aug. 4.—Twelve persons were severely and several others slightly injured in a head-on collision between two trolley cars on the Interstate Consolidated street railway late yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred just north of a switch and on a blind curve, about four miles south of North Attleboro, and is said to have been caused by a mistake in signals.

A north-bound open car from Providence, heavily loaded, came up to the switch about 6 oclock and, instead of stopping, kept on, and was rounding the curve just beyond at a good rate of speed when a south-bound car, on which there were comparatively few passengers, suddenly appeared right ahead. Neither motormen had time to more than shut off the power when the collision occurred. The north-bound car was badly smashed, but the south-bound was not damaged to any great extent, and no one on that car was injured.

Nearly all the severely injured were sitting near the front of the Providence car and several were hurled to the ground. Others were caught between the seats, while a few were cut by flying pieces of wood. Dr. McCoy of North Attleboro was on board and he rendered considerable aid to the wounded until the arrival of other physicians.

The company dispatched other cars to the scene and within an hour the injured had been taken to North Attleboro for treatment. It is not thought that any of the injured will die.

Private Shot by Corporal

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 4.—Private Michael J. McManus of troop H. Fifteenth cavalry, was shot and probably fatally injured last night at Fort Ethan Allen by Corporal William Mead, the non-commissioned officer in charge of the quarters where the shooting occurred. McManus had been drinking and was very noisy. Mead tried to quiet him, but McManus drew his sword and attacked the officer. Soldiers dragged McManus out of the quarters, but he again rushed at Mead, who drew his revolver and fired.

To Test New Scale

Clinton, Mass., Aug. 4.—The 150 weavers at the Lancaster mills who went on strike a week ago because the management would not pay 55 cents a cut for weaving fancy shirtings, have voted to return to work next Monday for 45 cents, in order to determine if they can earn as much at that wage on shirtings as they could on ordinary ginghams. If, at the end of two weeks, they find it impossible to do so, the management agrees to make a satisfactory agreement with them.

Insurance Rates Unchanged

Boston, Aug. 4.—The attempt to increase the insurance rates in the Catholic Order of Foresters at the convention of the international body in this city failed after a long discussion, 112 delegates voting in favor and 97 against a change, not the necessary two-thirds, as required by the constitution. Subsequently it was voted to refer the matter back to the state and provincial jurisdictions.

Exodus of Cape Codders

Boston, Aug. 4.—Preliminary census figures from 185 small towns out of 320 in Massachusetts show a gain of 5125, or a little more than 2 percent. Of the towns so tabulated, an increase in the population was found in 89, and a decrease in 96, as compared with 1895. There has apparently been a steady exodus from nearly all of the towns on Cape Cod for a period of 50 years.

Old Governor Is Sick

Gardiner, Me., Aug. 4.—General J. G. Richards, assistant inspector general of the National Home for Disabled Soldiers, with headquarters in New York, will take temporary charge of the Togus Military home, relieving Colonel S. H. Allen, the present governor of the home, who is confined to his bed with ailments incident to old age.

Death From Auto Accident

Somerville, Mass., Aug. 4.—Rhodes G. Lockwood died at the hospital last night from internal injuries received by being thrown from his automobile by the breaking of the front axle of the machine. Lockwood was president of the Davidson Rubber company and lived at Boston. He was 45 years old.

Miss Tucker May Have Perished

Rochester, N. H., Aug. 4.—The search for Miss Mary A. Tucker, the missing Providence schoolteacher, continues with unabated zeal, but although the searchers succeeded in tracing here to Lebanon, Me., where she was seen last Saturday, it is now feared that the missing woman has perished.

Outsider Takes $1000 Purse

Providence, Aug. 4.—The honor of making the feature event at Narragansett park, the Pier stakes, with a purse of $1000, fell to the only outsider to win during the day, Diamond Flush, a 5 to 1 chance, who out-gamed Toscan on the drive to the wire and won by merely a neck.

Schooner on an Island

Woods Hole, Mass., Aug. 4.—Mackerel fishermen report that a large three-masted schooner went ashore in Lackey's bay, Naushon island, just at dark last night. The name of the vessel was not learned. She is painted white and loaded with lumber.

Fractured Skull Caused Death

Westfield, Mass., Aug. 4.—John S. Brennan, aged 50, died last evening as the result of a fractured skull received in a fall from the piazza roof of a local hotel last Wednesday night. Brennan was a peddler.

FOR HOT NIGHTS.

The Iron or Brass Bed adds much to the comfort of sleeping on hot nights. Compare if you will the high posted wooden bedstead solid in construction and shutting out all chance of ventilation, with the open construction of our sanitary metal beds. With the latter you have a free circulation of air which is productive of rest and sleep. Fitted with an iron frame spring and one of our comfort mattresses you have the ideal bed to sleep in—not costly either.

Full size Iron Beds, $1.98 to $15.00. Brass Beds, from $15.00 to $40.00. All Iron Spring Beds, $3.00 to $5.00. Comfort Mattresses, from $3.00 to $7.50—more costly ones of course, if you so desire.

Made Business of Bigamy

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 4.—Two letters and a photograph received from Fort Worth, Tex., indicate that the body of an Englishman which has lain unidentified in a receiving vault in this city for nine months is that of a man who claimed to be "Lord Douglas," but who was in fact known to the police of Fort Worth as a bigamist. The letters contain evidence that Douglas was married to at least four women. All of the women claim, according to the letters, to have been deserted shortly after marriage.

Status of Telegraphers' Strike

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—The second day of the telegraphers' strike on the lines of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railways ended with the railroad officials asserting that the strike had already been broken and the officers of the Telegraphers' union declaring that the strike had only begun. Both sides profess satisfaction with the situation.

A Deliberate Suicide

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 4.—A man apparently about 37 years old, identity at present unknown, threw himself in front of an electric car at Lake View late last night and was terribly mangled, expiring on the way to a hospital. He was dressed in a new suit of clothes, with no money or papers.

A Prediction of Failure

St. Petersburg, Aug. 4.—The press generally continues to avoid trenching of the ground to be covered in the peace negotiations, though The Sviet, which neither hopes nor wishes for peace, predicts that the pour parlers will result in nothing but empty and idle talk.

Murderer Killed by Posse

Lewisville, Ark., Aug. 4.—After killing two persons, probably fatally shooting two others and less seriously shooting two more, Isaac Kinney, a desperate negro, was killed in a river bottom at Doella after a hot fight with a posse of citizens.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Blanchard J. McGhee, president and manager of the Columbus Paper company, committed suicide by shooting at his home at Columbus, Ga.

Thomas J. North, 28 years old, was drowned while boating at North Smithfield, R. I. It is thought he was seized with cramps or heart failure.

At the meeting of the Portland (Me.) Board of Trade a resolution was adopted suggesting to the city government that the British squadron bound for this side in command of the Prince of Battenburg be invited to Portland harbor.

A rumor to the effect that King Victor Emmanuel has met with an automobile accident is denied at Rome.

E. H. Conger, the American ambassador, has left Mexico for the United States. He will go directly to Washington, where he may discuss the Chinese boycott question.

The National Lead company filed a certificate in the office of the secretary of state of New Jersey increasing its capital stock from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000.

NEW TENT FASTENER.

An Effective Anchor Against Wind and Other Forces.

Campers are liable to experience considerable difficulty in anchoring the side walls of a tent against displacement by wind or other forces. The usual rope loops fastened to the canvas are apt to tear out, and a makeshift arrangement is often used for anchoring the tent by driving the peg through the canvas, with the result that the rent is made larger and the material becomes badly torn.

To obviate these difficulties in a simple manner Mr. John Blair, Jr., of Rock Springs, Wyo., has invented the improved tent fastener illustrated herewith.

It consists of a metal link, A, which is suspended from a loop of leather, C. The loop may be sewed to the bottom of the tent wall, or the canvas may be inserted between the two leaves of the loop, and these leaves then fastened togther with rivets, as shown in the drawing. The loop is kept tight upon the link by an eyelet, D, which prevents the parts from becoming separated and mislaid when the fastener is not attached to the tent. The lower bar of the link is preferably formed with a blade or knife edge, B, adapted to sink into the peg, as shown in Fig. 3, and thus prevents the fastener from slipping off.

The anchor pegs are preferably driven in at an angle, and are provided with a slight notch to receive the blade. The pegs usually furnished with tents are of substantially rectangular cross section, as illustrated, but when these are lost rough cut pegs are often employed, and in order to adapt the links to their use the side bars of the links are bowed out, as shown in Fig. 2.—Scientific American.

Noiseless Street Car Roadbed.

J. H. Heverling of St. Louis has perfected a system of building roadbeds that is said to be far ahead of any present method. Mr. Heverling's idea is to do away entirely with wooden ties. He would have the rails, which would all be grooved rails on city lines, rest upon I beams of the same width as the bottom of the rails. The rail and I beam would be riveted together. From rail to rail, four feet apart, bars would help maintain the rigidity of the construction. The chief element of rigidity is the concrete bed in which the rails are laid. The concrete lies in a trench fourteen inches deep about the rails and six inches deep between the rails. The inventor believes that he can build an absolutely rigid, noiseless and frost proof roadbed by this method.

Bugs Cost $298,000,000.

Statisticians of the department of agriculture announce that the chinch bug annually destroys crops valued at $60,000,000; that the grasshopper eats up $50,000,000 worth, the Hessian fly $40,000,000, the corn root worm, the corn ear worm, the cotton boll weevil and the codling moth of apple each $20,000,000; the army worm $15,000,000, the cotton boll worm $12,000,000, the grain weevil and San Jose scale $10,000,000 each, the cotton leaf worm and the potato bug $8,000,000 each and the cabbage worm $5,000,000. This makes a total of $298,000,000 worth of products that might have been expected to, but never do, get to market because of the ravages of these most numerous insects.

Mechanical Bottle Blowers.

That glass bottles will soon be made entirely by machinery is a foregone conclusion among the blowers, some of whom a few years ago predicted that the time would soon come when the machine would take their places. The machine problem was discussed at the recent glass blowers' convention. Already many glass workers are casting about for other occupations. There are several patents pending on machines now in use. It may be some time before machines come into universal use, but sooner or later they will surely take the place of man.

Electric Railway Trains.

A five car train with an electric motor car on each end was recently tested on the Long Island railroad. The motorman had absolutely no trouble with the train, and when the run, averaging fifty-seven miles an hour, had been made the officials said they were amply satisfied with the showing made. The opinion was expressed that the motorman would have no trouble in keeping up an average speed of forty-five miles an hour or better.

Mars Canals Photographed.

Professor Percival Lowell, director of the Lowell observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., announces that the canals of Mars have been photographed there for the first time. Several of them appear upon more than twenty negatives.

Miss Lizzie Newcomb is substituting at the National Granite Bank.

The Myers' residence on Franklin street has been connected by telephone.

Kenneth Lewis has retured from the Eliot Hospital to his home in Farrington street.

The street railway is breaking in a number of men for conductors and motormen.

A few Quincy people will enjoy the trolley ride from Quincy to Canton this afternoon.

Robert Mitchell and two children are making their home for the present on Winter street.

Frank Bishop and James Claflin of Wollaston are working at the Fore River shipyard.

George F. Hall, paying teller of the National Granite bank, was able to leave the Hospital this week and on Thursday went to the home of his parents in Nashua, N. H.

Worked Their Way.

Walter Thomas, son of George E. Thomas of Wollaston, with several college friends, is spending the summer in England. These enterprising young men, wishing to minimize their expenses, worked their passage across in a cattle steamer, thus also obtaining a return pass. This seems to be quite a popular method with young men who have gone abroad this summer.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued cases of Erico Brogioli, for assault with a dangerous weapon on Guiseppe Vanelli, and of Vanelli for threatening to assault Brogioli, were called and they were put under bonds of $300 each to keep the peace for four months.

$5000 MATCH RACE

Sweet Marie Carries Off Honors In Contest With Tiverton

Readville, Mass., Aug. 4.—In the fastest three heats trotted on any track in this country this season, Sweet Marie (2:04 3-4) won the $5000 match race from Tiverton (2:04½) at the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' association here.

Tiverton won the first heat by half a length in 2:05½, which was a new trotting record for the season. Sweet Marie took the second heat in an exciting finish, by a neck, in 2:04 3-4, equalling her own record and beating by 3-4 of a second Tiverton's record for the first heat. Sweet Marie then won the third heat in 2:06 3-4, taking the race.

William Garland of Los Angeles, owner of Sweet Marie, and A. B. Guathney of New York, owner of Tiverton, the two crack trotters of last year, two months ago matched their steeds for $5000. Both owners and trainers of the noted turf performers were sanguine that each had the better of the other. Garland engaged a special car and came east with a company of invited guests, while Guathney made the trip from New York accompanied by several hundred enthusiastic admirers of Tiverton. Several thousand spectators witnessed the race.

Thousands of Illegal Voters

Philadelphia, Aug. 4.—All city employes within the jurisdiction of Mayor Weaver have been ordered to at once make examination of the voting lists in their respective divisions and report all names that are illegally on the lists as qualified voters. The police are now making their second inspection of the lists. The police in their first canvass reported more than 31,000 names illegally on the list. This canvass was unsatisfactory to the mayor, and he ordered that another inspection be made.

Serious Charge Against a Negro

Baltimore, Aug. 4.—Bernard Scott, a negro, is held by the police on the charge of having attempted to cause the explosion of the boilers of the Jane Moseley, an excursion steamer. The Moseley had on board between 400 and 500 people when Engineer Jones discovered Scott in the act of removing a portion of the machinery. According to Jones the removal of one more screw would have caused the boilers to explode.

New Army Shooting Record

Chicago, Aug. 4.—All records for marksmanship in the United States army were broken at Fort Sheridan by Corporal Joseph C. Smith of company G, Twenty-Fifth infantry, Fort Reno, O. T. He made a score of 181 out of a possible 200 in slow fire shooting. In rapid fire shooting he made a score of 97 out of a possible 100.

William to Meet Edward

Berlin, Aug. 4.—No confirmation is obtainable of the report that a meeting has been arranged between Emperor William and King Edward, but the news is regarded by the press in general as probably true, as it is assumed that both rulers are anxious to assuage the embitterment between the two peoples.

Magoon's Yellow Fever Report

Washington, Aug. 4.—Governor Magoon's report on the yellow fever situation on the isthmus shows that during July there were 29 cases of fever. Since the present outbreak of fever on the isthmus, which occurred during the latter part of April, there have been 26 deaths resulting therefrom.

A Haven For Refugees

Knoxville, Aug. 4.—By official action of the city board of health, Knoxville has declared itself open to the world and invited all fever refugees, whether suspects or not, to come within its gates. It has been proven in years gone by that yellow fever cannot propagate in this altitude.

Root to View Sun's Eclipse

North Sydney, Aug. 4.—Secretary of State Root arrived here last evening and left within an hour for Newfoundland on the steamer Bruce. Mr. Root was accompanied by a friend, and the two will, after visiting Newfoundland, go to Labrador to see the total eclipse of the sun on Aug. 30.

To Be on Permanent Board

Washington, Aug. 4.—Victor H. Olmstead, who was appointed associate statistician of the department of agriculture to succeed Edwin S. Holmes, dismissed, will be made a member of the permanent estimating board. Olmstead is now serving on the temporary board.

Herrick Against Pool Selling

Columbus, O., Aug. 4.—Governor Herrick has come out flat-footed against pool selling on Ohio race tracks. "I will do all in my power," he said, "to see that the law against pool selling on the race tracks in Ohio is enforced. I am opposed to the practice."

Quadruple Drowning

Camden, N. J., Aug. 4.—Leon Richardson, Howell Richardson, Jennie Richardson and Helen Pallis were drowned in a lake at Glenloch. The children had gone boating and one of the party rocked the boat.

Charleston Adopts Quarantine

Charleston, Aug. 4.—The board of health has declared strict quarantine against New Orleans and all infected points. All shipping from the north and south will be rigidly inspected.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Saturday, Aug. 5.
Sun rises—4:41; sets—7.
Moon sets—9:50 p. m.
High water—2 a. m.; 2:30 p. m.
The weather will be generally fair in New England.

PREFER SEPARATE STATE.

Indians Want Their Territory Admitted Independent of Oklahoma.

Advocates of separate statehood or the admission of Oklahoma and Indian territories into the Union as separate political divisions apparently have concentrated their efforts upon making a success of the constitutional convention to be called in Muskegee Aug. 21, says the Chicago Chronicle.

Separate statehood has lost the majority of its adherents since the unanimous action of the Oklahoma City convention and the aim of those who formerly favored it now seems to be to frame a constitution for Indian Territory and "let Oklahoma come in under it if she wants to."

Chief Porter of the Creeks, in speaking of the position of the Indians in statehood matters, said:

"We prefer a separate state from Oklahoma. I am satisfied that 90 per cent of the people of Indian Territory feel the same way. Whether we get separate statehood or not, this constitution will be a good thing. If we are forced to joint statehood with Oklahoma we will form a constitution and let Oklahoma come in under it."

Indian pride and a desire among the prominent members of the five civilized tribes to refute the belief that the Indians are in reality opposed to any sort of statehood are believed to be responsible for the great interest displayed in the coming constitutional convention.

The framing of a comprehensive constitution for presentation to congress by a gathering in which the Indians will take part, it is believed, will tend to change the opinion at Washington that the Indians are not yet ready for statehood and are not in a sufficiently civilized condition to be sent into the world without the shelter of the government wing. Chief Porter has voiced this sentiment, as have all the other chiefs of the Indian tribes.

BUMPS TO CHECK AUTOS.

Chicago Suburb's Novel Scheme to Make Chauffeurs Obey the Law.

The problem of regulating the speed of automobiles has been solved by Glencoe, a suburb of Chicago. It is simple. Just make the fast going machines "bump the bumps," and there you are, says a Chicago dispatch.

Glencoe does not put it in any such crude way. It is simply going to "improve" Sheridan road, but this "improvement" is to consist of a six inch bump at every crossing, and the motorist who attempts to "take the jumps" at high speed will be punished, the Glencoe village board believes, more than by any fine which could be imposed.

Work on the bumps was begun a few days ago. They will be made of brick and will be six inches high at the highest point. On each side will be a sharp slope that will make it easy for the cars to get over, provided they are running at a moderate speed, but which will have a tendency to shoot the occupants some feet into the air if taken at high speed.

FUND TO FEED TRAMPS.

Square Meal and a Hot Bath Free In Kalamazoo, Mich.

The will of Mrs. Almira Kramer of Kalamazoo, Mich., was read recently in the presence of the heirs, who were astonished by a trust fund of $10,000 to be used to feed tramps, says a Kalamazoo dispatch.

Senator Burrows, who is named as trustee, will have direct charge of the money. All applications must be made by tramps at the police department, where each tramp will be presented with a ticket entitling him to a square meal at a restaurant. If the tramp wishes he may have a hot bath.

Senator Burrows drew up the will for the woman, who was eighty-nine years of age when she died. The heirs will not contest, as the residue of the property amounts to $105,000.

The Growth of English.

The English language is growing. The Egypt correspondent of the Osage (Mo.) News writes: "Jeff Smith isn't exactly on the sick list, but he's punying some."

The Kaiser and the Czar.

What matters if all Russia's ships repose beneath the sea
Or if her army flees before the jovial Japanee?
The double headed eagle soon will chortle
"Victory!"
For the czar is getting pointers from the kaiser.

What though the revolutionists most foully revolute
And clamor round the palace doors for more grand dukes to shoot?
They soon will be quite pacified and clapped in jail to boot,
For the czar is getting lessons from the kaiser.

Her seamen may rise up and shoot their officers and skip
Across the rocking ocean with a beetling battleship,
But they will all throw up their hands and not so much as yip
When the czar imbibes the methods of the kaiser.

Although the throne is balanced on a very slender thread
And threatens to tip off the czar and land him on his head,
He'll keep his seat if he digests the wisdom he is fed
From the large and lasting larder of the kaiser.

He'll be advised to keep right on and fight the Japanee
And build more ships in place of those that sank beneath the sea
And rule his restless subjects with a hard severity,
Which but follows the example of the kaiser.

And when he's taken this advice and by his wise commands
Upon a hard and barren rock his much loved country lands,
He'll find a friend in readiness to take it off his hands,
A well disposed, unselfish friend—the kaiser.

—James Montague in New York Journal.

George Lyon, Canada's Golf Champion, Again to Invade United States---Gossip.

George S. Lyon, the champion golfer of Canada, was successful in one invasion of America, that of a year ago at St. Louis, and he will soon try his luck against our stars once more. He is now completing arrangements for his trip.

Mr. Lyon, who was defeated in the last British-American golf championship, was born at Richmond, Carleton county, Canada, in 1858, and is therefore forty-six years of age.

Mr. Lyon did not start playing golf until late in life, but took to the game quickly, having been always associated with athletics of some kind or other.

He has thrice won the golf championship of Canada—namely, in 1898, 1900 and 1903—and also won the Olympic golf championship at St. Louis last September, defeating the American national amateur champion, H. Chandler Egan, in the final of a thirty-six hole match by 3 up and 2 to play.

Mr. Lyon is also a well known cricketer, having played a number of years in the international match between Canada and the United States. He has several centuries to his credit and also holds the Canadian record for highest score ever compiled in Canada—namely, 238, not out. On the occasion of Lord Hawkes' last visit to Canada Mr. Lyon had the honor of captaining the Canadian team that opposed the titled Englishman's accompanying players.

The question of the economical side of automobiling was discussed recently when some of the prominent manufacturers met in Boston. In the gathering was Colonel A. L. Pope, who said:

"The general public now appreciates the fact that the automobile can go long distances at a rate of speed from one to sixty miles an hour, while it can be kept in good condition by any average man who will give it a little study. Now comes the matter of economy, which will further develop the automobile to a point where it will carry four or five people over a stated distance at a much cheaper rate per mile than is charged by the railroad.

"At the present time this rate per mile, as might be expected, is, generally speaking, more than the railroad charges, but the time is coming when motors will be operated with such a small amount of gasoline, lubricating oil and such light wear on the tires and machinery that great mileage will be covered at a comparatively small figure.

"These results will be obtained by lighter weight machines equipped with easy running motors, using carbureators that reduce the quantity of gasoline to the minimum. Even now a big touring car will carry six passengers over 150 miles of good road in a day at a cost, including gasoline, lubricating oil and wear and tear on the tires and machinery, which, all told, will amount to less than the charge of a railroad to carry those six people the same distance, figuring the mileage at about 2 cents a mile."

Undoubtedly there were many persons who had heard statements along the same line before, but who were skeptical as to the truth of them. A few days later positive proof of Colonel Pope's statements was brought about by the Long Island (N. Y.) Auto club. This organization promoted what it termed an economy test among its members over the roads of Long Island.

The tour covered was about 180 miles. The fare on the railroad amounted to $4.53. One of the members of the club driving a car of ten horsepower carried three passengers, and the total expenses of the trip was $3.23, or an average of 81 cents for each passenger. Not one of the dozen cars that made the trip averaged its expenses at more than $4 for the entire party.

The English pugilist, Jabez White, whose colors were lowered by Jimmy Britt, expects to return to America in the fall to meet the winner of the Britt-Nelson fight. If he does, he will be received with open arms, for he is not only one of the most modest and agreeable fighters John Bull ever has sent us, but he is a first class man in the ring, and no one but a champion can take his measure.

If England can send over a few more fighters like White and Moran, the international fighting game will experience a decided boom.

JOHN MARTIN.

A SUBURBAN COTTAGE.

Model Home With Many Conveniences at a Cost of $1,000.

[Copyright, 1905, by Stanley A. Dennis, 234 Broadway, New York.]

For the benefit of such of our readers as may desire a home combining attractivenegs and convenience with cheapness Mr. Dennis has designed a neat little seven room residence, the cost of which should not exceed $1,000 where prices of labor and material are reasonable.

There is a cellar under the entire house, with walls of stone. The cellar floor is concreted. The frame of the house is of hemlock lumber and is sheathed with rough yellow pine sheathing boards, covered with two ply sheathing paper and narrow cypress beveled siding.

The piazza columns, rails, brackets and ceiling are of cypress lumber and are filled and varnished. The front door is of oak finished natural, with bevel plate glass. The main roof is covered with cypress shingles given one coat of dark green shingle stain.

The windows are fitted with outside blinds of pine, with rolling slats, and are hung with wrought angle blind hinges and spring hooks. Other exterior finishing not here mentioned is of white pine lumber and moldings. The exterior woodwork should be given two coats of white lead and linseed oil paints of such colors as the owner may prefer.

The floors throughout are of yellow pine tongued and grooved. The walls have a heavy coat of patent plaster, finished up smooth with trowel for tinting, which is done with two coats of cold water paints.

The interior is finished in stained whitewood on the first floor and painted on the second floor. The stairs are of ash, finished in natural wood.

The hardware is of black japan of ornamental design. The locks are brass faced, with black porcelain knobs and steel keys. The parlor and dining room mantels are of plain oak, with bevel plate mirrors, tile facings and black summer pieces.

The Seventeenth Century House.

In the seventeenth century it was thought injurious to sleep in rooms facing the sun, so most of the original rooms faced north and east, opening off a passage or else out of each other. The arrangement has been very clearly described by Mr. Baring Gould: "At the head of the stairs slept the master and his wife, and all the rooms tenanted by the rest of the household were accessible only through that. The daughters of the house and maidservants lay in rooms on one side, say the right, with the maids in those most distant; those of the men lay on the left, the sons of the house nearest the chamber of the master and the serving men farthest off." According to our present ideas, the arrangement scarcely seems to be the most desirable one possible, but one has at least to understand it in order to comprehend the task set before the builder.—Country Life In America.

Vine Covered Buildings.

If, as some say, ninety-nine out of a hundred American buildings are commonplace or ugly it is a good thing to cover the walls completely, but when we have a piece of architecture that is a joy to everybody, something in which we can really take pride, vines should never be allowed to cover it entirely, says the Garden Magazine. In such a case the beauty of the vine is its aspiration, its incompleteness. This is particularly true of a beautiful church, and the right relation of architecture and foliage is well understood in England, but not in this country except in Boston and a few other communities.

The Social Realm.

I love thee, thou brown, homely, dear old Earth!
Teach me thy wisdom; let me learn the flowers,
And know the rocks and trees.
And touch the springs of all the hidden powers
Let the still gloom of thy rock-fastnesses
Fall deep upon my spirit, till the voice
Of brooks become familiar, and my heart rejoice
With joy of birds and winds, and all the hours,
Unmaddened by the babble of vain men,
Bring thy inmost converse to my ken.

MOVING UP.

Quincy Passes North Adams in Population.

Expects Also to Pass Gloucester.

Everett and Waltham Our Closest Rivals.

According to the new census, Pittsfield has gained 3234 in population during the last five years, while North Adams has fallen off 2000. These Berkshire rivals will now hate each other worse than ever.—Transcript.

By the census of 1900 North Adams led Quincy by 301, while Pittsfield was 2,133 behind. The new census places Quincy ahead of both.

By the census of 1900 Quincy, Everett, North Adams and Waltham were keeping pretty close company, as will be seen by these figures:

| | 1895 | 1900 |
|---|---|---|
| Chelsea, | 31,264 | 34,072 |
| Malden, | 29,708 | 33,664 |
| Newton, | 27,590 | 33,587 |
| Taunton, | 27,115 | 31,036 |
| Gloucester, | 28,211 | 26,121 |
| Everett, | 18,573 | 24,336 |
| North Adams, | 19,135 | 24,200 |
| Quincy, | 20,712 | 23,899 |
| Waltham, | 20,876 | 23,581 |
| Pittsfield, | 20,461 | 21,461 |

Quincy has given all the above cities a good hustle during the past five years but will reserve further comments until the figures for 1905 are announced.

The census figures of North Adams and Pittsfield are:

| | North Adams | Pittsfield |
|---|---|---|
| 1885 | 12,540 | 14,466 |
| 1890 | 16,074 | 17,281 |
| 1895 | 19,135 | 20,461 |
| 1900 | 24,200 | 21,766 |
| 1905 | 22,125 | 25,000 |

SIGHT RECOVERED.

Cataract Removed from Eye of John M. Wight.

Mr. John M. Wight, an aged resident of Quincy Point, who has been blind for several weeks, underwent an operation for cataract July 22. Dr. Edward Thorp, oculist of Boston, assisted by W. J. Middleton, M. D., of this place performed the operation which has proven entirely successful.

Dr. Thorp has practiced in this country and abroad, and is one of the most successful oculists in the metropolis.

Mrs. Hatch, district nurse received her first call on this case, remaining during the operation. She was succeeded by Miss Johnson of Dorchester, graduate of the South Framingham training school for nurses.

Mr. Wight is eighty-four years old and the recovery of his sight seems quite remarkable.

Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus Kennedy celebrated their second wedding anniversary last evening by entertaining a number of their friends.

The affair was held at the residence of Mrs. E. N. Hultman of 219 Washington street, who kindly opened her home for the occasion. Many gifts largely of a paper nature were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy and the evening was one of universal enjoyment.

One of the pleasing incidents of the evening was when one of the gentlemen drew a Daily Ledger from his pocket and apparently read from it a number of items referring to the host and hostess. A round of laughter followed the reading of each item.

There were games, music and refreshments during the evening and the bridal party were showered with confetti by the guests when they took their departure.

Salvucci—Baldassini.

There was a pretty home wedding at the residence of Serafino Salvucci, No. 72 West street, West Quincy, this morning, when his brother, Donato Salvucci and Miss Domenica Baldassini were united in the bonds of wedlock by William M. Marden, Esq. There was a number of the relatives of the groom and bride present to extend congratulations to the happy couple. There was a reception to their friends after the ceremony. The newly wedded couple will reside at No. 72 West street.

Best Score by Fifth Regiment.

The Fifth regiment has improved since Co. K of Braintree disbanded. It took first place this week in the rifle competition at the Bay State range, being one point ahead of the Second infantry. The squad of the Fifth scored 1,191 points.

Holbrook Gaining.

The census returns give Holbrook a population of 2509, a gain of 211 or over nine per cent. in ten years.

—Pickpockets reaped a harvest at the recent Firemen's muster in Pittsfield, and many people suffered. The largest amount reported stolen was $42 from a fireman, and many sums from $4 up were taken from other individuals.

—The new central office of the Lynn fire alarm system is now complete and is said to be one of the finest in the world. It is a Gamewell.

WU'S HAND SHOWN

He Is Interested In Fomenting Commercial Discord

EXCLUSION OF CHINESE

Former Minister to Washington Will Direct Negotiations--The Situation Causing the Administration Some Real Concern

Washington, Aug. 5.—Authentic information has come to the administration that Wu Ting Fang, the former Chinese minister to this country, has been put in sole charge of the negotiations looking to the renewal of the exclusion treaty between this country and China. His authority is reported to be direct from the throne, and in the treaty negotiations he is for the time being the superior of Sir Chentung Liang Cheng, the present Chinese minister.

It has been previously intimated in dispatches from the east that Wu Ting Fang was behind the present boycott movement, and was interested in fomenting a commercial discord that would redound to the benefit of China when a new treaty was signed. His ruse, if such it be, is apparently in a fair way to succeed.

The present situation is undoubtedly causing the administration some active concern. Reliable reports have reached here from China that the movement against Americans is spreading, and that an ugly rancor against Americans personally is being brought into existence through the distribution of inflammatory placards and handbills, in the vicinity of Canton, picturing Chinamen being pursued and maltreated by mobs of Americans.

These reports are borne out by the dispatches the other day telling how an attache at one of our consulates had been molested on the streets by a lot of coolies. It is realized that if this feeling grows and is allowed to spread unchecked a smouldering race hatred may be fanned into a flame and serious consequences follow. Officers of the government, charged with the duty, are extremely desirous of preventing any overt act that might bring on serious diplomatic trouble and perhaps bloodshed.

The indignities to which some educated Chinamen have been subjected in crossing our borders have been widely exaggerated in China, and the stories used to inflame the minds of the lower classes of the people.

The active and important part that Wu is playing in the present situation has been received with much interest. If the administration knows just how far the present movement has gone, how rapidly it is spreading, and how far Wu is prepared to go to accomplish his ends, the information is withheld. The former minister is a clever diplomat and knows this country better, perhaps, than any of his countrymen. Since reports have reached here that he was directing the treaty negotiations each development in the boycott situation has been scrutinized with the keenest interest.

Gardner Wins Rough Fight

Colma, Cal., Aug. 5.—The scheduled 25-round contest between Jimmie Gardner and Rufe Turner was won by Gardner last night in the first of the 11th round, when he knocked Turner out with a terrific right to the body. Turner showed to the better advantage in the first two rounds only. After that the fight was all Gardner's. There was much roughing all through the 10 rounds.

Crazed by Husband's Murder

Bishop, Pa., Aug. 5.—The dead body of Joseph Barr was found here last night with the skull crushed. The authorities have no clue to the murderer Mrs. Barr went to the house of a neighbor, leaving her husband ill in bed and her four children playing around the house. When she returned she found her murdered husband, and is now raving crazy.

A Shift to Wisconsin

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Steamer City of Traverse, the "floating poolroom," last night cleared for Kenosha, Wis. It is the opinion of the police that no further effort will be made to use Chicago as a base for the operations of the boat and that she will hereafter leave the Wisconsin port to receive wireless messages on racing results.

Fernandez Jailed Without Bail

Havana, Aug. 5.—Lieutenant Mayor Fernandez of Vueltas has been indicted in connection with the burning of the municipal building in that city July 22. He was placed in jail without bail. Fernandez had already been charged with resisting the government's investigation of municipal affairs.

Train's Run of Death

Huntington, W. Va., Aug. 5.—A Guyandotte Valley passenger train struck and killed Frank Adkins shortly after it left Logan. John Ashan was struck and killed by the train as it reached Barboursville. While the locomotive was going to the roundhouse here George Zirkle was struck and killed.

Two Negroes Lynched

Hattiesburg, Miss., Aug. 5.—Edward Lewis and Kid George, negroes, were lynched here last night by a mob. The men were charged with being accessories to the murder of a convict guard yesterday.

Lauds Vaudeville.

Henry Miller Says Light Entertainment Has Greatly Advanced.

By HENRY MILLER.

Within the last decade vast changes have been wrought in almost every walk of endeavor. Through the ingenuity of inventors the methods of manufacturing have undergone great improvements, business ideas have changed and the conditions of everything in general are for the betterment of mankind.

Theatricals have kept pace with the tendency toward advancement. I speak in particular of vaudeville, with which class of entertainment I have frequently been connected. The change has been nothing short of marvelous.

It does not require a stretch of memory to recall the days when vaudeville was something entirely different from what it is today. Years ago it was devoted exclusively to men and women who had never been connected with the drama or knew anything of its rudiments. But within a very few years the conditions changed. Today many actors who won prominence in the drama are headliners on the vaudeville circuit, and, what is more, their efforts have in many cases been successful. And if they have not succeeded it is because they didn't deserve to.

Some who have failed have argued that their work was over the heads of the audiences.

I think this is a mistake, as I find vaudeville patrons quite as intelligent as those seen in houses where the legitimate drama is presented.

I think I can speak advisedly on this point. I have widely used in vaudeville Clyde Fitch's one act comedy "Frederick Lemaitre," which I used as a curtain raiser on a certain occasion when starring, and it is just as much appreciated by my present audiences as by those in the combination theaters.

Vaudeville audiences want to be amused, and they like to be amused artistically.

The slapstick and rough comedy are gradually disappearing, and there seems to be a tendency to lift all kinds of acts to a higher plane. I have yet to find a dramatic actor who has gone into vaudeville with the proper vehicle express a regret for doing so.

The patrons of this class of entertainment are growing more critical each season, and a star who has won fame in the legitimate ranks and enters vaudeville thinking that his reputation alone will pull him through will make the saddest mistake of his life.

In the course of a little heart to heart talk with his audience at Keith's theater, New York, recently Edwin Stevens told his hearers the troubles of a monologist and how he first invaded vaudeville. It was sundry seasons ago—Mr. Stevens does not mention how many, although he is in no immediate danger of "Oslerization"—and the place was San Francisco, where he had been successful as a club and society entertainer. Accordingly he made up his mind to tackle vaudeville and for the first round selected Manager Meyer Felt, founder of the Orpheum circuit. The manager had a gruff manner and a German accent and was, moreover, very busy. Turning on Mr. Stevens brusquely, he exclaimed:

"Vell, vat do you vant?"

"I would like to go into vaudeville," responded the candidate meekly.

"Vat do you do—vat iss your line?"

"I am a comedian," was the modest but very general answer.

"A komiker, hein?" And the manager faced him sternly. "Vell, make me laugh."

Doc Tanner Likes Equity, 2:12 1-4.

It is easy to gather from Doc Tanner's talk that of all the horses in the great Billings stable he likes Equity, 2:12¼, the best, because of his great quality and speed. In talking about him recently he said he was the best all round horse in the world—so agreeable, so kind, always ready to do what he was asked, and even anticipating your wishes. It has long been Tanner's idea that Equity ought to be raced regularly. Several times since he has been in Tanner's charge he has been capable of miles to wagon in from 2:04 to 2:06.

THE PEACE COMMISSION'S PERSONNEL

Notable Characteristics and Achievements of the Participants In a Momentous Conference.

All Are Diplomats of the Most Persuasive Order and Renowned Statesmen of Long Standing.

Portsmouth, New Hampshire's Aristocratic City by the Sea, Where Meetings of the Commission Will Be Held, Is Noted For Historic Associations.

THE meeting of a peace commission on American soil is a new thing. It bears out what the Brazilian ambassador said the other day—that the United States is growing taller among the nations every year. Aside from the humanitarian interest involved, the fact that Russia and Japan are to settle their differences here and that they meet to do so at the initiative of the American president is a distinct feather in our diplomatic cap. Perhaps it is not quite becoming to boast of a thing like that, but we Americans have such a habit of patting ourselves on the backs that no especial resentment can be felt at our doing so in this instance.

Treaty of Washington.

The peace treaty, if the negotiations reach a successful conclusion, will be known officially as the treaty of Washington, as it will be signed in the capital of the nation. As a matter of fact, it should be called the Portsmouth treaty, for in the historical New Hampshire town by the sea will all the meetings of the commission be held. Here is located the government navy yard, from which many of the old time fighting vessels were launched. Near here also are many summer resort hotels and an Atlantic cable station, besides other conveniences. In one of the hotels, the commodious Wentworth, the peace envoys and their suits will be quartered. They will be the guests of Judge Calvin Page of Portsmouth, who will have the privilege of paying all bills for their entertainment. The meetings will be held in the new equipment building at the Portsmouth navy yard, which is situated on an island in the mouth of the Piscataqua river, which stream forms the boundary line between New Hampshire and Maine. The second floor of this building has a large room for bookkeepers, with antechambers attached, and in this room the commission is to sit. To insure its privacy a detachment of United States marines will be placed on guard, and no one not entitled to do so will be permitted to land on the island. The peace envoys and their attendants will travel from the hotel to the island on the president's yacht, the Mayflower, assigned to their use. If a bunch of peace commissioners, lodged in a commodious hotel like the Wentworth, with some one else paying the freight, given a pleasant ocean trip each day, meeting on an island fronting the beautiful and aristocratic city of Portsmouth, with the odorous pines of Maine and New Hampshire surrounding them and cooled by the mild summer climate of the north Atlantic shore—if a commission so circumstanced cannot get together and reach an amicable understanding, then there is no hope for the final reign of peace on this troubled old earth.

Thomas Bailey Aldrich, in an inimitable description of Portsmouth, of its historic atmosphere and the spirit of the place, called it "Rivermouth." This, the only port of New Hampshire, has a natural harbor, a fine, quiet strip of water lying among the New Hampshire hills. It is a very old town. Here the colonial and early state governors used to live and here many of them are buried. It was here also that one of the governors, an irascible but popular old widower—popular for the large share of human nature that was in him—married one of the poor girls of the town who was serving as a maid in his household. Such a nine days' wonder and food for gossip was this escapade that it still juts out of the history of the town like a hill out of a plain. There are many Revolutionary houses yet standing in Portsmouth and many other fine old places built in the early days of the republic. Here Washington stopped, for was not his private secretary, Tobias Lear, a citizen of the town? Here also Daniel Webster lived during four years of his early life, and the Webster house is still pointed out as one of the landmarks of the city by the sea. It is even probable that the youth who was afterward to become the "godlike Daniel" dreamed of future greatness among these hills. It is not recorded that, like Demosthenes, he walked up and down the beach, rumbling orations with his mouth full of pebbles. Perhaps the Websterian voice did not need this sort of training. At any rate, the Yankee Demosthenes held very lively and affectionate memories of Portsmouth and the New Hampshire hills.

But it was not alone for historic associations that the peace commission was sent to Portsmouth. Washington, for the matter of that, has all the historic background needed as a setting for the affair; but, then, Washington also has a quality not so desirable—heat. The heat of the Capital City in August—but why add to the burdens of an already perspiring public by descriptions of this sort? Suffice it to say that Washington in dog days is much too hot for human beings, especially for human beings from as near the north pole as St. Petersburg, to endure.

The personnel of the commission is quite as interesting as its surroundings. De Witte, Rosen, Komura, Takahira! These are names with which to conjure in the respective realms of the czar and the mikado. They are all diplomats of the most persuasive order and statesmen of long standing, besides being counts, barons and what not.

Stickler For the Autocracy.

De Witte—Russians call it Day Vittay, by the way, and Englishmen call it most anything—is the best known on the list. There have been times that he was the most powerful man in Russia. But he opposed the grafting of the grand dukes and that precious cabal humiliated him. He also opposed the present war, a fact that makes him popular with the Japanese. De Witte has been known as a reformer and a liberal. But it must not be supposed from this that he is favorable to a democratic form of government. Quite the contrary. He is a stickler for the autocracy. But he does favor honesty and straightforward methods, and that is much, at least in Russia.

Serge Yulevitch de Witte is the son of a merchant of Dutch extraction living in the Caucasus. He was educated in a Russian university, graduating from the engineering course. He then got a position as an assistant station master on a private railway. When troops were being shipped to the front during the war with Turkey he was temporarily in charge of the station. Seeing that orders from headquarters meant fatal results, he disobeyed them and substituted a system that he had thought out for himself. Older men stood aghast, for they thought that the insubordination meant exile to Siberia. But the move succeeded, and instead it brought about the rapid promotion of the daring young rebel against the inefficient bureaucracy. In a few years De Witte was minister of railways, where he organized the roads as they had not been organized before and built thousands of miles of new lines. At a later stage, by the way, the Transsiberian railroad came into being through his powerful advocacy. Being promoted to finance minister, he instituted such vigorous reforms that he was soon placed at the head of the cabinet. Here he ruled with an audacity and a genius that had not been seen in Russia for years.

In manner this greatest of Russian statesmen is gruff almost to harshness. But he is frank and honest and so devoted to Russia that much is forgiven him. He is a large man, tall and muscular, with a fine, high forehead and a strong face. While a master of diplomatic intrigue, he frequently loses his temper, and his wrath explodes with a force to make weaker men quail before him.

Jutaro Komura, while not so well known as the head of the Russian commission, is himself a master of statecraft and will be able to hold up the Japanese end of the negotiations even against a De Witte. Baron Komura was educated at Harvard, graduating from the law course there in 1877. He afterward took a course in a New York law office, making a specialty of international law. He then returned to Japan, intending to enter the judiciary, but instead was switched to a diplomatic career. He held various minor positions and was secretary of legation at Peking just before the war with China. He was later minister to Korea, then assistant minister of foreign affairs and still later minister to the United States during the Spanish-American war. He next went as minister to St. Petersburg, from which post he was called home to become minister of foreign affairs in the Katsura cabinet. As such he handled all the difficult negotiations leading up to the war with Russia and was hailed as the man of the hour in Japan.

A Master of Statecraft.

Komura is a small, slight man, quiet, refined and polished and a master of the diplomatic game. He still holds the foreign affairs portfolio in the Japanese cabinet, and the fact that he was chosen as the plenipotentiary of his country to arrange the terms of peace shows the importance that his country places on these negotiations. It would not trust them in the hands of a lesser man.

The two other members of the commission are the Russian and Japanese ministers to the United States, Baron Roman Romanovitch Rosen, who recently succeeded Count Cassini as the czar's ambassador at Washington, and Mr. Kogoro Takahira, who succeeded Komura as the mikado's representative in the United States in 1900.

A Genial Baron Loved In Japan.

Baron Rosen is something of a jollier. He has held all sorts of offices in Russia, one of the most important having been that of state councilor. He belongs to the aristocracy, and his wife is the daughter of one of the provincial governors. Baron Rosen practically started his diplomatic career in Japan, having been an attache of the legation there in the early days. Though seemingly a sad eyed and pensive youth, he had been known as a high roller in St. Petersburg, and he lived up to that reputation in a quiet way at Tokyo. He was giving all sorts of social entertainments to the Japanese when other foreign diplomats held aloof. As a result he got on such good terms with the little brown officials that he wheedled them out of the island of Sakhalin. It is one of the ironies of fate that the baron will now be called upon to recede this island to the Japanese as one of the fruits of the present war. It is related of Rosen that he got on such good terms with the Japanese statesmen in those old days that he ordered a complete outfit from Paris for one of their wives. She, poor, innocent soul, not knowing how to don the costume, got the nether garments outside the dress, with an effect more sensational than conventional. It was Baron Rosen, by the way, who was minister at Tokyo before the outbreak of the war. Despite the loss of Sakhalin and the present unpleasantness, the genial baron is loved in Japan.

Kogoro Takahira is the only plain "mister" in the bunch. Even De Witte is a count. That is the way he got the "de" in his name. Takahira looks something like Rudyard Kipling—is a square, chunky sort of man, who is business from the word "go," who works and schemes much and talks little. He is a good listener, however. One of the American papers cartooned him as having a padlock on his mouth and both hands hollowed out behind his ears. Takahira, though so quiet, is a wit upon occasion. When asked why President Roosevelt had suddenly stopped taking jiu jitsu lessons, he said he did not know, but probably it was because Cassini, the Russian ambassador, regarded it as a breach of neutrality.

Negotiations In French.

In addition to these four interesting commissioners there will be a large number of attaches, secretaries, interpreters and other attendants. There is considerable red tape about a peace treaty, as in other affairs diplomatic, and it requires a large number of people to take care of it. All the commissioners except De Witte speak English like natives, but the peace negotiations will be carried on in French, of which all of them are masters.

It is a momentous conference, this one on our northeastern coast. It will rearrange the geography of the far east and settle the control of that section for generations to come.

"Well, all I've got to say is don't get fresh and mix in where you're not wanted, Peggie."

"But I want to," returned Peggie serenely. "She treats him terribly, this summer worse than all, and it's the third summer. If some one doesn't interfere it may go on forever. And he's a splendid boy."

"Better than me?"

"Well," said Peggie kindly, "every one is a type unto himself. I don't think your type clashes with Hadleigh's."

"You darling"—

"Not on the veranda, Billie."

"We're engaged."

"I don't care if we're engaged a hundred times; you can't grab me like that on a hotel veranda in broad daylight."

"There you go. You take up Hadleigh and his troubles and never consider for an instant the way you treat me. We've been engaged four years"—

"Not all the time. Six times separately."

"Well, you ought to be ashamed of yourself. You're as bad as Betty Wayne, and yet you turn around and sympathize with Hadleigh. Sympathize with me."

"I won't. And I'm not as bad as Betty. It's ever so much better being engaged six times separately to one than it is six times separately to six, isn't it?"

Billie took refuge in moody silence in the hammock. Through its meshes he could get a good view of the figure seated on the veranda railing. It was a lissome, girlish figure in pongee and turquoise blue, and he shut one eye contentedly to get the full effect of it against the background of blue sky and sea.

"Betty really thinks the world of him, only she doesn't know it," Peggie announced suddenly after some reflection. "And he considers her so perfectly hopeless that he doesn't dare do a thing but trot around after her like a pet mummy"—

"Mummies can't trot."

"Well, I don't care! He trots around as one would trot if it could trot. Billie Ballister, if you treated me like that I'd never marry you in this world."

"Do you think you ever will?"

"Some day," said Peggie hopefully. "All Hadleigh needs is appreciation. He's tagged around after Betty so long that no other girl will look at him."

"Don't appreciate too strenuously. Hadleigh might not see the point."

"Oh, no, he won't." Peggie's scorn rose superior to discretion. "If I treated you like a stray telegraph pole all the time or a C. O. D. express package to be held till called for, wouldn't you see the point if some other girl took you up and delicately and diplomatically intimated to you that you were altogether just right?"

"I wish I had the chance," said Billie gloomily. "What do I do while you're delicately and diplomatically intimating to Hadleigh?"

"Glower," retorted Peggie sweetly; "stalk and glower and look jealous. Then we'll make up and be engaged for the seventh time. Anyway, Hadleigh won't make love to me. I shall merely act as a diversion for the good of the cause."

It was three weeks later that the diversion ceased. It had been a most successful diversion. Even Billie in his desolation admitted that. So did Hadleigh. From being an engaged nonentity he suddenly became featured on the bill, as Peggie would say. There were handsomer girls at Pineta Point, but there was none quite so winsome and lovable and characteristic of the place as Peggie, and when she undertook the act of delicate and diplomatic intimation she did it thoroughly.

The first week Betty Wayne was amused. The second she flatly declined going in the same coaching party with the two. The third she sent Hadleigh back his ring. And Hadleigh accepted condolences gracefully and pensively and became the steady convoy of Peggie's pink parasol in its wanderings around Pineta Point.

Peggie was happy. Every night she assured Billie things were going splendidly. Hadleigh did take so easily to education. He did not flinch a particle when his ring came back. And Billie said nothing.

The day after the return of the ring the pink parasol took its way up on the bluff overlooking the bay.

"Let's sit here," its owner said to Hadleigh. "I like to watch the fort and the islands. There's Billie Ballister's yacht out there, the Peggie O."

"Named for you, isn't it?"

"It was—last summer."

Hadleigh laughed shortly.

"A new name every summer. It will be the Betty W. soon."

Peggie looked down at him with hurt, surprised eyes.

"Billie will never change the name of that boat," she said, with dignity.

"He painted it out yesterday," Hadleigh answered. "I thought you knew."

"Knew what?"

"Betty only broke her engagement with me for the sake of Ballister. She is out there with him now."

"Out there with Billie!" Peggie rose to her feet. She dared not look at Hadleigh. The pink parasol shielded her from his gaze as she looked out at the Peggie O. "I want to go back to the hotel."

"Peggie"—Hadleigh's voice was more desperate than tender—"I thought you and Ballister were engaged. Did you quarrel too?"

There was no answer.

"If those two come back and Betty wears his ring"— He stopped and moved the pink parasol screen aside. "Peggie, let's be first in this game of choosing partners. Let's"—

Peggie caught her breath and turned her back on the yacht.

"Hadleigh, don't you know I haven't cared for you one bit—not that way? I was sorry for you because Betty treated you like a pet mummy, and you hadn't the courage to rebel. I thought if some one else made the mummy show signs of life she would prize him, but she didn't."

Hadleigh watched the tears in the blue eyes, and the grace of understanding fell on him.

"It was Billie," he said.

Peggie smiled back at him bravely.

"It was all my fault. I interfered. I never thought Billie would mind, and I never dreamed you would be serious. There's only Betty really, isn't there?"

"Only Betty," said Hadleigh sadly.

"Then be a loyal mummy. It's something, you know, even to be loyal when no one cares whether you are or not."

A long whistle came up the bluff path. For a second Peggie hesitated, then she answered it, and the form of Billie appeared over a ledge of rock.

"Hello!" he called. "Betty Wayne wants you, Hadleigh. Rustic seat over near the spring. Said she'd wait three minutes and no longer. I've done the best I could for you."

When Hadleigh had disappeared, Peggie looked up at the figure on the ledge of rock.

"Did she really send?"

"No, she didn't," retorted Billie, happily, "but she'll be glad to see him, all the same. Peggie, for the seventh time"—

"Who's out in the yacht?" asked Peggie severely.

"Betty's brother and my little brother and your little brother. A bunch of angel kids, and they'll get a bully good ducking if they don't ease her up a bit. See her list?"

Peggie sighed as the figure from the rocks slipped down beside her.

"You dear," she said. "You're a loyal mummy, too."

Base of Mark Twain's Fortune.

Mark Twain said that in his earlier days he did not enjoy the exceptional prosperity which came later in his career. It is commonly the lot of genius to suffer neglect at first, and experience did not affect his abiding good nature. In a conversation with William Dean Howells on one occasion the subject of literature vicissitudes was broached by the humorist.

"My difficulties taught me some thrift," he observed, "but I never knew whether it was wiser to spend my last nickel for a cigar to smoke or for an apple to devour."

"I am astounded," observed Mr. Howells, "that a person of so little decision should meet with so much worldly success."

Mark Twain nodded very gravely.

"Indecision about spending money," he said, "is worthy of cultivation. When I couldn't decide what to buy with my last nickel I kept it and so became rich."—Success Magazine.

Result of Presentiment.

"Tony," said a moody British officer to his soldier servant, "something tells me that I shall never come back from this war alive. I seem to have a sort of presentiment that way."

"Then tak' no heed of it, sir," responded the servant. "Them theer presintiments is frauds. A cousin o' mine had one once, and it treated him real shabby. It was just like the one that's a-troublin' you now, sir. He felt sure that he'd be kilt out in Egypt, so he divided his savings between his sweetheart and his bosom chum and went out to be shot, but never a scratch did he get all the time, though he tried his level best to manage it."

"And what happened when he at length returned, Tony? Did those two give him back the money?"

"Not a farden, sir. They'd been and got spliced while he was away and they'd set up housekeepin' on it."—London Answers.

Something About Pie.

Usage alone must decide the issue between pie and tart. Philology, at any rate, draws no clear distinction. It only traces back "tart" to the Latin "tortus," twisted, the pastry being the twisted part, of course, while it is very doubtful about "pie." On the whole, Skeat's conjecture that this expresses the miscellaneous nature of the contents is persuasive. All the "pies" seem to go back to the original one, the magpie—in Latin "pica"—from whose black and white aspect come "pied" and "piebald." The old ordinal or service book was called "pica," or "pie," because of the appearance of the black letter type on the white page, and the edible pie, having equally mixed contents, may have been christened after this by mediaeval humor. Printers' language retains both "pica" for a kind of type and "pie" for type all jumbled up.—London Chronicle.

Speed of the Clouds.

The clouds, as a matter of fact, are noted by the weather bureau people chiefly because they show the direction and the velocity of the higher air currents of the atmosphere. They are like chips which show the flow and eddies of a stream. Their speed is almost inconceivable to us who have watched them floating apparently with scarcely any motion across the sky, seeming what an old weather prophet called them, "those most tranquil travelers, the clouds, whose very motion is rest." The fastest horse and automobile records and even steam engine speed are easily outdone by the quietly drifting masses of mist. A mile in thirty-six seconds is not at all an uncommon velocity for the upper clouds, and they have been observed to do a mile in eighteen seconds.—F. S. Hoppin, Jr., in Leslie's Monthly.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

There should be jubilation in Quincy over the fact that the Assessors' report an increase as $1,546,340 in the valuation of the city, but somehow the taxpayers do not enthuse.

Yet it means that on an average all the people of Quincy are worth $50 more than a year ago. That a family of five are worth $250 more.

This being a fact it should not be difficult for most families to pay their taxes, as $250 would pay the assessment on $13,000.

Very few are worth that sum, however. If they were they have an idea it would not be difficult to pay the taxes assessed.

Principal Assessor Johnson assures the Patriot, however, that values have not been increased generally but that the gain is largely in new property.

He says the new power plant of the Old Colony street railway at Quincy Point caused a large increase both in real estate and personal property, and that the tax on the shipyard will be larger this year. There was also considerable building during the year 1904-1905. The figures showing the number of new houses have not yet been compiled.

With the large increase in assessed valuation it surprises many, however, that there should be an increasing tax rate. This year it is $18.30, and was never larger but twice in the history of Quincy. Should there come a year when there is no increase in valuation, as in some cities, the Quincy tax rate would take a big jump.

We doubt if there is another city in the State of less than 30,000 population that has increased its assessed valuation $15,820,750 in seventeen years, which is the record of Quincy.

In ten years the increase has been $8,252,855, yet it took Quincy ninety years to accumulate its first eight million.

In five years our increase in valuation has been $5,394,874, a sum in excess of the total valuation of the town of Braintree today. An average of over a million dollars per year.

The valuation in the big city of New Bedford increased but $747,376 this year. And the city of Salem which is considerably larger than Quincy reports a loss of $390,600 in valuation. In ten years the valuation of Salem has not increased three million, being $27,583,600 in 1895 and $29,828,000 this year.

The rich city of Newton, with a valuation of over $65,000,000, gained only $114,320 more than Quincy the past year.

The increase in valuation in Malden this year was but $61,400. In Northampton, $130,459.

Even the big city of Lynn with its General Electric Works and large shoe factories did not make as large a gain as Quincy, the increase for the year being $1,300,000 against $1,546,340 in Quincy.

Somerville's tax rate will be the same as Quincy this year, an increase of $1.10 over last year. Somerville's inerease in valuation was $1,555,800, only $9,460 more than in Quincy. Where this city gained 425 in polls Somerville gained by 55.

Certainly Quincy is making rapid strides in valuation as well as population. While our tax rate seems high it is small compared with Fitchburg, Medford, New Bedford, and many of the towns.

Boston expects its highest tax rate for twenty years, and the tax rate of Brookline will also be higher.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The statue of Governor Winthrop has ended its travels and settled down, let us hope for good, on the grounds of the First Unitarian Church, on Marlboro street. The Governor's effigy has had a hard time of it since subway operations began.—Lynn Item.

☞ The story from Cleveland that Mrs. John D. Rockefeller is being made ill by hearing and reading the stories told of her husband's "tainted" money, can readily be believed. A man's family is generally bothered more about public opinion concerning him than is the man himself. Mr. Rockefeller does not show, outwardly, that he is severely injured as to his feelngs by what the world thinks, unless one may draw an inference from the fact that he occasionally plunges with especial vigor in the direction of his main amusement on earth—giving away money for philanthropic purposes, as though to strike a balance. That much certainly, must be said in his favor—whatever evil his money may have done, it has done some measure of good. There are wealthy men whose money has never helped anybody except the direct owners.—Brockton Enterprise.

☞ Iowa thinks that as soon as we hear she has a large oversupply of men, several thousand of New England's "female surplus" will rush to her nodding corn fields. Thank you; New England women are best known, we believe, for their discriminating intelligence.—Boston Transcript.

Dean Winthrop House.

A bazaar of nations will be given by the Winthrop Improvement Association to aid in the purchase of the "Dean Winthrop home" in that town. It will open Aug. 29 with "A day in the Orient," to be followed on successive days by "Great Britain and Italy day," "Germany day," "Historic day" and "Colonial and Old Home day." Adams chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, have been especially invited to attend on "Historic day," Friday, Sept. 1, when a Winthrop fish dinner will be a feature. The Dean Winthrop house is a typical old Colonial farm house built about the year 1649.

PUBLIC TELEPHONES.

A Feature of Modern Life In Which Sweden Excels.

Nowhere in the world has the telephone become so absolutely a part of daily life as in Sweden, and King Oscar's kingdom can boast of being better provided with telephones than any other country. A striking feature are the street telephone pavilions, which are in great number. They are to be found in every thoroughfare, close to every restaurant, cab stand and theater, and they open automatically by dropping a coin into a slot.

The telephone booths serve also as lampposts and in some instances as mail boxes.

Lessons of the Far Eastern War.

General Chaffee, chief of staff, United States army, calls attention to the fact that in the Russian-Japanese war the Russians used volleys in all their firing, beginning at long ranges and continuing until the final rush of the Japanese, and that the Japanese fire was always individual in action. "Volley fire," says General Chaffee, "was noted only once in seven months' observation, used against a retreating Russian force massed at an estimated ranged of 1,800 to 2,000 yards, and this fire soon ceased. Small arms fire at such extreme ranges as 2,500 yards is of practically no value, while ranges from 2,500 to 3,500 yards are artillery ranges, pure and simple. The experiences of this war are demonstrating the value of the American idea of having skilled individual marksmen, not a body of men firing volleys into the air with the hope of accidentally hitting something."

Foresight In Birds.

The following bird story comes from a high church dignitary of North Wales. Close by his rectory is a large rookery. Twice a year the birds assemble and repair or rebuild their nests. At these times the ground beneath the trees is more or less thickly strewn with small potatoes. This mysterious phenomenon was finally explained by an old parishioner. The rooks use the potatoes for measuring the insides of their nests. When compared with a rook's egg the potatoes were found to closely coincide with the former both in length and breadth. After using the potatoes for purposes of measurement the rooks never eat them or carry them away, and they accumulate in considerable numbers beneath the trees.

Social Realm.

There is a pleasure in the pathless woods,
There is a rapture on the lonely shore,
There is society, where none intrudes,
By the deep sea, and music in its roar:
I love not man the less, but nature more,
From these our interviews, in which I steal
From all I may be, or have been before,
To mingle with the universe, and feel
What I can ne'er express, yet cannot all conceal.

He wants to propose to her but hasn't got the nerve to face her on the proposition. A few days ago a bright idea struck him. He went to Kansas City and sent the girl a telegram which read: "Will you marry me?" The girl replied by wire: "What you need is a Turkish bath."

STORE AND DWELLING.

An Attractive Design For a Combination Building.

[Copyright, 1905, by Stanley A. Dennis, 234 Broadway, New York.]

We herewith present to our readers a model design and plans for a cozy little home and store building suitable for almost any location. It is neat and complete in every respect. One of its good features is that it can be built on a twenty-five foot lot, which makes it desirable for suburban places. There is a cellar under the entire house. The cellar has a cemented floor and a hot air furnace which heats the whole house.

The frame of the house is of hemlock lumber and sheathings. The walls are covered with two ply building paper, narrow beveled siding and shingles in gables; the main front is brick. The main roof is shingled with random width shingles. The windows are fitted with outside pine blinds with rolling slats. The interior is painted with two coats of lead and oil paints, body zinc white, trimmings colonial yellow, sash light green and blinds dark brick red.

The floors are laid with narrow hard white pine, and the interior walls are plastered with patent plaster, one good coat of scratch mortar and white sand, put on one-half inch grounds, well troweled out straight, smooth and even, and left with a perfect sand finish.

The trim is of kiln dried cypress of special patterns, finished with water color stains, properly rubbed, and two good coats of flat varnish. The stairs are of cypress, with ash newels, rails and balusters of a colonial detail. The house is wired and fitted with gas fixtures. The mantels are of plain dark oak, with large mirrors and tiled facings. Stairs run from the second floor to the attic, which is floored throughout. The pantry and the closets are finished and fitted with shelves, hooks, etc.

The kitchen contains modern plumbing, with stone tubs, galvanized iron sink, back, brackets and boiler. The range is portable, with a warming closet, hood and register. The bathroom has a steel clad bathtub. The basin is porcelain in a marble slab and backs, with molded edges. All exposed work in the bathroom is nickel plated.

This is a building worthy of the careful consideration of those intending to build. The cost is estimated at $2,500 and the building can be erected in most places for this amount.

THE X RAY'S LATEST.

Human Heart Successfully Photographed Between Beats.

Some astonishing developments in X ray photographing have resulted from long and patient efforts, some details of which the experimenters explain in detail.

Professor Rieder and Dr. Joseph Rosenthal of Munich have been collaborating in the work and declare they have succeeded in obtaining in less than a second of time X ray photographs of the human chest, the patient ceasing to breathe meanwhile. Having proceeded thus far, they sought to take pictures of the human heart between its beats, as it was found that the beating of that organ impaired the exactness of the photographs. Having first of all accurately gauged the time elapsing by a process they are prepared to describe at length, by the use of the most sensitive films procurable and the strongest possible X rays, good photographs were secured in one-tenth of a second.

The outlines of the heart and a large portion of the lungs were photographed with much greater success and clearness than had been hitherto found possible.

AN ANIMAL INFIRMARY.

Where Diseases of Beasts Are Studied by Specialists.

In a little low building at the Philadelphia Zoological park investigations are now being made of great importance to the world. For a long time it has been suspected that the germs of contagious diseases are communicated to human beings by domestic pets, cats, dogs, rabbits, birds, monkeys or mice. But no scientist has been able to say, "I know that germs are communicated in this way." It will be the work of the corps of doctors now engaged in investigating animal diseases at the new infirmary of the Philadelphia Zoological park to settle this important point.

A secondary object to be attained by the experiments is to determine the best means to cure the ills of the animal world. This is the phase of the work that will chiefly interest veterinarians all over the world, while the first named feature of the experiments will chiefly concern those intrusted with the alleviation of the woes of the human race.

In the interests of these important questions the authorities of the zoological park and the veterinary surgeons and medical men engaged with them in conducting the experiments have not hesitated to sacrifice valuable animals. The veterinary department of the University of Pennsylvania has purchased a number of monkeys. These monkeys have been inoculated with the tuberculosis germ and turned loose among a cageful of monkeys at the Zoological park. They have been carefully watched, with a view to determining whether or not they communicate the disease to the healthy monkeys, and a record is kept of all the conditions of their vitality during the progress of the disease.

Novel Milk Cars.

An interesting departure has been made by the Great Northern Railroad company of England in conveying milk, and the idea has been taken up in Ireland to the extent of urging the railroad companies to use similar apparatus. The milk cars are fitted with a special adjustable ventilating apparatus, and the oscillation which has on a number of occasions nearly churned milk into butter during a journey has almost disappeared. Even at rapid speed on sharp curves there is scarcely any oscillation. The vans are forty-five feet long and run on two four-wheeled bogies.

A Safety Elevator.

A New York bank has a safety elevator operated by electricity and automatically. Thus the wages and impudence of a boy are saved. While the door remains open heaven and earth could not move the car up or down the fraction of an inch. But when you step inside and close the door the locking mechanism is released. By touching a push button you ascend or descend at will. This elevator would make a fine plaything for a boy of ten. And he could never hurt himself.—New York Press.

Cure For Red Noses.

Professor Lassar, the German skin specialist, has found a method by which red noses can be made to resume their normal color. He uses an instrument shaped like a toothbrush, with platinum wires instead of bristles. These wires are connected with an electrical machine. The treatment consists in hammering the lurid nose with the brush until it bleeds, when the treatment is stopped for a day. After that two poundings a week for a few months suffice to eliminate the excessive redness.

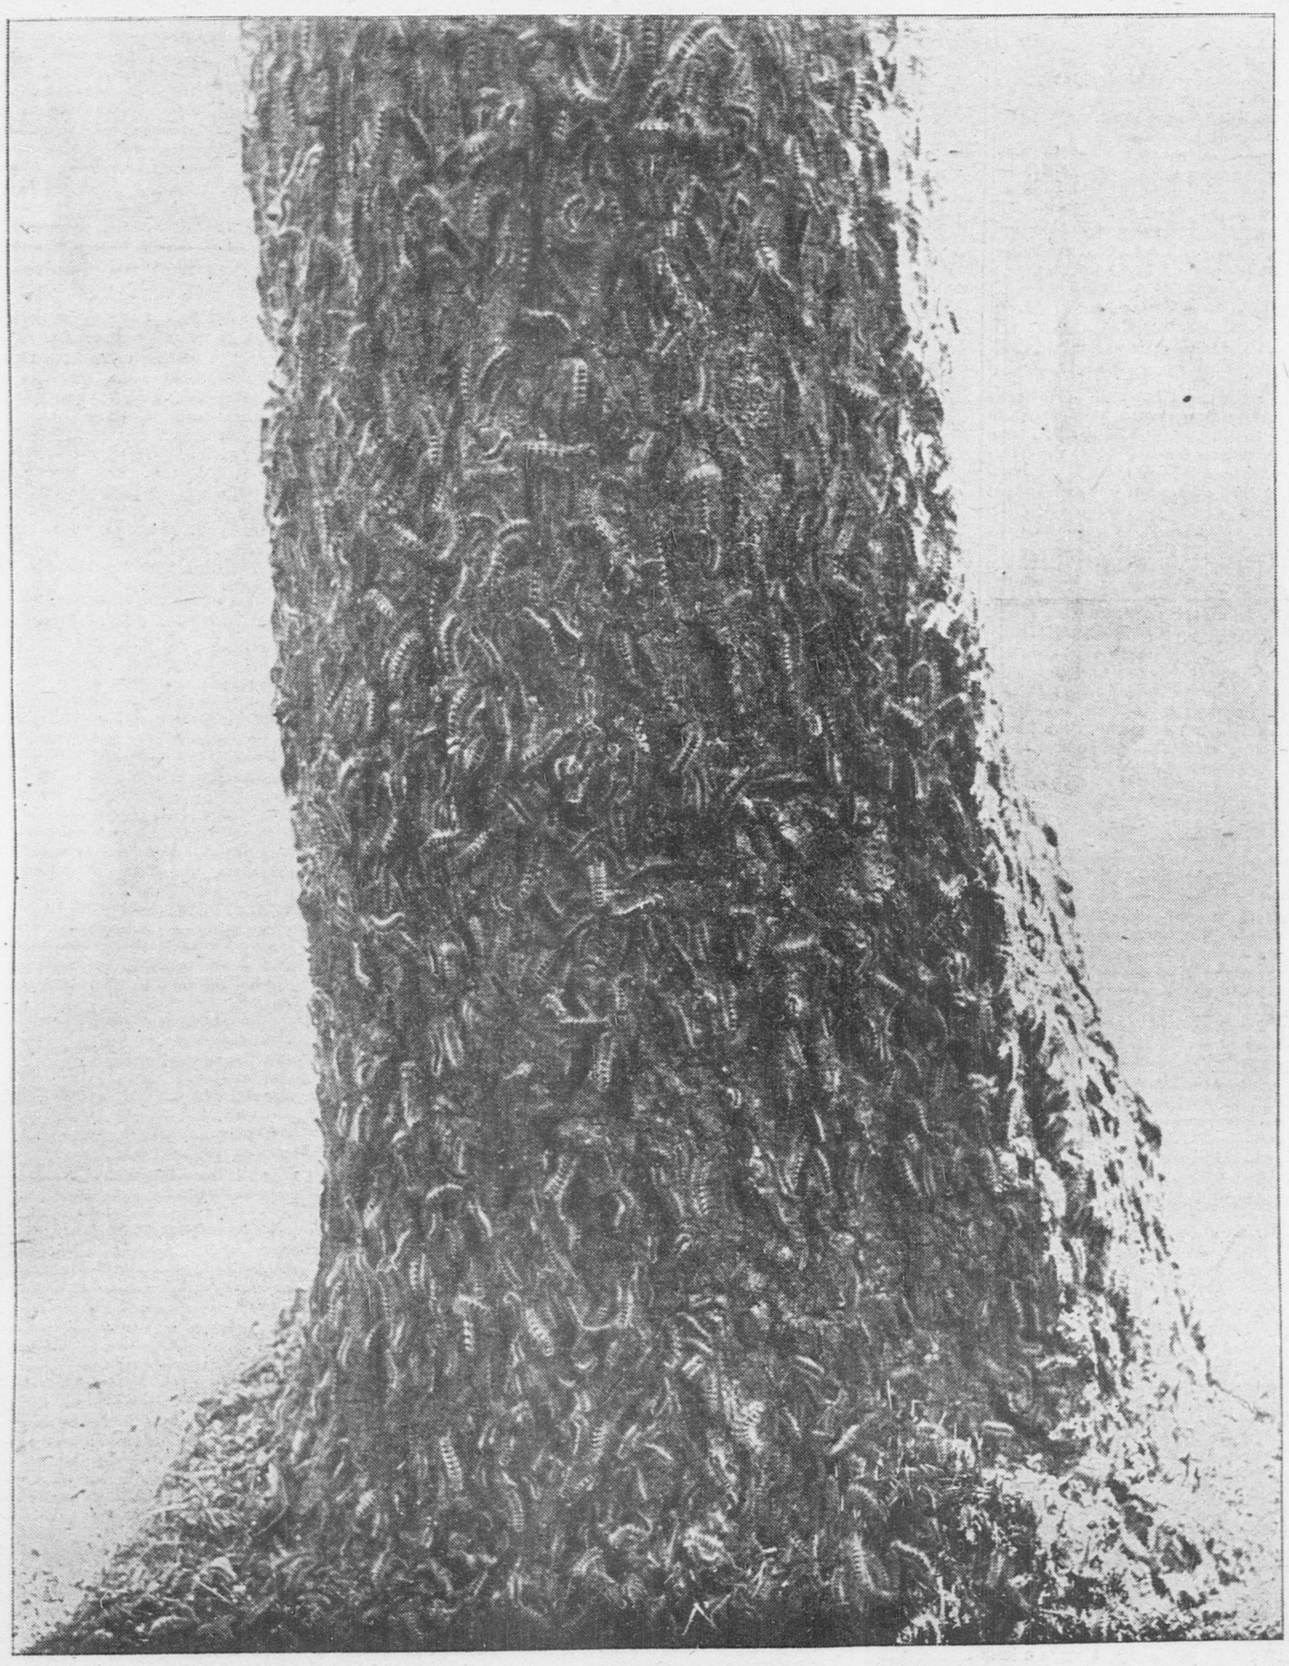
GOOD WORK AGAINST GYPSY MOTH IN MEDFORD.

CHANDLER LOT, FULTON STREET, MEDFORD, 1904, NEGLECTED.
Loaned by Medford Mercury.

THE SAME LOT IN 1905, AFTER BEING CARED FOR.



TREE ON LAND EAST OF FULTON STREET, MEDFORD, MASS.—Loaned by Medford Mercury.

From the Medford Mercury.

Importance of Co-operation.

Editor of Medford Mercury :

What can be done to save the trees? The efforts of any individual owner counts for little if the trees in the street are not taken care of. An experienced and skilled expert has taken care of my trees for several years and they have suffered but little heretofore. This year it is a different story, as the Mercury of last week showed. Besides destroying the eggs I put on burlap this year earlier than usual and also applied tanglefoot, and yet the most of my apple trees and some of the others were stripped. The gypsies came in from the street trees like a flood, like the frogs of Egypt. No attention was given to them last year. Some attention has been given to them this season, but it has not been continued. I was glad to see tanglefoot and burlap placed about some of them. Now that the gypsies are gathering under the burlap in large numbers there are none whose duties require them to brush them off and destroy them.

It seems extremely important that every one should take care of the burlap of those trees opposite his own house and grounds.

Next spring the city government will undoubtedly kill the gypsy eggs and brown-tails, as they tried to do this spring, and spray the trees, and most individuals will do the same. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." The question has been asked, "Where is Prof. Kirkland?" He ought to tell us what to do at each stage of the game and not wait for the time when the new law will go into effect. The papers will be glad to proclaim what he has to say and the people will be ready to read. We must realize the importance of co-operation. If the trees on the next street are not cared for, my trees will suffer. If the street trees are covered with gypsies and my trees unfortunately touch them, they will leave the street elm and horse chestnut and eat my beautiful purple beech, and soon go on to my apple trees, cherry trees and young maples and hickories. If they find the way blocked, they travel on to new fields, wisely not trying to climb stripped trees. They are wiser than ants and can travel much faster. They are robbers and must be crushed. All must co-operate and save the trees, though it costs much labor and well directed effort.

David H. Brown.

—As incident illustrative of the intelligence of a horse and of the attachment he may have for his home and for other horses he may have been raised with, is told of the family driving-horse belonging to Judge A. B. Nye, late of Oakland. Soon after the family moved up here the judge's married daughter, who lives in Tulare Co., beyond Visalia, sent up a favorite driving-horse. A few nights later the horse got loose and made his way back to his Tulare Co. home. At five o'clock in the evening he was in his stall in Judge Nye's barn a mile west of here and at eight o'clock the next morning he was at the daughter's ranch, forty miles distant, waiting at the corral gate to be let in.—Fowler Ensign.

—The Medford Mercury is educating all Massachusetts by stories of the gypsy and browntail moths, illustrated by numerous fine half tone pictures, showing what these pests are capable of doing when they get right down to business. Medford is the home of the gypsy moths, and thousands of dollars have been spent from public and private funds in Medford to stop the spread of these tree destroyers.

Educational Campaign.

The Medford Mercury began a most commendable work in its issue of July 14, publishing the first of a series of exhaustive, instructive and entertaining articles on the brown-tail and gypsy moth. The articles are especially designed to aid in the destruction and extermination of the pests. Enough work has been done in Medford to show that the pests, through constant vigilance and indefatigable labor, may be controlled. Private citizens supplementing the work of the municipality have spent more than the city, and through the united efforts of residents of West Medford that part of the city is in much better condition than last year. In various other places conditions are deplorable, and this year neighboring towns are learning what the devastation caused by moths really is.

Taking up the movements of the moths by colonies the first article shows how one colony advanced, spreading as it went, and it demonstrates the effect of neglect, not only on the property of the negligent owner, but also on neighboring territory. The hot weather will quickly drive the caterpillars into the pupa state. The brown-tails have already developed into moths, and may be seen swarming in clouds about street lights. So long as the Cambridge park commissioners express themselves as helpless in coping with the pests, locally, some such united action as that of Medford would seem advisable. The individual should assume some responsibility.—Cambridge Times.

Points of Interest.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACES OF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M. until 4 P. M.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company where warships are being built for the government.

FEVER CAMPAIGN

The Government Will Assume Charge at New Orleans

AT REQUEST OF THE CITY

Belief That Sending of Force of Physicians Equipped For Scientific Handling of the Disease Will Restore Confidence

New Orleans, Aug. 5.—With no intention of admitting the fever situation to be beyond control, but in the hope of reviving confidence here and elsewhere in the south, official and business interests yesterday decided to send a request to President Roosevelt to have the United States government assume full charge of the struggle to wipe out yellow fever from Louisiana Expectation is that Surgeon General Wyman, with all the resources of the government, will at once be enlisted actively in the campaign.

The decision to ask the federal government to take control was reached at a meeting held late yesterday at the Cotton Exchange. There were present Mayor Behrman, Chairman Janvier of the citizens' committee, President Souchon of the state board of health, President Kohnke of the city board of health, representatives of each of the exchanges and commercial bodies, Surgeon White of the United States marine hospital service and a number of representative citizens.

It was the consensus of the meeting that government control would restore confidence throughout the other states in the south where there has been criticism of the city and state authorities for not sooner making public the existence of yellow fever. It was the belief of those present that Surgeon General Wyman would be able to send a force of physicians to New Orleans thoroughly equipped for the handling of the yellow fever situation because of their experience and unquestionable facilities to enforce a scientific campaign against the fever.

Immediately after the meeting a telegram, signed by the mayor and others present, was addressed to Governor Blanchard, telling him of the action taken.

Announcement that the federal government was to be called on to take charge at first created some alarm in New Orleans, many taking such action as an acknowledgment that the situation had got beyond control. At a conference at city hall it was decided that Mayor Behrman should issue a proclamation requiring every business house in the city to close on Wednesday so that the employes might take a hand in the general cleaning movement.

The President's Prompt Action

Washington, Aug. 5.—President Roosevelt last night forwarded to Surgeon General Wyman of the public health and marine hospital service a telegram from Governor Blanchard of Louisiana, requesting that the United States government take control of the yellow fever situation in New Orleans. The president directed the surgeon general to take every step in his power to meet the situation in New Orleans and to notify him what further action is advisable and possible for the federal authorities to take.

Dr. Wyman has acknowledged the president's telegram and will make a report to him today.

Dr. Wyman will confer today with Secretary Shaw, the surgeons in the marine hospital service and others as to the best course to pursue on Blanchard's request and on their conclusions Wyman's report to the president will be based. The government has at its disposal what is known as an epidemic fund, available, however, only in part for occasions like that at New Orleans, and expenditures from that fund are usually supplemented by those from local quarters.

Naval Militia Means Business

New Orleans, Aug. 5.—The Mississippi patrol boats apparently thought the appearance of the Louisiana naval militia was purely for effect and not to stop their further depredations in Louisiana waters. They found out their mistake when the flagship of the patrol squadron, the Grace, and another vessel, the Tipsey, stationed at Lake Borgne canal, were seized, their flags hauled down and the officers and crews placed under arrest. They will be held to await the action of the grand jury of the respective parishes in which their alleged offenses were committed. The Tipsey, accompanied by a launch, was guarding the mouth of the Lake Borgne canal, which connects Lake Borgne with the Mississippi river, six miles distant.

Refugees Welcome In Kentucky

Louisville, Aug. 5.—The state board of health has issued a proclamation announcing that Kentucky will be an "open" state, so far as refugees from the fever infected districts of the south are concerned.

Cheated Gallows by Suicide

Charleroi, Pa., Aug. 5.—Mito Scygear, the murderer of his sweetheart, shot and killed himself when he saw policemen who had been on his trail approaching along the road to arrest him.

Attempt to Kill Governor

Atkarsk, Russia, Aug. 5.—An attempt was made here to assassinate M. Stolypine, the governor of Saratoff, while he was driving. Three shots were fired at him, but without effect.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT.

When It Is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly.

Hair preparations and dandruff cures, as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when not diseased, grows naturally, luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs. It allays itching instantly; makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. ## SALMON'S ADMISSION

A Partner In Firm Which Got Work From His Department

Washington, Aug. 5.—Dr. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry of the department of agriculture, has admitted that he was the business partner of George E. Howard of this city when the gelatine meat label was patented and also when, in June, 1901, the first contract for the label was awarded to Howard's printing establishment by the department of agriculture. After the first contract was secured from the department Salmon withdrew from his partnership.

Dr. Salmon's partnership with Howard lasted about six years. After that time the Howard Printing company did a large amount of business with the bureau of animal industry, of which Salmon was chief, and other bureaus of the department.

Dr. Salmon said last night that when he met Howard the latter had no money. "I advanced the sum necessary to publish The Feather, a poultry journal in which he was interested," said Salmon. "We continued in the printing business and he became aware of the needs of the department of agriculture for a meat label. He met the conditions and the patent was taken out as his invention. I offered suggestions from time to time. I told him what the requirements were. I also urged him to perfect some devises, as I did companies that made a business of dealing in tags. We were anxious somebody would be able to furnish a device that would be acceptable."

Rich Man Indicted For Theft

Milwaukee, Aug. 5.—Charles F. Pfister, one of the wealthiest citizens of Milwaukee, has been indicted by a grand jury. The indictment alleges that Pfister was bailee of $14,000 placed in his hands for the Wisconsin Rendering company to obtain for the company a large contract from the city of Milwaukee for the disposal of garbage. It is charged that Pfister fraudulently converted the money to his own use.

Uncle Russ Takes a Day Off

New York, Aug. 5.—Russell Sage celebrated his 89th birthday by remaining away from his office, spending the day quietly at his country home in Long Island. It is said to be the first occasion on which the aged financier has voluntarily absented himself from his office on his birthday. He is said to be in excellent health and no explanation is offered for his departure from his usual custom.

President Cannot Help Them

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 5.—President Roosevelt received Syngamon Rhee and Rev. P. K. Yoon, two Koreans, who presented to him a memorial asking him to look after the interests of Korea in the proceedings of the forthcoming peace conference. They represent practically only themselves and, as they have neither official nor diplomatic standing, the president could do nothing for them.

Papers Served on Equitable Men

New York, Aug. 5.—Forty-nine directors of the Equitable Life Assurance society have been served with papers notifying them of the suit brought by Attorney General Mayer in behalf of the state of New York to recover any funds of the society which may have been diverted from their proper course. William Alexander, secretary of the society, accepted service for all concerned.

No Increase In Wages

Manchester, Aug. 5.—The executive board of the Cotton Masters' Federation has decided to urge the members to resist demands of the operatives for a 5 percent increase in wages. The executive board of the Bolton employers' independent organization has resolved to give one month's notice of a 5 percent reduction in wages. The situation is considered critical.

Infantry Killed Thirty Strikers

St. Petersburg, Aug. 5.—An official account of the strike on the Novorossisk-Vladi-Kavkaz railway describes a sanguinary encounter between the troops and the workmen who were attempting to prevent the departure of a mail train. The strikers advanced menacingly, whereupon the infantry fired, killing 30 of the strikers and wounding 22.

Belcher Still Among the Missing

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 5.—Despite the efforts of his former friends and business associates, the whereabouts of Mayor Belcher of this city have not been discovered. An investigation has begun to discover what disposition has been made of the estate of James F. Stewart, of which Belcher was sole executor. It was valued at $10,000.

Strike Delays Railroad Traffic

St. Paul, Aug. 5.—Although the strike of telegraphers on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads has not tied up traffic, serious delays have been caused in the moving of traffic and passenger trains are running late. The strikers say that when the heavy movement of crops begins the railroads will be paralyzed.

Havana Has New Mayor

Havana, Aug. 5.—Lieutenant Monachea, who was appointed mayor of Havana ad interim after the removal of John O'Farrill, was defeated for that office in an election held by the city council by a majority of one. The new mayor is Orenico Nodarse. He is a Moderate.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Sunday, Aug. 6.
Sun rises—4:42; sets—6:58.
Moon sets—10:25 p. m.
High water—2:45 a. m.; 3:15 p. m.
There will be showers in south portion of New England; fair in north.

Signals of Value In Baseball

Catcher Jack Warner of the St. Louis Nationals Tells How Secret Signs Between Players Aid In Winning Games---The Code.

The use of signals by baseball players makes possible more speed and aggressiveness in diamond work, and some of the most spectacular and dramatic features of the game depend almost entirely upon the signal system for their introduction in the plays.

This secret service of baseball helps more clubs out of a rut than many fans think, and the difference between a leader and a tail ender is often accounted for by the success or lack of success in working the signal codes. Baseball is getting to be such an exact science that brain work on the bench is cutting a bigger factor in the game than many imagine.

Championship teams realize that the small things of baseball are what have to be looked after. They realize that nine innings is a long time and that in a close game a little slip sooner or later may give a chance for victory or defeat.

Jack Warner, the veteran St. Louis National catcher, who has played ball with some of the fastest teams in the country, among them the New York Giants and the Boston champions, recently explained the signals that are used in the big league games.

"The team that does not have an up to date system of signals," said Warner, "is going to lose many one run games. John McGraw of the New York team is a great stickler for 'inside ball,' and when I played with his team I know personally of no less than twenty-two games pulled out of the fire by the use of the signal system.

"Our St. Louis Cardinals have a splendid system—one of the best I have ever seen. Burke realizes the importance of this feature of the game, and many hours in the morning are put in drilling and trying the boys in its use.

"The coachers or batsmen handle all the base signals and hit and run plays, but the battery signals are given by the catcher. The opinion often expressed that the pitcher makes the signals is wrong.

"The usual code comprises signs for a slow ball, a curve ball and signals for high and wide ones. Of course the various curves—outs, ins and drops, etc.—are also designated by signals.

"If I think a man is going to steal, I signal to the pitcher to 'watch the runner,' or to be prepared for a quick throw to the bag. I try to break up all hit and run games whenever possible by using the 'make it wide' sign.

"This sign is also given when I think a man is going to steal. The pitcher keeps the ball outside the plate or just over the corner, giving me the chance to get the ball in a good position for throwing to second."

Judicial Bonds

When called upon to give bonds in Judicial Proceedings, apply to the American Surety Company.

Should you require Probate Bonds, or Bonds in Insolvency Proceedings, we will provide them on the shortest notice, and without red tape.

We also issue the various Court Bonds used in the collection of debts and the recovery of damages, and, through our agents, will furnish them quickly to responsible parties at any point in the United States.

The fact that many of these bonds involve great risk, forms a strong argument against their being assumed by personal sureties.

MAKE NO COMMENT

Witte and Rosen Silent as to Talk at Sagamore Hill

LUNCH WITH PRESIDENT

Enter Vigorous Protest Against Action of Photographers at Station and Are Escorted Back by Secret Service Men

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 5.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt yesterday informally entertained Sergius Witte and Baron Rosen, the Russian emperor's plenipotentiaries to the peace conference. The visitors made the trip to Oyster Bay accompanied only by two railroad detectives and a secret service man.

Many residents of Oyster Bay assembled at the station to see the Russian envoys. As they alighted from the train they were confronted by a battery of cameras. Baron Rosen waved them aside, indicating evident displeasure.

Neither Witte nor Rosen would make any comment upon their visit. They were driven to the president's home in time for luncheon. President Roosevelt gave Witte, who was presented to him by Rosen, a most cordial greeting, and they chatted informally before the luncheon was announced.

Soon after arriving at Sagamore Hill Baron Rosen entered to the president a vigorous protest against the actions of some of the photographers at the railroad station. He did not conceal his annoyance at their efforts to obtain pictures. The president called two secret service officers and gave directions that the annoyance his guests had been subjected to on their arrival should be averted, if possible, when they returned to the station to take their train for New York. While some pictures were taken at the station on their return, the envoys were subjected to no jostling or inconvenience.

It was the desire of Witte to pay his respects to the president before the formal reception of the envoys. That his visit was of some significance is, perhaps, beyond doubt, but positive assurance is given that it did not differ materially from that of Baron Komura last week. The subject of the pending peace negotiations was discussed generally, but beyond that no statement concerning the conference was made. Neither the president nor Witte cared to make any announcement about it for publication.

Witte's Impression of Roosevelt

New York, Aug. 5.—Upon the return of Mr. Witte and Baron Rosen from Oyster Bay, Witte made the following statement about the impressions he had received of the president on this, the first time he had seen him:

"I have conceived the highest opinion of Mr. Roosevelt. I was particularly struck by his energy and broad-mindedness. I feel it is good for the United States to have so distinguished a man at the head of its executive department and I fully appreciate the reasons that led to the choice of him for so responsible and honorable a position. I do not say this with any desire to flatter the president or the American people. It is my sincere conviction."

Next Battle Will Decide the War

London, Aug. 5.—The Daily Telegraph's Japanese correspondent at Moji comments upon the tremendous extent of General Linevitch's command, including as it does Vladivostok and Northern Korea, and doubts the Russian general's ability to have effective control of such a far extended line, which is unprecedented in the history of the world. He declares that the coming battle, unless it is averted by peace negotiations, will be on such a gigantic scale as to decide the war once and for all.

Bad Weather In Manchuria

Godzyadani, Manchuria, Aug. 5.—Almost tropical rains are falling in Manchuria and the hilly regions are impassible for trains of artillery. Every mountain path is a torrent and every valley a quagmire. The alternation of rains and fervid sunshine has a depressing effect on the health of the army.

Russians Are Superstitious

St. Petersburg, Aug. 5.—The selection of Tuesday as the day for the opening of the Russo-Japanese peace conference has relieved the minds of many Russians, who feared that the confefence might begin on Monday, which to the Muscovites is a day of evil omen.

Japanese Wrestler Won

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 5.—In the presence of 2000 people, Professor Ono, Japanese instructor of Jiu Jitsu at Annapolis, last night defeated "Big Tom" Frisbee of Madison county, N. C., in a mixed wrestling match. The men were matched for the best two out of three falls. Ono secured the first fall in 72 minutes and the second in 35 seconds. Both falls were obtained with a strangle hold.

Seven Mills on the Dollar

Cleveland, Aug. 5.—Creditors of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick will receive a total dividend of about 7 mills on the dollar when the matter is finally settled, according to Referee Remington. The assets will amount to about $14,000 with which to meet $2,000,000 of indebtedness.

LYNN GIRL ABDUCTED

Men Are Searching Woods and a Tragedy Is Feared

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 5.—Fully 200 men have been scouring the Lynn woods in search of the unknown man who carried off Mildred Brown yesterday afternoon. Not a trace of the girl or her abductor has been found, and a tragedy is feared. The case is one of the most sensational in the history of Lynn, and if the man is found there may be a lynching.

The Brown girl, who, though only 14, is quite large for her age, was on her way to Pine Grove cemetery with a companion, Cecil Velvin, a girl about a year younger. They carried some flowers to place on the grave of a member of the family of one of the girls.

In passing through the edge of the woods near the cemetery they passed a young man who immediately started in pursuit of them. The girls happened to separate, one running one way and one the other. The Velvin girl saw that the unknown man followed Mildred Brown, and her last glimpse of them showed that the man had almost caught up with the girl.

As soon as the facts became known a posse started out to search the woods. But the girl and her abductor seemed to have vanished completely and all efforts of the pursuers were baffled.

Fought Fire Under Difficulties

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 5.—The home of Alfred S. Lowell on Brattle road, a landmark of 150 years standing, was burned to the ground last night with a loss exceeding $30,000. The fire apparatus had to run three miles from the nearest station, mostly up hill. Helen Murphy, a servant, leaped from a third story window and received gashes on her body. It was necessary for the fire engines to go across fields a quarter of a mile and pump water from a duck pond. Fuel gave out at the end of 20 minutes and parts of the house that had fallen in were fed to the engines.

Furlough For Navy Yard Men

Boston, Aug. 5.—Seventy-five employes of the department of construction and repair at the Charlestown navy yard yesterday began using up an indefinite furlough and today 20 more were let go under the same plan. This reduces the working force of the largest department to about 600 men, the other departments are all at a very low figure. Unless the navy department makes a move at once to authorize the beginning of work on the ships now here and awaiting repairs many discharges will have to be made in the construction and other departments.

The Tucker Disappearance

Rochester, N. H., Aug. 5.—There is still no clue as to the whereabouts of Miss Tucker, the missing Providence schoolteacher. The skirt and shoes found in Sanbornville have been identified by friends as belonging to Miss Tucker. These articles were well soaked by rain and it is believed that they were left there the day following the woman's disappearance. The shawl found several days ago in a bundle at Milton remains the most recent clue of the woman's journey.

Lumbermen at Odds

Chesuncook, Me., Aug. 5.—The lumber war has broken out again, this time at Chamberlain lake, and serious trouble is feared. There was a clash at the lake yesterday between a crew employed by the St. John Lumber company and the agent of the Marsh & Ayer company, a Bangor firm. The St. John people want the water running to clean up their drives, while the Bangor firm wish to hold it back for power purposes.

A Victim of Highwaymen

Waterbury, Conn., Aug. 5.—George E. Townsend, a rural mail carrier, was held up by three men on the Middlebury road last night and relieved of $80. One of the men grabbed the horse by the head and, producing a gun, ordered Townsend to stop. A second man climbed into the wagon and pinioned his arms to his side and the third went through the carrier's pockets. After the robbery the men escaped.

Boys Caused $7500 Loss

Island Falls, Me., Aug. 5.—Two 8-year-old boys playing with matches were responsible for a fire which destroyed three complete sets of farm buildings, including those owned by their parents. The total loss is $7500. The boys, who were sons of Joseph Downing and Edward Jarcis, were playing back of Downing's large barn when a pile of straw became ignited.

Policeman Careless With Revolver

Rochester, N. H., Aug. 5.—Carl Omen and George Sayward were accidentally shot but not seriously wounded last night while watching Policeman Sylvain arrest a man. It is alleged that Sylvain fired his revolver to frighten the man whom he was trying to arrest, and one of the bullets entered Owen's stomach, while Sayward was wounded in the eye.

Trustee For Commission House

Boston, Aug. 5.—Referee Olmstead has appointed John Abbott as trustee for the A. Fred Brown Commission company, a Massachusetts corporation engaged in the grain business in this city, which was petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy. The concern's schedule shows liabilities of $40,838, and assets of $16,972.

Missing From Providence

Providence, Aug. 5.—Benjamin Vantyn, formerly engaged in the wholesale meat business in this city, but who went into bankruptcy last winter, has disappeared from his home. Of late nervous troubles concerning his business difficulties have preyed upon his mind.

A Natural Laxative

Inward cleansing is as necessary as outward bathing. To keep the bowels free and regular is of even greater importance than to keep the skin-pores from becoming clogged. The neglect of either invites disease. Everyone needs a natural laxative occasionally, to free the bowels of accumulated impurities. For this purpose take the greatest boon ever offered to those who suffer from the ills that follow constipation. For over fifty years Beecham's Pills have been famous as a Stomach corrective, a Liver regulator and Bowel laxative. They never gripe nor cause pain. Powerful purgatives are dangerous. Avoid them. Use Beecham's Pills. They give relief without doing violence to any organ. Their action is in harmony with physical laws. Take them regularly and the necessity for their use becomes less frequent. They are a natural laxative and a positive cure for Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache and Dyspepsia.

American Trotters In Demand

Australia Now Purchasing Our Pure Gaited Racers---Follows Example of European Countries --- Trainer Wright and His Mission.

American trotting horses are now in demand in practically every country of the civilized world. Russia, France, Germany, Austria, Great Britain and Italy have been importing our pure gaited stock for several years, and now Australia is looming up as a competitor of these countries.

Several well known trotters and pacers have already been purchased to race in Australia, and recently four more were landed at Melbourne, under the care of Trainer Charles W. Wright of Owensboro, Ky.

Their destination is the Allendale stock farm, at Mentone, a suburb of Melbourne, Australia. The owner of the farm, whose name has not been given, while in this country, two years ago, left an order with Frederick Watson, then the New York representative of a Boston turf paper, but now superintendent of Jacob Ruppert's Hudson River stock farm, at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., for six of the finest bred trotting mares that money could buy.

In compliance with the orders of the buyer, each mare is of different age, color and size, and each represents a different breeding, and all have breeding certificates from the American Trotting Register association.

The youngest in the lot is Countess Todd, a three-year-old black filly, fifteen and a half hands, by Todd, 2:14¾. She was bred and is supposed to be safely in foal to Lorenzo Hamlin, a son of Dare Devil, 2:09, and the grand old mare, Belle Hamlin.

The four-year-old is Blondie Grattan, a chestnut mare, fifteen and three-quarter hands, by Grattan, 2:13, and out of the producing mare Blond Beauty.

Edna Patch, a five-year-old bay mare, sixteen hands, is the choice of the lot, she being by the world's champion stallion, Dan Patch, 1:56. She is safely in foal to Star Pointer, 1:59¾, so that the result will have the unique distinction of having as sire and maternal grandsire the only two stallions that have records below the two minute mark.

The fourth is Beatrice Master, a six-year-old brown mare, sixteen and a quarter hands, by Quartermaster,

EDNA PATCH, NOW IN AUSTRALIA.

2:21¼, sire of Daphne Dallas, 2:05; Merrymaster, 2:07¼, etc. He is the son of Alcyone, 2:27, sire of McKinney, 2:11¼, the greatest speed producing sire of the present day.

Charles W. Wright is one of the best known trainers and race drivers. He is in charge of the horses, and he goes to the distant island to teach the natives how to train, develop and race the American trotter. He will take full charge of the Allendale farm's horses at a very tempting salary for a term of years.

Secretary Taft at Manila

Manila, Aug. 5.—Secretary of War Taft and party arrived on the steamship Manchuria at 10 o'clock this morning. Their arrival was made the occasion of a gorgeous water pageant. The battleship Ohio, the forts and the craft in the harbor fired the regulation salute for the secretary of war. The party proceeded to the governor general's residence, where the official welcome was made and where the golden keys of the city were presented to Secretary Taft. Thousands of persons lined the streets, which were elaborately decorated.

Minor Enlisted Without Consent

Norfolk, Aug. 5.—On motions of Mrs. N. Tyrrell of Providence Judge Waddill has signed a writ of habeas corpus by which the petitioner seeks to secure the discharge from the navy of her minor son, Wesley C. Tyrrell, who, it is alleged, enlisted without the consent of his parents. Judge Waddill directed the naval authorities here to produce the boy before him in court at Richmond Sept. 1. Young Tyrrell is now on the Franklin, at the navy yard here.

Bright Business Prospects

New York, Aug. 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that business continues to expand in a wholesome manner that promises well for the future. Consumption of commodities is liberal, necessitating constant replenishment of stocks, yet there is little speculative inflation or other artificial factor to menace the permanence of progress.

Report Ready For President

Washington, Aug. 5.—Assistant Secretary Keep of the treasury department, within the next few days, will deliver to President Roosevelt the report of the commission of which he is chairman on the recent purchase by the public printer of 72 monotype machines for use in the government printing office.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Charles Johnson of Garfield street had his legs broken this week by the kick of a horse.

The Arcadia Outing club juniors of of East Dedham will make a trip by coach to Houghs Neck on Sunday.

Edward J. Lennon, inspector of the Board of Health, has returned from a vacation trip to western New York.

The Quincy Yacht club will start Monday on their annual cruise to Marblehead, not returning until Sunday.

The Salvation Army will have a lawn party this evening in aid of the building fund. It will be held on School street near Fort Hill street.

John Logan, who enlisted in K Company in the Spanish war, and later joined the marines, has been seriously ill with typhoid fever in Philadelphia, but is convalescent. He has been advanced to the office of first sergeant.

Census enumerators will receive 50 per cent. on account from the State this month in payment toward their work. This amount is payable Aug. 10, and the balance will be paid after the work of the enumerators has been approved.

—In a conversation with William Dean Howells not long ago Mark Twain was relating some of his experiences before he became famous. "My difficulties taught me some thrift," he observed. "But I never knew whether it was wiser to spend my last nickel for a cigar to smoke or for an apple to devour." "I am astounded," observed Mr. Howells, "that a person of so little decision should meet with so much worldly success." Mark Twain nodded very gravely. "Indecision about spending money," he said, "is worthy of cultivation. When I couldn't decide what to buy with my last nickel I kept it and so became rich."

—"I can't ride two horses at one time," said Robert Ingersoll to Henry Ward Beecher, "but possibly I'll be able to, yet, for to-morrow I'm going to hear you preach." Then it was that Beecher offered to write Ingersoll's epitaph, which he proceeded to do by scribbling two words on the back of an envelope, thus:—"Robert Burns."

EMPIRE THEATRE.

The attraction at the Empire Theatre next week will be the melodrama by Clyde Fitch "The Cowboy and the Lady" first made popular in this country by Nat Goodwin's Company. This play also proved a great success when produced by the Castle Square stock company two seasons ago and its coming presentation by the Empire company will without doubt be an interesting event. The story it tells is one of great dramatic possibilities and its scenes and situations are most effective. Mary Hall and William Courtleigh will be seen in the leading characters and the cast will introduce the full strength of the company. Free distribution of choice chocolate bonbons at the Monday matinee.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

One of the strongest and best balanced vaudeville programs of the season is announced for the week of August 7. The headline entertainers for that week will be John W. Albaugh, Jr., and Olive May, two talented actors, who will no doubt score heavily with amusement seekers hereabouts. Mr. Albaugh and Miss May will be making their debut at this popular playhouse, and will make their appearance in a delightful one-act comedy sketch entitled, "Lady Betty's Highwayman" from the pen of the well known playwright, Justin Huntly McCarthy. The surrounding show is of exceptional strength and will appeal to theatregoers of diverse tastes. Prominent in the list are Milton Folo troupe of aerial gymnasts and acrobats; Mignonette Kokin, one of the prettiest and most graceful of all dancers; Vontelle and Nina, exponents of physical culture and flying ring experts, and J. Warren Keane, coin and card manipulator. Galletti's dogs and monkeys have been specially engaged for the amusement of the juveniles; the Fadettes woman's orchestra will make an entire change of selections of popular music, and a complete new list of comedy and interesting motion pictures will be exhibited in the kinetograph.

BRAINTREE.

Mr. F. H. Palmer is conducting a party of about twenty gentlemen and ladies, from several states in the union, through New Brunswick. He went Friday and will be away three weeks.

Wednesday afternoon during the shower lightning struck the steam house near the station doing small damage to the chimney.

The Daughters of Rebekah made it especially interesting at their regular meeting on Thursday evening by taking three new members into their lodge. Many guests were present from Weymouth and Rockland. After the work a liberal supply of ice cream and cake were served.

Leo Brett, who is successfully conducting camp at Damariscotte, Maine, has many of his friends in town visit him. Carl Lothrop left Wednesday to join him and yesterday Harry A. Simonds and Herbert Parker departed planning to spend at least a week in the delightful state.

The members of the canoe club held a meeting at their club house, Thursday evening and voted to indefinitely postpone all arrangements for their annual illumination.

F. Webster Crosby of Hancock street is spending several weeks at Orleans. His many friends will be pleased to learn that he is rapidly recovering from his recent illness.

Miss Margaret Milne of Quincy is the guest of Miss Catherine Cummings of Pond street.

Lucius Qualey, Robert and Carlisle Johnson, Malcolm Storrs and Burton Bates are in the care of Dr. Fillebrown at Sagamore Hill. They expect to camp two weeks.

We have received from Weld, Maine, a picture of Mr. W. A. McKean of Braintree. In his left hand was a thirty inch pickerel, weighing five and a quarter pounds, which he had just caught.

Dr. Lawrence I. Hewes for the past three years professor of mathematics at Rhode Island college, leaves that institution this fall to accept the position of instructor in mathematics at Yale college which was tendered him sometime since.

Harry H. Snow, Irving Stoddard, Walter Howland and Edward Cuff are camping at Billington Sea, Plymouth, for two weeks. Many of their friends will take the opportunity to visit them during their stay.

The Monatiquot schoolhouse has recently been repainted. The well-kept grounds about the school as well as the building itself add greatly to the beauty of Washington street.

John Harris Gutterson gave a talk Tuesday evening at the Weirs, N. H., on the subject "Does it pay to be a Music Teacher."

Mrs. Agnes Baldwin and family arrived from Albany, N. Y., Sunday after a very pleasant and enjoyable visit among relatives.

Daniel Robery has resigned his position with the Jenkins Manufacturing Co. and taken one in Mr. Gould's department at the Fore River works.

Mr. F. O. Wellington returned Saturday from Richmond, Va., where he has been in the interests of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co.

Mr. Joseph Winter, formerly of Braintree and of recent years a resident of England, is now living at 27 Walten street, Narborough road, Leicester, England.

At the convention of Monatiquot lodge, No. 83, Knights of Pythias, Monday evening, plans were recommended for more big nights. Every member should be present at the convention Monday evening, August 7, as several questions of importance will come up for action.

The many friends of Mr. Charles Hunt former superintendent of Braintree schools will be pleased to hear of the good fortune coming to him, his mother having fallen heir to a million dollars through the death of a brother.

The Episcopal Sunday school held their annual outing at Nantasket, Wednesday.

John Barrie and family of Shaw street, sail the fifteenth for Glasgow, Scotland, where they will make their home.

SEARCH REWARDED

Schoolteacher Tucker Found In Maine Woods

IN A PITIABLE CONDITION

Greatly Exhausted and Limbs Badly Emaciated, but Stands a Chance For Recovery--Her Friends Were About to Abandon the Search

Rochester, N. H., Aug. 7.—Miss Mary A. Tucker, the Providence schoolteacher for whom persistent search has been made since her disappearance from Camp Ossipee a week ago last Tuesday evening, was found yesterday afternoon alone in the woods of South Lebanon, Me., half a mile from the road leading from Blaisdell's corner to East Rochester, N. H. She was alive when found, although greatly exhausted and emaciated, but her pulse was strong and hopes are expressed by her attending physician that she will recover.

Miss Tucker was brought to East Rochester, where she revived sufficiently to say to her rescuers: "I am so tired. I would like some warm milk." She then relapsed into semi-consciousness, in which condition she remained during the rest of the day.

The spot where Miss Tucker was found is but a short distance from the place where she was reported to have been seen a week ago last Saturday by Herman Goodwin, who was fishing in that locality.

Early Sunday morning a party of about 60 villagers and nearby residents, under the leadership of M. W. Eastman of Lynn, Mass., the representative of Rev. D. W. Faunce of Providence, the young woman's stepfather, started out on a systematic search of the woods in East Rochester and vicinity. They returned shortly before noon without having discovered any trace of the missing woman. Meantime, four employes of the Cocheco woolen mills, John Donovan, Croydon A. Sleeper, Willis Grogan and William Grimshaw, had begun an independent search of the woods along the Blaisdell's corner road, and it was these men whose efforts were crowned with success. Donovan, who was in advance of the others, first caught sight of the woman and shouted to his companions, who hurried to the spot where she was lying. She rested upon her side on a pile of underbrush at the foot of a hill, and when her rescuers approached she rolled her eyes, but could not utter a sound.

Grogan and Grimshaw remained with her while Donovan and Sleeper hurried to East Rochester to notify the authorities of their discovery. Miss Tucker was then brought to the Glenwood hotel, and Dr. Bates was summoned.

The condition of the woman when found was pitiable. Her clothing was soaked, and her feet swollen, while her limbs were badly emaciated. Her hat was pinned to her waist and she had upon her feet a new pair of black high-laced shoes instead of the low tan shoes that she wore when she disappeared from Camp Ossipee. Where she obtained them has not been learned.

The spot where she was found is near a wood camp and there are other wood camps not far away. While it is believed that Miss Tucker has been in that vicinity ever since she was seen by Herbert Goodwin, it is possible that she may have been under shelter a part of the time in some of these camps.

Had not Miss Tucker been found yesterday it was the intention of Eastman to give up the search in this immediate neighborhood.

Shea May Lose Leadership

Philadelphia, Aug. 7.—There will be a lively struggle for leadership in the third annual convention of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters which opened here today. The fight will be between Secretary-Treasurer Thurley of Indianapolis and Cornelius Shea of Boston, who managed the teamsters' recent disastrous strike in Chicago. Shea's leadership in that strike caused much adverse criticism among western members.

Combining Business With Pleasure

St. Johns, Aug. 7.—Secretary of State Root, who is now salmon fishing on the west coast of Newfoundland, will arrive here tomorrow to remain a week before proceeding to Labrador to view the eclipse of the sun. It is understood that he will hold a conference with the colonial ministry respecting the Bond-Hay treaty with the view of effecting a compromise which will prevent the enforcement of the bait act.

President Preaches a Sermon

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 7.—President Roosevelt delivered a lay sermon to the Christian Brotherhood of Oyster Bay. He emphasized especially the necessity of sound character building, holding that high moral character was the real essence of Christian life. The Christian Brotherhood is a non-sectarian body, composed principally of the male members of the several local churches.

LADIES' NIGHT.

Kafoozalum Club of Greater Quincy Passes Pleasant Evening.

On Saturday evening the Kafoozalum club of greater Quincy gave a most pleasing entertainment and social at the home of Charles E. Hatch, Miller Stile road. About 25 ladies and gentlemen were present. Punch and ice cream were served, many quarts of the former being made away with.

Two delightful tenor solos were very heartily rendered by W. T. Richards, Jr., and several popular songs by the Kafoozalum quartette. Mr. Arthur Young was accompanist and his ability as an artist in this line is not to be questioned. Mr. Charles E. Hatch attended to the wants of the ladies and was also director of the evening's entertainment.

The committee of arrangements received many compliments on the success of the evening.

The club gives its second annual grand outing at Nantasket on Tuesday, Aug. 15, including a grand clam bake and sail down the harbor. The club intends running a series of dances the coming winter.

Greenough—Ferguson.

A pretty midsummer marriage was that of Miss Florence Edna Ferguson of Wollaston, on Tuesday, Aug. 1, to Mr. Alexander Greenough of Oldham, N. S. Miss Ferguson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ferguson of 3 South Central avenue, Wollaston.

The ceremony was performed at the rectory of St. Chrysostom's church by the rector, Rev. Carleton P. Mills. The bride was attended by Miss Josephine A. Ferguson and the groomsman was Mr. Robert H. Ferguson. The bride wore white dotted muslin over white china silk with trimmings of valenciennes insertion and lace. The dress was fastened at the throat by a gold, pearl-studded brooch, the gift of the groom.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents and was attended by friends from Boston, Quincy, Dorchester and Norfolk Downs. Mr. and Mrs. Greenough left on a wedding trip to Portland and Halifax. They will make their home in Oldham.

Craps and Double Murder

Smyrna, Del., Aug. 7.—A riot among negroes at Friendship camp meeting resulted in the death of George Jackson and John Pierce by shooting. William Guy was seriously wounded. The negroes were shooting craps when a dispute arose and revolvers were brought into play.

—The I. O. O. F. lodges of Massachusetts now have a membership of 55,503, a gain of 596 since Jan. 1.

TOSS CAPSIZED

Just After Start of Inter-club Race.

Lively Work to Rescue the Crew.

Waweenock, Eclipse, West Wind and Mischief Winners.

There was unlooked for excitement at the inter-club race on Saturday over the Squantum club courses, when the Toss, one of the Class A yachts capsized and sunk. The accident occurred just after crossing the line, when a strong puff struck the Toss, and she capsized. The boat quickly filled and sunk, and there was some lively work for a few minutes rescuing the crew.

Prompt assistance was rendered by Capt. Barstow of the motor boat Aurie, which also towed the boat ashore.

The Waweenock of the Wollaston club easily outsailed the Whisper of the Squantum club, and won first prize in Class A.

The Pocahantas led the Class B boats until the second buoy, when she withdrew and the first prize went to Councilman Sawyer's Eclipse.

First honors in Class C will probably go to the Primrose, but she has not been measured.

The Mischief had a good lead in the motor class.

TROLLEY TRIPS.

Popular Excursions Inaugurated by Old Colony Street Railway.

Just at this time of the year people are anxious to go off somewhere and have a good time, without too much exertion and expense. Many of these people do not go because they are not well enough acquainted with the various towns and places to feel safe in going alone. Others would gladly go on long trips if it were not for the continual changing of cars or trains, and the thought of not getting home in time if connections were not made. Then there are the people who have exhausted their round of places and pleasures and are looking for "new fields to conquer."

The Old Colony Street Railway realizes these facts and has inaugurated over its system various excursions to popular parks, seashore resorts and historical places. These excursions are made in special through cars, thus eliminating the many changes. Tickets for the round trips can be bought in advance, and only enough are sold to fill the cars, insuring everyone a seat.

These excursions have been run on the Boston & Northern system to various seashore resorts, and have met with the greatest success.

The trips from Brockton, and Taunton to Paragon Park are meeting with like success, and the company feels that if these trips were run from Quincy to Highland Park, they would become very popular. The first excursion will be run Wednesday, August 9, and then Friday. If these trips prove successful, they will be run regularly every Wednesday and Friday. The special excursion car will leave Quincy at 9.50 A. M., and return after the performance.

Tickets for the round trip may be obtained at the office of the company, Quincy (Tel. 6-2) for thirty cents. This will entitle the holder to a reserved seat in the theatre, a free ride on the circular swing, dancing in the pavilion, as well as the transportation accommodations.

This trip will be especially popular, for at the open air theatre, "When Reuben Comes to Town" will be holding full sway. This is one of the funniest comic operas ever presented, and will keep the audience in a constant state of excitement and uproar.

Slight Fire.

The alarm from Box 42 at 8.50 Saturday evening was for a slight fire in a shed owned by Wyman Nightingale near Brewers corner, caused by children and matches. Loss $10.

"Well, Willie," asked the preacher, "what are you going to be when you grow up?"

"A man."—Chicago Record-Herald.

SALUTE FIRED.

Military Honors to the late Josephus T. Newcomb.

Public Funeral Largely Attended.

The United States Army and Navy Represented.

The attendance of military and naval bodies was not large on Sunday at the funeral of Josephus Thomas Newcomb of the ill-fated U. S. S. Bennington, but Christ church was filled to overflowing with townspeople.

The services were in charge of John A. Boyd camp, National Legion of Spanish War Veterans, who met at headquarters at 1.30 P. M. and escorted the body from the house to the church. A squad of Blue Jackets from the Boston navy yard in command of Boatswain W. B. Barnum, were the guard of honor marching beside the hearse. In line were also a squad from Co. K. Fifth Massachusetts regiment of Hingham in command of Sergt. David Whiting, and a squad from Paul Revere Post, G. A. R.

At Christ church the regular service for the dead was read by Rev. C. E. Brewer of Providence, R. I., who supplied the pulpit that day. He was assisted by the Granite City Male Quartette which sang two hymns.

The floral offerings included a flag on standard, from Thomas Newcombe, an uncle, two standing anchors, and bouquets, one from Camp Boyd, and one from Mrs. Eliza E. Barnicoat, his aunt; The box containing the sealed casket was covered with a large flag and also the Union jack.

The interment was at Mt. Wollaston and almost as many gathered at the grave as at the church. The committal service was also by Rev. Mr. Brewer assisted by the Granite City quartette.

A salute of 24 guns was fired by the squad from Co K. and Bugler Johnson sounded taps.

The guests of Camp Boyd for the day were Herman Kuchmeister, the hero of Cienfugos, George Dubois of Charlestown camp, Arthur G. Thompson, an ensign in the Navy; Fred Q. Hood, a past assistant inspector general; Arthur Cummings, officer of the watch of Camp 37; Leon Magee, quartermaster; and others.

HOUGHS NECK.

Mrs. W. J. Tilley is confined to her home on Sea street, Houghs Neck, quite ill.

Mrs. Florentine Brettie of New York is the guest of Miss Bertha Trepanier and sister of Pearl street.

Atlantic and Squantum.

The considerable number of transient visitors to Atlantic and Squantum on Saturday and Sunday, give pleasurable assurance that the picturesque shore, bathing privilege, and generally restful and healthful character of the resorts, appeal to the general public more and more; especially in view of the fact that the trolley lines are not free from the embargo at the Hancock street bridge; work upon which is going forward now with encouraging activity. Atlantic and Squantum, once visited, leave refreshing impression and certainly offer a very pleasant outing.

Many were in Atlantic with the express purpose of seeking permanent places of abode; but rentals are not to be obtained, and carpenters and builders find sale for such pretty home-like structures as they are erecting, and there is evidently much of promise in the near future, for Quincy's northern boundary.

French Club Outing.

The French Naturalization club of West Quincy held their first outing with their families at Quincy Woods on Sunday. A special car left West Quincy depot at nine o'clock and returned at six. Much credit is due to the committee in charge of the affair for making everything pleasing for all. Those on the committee were: Charles LeClair, Joseph Rouleau, Joseph Rogers, Jaque Chunore and Alfonse Leveque.

Socialist Grove Meeting.

The first open-air meeting of the Socialists for the season was held on Sunday at the Ward Two playground. Two or three hundred people were present. There were addresses by Levi H. Turner, who presided, Mrs. Amanda Merrifield of Somerville and Daniel Lynch of Boston.

Firemen's Fund.

These addition subscriptions to the firemen's fund are acknowledged by the committee today:

|---|---|
| Stephen Hofferty, | $2.00 |
| Milne & Hector, | $2.00 |
| Friend Crane, | $1.00 |

Mayor Fay.

City Clerk Keith, who has been acting Mayor during the vacation of Mayor Thompson, has now "taken to the woods" or shore himself and delegates his duties as Mayor to City Treasurer Fay. Success to Mayor Fay.

Safe Broken Into

The grocery store of Rogers' Bros. on Hancock street was burglarized on Saturday night. The safe was opened and some papers were taken. Nothing else was missed except a few cigars.

Tried to kill Chief of Police.

Anarchists made another attempt on Saturday evening to kill Patrick Brown the chief of police of Barre, Vt.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ "For years I have heard annually the cry that Brockton was going to the wall. I first heard it at the time of the '42' lockout, twenty years ago; and I really think there was more justification for fear then than there has ever been since. People couldn't or didn't pay their bills then, credits in business went to smash, rents couldn't be collected, and there were business men who had to hire money to get through the winter. But all troubles since then have been handled differently in many ways, and the suffering and the losses have not been so noticeable. Brockton certainly looks good to me; I'm not selling any of my holdings anywhere near the centre of the city. In fact I'm looking for more if the land or the buildings are of any especial use. And here's another thing to remember—after a city gets so big you can't stop it. It is bound to keep on growing. Nothing but a panic of the severest kind can check it."—Large real estate owner at Brockton.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundancy.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

HELD UP BY FOG

Peace Squadron Reaches Newport Many Hours Late

A CHANGE OF PROGRAM

Envoys Will Reach Portsmouth a Day Later Than Originally Intended--Russians Will Make Rest of the Trip by Rail

Newport, R. I., Aug. 7.—Instead of arriving at Portsmouth today, the peace squadron, with the Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries on board, will probably not reach that city before tomorrow morning. The vessels arrived off Newport late yesterday afternoon, and the Mayflower, with Messrs. Witte and Rosen, came into port. After a stay of nearly five hours the Russian representatives left for Boston on a special train. They decided to remain in that city until today and proceed to Portsmouth by rail.

Commander Winslow of the Mayflower, the flagship of the squadron, issued instructions to defer sailing until today. The vessels will therefore be unable to reach their destination before tonight or tomorrow morning, and it is expected that the envoys will be formally received some time during tomorrow.

At 1 o'clock Sunday morning the squadron encountered a dense fog and anchored two miles off New London. The fog did not lift until 1 p. m., when Commander Winslow signalled "assemble off Newport." Newport was reached about 5 p. m. The Mayflower entered the harbor and Witte and Rosen, accompanied by Commander Winslow and two secret service officers, came ashore.

This modification of the original program was decided upon at the luncheon at Oyster Bay on Friday, when Witte confessed to the president that he was not a good sailor, and preferred to make at least half of the trip to Portsmouth by rail. The president readily assented to a change, and gave orders that a private car be held in waiting at Newport Sunday afternoon. The fog delayed the arrival of the squadron and prevented the Russians from catching a train which would take them to Portsmouth last night. It was eventually decided to proceed to Boston and go to Portsmouth today.

Commander Winslow signalled the dispatch boat Dolphin, which has the Japanese envoys on board, and the convoy Galveston to enter Newport, and leave for Portsmouth today. The vessels entered the harbor shortly after 7 o'clock and anchored for the night. The squadron will get under way some time today. The present plan is to steam slowly and reach Portsmouth by tomorrow morning. When Witte reaches that city he will go on board the Mayflower and will be formally received by Rear Admiral Mead, commandant of the navy yard.

Ready to Receive Guests

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 7.—After a day of strenuous activity in the navy yard, the finishing touches in preparation for the peace conference were made late yesterday afternoon, and everything is now in readiness, both on the inside and outside of the large new naval stores building where the plenipotentiaries are to hold their daily sessions thereafter.

The second floor of the building is to be occupied by the peace missions. The conference room is in the centre of the building, over the main entrance. Adjoining it on one side is a suite of three spacious rooms which have been assigned to the Japanese envoys. On the other side is a reception room dedicated to the representatives of the United States government. Beyond this is a suite of three rooms for the use of the Russian mission.

On either side of a corridor which divides the building are large dining rooms, where mid-day luncheons will be served separately to the respective missions. Two fire-proof rooms have been fitted up for the storage of documents.

The conference room is imposingly furnished. A mammoth table in the centre is surrounded by huge chairs beautifully upholstered in black leather. On the floor is a costly Persian rug. At either end of the room are mahogany tables adapted for clerical work. The walls of the room are draped with flags used by the navy in making the international code signals. These flags relieve the bare walls in all of the rooms and are the only decorations.

Handsome desks, chairs and tables make all of the rooms appear in elegant dignity. Persian rugs are laid upon all the floors. It has cost the United States government $15,000 to equip the quarters for the conference.

Stopped Over at Boston

Boston, Aug. 7.—Mr. Witte and party arrived here from Newport at 11:40 o'clock last night. The party included, in addition to Witte, two secret service officers, Gregory Wilenkine, commercial attache at the Russian embassy in Washington, and a valet.

At the hotel the plenipotentiary was assigned to a suite of rooms and he retired immediately. Mr. Witte would make no statement regarding his arrangements for continuing his journey to Portsmouth. The other members of the envoy's party were equally reticent. The most definite thing that could be learned was that Witte had not decided when he would leave Boston for the New Hampshire seaport.

PRIESTS GET WARNING

"Reds" Threaten to Blow Up Church If Interfered With

Boston, Aug. 7.—With policemen guarding the Roman Catholic Italian church building in North square against threats made by anarchists, the North End police force is watching closely the 200 odd members of the "reds" who have arrived in the city to attend the secret conferences with local and Lynn members of the fraternity.

The priests in charge of the church have been told that any interference with the anarchists will result in the dynamiting of the church, and they were speedily granted the police protection asked.

The Paterson members of the organization have been distributing tracts and other documents among the North End Italians. Patrolmen Walsh, Cronin and Leonard yesterday caught four of the anarchists passing their tracts and stopped them.

The police have been instructed to arrest promptly any person who violates either public statute or municipal ordinance in the slightest degree, and to take no chances with the strangers.

Wagon Struck on Crossing

Foxboro, Mass., Aug. 7.—Two persons were killed outright and two others were bruised and badly shocked at the North Foxboro railroad crossing, they being the occupants of a two-seated wagon which was struck by a "wild" engine. The dead are Estes E. Smith, 19 years old, and Miss Flora Sawyer, 19 years old. The others in the carriage were Chester Willis and Fred Knight. Their injuries are only slight. Their escape was miraculous. The fatality occurred at a crossing of the Taunton division of the N. Y., N. H. and H. railroad.

Sawed Way Out of Prison

Concord, N. H., Aug. 7.—Three prisoners made their escape from the Merrimack county jail in this city some time during the night by sawing off three sets of steel bars. A reward has been offered for the apprehension of the prisoners, who are John Higgins, Joseph Daquin and Alex Raymond. The three men were awaiting the action of the grand jury on charges of breaking and entering.

Wedding of Salvationists

South Framingham, Mass., Aug. 7.—The 20th annual camp meeting of the New England province of the Salvation Army came to a close at Montwait last night. Fully 10,000 people were upon the grounds during the day, a large number of whom witnessed the hallelujah wedding of Captain Alfred Wight and Captain Winiford Thistle, the ceremony being performed by Commander Eva Booth.

From Frying Pan to Fire

Providence, Aug. 7.—Frank R. Maynard, who completed an 11 months' sentence at the county jail for conspiracy to defraud, was taken into custody immediately after his release and arraigned as a fugitive from justice from New Haven, where it is claimed he is wanted for the passing of an alleged valueless check. Maynard was held in default of $1000 bail.

Conductor's Skull Fractured

Providence, Aug. 7.—D. F. Ryan, a street car conductor, aged 26, was killed at Edgewood by being struck on the head by a car going in the opposite direction from the one of which he was in charge. Ryan had his head out of the window looking for an overheated axle, when the other car struck him. His skull was fractured and he died within a few minutes.

Panic on Excursion Steamer

Boston, Aug. 7.—The harbor excursion steamer Nantasket was in collision with a dredge in the harbor and sustained slight damage. A slight panic resulted, but the fears of the passengers were calmed by the officers of the steamer. In the excitement one man fell overboard, but was immediately hauled on board by members of the crew.

Fairbanks at Bar Harbor

Boston, Aug. 6.—Vice President Fairbanks arrived here from the west, accompanied by Mrs. Fairbanks, and after driving through the city park system they dined at the home of a friend. The vice president then left for Bar Harbor, Me., where he and his wife will be the guests of former Senator Henderson of Missouri.

Killed In Runaway Accident

Brockton, Mass., Aug. 7.—Miss Lizzie James was sitting in a buggy near the corner of Main and Central streets when the horse became frightened and ran away. Miss James was thrown out of the carriage and her head struck the journal box of an electric car. She died a few hours later.

Voice Permanently Lost

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 7.—Miss Ethel M. Cram, the New York young woman who was injured in a runaway accident here July 13, remains in an unconscious condition, but is regaining strength. Her vocal organs, however, are thought to be permanently paralyzed.

Fall River Mill Dividends

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 7.—The statement of mill dividends for the quarter ending July 31 shows a total payment of $217,150. This is an increase of $67,300 over the corresponding quarter a year ago. The payment is on a capitalization of $16,125,000.

Death Due to Apoplexy

Boston, Aug. 7.—Andrew Porter, whom the police detained pending an autopsy on the body of his wife, Annie Porter, who died of what the police considered suspicious causes, was released when the cause of death was found to have been apoplexy.

CITY BREVITIES

Late afternoon tides.

There was a very heavy travel on Sunday to Houghs Neck.

The next meeting of the city Council will be two weeks from tonight.

A. L. Melcher of Bigelow street is at his old home in Brunswick, Maine, for a few days.

Miss Laura A. Morrissett of Crescent street is enjoying a vacation with friends at Gloucester.

Quincy was represented on Saturday at Bass Point at the annual outing of the former pupils of the Boyston school of Boston, known as the "Old Fort Hillers."

Joseph Warshaw of Granite street has been spending the week end with his parents, having returned from a two months' trip through Maine. He leaves for New York on Tuesday.

Seats will be provided for all who desire to go on the grand trolley excursion of the street railway on Wednesday to Highland Park. If these excursions prove popular it is the intention of the Old Colony street railway to run others.

The Nantasket Beach correspondent of the Herald says: Henry E. Hardwick of Quincy has one of the most attractive summer homes at Kenberma. He has, at great expense, made extensive improvements about the premises and the tidy well kept green lawns are the admiration of the hundreds who pass on the cars daily. His son Charles, who is one of the rising young lawyers of Norfolk county, is spending the summer with his parents, and runs up to his Quincy office daily in his automobile.

Federal Doctors to Tackle Yellow Fever Scourge

A PLEDGE OF $250,000

New Orleans Citizens Promise to Defray Cost of Labor and the Material In Combatting Disease--Over 200 Cases Under Treatment In the Crescent City

Washington, Aug. 7.—Active control of the yellow fever situation in New Orleans by the United States public health and marine hospital service will begin immediately. Orders to that effect were wired last night to Surgeon White, the marine hospital officer now on duty in that city.

These orders followed the receipt from Dr. White during the day of several telegrams which showed that the citizens of New Orleans had promised their hearty and unrestricted cooperation in the work to be undertaken by the federal government and would meet certain financial requirements imposed by the marine hospital service as a preliminary to assuming the responsibility.

Anticipating this outcome of the case, Dr. White already has determined upon the tentative plans for the work in hand. The city will be divided into wards and each ward will be placed in charge of a responsible and experienced surgeon of the marine hospital service who will have absolute control of the locality. Already Surgeon General Wyman had given directions to a number of marine hospital surgeons to proceed to New Orleans for assignment to work under Dr. White. These are all officers who have had experience in dealing with yellow fever epidemics.

Chaytor's Actions Sustained

Washington, Aug. 7.—Secretary Shaw has telegraphed Captain Chaytor of the revenue cutter Winona, sustaining the latter's actions in the enforcement of the yellow fever quarantine between Mississippi and Louisiana and giving some general instructions. The dispatch is in reply to one from Captain Chaytor, saying the friction between the two states has become serious and asking for an official definition of the revenue cutter's authority.

Situation at New Orleans

New Orleans, Aug. 7.—New cases of yellow fever yesterday, 28; total cases to date, 533; deaths yesterday, 8; total deaths to date, 105.

The fever report is interpreted by the authorities here as encouraging. It is estimated that there are now 233 cases under treatment.

The marine hospital service will assume control of the situation today. The condition precedent to their assumption, that the citizens of New Orleans pledge themselves to put up $250,000 to defray the cost of labor and material, has been met, and Surgeon White has received the formal order from Surgeon General Wyman to take charge.

President Roosevelt and Surgeon General Wyman have both been wired by the citizens' committee of New Orleans that all of the funds that the service may require outside of its own stated expenditures will be supplied by the people of the city. This action was taken Sunday at a special meeting of the finance committee. It followed the news received from Surgeon White that Surgeon General Wyman had asked for a definite statement of the financial intentions of the people here and had given a definite statement himself of what the marine hospital service could do with the funds at its disposal.

Yellow Fever Death at New York

New York, Aug. 7.—One man died of acute yellow fever at New York's detention hospital at quarantine yesterday, making the third case of yellow fever discovered on ships entering New York this summer and the second death. The latest victim was William B. Smith, a pantryman, taken off the steamer Advance, from Colon, last Thursday with nine other suspects. Seven other members of this party are still under inspection.

Smith's was not the first death on the island from yellow fever this year, although the fact is not generally known. Frank O'Leary, a New Yorker, died on the island in the middle of June from the disease. O'Leary was secretary to one of the supreme court justices. He went to Colon during the winter to look into mining interests there. On his return he was taken off at quarantine with symptoms of the disease. He died a few days later.

Crossing Fatality at Cleveland

Cleveland, Aug. 7.—A fast Pittsburg flyer crashed into a St. Clair street car last night, killing a child instantly and fatally injuring six people, while 15 others sustained injuries. The conductor had just crossed the railroad tracks to see that the line was clear. The headlight of the train was not visible, nor was its rumbling heard until it was close to the crossing.

Cable to the Far Northwest

Seattle, Aug. 7.—Seward, Alaska, has just been connected with the outer world by telegraphic communication. With the connection of the Seward and Valdez cable the government now has about 2300 miles of cable in Alaskan waters.

THREE CHINAMEN KILLED

Row In Theatre Deliberately Started by Hip Sing Tongs

New York, Aug. 7.—As a result of a battle between two of the big Chinese societies in the Chinese theatre last night two Chinamen were killed, a third and probably a fourth fatally wounded and many others injured. When the police succeeded in quelling the riot they had arrested more than enough inhabitants of the Chinese district to fill the Elizabeth street and other police stations in the vicinity.

According to a report made by the police, the Hip Sing Tong started the trouble and deliberately selected the Chinese theatre as the most favorable scene for operations.

When five policemen managed to force their way into the theatre they found four men lying in pools of blood, and a score or more hiding under benches, the backs of which were splintered with bullets.

In a short time the reserves arrived. Two ambulances were called and the men most dangerously hurt—four of them—were hurried to the hospital. Three of them died soon after reaching the hospital.

A squad of police hastened to the headquarters of the Hip Sing Tong, which is at 12 Bowery, where they arrested three men in the building and found four others hiding on the roof. A little later Mock Duck, alleged to be the leader of the Hip Sing Tongs, was arrested. According to statements made by Chinamen to the police, he instigated the affray and remained outside of the theatre, having sent into it the men who did the shooting, with orders to wait in the back of the house until a confederate in front set off big crackers, when they were to pick off certain designated victims.

Wolf In Sheep's Clothing

Catskill, N. Y., Aug. 7.—John Etheridge, aged 24, charged with forgery, and who is wanted by the police of several other places, where he is said to have defrauded hotel men and clergymen, was identified in jail here by Rev. E. E. Brooks as the man who called at the Dover rectory on a recent Sunday and introduced himself as a clergyman of the Episcopal church. "I gave up my pulpit to the stranger," said Brooks, "and he delivered to my people one of the best sermons I ever heard and before leaving my house he stole my gold watch."

Death of Colonel O'Reilly

Woonsocket, R. I., Aug. 7.—Colonel Francis L. O'Reilly, former collector for the port of Providence, died suddenly at his home here late Saturday night. Death was due to kidney trouble and general debility. One year ago Saturday O'Reilly's wife, three children and Mrs. O'Reilly's sister and her baby, together with two other residents of this place, were drowned while on a boating excursion near Digby, N. S. O'Reilly had never recovered from the shock of this tragedy. He was born in Ireland 61 years ago.

Each Side Claims Gains

St. Paul, Aug. 7.—There continues to be a wide variance between the official statements given out by the contending sides in the strike of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers against the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern roads. Officials of the roads assert that the strike is about at an end, and that 12 hours more will see its finish. President Perham of the Telegraphers' union says that the situation is more favorable to the operators than it has been at any stage of the strike and that he is confident of victory.

Russians Facing a Great Army

Lidiapudze, Manchuria, Aug. 7.—The Japanese have concentrated in Manchuria, in front of the Russian armies, 430,000 infantry, with 1600 cannon. This is exclusive of the detachment of General Hasegawa, commander of the forces in Korea, and a special detachment, the destination of which is not known. The weather is good and the roads are drying.

Houses Undermined by Rain

Philadelphia, Aug. 7.—An unusually heavy thunderstorm passed over this section, doing considerable damage. More than two inches of rain fell in a short time. Two houses were undermined and collapsed, probably fatally injuring John Hanabacker, aged 73. Four other persons had narrow escapes from death.

Tenement Districts Short of Bread

New York, Aug. 7.—The result of the strike of the East Side Hebrew bakers, which was ushered in Saturday night with small disturbances, is a big bread famine in the tenement districts which will be more serious if, as is expected, two other unions strike in sympathy.

Not Guilty of Bribery

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 7.—State Senator Farris was acquitted by a jury on a charge of bribery in connection with a bill introduced to repeal the statute prohibiting the use of alum in the manufacture of baking powder.

Gasolene Launch Disaster

New York, Aug. 7.—The gasolene tank of the launch Chester exploded last night. Of the eight persons on board the launch at the time, Herbert Coter and William Adele are missing. Six others were rescued.

Tradesmen Not Boycotted

Yokohama, Aug. 7.—A meeting of Chinese held here resolved to boycott American bankers, shippers and insurance agents, but deferred action with regard to other lines of business.

The Weather Forecast

Gomez Defies the Government

Havana, Aug. 7.—Governor Gomez of Santa Clara province, Liberal candidate for the presidency of Cuba, in an interview in reference to the Cuban government's assumption of the right to inspect municipalities without reference to the provincial authorities, says: "I will not allow any one excepting the provincial authorities to inspect the municipalities of this province. If the supreme court decides against the contention we are now maintaining we would not obey its mandate, because of its partiality in favor of executive authority."

Given a Hearty Reception

Boston, Aug. 7.—The Duke of Cornwall's own rifles, the Firty-Third regiment of Canadian militia, which is visiting New England, attended services at Trinity Episcopal church yesterday afternoon. The visitors assembled at the south armory and, escorted by several local organizations, marched to the church. Large crowds enthusiastically greeted the Canadians. Last night the militiamen were entertained at a smoking concert. The officers and guests were dined at Hotel Beaconsfield.

Morton's Automobile Hit Car

New York, Aug. 7.—President Morton of the Equitable Life Assurance society and his wife had a narrow escape from serious injury last night when their automobile ran into an Eighth avenue car. In attempting to avoid the car the automobile wheels slipped and the machine struck the car a glancing blow. The conductor was thrown from the car platform and slightly hurt and the automobile was temporarily disabled.

Following Witte's Movements

St. Petersburg, Aug. 7.—The morning newspapers appear to be tiring of commenting blindly on the possibilities of the Portsmouth peace conference, but the movements of Mr. Witte and the others as described in the press are followed closely and with interest by the people, who await news of the actual negotiations with anxiety.

No Concessions at Present

Tangier, Aug. 7.—The German government has intimated to the Moroccan government that it does not desire to secure any concessions pending the international conference.

Robbery of Russian Treasury

Opatoff, Russian Poland, Aug. 7.—The local treasury was attacked by 40 armed men, who killed or wounded all the watchmen guarding the building. The robbers secured $10,000.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Captain Evan P. Howell, for many years prominently identified with southern journalism, died at Atlanta after an illness brought on by a carbuncle complicated with diabetes. He was 65 years old.

Dr. Robert F. Beatie of Brookline, Mass., was drowned while bathing near his summer residence at Phillips' beach, Swampscott, Mass., death being probably due primarily to heart trouble.

Frederick G. Hutchins, cashier of the Lancaster National bank and treasurer of the Siwooganock Guaranty savings bank, died at Lancaster, N. H., from the effects of a stroke of apoplexy.

George F. Sweet, janitor of the Providence county courthouse, met death while bathing at Long Meadow, on Narragansett bay. Death was probably caused by acute indigestion, to which he was subject.

Napoleon Roderick, aged 17, was drowned while bathing at Waterville, Me.

A WHALE DAIRY.

Butter and Cheese Made From Milk of Newfoundland Cetaceans.

Not the least of the triumphs of modern scientific methods in man's utilization of natural resources is forecasted in the brief announcement from the Balena (Newfoundland) whale fisheries to the effect that Professor Muller has succeeded in domesticating a herd of fifty sulphur bottom cow whales and has perfected an apparatus for milking the mammoth cetaceans.

The yield of milk from a full grown whale is from five to seven hogsheads a day. The milk is fresh and sweet and peculiarly rich in nutritive and medicinal qualities. It is much thicker and richer than the best Jersey milk and possesses a peculiarly pleasant and distinctive flavor which those who have tasted it pronounce superior to any known product of the lacteal variety. Chemical analysis has shown that the milk of the sulphur bottom whale is rich in those same fats and proteids which give to cod liver oil its value as a remedial food.

As soon as dairy experiments in the way of butter and cheese making are complete the herd will be driven down to an inlet on the Maine coast, which has been fitted for a pasture. There the dairy will be established permanently.—Brooklyn Eagle.

PARASITES MAKE PEARLS.

A Tapeworm the Nucleus of the Oyster's Precious Product.

Familiar as may be the fact that pearls are formed around intrusive foreign bodies within the shell of the oyster, the notion that such intrusive bodies are apt to be inorganic particles, such as grains of sand, must, asserts the Quarterly Review, be given up.

Recent investigation has shown that the nucleus which must be present if a pearl is to be formed is the larva of some "highly organized parasite" having a complicated and as yet inaccurately known life history. The parasite would seem to form a pit in the outer surface of the mantle or fleshy flap that lines the shell of the oyster, and this mantle, in order to protect itself, secretes a pearly coat around the parasite.

Microscopic examination of thin sections made through decalcified pearls showed that they are almost in all cases deposited around a minute larva, which seems almost certain to be the larva of the cestode or tapeworm. These larvae apparently make their way into the oyster, and the irritation they set up induces the formation of the pearl.

Solid Glass Bathtubs.

Glass bathtubs are now being made and are said to have advantages over metal and enamel, the principal one being that they are much cheaper. They are made in a solid piece, and one can be turned out complete in about five minutes. This is the simple way in which it is done: The molten glass is taken from the surface and placed in a mold which can be readily swung into any desired position. Compressed air is then admitted through a flexible tube which connects with the bottom of the mold. The air pressure is regulated by valves. As soon as the article is finished it is switched into an annealing chamber, where it is again heated and then allowed to cool. This toughens it, and after this process it is ready for use.

Novel Life Preserver.

The novel life preserver shown in the accompanying illustration is the invention of a Chicago man. It consists of a double walled sleeve adapted to fit around the forearm of the user and made of flexible waterproof and air proof material.

South Pole Warming Up.

Since the first visit to the ice cap of the south pole was made, some fifty years ago, there has been a steady recession of the belt of some thirty miles, and it is argued that in the course of time it will be possible to make approach to the pole itself and that the land in that vicinity may even become inhabited. It is now believed that the ice cap is but the remains of the glacial period and that when the ice shall finally have melted it will not form again, the waters then being subject to only such ice formations as occur in any sea in wintry weather.

Anticancer Serum a Failure.

The committee appointed six months ago to investigate the effects of Dr. Doyen's anticancer serum has made a report to the French Surgical society, which concludes that there is nothing which justifies the statement that the treatment may bring about amelioration in the condition of patients. Sufferers were treated by Dr. Doyen under the committee's supervision. In no case was there the least improvement observed.

A New Anaesthetic.

Two German scientists announce the discovery of a new anaesthetic, having all the virtues of cocaine without its secondary ill effects. The new substance is called "allypine." It deadens pain by local application and does not contain poison

Work For All.

A woman can't sharpen a pencil, 'tis true,
But proudly she holds up her head
When she notes what a man, clumsy creature, will do
When you give him a needle to thread.
—Boston Transcript.

Fixing the Motive.

"Why is she so anxious to go to cooking school?"

"Maybe she wants to get even with somebody."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Summer Folly.

"The hand that rocks the cradle"
Has to hustle, so we note,
To raise more human victims
For "the hand that rocks the boat!"
—Indianapolis News.

The Result.

"Mr. Tawxem, the orator of the evening, exhausted his topic, no doubt."

"No," answered Miss Cayenne, "only his audience."—Washington Star.

Her Specialty.

No woman should expect to be
A lawyer of renown.
She can't take up the law, for she Likes most to lay it down.
—Philadelphia Press.

A Bit Personal.

"I can see myself in every line I write," declared the dreamy author.

"What do you write on? A mirror?" asked the discerning woman.—Chicago Tribune.

Too Long to Wait.

"You've got a wonderful voice, Gracie. Some day them notes'll be worth a hundred dollars apiece."

"Oh, dear! I wish they was worth the price of a ice cream soda right now."—New York Evening Journal.

Unpoetic Monster.

She—Do you notice, dear, what beautiful azure tints the sun lends to the bosom of the ocean?

He—That, my dear, is the dye out of some of those cheap bathing dresses.

NO SCORES

For Two of the Quincy Clubs.

Merrymounts Shut Out the Quincys.

South Quincys Whitewashed by Braintrees.

At Merrymount park on Saturday the Merrymounts defeated the Quincy team by the score of 4 to 0.

The Quincys never had a show from the start, and the wretched fielding of that team helped the Merrymounts much. The Merrymounts played a brilliant game without an error.

In the second inning Kolson was hit on his right hand by a pitched ball and again in the third he was hit in the head, dazing him for a few moments, but he pluckily kept on and was a great factor in winning.

Kolson pitched great ball, allowing no bases and striking out six, although handicapped with an injured hand. In the sixth Atkins made a fine catch with his bare hand of a line drive.

The Merrymounts made three runs in the second inning and one more in the sixth.

POP GOES THE WEASEL.

The Meaning of These Words In the Old English Song.

How many people know the meaning of the words "Pop goes the weasel" in the song? Many of us have probably regarded them as a meaningless tag, having some dim Cockney bearing on the animal. Such a bearing they have, but in an unexpected way. A writer in Notes and Queries affirms that the words refer to a purse made of weasel skin which opened and closed with a snap. This brings the line out of irrelevant jargon into the main sense:

Up and down the city road,
In and out the Eagle;
That's the way the money goes—
Pop goes the weasel.

The "popping" or snapping of the purse is declared to be the equivalent of "Bang went saxpence."

But this explanation is not, perhaps, so inherently probable as another which makes "weasel" a slang term for silver plate, prize cups, etc.—articles which, as the result of gadding in the City road, were pawned or "popped." This idea is repeated in a story of an Islington tailor who, through frequenting the Eagle tavern, had to pop his "weasel," an instrument used in the cutting of cloth. Whatever the weasel may have been, the song went round the world, and many a boy in faroff Brazil or Ceylon received his first idea of London's streets in its reference to the City road.—London Globe.

BIRD CUSTOMS.

The Habit of Billing and the Stock Dove's Bow In a Fight.

An Englishman, Edmond Selous, has been watching doves at play and in combat. Of the habit of "billing," in which so many birds engage when they are nesting, he says: "Where birds now merely 'bill,' they once, in my opinion, fed each other, or the male fed the female, but pleasure came to be experienced in the contact alone, and the passage of food, which was never necessary, gradually became obsolete. I think it by no means improbable that our own kissing may have originated in much the same way, and that birds when thus 'billing' experience the same sort of pleasure that we do when we kiss must be quite obvious to any one who has watched them."

Of a peculiarity of the stock dove Mr. Selous writes: "When these birds fight they constantly interrupt the flow of the combat by bowing in the most absurd way, not to one another, but generally, so to speak, for no object or purpose whatever, apparently, but only because they must do so. The fact is the bow has become a formula of courtship, and, as courting and fighting are intimately connected, the one suggests the other in the mind of the bird, who bows all at once under a misconception."

THE WORD "LOBSTER."

In Its Slang Sense It Has Been In Use For Centuries.

In letters from Sir Walter Scott to William Clark of Eldin, under date of Sept. 10 and 30, 1792, are found allusions to the word "lobster" as a playful sobriquet for the redcoat officers and soldiers of the British army. In this case a boiled lobster is meant, as per evidence of the following couplet, once familiar to the English street boys, and quoted whenever a rifleman in green was seen walking arm in arm with a soldier in red:

There go two lobsters, claw in claw;
One is boiled, and t'other's raw.

Sir Arthur Hazlerigg, in Cromwell's time, commanded a regiment of cuirassiers, who "from their complete armor obtained the nickname of lobsters." (Baldock's "Cromwell as a Soldier.") What was mere raillery in England may readily have grown into an expression of hatred and contempt in America at the time of the Revolution, and, in point of fact, Bancroft's "History of the United States" relates that "lobsters" was one of the abusive epithets applied to the soldiers by the mob on the occasion of the Boston massacre.—Philadelphia Press.

A Taste of Fame.

When Thackeray was a candidate for parliament from the city of Oxford some one remarked to him that he must be well known to most of those whose votes he sought. "Now," said Thackeray, laying down his knife and fork and holding up a finger, "there was only one man among all that I went to see who had heard my name before, and he was a circulating librarian. Such is mortal fame!" That was in 1857 and "Vanity Fair" had been published ten years.

Might Be Worse.

Winks—What makes you look so blue? Jinks—I have six daughters, none of them married or likely to be. Winks—And you are blue over it? You are the most ungrateful mortal that ever breathed. I have six daughters, all married, all have children, and I've got to support the whole crowd.—New York Weekly.

Sorry He Spoke.

"I wish, Mrs. Brown," said the boarder to his landlady, "I wish you'd give me the receipt for that pudding we had yesterday."

"I'd much rather give you a receipt for the board you had last month," returned the landlady tartly.

Her Unhappy Way.

"That girl has an unfortunate idea of repartee."

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "She has an idea that she is saying smart things when she is merely saying things that smart."—Washington Star.

Her Duplicate Presents.

She—Did your sister get any duplicate wedding presents. He—Yes; she married a widower with two boys.

STAMMERING.

The Cure That One Sufferer Invented May Help Others.

Among the minor arts of great importance is the self cure of stammering, which comes upon so many in early youth. In the memoir of the author of "John Inglesant," which his widow prepared, we read a rather touching confession. "I contracted the habit of stammering," wrote Mr. Shorthouse to Lady Welby, "as a delicate little boy of three at a large day school. It was not such a misfortune as might be supposed. For without this thorn in the flesh 'John Inglesant' would never have been written or conceived, and much which is very dear to me in philosophy would have been unknown." Few stammerers can bring forth a classic from their affliction, and some would even refuse the author's fame at the price of the speaker's embarrassments.

In many cases the self cure of stammering is easy. The present writer was a sufferer when a boy at a day school. He set himself to invent the cure. It was absolutely necessary, he found, that the opening syllable of a sentence should be said several times before the sentence was under way (just as the billiard player waggles his cue before the correct stroke). It occurred that the stammering might be done silently. So that little boy stammered firmly to himself with tightly closed lips, imagining himself to be speaking. It was easy enough, when the requisite number of "tut-tut-tuts" or "gug-gug-gugs" had been achieved in silence to start the sentence. Since then he has never stammered—aloud.—London Chronicle.

A SILVER BRIDGE.

Quaint Ceremony That Goes With a Roumanian Wedding.

At Roumanian weddings it is the custom at the wedding feast for the groom to receive his bride over a bridge of silver.

Coins are placed in a double row across the table, and over this the bride daintily steps to her husband's waiting arms.

The ceremony of laying the bridge is one of the interesting events of the wedding feast following the religious ceremony. When the guests are brought to a proper spirit of festivity by the good cheer at the board a space at the head of the table is cleared and from a bag are drawn silver coins procured for the purpose, the proper provision being the production of coins fresh from the mint.

These are laid in a double row across the table, and when all is ready the father of the groom makes a speech to his son, admonishing him to see that his bride's way through life is always paved with silver.

A proper response is made, and, mounting a chair, the elder man swings the bride lightly to the table. Carefully avoiding the displacing of a coin (for that would mean bad luck) the girl makes her way across the short silver pathway and leaps into the arms of her spouse.

At wedding feasts where ostentation is desired the bridge is built lengthwise of the table.

A Criticism by Liszt.

A story of Liszt recites that on a certain occasion a Miss M. was playing a sonata by Sterndale Bennett, a work of a very prosy type and certainly lacking in anything like spontaneity or poetry. Liszt was evidently not familiar with it, so, after playing some six or seven pages, he gently tapped Miss M. on the arm and said, "Mademoiselle, would you kindly name the piece you are performing?" "Certainly, sir," she replied. "It is the sonata 'The Maid of Orleans,' by William Sterndale Bennett." "H'm," said Liszt. "It's a pity the original manuscript didn't meet the same fate as the 'maid.'"

Strawberries.

Lord Sefton, the renowned gourmet, was once interrogated as to the best mode of eating strawberries and replied: "Sprinkle them slightly with powdered white sugar candy and a few drops of Malmsey. Take them after breakfast or for supper or after dinner after a plain biscuit ice." When a once well known diplomatist attended his first garden party after arriving in London he was shown a dish of strawberries and cream. "Pourquoi faire?" cried he, explaining that he could not bring himself to fancy that the mess was intended for the food of men.—London Truth.

Bank of Ireland Guard.

The Bank of Ireland, like the Bank of England, has a military guard, which is relieved every twenty-four hours. Immediately after the mounting of the new guard every morning a knock at the door of the officer's room announces the arrival of the head porter with a large book, in which the officer signs his name, rank and regiment, and on the departure of the porter with the book a half sovereign is found on the table. It is the officer's perquisite.

The Bad One.

"That brother of yours, Lucy," said the man of the house, "seems to be a pretty tough character."

"'Deed he is, suh," replied the colored maid. "He jes' natchelly seems to be de white sheep ob our fambly, sho' 'nuff."—Philadelphia Press.

Her Cooks.

Mrs. Hatterson—What! You've had fourteen cooks in three months? Mrs. Catterson—Yes, and I didn't please any of them.

Labor is the inevitable lot of the majority, and the best education is that which will make their labor most productive.—Proude.

MANY ESTATES.

Being Connected with Public Sewer.

Nearly 200 So Far This Year.

The Number of Connections to Date is 1686.

Business has been good in the Sewer Department thus far this year. Up to August 1, there have been 181 estates connected with the sewer this year. Besides this the department has on hand a number of applications for connection. The total number of estates in the city that had been connected with the public sewer up August 1 was 1686.

During the early part of the year the Board of Health investigated a number of complaints from various sections of the city. As a result of their investigation the private sewer on Edison street was ordered discontinued, and the houses on Edison street, Edison park, Charles street and Thompson street were ordered to connect with the public sewer. The Board of Health also ordered all of the estates on Penn street to connect.

The residents of the streets readily complied with the order, and the employees of the Sewer Department have been kept on the jump.

Following are the estates that have been connected with the public sewer this year:

Mrs. L. M. Morrow, Charles street

JOSEPHINE FIRST.

Warm Race for Cape Cats over Marblehead Course.

The Quincy Yacht club boats arrived at Marblehead on Monday in time for the open race of the Boston Yacht club, in which 53 yachts started. Most of the Quincy flyers were in Class D for Cape cats, and the summary for that class is:

CLASS D, Cape Cats.

| | Elapsed time. | Corrected time. |
|---|---|---|
| Josephine, F. H. Smith | 2 05 44 | 2 03 34 |
| Marvel, I. M. Whittemore | 2 09 30 | 2 05 55 |
| Hustler, H. W. Robbins | 2 12 15 | 2 07 42 |
| Argestes, G. H. Wilkins | 2 09 28 | 2 08 00 |
| Stranger, F. E. Dawes | 2 14 40 | 2 09 49 |
| Dorothy III., F. F. Crane | 2 13 10 | 2 10 19 |
| Moondyne, W. H. Shaw | 2 14 59 | 2 12 46 |
| Goblin, R. M. Lothrop | 2 21 48 | 2 14 56 |

The Globe report says: The cats, started at 2:45, bunched on the line, and it seemed a foul was unavoidable, but they got away without touching, though some were dead in the water when the leaders went off, on the starboard tack. The Moodyne led, with the Goblin second and the Marvel third. They had a warm race all around, the fleet little Josephine repeating her Hull stunt by working up to the lead before the finish and winning.

The leading boats in each class were: Class E,—Nutmeg. Class I,—Hayseed. First Rating class, Neemer. Second Rating class, Carma. Doris, Barbara.

High City Tax Rate.

Marlboro is another city with a big tax rate, the assessors on Monday announcing a rate of $19.30 which is an increase of 70 cents over last year. Two years ago the rate was $19.60.

The personal property shows a remarkable increase of $200,000 over last year. This is owing to much increased machinery in the factories and a telephone conduit. The polls show a gain of 120 over last year. The total valuation is $9,725,553, as against $9,479,003 in 1904, an increase of $246,550. The valuation of real estate is $8,187,553, as against $8,137,553.

BATTLESHIPS COMING.

The Massachusetts and Others Will Be in the Harbor for Few Days.

SEAGOING BATTLESHIP IOWA.

The second division of the first squadron of the North Atlantic fleet, consisting of the flagship Alabama, the Illinois, Iowa and Massachusetts, with Rear Admiral C. N. Davis commanding, is expected to come to Boston Friday for a few days' stop, says the Herald.

The Maryland was reported at Highland light Monday, and sailed from Provincetown at 10.30 o'clock, arriving here about four hours later. The Maryland will go into the new drydock probably the first of next week and will be the vessel with which the official tests are to be made. The date set is August 12, but there is some probability that the tests will be delayed a few days.

Capt. Gast has reported from Washington and will be the president of the trial board. Civil Engineer F. Thompson of the local yard will be another member, the others are not known here yet, as no advices of the appointments have been received and no other members have reported.

Rubber Film Gloves For Surgeons.

A rubber film glove has been devised for surgeons. The gloves are "put on" by immersing the hands in a weak solution of gutta percha in benzine or acetone. The purpose of the film is to seal the surfaces of the hands with an insoluble, impervious and practically imperceptible pellicle, which will not admit blood, pus or secretions. Such a protective measure for surgeons is said to be preferable to working with rubber gloves, inasmuch as the sense of touch of pliability of the skin is not impaired in any way.

Says Automobiles Spread Moths.

"The spread of the gypsy moth," says Professor A. H. Kirkland, superintendent of the Massachusetts gypsy moth experimentation service, "is largely due to the increasing abundance of automobiles. The moths drop upon them from the trees, particularly when the automobile stops for any length of time. Thus the insect is carried many miles from its original haunt, and wherever it is deposited it begins to breed and do damage."

Photographic Trap For Chauffeurs.

A photographic police trap for the apprehension of scorching automobilists has been invented in England. By the pressing of a button a photograph is made of any passing car, with the time and date. A pair of these instruments with synchronized timing arrangements used at each end of a measured piece of ground would, it is believed, give absolutely accurate data as to the speed of automobiles.

Improved Wireless Telegraphy.

An important improvement in wireless telegraphy is announced by Professor Braun of Strassburg, inventor of the system which bears his name. The professor has succeeded in directing wireless electrical waves in a single direction. Until now it has been possible only to transmit waves in all directions. Much energy is saved by the new invention.

Flower Book of Real Flowers.

The Yellowstone Park Flower Book, published by the Northern Pacific, is a beautiful creation. It contains twelve specimens of real, pressed flowers, in natural colors, from Yellowstone Park, with botanical names and the places where found.

The book also has six full page, fine, half-tone illustrations showing the Park bears, the Grand canon, geysers, hotels, etc., found in the Park, with a brief description of this most wonderful region, 54 by 62 miles in size, in the very depths of the Rockies.

The Flower Book makes a beautiful souvenir. Send A. M. Cleland, General Passenger Agent, Northern Pacific Ry., St. Paul, Minn., fifty cents for a copy.

Witte Disappointed Crowd at Portsmouth Station

JAPANESE WAR REPORTS

Russian Envoy Says That If They Were True His Country Would Not at This Time Possess Any Army--Foreign Correspondents Are Hustling For News

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 8.—Mr. Witte, the head of the Russian peace delegates, reached this city from Boston at 11:15 last night. At the same time the operators in the wireless station had a very busy time trying to pick up the Dolphin, with the Japanese envoys on board. An answer to the numerous calls was received, stating that the Dolphin was then off Cape Cod, 75 miles away. She was steaming slowly, and those on board thought that the cruiser would reach the harbor in time for the opening of the peace conference.

Mr. Witte came on a special car attached to the regular Bar Harbor express. He was enabled to avoid a crowd of several hundred people assembled at the railroad station through the train stopping at a crossing about a quarter of a mile from the station.

Three automobiles were in waiting and the party was at once taken to Hotel Wentworth, about four miles distant. There was considerable disappointment among those assembled at the station when the distinguished foreigner failed to appear after the arrival of the train.

It was soon learned that the Russians had left the train at the crossing, and there was a rush toward the street leading to the Wentworth, but the foreigners were well on their way before the crowd reached the scene.

Mr. Witte's automobile had gone about half a mile when it met with an accident and was obliged to stop. Mr. Witte was transferred to another automobile and again started for the Wentworth, arriving there at 11:35 o'clock.

On the way from Boston Witte dictated a statement concerning dispatches from Tokio. Mr. Witte's statement is as follows:

"I have read in the telegrams from Tokio that the Japanese captured 40,000 Russian soldiers at the Island of Sakhalin during the recent operations there. Now, as far as I know, the whole garrison at Sakhalin island consists of no more than a maximum of 4000 men.

"It is a known fact that the Russian soldiers do not surrender, and if we take into consideration that some of the soldiers of the island garrison were killed, then the number of the captured could not even reach 4000.

"I do not wish at all to minimize the successes or bravery of the Japanese, but at the same time all the people of Russia and myself cannot help being surprised at the cables which have reached us lately during the war from Tokio.

"According to them, if all these Russian soldiers which have from time to time been reported from Tokio as captured, killed or wounded, had in fact been captured, killed or wounded by the Japanese, Russia would not at this time possess any army at all, and then my journey to the United States would be quite superfluous.

"Reading these cables, a well known Russian proverb comes to my memory. I might translate it thus: 'One may exaggerate, but there is a limit to exaggeration.'"

As enterprising as any of their American colleagues and like them drifting here, there and everywhere in search of anything that might throw the least light upon the peace negotiations or the preparations for the conference, the foreign correspondents, Japanese, Russian and French, are very much in evidence.

At the postoffice, the headquarters of the different newspapers, the railroad stations and the depot—in fact, wherever the journalistic clan is accustomed to gather, they are there, too, anxious and evidently well qualified to keep up with the procession.

Yesterday afternoon the dinner and vaudeville show given in the local theatre to the newspaper men by Editor Hartford of the Portsmouth Herald, the foreigners were on hand along with the rest and enjoyed it all hugely.

The Japanese were a bit timid at first when the lobsters and clams, particularly the latter were served. When the dishes of steaming bivalves were set before them the eight Japanese looked around timidly before tackling an apparently unknown proposition.

But when they saw how their American colleagues tackled that same proposition, sacrificing style to convenience, they found out that fingers were preferable to chop-sticks in such an emergency, and the fate of the bivalves was sealed.

They hesitated when the lobster came round and waited to see how the others went about opening the shells. Then it was "good-by to the lobsters."

Many of the songs and jokes offered by the vaudeville company for the entertainment of their guests were evidently a little bit obscure to the foreigners, but they laughed when the rest did.

Beginning to Think of Peace

St. Petersburg, Aug. 8.—The eve of the opening of the all-important negotiations at Portsmouth sees a belief in the possibility of peace. Even the hope that the negotiators will reach a peaceful understanding is more prevalent than it was a week ago and the country and the government are waiting anxiously for a message from the United States.

Linevitch Reports Skirmishes

St. Petersburg, Aug. 8.—An official dispatch from General Linevitch reports that on Aug. 2 the Russians approached the villages of Nanchenchensi and Suisuluchua, forcing the Japanese to evacuate their frontal positions and retreat to their fortifications. The following day the Japanese advanced, but were forced to retire. On Aug. 2, also, the Russians drove the Japanese from the village of Landunchensi. Telegraphing under date of Aug. 5, Linevitch confirms the report that the Japanese, after destroying the post at Castries bay, returned to their ships.

World Should Thank Roosevelt

Rome, Aug. 8.—The pope received in private audience Edward J. Sullivan, American consul at Trebizond. He expressed the most fervent desire that peace would be concluded between Russia and Japan, and said that President Roosevelt was entitled to the thanks of the whole civilized world for his efforts to bring the bloody conflict to a close.

New York Has Spectacular Blaze

New York, Aug. 8.—A spectacular fire late last night on the piers of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad in Hoboken destroyed the main depot, with its 600 feet of train sheds, the ferry house, a hotel nearby, the terminal of the street railway, a new immigration station, burned two ferry boats and for half an hour or more threatened the docks of the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American lines. The loss is estimated at about $500,000. No lives were lost and only one fireman was seriously injured.

Excursionists Had Close Call

Indianapolis, Aug. 8.—The excursion steamboat Sunshine sank yesterday afternoon at Broad Ripple park, with 180 passengers on board, all of whom were men except one. No one was drowned, but five persons were injured in the panic. The boat was carrying a picnic party. The over-weighting of the boat caused it to turn over on its side. The boat was near the bank when the accident occurred and in but seven feet of water. The upper deck remained above the water.

Crime Prompted by Jealousy

New Philadelphia, O., Aug. 8.—Suffering from terrible cuts inflicted with a hatchet, Maud Shaffer was found unconscious in her home, and Harvey Colvin, whom Miss Shaffer accuses of having inflicted the wounds, was found in the same house, unconscious from the effects of carbolic acid which he had swallowed. Colvin died shortly after, but Miss Shaffer may recover. Jealousy is said to have prompted the deed.

Hamilton Concession Annulled

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 8.—President Roosevelt has been informed that the federal court of Venezuela has rendered a dicision against the Bermudez Asphalt company in the case involving the so-called Hamilton concession, annulling the concession. What action may be taken by this government regarding the matter cannot be announced at this time.

Want Jerome to Investigate

New York, Aug. 8.—Following charges of fraud in connection with the affairs of the Merchants' Trust company, the depositors of the institution last night appointed a committee of three to confer with District Attorney Jerome. This committee, it is understood, will lay before Jerome evidence of alleged wrongdoing in its possession.

Twenty Thousand Men May Strike

Cleveland, Aug. 8.—The Plain Dealer says that orders have been issued from the headquarters of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers for a general strike against the American Bridge company from Maine to California. It is estimated that between 15,000 and 20,000 men will quit work.

Burdensome Chinese Boycott

Shanghai, Aug. 8.—The boycott on American goods is becoming so burdensome to the trade of all nations here that the general Chamber of Commerce and the China association have taken steps to endeavor to persuade the Chinese foreign office to interfere and prevent further injury to trade.

Bogus Butter For Navy Yard

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—Thomas Brady, a butter dealer of this city who has been supplying butter to the League Island navy yard, has been arrested, charged with selling colored oleomargarine for butter, as a result of an investigation of the butter used at the navy yard.

Disastrous Boiler Explosion

Knoxville, Aug. 8.—In a boiler explosion in a sawmill near Del Rio, three men were instantly killed, another fatally injured and seven others wounded. Carelessness in allowing water to get low in the boiler is the supposed cause of the accident.

Back to Old Passenger Rates

Chicago, Aug. 8.—The east-bound war on passenger differential rates from Chicago to eastern points has been settled through an agreement entered into by the various railroads concerned, and normal rates will be restored on Aug. 20.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Wednesday, Aug. 9.
Sun rises—4:45; sets—6:55.
Moon sets—12:03 a. m.
High water—5:45 a. m.; 6:15 p. m.

What It Costs

... AND ...

What It Pays

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchan has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in cheaper paper?

GREEK ARCHITECTURE.

A Certain Fixed Proposition Was Adopted For Each Edifice.

In constructing their stone edifices the Greeks, who were reasoners and logicians, followed certain rules and adopted for each edifice a certain fixed proportion. What does this mean? It means that the proportions of the different parts of the edifice are simple proportions which can be reduced to a common measure. Take as an example the temple of Paestum. The module is the mean radius of the column. This module measures three feet. The column is ten times the module, or, say, thirty feet. The distance between the axes of the columns is five times the module, say, fifteen feet. The total height of the entablature is also fifteen feet, the width of the abacus is three modules, equal to nine feet. It is thus seen that all these numbers are multiples of three, which is the module. In this manner the proportions of the different members of an edifice have a constant relation to each other.

It goes without saying that the module varies for each edifice; there is no single and absolute rule. For instance, in the Doric order the length of the column varies from ten to twelve modules, in the Ionic order from sixteen to twenty-one. The entablature of the Doric order measures five modules and that of the Ionic only four.—Architectural Record.

OUR OLDEST HOTEL.

It Is In Arizona and Dates From the Seventeenth Century.

St. Augustine is the oldest town in the United States, but the oldest hotel in the country, contrary to what one would expect, is not in the east at all, but as far west as Arizona, being situated in Phenix of that state.

It was built in the seventeenth century by the Spaniards, just after the erection of a wonderful governor's palace, which also is to be seen to this day—the famous "Palacio del Gobernador." The hotel is a long, low, one story affair, built of adobe, with a flat roof, low doorways and many paned windows. The structure is now rather dingy in appearance, although it was, no doubt, considered really spacious and elegant when first erected.

When in 1681 the Indians threw off the Spanish yoke the hotel became a temporary fort. Many a successful Indian raid was planned in this very building, and councils of war were held frequently in the "taproom," as it was called.

This old tavern has sheltered such men as Custer, John C. Fremont, General Phil Sheridan, Zebulon Pike, Buffalo Bill and other famous scouts and plainsmen, besides many lesser heroes who, in true dime novel fashion, "went west to fight Injuns."

AN ANCIENT CUSTOM.

Wassailing of Apple Trees Still Observed In Parts of England.

What is the wassailing of apple trees?

This is an old custom, fast dying out, but still observed in parts of Somerset and Devon. At Wooton-Basset, near Minehead, the ceremony takes place on old Twelfth eve. All assemble at the farmhouse, and, after a hearty meal, form a procession to the nearest orchard, the master in front with a light, and men with old guns, blunderbusses and anything that makes a noise, in the rear. Plenty of cider is taken and some pieces of toast.

When the orchard is reached a ring is formed, and the master, in the center, seizes a branch and sings a verse beginning, "Oh, apple tree, I wassail thee, in hopes that thou wilt blow." Then all shout in chorus:

Hatfuls, capfuls, three bushel bagfuls,
Barn oorfuls, tullet holefuls,
And a little heap under the stairs.

Then follow cheers, drinking of healths, shouts of "Now, Tom Pod, we wassail thee!" and the placing of the pieces of toast, soaked in cider, among the branches for the robins.—London Answers.

Sit Up Straight.

Your backbone was not made for a barrel hoop, so do not curve it around, but rather straighten it out. God made man upright—not round shouldered, humpbacked or bending over.

If you bend over too much in your studies, get a lower seat. Saw the legs off from an old chair, and then sit down so low that your chin will come just above the table. Make the hind legs a little shorter than the fore legs, and then read and write with your arms on the table, and it will take out some of the crook from your back.

National Airs.

The national airs of great countries are short, while those of little countries are long. "God Save the King" is fourteen bars, the Russian hymn is sixteen bars and "Hail, Columbia!" has twenty-eight bars. Siam's national hymn has seventy-six bars and that of Uruguay seventy, Chile forty-six, and so on. San Marino has the longest national hymn except that of China.

Clever Plan.

A lady invited to a very recherche musical party had met with an accident to her front teeth which there was no time to repair. She said, "I will come, and, as I dare not open my mouth, you must tell your friends I am deaf and dumb, but appreciate music."

Hard on the Doctor.

Doctor—Well, John, how are you today? John—Verra bad, verra bad. I wish Providence 'ud 'ave mussy on me an' take me! Wife—'Ow can you expect it to if you won't take the doctor's physic?—Punch.

Ignorance, when it is voluntary, is criminal.—Johnson.

THE LOOK OF A CHILD.

Its Pleading Power Was Too Great to Be Resisted.

"The look of a little child is sometimes a wonderful thing," said the man who had risen high on the ladder of success. "I remember that the greatest lesson I have ever learned in my life was pointed out to me by my daughter, who was only five years old at that time. That was fifteen years ago, when I had just attained some measure of distinction in the business world, and I felt that I could afford to rest on my oars awhile. I had never been a drinking man, but frequent conferences at hotel lobbies and after theater talks with my associates began to tell on me and I am ashamed to confess that I came home many a night slightly the worse for wear and 'booze.' The habit of imbibing grew on me, in spite of tearful entreaties from my wife, until I took a bottle of whisky home one afternoon. After dinner I made for that bottle, which I had left in my study, poured out a glass and raised it to my lips, when I caught a reflection in the polished woodwork of the wall. I turned quickly, and there was my little daughter standing in the doorway looking at me. I could never describe the expression on her face. If one might say it of a child, it was a commingling of reproach, pity and disgust. Probably she had overheard conversations between her mother and myself—perhaps the mother had instilled that feeling—perhaps it was instinct. I have not taken another drink from that day to this."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

THE PHENIX.

Legend of How It Lived and Died and Lived Again.

The ancient tradition concerning the phenix has introduced into nearly every language the habit of applying that name to whatever is singular or uncommon among its kind. According to ancient writers, the phenix was a bird of great beauty about the size of an eagle. A shining and most beautiful crest adorned its head, its plumage contained nearly every tint of the rainbow, and its eyes sparkled like diamonds. Only one of these birds could live at a time, but its existence covered a period of 500 or 600 years. When its life drew to a close the bird built for itself a funeral pile of wood and aromatic spices, with its wings fanned the pile into a flame and therein consumed itself. From its ashes a worm was produced, out of which another phenix was formed, having all the vigor of youth. The first care of the new phenix was to solemnize its parent's obsequies. For that purpose it made a ball of myrrh, frankincense and other fragrant things. At Heliopolis, a city in lower Egypt, there was a magnificent temple dedicated to the sun. To this temple the phenix would carry the fragrant ball and burn it on the altar of the sun as a sacrifice. The priests then examined the register and found that exactly 500 years or exactly 600 years had elapsed since that same ceremony had taken place.

Modern Card Playing.

The gambling of today is a mild affair compared with the extant records of English society. We shall never again see the days when General Scott won a fortune of £200,000 at whist, chiefly by dint of keeping sober. And high play, it must never be forgotten, is a relative term. When Lord Stavordale gained £11,000 by a single coup at hazard, his only comment was that if he had been playing "deep" he might have won millions. When the dimensions of modern wealth are taken into account the wildest excesses ever witnessed at the card table would have a timid and parsimonious aspect to the bucks of the Regency.—Times of India, Bombay.

Women's Tempers.

I recently saw it stated somewhere that "women are much better tempered than men." This, of course, is a self evident proposition—up to a certain point. Women, as a rule, are altogether more self possessed and have a greater control over themselves than men, who want everything their own way, resent all trouble, cannot endure the smallest discomfort and are rarely unselfish.

But in justice to men it must be said that, generally speaking, they have very much more to try their nerves.—London World.

An Ancient Steam Man.

There are a host of authorities on hydraulics and mechanics that could be quoted to support the assertion that the steam engine is not a modern invention. Carpini in the account of his travels, A. D. 1286, describes a species of aeophile, or steam, engine made in the form of a man. This contrivance was filled with "inflammable liquid" (probably petroleum) and made to do terrible work in the battles between the Mongols and the troops of Prester John.

Human Nature.

"It's funny," remarked the thoughtful citizen.

"What's funny?"

"The way a man who spends all his spare time praying for the regeneration of his party will get indignant at the suggestion that he vote the opposition ticket for once."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Truth Comes Out.

Timkins—So that mining enterprise of yours proved a failure, eh? Simkins—Yes; a total failure. Timkins—But I thought you said there was a fortune in it. Simkins—Well, mine's in it.—Chicago News.

Good humor and generosity carry the day with the popular heart all the world over.—Alexander Smith.

Meningitis Caused by Inhalation.

Professor Wettenhoffer, who was sent by the German government to Silesia to study the genesis of cerebro spinal meningitis and the best method of treating it, comes to the conclusion that it is undoubtedly one of the diseases caused by inhalation, which first attacks the tonsils and is conveyed thus through glands to the brain. It only attacks where the glands have become weakened. In all the cases examined by him the tonsils show hypertrophy and are increased in size by inflammation. The professor is of the opinion that the root of the disease is to be found in the insanitary conditions of dwellings.

For a National Cooking School.

Congress is to be asked at its next session to make legal provision for a national school on food, cookery and service, the movement in this direction taking its start in Chicago at the meeting of the International Stewards' association, at the Great Northern hotel. More than 2,000 chefs, stewards, restaurant men and hotelkeepers are interested in the movement, which has for its object pure food for the public, natural methods in cookery and sanitary ways of serving food.

"A MAN OF LEISURE"

Kaneko In America Merely For "Enjoyment"

A CAUTIOUS INTERVIEW

Parries Questions as to Peace Outlook and the Size of Indemnity--Nobody In Japan Has Lost Either His Head or Sleep Over the War

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Baron Kaneko, the Japanese financial expert, visited Sagamore Hill late yesterday afternoon by appointment for a conference with the president. The precise nature of his mission is not disclosed, neither he nor the president caring to discuss it, except in general and negative terms. Assurance was given that the visit had nothing to do with the pending peace negotiations or with the raising of money by a loan for either Japan or Russia.

Baron Kaneko chatted with apparent frankness about himself and about the conditions of his country. "A financial agent of Japan?" he repeated in response to a suggested. "Oh, no, I am not a financial expert. I am merely a man of leisure stopping in this country because I enjoy being here.

"This is a wonderful country and the Americans are a wonderful people. Their friendship will never be forgotten by Japan; no, not so long as the sun shall shine. The noble work President Roosevelt has done in the interest of peace will be remembered always. It is the prayer of all of us that his efforts may be crowned with success."

"What do you think of the possible result of the peace negotiations?" Kaneko was asked.

"Doubt is expressed whether the envoys can reach an agreement," he replied, cautiously. "The more I read and hear of what Witte and Sato say, the more puzzled I become. I do not think anybody knows."

"What is the feeling in Japan as to a continuance of the war?"

"Oh, I think there is a little general sentiment about it. Our people are not seriously concerned, being certain of the ultimate result. Of course we should like to have peace, but in Japan there are no people who desire peace at any price. They are willing that the war should go on, if necessary, and are prepared to fight it out. The Russians, we are told, are too poor or too proud to pay an indemnity—the indemnity Japan will ask."

"As much as a billion dollars?" was suggested.

"No, too poor to pay the indemnity Japan will ask," insisted Kaneko. "But nobody but the envoys can tell what indemnity Japan will demand. I do not know and know nobody who does."

"What is the latest you have heard from Japan?"

"Japan is progressing every day," was the reply. "The country shows little, if any, evidence of the war. Business is prosperous, the people are going on attending to their usual affairs and there has been no falling off in either domestic or foreign trade. New business enterprises and industries are being launched and the commercial enthusiasm of the people cannot be restrained. An observer could not tell from any exterior evidence that the country was engaged in a great war. The people manifest little or no anxiety for news from the battlefields, because they have no possible doubt of the result of the conflict. Nobody in Japan has lost either his head or his sleep over the war."

Baron Kaneko expressed a desire to meet Witte, the chief envoy of the Russian emperor. The baron is a dapper and diminutive man and he indicated that he knew something of the size of Witte by trying to reach high in the air above his head for a measure of the height of the Russian. He does not expect to attend the peace conference at Portsmouth, even as a spectator.

Leaped From Brooklyn Bridge

New York, Aug. 8.—In sight of hundreds of passengers on the Brooklyn bridge, a well dressed man, whose identity is not known, leaped from a surface car last evening and, running to the centre of the bridge, hesitated a second and then leaped to the river below. Policemen in a rowboat searched in vain for the body.

Jews Must Keep Their Distance

Homel, Russia, Aug. 8.—The chief of police of Homel has issued a manifesto that, as his life has been twice attempted by Jews of the lowest classes, hereafter any such men approaching within 50 paces of his carriage will be shot. He also has instructed Cossacks to fire on houses from which abusive remarks are made.

Clark Is Steadily Gaining

New York, Aug. 8.—Senator Clark of Montana, who on July 15 underwent an operation for the removal of a brain abscess, yesterday left his apartments for the first time since the operation. He will now drive out each pleasant day until his strength is sufficient to permit him to travel.

Made a Mile In 56 2-5

Detroit, Aug. 8.—Webb Jay of Cleveland scored a decisive victory at Grosse Pointe track over Barney Oldfield in a 10-mile open automobile event. Jay's time for the 10 miles was 9:36 3-5, and his best mile was made in 56 2-5 seconds.

BOOTHBY HAS A KEEPER

Bond Company May Make Good For City Treasurer's Shortage

Berlin, N. H., Aug. 8.—Frederick Barrows has been appointed by the local court keeper for Wilson A. Boothby, city clerk and treasurer, who is accused of having falsified his accounts. Boothby is at present confined to his home from the effects, it is said, of an overdose of morphine, which it is alleged he took when an expert accountant found wrong entries in the city's books.

Attorney Dailey, representing the United States Fidelity and Guarantee company of Baltimore, which furnished Boothby's bonds, has arrived here. Boothby's bond with the company is $15,000 and this is expected to cover the alleged shortage in the city treasurer's accounts.

Attorney Dailey attended a meeting of the mayor, City Attorney Carterville and Judge Rich, the attorney for Boothby. He also inspected Boothby's property, but did not swear out a second warrant against Boothby, as was expected.

Although the exact amount of the shortage has not yet been determined, it is thought to be between $7000 and $10,000, and the police say the shortage has been found to date back three years.

Boothby is said to be much improved, and will probably be able to appear in court in a few days.

Judge's Auto Was Speeding

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 8.—A. V. S. Cochran of Hudson, N. Y., associate justice of the appellate division of the New York supreme court, with his chauffeur, was riding through Main street last evening when the machine was overhauled by a policeman on a motor cycle. They were taken to police headquarters and, after the judge had presented his card, a special session of court was called, and the chauffeur was fined $15. The automobile was timed as going 19 miles an hour.

Mystery In Shooting Case

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 8.—George W. Kelly was found a short distance outside the city last night suffering from three bullet wounds, two in the head and one in the body. He was unconscious at the time, but later he revived and stated that he was met by a young man accompanied by a woman, and that without provocation the man shot him. Kelly said that he did not know either the man or the woman. Physicians are unable to say whether Kelly will survive his wounds.

Charged With Making False Oath

Boston, Aug. 8.—Charged with making a false oath before a bail commissioner, George W. Young of Lowell, for many years a well known legislative agent at the state house, was arrested in that city and brought to Boston. He was released under $3000 bail furnished by his son. It is charged that Young made the statement that a certain part of his property was unencumbered, whereas the police say that it had been heavily mortgaged for years.

Motor Bicycle Endurance Test

Waltham, Mass., Aug. 8.—Of the 48 motor cyclists who left New York just before dawn yesterday morning on a 250-mile endurance test to this city, 21 arrived together at 7:20 o'clock last evening and six others came in 10 minutes later. The cyclists came here to attend the annual meet of the Federation of American Motor Cyclists. Nearly all the machines stood the test in good shape. None of the accidents was serious.

Missing Tax Collector

Hudson, Mass., Aug. 8.—This town is in a state of ferment over the disappearance of Tax Collector Daniel J. McCarthy, who has held the office since 1900. He has been missing from his home since July 31. On that day he left town, presumably to visit friends in Cambridge, intimating that he might go to Providence later. Since then nothing has been heard from him.

A Royal Arcanum Call

Boston, Aug. 8.—Supreme Secretary Robson of the Royal Arcanum announces that the supreme council will meet at Put-in-Bay, O., on Aug. 30, to consider the developments growing out of the establishment of new rates. Forty-two representatives from the grand councils have signed a request made to Supreme Regent Wiggins that a special session be held.

Killed In Sight of Fiancee

Andover, Mass., Aug. 9.—Minnie Cahalne, a domestic, aged 23, was struck and instantly killed by a train while crossing a railroad track last night in company with James Curry, to whom she was engaged to be married. Curry was also struck by the locomotive, but escaped with a broken arm.

Drowned In Crane Trap

Boston, Aug. 8.—Imprisoned in the engine compartment of a crane, which fell overboard from a wharf at the navy yard, George W. Dixon met death by drowning. Robert Russell, another workman in the crane, barely escaped with his life after a battle of several minutes beneath the surface.

King Entertains Frenchmen

Cowes, Aug. 8.—King Edward last night gave a dinner to the officers of the French fleet aboard the royal yacht Victoria and Albert. The king expressed the hope that the friendship that existed between France and England would prove a guarantee of universal peace. Admiral Caillard replied in similar terms. After the dinner the whole bay and roadstead were illuminated. This was followed by the most magnificent display of fireworks ever seen in England.

Morgan at Sagamore Hill

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 8.—J. P. Morgan of New York had a conference with President Roosevelt lasting an hour and a half. The president is authority for the statement that the conference related, practically entirely, to the affairs of the Hankow railroad in China, a controlling interest in which is owned by J. P. Morgan & Co. Incidentally, and as relating in a measure to the railroad interests held by Americans in China, the pending peace negotiations formed a topic of consideration by the president and Morgan.

Absent Mayor Ties Up Business

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 8.—At a meeting of the board of aldermen last night the disappearance of Mayor Belcher a week ago was touched upon in a resolution reciting that in view of the situation no franchises be granted, no bonds be issued and no liability be imposed upon the city which is not absolutely necessary until after the people had a chance to select for themselves a new chief magistrate. The resolution was passed.

Fight Coming on Shea

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—The delegates to the annual convention of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters did nothing of general interest or of great importance yesterday. Nothing occurred to indicate the sharp fight which is predicted will be made against the re-election of Cornelius P. Shea of Boston. Shea is opposed by Edward Gould of New York and Michael Casey of San Francisco.

The Kosher Bakers' Strike

New York, Aug. 8.—Rioting among the striking Hebrew bakers on the lower East Side throughout the day kept the police busy and compelled them to use their clubs freely. No persons were seriously hurt and there were but few arrests. Strike leaders express their intention of closing every "kosher" bakery in Manhattan and extending the strike to the Hebrew quarters of Brooklyn.

Our Regard For Panama Flag

Panama, Aug. 8.—Charles E. Magoon, governor of the canal zone, yesterday afternoon presented his credentials as American minister plenipotentiary. In Magoon's speech at President Amador's palace he said that excepting the American flag there is no flag upon which the United States looks with such pride and favor as that of Panama.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Andrew Fletcher, builder of the Fall River line steamboats Priscilla and Puritan and three Hudson river steamers, died at his country home in Bernardsville, N. J., aged 77.

Commander-in-Chief English of the United Spanish War Veterans' association has issued a general order for the second national encampment and reunion of the association to open at Milwaukee, Sept. 7.

Professor Hollander, who was appointed by the president to investigate the affairs of San Domingo, is going to Oyster Bay to make a preliminary verbal report to President Roosevelt.

The executive committee of the New England Amateur Rowing association has decided to hold a regatta on the Charles river, at Boston, on Labor day.

Varenka Arkadyevna

[Original.]

One morning several years ago two young men—Turovtsuin and Dronski—were sitting in Dronski's room in Warsaw, Russian Poland, hatching revolution. Suddenly there were footsteps on the stairs and in another moment the door was thrown open and the police rushed in. Turovtsuin nodded toward Dronski and the police arrested him. As they were taking him away he reproached Turovtsuin with having betrayed him, whereupon the latter remarked coolly that there was no betrayal, since he was simply doing his duty as an officer in the secret service. Dronski was sent to Siberia, where, after intolerable sufferings, he died of prison consumption.

Several years after Dronski's arrest, while Turovtsuin, who was now chief of police in Russian Poland, was riding in his carriage in Warsaw, a man fired a shot at him. At the moment a girl who stood by the would be assassin knocked up the weapon and saved Turovtsuin's life. The man who fired the shot was spirited away by accomplices so quickly that the police did not even get on his track. The chief saw the whole affair and directed that the girl be sent to his office. When she arrived there he said to her:

"You are a brave girl to have interfered with an assassin, and I owe you my life. What can I do to repay you?"

"Please, excellency, I would like to serve the government."

"In what capacity?"

"In the secret service. I have many friends among the revolutionists, who consider me one of them. I could learn much of their plans and report them to you."

"You shall have every opportunity, and for every ruble you earn I will see that you are paid ten."

The girl, who gave her name as Varenka Arkadyevna, from that moment enrolled in the secret police, where she served for a long while, often bringing in information of the revolutionists. There was a singular personality about her that fascinated Turovtsuin. At times he thought she loved him, and at times she acted as if she hated him. There are few men who will not be caught by such uncertainty. Turovtsuin fell desperately in love with her.

Varenka's bravery, too, was fascinating to her lover. She told him that her real status was known to some of her revolutionist friends, but she did not fear to go where they were, though always armed to the teeth. One thing at last began to mystify Turovtsuin. Though Varenka often led the police to capture some revolutionist, when the force arrived the bird had always flown.

Varenka lived in first class apartments which were paid for by the government. One day the chief appeared at her apartments with trouble written on his face.

"Sweetheart," he said, "I have noticed that we never gain anything from the information you bring us. Every meeting of revolutionists you have told us of has for some reason failed to take place. Besides, certain persons whom we have intended to arrest have in some unaccountable way been warned and have escaped us. And now comes one of our women in the secret service bureau who accuses you of being a revolutionist, of giving them all our secrets."

"Who is my accuser?"

"Katia Pestoff."

Varenka grew a shade whiter. Going to another room she took a pistol from a drawer, put it in her bosom and returning to her lover said:

"I may as well make a confession, for Katia can prove her accusation."

"Great heavens!" exclaimed Turovtsuin, catching at the back of a chair for support.

"Do you remember," Varenka went on, "your bosom friend Dronski?"

"I do," gasped Turovtsuin.

"I am his sister. I was far from him at the time you betrayed and arrested him, but I determined that some day I would avenge him. While he suffered the tortures you heaped upon him my resolution grew stronger. When he died I determined to execute a plan I had formed. The man who fired at you was my accomplice, and there were twenty revolutionists standing by to take him to safety. I knocked up his pistol on purpose to win your confidence. Having won from you all I can for my people, the moment of my supreme vengeance has come."

People living on the floor below heard a shot and came running up the stairs to see what was the matter. Varenka stood at her door and asked them if they had not heard a shot. They replied that they had and that the sound seemed to have come from that floor, whereupon she said that it sounded to her to have come from the rear apartments. She spoke as calmly as if she had been used to having shots fired near her all her life. The excited people went to the rear apartments to learn that nothing unusual had occurred there. The occupants were sure that the shot had come from the front rooms. Puzzled, the crowd went to Varenka's apartments and knocked. There was no answer to their summons. They conferred, and, all agreeing that something must be wrong, they decided to burst open the door. They did so, and stretched on the floor Turovtsuin, the chief of police, lay dead.

Varenka Arkadyevna was never seen again in any part of Russia, though the police searched the empire for her. Rumor says that she is living in England on the large sums paid her by the police for her secret service work.

PETITION FILED.

For Land Taking for Government Naval Magazine.

Melvin O. Adams, United States district attorney, brought a petition in the federal court at Boston on Monday for the condemnation of nearly 1000 acres of land on each side of the Weymouth Back river, where the government under act of Congress approved April 27, 1904, will establish a naval magazine.

The commonwealth, through an act of the last Legislature, has assented to the acquisition by the federal government of fee to this land and the control of the adjacent tidewater.

The total amount to be expended on the establishment of the naval magazine, including the cost of the land to be acquired, is limited to $500,000, of which $70,000 is now available. The sum of $15,000 is set aside to cover engineering expenses.

The land the government wants, borders the Weymouth Back river. There are 708 acres in Hingham and 237 in Weymouth, making a total of 945 acres. The Weymouth land, all of which lies on the westerly side of the river, includes the island known as Whale island and the flats adjacent. The Hingham land is a strip bordering the east side of the river, beginning at the junction of the Weymouth Back river and the Fresh river and extending to the Bay.

The court issued an order of notice to all interested parties, which will be served upon them. This order of notice is returnable Sept. 12. The number of individuals having an interest in the property to be taken is 89 and includes Lewis Bass of Quincy.

TO WINCHESTER.

Fr. John L. Callaham of West Quincy Transferred.

The many friends of the Rev. John L. Callahan, late curate at St. Mary's church, West Quincy, will be pleased to learn of his appointment in Winchester.

Fr. Callahan, while in West Quincy, endeared himself to the rank and file of the parishioners, who keenly regreted his transfer. He was a particular favorite in the Sunday school, which he brought to a high point of perfection.

Rev. Father Callahan prepared for the priesthood at Villanova, and was ordained at Niagara University by Bishop Quigley, about four years ago. His friends in this city wish him success in his new field of labor.

MUSIC IN THE AIR.

Street Piano Struck by Electric Car—Italians Injured.

Antonio Cuddi and Augustino Falerno two Italians who operate a street piano, were brought to the Quincy Hospital from Hingham on Monday, their outfit and an electric car having come in collision.

Dr. Samuel H. Spalding of Hingham, who examined the men, found that Falerno had a collar bone fractured, while Cuddi escaped without any broken bones.

The Globe printed the following dramatic story of the collision:

Old Colony hill, which was the scene of the fatal service car and trolley car accident a short time ago, saw another collison on Monday.

Antonio Cuddi and Augustino Falerno are Italians, and purvey music to the shore resorts from a street piano, which is drawn by a horse. They were going over the road to Nantasket shortly before 3, and as it was very warm and they were very sleepy, they turned across the track on Old Colony hill to rest under the shade of some trees by the roadside.

The men were engaged in a discussion of the relative merits of Mascagni and Leoncavallo, and the horse stopped unexpected without attracting their notice. The horse wore blinders, and could not estimate the length of his train; the consequence was that he left about two octaves of the piano projecting over the car track.

A huge trolley car, bound from Nantasket to Rockland, slid up the hill, and came suddenly round the curve upon the organ before the motorman saw the outfit. It was too late then to stop and the car bumped the piano on the starboard quarter.

Mascagni and Leoncavallo were dropped; Augustino described a parabola, and Cuddi went off with a much flatter trajectory, a fact that proved afterward to have saved him almost entirely from injury.

The piano played all its repertory in one grand chord, and the women passengers on the trolley car sang high obligato, while the motorman obliged with a bell solo.

The horse, accustomed to the music of the organ, and not being afraid of the cars, nevertheless looked round when the women screamed, and seeing the piano lying on its side, hauled the wreck barely two yards out of the way.

The Italians were taken aboard the trolley, which ran to Hingham square; thence to Quincy.

CONTRACT AWARDED

For the Plumbing at the Adams Schoolhouse.

Commissioner Burke has opened proposals for the installation of a system of plumbing at the Adams schoolhouse. There were four bidders as follows:

THE WAR ON FEVER

Good Results Expected In Reasonably Short Time

AID PROMPTLY RENDERED

Best Medical Talent Will Attack Scourge Along Scientific Lines --Heavy Financial Loss by the Diversion of Business

New Orleans, Aug. 8.—With the marine hospital service under the authority of President Roosevelt placed in complete control of the scientific fight to eradicate yellow fever from New Orleans before frost, the campaign against the scourge has taken fresh life. With ample funds, the best available medical talent and an army of willing workers at his back, Dr. White, surgeon in charge, hopes for a successful termination of the struggle.

Dr. White received formal orders from Surgeon General Wyman, informing him that the federal government had decided to assume the task prepared for it. Dr. White then visited the state and the city board of health, where he arranged for the transfer of control of the work. He said that the transfer of details would be gradual, so that there might be no interruption of the work now in progress.

A false impression has prevailed in some quarters that all the cases occuring were not made public and in order that there may be perfect confidence throughout the country Dr. White desires that hereafter statistical announcements of the situation shall be made under federal supervision.

There was a prompt response to the appeal of Chairman Janvier of the citizens' committee for additional subscriptions to the citizens' fund toward the $250,000 desired by the government. In addition Janvier telegraphed to Governor Blanchard asking the state's assistance in securing the money desired to fight the fever. Unsolicited checks have been sent from other parts of the country and the whole fund will be fully subscribed, it is believed, before it is wanted.

An evidence of the panicky feeling in the country parishes is shown in the experience of the Cumberland Telephone company. At Arcadia, La., the man in charge of the telephone office died when the fever began to spread. The telephone company tried to fill the position, but Arcadia refused to permit a man to come to work and the service has been suspended. A similar situation prevails at Baton Rouge. The Baton Rouge telephone exchange serves much of the surrounding country and all that region is without telephonic communication.

The death reported in Jefferson parish, across the Mississippi river from New Orleans, is the fifth that has occurred there, showing the heavy mortality from the fever where adequate attention is not given. Five Italians died from New Orleans to the Bell plantation and all have died of yellow fever. The vicinity has been thoroughly isolated and disinfected.

It will probably never be possible to estimate the losses which New Orleans has suffered financially, through the diversion of business, but the heavy tax on the people by the present visitation is shown by the fact that beside the money already spent by the boards of health and the $250,000 to be raised for the government, thousands of dollars have been subscribed and expended in ward sanitation.

Two large foci of infection were discovered outside of New Orleans by officers of the marine hospital service. Dr. Corpul went to Diamond plantation, in St. Charles parish, and found six positive yellow fever cases of secondary infection. Three of the six persons were dead. The other point of infection is Patterson, where Dr. Guiteras found 19 cases of secondary infection.

The official yellow fever report up to 6 p. m. yesterday was: New cases, 32; total cases to date, 565; deaths yesterday, 8; total deaths to date, 113.

To Maintain National Quarantine

Washington, Aug. 8.—In addition to the revenue cutter Winona, which is now at Gulfport, Miss., the revenue cutters Forward, now at Key West, the Hamilton, at Tampa, and the Seminole, at Wilmington, N. C., have been ordered to Gulfport for the purpose of maintaining the national quarantine and will proceed to that point at once. They have been directed to act under the instructions of Captain Ross, chief of the revenue cutter service, who left last night for New Orleans.

It is expected that other and smaller boats will be needed in order to make an effective patrol and to this end any boats required will be employed and the revenue cutter flag hoisted over them and a revenue cutter officer put on board. They will then be, to all intents, government vessels, and have the same jurisdiction as the revenue cutters, which will enable them to go into any waters. It is believed that in this way an efficient quarantine can be maintained.

Suspects Under Observation

New York, Aug. 8.—One passenger and two of the crew of the steamer Comus, from New Orleans, have been transferred to Hoffman island for observation, all of them showing a high temperature. The steamer was detained at quarantine until 6:40 last evening, when she was permitted to proceed to her pier.

ON THE INCREASE.

More Marriages and More Deaths for First Six Months.

City Clerk Keith reports 130 marriages and 211 deaths in Quincy for the first six months of 1905.

This is an increase of 16 marriages and 10 deaths over the corresponding six months of last year, when there were 114 marriages and 201 deaths.

During the year 1904 there were 256 marriages, 393 deaths and 795 births in Quincy.

H. O. Apthorp Dead.

Harrison O. Apthorp, prominent in Milton affairs, died on Monday after a lingering illness. For seventeen years he has been principal of the Milton Academy and was at one time trustee of the Public Library.

He was born in Northampton, Aug. 20, 1857. He was graduated from Harvard in the class of 1879 and taught at St. Mark's school for one year. He then re-entered Harvard and took the degree of A. M. After teaching in the Roxbury Latin school, he went to Milton Academy, where he acted as principal up to two years ago.

In 1896 he married Annie Russell, daughter of the late Col. Henry S. Russell.

The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 4.15 at the Unitarian church, Rev. Roderick Stebbins conducting the services.

TODAY'S COURT.

William J. Ford one of the defendants in the Houghs Neck liquor cases, whose case was continued until Aug. 8, was defaulted.

The case of Eugene McCarthy, for assault at Randolph, was continued until tomorrow.

The case of John E. Coughlin was further continued until Aug. 14.

Roy H. Warren for overspeeding automobile at Milton, plead nolo contendere, and paid a fine of $5.

James Sullivan plead guilty to drunkenness, and paid a fine of $5.

Three drunks were released.

Two juveniles were arraigned for stealing fruit from an orchard in Randolph, and their cases continued until Thursday.

LACKED WARNING

Scores of Employes of Big Store Dumped Into Cellar

ARE BURIED IN DEBRIS

Over Twenty Persons Met Death In Horrible Form--Falling of Pillar Which Supported Giant Girders Caused Half of Great Structure to Collapse

Albany, Aug. 9.—The middle section of the big department store of the John G. Myers company, on North Pearl street, collapsed, carrying down with it over 100 persons. Caught in a mass of brick, plaster and wooden beams, between 20 and 30 men, women and children met death in a multitude of horrible forms.

Twelve hours of frantic work on the part of an army of rescuers disentangled 50 people, six of them dead and many of the rest badly injured. Three bodies are in sight, but many hours' work will be required to get them out. Anything like a complete list of the killed and injured will not be obtainable until the workers have made their way to the very bottom of the mass of wreckage. With few exceptions those caught in the ruins were employes and a large majority of them were girls. The catastrophe occurred when barely a score of shoppers were in the store.

The best explanation of the cause of the accident is given by the head of the crockery, glass and drug department, which occupies the basement.

"The workmen were sawing at a wooden floor beam," he said, "which runs underneath one of the central pillars in the middle of the store. Excavation for the cellar was going on about the base of this pillar and I believe that jarring the beam beneath it displaced the foundation of the pillar. The first thing I knew, two of the counters near the place where the men were working began to sag, and several pieces of glassware slid off onto the floor with a crash. I yelled to my clerks to run for the front of the store. The words were not out of my mouth when there came a creaking and everything around us began to fall. The wreck came slowly, however, and I think everyone in my department escaped, as well as the workmen."

The pillar which gave way supported the ends of two giant girders and when it fell the main support of the central part of the building was gone. With a noise that could be heard blocks away and which shook the adjoining buildings, nearly half the great structure from cellar to roof, extending from one side wall to the other, came grinding down. Into this cavernous hopper slid scores of employes who were working on the four floors above and lacked the warning which enabled those in the basement to escape.

Many, however, were apprised of the danger by falling plaster and saved themselves by rushing to the front of the store or to the fire escapes in the rear.

Clouds of dust which shot out of the front entrance caused those outside to believe that the store was afire, and a fire alarm was turned in. When the department arrived it had plenty to do in rescuing those who were pinned under the wreckage. In a short time the city's entire hospital and ambulance force was on the scene, aided by half a hundred doctors from all parts of the city. The volunteer rescuers and the firemen kept up the work until exhausted, when their places were taken by a wrecking force, numbering 300, from two railroads. These delved in the ruins throughout the night, but the work of rescue progressed slowly.

When night came it was estimated that nearly 50 persons still remained in the ruins and that not more than half of these could survive the weight pressing upon them.

Some 100 persons are still unaccounted for, but 50 of these are cash boys, of which the firm has no record, and the loss of the payroll makes it difficult to get anything like a complete list of many others. In all the company has 400 employes, but 50 of these are away on vacations.

The building, which was wrecked, stands in the center of the shopping district. The building was a very old one, but was considered perfectly sound. After the death of its founder, John G. Myers, two years ago, the business was conducted by a company consisting of G. P. Hilton, H. K. Sturdee, E. P. Hackett and R. M. Chalmers. Mr. Chalmers was taken from the ruins with slight injuries.

PARADE TONIGHT.

Electric Pageant of Seventeenth of June to be Repeated.

The electric parade which was part of the Seventeenth of June celebration this year will be repeated in Boston this evening at 8.15 o'clock. So many persons who desired to view the parade were unable to do so on account of its several postponements that the carnival association has decided to give the public another opportunity.

The finely decorated and illuminated floats are intended to be symbolic of substantially all of the civilized nations of the world. They represent the following countries: America, England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Germany, Norway and Sweden, Russia, Spain, Japan, Italy, Holland, China, Egypt, Arabia, Greenland.

The route of the parade will be as follows: From Lenox street carhouse at 8.15, passing through Columbus avenue, Massachusetts avenue, Huntington avenue, Tremont street and Columbus avenue back to Lenox street. The parade will be accompanied by two bands of music.

☞Eyeglasses fitted scientifically. No guess work.—Williams.

Free Scholarships.

Two scholarships in Boston College High School will be open for competition on Wednesday, Sept. 6. Each scholarship will date from September 1905, and will entitle the winner to free tuition throughout the four years of the preparatory school (high school) course. The competition will be open to all boys who have successfully completed the regular grammar school course, and to any others who shall have passed a satisfactory examination for admission to Boston College High School. All competitors, not personally known to the faculty, must present a testimonial of good moral character. The competition will be in writing, and will take place in Boston College, at 9 A. M., on the above date. Only needy students are eligible who cannot afford to pay the tuition. Subject matter of the competition: English grammer and composition, 9 to 10.30, geography, 10.30 to 11; arithmetic, 11 to 12; colonial and United States history, 12 to 1. The scholarships will be awarded to the competitors having the highest totals above eight-five. The high school will reopen Sept. 12.

Typhoid Fever at Washington

Washington, Aug. 9.—An unusually serious outbreak of typhoid fever, generally attributed to the use of river water, is prevailing in this city. The cases are scattered throughout Washington and the surrounding section.

—The Boston Americans are making a grand rally in the American league and may land near the top.

ANNUAL DINNER.

Quincy Board of Trade to Make Excursion to Nantasket.

Arrangements are nearly complete for a grand excursion by the Quincy Board of Trade. It offers quite a variety and promises to be popular.

Nantasket is the objective point, but will be by a more direct route than is usually travelled.

A special car will leave East Milton at 5.30 for Quincy, and is due to leave Quincy for Houghs Neck at 5.50 P. M.

The steamer Houghs Neck has been chartered and will make a direct trip to Nantasket.

Dinner will be served at Wade's hotel. The committee say the dinner will be informal, but a few gentlemen may be called upon for speeches.

The return trip will be by the same route: steamer to Houghs Neck and electric cars to Quincy.

Noted Church Burned.

St. Thomas Episcopal Church at Fifth avenue and Fifty-third street, New York, one of the most richly furnished religious edifices in America, was wrecked by fire Tuesday. Within a block of the ruined church are the homes of half a score of the country's wealthiest men.

Defective electric wiring is supposed to have started the fire. The loss is estimated by Fire Chief Croker at at least a quarter of a million dollars. Only a mere shell of stone walls was left standing, and paintings and bas-reliefs which alone were worth many thousand dollars were ruined. A bronze bas-relief called, "The Adoration of the Cross," and valued at $50,000, was destroyed. Two large paintings, "The Resurrection" and "Christ Healing the Sick," were also burned. John Lafarge executed the paintings, and the bas-relief was from Augustus St. Gaudens. Sumptuous altar and chancel furnishings, including the $20,000 organ, were destroyed by the fire.

Legs Were Weak.

Quite a crowd gathered on East Howard street Tuesday afternoon to find out what the matter was with a man who was lying by the road-side. The man was badly intoxicated, but claimed that his leg was broken. Dr. Middleton, who was called said that the man was unhurt. Constable Tower happened to be near at the time, so telephoned for the patrol and the man was carried to the police station. There were several men in the same condition lounging about the streets on Tuesday.

Trolley Excursion.

It was not an ideal day for the inauguration of the long trolley trips by the Old Colony street railway today, and one car was sufficient to accommodate the excursionists who left Quincy, at 9.50 for Highland Park. At the low fares these trolley trips should be popular the next few weeks.

Hustler Won Prize.

The prize offered for the best time on the run of the Quincy boats from Houghs Neck to Marblehead was won by the Hustler on time allowance. The Moondyne was first on actual time.

Booker Washington in Town.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Parks of Beale street entertained Mr. and Mrs. Booker T. Washington on Tuesday.

Curtain on Fire.

Quite a little excitement was occasioned in the Adams building last evening by the lace curtains in the room over the Quincy Fair catching fire. It was extinguished with a pail of water.

—At a meeting of the congregation of Channing Memorial Church (Unitarian), Newport on Monday night, it was voted to extend a call to Rev. William S. Jones of East Bridgewater, Mass., to fill the vacant pastorate.

Drift of Opinion.

☞The President's toast to the assembled envoys is a gem. "Gentlemen" said he, "I propose a toast to which there will be no answer and to which I ask you to drink in silence standing. I drink to the welfare and prosperity of the sovereigns and peoples of the two great nations whose representatives have met one another on this ship. It is my most earnest hope and prayer in the interest of not only these two great powers, but of all mankind, that a just and lasting peace may speedily be concluded between them." No answer was expected from the envoys, for it would have embarrassed them to make a reply. The President's tact was equal to the occasion, and the response will come from "all mankind." A just and lasting peace between the two parties to the conference will advance the cause of humanity, and be a forward step towards a universal peace that is the dream of all mankind.—Lynn Item.

The Boy Who Works.

Some of the boys who have to work undoubtedly think that they are having a hard time of it. Your hours are long, the task is oftentimes hard and the wages small. The contents of the weekly pay envelope will scarcely carry them through the week, and perhaps they have to economize in order to keep within their income. Perhaps sometimes their employer expects too much of them. Other fellows dress well and always have money. They have coddling fathers and mothers while you have to toil all the week to make a living.

Never mind, young man. You are far ahead of the boy who has every luxury at home. You are getting experience that he must get some how, later on. Because, sooner or later he must fight the real battle of life himself. And you have the advantage. While life has been made easy for him, he lacks drill and discipline which every life-soldier must go through. You are preparing yourself. He may go in without preparation and fail.

Work is a great blessing. You cannot see now, but some day you will say that you were fortunate in your boyhood days because you were compelled to work. Because you cannot get power to do things save by doing them. Look over the successful men you know. Get their history. Nearly every one of them was compelled to work in their boyhood. They toughened their muscles by hard work and sharpened their brains by looking out for themselves.

Work makes men. Luck usually fails. Pluck nearly always wins. To succeed in anything one must overcome obstacles, and enter upon the work with a courage which will be undaunted, ever ready to press on with hope and vigor as the guiding stars to lead them on to victory. Success is made up of hardships. Grit is as necessary in the making of a man as gumption. Hardships are not always handicaps. Often they are helps. You will understand this better in twenty years. Meantime permit one who has lived that twenty years and more, to advise you in this. Hang onto your job until you are sure of a better one. Dependable boys are in demand. And no boy can be depended upon who does not finish the task he sets his hand to do.

However disagreeable your work, do it thoroughly, do it better than the average boy will do it. In that way you will come to be known as a dependable boy. And mind you this: Men everywhere are looking for capable, honest, gritty, dependable boys. The sooner you let people know that you are that kind of a boy the sooner you will get a better job.

And don't be in a hurry to give up the work you already have. Be sure something better is offered. Wait awhile. Do your work well. Promotion will come. And do not envy the boy who has an easy time. You would much better pity him. He has a good time now, but some day he must "make good." With his flabby muscles and his easy habits and his many wants, he stands a far poorer chance than you. Remember above all, young fellow, you are making a man out of yourself.—Gloucester Daily Times.

Man Kills a Woman In Lowell Railroad Station

MURDER AT GRAFTON, VT

Disappointed Lover Sends Bullet Into a Woman's Brain--Both Victims Were Married and Both Assailants Tried Suicide

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 9.—Mrs. Jennie Spaulding of North Chelmsford was shot and killed while waiting for a train in a railroad station here last evening. George F. Marris of Laconia, N. H., is under arrest, charged with killing the woman.

Morris had been staying at Mrs. Spaulding's home and the two had planned to go to Taunton last night. While waiting for the train Morris and the woman went into a saloon near the station and had drinks. While they were seated at a table two women who were present engaged in conversation with Morris and the three began fooling. In a few minutes Morris and Mrs. Spaulding left the saloon and went to the railroad station.

According to Morris' story to the police, the woman upbraided him all the way for what she termed his familiarity with the two women in the saloon. When the couple entered the station they were disputing loudly, but the discussion was abruptly terminated by Morris drawing a five-chambered revolver from which he fired four bullets at the woman's head. The woman expired in a few minutes.

Morris snapped the weapon at his own head, but as the revolver had contained only four cartridges, there was no discharge. Frank C. Wright and Lieutenant of Police Webster seized Morris and disarmed him. He was locked up. He told the police that he had shot the woman and that on account of the liquor he had drunk he was not wholly responsible for the tragedy.

Mrs. Spaulding was said to have been divorced. Her age was about 35, and Morris is 47.

Wife and Daughter at Laconia

Laconia, N. H., Aug. 9.—George F. Morris lived in this city with his wife for several years, but left here about four years ago. Since then he has endeavored a number of times to see his wife, but Mrs. Morris refused to leave her sister, with whom she has made her home since her husband left her. Mrs. Morris has her 18-year-old daughter with her.

The Vermont Tragedy

Grafton, Vt., Aug. 9.—Mrs. Minnie Rankin of Waterbury, Conn., was shot and instantly killed late yesterday by James Mitchell, who, after committing the murder, attempted to commit suicide.

The shooting occurred at the home of John Rice, where Dana Murdatory, Mrs. Rankin's brother, lived. Mitchell, it is said, has been paying attention to the woman, but failed to receive any encouragement. He went to the Rice house and, after an argument, drew a revolver and shot her, the bullet entering the woman's brain. Mitchell then fired a bullet into his own head. He escaped the fate of the woman, however, and, although seriously injured, was carried to the police station where he was attended by physicians.

Mrs. Rankin, who was 25 years old, came here about a year ago and obtained a position as a waitress in a local hotel. It is understood that her husband, George Rankin, is still living in Waterbury.

Mitchell, who came from Bristol, Conn., is a toolmaker, 27 years old, and unmarried.

Separated From Husband

Waterbury, Conn., Aug. 9.—Mrs. Minnie Rankin, who was shot and killed by James Mitchell at Grafton, Vt., separated from her husband a little over a year ago and since that time has been living with relatives in this state and Vermont. Her husband, George C. Rankin, and her parents live here.

Station Master Caused Disaster

Berlin, Aug. 9.—Count Von Plauen, son of Prince Henry XXVI of Reuss, was among 20 persons killed in a railroad collision in Prussia. It is a single-track railroad and the station master, after he had dispatched one express train, realized that the other was moving in a contrary direction and had not reached the switch. He ran frantically after the disappearing train until he became exhausted.

Quarantine Causes Mail Changes

Washington, Aug. 9.—The postoffice department has issued a general order suspending the dispatch of mails via the port of New Orleans for the canal zone, Cuba and the Panama republic. Mails for the canal zone and Panama should be forwarded to New York for dispatch by steamers sailing from there. Mails for Cuba will be forwarded via Port Tampa, Fla., or Mobile, Ala.

Braun Balked at Uniform

New York, Aug. 9.—Marcus Braun, who became embroiled with the Hungarian authorities several months ago, has resigned his office. Braun, since he returned to this country, has been assigned to duty at Ellis Island and was ordered to don the regulation uniform. This Braun refused to do, and after an ineffectual appeal to President Roosevelt he tendered his resignation.

LOOKING OVER BOOKS

Boothby May Have to Answer to Embezzlement Charge

Berlin, N. H., Aug. 9.—W. A. Boothby, city treasurer and city clerk, has been finally placed under arrest by Deputy Sheriff Noyes on a warrant issued by County Solicitor Wight, on complaint of Mayor Hutchins.

The warrant charges Boothby with making false entries in his accounts as city treasurer. It is understood that when Accountant Burns has finished his work of examination of Boothby's accounts in his term as city treasurer the charge of embezzlement will also be brought.

Boothby, who has as yet not recovered from the effects of the dose of laudanum taken with suicidal intent on Friday, is in the custody of Fred Barrows, who was appointed keeper by Noyes.

Father and Son Killed

Charlotte, Vt., Aug. 9.—S. F. Weston of this town, aged 55, and his son, Leslie Weston, aged 20, were instantly killed by a train on the Rutland railroad at a crossing about a quarter of a mile outside the town. The horse which they were driving was thrown 50 feet into an adjoining field and killed, while the Westons were caught on the pilot of the engine. The train did not stop, but carrying along the two bodies rolled into the station a few minutes later, the entire front of the engine being covered with blood.

Police Hunting Tax Man

Hudson, Mass., Aug. 9.—The police have traced missing Daniel McCarthy, tax collector in 1903 and 1904, as far as Providence, where he attended the races. He has been gone 10 days and fear is expressed lest his accounts are involved. His predecessor, Collector Mills, who died in prison last spring, was a defaulter for $9000. This year McCarthy did not take the position of tax collector, but hired a room in the Underwood block and was an unsuccessful applicant for a liquor license.

Investigating Deaths by Fire

East Brookfield, Mass., Aug. 9.—A private hearing was held here by District Attorney Taft into the deaths of Mrs. Lyman R. Hawkes and Miss Anna Skipper, who were burned to death in a fire that destroyed the Hawkes homestead in Warren. Lyman Hawkes, the dead woman's husband, was closely examined in regard to the circumstances connected with the women's deaths. The result of the hearing was not made known, but no arrests were made.

Drank Chloride of Mercury

New Haven, Aug. 9.—Owen A. Garnsey, on whom was found a bank book in which was written his name and address, attempted suicide early this morning on the steps of the home of Dr. Harry S. Welch. Garnsey took a large dose of chloride of mercury and was found in an unconscious condition on the sidewalk. He has little chance for recovery.

"Steeple Steve" Has Bad Fall

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 9.—Maurice S. J. Ward, widely known as "Steeple Steve," fell 40 feet from a steel mill stack he was painting in Belchertown and a leg, arm and five ribs were broken. Ward was suspended from the top of a 120-foot stack when the heat from within burned his ropes off.

Outing and Hill Climbing Contest

Waltham, Mass., Aug. 9.—The 300 participants in the meet of the Federation of American Motor Cyclists enjoyed an outing up the river and an interesting hill climbing contest, in which the best time was made by L. E. French of Amherst, who climbed the .9 mile ascent in 1:46 1-5.

Strike of Providence Laborers

Providence, Aug. 9.—A strike of hod carriers and building laborers, involving 430 men, is in progress in this city. The strike came about through the request for an increase of wages. A committee of three was appointed to confer with the master builders and contractors.

Training Ship Hard Aground

Mackinaw City, Mich., Aug. 9.—United States steamer Dorothea, training ship of the Illinois naval reserve, which is on her annual cruise, went ashore at Old Point Mackinaw. The steamer is heavily listed to starboard and may be badly damaged. The Dorothea is lying within 150 feet of the beach.

Jews Blamed For Strife

St. Petersburg, Aug. 9.—The situation at Gomel and that neighborhood is serious. A bomb factory has been discovered there by the police and it is asserted that the Jews of that place are trying to stir up disorders among the peasantry. Gomel was the scene of the Jewish massacre last year.

A Check on Hot Politics

San Jose, C. R., Aug. 9.—A government decree just issued prohibits outdoor political meetings and other public manifestations. The object is to maintain public order in view of the approaching presidential election, so as to avoid possible complications.

One Drowned on the Sunshine

Indianapolis, Aug. 9.—The body of Lorah H. Whitson was taken from the partially submerged wreck of the excursion steamer Sunshine last evening. The boat went down Monday with 180 persons on board. Whitson was the only person drowned.

Lighting Started Oil Fire

Houston, Tex., Aug. 9.—Fire at Humble did damage estimated at nearly $400,000. Lightning struck two oil tanks belonging to the Guffey company and both were set on fire and destroyed. In addition, a number of small tanks were burned.

HARD QUESTIONS.

They Sound Simple, but You May Find the Answers Elusive.

"How many holes are there in a laced boot of the ordinary type? Do you know how many there are in the pair you are wearing? That is another question—and it is a little ambiguous, for the average man's ordinary laced boots are generally given away by his wife before he has had time to count the holes. "Which of the feet of a horse touch the ground in trotting?" asks the examiner. You may imagine the whole class raising arms and shouting, "All of 'em!"

Any one man may fog another with ignorance, for our knowledge is in patches. Is it worth your while, supposing you have any business to carry through, to ascertain how many V's there are on a clock face? Do you want to know how many ribs there are in the cover of your umbrella? This is the umbrella maker's business. You want only to find the time of day and avoid the rain. "Thousand words," says an editor to the amateur writer, who may be an umbrella maker. It happens many times a day. The amateur never knows what exertion and what space this means. But the journalist knows exactly the amount of gray matter, black ink and white paper the demand implies. How many words are there in this paragraph? Now—quick!

THE JAPANESE GIRL.

She Is Gentleness Itself, With an Air of Dainty Modesty.

There were not many Japanese women at the party, which made me wonder, considering the fact that there were hundreds of men present, but perhaps the absence of the many might be explained by the uncomfortable and self conscious air of the few who were there in most unaccustomed foreign finery. Not that they wore it so badly. Not at all. That is a fiction of the foreign woman who is pleasantly blinded to the imperfections of her own kind.

Of course there are no Japanese girls with Gibson figures of lissom grace and Fifth avenue strides of splendid freedom, but the same thing may be said of many other women in many other climes. Everybody cannot be an American girl, you know, and I declare I think the Japanese girl runs some of her European sisters a very close second in her ability to wear ungraceful clothes as gracefully as possible with very limited assistance from Mother Nature. All Japanese waist lines run up in front and all Japanese girls are "pigeon toed," but all Japanese girls are gentleness itself, and their dainty modesty serves to conceal a multitude of peculiarities.—Leslie's Weekly.

THE GOOD OLD TIMES.

A Text From Which Is Spun Lots of Stuff and Nonsense.

I take no stock in the lamentation of the sentimentalists about what they call "the good old times." There is a deal of stuff and nonsense trolled off on this text. Every man over fifty who is not precisely a boor is described as "a gentleman of the old school." We need but turn to the English satirists from Fielding to Thackeray to learn that all the essential ingredients of "Vanity Fair" had their existence 100 or 200 years ago. In the proportion that there were more nature and coarser fiber there were livelier doings. In proportion that there were fewer dramatic persons upon the stage there was better play for the individual. I confess that I like a little blood in mine. Sincerity even in wickedness has a flavor quite its own. But he who fails to see the world as it is and refuses to take it as he finds it falls inevitably betwixt the three legged stool of a very false philosophy and the high backed chair of a very ill judged perversity, with consequences sometimes serious and always humiliating. —Henry Watterson in Louisville Courier-Journal.

Success Following Failures.

We believe that nowhere is the man who has failed, without impeachment of his integrity, more sure of encouragement and assistance than here. Nowhere is there a more general and more active willingness to lend a helping hand to one who is down and is struggling to get on his feet again. Certainly in no country is a single failure so seldom accepted as final, and in none are there so many instances of successes following failures. —New York Times.

Giant Monument to a Child.

Mount Grace, in Warwick, Mass., seems to be in a way a giant monument to a little child. According to tradition, the Indians captured a Mrs. Rowlinson and her child. As the party were passing through the woods on their way to Canada the child died and was buried at the foot of the mountain. The child's name was Grace and the mountain has been Mount Grace ever since.

Worse Than Lost.

"You lost your money in Wall street, did you?"

"I wouldn't say I lost it," answered the precise though unworldly man. "The word 'lost' implies a remote possibility of its being found again."—Exchange.

Progressing.

"Don't you find it hard hustling for yourself?"

"Yes," replied the ambitious young chap, "but it's not half so hard as hustling for other people."—Detroit Free Press.

Gratitude is a fine virtue, and yet it is wearisome when carried beyond due bounds.—Le Sage.

—Hiram Horsehair, postmaster of Sawmill Corners, Bucks county, paused at the corner of Ninth and Market streets, Philadelphia, and gazed at the federal building, "By heck," he mused, "I'd like to be in McMichael's boots. Jest think o' the postal cards that feller kin read in one day."

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN.

Is Rivaled by Human Hair Where Dandruff Is Eradicated.

Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. # ENVOYS BECOME ACQUAINTED

Pass Through the Opening Ordeal at Portsmouth

THE PEACE PROSPECTS

Japan Will Present Demands Which Her Representatives Are Empowered to Modify--Russia Is Prepared to Accept Terms Which Appear to Be Reasonable--Will Take Firm Stand Against the Payment of War Indemnity

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 9.—The Russian and Japanese peace missions have submitted themselves to introduction and likewise to all of the ceremonies of welcome and reception on the part of the United States government and the state of New Hampshire, and are about to face each other for the purpose of ending the war in the Far East and, if possible, consummate a permanent peace between the two great nations.

The landing and reception of the envoys was a function replete with ceremony. The dignity of the nation's salutes was contrasted with the hearty exclamations of good will on the part of the thousands of persons who thronged the streets of Portsmouth and surrounded the courthouse while Governor McLane pronounced his words of welcome.

As the guests of Read Admiral Mead at luncheon, the plenipotentiaries and their suites were introduced to about 60 invited guests. Informality characterized the whole affair. The Russian mission entered the navy general store about five minutes before the Japanese. The Russians turned to the right of the hall after paying their respects to the commandant and Mrs. Mead, and the Japanese to the left. It was not long before the members of the two missions were thrown together and they showed no hesitation in joining in the general conversation with the guests. Baron Komura and Baron Rosen were especially cordial in their greeting and were soon engaged in a long conversation, retiring to one side of the hall. Before leaving, the Russians and Japanese again greeted each other cordially.

Prescribed honors were rendered the two missions as they left the navy general store by the marine guard on duty at the yard.

One of the interesting preliminary questions to be settled by the conference is the language in which the negotiations shall be conducted. Mr. Witte speaks only French and Russian, while Rosen has also a command of English. Both of the Japanese are proficient in the English tongue, but Komura speaks very little French. It is realized that if English shall be chosen as the medium of communication, translations will need to be made to Witte. Should French be the language decided upon, translations will have to be made, preferably into English, for the Japanese.

While there are no official statements of prediction regarding the outcome of the forthcoming negotiations, the prevalence of a general good feeling is noticeable throughout the environs of the peace missions.

The negotiations for the first meeting were conducted between the plenipotentiaries direct. The subject was taken up yesterday at the luncheon and later in the day the details were arranged. Whatever the outcome of the negotiations, it is believed there will be at least two meetings. In official circles here the belief is that, although on the verge of the first meeting the two missions appear very far from agreement, once the plenipotentiaries are in the conference room the position of each will be greatly modified and that they will make an earnest effort to come to terms.

Although she has prepared an irreducible minimum, Japan will not present this in such a form. There will be demands in the Japanese program which her plenipotentiaries are empowered to modify; in short, Komura and Takahira will present Japan's program in as diplomatic a form as possible. The terms will be called bases for negotiations rather than demands, and, while it has been made plain already that Japan will not play diplomacy at the conference, her plenipotentiaries, it is pointed out, propose to conduct the negotiations as diplomatically as possible.

On the other hand, the Russians do not hesitate to reiterate that they will have no trouble in reaching an agreement, provided Japan's terms appear to them reasonable. "But," added a member of the Russian mission, "Japan must remember that we were not forced to these negotiations; we have the alternative of continuing the war indefinitely without the prospect of loss of territory. We have come to the Washington conference because of a real desire for peace, but not because we are unable or unwilling to continue the war indefinitely."

When Witte and Komura discuss the preliminaries about the peace conference there will be present besides themselves only De Rosen and Takahira. After the exchange of their respective credentials, showing the powers with which they are clothed, the official minutes of this first meeting will be compiled and signed by the four plenipotentiaries. Immediately afterward the discussion will be opened on all the formalities regarding the successive meetings in order to decide the way of conducting the peace negotiations and the best division of work among the different delegates.

It is not believed that at the first meeting it will be possible to exchange the fundamental bases on which the representatives of the two belligerent powers may be able to come to an understanding. It is only after an accord on those fundamental bases that an armistice will be considered advantageous by both parties. On one point the Russian delegates are instructed not to yield—that regarding a war indemnity, which, it is stated, is against the Russian feeling, against Russian pride and against the whole history of the country.

French Pessimism Disappearing

Paris, Aug. 9.—Diplomatists and government officials are manifesting the greatest interest relative to the outcome of the conference between the Russian and Japanese peace plenipotentiaries. There is a feeling of confidence that the conference will end in a satisfactory arrangement.

The newspapers point out as a happy augury that France and Great Britain, the allies of the respective belligerents are celebrating the attainment of a better relationship in a town of the same name as that in which the peace conference occurs. It is hoped that the cordiality displayed during the visit of the French fleet to Portsmouth will result in strong influences being brought to bear on the Russian and Japanese governments in favor of moderation.

Cassini Will Advise Czar

St. Petersburg, Aug. 9.—Count Cassini, the former ambassador to the United States, arrived here last evening. He will remain in St. Petersburg during the peace negotiations to act in an advisory capacity to the government while the negotiations are progressing.

Fresh From Seat of War

New York, Aug. 9.—Among the passengers who arrived on board the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II was Captain Roussine of the Russian navy, en route to the peace conference at Portsmouth. He came through direct from the seat of war in 26 days.

Campaign Against Shea

Philadelphia, Aug. 9.—The feature of Tuesday's session of the convention of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters was the opening of the campaign for president. There are three candidates. About 20 teamsters from Chicago, who are opposed to Shea, have reached here. Charles Sagerstrom, fiscal agent of the late strike in Chicago, has with him all the records of the struggle he could obtain. These will be used in the contest against Shea. The election will probably be held Saturday.

Depositors Got Scared

Denver, Aug. 9.—Following dissensions among the stockholders and rumors arising therefrom, a run was made on the Denver savings bank. After the first 15 minutes of business it was announced that depositors could withdraw at once only 10 percent of the deposits. It was said the bank was in good condition and the 10 percent rule was put in for the protection of the public.

Fifteen Thousand to Quit Work

Cleveland, Aug. 9.—According to information given out at the headquarters of the International Association of Structural Iron and Bridge Workers, the strike by its members against the American Bridge company will begin tomorrow. The primary cause for the strike is said to be because the bridge company refuses to recognize the union of New Haven. It is now estimated that 15,000 structural iron workers will quit work.

Oldfield's Latest Mishap

Detroit, Aug. 9.—In the automobile races at Grosse Pointe track, Dan Wurgis' machine collided with Barney Oldfield's car. Oldfield and his car went through the fence into the infield and Oldfield received a badly lacerated scalp and a severely bruised right arm. Wurgis' car also went off the track, but did not upset, and neither car nor driver was injured.

Death List of Sixty-Six

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 9.—The 66th name has been added to the list of fatalities due to the explosion on the gunboat Bennington in San Diego harbor July 21. Frederick J. Mueller, 31 years old, chief sail-maker's mate, died yesterday. The board of inquiry is now engaged in hearing the opinions of experts as to how the explosion occurred.

A Conscientious Jury

Rome, Ga., Aug. 9.—The jury in the case of V. T. Sanford, charged with the murder of Charles Wright, growing out of domestic troubles, last night notified Judge Wright that it could not agree on a verdict. The jury was out five days and had not yet been discharged.

National Assembly For Russia

St. Petersburg, Aug. 9.—The national assembly project was finally approved at Peterhof last evening and will be promulgated next Saturday, the first anniversary of the birth of Grand Duke Alexis Nikolaievitch, heir to the Russian throne.

Fever Continues to Spread

New Orleans, Aug. 9.—Following is the corrected record of the yellow fever situation up to 6 p. m. yesterday: New cases yesterday, 60; total cases to date, 616; deaths yesterday, 4; total deaths, 112; new sub-foci yesterday, 17; total sub-foci, 118. The large number of new cases and sub-foci is surprising, but no attempt is being made to account for it.

Sadie Mac an Easy Winner

Buffalo, Aug. 9.—If the light harness enthusiast who is reported to have offered $30,000 for Sadie Mac the other day could have seen the mare walk off with the $10,000 Empire state purse for 2:10 trotters at Kenilworth park he would probably raise his offer. The mare was not bothered in any of the three heats, finishing the last one three lengths in front.

Shaw Has Not Left Cabinet

Roanoke, Va., Aug. 9.—Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, who is in Roanoke, when shown a dispatch from New York in which it was stated that the secretary had quit President Roosevelt's cabinet to enter the field as a presidential candiate, declared the statement to be "the merest rot."

Located 26-Year-Old Wreck

Halifax, Aug. 9.—Steamer Havana has returned from Sable Island, where Captain Farquhar had gone exploring for wrecks. He located several, among which was the steamer State of Virginia, lost on the island 26 years ago. The vessel is broken up, but her engines are still standing.

Nipped In the Bud

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 9.—Steamer Kanagawa, from Hong Kong, brings news of a plot there to ship 10,000 rifles and 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition to Samar and other unpacified districts of the Philippines. The scheme was discovered and the filibusters are in hiding.

Steamer Fast on Reefs

Miami, Fla., Aug. 9.—Steamer City of Washington is stranded on the reefs five miles south of Fowey Rock lightship. The boat is lying in a very dangerous position and unless vessels of larger size come to her assistance there is little hope of getting her off.

A Somnambulist

[Original.]

While I was studying my profession—the law—I lived with my uncle, Edward Collins. He had married a widow with a daughter, Anna Wayland. The wife and mother had died, leaving a small portion of her estate to her husband and the balance to her daughter. Anna was a lovely girl and extremely fond of her stepfather, whom she had been brought up to consider a father and who was all she had to cling to. But circumstances occurred to cause me to think that my uncle was not worthy of her confidence—that he was trying to possess himself of her estate, which had become entangled. At any rate he was very much worried over something connected with the matter, and I inferred that he was afraid of the law, which is very stringent with guardians.

The house was under the care of a Mrs. Lawson, who had been its manager for many years—a grumbling old woman whom my uncle and his ward were perpetually trying to keep in a good humor, but always failing.

Put two young people of opposite sex under the same roof and in time there is bound to be a love affair. Such was the case with Anna Wayland and myself. But it was nipped in the bud. As a boy I had been troubled with somnambulism, but I had not walked in my sleep since I was fourteen. Now while in my uncle's house I had a relapse, and with very mortifying results. One night in summer when we all slept with our doors and windows open I suddenly awakened standing over Anna Wayland's bed. She awoke at the same moment, and as the full moon was shining in at the window she recognized me at once. I was in no condition to explain the matter; indeed, I bolted from the room without a word. The next day I endeavored to set myself right, but Anna was not in a mood to listen to my excuses. The consequence was that by the time she showed a conciliatory disposition I was too much disgruntled to make an explanation. From that time I stood in the position of a sinner.

One day my uncle called me into his study and told me that a "shyster attorney" was trying to bleed him in the matter of his administration of his ward's estate. Certain papers necessary to his clearing himself of violation of the law which he supposed were in his safe were not there. The safe stood in a hall room next to his own, and he alone knew the combination. I asked him if he had ever written the combination on paper and left it where any one could see it, and he replied that he had not. He consulted with me as to what it was best to do—whether it would be advisable for him to pay hush money or throw himself on the mercy of the courts. I advised doing nothing till he was obliged to do something. This was all he could do.

A few days later I surprised Mrs. Lawson and Anna Wayland in an animated conversation. From a few words I heard I was sure that they were talking about what my uncle had revealed to me and that Mrs. Lawson, who had been Anna's nurse, was using her influence to convince the girl that her stepfather was robbing her.

Trouble thickened around my uncle. Papers necessary to enable him to show a clean management of the estate were continually missing, no matter where he kept them. He had no office; consequently he must keep them at home, and he always locked them in the safe. Meanwhile the lawyer, who had in some mysterious way got wind of his position, was threatening him with exposure if he did not give him money. The household was not a pleasant one. I was not on good terms with Anna, who was induced by Mrs. Lawson to believe that her stepfather was swindling her out of her fortune. I had become convinced of my uncle's innocence and treated Anna all the more coldly for listening to her adviser, though I would not advise her myself.

One night I woke up under circumstances involving a coincidence I would not have believed had it not happened to myself. I was standing in front of my uncle's safe. Mrs. Lawson had the safe door open and was rummaging the contents. The start I gave at waking caused her to turn, and when she saw me she gave a moan and sank down on the floor.

Never did the right thing to do occur to me so quickly. Darting to Anna's room, without stopping to put on other clothing than the nightshirt I wore, I called to her, "Come quick and I will prove your guardian's innocence." In her nightdress she followed me and we found Mrs. Lawson hurriedly picking up papers that lay on the floor and putting them into the safe.

"I will do that for you," I said, and pushing her aside I gathered the papers and took them to my own room.

As soon as the culprit had gone Anna insisted on going with me to my uncle's room, waking him up and telling him that we had solved the mystery that was troubling him. He was astonished that one who had so long been trusted in his family should have proved a villain, but was greatly relieved at my discovery.

When I parted with Anna at her room door I told her that my discovery vindicating one dear to both of us had occurred through somnambulism and she was prepared to believe that my appearance in her room was due to the same cause. The reconciliation was perfect.

On condition of not being prosecuted the conspirators returned all the papers they had stolen and soon afterward my uncle turned over the estate to the owner, who in time became my wife. A. AUSTIN KINGSLEY.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Rainy this afternoon.

Full moon next Monday evening.

The sun now sets before 7 o'clock.

Gordon Jameson of Beach street is entertaining Fred Conant of Brookline.

Theodore C. Graham of Kemper street, has recently built an addition to his house.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Hendrie of Davis street have returned from their vacation trip.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bennett formerly of Medford have recently moved to Marlboro street.

The new house recently completed at the corner of Marlboro street and Elm avenue is ready for occupants.

A small party from Quincy took a trolley ride to Lexington on Tuesday and visited all the places of interest.

The tall elm tree in front of the brick block on Chestnut street needs the attention of the Gypsy Moth commission.

Lindol E. French a recent teacher at the Quincy High school has been elected principal of the High school at Wrentham.

Arthur T. DeCoste, the obliging young salesman at McConnell's fruit store, is spending his vacation at Nantasket beach.

Mrs. William Atkins of Beach street, who has been ill for a long time with inflammatory rheumatism, is slowly improving.

The funeral of Henry F. Hobb was held this afternoon, from the residence of his son at Atlantic, the Rev. E. W. Hunt officiating.

Fred Washburn is now the proprietor of the fish market which he has of late conducted in connection with the Consolidated grocery.

Invitations are out for the annual reunion of the W. M. French Associates who run with the old W. M. French hose. It will be held on Labor day.

Hawthorne Benedict, son of Rev. George Benedict of Abington, preached at the Congregational church at Hanson last Sunday in the absence of the regular pastor. He is a graduate of Bridgewater Normal school and is a good speaker. Rev. George Benedict will be remembered as a former pastor of the Washington Street Congregational church at Quincy Point.

—Governor Douglas has been invited by Jeremiah J. Donovan, chief marshal of the Labor Day parade, to review the parade from the State House, and he has accepted the invitation. The governor will be attended by members of his staff.

If you are going out of Quincy on your vacation we will forward you the Daily Ledger for two cents per day. No extra charge for postage. Address changed as often as desired.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

Pilgrimages Almost Daily to the City of Presidents.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACES OF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantam.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M. until 4 P. M.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect headlot a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company where warships are being built for the government.

—"Next to whiskey, mosquitoes are the greatest curse to mankind," said Sir Patrick Manson, K. C. M. G., at his apartments at the Holland House, New York, yesterday. He knows all about mosquitoes from research.

It is Camping-Out Time.

In the cycle of the seasons the ideal camping-out time of year has arrived and hundreds of parties have already taken to the deep woods of northern Maine where nature has bestowed her wildwood charms most lavishly and where outing parties are sure of finding plenty of camp sites exactly to their liking.

People who have tried it say there is no kind of an outing that comes up to camp life in the northern Maine wilderness. It offers the freedom of the great cool woods; it includes the delights of canoeing on lake and stream and sylvan-bowered brooks; it brings the best of fishing to one's very door; it puts one in close camera touch with Maine's big game in its native haunts; and besides all this there is the ecstacy of wholesome outdoor living, and the invigorating, strengthening, rejuvenating results which come with it. There are never any dull days with such an outing; there is no such thing as monotony, for no two days are passed alike; each has its own haps and mishaps, its own delights and adventures; even the scenery, although it is always woods and water, water and woods, is ever changing and ever new—a panoramic treat which certainly knows no superior in all the world.

Men, women and whole families from all parts of New England and even more distant points make northern Maine their mecca during the camping season. A great many of them come early in August to avoid the swelter of city life and "rest up" beneath the grateful umbrage of the woods. Others plan to come late in August or early in September, when the warm days and clear cool nights afford ideal atmospheric conditions and when the early changing of the foliage illumines the deep green of the forest with tints of rare and spectular brilliancy.

With a good guide to look after the general work about the camp, tent life in northern Maine entails no drudgery or hardship on the vacationist. Women and children enjoy the tramping and canoeing quite as much as the men do, and it was just as splendidly beneficial for them. At times it seems almost like the working of a miracle to note how fathers, mothers and children who go into the woods with pale faces and weary mein come out a few weeks later as brown as the proverbial nut and brimming full of the spring and elasticity of new life. Yet this is the sort of miracle that the northern Maine wilderness works almost invariably on those who seek rest and recreation within it confines.

In the latest edition of the annual guidebook, "In Maine Woods," published by the Bangor & Aroosook Railroad, is printed a great deal of information of special value to prospective campers in northern Maine. The book is well worth owning; it contains 192 pages, over one hundred half-tone illustrations and two full-page colored inserts. A copy can be had for the asking by writting to C. C. Brown, G. P. A., Bangor, Me., and enclosing ten cents in stamps to pay postage.

EDISON'S NEW BATTERY

Powers of His Invention Described by the Wizard.

CAN PROPEL A TWO TON TRUCK.

Single Charge Will Drive an Ordinary Automobile a Hundred Miles. Recharging Problem For Touring Vessels Not Yet Solved—Big Factory to Be Built.

Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, announced recently at his home, in Orange, N. J., that after two years of experimenting he is finally satisfied with the merits of his new storage battery and that he will at once begin the erection of a factory to manufacture the cells on a large scale for the trade, says the New York World.

This is the latest, and, while not the greatest of the wizard's many inventions, it is an accomplishment for which many electricians have been striving many years.

The cell as now perfected will drive a two ton truck at a rate of thirty-three miles an hour, with half the weight of the old method.

A small dealer can operate a delivery wagon with its power at 58 per cent of the cost of maintaining ahorse. An ordinary automobile will run 100 miles under ordinary conditions without recharging. Under the most favorable conditions 150 miles can be covered at a speed of tweney miles an hour.

More than these facts have been claimed for the cell by others, but it was not until the other day that Mr. Edison himself would even speculate as to the possibilities of his new invention. The wizard has experimented with 14,000 cells to perfect one.

The storage cell is small and incased in iron. Instead of containing the old lead plates of the original battery, it contains alternate plates of iron and nickel in a potash lye solution.

"The troubles in the battery I have been trying for two years to remedy have been purely mechanical," said Mr. Edison. "They have been greatly due to the swelling of the nickel element. I have succeeded in reducing the weight of the battery from forty to forty-five pounds per horse power. It has taken time to find out what was needed for this battery, because we cannot look ahead and see just what such a thing is going to do after we have it sketched on paper. In the two years I have been experimenting we have turned out some 14,000 cells of the battery and have operated 160 auto vehicles.

"I do not pretend to have solved the problem for touring vehicles. That can only be possible when more charging stations are spread about the country. Young Cooper Hewitt of New York has helped solve that problem with his mercury rectifier, which takes the place of the old transformer and makes it possible to convert the alternating currents used in small towns so as to make them available for charging the batteries.

"With proper motor and wagon equipment we can take our cells and operate an ordinary delivery wagon for 58 per cent of the cost of maintaining a horse."

Mr. Edison appeared to be in better physical condition than he has been for a long time. His face is full and he has a better color. He said that the trouble with his stomach, from which he has been suffering for several years, is greatly improved. Mr. Edison attributes the improvement to constant riding in his big steam automobile. The wizard likes outdoor life, and after giving out his statement he said:

"What I want now is a chance to get out in the woods and see the birds and flowers. I like to study them and the rocks and ferns and other things of the woods. It rests me after a long campaign like this."

Murder Bureau For Chicago.

John M. Collins, chief of police at Chicago, has announced that in a few days he will establish a murder bureau under the direction of Assistant Chief Schuettler. The assistant chief will have on his staff eight of the best detectives in the city and will work in harmony with the state attorney's office, says a Chicago dispatch. The object of the innovation is the gathering of evidence. As soon as a murder or any other big crime is committed the "runners" from Schuettler's office will go to the scene with a photographer and an artist or a draftsman. Every bit of tangible evidence will be picked up, tabled and used by the detectives in working up the case.

What They Took.

It is reported that on a recent occasion when Arthur Balfour, Joseph Chamberlain, Lord Charles Beresford and the Japanese minister were dining out together Mr. Balfour, who was standing treat, asked Mr. Chamberlain what he would have, says Harper's Weekly.

"Thanks, I'll take Scotch, Arthur," was the response.

"And what will you take, Lord Charles?"

"I'll take Irish, Arthur."

"And what will you take?" addressing the Japanese minister.

"I'll take port, Arthur, thanks," was the answer.

Wickedness Becoming "Bad Form."

We are getting better every day, says Harper's Weekly. Each fresh exposure of an iniquity helps. We can even now detect symptoms of the happy day when it will be bad form to be wicked.

ALL WHITE MEAT.

Colorado Man Raises Freak Chickens Above Timber Line.

Luther Burbank's efforts in the cultivation of flowers and vegetables have been eclipsed by a resident of Tolland, on the Moffat road, says the Denver News. The championship in chicken breeding has been won by F. J. Francis, who has been for more than two years a resident of that section. Mr. Francis is a photographer and sells photographic views to the hundreds of tourists who come to Tolland daily on the trains over the Moffat road. He has discovered his new phase of the chicken industry quite by accident.

Mr. Francis claims to have produced a chicken which is all white meat. The condition of the meat he ascribes to the altitude. He avers that if a chicken could be raised above timber line it would be perfectly white from skin to gizzard. Near the top of the continental divide is the place where he has been conducting his experiments. Rollins pass is the highest point on the Moffat road. It is 11,660 feet above the sea. Here there is no timber, no vegetation of any kind, except a few scattering specks of drying grass and hardy sage brush.

"I found out what I claim about the chickens by observing the fish," said Mr. Francis in discussing his discovery. "I noticed the texture of the flesh of fish in the lake at Tolland was different from that in Teller lake, which is several hundred feet higher. The flesh of the fish in Yankee Doodle and Jenny lakes, which are still higher, is whiter still, and if there was water at a higher altitude that contained fish I am sure you would find the flesh to be entirely white. My theory is that chickens raised at a high altitude will contain no dark meat and will be as tender and juicy, even when old, as the chicken used for 'spring broilers' on the bill of fare.

"We have 100 chickens now at Teller lake that are being raised with a view to proving what I claim."

New Sun Clock.

A new and highly ingenious form of sun dial clock was recently exhibited at the Royal society's rooms in London. It is the invention of Professor Albert Crehove. The gnomen of the common dial is replaced by a head fixed on a wire, the shadow of which is cast on the interior of a true cylindrical surface. On this surface figures of eight curves are drawn, marking standard noon for each day of the year. The cylindrical surface is inclined so that its axis, upon which the head is fixed, is parallel to that of the earth. It thus represents the latitude of the place. The shadow of the bead travels across the cylindrical surface parallel to or on one of the circles drawn thereon. These circles represent days of the month. Each hour described in the circle is always of the same length, and a scale of minutes engraved on the cylinder enables true mean time to be read off directly to a few seconds.

An Automobile Bank.

The accompanying picture shows the first automobile bank ever made in the United States, which is soon to be put into actual use by a Cincinnati savings institution. It is built of chilled steel, with double walls, an inch of space between them. In one corner is placed a burglar proof safe, and desk room for several clerks is also provided. The motive power is electricity, the car having a storage battery capacity of fifty miles. It will be used by the bank in collecting from customers, especially from shopkeepers, at night. The machine cost over $5,000.

CINCINNATI'S TRAVELING BANK.

Electricity From Cats.

We learn from an exchange that an Indiana genius proposes to utilize cats for the generation of electric current for lighting. His purpose is to round up the cats and drive them through a chute, so that they will pass under rotating brushes, which will abstract the desired current. The invention might be further improved by the employment of mice, so that the cats could be drawn through the chute by induction. Just how much feline power is required to light an incandescent lamp has yet to be ascertained.—Scientific American.

Cure For Grasshopper Pest.

Complete control of the grasshopper as a pest and its elimination as a factor in the success or failure of crops in California is announced as the result of three years' intensive study of the problem by W. C. Woodworth, associate professor of entomology at the University of California. The remedy is said to consist of a mixture of bran, molasses and arsenic. Besides killing the hopper directly this poison effects the death of many more, for the first insects to die are eaten by the survivors, which are killed in turn.

"Stone" Soles For Shoes.

An inventor has hit upon a method of putting what are practically stone soles on boots and shoes. He fixes a waterproof glue with a suitable quantity of clean quartz sand and spreads it over the leather sole used as a foundation. These quartz soles are said to be very flexible and practically indestructible and to give the foot a firm hold on the most slippery surface.

TOO MUCH MUSIC

Injunction Wanted Against Graphophone.

Said to Play Almost Continuously.

Mrs. Rose Allen Ordered to Appear in Court.

John W. McAnarney, Esq., as counsel for Mrs. James P. Clare of Edison street, made application to the Superior court on Wednesday for an injunction to prevent their neighbor, Mrs. Rose Allen, from operating a graphophone.

An order of notice was issued by Judge Lawton, for Mrs. Allen to appear on Friday, and show cause why the injunction should not be granted.

Mrs. Allen is a native of Quincy, a daughter of Richard Prout. After her marriage to William Allen she lived in Baltimore until two years ago, when her husband died. Then she returned to her native place.

Mr. Clare when interviewed by a reporter said: "The graphophone has been in constant operation the greater part of every day." He continued, "Our first real annoyance was on July 5, when it was played from early in the morning to almost midnight. The music was harsh, but most of the songs were the same as rendered in all such instruments. I was so exasperated at the time that I cried out, 'Cut it out.'"

"Conditions have been extremely disagreeable on Sundays. The machine is played almost continuously during the entire day. I was tempted to take action before this, but knowing that Mrs. Allen was a widow and had five children to support, I refrained, hoping that matters would adjust themselves.

"As there was no change, I called upon Mrs. Allen a week ago last Sunday evening and told her I thought the instrument was being operated to an unreasonable extent and asked her to request the owner to be more moderate. She replied that she had a right to have the instrument played in her house and that she was going to do so. Since then I have asked her to have the playing stopped, but she refused.

"Matters have been worse since I spoke to her. Today the graphophone was played from 7.30 to 10.30 A. M., 2 to 4.45 P. M., and now, after an intervale of 30 minutes, it has commenced again, and it will probably continue until about midnight."

Mrs. Allen's side of the controversy is as follows: "I have not heard that Mr. Clare or his wife have made any application in court to restrain me from having the graphophone played in this house, although he has threatened to do so. This case is one of spite on the part of Mr. Clare. He has said, I have been informed, that he would drive me out of my home if I allowed this graphophone to be played in the house. The instrument is owned by one of my boarders. It has been in the house since last February, about a month after I took possession.

"Now I consider that I have a right to have the graphophone played in the house, or any instrument in fact, if I don't unduly annoy my neighbors. I claim that this has not been done. It is seldom played in the morning, as my boarders are usually at work, but should one be at home a few tunes are played. After tea it is opened, but never after 10 o'clock. There have been only two occasions when it has been played later.

"None of my neighbors have made any complaint save Mr. Clare. He tried to get them to sign a petition to have the playing stopped, but all refused. Mr. Clare called upon me two weeks ago and told me he wanted the playing stopped. I told him I saw no reason why the instrument should not be played; that I had some rights in my own house, and that the inmates were entitled to some privileges.

"He told me that if I did not see that it was done he would make it cost me $100. I told him he couldn't do so, as I had not so much money to my name. He then replied: 'I will make it cost some one that amount.' His action will cause me some trouble. I have no money with which to secure counsel. I have five children dependent on me for support, and it takes all the money I can get to pay my bills and educate my children, the oldest of which is 12 and the youngest 5. I have had and am still having a hard struggle to get along, and I am surprised that any man would attempt to press a woman in my situation to the wall."

NEW PLUG DRILL.

All Records Broken at a Test at Barre.

The Barre Times says the new Sullivan plug drill, invented by George H. Gilman, was tested this week at Barre, and the test was very successful. It was also a record-breaker. The machine, operated by Robert Arthur, with Mr. Gilman superintending the test, drilled 160 plug holes in an hour, which includes the time taken in spotting and changing bits. The holes were both horizontal and vertical. One hundred pounds pressure was used, and 13 cubic feet of free air per minute was consumed. The machine weighs 19 pounds.

So far as known hereabouts the best record previous was 60 holes an hour.

The machine was invented by Mr. Gilman last winter while he was in the employ of E. L. Smith & Co., and the rights were assigned to the Sullivan Machinery company of Claremont, N. H., and Chicago. The machine has been in operation in Smith's machine shop since January, without any repairs..

BY PRAYERS

Would Bring Back Man to Life.

Killed at the Neponset Crossing.

Victim and Wife Were Christian Scientists.

The 4.12 P. M. train from Boston, which is express to Wollaston and Quincy, struck and instantly killed a man at Neponset on Wednesday. He was immediately identified as Mr. Frederick C. Moseley secretary of the A. T. Stearns Lumber Company.

He left his office at 4.20 P. M., intending to take the 4.26 P. M. train for Boston to join Mrs. Moseley, who was spending the afternoon in town. His office is but a moment's walk from the railroad station on Taylor street, but to reach the station it is necessary to cross the tracks. The crossing is at Walnut street, a block below, but commuters have made a custom of crossing the tracks directly at the head of Taylor street, and the top rail of the fence inclosing the tracks had been broken off so as to make the crossing easier.

Mr. Moseley was struck squarely by the express at 4.23. He was thrown about fifty feet, when he gave one groan and stiffened out dead.

Dr. William E. Kernan, who was called, said death was instantaneous, the skull having been crushed in.

The body was in the baggage room at the station when Mrs. Moseley and a lady friend arrived. She had not been informed of his death and her calmness upon receiving the news surprised everyone.

"It is a great mistake," she announced, calmly. "I shall send for my own physician," and she dismissed with a wave of her hand the official who tried to tell her that a regular physician had pronounced her husband dead. To Miss Parks, a book-keeper employed by the Stearns Company, who was at the station, Mrs. Moseley confided the task of sending for her doctor, who turned out later to be a Christian Science healer. Miss Parks and her mother, also Christian Scientists, then joined Mrs. Moseley and her friend in the baggage room. Shortly after 6 o'clock the "doctor" arrived, and the service began at once.

The meeting lasted for two hours. A crowd of nearly 500 gathered about the depot, and a squad of police was necessary to keep back the curious crowd.

After the service Mrs. Moseley declined the services of undertakers R. & D. F. Heason, who had been called, and made application for the police ambulance. When this was refused she allowed the body to be taken home in the undertaker's wagon.

Arriving at his home, the body of Mr. Moseley was placed on a couch in his room by the undertaker and his assistant, who were then dismissed, and prayers by Mrs. Moseley and the other Christian Scientists were resumed.

"Mr. Moseley is not dead," declared a young lady who responded when a reporter called at the house. "The doctor assures us that he is not dead." The "doctor" referred to was the Christian Science healer.

Mr. Moseley was a member of the well known Moseley family of Dorchester. He was 46 years old, and leaves one child, Russell, who is preparing for college. Aside from his income from the two lumber companies of which he was an officer, and in which it is said he was a large stockholder, Mr. Moseley was independently wealthy, and owned his beautiful home. He was an enthusiastic yachtsman, a member of the Boston Yacht Club, and spent much of his leisure time in the summer on board his handsome yacht, Greyling.

Both he and Mrs. Moseley were devout members of the Christian Science faith, and regular attendants at the First Church of Christ, Scientists, in Boston.

Gain a Disappointment.

South Framingham must wait a few years for the necessary 12,000 population that it may become a city. The census of 1905 shows a population of 11,549, an increase of only 247 in five years. In 1895 the population was 9,512.

—A recent census of Winnipeg, Manitoba, made by a directory company, places its population at 78,367, and the number of habitations at 11,935.

COLLINS---PRESTON.

High School Principal of Braintree Takes a Wife.

Miss Bessie Preston, daughter of Hon. and Mrs. J. Franklin Preston of Danvers, became the bride on Wednesday evening of Mr. Ernest Leon Collins, principal of the High school at Braintree. The ceremony took place in the Maple street church, at Danvers, which was decorated in green and pink, and was performed by Rev. B. F. McFadden, the pastor.

An organ recital by Mr. Frank W. Ross preceded the ceremony.

The bride wore an exquisite and daintily fashioned gown of satin-finish peau de cygne, with silk applique and pearl trimmings, cut en train. She wore for a veil a prized family heirloom, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor was Miss Sara Persis Abbott, and the bridesmaids Miss Leda Collins of Nashua, N. H.; Misses Ethel M. Everett and Mabel T. Everett of New York City, the former a Wellesley college friend of the bride; Miss Helen E. Hayes, Miss Charlotte P. Marston and Miss Marion W. Perley of Danvers. The flower girl was Elizabeth W. Tapley of Haverhill. Not for many years has there been seen in Danvers a more attractive group of fair maids in bewitching gowns or more picturesque coloring.

The best man was Dr. D. C. Dennett of Winchester, and the ushers were Chester T. Porter, chief; Goldsmith H. Conant of Littleton, Ward A. Smith of North Brookfield, George H. Buttrick of Nashua, N. H., Bertram P. Perley and Ralph F. Abbott of Danvers.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Cherry street from 7 to 8.30 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Collins were assisted in receiving by the Hon. and Mrs. J. F. Porter and Mr. and Mrs. Collins of Nashua, N. H., parents of the groom.

The presents were exceptionally abundant and valuable.

After a wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Collins will live in Braintree, and be at home to friends after Sept. 17.

OWENS--DAVIES.

Pretty Wedding Followed by a Christening.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hughes on Goddard street Wednesday evening, was solemnized the wedding of Miss M. Jennie Davies of this city and Frederick G. Owens of Fair Haven, Vt. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward Norton at 8.15 P. M. The bridesmaid was Miss M. Lizzie Furnald and Mr. John Roberts was the best man. The double ring service was used.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held assisted by bridesmaid and best man, until ten o'clock. Only the immediate family and relatives being present. During the reception, Roland Samuel Hughes, the three months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hughes of Granite street was christened by Mr. Norton, thus adding quite a feature to the wedding

A wedding supper was served. There was a very pretty display of gifts, including cut glass, silver and bric-a-brac. At eleven o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Owens left amid a shower of rice and good wishes, which evidence showed from Quincy Adams to Boston. Placards were also pinned on back of the car seat. It was a happy and lively crowd that accompanied them part way to Boston.

After a short wedding trip they will make there home at Fair Haven, Vt. The bridesmaid and best man were presented with handsome stick pins from the bride and groom.

Drift of Opinion.

☞The public will never forgive nor forget and Senator Depew will never rise again. He will go down instead of up. The reputation of Yale college and the demand of the New York press that he resign his senatorship are indices of his decline. The people exact a high code of honor. It is well. Shocking as the revelations may be, the lesson of Depew's fall is not without its uses. No man, however brilliant or genial is above the law of things honorable. Chauncey Depew's sun is not merely in eclipse, as Mr. Platt sees it. It has gone down in darkness.—Beverly Times.

Witte Presents His Credentials Which Are Satisfactory

KOMURA'S AT HIS HOTEL

He Details Verbally the Powers Delegated to Him and Statement Is Accepted by Russians --Decidedly Pessimistic Opinion as to Outcome of Negotiations--French and English to Be Used in Records--Japanese Carefully Guard Their Plans

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 10.—With the probability that Baron Komura will today reveal to the Russian plenipotentiaries the terms upon which Japan is willing to conclude peace, opinion as to the outcome among those who are congregated here to watch the proceedings has become decidedly pessimistic. This is due to the growing conviction that Japan's conditions will not prove as moderate as were at one time anticipated and, especially in the matter of indemnity, may preclude the possibility of their acceptance by the Russian envoys as a basis of negotiation.

The firm attitude of Witte in private conversation against the payment of an indemnity and the insistent reports emanating from Japanese quarters that a stiff war contribution, approximating the cost of the war, variously stated at from $600,000,000 to $800,000,000, constitutes one of Japan's demands, indicates a wide difference between Japan's irreducible minimum and what Russia is prepared to accept.

Upon the question of the payment of a large indemnity the instructions of the Russian envoys are believed to admit of no concessions, although it is possible a certain compensation in kind might be arranged. For instance, it is suggested that for the relinquishment of the Island of Sakhalin, now potentially in Japan's hands, the possession of which by Japan would give her command of the whole Siberian littoral, Russia could with propriety pay a large sum. Gloomy forebodings, however, may be premature at this juncture, as everything indicates that the plenipotentiaries upon both sides are sincerely desirous of concluding a treaty of peace.

The first meeting of the envoys was of an entirely informal character, so informal in fact that Komura did not bring his letter of credence to the navy yard, whereas Witte was armed with the original document in Russian setting forth the powers conferred upon him and also with a translation of the document. The latter he read.

Baron Komura was embarrassed and offered to send back to the hotel for his commission, but Witte expressed his faith that the credentials were full and ample. Later, however, copies of the credentials were informally exchanged in order that they might be examined before the meeting today. It is known that the credentials differ slightly. In exactly what respect cannot be ascertained, but the difference is not essential and constitutes no obstacle to the official opening of the negotiations.

It has been decided to hold two daily sessions, one in the morning, beginning at 9:30, and one in the afternoon, beginning at 3. To avoid delay and give time for consultation between sessions, it has been arranged that luncheon will be served at the navy yard, and the envoys, upon leaving their quarters in the morning, will not return until the afternoon sessions adjourn. Three secretaries for each side will be in attendance to draw up the protocols of the meeting, which will be written in both English and French. A French text, however, in case of dispute will be accepted in evidence.

The official versions of the first meeting, given out by each side, described it as "satisfactory," and other accounts indicate that, while everything passed off amicably, considerable reserve was displayed upon both sides. Baron Komura, whom Witte had met in St. Petersburg during the former's service as Japanese minister there, was pleasantly greeted by the chief Russian envoy in French, but Komura was obliged to shake his head and turn to his secretary, Mr. Honda, who explained that Komura had forgotten the little French he knew while in St. Petersburg.

While the Russian plenipotentiaries expect the Japanese to present the Japanese terms immediately upon the official exchange of credentials, they admit they are in the dark. Baron Komura and his colleagues decline to give any intimation of their course of procedure. Pursuing the tactics which they have constantly followed in all their diplomatic and military operations, they are carefully guarding all their plans regarding the present meeting.

There was some disposition to attribute Komura's forgetfulness in not bringing his credentials to the meeting to a desire to spar for time, and for that reason some doubt was expressed whether the Japanese would show their hand today, but the Russian envoys do not question Komura's good faith and frankly say it was due to a misunderstanding.

Last evening the amenities were observed by a general exchange of cards, Witte, Rosen and his suite sending theirs through the hotel office, while the cards of the Japanese mission were left at the doors of the members of the Russian mission by a little Japanese messenger boy.

The Japanese and the Russian newspaper correspondents have broken the ice and have begun to fraternize. It is perhaps significant that the correspondents on both sides are sending to their respective homes dispatches of anything but an optimistic character. In the opinion of the Russians the czar's manifesto promulgating the national assembly project will materially strengthen the position of the Russian envoys by relieving the internal situation.

Because the Russians like to smoke while at the table, the entire Russian mission last night dined in their apartments, a practice which they have decided to continue hereafter.

Two Portsmouths In Public Eye

London, Aug. 10.—All the London morning papers devote much space to the news from the two Portsmouths. Special dispatches from Portsmouth, N. H., giving the opinions of the correspondents relative to the peace negotiations, are somewhat pessimistic, especially those to The Times and The Daily Telegraph, both of which convey the impression that the negotiations are certain to end in failure.

The visit of the French squadron to Portsmouth, Eng., and the events connected with this visit are receiving unusual attention. Today the French naval officers will visit London as the guests of the city. The decorations throughout the city are even more elaborate than on the occasion of visits of foreign rulers to London.

Japs Float the Variag

Tokio, Aug. 10.—The imperial navy department has announced the successful floating of the cruiser Variag. In view of the difficulty encountered there is a strong feeling of general satisfaction over the raising of the vessel.

The Russian cruiser Variag and the Russian gunboat Korietz were sunk by the Japanese in the harbor of Chemulpo on Feb. 9, 1904.

Fewer Deaths Than Expected

Albany, Aug. 10.—The collapse of the John G. Myers company department store, which resulted in the death of 13 persons and the probable fatal injury of two others, will be investigated by a special commission which was appointed by the mayor last night. The discovery that the 13 bodies already taken out would account probably for all the victims of the accident was a surprise to Albanians, who expected that at least a dozen more mangled forms were buried beneath the ruins.

Rockefeller's Ambition

Cleveland, Aug. 10.—The World News says: At conferences now taking place at Forest Hill between John D. Rockefeller and President Harper of Chicago university plans are being formulated for the further endowment of that educational institution by Rockefeller. It is known that plans involving the outlay of $50,000,000 are under consideration by Rockefeller, who designs to make the University of Chicago the greatest seat of learning in the world.

Rudderless Steamer Reaches Port

St. Johns, Aug. 10.—Steamer Pelican, which lost her rudder by striking a rock near Cartwright, Labrador, 10 days ago, arrived here last night in tow of the steamer Ingraham. On Monday night, in a gale, the Ingraham was compelled to cut loose from the Pelican. The vessels became separated and it was feared that the Pelican had foundered until Tuesday, when the Ingraham sighted her and again took her in tow.

Conflicting Claims Continue

St. Paul, Aug. 10.—There are no important developments in the strike of union telegraphers on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways. Both sides are still asserting that conditions are improving from their standpoint with each passing day. General Superintendent Slade says that so far as the Great Northern is concerned the strike is a closed incident.

Cossacks and Strikers Clash

St. Petersburg, Aug. 10.—Advices from Riga say that one person was killed and several wounded in a conflict between strikers and Cossacks yesterday. Commerce of the port of Riga is completely paralyzed. The residents there are organizing a volunteer vigilance committee for self-protection.

Indian Viceroy May Retire

London, Aug. 10.—London papers have revived a report of strained relations between Lord Curzon and Lord Kitchener which, they say, coupled with Curzon's indisposition and his worry over Indian affairs, are likely to result in the viceroy's retirement, even before the Prince of Wales visits India.

Limited Cruise of the Lena

Vallejo, Cal., Aug. 10.—The interned Russian cruiser Lena has left Mare Island navy yard for a trial of her machinery, which has been undergoing repairs. The cruiser will visit Angel island and cruise in San Francisco bay, but will not go outside of the Golden Gate.

Battleaxe Takes $10,000 Stake

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The Grand Union Hotel stakes of $10,000 was won by H. P. Whitney's Battleaxe, who won without difficulty.

Chinese as Servants.

Almost every family in Vancouver depends upon Chinese boys and young men for their domestic servants. The diminution of the supply has caused a considerable advance in wages. Many incompetent Chinese servants can now command places at wages formerly paid to competent persons. Owing to the almost universal employment of Chinese as domestic servants very few white girls are willing to accept employment. During the salmon fishing season, which usually extends from about the middle of June to the middle of September, large numbers of the Chinese, who at other seasons are domestic servants, find employment at the canneries at much higher wages than they receive in families. Licenses as fishermen and boat pullers are not granted to Chinamen, but they do much of the work involved in dressing and canning the salmon.

Rizzi Bros. Buy.

The granite cutting plant of Milne, Clarihew & Gray at Barre, has been purchased by Rizzi Bros., who already operate a plant in that city. The deal was carried through Tuesday. The cutting plant of Milne, Clarihew & Gray has been in existence many years, and is one of the best known in Barre. Rizzi Bros. started eight years ago, and are doing a good business. The members of the firm are Mario and Stephen Rizzi. Their present plant is off Blackwell street, employing about two gangs of men.—Barre Times.

With Old Parish.

Rev. Ellery C. Butler for twenty years and more the beloved pastor of the First Parish church, of Beverly now of Quincy, occupied his old pulpit Sunday morning to the great delight of many of old parishioners and fellow townsmen who attended the morning service at the Unitarian church. Mr. Butler holds his years well and preached a strong sermon, in his old time forceful and expressive manner. Mr. Butler took for his text the words found in Acts 4th, 12th. "There is none other name given under Heaven among men whereby we must be saved."—Beverly Times.

The Magazines.

The August Review of Reviews has feeling tributes to the Hon. John Hay. Walter Wellman writing of him as an American gentleman, and Prof. John Bassett Moore of his work in diplomacy. "Canada's Canal System" is an illustrated article by M. M. Wilner, and "The Solar Observatory, on Mt. Wilson," also illustrated by Paul P. Foster. The number is full of other very interesting matter.

SUPERIOR RIGHTS

China Wants Them Granted to "Superior" Chinamen

REGRETS THE BOYCOTT

Thinks, However, That It Is the Only Means of Ventilating Difficulties Arising From Our Application of Exclusion Act--Would Have Laborers Admitted to Hawaii and Philippines

Pekin, Aug. 10.—Wu Ting Fang, former Chinese minister at Washington, in an interview, said that the existing regulations for the exclusion of Chinese from the United States were unsatisfactory from the Chinese viewpoint and hence it was desired that they should be modified by the new convention.

The Chinese, he said, agreed to the exclusion of coolies, and this point presented no difficulty, but the existing regulations pressed with severity on other classes. He instanced the cases of merchants, travelers for pleasure, students and others who, while nominally admissible to the United States, were forced to undergo examinations which, though possibly necessary, were generally rendered very objectionable on account of the manner in which the regulations were enforced.

"A superior Chinaman arriving at San Francisco, for example," said Wu, "is delayed by the authorities while his credentials are being examined, and this detention frequently involves consorting with a low class of coolies in a common shed. He is unable to communicate with friends and is subjected to inconveniences and indignities to which Americans would refuse to submit. Moreover, he is not allowed to retain the services of anyone to protect his interests, and if the immigration authorities decide against him there is no possibility of appeal. There have been numberless instances of harsh treatment which the Americans themselves have been forced to admit."

Mr. Wu admitted that European immigrants were not allowed representation by lawyers or others during their examinations, but he rejected this argument because, he said, the Chinese in other respects were given treatment entirely different from that accorded the Europeans.

The Chinese government, he said, agreed to the exclusion of coolies, but it urged as the main points of a new convention that the better classes of Chinese be treated on an equal footing with other aliens, with the right to retain counsel and the right of appeal, if necessary, and the admission of coolies to Hawaii, which he regarded as of the utmost importance. The Chinese there could not compete with American labor. The Philippines had long been a natural field for Chinese industry, but the application of the exclusion act to the islands had changed this. Regarding the desirability of Chinese labor in the Far East, Wu instanced the prosperity of Singapore, in the Straits Settlements, and the adjacent country.

Mr. Wu expressed himself as greatly regretting the Chinese boycott of American goods and steamship and insurance companies. Apparently, however, he said the Chinese classes mostly concerned, considering that the prospects for the solution of the difficulties arising from the application of the exclusion act were remote, decided on the boycott as the only means of ventilating the question.

Mr. Wu said that he was surprised at the extent of the movement and the depth of feeling manifested not only by the mercantile classes, but by the students and even the women, and that such an expression of public sentiment meant extraordinary progress in the direction of the growth of a real nationality. He could not tell what the results would be should the boycott be disregarded, but considered the movement a most serious one.

Mr. Wu's attention was called to the fact that he was credited with directing the boycott and he repudiated the suggestion.

"I regret," said Wu, "that so little progress has been made in the negotiations for a new convention. Should the American government permit the wishes of China to be embodied in this convention it would practically have no effect on the United States, as Hawaii and the Philippines do not concern American labor, while the facilities required for superior Chinese immigrants in the United States are admittedly just and reasonable. I suggest that an educational test would be the most effective means of preventing the ingress of coolies and an easy means of ascertaining the eligibility of other classes, besides eliminating undesirable class distinction.

In conclusion Wu said it was his opinion that a clearer definition of the term "laborer" was necessary.

End of Saginaw Strike

Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 10.—The street car strike in Saginaw, which has been on since June 4, has been officially declared off. The management of the railway will take the striking employes back on individual application.

Striking Bakers Causing Trouble

New York, Aug. 10.—Frequent outbreaks of rioting, calling for drastic action by the police, have marked the course of the strike of the Hebrew bakers on the East Side. In an attack on a bakery in Allen street 50 rioters broke into the place, completely wrecked it and upset barrels of flour in the street. A bakery in Orchard street was also wrecked. A patrol wagon was furiously assailed by the mob, who stopped the horses and even dragged some of the men from their seats. The rest charged the mob through a rain of bottles and bricks that poured from roofs and windows. After 10 minutes' hard fighting the mob was dispersed. At many points wagons carrying bread were attacked and the drivers beaten.

New Church to Cost Half a Million

New York, Aug. 10.—A new $500,000 church edifice, almost an exact duplicate of the St. Thomas Episcopal church, which was burned in the heart of New York's fashionable residence section, will be built immediately on the old site. Contracts have already been let to build on the same site a $25,000 temporary structure, over the roof of which the new church will be raised.

Eighteen Thousand Men Out

Cleveland, Aug. 10.—Secretary McNamara of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' association says that no concessions have been made either by the organization or the American Bridge company, and as a consequence the strike against the latter begun this morning. McNamara's estimate of the number of men who will lay down their tools is 18,000.

WEDS BRITISH CAPTAIN

Second Matrimonial Venture of Boston $8,000,000 Widow

Boston, Aug. 10.—Back Bay society was surprised when it became known that Mrs. John D. Bates, widow, possessor of a mansion at 161 Commonwealth avenue, a magnificent summer home at Centre Harbor, N. H., and a reputed fortune of $8,000,000, all left by her late husband, had again ventured into matrimony, taking Captain Henry F. FitzRoy, late of the British battleship Charybdis, as her second consort.

She was married quietly at St. Cecelia's Catholic church, Belvidere street, to FitzRoy, who, until recently, has been stationed at Bermuda, Rev. John J. O'Keefe performing the ceremony.

Captain FitzRoy, who is 35 years of age, gave his birthplace as Paris, but of English parentage. The bride, who is 41 years of age, was born in the north of Ireland. Captain FitzRoy has resigned his commission in the British navy.

Mrs. FitzRoy first came to the notice of local society when, stepping from the servants' room at the handsome home of Bachelor John D. Bates, millionaire and philanthropist, where she had been employed for two years as cook, she suddenly emerged from St. Cecelia's church as the wife of her former master.

Despite the strenuous opposition of his relatives and friends to the marriage with the pretty Irish colleen, Bates, at the age of 61 and on June 18, 1895, broke loose from his bachelor ties, and Rev. John J. Downey, also of St. Cecelia's church, transformed the maid of the kitchen into the "queen of the castle."

Dreaded Cattle Plague Appears

Brookfield, Mass., Aug. 10.—The cattle plague known as blackleg, a form of murrain, has broken out here at the farm of John A. Terry, and as a result Terry has lost three cows. An agent of the state cattle bureau has been ordered to Brookfield to inoculate all the cows of Terry's herd. Blackleg is said to be a disease much more to be dreaded than the hoof and mouth disease, which created such havoc in Massachusetts three years ago.

Killed Trying to Save Another

Waterbury, Conn., Aug. 10.—Alexander Gerrard, a builder, lost his life while trying to save the life of his foreman, Fred Chagnot. Chagnot stumbled while at work on the fourth floor of a new factory building and fell one story, breaking his wrist and leg. Gerrard attempted to catch him and pitched head foremost over the side of the building, crushing his skull on the ground below.

Confessed to Incendiarism

North Adams, Mass., Aug. 10.—After his arrest on a charge of arson in connection with a fire in the weave shed at the Arnold Print works, James Rumbolt confessed that he set the fire and said that he did it because he wanted to die in a "fiery furnace," on account of family troubles. Rumbolt was employed in the boiler room of the print works.

Child Murderer Pardoned

Augusta, Me., Aug. 10.—At a meeting of the governor and council a hearing was given on the petition for pardon from Mrs. Ellen Dolley, convicted of the murder of her daughter's illegitimate child in 1895, and sentenced to life imprisonment. No opposition was offered and a full and free pardon was granted.

Unused to Long Marches

Augusta, Me., Aug. 10.—The Second regiment has returned to Camp Cobb from the annual two days' visit to the Soldiers' national home at Togus. The regiment felt the effects of the march, many of the men being footsore and tired, so that the routine work of the afternoon was dispensed with.

Kelly In Critical Condition

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 10.—George W. Kelley, who is suffering from two severe scalp wounds, which he claims are bullet wounds, inflicted by a stranger on the outskirts of this city Monday night, is in a critical condition. The police are trying to find the one who did the shooting.

Sixty Captured In Poolroom Raid

Providence, Aug. 10.—By order of Sheriff White of Providence county 11 deputy sheriffs raided a large poolroom at Waterford. About 60 men were captured, but all but eight, supposed to be employes, were released. Considerable paraphernalia was seized.

Miss Tucker Gaining Slowly

East Rochester, N. H., Aug. 10.—Miss Mary A. Tucker is slowly improving, although she has not been moved from the Glendon house, where she was taken Sunday after she was found. She has not talked yet and no one is allowed to talk to her.

Lazy Germ In New Orleans.

Dr. Arnold Pfaff of the national bureau of education, who believes that laziness among school children is caused by a germ, has found specimens of the germ in school children of New Orleans and is now looking for a cure for the disease. The blood of schoolboys which was analyzed by Dr. Pfaff was drawn from their ears. He selected those who seemed chronically disinclined to study. After an analysis he assured the teachers that the boys were not responsible for their condition, but were the victims of a disease. On this hypothesis the boys were allowed to get off easily on their final examination. Dr. Pfaff had all the boys under treatment and assured their teachers that they would be cured before the next term began.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

Pilgrimages Almost Daily to the City of Presidents.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACES OF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Small fee asked.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the Indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M. until 4 P. M.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company where warships are being built for the government.

An Engagement Kiss

[Original.]

I was in a frame of mind to get all the fun that could be possibly extracted from two weeks' vacation. I extracted so much in the first twenty-four hours that—but I anticipate.

I alighted at the hotel, gave my hand baggage to a porter and was climbing the piazza steps when I saw a girl whom I was sure I had never met before coming to meet me with a radiant smile.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed. "I thought you were not coming till tomorrow."

"But you see I have come today," I replied, humoring her mistake, for I knew she was in error as to my identity.

"Well, I declare! You quite take my breath away," she went on, looking at me admiringly from tip to toe. "How you have improved! I'd scarcely have recognized you."

"You are the same lovely girl; you couldn't improve."

I was treading on dangerous ground, but relied as soon as the error was discovered on my ingenuity in making up a plausible story to let me out.

"Well," I said looking at her wistfully, "are you of the same mind?"

"Those people over there are looking at us. Leave me till after supper; then we'll walk on the beach."

I was glad to comply, determining that as soon as I rejoined her I would let the fact come out that I was not the lover she expected. When we met again my resolution weakened. I could not resist the temptation to enjoy a brief period with so charming a girl. We went down on to the beach in the gloaming and strolled on the line of foam. The moon rising out of the ocean glinted the crests of intervening waves. The stars were coming out. There was no sound but the plash of waves. I knew that if I talked of anything except love I would expose my hand, and it seemed as natural for me to talk love to her as if we had long been lovers. I told her how during the four years of absence my heart had yearned for her and begged her to tell me if I was to be made happy. Sailing on the broad sea of love I struck never a rock, and when it was time for us to go in she had no suspicion that she had made an exchange of lovers.

"And now," I said before parting, "give your reply in a kiss.

She kissed me, and that kiss was the loveliest, longest, most rapturous I ever took from woman's lips.

The next morning I rose late and was the only person in the breakfast room. Sitting by a window, I heard voices on the piazza.

"Who was the fellow," asked a man's voice, "and what did he look like?"

"Like you, very much improved from what you were when I saw you last."

"H'm! You don't seem to consider me improved."

"Not in disposition. You blame me for a very natural mistake."

"A very unnatural mistake. If you make such mistakes after we are married, there'll be the deuce to pay."

"We're not married yet."

I peeped through a slat in the blind and saw a man sitting with the girl I had made love to the night before. He looked very like me, though I did not feel flattered by the likeness. What should I do—slink out unobserved and take the first train or brazen it out? I marched boldly out and joined them.

I certainly expected both to receive me scornfully. Without waiting for either to speak I begged a thousand pardons of the girl for not rectifying her mistake at once, giving as my only reason that she was so charming I could not bring myself to do so. While I was speaking, which I did humbly, the face of the girl slowly broadened into a smile; that of the man grew momentarily surlier. Having done all I could to atone for my sin, I turned and left them.

I resolved to leave the place that afternoon, but, meeting the girl without her lover, she extended her hand to me and asked me to take a seat beside her. I did so and told her of my intention to depart, which had been formed on the ground that my presence there would not be agreeable to her and her lover. She declared that she would not be the cause of my departure and begged me to stay. I determined to remain for awhile, but if my presence proved objectionable I would go at once.

That evening, observing the young lady sitting alone on the piazza, I joined her. To my surprise, at my mention of her lover she said that he had gone.

Then she gave me her confidence in a matter of which I already knew the principal part. At eighteen she had admired a man whom she had known but a short time when he removed to another place. They had corresponded, and after four years' absence he had returned, hoping to get a favorable answer to his suit. She had been disappointed in him and had rejected him.

I chatted with her till the moon rose, then boldly asked her if she would walk on the beach. She accepted the invitation, and, walking over the same sands as the night before, I made the same love. She proposed that I should go away and return for an answer in four years, but I told her I had been in suspense for twenty-four hours and that was long enough. She considered that ridiculously short, but yielded. When later I rallied my wife on accepting me on such short acquaintance she said:

"H'm! Do you suppose I was going to let you go after that engagement kiss?"

FOUND DEAD.

William H. Glennon Passes Away Suddenly.

William H. Glennon, of 40 Willard street was found dead in a chair at his house between five and six o'clock this morning.

He was rather eccentric during the last years of his life, but quite an inventive genius. He obtained several patents, but lacked financial assistance to put them on the market.

The following sketch of his life was published four or five years ago.

One summer day in 1851 William H. Glennon, then a lad in his 14th year, could have been seen boarding vessel after vessel that lay at the wharves in Boston harbor. His quest was for a captain that would take him to sea with him, as he was tired of toiling from early morn till late at night on his father's farm at West Quincy.

His search was successful at last. The commander of the bark Western Star was to sail that day for Liverpool with more than 500 passengers, and the boy was engaged to work in the cooks' galley.

Two years later he was back on the farm at West Quincy, but his father was even more particular as regards the amount of work he exacted from his son.

On June 1, 1853, the boy was at work chopping down a large tree. His ax had cut a gash about half way through the trunk, when suddenly he embedded the ax in the opposite side of the tree, picked up his coat and started to walk out of the woods.

His father noticing him, asked him where he was going. "To California," answered the lad, as he started to run toward the road. Reaching home, he bade his mother adieu, and with 25 cents he started upon those travels that were to occupy more than a quarter of a century of his life.

When he arrived at Boston he went directly to the captain of the ship Forester, which, he had learned, was to sail for California and that night the runaway sailed out of Boston harbor for the Golden Gate.

He arrived in California in good time and worked as longshoreman and at odd jobs for about a year. Fortunately, he met a native of West Quincy, who had been engaged by Mr. John Shaw of New York to build the bridge at Mormon island, the first suspension bridge in that state. Young Glennon was employed as a mason, although he knew but little about the business, but even indifferent mechanics were scarce in California in those days.

Before the bridge was finished he had become quite skilful in handling large blocks of stone, and was engaged immediately to build the courthouse and jail at Nevada City, one of the most imposing buildings on the coast at that time.

The excellence of his work gained him a reputation, and his services were in demand constantly by contractors. His last work in California was done in 1862 when he repaired the bridge at Fulsome after it had been partly carried away in the great flood of that year.

The same year he was sent for by the famous Harry Meiggs better known probably as the "modern Monte Cristo" to finish the mason work of the car station on the Valparaiso & Santiago railroad in Chile.

The finishing of this railroad by Meiggs after it had been abandoned by the English contractors was the beginning of those engineering achievements that made him the best known and the wealthiest man in South America.

Mr. Glennon was associated with Mr. Meiggs from that date until 1876, during which time he built more than 100 bridges and buildings in Chile and Peru.

When the Oroya railroad was being surveyed, Mr. Glennon accompanied Col. LaTora and his delegation to the head of the Amazon river to treat with the Indians for a part of their land. Col. LaTora left the company and proceeded to the place of meeting accompanied only by an interpreter. But as soon as he stepped ashore 34 arrows were sent quivering into his body from the bows of concealed savages.

Mr. Glennon built the largest theatre in the city of Cuzco, and erected the monument to Gen. Rodrignes, at Til-Til. While digging a tunnel at Chimbota he was taken sick, and had to be carried to the coast, where he remained nearly two years.

After his return to health he finished a contract in the guano mines, and then went to Callao, where he built the railroad station. After the great earthquakes that cause so much damage in the city of Arequipa, he was engaged for several months in repairing churches and monasteries injured at that time.

When the war between Chile and Peru broke out Mr. Glennon returned to West Quincy. His parents died soon afterward, and left to him and his sister the old homestead. Brother and sister have lived together since, and are well-known for their benevolence.

ELEVEN DELEGATES.

Quincy Representation at Democratic State Convention.

Quincy will have four more delegates to the Democratic State convention this year than last year, a total of 11. Only seven of the 33 cities will have more, while Newton and Fitchburg will have the same.

The convention will have 1319 delegates one for each 200 votes a majority fraction for Governor Douglas.

The Quincy vote by wards and the number of delegates is given below:

| | Vote. | Delegates. |
|---|---|---|
| Ward One, | 343 | 2 |
| Ward Two, | 365 | 2 |
| Ward Three, | 476 | 2 |
| Ward Four, | 529 | 3 |
| Ward Five, | 276 | 1 |
| Ward Six, | 300 | 1 |
| | 2,289 | 11 |

One more vote would have given Ward Six another delegate.

STATE POPULATION.

Is Expected to be Upward of 3,000,000

The Norfolk county towns in general are making increases in population, the only exception in the list below being Medway which has been divided:

| | 1905. | 1895. |
|---|---|---|
| Braintree, | 6,877 | 5,311 |
| Canton, | 4,702 | 4,636 |
| Foxboro, | 3,364 | 3,219 |
| Holbrook, | 2,509 | 2,298 |
| Medway, | 2,648 | 2,913 |
| Stoughton, | 5,959 | 5,272 |
| Walpole, | 4,003 | 2,994 |

Braintree's percentage of gain is one of the highest in the state, being over 29 per cent. since 1895, having gained 1566 in ten years. The population has doubled in fifty years.

The census figures for the State will be ready within two weeks and it is expected that the increase in ten years has been 500,000 to 600,000, making the total over 3,000,000.

Thus far 125 towns show gains in ten years and 106 show losses.

The following sixteen towns have made the best precentage of gain in ten years, in the order named; all being over fifteen per cent: Maynard, Adams, Belmont, Greenfield, Dracut, Chelmsford, Walpole, Braintree, Fairhaven, Russell, Pittsfield, Reading, Hudson, Monson, Somerset, North Adams.

If Quincy's population is 30,000 it will show an increase of thirty per cent in ten years, which would be above Braintree.

A MOSQUITO VICTIM

Archbishop Chapelle Dead In Yellow Fever Plague

RECORD OF NEW CASES

It Is Again Large and There Is an Increase In the Number of Deaths--Rural Regions of Mississippi Are Restless Under the Severity of Quarantine

New Orleans, Aug. 10.—Public interest in the general yellow fever situation suffered a temporary eclipse in the death of Archbishop Chapelle. Although the prelate was a subject of scientific treatment and attention, his physique and fatigued condition on his return from a tour of Louisiana counted against him.

What is held remarkable is that the archbishop should have contracted the disease so quickly whereas he had spent so many years in Cuba and Porto Rico, where the disease is endemic, without having contracted it there. Among the scientific men there is little doubt that the archbishop fell a victim to a mosquito during a brief visit he paid to the old archbishopric on Chartrers street, or from an insect which found its way into his residence in Esplanade avenue, which is not far from the territory within which there has been infection.

Placidus Louis Chapelle was born in France in 1842. After studying for the priesthood in his native town and in Belgium he came to the United States and finished his education in St. Mary's seminary, Baltimore. He was ordained in 1865.

While Chapelle held a pastorate in Washington he formed friendships with men of prominence in national affairs, among them William McKinley. While apostolic delegate to the Philippines, the archbishop spent much time in the settlement of conditions growing out of the change of sovereignty in the islands. During his stay in Manila Chapelle and Mr. Taft, then governor general of the islands, became friends.

Three years ago Chapelle was relieved of the responsibility of his mission to the Philippines, but continued his jurisdiction over Cuba and Porto Rico. He made frequent visits to both islands and was constantly in touch with all the work of his vast diocese.

During his stay in New Orleans he has lived with his niece, Miss Soulignac, and they have been inseparable companions. The archbishop was a man of ability and intellectual attainment He was fond of social life and was a constant entertainer, drawing to his home the most representative people in the social and intellectual life of New Orleans.

No prelate of the Catholic church has risen more rapidly than Archbishop Chapelle. A few years ago he was assistant pastor of St. Matthew's church of Washington. Then he was made doctor of theology at Rome and a short time after bishop of Santa Fe. Subsequently he was promoted to the archbishopric of New Orleans. After the Spanish-American war he was sent to Cuba, and after having adjusted the church affairs there, was transferred to the Philippine islands.

Wednesday's record of new cases was again large and there was an increase in the number of deaths. The daily number of new cases is swelling largely because federal control has overcome the disinclination of doctors to make known their cases.

Actual control of sanitary work has passed to the marine hospital service and Dr. Gessner has been placed in charge.

Advices from Mississippi indicate that the people of the rural regions are growing restless under the severity of the quarantines which have cut off supplies. Secretary Hunter of the Mississippi board of health announces himself as utterly opposed to shotgun quarantines and throughout Mississippi a saner spirit is manifesting itself since the federal government has taken charge of the situation.

The report of the board of health to 6 p. m. yesterday was: New cases, 63; total cases to date, 679; deaths, 7; total deaths to date, 119; new sub-foci, 12; total sub-foci to date, 130; cases under treatment, 265.

No Yellow Fever in Mississippi

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 10.—There are no yellow fever cases in Mississippi, according to the official announcement made by the state health board. The suspicious cases reported at Holly Springs and Yazoo City were diagnosed by experts and by all pronounced the ordinary type of malarial fever.

Asphalt Company Protests

Washington, Aug. 10.—The state department is informed that the New York and Bermudez Asphalt company has lodged with the Venezuelan government a protest against the recent decision of the court against that company. The protest will be made a part of the records in the case, now under investigation.

Bennington Report Almost Ready

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 10.—The board of inquiry on the disaster to the gunboat Bennington is considering the testimony, that has been heard up to the present time. It is expected that the report of the board will be made in a day or two.

HYPNOTIC REFORMING.

Denver Judge to Try Novel Method on Young Offenders.

Hypnotism as a means of reforming boys and girls is to be tested in the juvenile court by Judge Benjamin B. Lindsey of Denver, one of the pioneers in juvenile court work. Judge Lindsey is taking lessons of a professional hypnotist and for years has been a theoretical student of hypnotism, says a Denver dispatch.

The first actual test will be made at the September term of court. A boy addicted to smoking cigarettes will probably be the first subject, as Judge Lindsey wishes to accomplish something which will demonstrate his ability to assuage physical cravings as well as bring about a mere mental reformation. Judge Lindsey recently returned from the convention of charities and corrections, where he met many phrenologists, most of whom advised him to attempt hypnotic experiments in the juvenile court.

"My intention is," said Judge Lindsey, "to practice so that I may become proficient. I have long believed in the influence of mind over matter, not that I am inclined to Christian Science beliefs, but merely that study has convinced me that mind is greater than matter and has a correspondingly greater influence. A weakminded person is led—does not lead others himself—and, though he may have no bad tendencies, will become bad just because somebody who is evil minded wills that this shall be.

"My dealings with children have shown me how true this is. For instance, there are some boys to whom cigarette smoke is decidedly offensive. But the other boys who smoke tell these they will never be manly unless they learn to smoke. In this manner boys are led into the most injurious practice known to modern science not through inclination, merely through influence.

"Now, if this is true, as it undoubtedly is, why should it not be possible for some one to use this influence in precisely the opposite direction? This was the question which set me to thinking, and the more I thought of it the more convinced I was that hypnotism if rightly used might be made a power for good. Experts say the drink habit, cigarette habit and gambling habit are all amenable to hypnotic suggestion. Why should not the 'bad' habit prove equally amenable?"

The child will be placed in a high backed chair opposite Judge Lindsey, with each of his hands in one of the hypnotist's hands and their knees and feet in contact. The subject will then be stared into a state of sleep, which will last from ten to fifteen minutes. During this time the operator will try to impress his thoughts on the mind of the child. The thoughts will be: "It is injurious for you to do thus and so, and therefore you must not do it. You do not care to do it, anyway."

LOVE NOTES IN BALLOONS.

Pie Baker's Aerial Plan to Find a Girl to Marry Him.

J. Schroerer, a pie baker in Kansas City, Mo., has for five years been seeking a wife. Each year on the anniversary of his birth he has sent up a paper balloon in which he previously placed a letter stating his age and that he had a good trade and wanted a wife, says the Kansas City Star. He sent up his last balloon a few days ago. It fell into the hands of a young woman, who sent it to the Star office with the following letter:

While sitting in my front yard tonight enjoying the cool evening I happened to look over in northwest direction and noticed a big balloon come over our way. It hadn't gone very far before it began to burn, and finally it fell in my back yard. On examination I found the inclosed letter. There isn't any one in this neighborhood that wants to be married that I know of and so will turn it over to you. Maybe you can give the gentleman some assistance.

W. F. W.,
3268 Holmes street.

The letter taken from the balloon was written on the business envelope of a pie company and was addressed "To the First Maiden Who Finds or Reaches This Balloon." It read as follows:

Kansas City, Mo., July 22.

To some maiden whose good fortune fate sends this balloon. I am a young man thirty-two years old, fairly good looking and have a good trade (baker). Am looking for a wife; would be pleased to correspond with the finder if a young lady who wishes to marry. If not, possibly she could recommend some one who is willing. I am sending out a balloon on each birthday since of age.

J. SCHROERER,
216 Goodrich place.

"Yes, I want a wife," said Schroerer the other afternoon. "There is no humbug about it. I have sent out a letter every years now for four or five years. I have never had any response that looked good, but I am not at all discouraged. I propose sending up one every year until I get a wife. I don't know just how to get one any other way."

MAY BE A CURSE

Higher Wages Not Always a Blessing to Workmen

TENDENCY TO GO WRONG

President Roosevelt Says That It Must Be Offset by Temperance Movements and Similar Efforts For Social Betterment

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 11.—The president arrived here at 2:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a railroad ride from New York which had been attended by scenes of the most uproarous enthusiasm. He came as the guest of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America, now in session here, and of the United Mine Workers of America.

At the speakers' stand the demonstration was so noisy that it was several minutes before the exercises could begin. Those who spoke were President Roosevelt, Cardinal Gibbons, President Mitchell, Mayor Kirkendall and Father Curran.

The central argument of the president's address was made upon a letter he had just received from a Catholic priest, whose name he withheld. Mr. Roosevelt particularly emphasized the following paragraph:

"There is one discouraging feature connected with the upward tendency of the wage scale among the workmen of this country. The higher the wages, the more money they spend in saloons. The shorter the hours, the more they are inclined to absent themselves from home."

"Now," added the president, "in what is here written, this priest does not mean that the tendency is to grow worse; but he means that with shorter hours and increased wages there is a tendency to go wrong which must be offset by movements such as this great temperance movement and similar efforts for social and civic betterment, or else the increase in leisure and money will prove a curse instead of a blessing.

"I strive never to tell anyone what I do not thoroughly believe, and I shall not say to you that to be honest, and temperate, and hardworking, and thrifty will always bring success.

"I strongly believe in trades unions, wisely and justly handled, in which the rightful purpose to benefit those connected with them is not accompanied by a desire to do injustice or wrong to others.

"I believe in the duty of capitalist and wage-worker to try to seek one another out, to understand each the other's point of view, and to endeavor to show broad and kindly human sympathy one with the other."

All Well Despite Privations

Honningsvaag, Norway, Aug. 11.—Steamer Terra Nova, which went to the relief of the Fiala-Ziegler polar expedition, has rescued Anthony Fiala and all the others connected with the expedition with the exception of one seaman, who died from natural causes. The ship America, which took out the expedition, was crushed in the ice early in the winter of 1903-1904 and lost. The 37 members of the expedition who returned to safety are all in good health. The expedition was severed from all communication with the outside world since July, 1903.

Attachment of Addicks Property

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 11.—United States Marshal Flinn has attached the personal effects of J. Edward Addicks on his model dairy farm at Carriercroft at the instance of C. F. Hinchman of Camden, N. J., who obtained judgment against Addicks for $40,000, the balance of a mortgage Hinchman alleged to be due him after foreclosure sale. The property attached is valued at $5000.

French and British Chummy

Portsmouth, Eng., Aug. 11.—Scenes unprecedented in a British naval port were witnessed here yesterday. The French sailors for hours fraternized with the British tars, the sailors of the two nations parading the streets arm in arm, singing the "Marseillaise" and the British national anthem.

Eminent Counsel to Investigate

New York, Aug. 11.—The legislative insurance investigating committee has invited Charles E. Hughes and James McKeen to act as counsel in the forthcoming inquiry. Joseph H. Choate also has been invited to act in an advisory capacity. McKeen has already accepted.

Railroad Rejects Arbitration

St. Paul, Aug. 11.—There will be no arbitration of the strike of telegraphers against the Great Northern railroad. General Superintendent Slade said: "We cannot afford to arbitrate with a handful of men whom we consider not of sufficient worth to retain on our payrolls."

Ambassador Durand Laid Up

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 11.—Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador, is confined to his residence by an injured knee, resulting from an accident in a cricket game last fall. It is probable that Durand will have to abandon cricket playing this season.

CONCORD HIGH.

Large Up-to-date Building with Hall, Manual Training, etc.

Figures are lacking for the cost of the new High school house to be erected at Concord, N. H., but it will be a modern building with twelve class rooms, large hall, etc. It will be of red brick with granite trimmings.

There are six classrooms on the first floor, each 28 by 32 and seating 50 pupils. They are all abundantly lighted, finished like the whole interior of the building in hard pine and provided with large book closets and teachers' closets, slate blackboards and all the most modern and approved accessories. The building in all its appointments is fully up to the Boston standard, the stairs being fireproof and all rooms connected by circulating passages, so that in no event can egress from any part of the building be interrupted.

At the left of the entrance vestibule is a complete reference library, and at the right are the supply room, the principal's office and waiting room.

In the corridor are ventilated wardrobes for boys and girls for each room and two drinking fountains.

The second floor contains six classrooms and a wide corridor with all appointments as those on the first floor, besides a large commercial room 32 by 43 feet and seating 85, two sets of lockers for the men and women teachers respectively, and toilets.

There is a large assembly hall on the third floor with stage and anterooms connected by a rear passageway, besides a drawing room, the chemical laboratory fitted with tables, sinks, hoods, fume closets, etc., the physical laboratory with apparatus room adjoining and a lecture hall containing 75 tablet armchairs arranged in amphitheatre style.

The basement contains a manual training room 64 by 51 feet, the boys' and girls' sanitaries, the boys' and girls' playrooms, the lunchroom, the heating and ventilating plants and coal pocket. The heating and ventilating will be the low pressure gravity system and will conform to the Massachusetts standard,

TWO THIS MONTH.

Battleship Kansas to be Launched Tomorrow—Vermont Soon.

Two U. S. battleships will be launched this month, the Kansas at Camden and the Vermont at Quincy. All is in readiness for the launching of the Kansas at the yards of the New York Shipbuilding Co. in South Camden on Saturday. It will be high tide about the noon hour and the big battleship, which will be the largest ever launched in the Delaware, will probably leave the ways at 11.30.

The last barrel of tallow has been spread on the ways and little now remains to be done except removing the scaffold timber and completing a few minor details.

Gov. Hoch of Kansas, his daughter, Miss Anna Hoch, who is to be the sponsor, and the members of their party, numbering about 25 in all, are expected to reach the city on Friday. They will be met by De Coursey May, president of the company, and James Swan, assistant naval architect, and escorted to the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel. Mrs. Hoch is expected to accompany the governor, and the party will likely include the members of his staff and a few prominent Kansas people.

When the Kansas goes overboard she will be about 60 p. c. completed. Besides the party from Kansas, the launching will be witnessed by many naval officers from Washington, navy officers stationed in this city and quite a few prominent people who have been sent invitations.

The Vermont will be launched at Quincy on Thursday, August 31.

Panoramic Yellowstone Park.

The Northern Pacific can supply to all who have visited, contemplate visiting, or are interested in Yellowstone Park, a large panoramic picture of the park. This work of art is 48 inches long by 32 inches wide, done in fifteen colors. It shows, absolutely, the topography of the park, the location of the hotels, geyser basins, canons, roads, lakes, mountains and all features of the park. It gives as nothing else can, a connected idea of the region and is a valuable picture and map combined. Framed, it is ornamental as well as useful, and is specially suited to the school, class room and library.

This panoramic picture will be sent to any address by A. M. Cleland, General Passenger Agent, St. Paul, Minn., upon receipt of 35 cents. Orders may be sent direct to A. M. Cleland, or through any of the General or District Passenger Agents of the Northern Pacific in the larger cities, or through the local agents in Northern Pacific territory.

ADMITS DEATH.

Christian Science Statement Relative to F. C. Moseley.

In a statement given to the press Thursday evening, through Mr. Alfred Farlow of the publication committee of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Mrs. Moseley explained that there was no attempt made to perform the miracle of bringing the dead back to life, either at the service in the Neponset railroad station or later at her home.

According to the Christian Science teachings, death is, like everything else, merely a state of mind, and to the Christian Scientist there was a very fine distinction as to whether this state of mind had progressed far enough to place Mr. Moseley beyond the possibility of resuscitation, notwithstanding the fact that his skull had been crushed in and Dr. Kernan had pronounced death practically instantaneous.

Mr. Farlow says: "When Mrs. Moseley and others of her family reached the station they did not know the extent of his injuries, not having been informed by the surgeon. The body was warm, and they did not realize that he was dead; hence they naturally tried to help him. There were appearances of life even after he had reached home, and for this reason the Christian Scientists continued their work. When we bear in mind that there are on record cases of severe injury which have been saved through Christian Science, after the physician had lost hope, it is not a matter of wonderment that this bereaved family should exercise every effort know to them to save their loved one.

"Is it not a common custom to use every effort to save a drowned person, even though he shows no signs whatever of life? Are we not all slow to believe that our friends are really dead? A loss is never a welcome visitor, and for this reason we are loath to believe that we have actually sustained a loss.

"This accounts, in a measure, for Mrs. Moseley's unwillingness to admit that her husband had really died. It seems to us but a matter of wisdom that she made sure that no opportunity was lost. Many great achievements have been lost by stopping a day too soon, and at least a few persons have gone into the grave alive because of hasty burial."

Drift of Opinion.

☞And Cambridge's tax rate, too, is to go up a dollar, this year. Boston with its own much higher tax rate, is going to have plenty of company. About all the cities and towns in the state, this year, will have to put on a heavier tax rate, because of poor financial management. It was certain for the last 12 months that the state tax would be heavier than usual, because the state has taken on itself the expense of caring for the pauper insane. Yet about all the cities and towns, instead of setting aside the money formerly spent on the pauper insane to meet the state tax, when it should come, have gone on spending the money for other purposes, simply because it was available. For months it has been certain that city and town tax rates would be considerably higher. The fact that so many cities and towns have been guilty of this extravagance does not make it any more sensible or prudent. The cities and towns have no right to blame the state for their own folly. They wanted the state to do the work of caring for the pauper insane; and there is no way by which this can be done without money. —Boston Advertiser.

☞You sometimes see a woman whose old age is as exquisite as was the perfect bloom of her youth. She seems condensed sweetness and grace. You wonder how this has come about; you wonder how it is that her life has been a long and happy one, and that her face reflects a rare sweetness, strength and serenity. Here are some of the reasons for it, as told in the key to such a life as given by an old lady:

"She knew how to forget disagreeable things; she kept her nerves well in hand, and inflicted them on no one; she believed in the goodness of her own daughters, and in that of her neighbors; she mastered the art of saying pleasant words; she did not expect too much from her friends; she made whatever work came to her congenial; she retained her illusions, and did not believe that all the world was wicked and unkind; she relieved the miserable and sympathized with the sorrowful; she did whatever came to her cheerfully and well; she never forgot that kind words and a smile cost nothing, but are priceless treasures to the discouraged."

There is the secret of a long life and a happy one, and one we warrant that spread a lot of sunshine along her pathway for others to bask in. Isn't it worth taking to heart by all of us as a tried prescription for most of life's ills?"—Brockton Enterprise.

JAPAN'S TERMS ARE PRESENTED

She Asks "Reimbursement" For Cost of the War

CESSION OF SAKHALIN

Two Conditions Which Russian Envoys Find Absolutely Unacceptable--Limitation Upon Russian Naval Strength In Far Eastern Waters Is Demanded as Well as Other Terms Which the World Expected--Conditions Immediately Cabled to the Czar--Reply Will Not Be Received Before Next Week

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 11.—Reimbursement for the expenses sustained in the prosecution of the war and the cession of the Island of Sakhalin constitute the main features of the peace conditions handed by Baron Komura to Mr. Witte at the conclusion of Thursday's session of the plenipotentiaries at the navy yard.

The word "indemnity" is carefully avoided, the term employed being "reimbursement" for the cost of the war. No sum is fixed, the amount being distinctly adjourned for mutual adjustment between the two countries after the Japanese expenditure has been ascertained. These are the two all-important conditions and those which the Russian plenipotentiaries find absolutely unacceptable.

Inacceptable as they are, however, it can be stated that these two principal conditions did not come as a surprise to the Russian plenipotentiaries. The friendly fashion in which Komura explained the conditions before handing them to Witte, and the avoidance of the use of the word "indemnity" in the presentation of Japan's bill for the cost of the war without fixing a sum, leaves the way open for negotiation and constitutes the main hope that a final agreement is possible.

Certainly the danger of a sudden rupture, no matter what the ultimate result may be, is precluded by Thursday's developments. The other terms are substantially what the world expected and with one or perhaps two exceptions could probably be entertained as bases of negotiation. They include the following:

The cession of the Russian leases to the Liaotung peninsula, comprising Port Arthur and Dalny. The evacuation of the entire province of Manchuria, the retrocession to China of any privileges Russia may have in the province and the recognition by Russia of the principle of the "open door." The cession to Japan of the Chinese eastern railroad below Harbin, the main line through northern Manchuria to Vladivostok to remain Russian property. The recognition of the Japanese protectorate over Korea. The grant of fishing rights to Japan in the waters of the Siberian littoral northward from Vladivostok to the Behring sea. The relinquishment to Japan of the Russian warships interned in neutral ports. Finally a limitation upon the naval strength of Russia in Far Eastern waters.

As a whole the terms are regarded as exceedingly hard by the Russians. In addition to the two principal conditions which cannot be accepted under Witte's instructions, those relating to the limiting of Russia's naval power in the Far East and the granting of fishing rights upon the Russian littoral, are considered particularly offensive to the amour propre of their country and of such a humiliating character as to be inadmissable.

The Japanese, on the contrary, as Komura announced at the conference, consider them moderate, contending that they represent a fair compensation for the expenses of the war and the victories they have achieved on land and sea, their sole purpose being to attain the objects for which they have fought, the spoils claimed being only such as they are legitimately entitled to as the result of their military and naval successes.

The Russian plenipotentiaries, as soon as the Japanese terms were in their hands, called in the five expert delegates attached to the mission and spent the whole afternoon in the consideration of the terms. Meanwhile the conditions had been placed in cipher and cabled to the czar, with Witte's personal recommendations.

It is hoped that a reply will be received from the czar today, in which case Witte expects to have the Russian response ready by Saturday, but it is not unlikely that Saturday, being the first anniversary of the birth of the tzarevitch, the presentation of the reply will be deferred until Monday.

Meantime the plenipotentiaries will not meet unless some unexpected necessity for a conference should arise. The Japanese plenipotentiaries manifest not the slightest annoyance at the prospect of a few days' delay. They realize how serious the issue is and are perfectly willing to give their Russian colleagues ample time for consideration.

Much excitement prevailed about the hotel, the corridors of which were thronged with summer guests and newspaper correspondents, all discussing and speculating upon the terms, while off the corridors dozens of telegraph instruments were clicking off dispatches to all quarters of the globe. The Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries denied themselves to callers, no statements were issued, and only to a few were the substance of Japan's conditions known.

It is learned from a most authoritative source "that the initiative of the decision taken by the peace conference to keep in absolute secrecy the deliberations agreed upon by the plenipotentiaries was proposed by the Japanese representatives. The Russian representatives had no special interest in maintaining secrecy, but as the conference is the reunion of two parties, the Russians, thinking that they had not the right of opposing the desire of the Japanese, have consented to this proceeding."

The Russian correspondents who are attending the peace conference are not optimistic as a result of the disclosure of the Japanese terms. They telegraphed their papers a pessimistic view of the outlook for peace, taking the position that the Japanese demands as to Sakhalin and indemnity were excessive and such as Russia, in the present circumstances, was not forced to yield to.

Assistant Secretary Peirce was host at the luncheon at the navy yard. The Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries sat together about the round table and fraternized in a way that they have not done since the war began. Terms were not discussed, but the best of feeling prevailed. The Russian plenipotentiaries were the guests at dinner last night of Secretary and Mrs. Peirce.

Skirmishing Along Battle Front

Lidziapudze, Manchuria, Aug. 11.—Nothing but petty skirmishing has occurred recently along the Russo-Japanese front. The weather is fine and the roads are drying up.

Socialists Captured In Forest

Lodz, Aug. 11.—A thousand Socialists who were holding a meeting in a forest near here were surrounded by soldiers. The majority of the Socialists were arrested and many of them were wounded while attempting to escape. The military commander has sentenced the chief of police and the burgomaster to one week's imprisonment for disobedience of military orders.

Measures Said to Be Short

Kansas City, Aug. 11.—The city inspector of weights and measures tested 21 five-gallon measures used by the drivers of the Standard Oil company in delivering oil, and declared that 15 of the 21 measures tested lacked a half pint each of holding five gallons. The inspector took possession of the alleged short measures.

New Orleans, Aug. 11.—The official record of the yellow fever situation up to 6 p. m. last night is as follows: New cases, 68; total cases to date, 747; deaths, 5; total deaths to date, 124; new disease centres, 21; total disease centres, 151. The discouraging feature of yesterday's report is that only 19 of the 68 names are those of Italians.

Powerful Shot Made Only a Dent

New York, Aug. 11.—The new Isham shell, containing 170 pounds of dynamite and fired from a 12-inch gun, was tested at Sandy Hook. The target was a 12-inch steel plate. The shell left a gun of the coast defense type, struck the plate and exploded the dynamite. The damage inflicted was confined to a dent in the resisting armor.

Typhoid Gains at Washington

Washington, Aug. 11.—There were 25 new cases of typhoid fever reported to the health office yesterday, the greatest number for any one day during the present outbreak of typhoid in this city. Acting Secretary of War Chaffee has directed the use of only distilled or filtered water in the war department building.

Deeds of Demented Woman

New Albany, Ind., Aug. 11.—Mrs. Chester Winstanley, while temporarily insane, drowned her 8-year-old daughter by holding her under water in a bathtub. Seizing a pistol, she shot and severely wounded her husband and then swallowed carbolic acid, dying an hour later.

A Jerome Mayoralty Boom

New York, Aug. 11.—In behalf of the Citizens' union, a statement has been issued by Frederick W. Hinrichs calling for the nomination of District Attorney Jerome for mayor by the Citizens' union. Hinrichs is a member of the Citizens' union committee on nominations.

Ran Into a Hurricane

St. Johns, Aug. 11.—The yacht Alvina, owned by A. S. Cochrane of New York, nine days out from England, put in here short of coal. The yacht met a hurricane off the Irish coast, during which a seaman was so badly injured that he afterward died and was buried at sea.

Train Overturned In Iowa

Des Moines, Aug. 11.—A west-bound Colorado train was ditched one mile west of Columbus Junction. Only one man was injured. Spreading of rails is given as the cause. Three coaches left the track and were turned over. Only 18 passengers were aboard these cars.

Lives In Jeopardy at Riga

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11. The British embassy at Riga has requested the embassy here to take steps for the protection of British lives and property at Riga and Ambassador Hardinge has taken action in the matter.

FOUR BADLY HURT

Van Crowded With Women and Children Struck by a Car

Providence, Aug. 11.—A number of women and children of a picnic party of 40, returning home to Pawtucket in a moving van, were injured at East Providence last evening through a collision with an electric car. Four of the women were badly hurt.

The van stopped on the track in front of a watering trough to refresh the horses when a car came round a curve, and before the motorman could bring the car to a stop it struck the van in the rear. A crash of glass followed and then the van was borne along for some distance, the women and children falling or being thrown to the ground. None of them was caught beneath the car.

The rear end of the van was badly crushed and those who had not been thrown out were cut and bruised by flying glass. The car was not derailed, and as soon as the wreckage of the van had been cleared away the wounded were placed on board the car and eventually taken to their homes, with the exception of Mrs. Lucy Littlefair, who was suffering so much pain that she was taken to a hospital.

A Two-Year Labor Agreement

Providence, Aug. 11.—At a conference last night between representatives of the Hoisting Engineers' union and the master builders, looking to an amicable adjustment of the labor difficulties which temporarily crippled several big building operations, the strike was called off and the men returned to work this morning, all the strikers being promised immediate reinstatement. The terms agreed upon were satisfactory to both sides. An agreement was signed for two years.

Polo Players Badly Injured

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Aug. 11.—Two players were injured at the polo match at the Point Judith Country club. J. I. Blair of New York was thrown from his pony, and as he lay on the ground the animal rolled over him. He sustained a broken collarbone and a broken right arm and he may be injured internally. R. C. Lawrence, also of New York, was struck under the eye by a mallet and may lose the sight of his eye.

Excursionists Got a Scare

Nahant, Mass., Aug. 11.—The excursion steamer New Brunswick, with 500 passengers on board, grounded in the mud while arriving here from Boston last night. There was a panic among the passengers, but it subsided when the steamer Winthrop came alongside, took them off and landed them safely at the Nahant landing. The New Brunswick floated at high water this morning.

Big Guard Over Dam

Chesuncook, Me., Aug. 11.—There has been no further trouble between lumbermen at Chamberlain lake. Marsh & Ayer, the owners of the dam which was injured by dynamite, have now nearly 50 men on duty. When the attempt was made to destroy the dam 25 sticks of dynamite were used, but they were not properly placed to accomplish the desired object.

Held on Forgery Charge

Northampton, Mass., Aug. 11.—George L. Bliss, also known by other names and alleged to be a noted check forger, was arraigned here, charged with passing worthless checks. He was held for trial. Bliss was brought here from Boston, where he had just completed a sentence for a similar crime. Bliss is wanted in towns in this part of the state.

Posting Anarchist Literature

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 11.—Anarchistic literature is being distributed freely in Lynn. Stickers denouncing the government and proclaiming anarchistic principles are being placed on posts and buildings all over the city. Mayor Eastham has issued orders to the police to watch for the offenders, and to prevent them from holding public meetings.

Street Murder at Providence

Providence, Aug. 11.—Francisco Palmero, an Italian, aged 25, was stabbed to death by two men while walking along a street with his wife, child and brother last night. It appears that Palmero had a dispute with one of his countrymen and this man and a confederate are supposed to be the ones who committed the murder.

Alleged Firebug Held

North Adams, Mass., Aug. 11.—James Rumbolt, charged with arson in setting fire to a weave shed of the Arnold Print company, was arraigned in the district court and was held for the grand jury. Bail was fixed at $10,000, being unable to furnish which Rumbolt was returned to jail.

No Known Reason For Suicide

Providence, Aug. 11.—The body of Fred A. Broemel of Paterson, N. J., was found in a secluded spot at Rocky Point, a shore resort. He had shot himself in the head. No valuables were found in the clothing, nor was there a clue to show the reason for the suicide.

Killed by Fall From Car

Reading, Mass., Aug. 11.—Frank Nevill, a motorman on the Reading and Andover street railway, while riding as a passenger on one of the cars last night, fell from the running board to the pavement. He died within five minutes of concussion of the brain.

Victim of Stabbing Affray

Providence, Aug. 11.—Andre Roque has received a telegram from Butte, Mont., announcing that his son, William Roque, aged 22, was fatally stabbed at that place. The details of the affair were not made known.

IS WITHOUT GRAFT

Chief Moore Defends the National Weather Bureau

NO WORK FOR SLEUTHS

Only "Irregularity" Appears to Have Been the Placing of Labor Upon a Higher Plane and He Is Proud of the Fact

Washington, Aug. 11.—Professor Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau, has issued a signed statement denying allegations of graft in the management of the weather station in the Blue Ridge mountains near Bluemont, Va., disclaiming the existence of any irregularities in the administration of his office and offering full opportunity for the investigation of any specific charges by any reasonable person. The statement in part follows:

"A few days ago a statement was published in Washington to the effect that 'it was reported unofficially that the secret service has dispatched agents to the mountain station (Mount Weather of the United States weather bureau) where the sleuths for the past two days have been nosing around.'

"According to the report, these sleuths discovered that the weather bureau was paying $3 per day for unskilled labor, which is twice the amount paid laborers in the city of Washington, and that there is complaint on the part of adjacent employers, who only pay 75 cents to $1. A little further down the report says: 'What discoveries have been made regarding the conduct of Mount Weather by the secret service, if it be true that they are conducting an investigation, are being kept secret.'

"In answer I beg leave to say that the inconsistency of this report is on a par with previous efforts to manufacture scandal in the weather bureau. I know that no secret service agents are at work in the bureau and if they are they surely would not be foolish enough to go 'nosing' around Mount Weather for the purpose of getting information that they could easily obtain by applying to the central office in Washington.

"Now, it is a fact that the weather bureau has never paid $3 a day to any laborer employed at Mount Weather or at any other place.

"I don't doubt that I have disturbed the labor market in the vicinity of Mount Weather and I am proud of the fact, for I was told of men working from sunrise to sunset for 50 cents a day and board, or 75 cents a day and they board themselves. I believe that such hours of labor and such wages do not contribute to the betterment of American citizenship or to the welfare of the state, and so far as I have the power as the chief of a large government bureau I shall ever strive to alter such conditions.

"With the approval of Secretary Wilson, who believes in reasonable hours of labor and a fair wage scale, I established a wage of $3 a day for stone masons, $2.50 for carpenters and $1.50 for day laborers. If the sleuths who have been reported 'nosing around' Mount Weather had been a little more vigilant they would have discovered that I had also, with the sanction of the secretary of agriculture, established an eight-hour working day, and that 50 to 60 men had for some time been receiving the advantages of such a scale and such hours of labor.

"The great maritime, commercial and agricultural interests and reputable newspapers believe that the weather bureau is sound, clean and impartially administered. If any responsible person will point to the contrary and be specific in his statements I shall be glad to meet him and give him full opportunity to prove his statements, or retract them."

Criminal Libel Charged

New York, Aug. 11.—Robert A. Irving, publisher of The New Yorker, is under arrest, charged with criminal libel. Irving was arraigned before Magistrate Breen and in default of $1000 bail was locked up. The complainant is Congressman Rhinock of Covington, Ky. The article censured Representative Longworth of Ohio for introducing Rhinock to Miss Alice Roosevelt during her visit to the Latonia races near Cincinnati.

Campaign Against Palma

Havana, Aug. 11.—The Liberals are preparing a manifesto, detailing acts on the part of the government alleged to be unconstitutional. The Liberal congressmen are directed to lay before the senate charges against President Palma to the effect that he has been guilty of various acts unwarranted by the constitution. The Liberals, however, have not strength enough in the senate to bring Palma to trial.

No Light on Lee's Death

Antrim, N. H., Aug. 11.—The mysterious death of George Lee, the woodchopper whose body was found in the deserted Whitney house, remains unsolved. Allen Knapp, Lee's fellow workman at the Melindy camp, has been arrested, but no new evidence connecting him with Lee's death has been revealed.

Three-Cornered Pistol Fight

Harrodsburg, Ky., Aug. 11.—Samuel Black, a member of the legislature, Policeman Britton and Walter Stolls, a saloonkeeper, engaged in a pistol fight. Black was killed and Britton and Stolls are dying.

With the score 2 to 2 in the last of the ninth inning, Fall River disputed a decision by Umpire Kerin and forfeited the game to Concord, 9 to 0. Concord had men on third and first bases with none out when the umpire awarded the game to the home team.

Aid For Chicago Strikers

Philadelphia, Aug. 11.—During the session of the convention of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters a telegram came from the department store drivers of Chicago asking for financial assistance. The telegram was as follows: "Two hundred men out and no Sunday dinner in sight." The delegates immediately voted to send $2000 for the relief of the strikers. At once delegates representing various other Chicago locals arose and demanded assistance. There were several heated arguments and in their eagerness to be heard the delegates resorted to personalities. It was finally voted to send $6500 additional to Chicago.

Gives Americans a Chance

New York, Aug. 11.—The issue of the government's crop report on grain at noon yesterday instead of after exchange hours, as has been the case for many years, was regarded with much satisfaction by the trade. It means that hereafter American markets, instead of European, will have the first opportunity of detecting any important changes that may occur in the bureau figures.

Bank Officials Arrested

Denver, Aug. 11.—Warrants have been sworn out against four officers and one clerk of the Western bank, which closed its doors on Tuesday. The men are charged with receiving deposits when they knew the bank was insolvent. The men arrested are President Brown, Cashier Balire, Assistant Cashier Beatty and Clerk Mark Postelweyte.

Policeman a Murderer and Suicide

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Oscar Benson, a policeman, shot and killed his brother-in-law, Matthew Mamer, 50 years old, fatally wounded Nicholas Ketten, 50 years old, a clerk in Mamer's jewelry store, and then committed suicide. The tragedy was enacted in Mamer's store. For some time Benson and his brother-in-law have been at odds.

Must Reduce Rates on Grain

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—The railway committee has ordered the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific railways to make reductions in export grain from points in Ontario to Montreal. Grain product rates will also be reduced. The rates will be equal to those charged on export grain from western states by way of Montreal.

Chinese Boycott Is Serious

Washington, Aug. 11.—Consul General Rodgers at Shanghai has cabled that the boycott against Americans and American products is really controlled by Chinese students. The Chinese officials are inactive in the matter. Mr. Rodgers adds that all of our interests are seriously affected.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Russian ministry of finance has decided to make an immediate reduction in the export duty on petroleum.

Steamers arriving from Labrador report an immense number of icebergs there, greatly impeding navigation. The icebergs are in evidence as far south as Belle Isle strait.

A certificate of increase in the common stock of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railway from $28,700,000 to $40,000,000 has been filed with the secretary of state of Ohio.

TAKES PAPER OFF WALL.

Steam Bath For Removing Old Room Decorations.

A paper hanger estimating on a job which requires the removal of old paper from the walls is always figuring in the dark, for the reason that it makes a great deal of difference whether he has one layer of paper to take off or more. In other words, it is impossible for him to determine whether the work of removal will require the services of a man for half a day or two days.

Steam has been found to be well suited for this work, and by its aid it is said to be possible to remove the paper without regard to the thickness of the layer in a manner quicker and more cleanly than heretofore. The apparatus by which this is done is entirely portable, and a complete plant is shown in the accompanying illustration. It consists mainly of a kettle in which is combined a water holder and a gasoline tank and burner for getting up steam. The water compartment holds four gallons, which is more than ample for half a day's work. The steam generated passes through a rubber pipe to a hood, which is held for a short time on the wall to be cleaned. The paper under the hood immediately becomes saturated, and the hood is moved to another spot, and the place just vacated is gone over with the paper hanger's spade, the paper being easily removed. The spade follows the hood, and in an incredibly short time a great deal of old paper is removed.

A few minutes' application of the steam under the hood is sufficient to remove the thickest deposit of paper which one would be likely to find. As high as fifteen coats of wall paper, one on over the other, have been penetrated by the steam and then removed.

With this implement it is possible to calculate almost to a penny the cost of the labor of removing paper. Another advantage is that it is sanitary. The application of the steam is said to remove all germs or vermin of any character whatever. Bugs which are harbored under the paper are killed instantly.

The Constant Wearing of a Hat Propogates Dandruff Germs.

There are many men who wear their hats practically all the time when awake, and are blessed with a heavy shock of hair; yet if the scalps of these same men once became infested with dandruff germs, the parasites would multiply all the quicker for lack of air. Baldness would ensue as the final result. Newbro's Herpicide kills these germs and stimulates unhealthy hair to abundant growth. Herpicide is a pleasant hair dressing as well as a dandruff cure and contains not an atom of injurious substance. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

A Simple Poor White Girl

[Original.]

Tom Silcox, moonshiner, was in a trap. He had been caught in what out west they would call a canyon. Through it a mountain torrent had worn its way deep in the rocks and boiled and bubbled unseen by human eye, shaded as it was by an impenetrable growth of trees and brush. This stream was Tom's only outlet. He might trust himself to it and if he came safely through the dangers of cataract and hungry animals would emerge in an open space below. But the end of the route was watched, and the chances of escape were few. Sam Sykes, the leader of the revenue men, was puzzled. He knew where Silcox was and would have been sure of him had he had more men to surround him. But he had only two assistants, and Silcox was a desperate man. One or two lives were likely to be the price of the capture. He was meditating as to what he would do when a girl typical of the country approached him. She wore a cheap calico dress, a check sunbonnet and cowhide shoes.

"Reckon you uns air lookin' for Tom Silcox?" she said.

"What do you know about Silcox?" replied the officer evasively.

"Reckon I'd ought to know somepin about him, seein' the way he's treated me."

"How has he treated you?"

"Shook me."

"I see. He's a mean dog, not worthy of a nice girl like you. I should think you'd wish to get even with him."

"So I would if I knowed how."

A crafty expression came over the man's face. "Why not turn him over to us revenue officers?" he asked.

"How could I do that?"

"You might pretend you would help him out and give us a chance at him."

The girl's face lighted with an expression of vengeful hunger, but she did not reply.

"I wouldn't mind giving a twenty dollar bill," added the officer.

This time avarice showed plainly on the face of the poor white girl, who never had so much money in her life. Then she began to think. Sykes gave her plenty of time.

"I kin take you uns to whar Tom's hidin'," she said at last.

"It's a bargain."

"Tom's hidin' in an ole cabin. I'll go thar with you uns, but I must have a leettle time with him outen sight. He's got somepin o' mine I want to git. 'S soon 's I settle that I'll tell him you uns is comin' up the crick and he'd better make tracks up. I might say I got a critter for him up thar."

"Splendid! When shall we go?"

"Now's good a time as any."

Sykes called in his men and gave them the plan. They were to follow the girl to the edge of a clearing, where they would lie concealed under the thick brush while she went forward and laid her snare. On the way she told Sykes something of the lay of the land. The cabin was within a few yards of the creek, and this was the reason Silcox had selected it for a hiding place. If attacked he could easily drop down into it and it would be hard to get him. Above the cabin the ground, though comparatively open, was hidden here and there by rocks and scrub trees.

Sykes saw the advantage of her telling the moonshiner that they were coming up instead of down, since it would probably prevent him from taking to the creek. If the officer had any suspicion as to the girl's real intentions they were now dispelled. Indeed, he had suggested the revenge himself. Besides, she was too simple to concoct any plan for an escape. Was she not leading them to Silcox's hiding place?

When they arrived on the ground she said to Sykes:

"D' y' want to take him alive or take him dead?"

"Alive if we can."

"Then you uns better go up the crick a spell whar there's an openin' he'll have to go out."

Sykes ordered the two men to do as she suggested. When they had gone she said to him: "'S soon's I've had my talk, Tom'll go up, as I said. You uns kin shoot him if y' like; I don't keer." This was said with a tremor in her voice, as though in her heart she did care. "Reckon I'd better drop down behind the bank o' the crick to git outen the way o' the bullets. Good-by. I'm off."

Sykes waited the result of the maneuver for about five minutes, when he saw the figure of a man in "butternut" swiftly making his way up the creek. He could have easily shot the moonshiner, but he relied implicitly on his falling into the trap above. He saw the calico dress and check sunbonnet disappear behind the bank, but he was intent on the person who had gone the other way. He followed the "butternut," keeping him in sight so far as was possible, till he saw his men take him in without a shot. Then he breathed a sigh of relief.

Uncocking his rifle, Sykes walked leisurely toward the others. As he approached them they came to meet him, leaving the prisoner unguarded. He hurried on, uncocking his gun to cover the moonshiner and wondering what they meant by such carelessness.

"Mind your prisoner!" he shouted.

"It's the girl," replied one of the men lugubriously.

And so it was. The two had exchanged clothes behind the rock. The girl had gone up the creek, while Tom had dropped behind the bank. Making his way down a short distance he had mounted a horse she had provided and was following a trail that was sure to lead him to safety.

World of Sport.

Timely Gossip---Shrubb, Great English Runner, Coming to America.

The Columbia university athletic committee has amended rule 2 of the eligibility code in such a manner as to exclude for eligibility a student "who shall have received or been promised compensation for teaching or engaging in athletic exercise or sport, including any form of physical culture, gymnastic or other athletic training."

The new rule will strike several prominent athletes at Columbia and is considered a most radical move, reaching, as it does, a class of college athletes who have received either salaries or expenses for assisting in athletic work at summer camps, vacation playgrounds, settlement houses and other private and public institutions.

Coming so shortly after the change in the Yale-Harvard eligibility rules, it is causing much comment in athletic circles. It is likely that some of the other colleges and the Amateur Athletic union will legislate against the "summer camp" athlete along somewhat similar lines.

Fighter Jim Jeffries has only met a few men bigger than Hart in all his career. Sharkey, who gave Jeff the toughest battle of his life, is only five feet eight inches and weighs 185 pounds. Hart is taller and heavier than the sailor. He is as tall as Fitzsimmons and Munroe. Jim Corbett, who stands six feet one inch, and Gus Ruhlin, six feet two inches, are the men who are bigger than Hart.

No, Marvin has enough weight and height. All he needs is a bit more experience and then we might look forward to a good big heavyweight fight and a tough one.

Hart was born Sept. 16, 1876, in Jefferson county, Ky. His height is five feet eleven and a half inches; weight, 195 pounds.

The coming of Alfred Shrubb, the marvelous English runner who holds the world's championship from one to twelve miles, is being awaited eagerly by American space annihilators.

Shrubb is regarded as probably the greatest long distance runner the world has yet heard of. He sprang to championship status in 1901, when he captured the southern cross country honors of England. He then competed against 240 runners, winning the national cross country championship. He covered the ten miles in less than an hour.

Shrubb, who has returned to England from a tour of the antipodes, will arrive in this country in two weeks. The phenomenon is thirty-four years old and weighs 136 pounds when in normal racing condition.

Tommy Ryan, who dug up a possible aspirant for middleweight championship honors in the person of Hugo Kelly, the Italian, who polished off "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien with neatness and dispatch, has now discovered a lightweight who he believes has in him the making of the best fighter at his weight that the world ever saw in little Johnny Morrison, a New Englander. This youngster has done all that has been asked of him up to date. True, he has never yet defeated any world conquering champions, but the rapid and businesslike manner in which he has disposed of all opponents that have faced him up to the present time is what is giving his admirers the greatest confidence in his future.

Tommy Ryan, undoubtedly one of the greatest generals and tricksters that ever crawled through the ropes to give battle in the ring, is so enthusiastic concerning the future of the little fellow that he is touting him as a world beater already, predicting that he will be the lightweight champion some day. It was Ryan who years ago predicted that Kid Lavigne would some day be heard of among the topnotchers, and his prediction came true.

Carmencita's Return.

Carmencita, the most famous of all Spanish dancers, returned to America recently after a ten years' absence. Her appearance on Hammerstein's roof garden, New York, was provocative of as much applause as has been heard in any New York playhouse this summer.

JUST ONE WRINKLE.

The Price a Society Leader Paid to Have It Removed.

Just think of paying $1,000 for having one wrinkle removed! That's what a well known New York society leader has paid, and without a doubt there are many others who would be willing to pay just such an exorbitant price if they had it for the same purpose.

Authorities along these lines are demanding large sums for beautifying women's faces. It is not an easy task and means much suffering for the woman. The injection of paraffin is one of the well known remedies for this shortcoming. The process is painful, the paraffin being injected underneath the skin by a hypodermic needle and allowed to remain there, harden and become a part of the membrane tissue, which it does in time.

It is a good remedy. The wrinkle is sure to disappear, and there are more women than one would surmise who are undergoing such a treatment.

Some of the society leaders who have gone west, for a rest as they say, have in reality secluded themselves for a time with doctors of beauty and upon making their reappearance in society are indeed creatures of beauty. Their complexions are beautified, white and pink, without a blemish, and they have retained their good humor and look like young matrons just entering their second year of married life instead of contemplating the celebration of their twenty-fifth.—Detroit News-Tribune.

LEATHER FURNITURE.

One Way to Clean and Polish Up the Coverings.

The following directions are said to be very good for cleaning and polishing leather: Dip a soft woolen cloth in boiling hot milk and wipe the leather with this, rubbing gently until all the dirt is removed. Then wipe dry with a soft flannel. When the leather is clean go over the surface with a piece of flannel on which is spread a tiny piece of prepared wax. The wax should be spread over the cloth as thinly as possible. After the waxing go over the leather with a clean soft flannel, rubbing briskly, but not too hard.

A recipe for this wax is as follows: Put two ounces of beeswax cut in small bits into a bowl. Place the bowl in a pan of hot water on the back of the range. When the wax is quite soft beat into it after taking it off the stove a quarter of a cupful of turpentine and half a teaspoonful of paraffin oil. It is ready for immediate use. If before you are ready to use it the wax should get cold set it in a pan of hot water for a few moments. This is suitable for leather that is used as a furniture covering.—New York Tribune.

LAUNDRY LINES.

Some coarse makes of lace are best ironed between two blankets.

The laundry needs a board covered with several thicknesses of flannel on which to iron embroideries.

If tablecloths or napkins are marked with embroidered letters iron that portion first and on the wrong side and do not iron the embroidery at all on the right side.

A box with a hinged cover fastened on the permanent clothes pole is handy to drop clothespins into. They're right there when wanted, and it is convenient to drop them into the box when removing them from the line.

All sheets and other bedding, table linen and the greater part of the weekly washing are better for being mangled instead of ironed. The mangle is preferred by English housewives to the flatiron because they believe that the clothes last longer and keep their color better if mangled instead of ironed.

The Care of Linens.

Every housewife delights in having nice linens for her table, and those of heavy damask are cheaper in the end, as they wear longer and look infinitely better than the lightweight linens. The thinner cloths can be starched ever so little, thereby giving the appearance of heavier weight. This must be done carefully, for a stiffly starched tablecloth is unsightly, to say the least.

In buying table linen it is well to remember that a check pattern in plain or elaborate blocks with warp and woof running straight across both ways is a better bargain than a floral or curved pattern that costs the same, for the check pattern is more easily manufactured, and in consequence a better quality of linen is put into cloth of this design than into fancy patterns at the same price.

Mistakes In Sweeping.

In sweeping carpets many persons make the mistake of going over them first with a damp broom or throwing damp tea leaves on them with the idea that these methods will keep the dust from flying. Try dry salt instead. Sprinkle the carpet thoroughly with it and sweep. The salt will hold the dust down so it will not fly so freely about the room, and it brightens the carpet wonderfully as it goes. Where the very last of the dust is brushed lay a piece of slightly damp cheesecloth about three yards long. Every particle of dust will settle on the cloth, and after such a sweeping the carpet will keep clean longer than after any other treatment. Besides, the whole room will have "that clean feeling" so dearly prized by the careful housewife.

For a Thin Neck.

It is most depressing to a woman to have a thin neck, and the following treatment is said to be very beneficial: Take plenty of exercise. The best for this purpose is head rotation. Afterward bathe the neck in warm water to open the pores and then rub in a generous quantity of good skin food.

REFORMS IN MANCHURIA

How Japanese Soldiers Are Waking Up the Chinese.

A SANITARY REGIME STARTED.

Streets Are Cleaned, Grounds Around the Houses Drained and Roads Kept In Order—Stray Dogs Killed. How Jap Soldiers Amuse Themselves In Idle Hours.

The old and the new, the civilization of the east and the west, Chinese and Japanese living together in the same town, the one calmly introducing systems and methods upon their reluctant temporary fellow townsmen. It is curious to see these two peoples so diametrically opposite to each other living, as they are living today, under Japanese martial law, says Stanley Washburn, the Chicago News correspondent, writing from General Noji's headquarters in Manchuria.

The Chinese are still scarcely awake to the new conditions which have suddenly swept into their towns, and it is with a sort of dazed wonder that they see Japanese activities being carried out on every side. The houses where their most prominent citizens lived a few weeks ago are now occupied by Japanese officers. Sentries guard every street.

With mouths open in astonishment the calm and imperturbable Celestial sees a small army of Japanese soldiers at work in the streets digging ditches to carry off the rain, mending the roads, forcing upon them a scheme of sanitation, cleaning their wells, turning the pigs out of the main streets and requiring them to be placed in pens.

Even the unhappy moth eaten Chinese dog has been struck in this wonderful era of reform. It is his habit to camp with his friends in the main streets, in the side streets, in the compounds (grounds around the houses), under the table, in the stable. In fact, his name is legion, and at every step one falls over this unhappy creature, the substitute for a modern garbage department. The Japanese cheerfully announced to their astonished wards that all dogs would be sentenced to death that were not properly tagged with the names of their owners about their necks.

The Chinese were still discussing the meaning of this grave problem when the day of judgment came. The next rising sun brought desolation to many happy canine homes. Few dogs were to be seen in their customary haunts, but, ah, woe, in a compound up the street was the explanation. Two hundred canine hides were visible drying in the sun. Now every dog is labeled.

Schemes for social reforms, political reforms, taxes for keeping the roads in order and I know not how many more are going merrily forward, all in behalf of the Chinaman who finds himself being civilized before he knows it. Nearly every compound is now drained, and when it rains we actually walk in the streets instead of swimming, as we formerly did.

If there ever was a people who carry their country with them it is certainly these same Japanese. In their idle hours the soldiers build Japanese gardens. Small artificial lakes are dug and bordered with stones. Little bamboo bridges are constructed and the quaint Japanese lanterns of stone are placed about in the garden, made from the flat stones picked up by the soldiers in the country about.

In one of these gardens the soldiers of a company had built a summer house after the kind seen in Japan. Latticework was covered with greens and iris blossoms made of paper were strung on strings and dangled overhead. Indeed, in some of these places it is impossible to realize that one is in Manchuria and not back in Japan.

In all the villages of evenings the soldiers play about in the streets like schoolboys. Their officers go among them in the way which makes their relation to their men unique in the armies of the world. When an officer appears, every soldier is on his feet and at rigid "attention," with his hand at salute. Then invariably comes the soft spoken word from the officer, and the military aspect fades from the soldiers' faces, and they crowd about him, laughing and telling him their troubles. The other night I walked through the main street of one of these villages with a couple of officers.

During the walk we passed, I suppose, fifty soldiers, and there was scarcely one that went his way without a joke or a pleasant word from his superior. The result is that whenever they have the time or leisure from more rigorous duties the men fall to with a will and compete with each other in making their officers comfortable. It is in this way that nearly every officer has a little Japanese garden behind his house. One of the lieutenants told me: "I have to be very careful in giving out tasks to my soldiers, for it often happens that I have underestimated the time it will take to complete, and my soldiers sometimes overwork. The other night I set my men a task which I thought could be completed in a few hours. I forgot all about it until the next day, when I found that the soldiers had worked all night rather than disappoint me in failing to have the work finished in time."

The attitude of the Chinese to all this activity is one of dumb astonishment, yet there can be no doubt that the result of all these object lessons will be to launch the Chinese upon a new era in their social, political and moral life, for, slow as the Chinaman is to learn, even he cannot fail to appreciate the wonderful difference which the Japanese have already brought into their village life.

A COLONIAL DWELLING.

Has Every Modern Convenience at the Estimated Cost of $2,800.

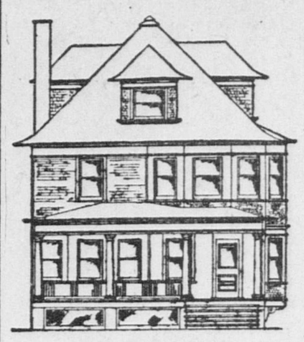
[Copyright, 1905, by Stanley A. Dennis, 234 Broadway, New York.]

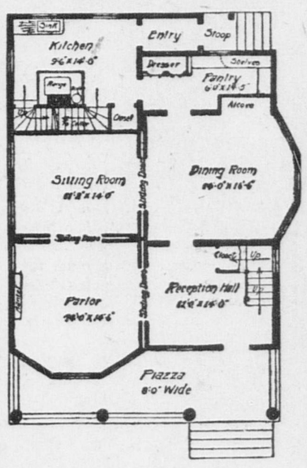
We are requested to present to our readers the model colonial home shown in the accompanying illustration. It has all modern improvements and is heated throughout with steam. This design has been very successful. A great many homes have been built from it at a cost of only $2,800.

There is a cellar under the entire house, with walls of stone laid in cement mortar. The cellar has a concreted floor, coal bins, storeroom and steam boiler.



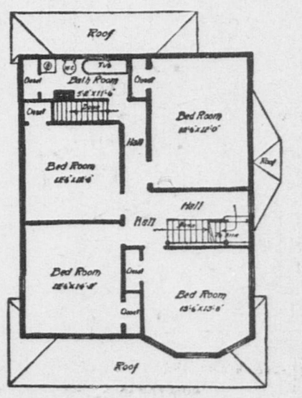
FRONT ELEVATION.

The frame of the house is of hemlock lumber and timber, sheathed with North Carolina boards covered with two sidings. The dormers, bay, etc., are covered with red cedar shingles. The main roof is covered with dimension cypress shingles. The ornamental windows are glazed with cathedral glass, and all windows, except those of the cellar and fancy ones, are fitted with outside blinds of pine, with rolling slats, hung with wrought iron angle blinds, hinges and spring back hooks. The main piazza columns are built up and have caps. The exterior is painted with two good coats of white lead and linseed oil paint. The shingles are brush coated with two coats of shingle stain.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

The floors are laid with narrow North Carolina pine tongued and grooved flooring boards. The interior walls are plastered with hard plaster and sand finished. The trim on the first floor, except in the kitchen, is quartered oak. The kitchen and second floor are trimmed in clear cypress. The stairs are oak. The interior woodwork is finished with wood fillers, rubbed down smooth and finished with two coats of light varnish. The bathroom and kitchen contain modern fixtures and plumbing. The pantry has a large dresser and shelving. The hardware is of plain dark bronze metal, with apple wood knobs, roses and escutcheons.



SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

The house is piped for gas throughout.

This makes a complete and desirable home. The cost is estimated under favorable conditions at $2,800. This plan is hard to beat for compactness, convenience and comfort.

Cleaning Furniture.

For varnished furniture dampen the cloth with kerosene, but for genuine polished surfaces a different treatment is required. When the polished surface of the piano is soiled and dull looking wet over with paraffin oil and let it remain for two hours. Apply this oil sparingly, and at the end of the time polish with linen and chamois. Always use two cloths for dusting, one in each hand. Then every time the left hand rests on a polished surface there will not be left trace of soiled fingers and perspiration. For carved furniture that is dusty use a fine paint brush dipped in kerosene oil, brush over the carvings, and they will appear bright as when new. Or dip the brush in a good furniture polish.—Good Housekeeping.

Bridge Travel Blocked.

The schooner Annie, brick ladened, became stuck in the Quincy Point bridge about 10.30 Thursday evening delaying all traffic over the bridge. Somehow the bowsprit of the schooner became entangled in the iron work, and the outgoing tide made it difficult to get the boat off.

—Astounding is the only word to apply to the "mysterious disappearances" in London last year. No less than 35,262 cases were notified to the police, and in less than half was any trace of the missing persons discovered. In other words, about 70 Londoners disappear every day of the year so completely that nothing more is ever heard of them.

Social Realm.

There's never a rose in all the world
But makes some green spray sweeter;
There's never a wind in all the sky
But makes some bird-wing fleeter;
There's never a star but brings to heaven
Some silver radiance tender;
And never a rosy cloud but helps
To crown the sunset splendor,
No robin but may thrill some heart
His dawn-like gladness voicing;
God gives us all some small sweet way
To set the world rejoicing.

A SURPRISE

For the West Quincy People.

Dr. Ash Fences New Possessions

Received in Exchange from Park Commissioners.

What does it mean?

Did you ever hear of such a thing?

An excepted street for many years closed to travel.

Who has blundered now?

Dr. J. H. Ash claims to have obtained deed for greater part of Crescent street near his estate.

Everybody surprised and wondering how it was possible.

Where is our city government?

Another case like the Willard schoolyard taking where city's rights were not protected.

What will be done about it?

These are some of the hot shots heard at West Quincy over the obstruction of travel over Crescent street.

Yesterday morning a gang of men commenced to build a fence so as to block all carriage travel on Crescent street, West Quincy. They are working for Dr. John A. Ash, who owns the old Farnum estate, and who proposes to enlarge his possessions.

Crescent street is not a side street, but a thoroughfare much used, especially by lighter travel between Copeland and Willard streets. It is an accepted way 2,277 feet long and 33 feet wide, and the nearest route between Brewers corner and Milton.

There is a sidewalk with a curbing on the easterly side of Crescent street. Dr. Ash lives on the westerly side and his new fence extends to within five feet of the curbing on the east side, so that it is impossible for a carriage of any kind to pass.

Late yesterday afternoon a stone team loaded with seven or eight tons of granite approached from the Willard street end and before the driver was aware of it he was in a position where he could not back out. It was one of John Fallon & Sons teams.

The driver helped himself to one of the carpenter's saws and sawed off a couple of posts, removing the obstruction in part so that he was able to proceed on his journey.

If the fence is allowed to remain, there will always be a bad crook in Crescent street, as it will enter the Metropolitan parkway nearly at right angles, instead a straight as it should. Crescent street is laid out to Copeland street, but it will not come within nearly 100 feet of it. At present travel cannot be diverted to the parkway, as it is not in condition for travel, and further the curbing is in the way, and the two streets are at different grades.

Dr. Ash tells the Daily Ledger that he has a deed of land which he is enclosing, it having been transferred to him in exchange by the Metropolitan Park Commission. He says the City Council at the time approved the exchange.

He says he informed the Mayor some weeks ago of his intention to take possesion of the land, but was requested to postpone action. I had difficulty in getting the lines, but recently employed Frederick E. Tupper, the civil engineer, who defined the lines, and the State board coincided.

Notified the Metropolitan Park Commission of my intentention to fence in the land. Yesterday notified the Commissioner of Public Works that I had commenced work.

The part of Crescent street fenced in contains 1450 square feet, and the deed for the same was passed in May last.

PARKWAY RELOCATED.

The City Engineer's office has no plan of the changes made in the parkway takings near the junction of Copeland and Crescent streets. The plan of the takings in 1900 includes within the Parkway that part of Crescent street which Dr. Ash has fenced in.

The office was aware that some exchange had been made between Dr. Ash and the Metropolitan Park Commission.

When the Parkway is completed, and also the connection with Crescent street, the change will not be open to the present criticism.

The object of the Metropolitan Park Commission is said to be to have all intersecting streets as far as possible enter nearly at right angles. This Crescent street will do when the change is made, and travel on the parkway will not be diverted, but will be continuous through the school yard.

UP TO PARK COMMISSION.

Commissioner Burke says it is up to the Metropolitan Park Commission to straighten out the tangle. He visited their office in Boston, yesterday, and held a conference for an hour and a half but obtained no satisfaction.

Mr. Burke asked—How is the travel over Crescent street to be accommodated?

It will be all right when the Parkway is completed.

Mr. Burke—But until then?

A portion of Crescent street will probably be closed to travel.

Under the circumstances Commissioner Burke did not feel that the city was called upon to put up signs that the street was closed, or lanterns at night, but he has temporarily taken the precaution to avert accidents.

Commissioner Burke has recently secured a plan of the Metropolitan Park Commission made Dec. 6, 1904, which shows plan of lands proposed to be conveyed.

It includes the 1456 square feet in question to Dr. Ash or Alice T. Ash, and also a small triangular piece adjoining containing 55 square feet to J. O'Connell.

At the easterly junction of the parkway and Copeland street, there is conveyed to A. Conway, 566 square feet in front of his estate which is now included in Crescent street; also a triangular piece adjoining, and in front of Thomas J. Lamb's residence, to Mr. Lamb.

VACATION CLUBS

Good Work by Girls of Adams and Coddington Schools.

The interesting exhibit of work to be seen in the windows of the Quincy Fair is the work of the Adams and Coddington Vacation Clubs. This organization of girls, fifty in number, from the two schools has been carried on this summer under the auspices of the Home Science Association, with Miss Elizabeth Johnson as president, Miss Florence R. Faxon as vice-president and Miss Eliza Sheehan as treasurer.

The two clubs have met on Monday afternoons and Wednesday and Friday mornings since the second week in July, at the Adams school, lent by the School Committee. The time of meeting, covering three hours, was divided into two periods, one including games, singing, etc., while the other period has been devoted to the making of useful homemade articles, the object not to teach sewing, but to encourage small fingers to utilize the small pieces of material so often deemed useless. Plain knitting was also introduced. This work has been in charge of Miss Faxon.

A Quincy lady has given the president a sum of money to be awarded in prizes for work to be done during the winter.

In addition on Wednesday and Friday, both clubs have brought flowers to the Quincy City Hospital and the Boston Flower Mission, and have carried them to the Hospital.

The coming week ends this work and two receptions will be given, on Aug. 16 and Aug. 17, to the mothers of the members, and on the mornings of the same days the brothers and boy friends of the members will be entertained.

Week after next Miss Johnson and several interested friends take the two clubs to Nantasket Beach for a picnic, a special car being engaged.

Of equal importance with any of the work done, has been the encouraging of the children to save money through the stamp saving system, which has been so successful in Boston and surrounding cities, and which it is hoped to continue in the Adams district the coming year.

RUSSIA'S REPLY READY FOR JAPS

Discussion of Peace Terms May Begin on Monday

NO DIPLOMATIC SPARRING

Belief on Both Sides That No Substantial Concessions on the Main Issues Will Be Made--Witte Thinks Prospects of an Agreement Are Remote--Powers of the Two Envoys Turn Out to Be Unequal--Witte's Absolute, While Komura Must Refer to Tokio

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 12.—Russia's reply to the Japanese terms of peace will be delivered by Mr. Witte to Baron Komura today. The reply is written, there being two texts, one in French, the other in English. Upon the two crucial points, indemnity and the cession of the Island of Sakhalin, the reply is an absolute non possimus. Other points are accepted as bases for discussion, while still others are accepted conditionally. The reply is rather long, because in enumerating the conditions upon which discussion is admitted and those upon which consideration is declined, reasons and arguments are given.

The Japanese plenipotentiaries are expected to ask for an immediate adjournment to examine and prepare their reply. Mr. Witte will probably intimate that the Russian plenipotentiaries expect the Japanese to display as much expedition as they (the Russians) have shown in the preparation of their response. Monday, therefore, is expected to be the day on which the real discussion will begin. Neither side wants to indulge in diplomatic sparring. The time for fencing is over and less than a week must decide whether a basis of peace is possible.

The tactics of the Japanese are inscrutable. They have shown throughout the war this ability to guard their secrets, military, naval and diplomatic, and now not the remotest clue comes from behind their closed doors as to whether they are prepared to make substantial concessions. Silence and secrecy are their watchwords.

But if the conditions as submitted constitute their last word hope of peace may be regarded as having disappeared if the feeling reflected in Russian circles is a true criterion. And that no substantial concessions on the main issues will be made is the belief both in Russian and Japanese circles.

In the inner camps of both plenipotentiaries the deepest pessimism reigns. Mr. Witte, it is positively known, believes the prospects of an agreement are so remote as to be practically nil. He has no desire to prolong the agony, and instead of fencing when the plenipotentiaries come together after the Japanese have had the opportunity to examine the reply there is strong reason to believe he will not only welcome, but will insist upon an immediate discussion of all the proposed bases. So pessimistic is he that he has already been talking to his colleagues of his plans when the rupture comes. Before sailing for home, he contemplates a brief visit to Chicago.

That the Japanese terms, insofar as they touch the main points, will not be withdrawn or materially modified, is the opinion of the most competent Japanese authority on the ground who will talk for publication, namely, Julio K. Matsumato, a member of the Japanese parliament who is here as a financial emissary of Japan and who is in close communication with Komura and Takahira.

The question of credentials has been amicably adjusted upon the assurance of the Japanese that the powers granted Komura were in the regular form always employed by Japan. Mr. Witte will not pursue the matter further. It is believed that his object in presenting his note on the subject was that it might go into the record of the conference to show that the widely published intimations from Japanese sources before the conference that the powers granted him would not be full and ample were not only foundationless, but that his powers in fact were greater than those bestowed upon Komura, who must report to Tokio, while Witte's powers are absolute.

One of the biggest features of the day at the Westworth hotel was the publication of the Japanese terms. Efforts were made to discredit their authenticity, but neither the Japanese nor Russians would discuss the subject, and before nightfall all those interested became convinced of their accuracy. Both Sato and Korostovitz, the spokesmen of the respective sides, declined to say anything officially about the terms which by mutual agreement were to be kept secret, but Korostovitz, in the name of Witte, did not hesitate to confirm the accuracy of the statement that the Russian reply was completed. He even went to the extent of saying that it would be an agreement on some points, conditional agreement on some and rejection of some of the terms. He also took occasion to confirm the statement that Witte had received no instructions from St. Petersburg regarding the nature of the reply to be given, as his powers were ample.

Russians Examining Terms

St. Petersburg, Aug. 12.—Friday was given over in the foreign office to a literal and careful deciphering of the Japanese terms and to the putting of them into proper form for transmission to the czar without loss of time. Little, however, has been accomplished in the way of formulating an answer, embodying advice, to Witte.

The full Japanese terms in detail were not contained in one message, but comprised several, all of which had to be deciphered, and the examination of the conditions as a whole could not begin until more than 12 hours after the arrival of the first message.

Despite the fact that Witte has sufficiently broad powers to give Russia's answer to the Japanese, it is declared at the foreign office that he should have to wait before so doing until advised from here after the terms had been thoroughly considered. Their examination is being pushed with the greatest rapidity consistent with the gravity of the matter in hand.

While it was reported in several quarters, though not officially, that the terms upon the first reading appeared to be unexpectedly excessive, later in the day it was said that the first conceptions might easily be erroneous and that a more careful study of the terms showed that they were not so severe as at first thought.

Japan's demands have served to array the Russian government and people under the same banner for the first time since the beginning of the war and it is evident that Witte will find almost solid support in whatever answer he may make to Komura's communication. The government permitted and encouraged the publication of the full dispatches containing the Japanese conditions. With scarcely an exception, every voice is raised in urging the government to hold out against Japan's principal demands.

As Viewed by London Press

London, Aug. 12.—"Reasonable and legitimate" is generally the verdict of the London newspapers on the Japanese peace terms. The press in a chorus urges Russia to accept the terms and avoid further bloodshed and ensure a lasting peace.

All the newspapers argue entirely from a Japanese standpoint, but it is generally conceded that the fact that the negotiations are now almost certain to continue is in itself a long step towards peace. The more conservative papers believe that the terms afford a chance for bargaining and suggest that it is not improbable that Japan finally will yield on the quesions of fishing rights, interned ships and other minor points.

Russia's Acceptance Looked For

Rome, Aug. 12.—Much surprise is felt here at the Japanese peace terms becoming known. The opinion is expressed in Rome that the terms are rather severe on Russia, but that if the Japanese are sufficiently firm Russia will end by accepting.

Only What Was to Be Expected

Berlin, Aug. 12.—The newspapers seem disinclined as a whole to express their opinion on the Japanese peace terms. Some regard them as hard for Russia, but say that they are only what was to be expected.

Russian Force Surrenders

Tokio, Aug. 12.—Admiral Kataoka reports that he dispatched a force to cooperate with the army in attacking a Russian force which was holding the southeastern coast light 20 miles east of Korsakoff. The naval force, four armed boats, attacked the Russians on Aug. 10, making simultaneous attacks. After a bombardment lasting two hours, the Russians surrendered. The prisoners numbered 125.

Killed by Loop Act

Butte, Mont., Aug. 12.—Thomas Butler, the bicyclist, with Barnum and Bailey's show, who has been doing a loop the loop act, died at Missoula from injuries sustained at Helena. Butler failed to cover the 40-foot gap and struck the platform, falling to the ground and fracturing his skull. He was known as "Volo," and his wife does the automobile "dip of death" act with the same show.

Captain Crowley's Body Found

Newport, R. I., Aug. 12.—The body of Edward Crowley, captain of the Westerly, R. I., schooner Authony Burton, who committed suicide by jumping overboard while the vessel was off Brenton's Reef lightship, was found at Seakonnet. Captain Crowley lived in New York.

Says Killing Was a Mistaks

Chester, Vt., Aug. 12.—James Mitchell, who shot and killed Mrs. Linnie May Rankin at the home of the woman's brother, in Grafton, is still alive, and his prospects for life are better. Mitchell now claims that he did not intend to kill Mrs. Rankin, only to frighten her.

Heat Caused Four Deaths

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Four persons died in Chicago yesterday of heat prostration and 23 others were overcome. The mercury did not rise above 90 degrees, but the high humidity made the day exceedingly uncomfortable.

Ruhlin Knocks Out McCormick

San Francisco, Aug. 12.—Gus Ruhlin, the Akron giant, last night knocked out Jim McCormick, the big Texan, in the 18th round of what was scheduled to be a 25-round prize fight. The knockout blow was a left to the jaw.

Assassination Averted

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 12.—President Quintana, while driving, was approached by a man with a revolver. The man was seized, however, before he was able to fire.

How Jake Won the Judge's Daughter

By FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright, 1905, by Frank H. Sweet

Jake Allsbrook was the only industrious member of an improvident family, and the work of his early years was wasted on shiftless kinfolk, but in one way and another he had acquired a good education, first in public schools and then by reading all the useful books he could obtain. It was in a public school, before she was thought ready to send away to a private institution for young ladies, that he first met Edith Potter. That was before either of them understood the importance of social position.

Jake was good at boat building and good at many other things which the village people who looked down upon his family did not know. This morning he was at his workbench in a small building he had erected near a lake when he heard the sound of carriage wheels, followed presently by firm, ponderous footsteps coming around the end of the cabin. Looking up, he saw Judge Potter approaching.

"How do you do, Jake?" the judge said, advancing with gracious cordiality. "Always at work, it seems. Thought likely I would find you here. I want to have a talk with you."

Jake looked at him with questioning curiosity. It was Judge Potter, certainly, but why had he brought his social equality voice along? He had never wasted that upon him before.

"What a trim looking lot of boats you have here, Jake," the judge went on, without waiting for Jake to speak, "but never mind explaining about them, though. What I am here about is the steamer line. Would you mind going over some of the main points again?"

Jake stared, then laughed a little curtly.

"What's the use?" he said. "When I went to you about the matter I was in the first callow enthusiasm of the idea and did not realize the fool's quest I was on. Suppose we dismiss the subject altogether. I haven't money enough to get the invention patented, much less to start a steamboat line."

The judge picked up a shaving with the point of his cane and twirled it complacently.

"Sometimes an idea is worth more than capital," he observed, but with an odd look in his eyes. "Let me see. I think you said a hundred thousand?"

"Yes," Jake found himself saying, with reluctant eagerness. "My idea was a stock company capitalized at $100,000—that is, a hundred shares at $1,000 each. We should"— He paused abruptly and, in a sudden revulsion of feeling, took up a hammer as though to resume work. "But excuse me for allowing myself to be carried away, judge. I've thought over the scheme until it has grown very real and personal. It's a sure thing if one can go into it. I can't. Even the few hundred I had saved were sunk in my railroad survey down the shore."

The judge smiled indulgently.

"That's all right, Jake," he said. "Profitable enterprises usually have a combination of brains and capital. We are ready to furnish the capital. In brief, I will take thirty shares and my brother and a friend fifteen shares each. That will give us a controlling vote. Then I'm sure Lawyer Blake and three or four others will take from five to ten each. There will be no difficulty in floating the stock."

Jake dropped his hammer.

"Do you really mean," he asked huskily, "that you intend to go into this thing?"

"Of course." Then a little hurriedly, "I was rather—abrupt with you before because—because I make it a business rule never to go into anything without ample time for deliberation. Understand? Come to my house at 3 o'clock this afternoon and we will fix up the papers. You will be superintendent and general manager."

"Wait a moment, judge," cried Jake as the visitor moved toward the door. "How do you dare to—to trust me? I have heard you say that all of my name were—well, thieves."

"Oh, tut, tut, boy! That was in a moment of petulance. As to trusting you," an enigmatical smile twitching the corners of his mouth, "remember I have known you a good many years. And—er—I am really glad to be associated with the name." With that the judge turned away, chuckling and murmuring to himself, "I do believe the boy has not seen the paper yet."

Ten minutes later as Jake was mechanically putting his tools away he heard other footsteps coming around the cabin, this time light, nervous and hurried. Turning, he found himself face to face with Lawyer Blake.

"Good morning, Jake. Didn't I see Judge Potter leaving here just now? I hope it wasn't about the boat scheme I was considering."

"Yes, it was just that," Jake answered dryly; "about the boat scheme you refused to consider. He has arranged for shares enough to assure its success."

The lawyer's countenance fell.

"Too bad, too bad, too bad!" he muttered. "I had thought the matter over and decided upon that very thing myself. Well, if it's too late I suppose there is still the railroad scheme?"

"Yes," faintly.

"Well," more briskly, "I will undertake capitalizing that, then. Come to my office this afternoon and we will arrange the details. We will need you for a general oversight of the business, of course."

An hour later he was in the postoffice, still dazed and bewildered. His two or three letters were read and slipped into his pocket, then he opened the county paper. Almost the first paragraph was one with the startling headlines:

"Coming Home With Millions of Gold. Mr. John Allsbrook, uncle of our esteemed fellow citizen, Mr. Jake Allsbrook, is probably on his way home with a ton or more of gold. We notice the name and his great success in a current Klondike paper."

Jake crumpled the paper contemptuously. That explained the whole wretched business. Five minutes later he was in the presence of Judge Potter.

"There has been a mistake," he began grimly. "My Uncle John is not"—

The judge interrupted him blandly It never occurred to him that there might be a mistake.

"Oh, tut, tut, boy! I see you have the paper. I hope you don't think a man of my position is influenced by a thing like that. Three o'clock, remember. And— Oh, yes, we are going to have a few friends in this evening and we wish you to join us. Mrs. Potter and Edith both desire it."

Jake murmured something and allowed the judge to bow him from the room. This was more stupendous than all the rest. He could grasp the magnitude of a few thousand dollars, but an invitation to the inner circle of social life, into the very heart of the social fortress, was incomprehensible.

But, in spite of his bewilderment, he found his way to Lawyer Blake's office and listened to another indignant protest against the aspersion of being influenced by a vulgar newspaper report. At last he retired, baffled, obliged to allow matters to take their course.

For many months the good people of the village looked for the coming of John Allsbrook and his millions in vain; but, long before they ceased looking, Jake Allsbrook had won the judge's daughter and was accounted one of the most prosperous men in all the north lake country.

Cattle King Miller.

In his "Gold Hunters of California" Thomas E. Farish tells some interesting anecdotes of the men of the early days.

Speaking of Henry Miller, a western cattle king, Mr. Farish says that none knew better than he the value of a reliable, efficient man. "Once, on one of his Kern county ranches, he had a foreman with whom he quarreled. The foreman said, 'If it were not that you are a smaller man than I, I would beat you half to death.' At this Miller threw off his coat and went for the man. The foreman succeeded in giving him a good trouncing, then demanded a settlement, which was made. That all over with, Miller apologized and hired the man over again, with an advance in wages. He knew he had a good man."

Another story of Miller: "I remember Miller once at Firebaugh's ferry, on the San Joaquin river, when he was buying so much land. It was at breakfast and a man called 'Hog' Johnson began to criticise Miller's purchases, when Miller turned to him and said: 'Hog, you knows dere iss more peoples born into de world effery year dan dies out of it, don't you?' 'Yes,' admitted Hog. 'Vell, dey all haf to lif off de land, and dere iss no more land borned effery year.'"

Kept His Word.

The day had been a heavy one for the Blankshire rifle volunteers. Under a sweltering sun they had marched till their feet blistered and they were weary in the extreme.

At last Private Hopkins "fell out."

"I won't walk another step," he declared.

"Come along, man!" cried his captain. "The invading force is known to be in the neighborhood, and you'll be captured if you stay behind."

But nothing would induce the valiant Hopkins to move another step; therefore the regiment went on without him.

They had barely passed out of view however, before Private Hopkins was observed to be pounding after his comrades at a speed which would have done a professional athlete credit, a maddened bull close behind him evidently supplying the necessary motive for haste.

He reached them safely, the bull was headed off, and all was well.

"I thought you said you wouldn't walk another step?" remarked the captain.

"Great Scott!" cried Hopkins, mopping his fevered brow. "You don't call that walking, do you?"—Birmingham (England) Post.

An Unpolished Reflection.

John Philpot Curran, the eminent Irish barrister and orator, once met his match in a pert, jolly, keen eyed Paddy, who acted as hostler at a large stable and who was up as witness in a case of a horse buying dispute.

Curran much desired to break down the credibility of this witness and thought to do it by making the man contradict himself by tangling him up in a network of adroitly framed questions, but all to no avail. The hostler was a companion to Sam Weller. His good common sense and his equanimity and good nature were not to be overturned.

By and by Curran, in towering wrath, belched forth, as not another counsel would have dared to do in the presence of the court:

"Sirrah, you are incorrigible. The truth is not to be got from you, for it is not in you. I see the villain in your face."

"I' faith, yer honor," said the witness, with the utmost simplicity and truth and honesty, "my face must be moighty clane and shinin' indade if it can reflect like that."

of accepting personal security upon a bond, when corporate security is vastly superior?

The personal surety may be financially strong to-day and insolvent to-morrow; or he may die, and his estate be immediately distributed. In any event, recovery is dilatory and uncertain.

Because of its greater stability, the United States Government prefers Corporate Suretyship; and many firms require it of their bonded employees.

The American Surety Company, capitalized at $2,500,000, is the strongest Surety Company in existence, and the only one whose sole business is to furnish Suretyship Bonds. Apply to

TOM WALSH of COLORADO

A Mining King With Social Aspirations

Born In Poverty, Now a Multimillionaire—Partner of a Monarch and Lessee of a Newport Mansion as an Entree Into the 400 . .

Lavish Entertainer Who Captivated Parisians With Striking Social Functions—Owner of a Sixty Room Palace—Benefactor of Miners . .

HAVE you heard the latest sensation in high society? It is that the Walshes—the Tom Walshes of Colorado—are going to break into the Four Hundred by way of Newport. The word "sensation" is used advisedly. Almost anything Thomas F. Walsh does in a social way is apt to be sensational. The entertainments he gave in Paris in 1900 were so much so that they left all Europe gasping. That is the time Walsh got King Leopold of Belgium on the string.

Commissioner to Paris Exposition.

The story of those entertainments is still told with gusto by the Paris boulevardiers. It appears that after Walsh made his strike in the San Juan country he went to Denver and was snubbed by the high society of Capitol hill, the region where Denver's swell set most do congregate. Then the Walshes concluded they would strike at the top. An appointment as United States commissioner to the Paris exposition of 1900 gave the opportunity. So Walsh planned his campaign. A mere display of wealth would not answer the purpose. To that must be added imagination, novelty, audacity. A Seine boat was chartered and fitted up as never a Seine boat was fitted before. Walsh's motto was that he must have the best of everything regardless of expense. He got it.

After entertaining most everybody on the boat a special train of five palace cars was next secured, to which the boat furnishings were transferred and a great many more added. Among the rest a large number of fine paintings were gathered together, so that when the guests tired of viewing the scenery out of the car windows they could turn to art for entertainment.

Saw the Bait, but Did Not Bite.

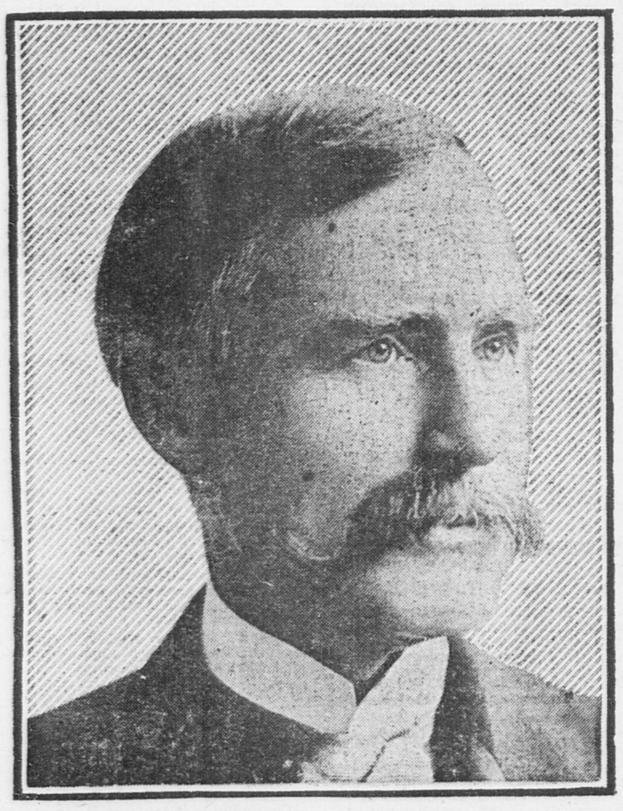
These unique and striking devices hit the mark. Here was something new even to the blase Parisians. Not only so, but the European capitalists and promoters saw a chance. A man who had money to burn like that must be a good thing.

MRS. T. F. WALSH.

Walsh suddenly became the recipient of unexpected attentions. Everybody who had a company to float tried to interest the American capitalist. Among others was King Leopold. Now, the ruler of Belgium is something of a character himself. He has whiskers that make him look like a prophet, but the resemblance ends there. He has the soul of a bon vivant. In other words, he is a high roller, one of the "old boys." He is likewise something of a captain of industry. Having heavy interests in a sleeping car company that was somewhat tottery on its legs, Leopold sent his agents to interest Walsh. The American saw the bait, but did not bite. He found that the sleeping car concern earned only about 3 per cent on the investment. Why should he go into that scheme when his own money was bringing him from 10 to 20 per cent? The agents took the word to Leopold, who was still more interested. A man who could squeeze out from 10 to 20 per cent was worth knowing. Would Walsh see him? He would. Not only so, but he would entertain him. The function came off at Ritz and was still more dazzling than any that had gone before. Even the czar's own band was brought into requisition. Of course the czar's band never played for private entertainments, but Walsh opined that a judicious use of gold might attract even the fancy of royal musicians, and he had the gold. The band heard the jingle and turned on the harmony. After that Tom Walsh, poor Irish boy, former wheelwright, sewer worker, hotel keeper and miner, and Leopold II., king of all the Belgians, were sworn friends. Walsh had no blue blood, but he had yellow money, and the colors seem interchangeable. Leopold had some mines up the Kongo that he wanted the American to look after. He also had a little money to invest, and 10 to 20 per cent looked good to him, so he and Walsh entered into a sort of partnership. Now let the Denver nabobs turn up their noses. The man who can hobnob with royalty needs none of them.

The Walshes did more entertaining in Paris. It was estimated, in fact, that they spent half a million at it. Before leaving they took the entire first floor of the Elysee Palace hotel to give a blowout to their friends. They said that they had aimed to entertain all the Americans in Paris, and Walsh usually does not fall short of his aims.



THOMAS F. WALSH.

But there were others present besides Americans. Bouguereau, the celebrated artist, once remarked to Mrs. Walsh:

"Madam, you do not give dinners. They are banquets."

And it was Baron Coubertain who exclaimed:

"Without sixty people dining with them the Walshes feel lonely."

A Sixty Room Palace.

Returning to America, Mr. and Mrs. Walsh went to live in Washington. First they took the Jenness Miller residence, but afterward built a house of their own, a sixty room palace, the finest private residence in the national capital. Here they entertain as lavishly as ever, and now they have not only the entree into Washington's most exclusive set, but are at the very apex of the social life at the Capital City.

Their entrance at Newport has been quite as dazzling as their other movements. They are occupying William Waldorf Astor's villa Beaulieu, one of the largest and finest at the summer city. This was rented to Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., but Mr. Vanderbilt decided to extend his yachting cruise and so Mr. Walsh took his lease. This is the first season of the Walshes at Newport, and the object is to bring out their daughter Evalyn, who has been attending school in various parts of Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Walsh have booked several titled foreigners for entertainment during the season, and Newport must succumb to titled foreigners. So there seems little doubt that the campaign for recognition will be won. Tom Walsh usually wins his campaigns.

Back of all the glitter there is much worthy of study in this mining king. For example, he had a theory. It was formed by long study of mining, geology and metallurgy. This study was begun while a boy in Ireland. It was continued while he was prospecting in the Black Hills and while keeping hotel in Leadville. It was that gold would be found in the tops of the ranges. He reasoned that volcanic action had pushed the veins out through the world's roof, as it were. Other mining men laughed at the idea, but Walsh was not the sort of man to be deterred by jeers. The result was that he went to the top of the San Juan mountains, in a place considered exceedingly dangerous because of snowslides, and there located and secured a vein over six miles long, making one of the richest single mines in the world.

"Grubstaker" of Miners.

He had another theory. It was that human nature can be trusted; that men have more good than bad in them. This caused him to "grubstake" miners, as it is called—that is, furnish them what supplies they needed and trust them until they "struck it rich." It also caused him to let men who were out of money have board and lodging free at his "Grand Central hotel" in the roaring, rushing days of early Leadville. It also caused him to treat his employees like human beings, to build a fine hotel on his mining property for them, where, instead of the tough fare usually received by gold miners, they could have clean, light and steam heated rooms, porcelain baths, good cooking, a library and reading room and other of the conveniences of civilized life; likewise to pay them good wages and to give them the eight hour day when the law did not require it.

This feeling for men extends even to animals. About his mine is posted a notice warning all against the killing of birds and harmless beasts. Any employee found guilty of this offense is instantly discharged. Mr. Walsh is very fond of the little camp birds. In fact, his chief property is called the Camp Bird mine.

Mr. Walsh was born in Tipperary, Ireland, in 1851. He was educated in the common schools and was apprenticed early as a wheelwright, to which fact he ascribes much of his knowledge of mining machinery in later life. At the age of nineteen he came to America, first working on a sewer contract at Worcester, Mass. Then he went to the Black Hills, in South Dakota, and made a small stake in a gold mine, after which he found his way to Leadville, Colo., when that was said to be the wickedest and widest open town in the world. Here he married Miss Carrie B. Read, a poor girl from southern Wisconsin. It was a love match. Mrs. Walsh is quite as kindly and hospitable an entertainer as her husband. A few years ago she dazzled Washington by the fine array of gowns she brought home from Paris. They were voted the swellest ever seen in the capital. She had a photographer at the house one whole day and was photographed in each of the costumes in turn. The photographer's bill alone was $700. She is noted for her ability in capturing all the social lions of the season and parading them at her functions.

Well Read, Bright and Interesting.

It must not be imagined from all of the foregoing that the Walshes lack culture. While largely self educated, both are well read, keen, bright and interesting. Money alone would not have won the successes they have enjoyed. They simply are at home in the sort of life they live. They revel in it. It is their world. They have open handed hospitality of the western sort. Tom Walsh himself is unostentatious, a shrewd, kindly Irishman who likes people and has a head for business. One of the features of his Washington house is a fine Italian garden, and in his homes the artistic element is much in evidence.

They are picturesque and interesting specimens of a sort of life that America has developed. They should feel at home in the Four Hundred. Why not? If they like that sort of thing, there is no reason why it should not like them. They will be quite as ornamental to the smart set perhaps as those who got their money from their grandfathers. Thomas F. Walsh has ideas, very vital ones, too, and that is much. Besides, he has imagination and quite a stock of native, human good will. He sees the possibilities of the west, both in agriculture and mining. He says that the mountains have only been scratched; that they are still full of precious ores. As Babylon was made by irrigation, he believes that a great empire in the shadow of the Rockies will spring up under the same magic spell. In his way he has helped to prove his faith by works.

These things may not recommend him to the smart set, it is true, but he also has all sorts of money, and that will.

J. A. EDGERTON.

Greatest Of Woman Swimmers

Annette Kellermann of Australia and Her Wonderful Aquatic Feats --- She Is Soon to Come to This Country. A Diver Too.

"Do you think the Americans will like my swimming?"

This question was asked under somewhat remarkable circumstances. It came from Miss Annette Kellermann of Australia, who had just got well started on her recent long distance swim in the river Thames. During this journey she completely overshadowed all previous performances under similar conditions, including that of Captain Webb, making thirteen and a quarter miles in 3 hours, 54 minutes and 16 seconds.

While thus creating a new world's record the Australian girl found no difficulty in carrying on a most animated and interesting conversation with newspaper correspondents, who, with her father and her official timekeeper, occupied a launch which kept about an oar's length away from the fair swimmer. Miss Kellermann began her phenomenal swim with a dive off historic Putney bridge and, in spite of the long distance and the fact that she had talked nearly all the way, was the freshest member of the party when she got out of the water at Blackwell pier and ingenuously demanded something to eat.

This Australian girl, who later attempted to swim across the English channel and failed, is curious to know how her swimming will be regarded by Americans, because she will visit the United States probably early in September. Before that, however, she will attempt several notable aquatic feats. Miss Kellermann, who is now only nineteen, has never before been defeated in any contest of long distance swimming or artistic diving either by man or woman.

ANNETTE KELLERMANN DIVING FROM A HEIGHT OF FIFTY FEET.

So far her record is one continuous report of victories. It shows her to be the greatest of all woman swimmers. At fifteen she won the amateur mile championship of Australia in still salt water in 29 minutes, which was 3 minutes 49 seconds faster than any woman in the world had done. She then made two and a quarter miles in 40 minutes 30 seconds. When she had acquired all the amateur Australian championships Miss Kellermann became a professional.

In the last three years she won every Australian long distance swim, making five miles in 1 hour, 48 minutes 34 seconds and ten and a quarter miles in 4 hours 23 minutes. So far her other speed records are a hundred yards in 1 minute 18 seconds, the best ever made by a woman, and a quarter mile in 7 minutes 2 seconds, although she prefers the long distance tasks. She is also the holder of many championship prizes won in her diving contests.

With it all she has found time to educate herself greatly beyond her years. She has an intense admiration for things American, which is only natural, as her mother came from Cincinnati, and she is looking forward with uncommon interest to her coming visit to the United States.

The Australian girl's beautifully molded limbs and remarkably developed shoulders have nothing masculine about them, but leave no doubt of their strength. The movement of her hands and feet when in the water is good to contemplate. Her feet are small, instep high, and as they move through the air during a dive resemble those of a Parisian premiere danseuse. The activity of this 148 pound, five foot seven inch young woman betokens an immense amount of nervous energy under perfect control. This same characteristic is notable in Miss May Sutton, the American tennis champion. Both girls are cool and decisive in action, quick witted, educated and refined.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

The 25 wards of Boston average in population about the same as the city of Quincy—25,000 to 30,000—but Quincy has a larger assessed valuation than ten of the wards, viz: Wards, 1, 2, 3,4, 5, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18.

Wards 9 and 12 are about the same as Quincy, while Wards 19 and 22 are less than a million richer.

Only four of the Boston wards show as large a gain in total valuation as Quincy, while nine lose in valuation.

The same is true of real estate,—only four Boston wards equalled the $672,300 gain in Quincy real estate.

In personal, only three wards of Boston equalled the $874,040 gain in Quincy.

While this is a very good showing for Quincy, the thought arises: Is not the valuation of Quincy increasing too rapidly in the eyes of our Assessors?

---

Many are of the opinion that the new postoffice will not be much larger than the present quarters, when they realize that it will be located between the temporary pillars now erected. Fire proof construction is entering into the construction, and these pillars are simply molds for cement pillar. The roof will also be fireproof. But the postoffice should have twice as much floor space.

---

The Massachusetts Highway Commission advertise in the Daily Ledger for proposals for surfacing a section of the State Highway, probably the section of Washington street at Quincy Point.

---

Brockton did not remove its police inspector any too soon. If the city has any more like him it should get rid of them. Brockton has been shown up in a very unfavorable light during the hearings.

Firemen's Fund.

The committee of the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association acknowledges these additional contributions to the fund for the firemen's families at Wollaston because of the Fourth of July disaster;

Popular Excursion to Newport.

On Wednesday, August 16th, there will be an excursion by special train to Newport, Rhode Island, from Quincy, Braintree, Brockton, Bridgewater, Middleboro and intermediate stations, with round trip tickets at low rates. The season at the "Queen of Watering Places" is now at its height, and the attractions of this noted resort never appeared to better advantage. Ample time will be allowed the party for visiting the numerous points of interest. 12-pol

—New scandals affecting the department of agriculture at Washington are steadily leaking out. The sale of cotton crop secrets was bad, but can scarcely be considered as a direct imposition on the farmer. Now it develops that a scientific professor in the employ of the department has been in the bulletins advising the farmers to purchase for worn out soils a restorer in which he was financially interested. His resignation followed those of Holmes and Hyde, but the country is beginning to wonder where the revelations will stop.—Medford Mercury.

CITY BREVITIES.

A nice shower at 2 P. M. cooled the air a little.

Over 3000 poll taxes of 1905 have already been collected this year.

Mr. Leo J. McMaster has returned from a two weeks' stay in Wilton, N. H.

Mr. J. Leonard Smith of Everett, is the new clerk at the Murphy pharmacies.

Games today—South Quincy and Merrymounts at Park; Quincys and Copelands at West Quincy.

The street railway will run trolley excursions to Highland Park next Tuesday and Thursday.

A mass meeting of the electric workers of the city will be held at the Hancock building Wednesday evening, Aug, 23.

It was cloudy and threatening early last evening causing a post-ponement of the moonlight sail of the Wollaston Yacht club.

Officers Goodhue and Larkin, who are enjoying their annual vacation, spent the first of last week cruising on Buzzards Bay.

The many patrons of E. J. Murphy's down town pharmacy are pleased to welcome a former clerk, John Nugent of Holyoke.

For some time an empty liquor keg has stood in the rear of Faxon hall. It may give some the idea that liquor is drank in the building dedicated to temperance.

The new stone cutting plant of Johnson and Hughes on Granite street opposite Gas place is well nigh ready for occupancy.

Charles E. Hatch has resigned his position as telegraph operator at the Quincy depot, and leaves on Monday, in company with Fred Dodge of Brighton, for Lake Sunapee, N. H., for a much needed rest.

The annual reunion of the old 32d Mass. Regiment was enjoyed at Nantasket beach last Saturday. Quincy was represented by Mr. I. F. Hoyt, Quartermaster of the regiment. The late Capt. C. C. Bumpus was an officer in the regiment and the surgeon was Dr. Faxon, formerly of this city.

Mrs. A. H. Gilson of Linden place had the misfortune to have her bag stolen while in Boston. She put the bag in a chair in her husband's office, and went into another room. In the meantime, a well dressed young man walked in, picked up the bag, and ran out. Mrs. Gilson saw the man, but thought he was in on business, Officers gave chase, but the fellow disappeared in the crowd.

Resolutions.

In the great sorrow that has so suddenly deprived the Grand Army of the Republic of its beloved Comrade and Commander in Chief,

WILMON W. BLACKMAR,

Paul Revere Relief Corps No. 103, express its deepest sympathy, to his devoted wife one of our own loved members.

Resolved:—That while we deeply mourn the loss of Commander in Chief Blackmar, we bow with humble submission to our Heavenly Father who doeth all for the best.

Resolved:—That a copy of these Resolutions be sent to his wife, published in the daily press, and the same entered on our records.

—Commander Peary's brilliant record of Arctic exploration, covering the past twenty years, furnishes reason for some hope that he may at least set a new mark in the direction of the pole during the expedition on which he started last week. It is not to be supposed that an expedition like the one now starting is necessarily a failure in case its progress is blocked short of the nearest approach to the pole. It is only necessary to compare the maps of the polar regions of twenty years ago and the present maps to carry conviction on this point. Greenland, for instance, which faded away towards the north into vagueness in the maps of those days, is now outlined as definitely as the British Isles on all sides except at the northeast corner. Much of the work in Greenland has been done by Lieut. Peary in his former explorations and in his honor a large section of Northern Greenland that was redeemed from mystery through his efforts is named Peary land. Fresh geographical knowledge is pretty sure to result from this expedition if nothing else. As a result of his former experience the equipment for the expedition now starting may be regarded as the best adapted to the purpose of any expedition ever proposed. This fact, and the thorough acquaintance of the commander with all but the last four hundred miles of the route to the pole give hope that the stars and stripes may soon fly from that long sought staff—Brookline Chronicle.

SEEING THROUGH A BRICK

A Clever Little Device That Makes This Seem Possible.

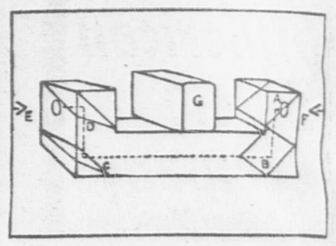
"To see through a brick wall" is an expression often used in a figurative way. How would you like to make a device that will enable you to apparently see through a brick or any other opaque object? It may be easily done if you are at all handy with tools. All you need is a box with mirrors, and this is the way it is made:

Construct a hollow box like the one you see in the illustration. One side is represented as removed that you may see the interior arrangement. You can easily make the case by sawing down a box and using the lid for the middle platform.

You will need four pieces of looking glass the width of the box, and these you fasten at an angle of forty-five degrees, as you see A, B, C and D arranged. The reflecting surfaces face each other, and a small hole is made at each end of the box, E and F, each hole being fitted with a piece of plain glass.



HOW THE MIRRORS ARE PLACED.

Now if you place an object before the opening F you will, by looking in the opening E, see that object as if you were looking straight at it. This is because the object at F is reflected in the mirror A, which is reflected in B, which in turn is again reflected across the box to mirror C and then up to D, and that image is seen by your eye at E. All of which, you see, is very simple.

If you now place a brick or any opaque object between the two ends of the box, as at D, you see of course that it makes no difference in viewing the image. But if you hide all this mechanism from your friends and place the box for one to look through he will be much amazed to find that he can see through box and brick to the image you have placed at the opposite end beyond the box.

Either E or F may be used to look through, as the object is always at the opposite end outside the piece of glass. Instead of a brick you may use a hat or a book or even your hand at G.

COLD PLAY TOYS.

How Children In the Land of the Eskimo Amuse Themselves.

It is cold in the land of the Eskimo—very cold, colder than you who live in the temperate zone can imagine. It is never warm there and never what we would call "pleasant." The sun, when it shines at all, shines feebly, and the snow and ice never melt. The people try to keep warm. That is all. But as for taking walks for pleasure or indulging in outdoor sports they never do such things at all on account of the cold. Although wrapped up like little mummies for the first few years of their lives, the Eskimo children are playful little beings and love toys as dearly as do the children of any country.

And what do you suppose they play with—these faraway, half frozen babies? They play with icicles, for these are the only playthings they can find. With their stout, stubby little hands they make necklaces out of icicles and fasten the prettiest of them to wires to make earrings of. Their games are played with small snowballs or iceballs which are frozen so hard that they can be handled quite awhile indoors before they will melt. Perhaps the Eskimo children have a game with ice marbles, and who knows but their little toy wagons may be hollowed out of blocks of ice.—Exchange.

Breaking the News.

Little Alice, who had been sent on an errand, returned rather hurriedly and called out to her mother:

"Oh, mamma, what do you think? A little girl was crying in the street just now because she had lost some money her mother had given her. Some people laughed, but I didn't."

"And why did you not laugh, my dear?" asked the mother.

"Because, mamma," said the child, with trembling lips, "because the little girl was me."

Johnny Was Surprised.

"John," said his mother severely, "I hear you were very naughty in school this morning and disturbed every one by making a noise."

"Yes'm," answered John, "but I didn't know I made loud enough noise for you to hear."

A Boy's Best Capital.

Industry is fortune's right hand and frugality her left. The best capital for a boy is not money, but a love of work, simple tastes and a loyal heart to his friends and his God.—Anon.

"B or No B."

I really think my sister Mary
Is stupider than me,
Because she said the other day
There wasn't any "b"

GYPSY MOTH WORK.

GYPSY MOTH ON TREE IN MEDFORD. Loaned by Medford Mercury.

Mr. E. E. Abercrombie, tree warden, is doing all in his power to stop the increase of gypsy and brown-tail moths and hopes to exterminate them from Braintree. Some parts of Quincy, Houghs Neck, Germantown, Quincy Point and Quincy Neck, are infested and are being neglected which makes his efforts there more difficult. During the past two weeks Mr. Abercrombie has had several men at work putting bands of tree tanglefoot on the trees in the highways, French's common, Town house grounds and upon other public property. Already he has personally superintended the putting on of 1000 pounds of that valuable mixture receiving many compliments from the citizens for his prompt action and gratuitous services. He has driven about town early mornings, when many citizens were sleeping, and evenings until dark, looking at the trees. The wild cherry trees and bushes along the highways in some sections of the town are also being removed by Mr. Abercrombie. A good thing to do for public improvement.

We are indebted to Mr. A. H. Kirkland, superintendent for the suppression of gypsy and brown tail moths, for the circulars received and the following paragraphs are taken from the gypsy moth circular.

In July and August, the female moths lay their yellow, hair-covered egg masses on tree trunks, fences, walls, etc. Each egg cluster is about one and one-half inches in length, by half an inch in width and contains about five hundred eggs. Hatching takes place in April or May. The young caterpillars first attack the buds, and later the blossoms and foliage. Spinning down on silken threads, they are blown about by the wind, or falling on teams are often transported long distances. As they grow, the effects of their feeding become more apparent, and badly infested fruit trees, shade trees and woodland are soon as bare of foliage as in mid-winter. By July, the caterpillars change to pupæ, from which the moths emerge in the course of two weeks to lay eggs for the next year's brood. The cuts accompanying this article fully illustrate the appearance of the moth in its different stages.

Teams, automobiles, electric cars, etc., are the principal means of spreading the moth. The female moths do not fly and the caterpillars seldom crawl over 200 hundred feet. But each infested spot, early in the spring, yields a swarm of tiny caterpillars, which by the agencies mentioned spread locally, or even to considerable distances the main spread being, of course, along the principal lines of travel.

The gypsy moth caterpillar is remarkable in that it attacks nearly all our common fruit and shade trees. The apple, oak, and willow would seem to be slightly preferred, while the white ash and rock maple are attacked to a less extent. Garden vegetables, flowers and shrub are consumed as readily as the foliage of fruit trees. Pines and coniferous trees die as a result of one defoliation, while the deciduous trees seldom survive stripping three years in succession.

Egg destruction is best accomplished by searching out the egg clusters in the fall, winter and spring, and soaking them with creosote mixture. This preparation may be found in the seed tores and retails at about 75 cents a gallon. In applying it a small paint brush is used, it being important to thoroughly soak the nests.

While the gypsy moth is a serious enemy of trees it has its own foes in the shape of predaceous insects, parasites and birds. Several ground beetles prey on the caterpillars, while true parasitic insects attack both larvae and pupae. Several species of birds, notably vireos and cuckoos, consume large numbers of the caterpillars, while others, like the chewink, chickadee, blue jay and crow, do their part in reducing the numbers of the pest. The services of these natural tree protectors is worthy of high praise, but in attempting to control the moth the main reliance must be placed on human efforts—on the timely and thorough application of the remedial measures outlined above.

A GOOD BIG MIRROR.

Have One In the House and See That It Is Used.

A mirror large and long enough for the tallest member of the family to see herself from tip to toe is among the most useful articles of furniture in a house.

It is, in fact, more necessary than carpets, which are unnecessary, or window curtains, pictures on the walls, pillow shams, tablecloths, bric-a-brac and endless other things too numerous to mention.

A good mirror helps us to see ourselves as others see us. It shows us that we are ripped in seams, taggy and uneven in skirts, ill fitting in collars and waists, neckties askew, hair unbecomingly arranged, quarreling colors, humped shoulders—in brief, all the faults and shortcomings in dress and carriage of the figure.

A hand mirror should hang beside it, and between the two a fair estimate of one's appearance can be made.

Men and women who look the best make use of the looking glass and value its importance. Instead of breeding vanity the mirror explodes vanity. Between buying new gowns, hats, coats, chairs or chests buy the looking glass and see that it is a good one with a plain solid frame and likely to last forever. Then hang it in a good light, accessible to all.—Philadelphia Ledger.

CHEST DEVELOPMENT.

Take Exercise and Use a Good Flesh Making Cream.

Nothing is better for chest development than swinging Indian clubs or using dumbbells. Exercise for ten minutes night and morning. At the same time apply to the skin a flesh making cream made of one and one-quarter ounces of lanolin, one-eighth of an ounce of spermaceti and one-quarter ounce of fresh mutton tallow, one ounce of cocoanut oil, one ounce of sweet almonds, one-quarter dram of tincture of benzoin, one ounce of extract of Portugal and five drops of oil of neroli.

To mix melt the first three ingredients in an earthern dish set in a basin of hot water. When liquid stir in the cocoanut oil with a silver fork and then the almond oil, first removing from the heat. Slowly add the Portugal extract, beating all the time, and then the neroli, putting in the benzoin last.

Use as cold cream, beginning to rub at the middle of the throat, drawing the fingers down to the under arms. Afterward rub from the side of the throat over to the shoulders.

SEWING HINTS.

Always use double thread for gathering.

Always use as fine a thread and needle as the garment will allow.

When threading your needle make the knot on the end broken from the spool.

The rule for frilling is one and a quarter the length of the edge to be trimmed.

In facing a sleeve turn it and place the facing inside the sleeve before sewing it on.

Gathers should always be set on the right side, but never with a needle. Use a large pin.

When sewing on a button place the knot on the right side of the cloth directly under the button.

In sewing a seam put the stitches closely together, but lightly, into the cloth, being careful not to pull the thread tight, as this causes the seam to draw.

—No other American girl has ever had an opportunity to see so much of high life in Japan and under such delightful auspices as Miss Alice Roosevelt. If she has inherited the literary talent of her distinguished father, she can write a fascinating and interesting book of travels when she returns.—Medford Mercury.

PARKWAY WORK.

Proposals Asked for the Surfacing.

Between Atlantic and Sailors' Home.

Many Pleased at Prospect of Completion of Our Section.

It will be good news that the Metropolitan Park Commissioners have asked for proposals for the competion of a section of the Metropolitan parkways for which Quincy has waited so long.

An advertisement in the Daily Ledger today asks for proposals for surfacing about a mile abutting Quincy bay between Atlantic street and the National Sailors' Home.

As August 21 is set as the date for opening the proposals the successful contractor should be ready to begin work before September 1.

Consoling.

Nervous Friend—Your chauffeur seems to drive very recklessly.

Smith—Yes; he doesn't care what happens when he's the worse for drink.

Hero Worship.

Cop—Move on, kid.

Kid—Say, officer, I ain't got but 10 cents, but it's all yours if you'll jest let me sit here and look at you!—New York American.

Bookshelves.

People have become educated to seeing bookshelves in a library or sitting room in preference to bookcases, for these always seem designed more as showcases for books and their bindings than to hold books ready for intimate use. Fewer bookcases are sold nowadays than formerly, for everybody seems to appreciate the charm of the low bookshelves built in around a room or occupying some special nook or corner in a bay window or alcove. On the top of these shelves one can always have plants, photographs, magazines, all the hundred and one little furnishings that add to the beauty of a room. The high corner bookshelves are always good, for they use space often otherwise wasted, and this is an important factor in these days of apartment houses.

French Cream Frosting.

Four cups of white sugar, one cup of hot water; put on fire and boil without stirring for about eight minutes. If it looks thick test by dripping from a spoon, and if it threads remove and rub some against side of cake bowl, and if it will rub into a ball pour all out and beat rapidly with wooden spoon, adding flavoring of rose, vanilla or orange as it cools. It will cut soft for several days. This can also be mixed with nuts and made into nut bonbons and colored with cranberry juice or green made from parsley. Take tender parsley leaves, wash dry and pound in a mortar until juice is extracted. Strain into a cup and put the cup into boiling water to get hot. A few drops will color a pale green.

Limewater.

Our grandmothers made great use of limewater, and physicians even today recommend its use in many ailments. It is such a practical remedy to have about the house. A jug of it should stand in every storeroom or cellar. A lump of quicklime about the size of a pint cup will be sufficient to prepare about two quarts. Put in an earthen dish, pour cold water over it and stir occasionally for six hours, then carefully turn off the top, straining through two thicknesses of fine cheesecloth and cork tightly in bottles.

Civic Pride in Quincy.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

With all the good work, private, public and charitable, that is being done in Quincy today, the ground remains uncovered. There is real lack of civic pride, born not of indifference, but of a little thoughtlessness, that expects the city authorities ought to do everything.

Our Board of Health, with the experience of past boards was never better organized, yet it lacks sufficient money allowance to do really good work. This reflects no discredit upon any one. Real civic pride in property owners and in individuals, will relieve a want here.

We need careful supervision over barns, old wells, stables, etc., to ensure safety to little children in dog days.

We need a city forester to see that no ruthless hand cuts down any more of our grand old elms.

We need something that even the Women's Club does not include, a good business men's organization to make Quincy more attractive to people with full pocket-books.

We need a population to be increased, financially and socially, but of the best type, to ease us of our tremendous school tax and yet allow us more new school houses. J. H.

An Italian Home.

There is an interesting bit of imported Italian life right here in Quincy Center. An old colonial house stands in a large lot and a family has made a garden at the side of the house; turned over the tough sod, planted a large lot to tomato plants and other vegetables. The man works in this patch at earliest dawn, at noon hour, and late at night. Further, a horse, hens, and a brood of six little children make a happy summer life around the place. He keeps an Italian store and his eldest child, a boy, is a helper. A twelve-year-old daughter is a veritable little mother.

There is a new 4th of July baby, in swathed bambino fashion, done up tightly like a stick in white bands. These are daily adjusted for three months, thus depriving the baby of the unhappy fashion of squirming that new babies have, until their tender muscles get some strength.

That a young man can make a clean, comfortable home for a wife and six children reflects credit upon him. The four little girls are bright, pretty and well mannered. The mother has had eight children and is not much over thirty years of age. This family must be superior to the bulk of Italians who come to the United States to make a new home.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

Pilgrimages Almost Daily to the City of Presidents.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACES OF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Small fee asked.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M. until 4 P. M.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company where warships are being built for the government.

RESCUE OF FIALA

Details of the Trip of Steamer Terra Nova

ENCOUNTERED HEAVY ICE

Some Members of Expedition Were Greatly Weakened by Hardships--Fiala's Attempt to Reach the Pole Was a Failure

Tromsoe, Norway, Aug. 12.—The relief steamer Terra Nova, which succeeded in rescuing Anthony Fiala and the other members of the Ziegler Polar expedition, has arrived here after its adventurous voyage, which at one time threatened to end in failure, owing to the thickness of the ice encountered.

The Terra Nova, which sailed from Tromsoe June 14 last, shaped its course direct for the icefields, which were encountered June 19 in latitude 75:57N. long. 36:26E. The ship proceeded eastward along the edge of the field until June 27, when it began to force its way through the floe, and on July 25 struck open water.

Thick ice was again encountered the following day and William S. Champ, secretary of the late William Ziegler, who commanded the relief expedition, and the experienced navigators began to doubt the possibility of reaching their destination or of returning this year. Finally, however, on the morning of July 28 Palmi island was sighted and on July 29 the Terra Nova reached Cape Dillon and found six members of the expedition safe and well. From this outpost sleds were dispatched to notify Fiala at the headquarters camp of the arrival of the rescue ship.

The Terra Nova reached Cape Flora July 30 and found more members of the expedition. These had become weakened by hardships they endured and some of them were so ill that they could not have held out for another winter.

Returning to Cape Dillon, Champ organized a sled party and started for the headquarters camp, from which he brought back Fiala and his comrades. The Terra Nova sailed for home Aug. 1. It got out of the ice ice pack Aug. 6 and returned in excellent condition.

The members of the Ziegler expedition tell a stirring story of their vain efforts to reach the pole. The expedition spent the first winter in Teplitz bay, where it deposited provisions and coal on the ice. In the severe weather of November, 1903, the ship America, which carried the Ziegler expedition, broke up and the provisions and coal were lost. The loss of the provisions was seriously felt, and but for the stores left by the Baldwin-Ziegler expedition in Teplitz bay the men would have been in bad straits.

The following spring continued attempts were made eastward and westward to force a passage to the pole. The conditions, however, were insurmountable. The expedition met with much open water. Ultimately the supply of provisions began to give out and a painful journey southward was begun, the members of the expedition finally reaching the depots at Cape Flora, Cape Dillon and Camp Ziegler, among which they were distributed and where they managed to eke out the limited supplies by catches of walrus and bear.

William J. Peters of the United States geological survey, who was second in command, and others utilized the time in survey work, and many improvements in and additions to existing maps and charts will be the outcome. The relations between members of the expedition were most cordial and all took turns at duty, doing hard work willingly, buoyed up by the knowledge that relief ships would be sent to their rescue.

All were hopeful until the fall of 1904, when the solid icefield seemed to preclude the possibility of relief and they became despondent. The leaders of the expedition had difficulty in keeping up the spirits of the men throughout the hard winter, but hope returned in the spring, when the ice conditions became more favorable, and then Champ and his colleagues found Fiala and his comrades in fairly good condition.

Delegates Became Excited

Philadelphia, Aug. 12.—The session yesterday afternoon of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters was the stormiest in the history of the union. Physical violence was several times narrowly averted and the convention was adjourned to permit the delegates to cool down. The disorder was the result of a motion to endorse the Chicago strike. As soon as the motion was made there was an uproar.

A Presidential Candidate

Butte, Mont., Aug. 12.—David R. Francis, ex-governor of Missouri, who, with his family and a party of friends entered Yellowstone park for an outing, is quoted as saying that he will soon announce himself as a candidate for the next Democratic presidential nomination, provided Bryan is not in the way.

Storm Causes Much Damage

Groton, Mass., Aug. 12.—In a violent electrical storm the farm buildings of Albert F. Parkhurst were struck by lightning last night and burned. Parkhurst was prostrated, but recovered later. His monetary loss is $4000. The rainfall was very heavy, washing out the roads and damaging crops.

"Dead" Man May Be Alive

Rutland, Vt., Aug. 12.—C. S. Albee of this city has received a dispatch from J. E., his brother, who was supposed to have been murdered near Ames, Neb., last February, but who may be alive. A body was found there said to resemble him, and identification was so complete that his baggage was sent home to his brother in this city, who identified it. C. S. Albee states that he believes the Nebraska sheriff has been trying to swindle him, as he received many bills of expense from the officer and was also called upon for money.

Woman Mysteriously Shot

New York, Aug. 12.—A handsomely dressed woman who said she was May Hall, aged 19, was taken to a hospital last night, having been found on the Riverside drive suffering from a pistol shot wound in the right breast. Later she admitted that the name was fictitious. She refused to say anything more about herself or to tell who had shot her. According to the police, the woman came from Syracuse and was shot by a man with whom she was riding in a cab. The wound is not likely to prove fatal.

Supposed Immune Has Fever

New Orleans, Aug. 12.—The official report on the yellow fever situation up to 6 p. m. yesterday follows: New cases, 61; total cases to date, 808; deaths, 9; total deaths to date, 133. Surgeon Berry of the marine hospital staff is stricken with yellow fever. Because he had been in the Cuban campaign and had had yellow fever in Texas he was thought to be immune. He was put in charge of work in the originally infected area, where he did yeoman service in disinfection.

Lightning In Church Tower

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 12.—Lightning struck in several places in and about the city last night during a heavy shower. The tower of the Hillside church in Dracut was struck and burned both inside and out. The street car line in that vicinity was disabled for about an hour.

Trying to Settle Bakers' Strike

New York, Aug. 12.—Efforts for a peaceful settlement of the strike of the Hebrew bakers of the East Side are in progress. There was no renewal of rioting on the East Side yesterday.

Hackenschmidt, "Russian Lion," Says Americans "Fake" Matches.

Georges Hackenschmidt, the "Russian Lion," was not favorably impressed by the ability of American wrestlers on his visit here. In a recent interview in London he says some unpleasant things about them. "Hack" has resumed his tour of the music halls and is throwing from three to six men nightly.

"One thing that I could not understand about America," said "Hack," "was the faking methods of some of the wrestlers. Wherever I went to seek a match I was confronted by a lot of schemers, who made all sorts of unsportsmanlike propositions to me. When they saw that I was not a fakir they avoided me and began to say unkind things about me. I guess I became unpopular with some of them, but I don't mind this as long as I have the better element on my side."

Hackenschmidt, who has created such a furore in the wrestling world and who has thrown the best and strongest athletes who have been pitted against him in England and America, is not invincible, contrary to the general public opinion as expressed after his easy victory over Tom Jenkins, the American champion.

In the fall of 1901, shortly after Hackenschmidt's first appearance on the mat, he went to Berlin and challenged all comers to meet him in competition on the mat at the Greco-Roman style. Among the first to reply to this challenge by coming over the ropes was a young German officer, Baron Hans von Lieber, lieutenant in the Gardes des Corps, a regiment of the army stationed at Potsdam, near Berlin, where the imperial palace is located.

Von Lieber, who is a perfect giant of about 230 pounds in weight, outweighing Hackenschmidt by nearly twenty pounds, had but little difficulty in disposing of the man whose very name is now a terror to English and American wrestlers.

Von Lieber is not the only European wrestler who has given Hackenschmidt trouble. Peterson, the Danish champion, a giant weighing 220 pounds, wrestled a draw with the "Russian lion" in 1900, the year when the latter entered upon his career as a wrestler.

For two hours the two men tossed and tumbled over the mat, striving for the hold which would pin the other's shoulders to the mat and wrest victory from him. At the end of that time neither had scored a fall and neither would give up.

The referee was compelled to call it a draw and stop the match. The two have never met since, which is perhaps wise for Hackenschmidt, who may well fear losing his world's championship title at the hands of such a man.

birth, having been born in Koenigsberg, in Pomeranian Germany. The Pomeranians are noted as practically the only one of the Teutonic nations which retains in its entire purity the Teutonic strain of blood. They are giants in stature, averaging five feet eight inches in height and ranging up to over six feet. They are double jointed, have large boned frames, and their feet are seldom under nine in size. Bismarck, the great German dictator, who was a giant of over six feet in height, was a Pomeranian, as is also Eugene Sandow, the world's champion strong man. In this section of the country wrestlers are very numerous. The gigantic stature of the men, the compulsory military and physical training in the turner schools and gymnasiums and the simple lives led by them fit them for this strenuous game as perhaps no other training would. They are a nation of wrestlers, and the average man among them could meet the best men of other nations and make a good showing against them.

Included in that German contingent are also numbers of wrestlers of other nationalities who have made Germany their home and are regarded as Germans.

Among them are Petroff, a wrestler from German Poland, who weighs over 230 pounds; Nitshke, a wrestler of Berlin, weighing 210 pounds, who holds the German record for dumbbell lifting; Zbysko, the "colossal Pole," who weighs 260 pounds, all of which is solid, muscular flesh; Romanoff, a Russian of 228 pounds in weight, who defeated Paul Pons, the French champion, and also defeated Peterson, the Danish champion, at Copenhagen.

Great Heroism Displayed at Soap Factory Fire

MEN FAIRLY PARBOILED

Fifty Rescued Burned and Unconscious From Boiling Soap--Lieutenant Swam In Hot Lye to Rescue Perishing Man

New York, Aug. 12.—Fifty firemen were carried burned and unconscious from boiling soap, five of them very badly parboiled, from a fire in W. H. Daggitt's Sons soap factory in West Twelfth street. Tanks containing 50,000 gallons of hot soap fats exploded after a fire in the three-story building had been brought under control.

After the vats had taken fire, Acting Chief Binns was forced to divide his men into two parties, one to enter the black smoke cloud with the hose, and the other to rush in and rescue fainting comrades, whose cries for help came from the fire every few minutes.

Fire Lieutenant Mahoney swam through a vat of hot lye to save Fireman Clancy, who had fallen unconscious into eight feet of the stuff.

Both the fireman and his lieutenant were caught with the fall of a 5000-pound safe through the floor into a cellar room where a strong lye had been formed from water and the soap materials flooding the building. Clancy was crushed and internally injured during the fall, while the lieutenant fell into the lye uninjured and on top of the safe, where he kept himself partly out of the lye preparation.

It was so dark that he could not see, but, feeling something in the fluid beside him, he took hold of it and pulled a boot off Clancy's leg. Then he realized for the first time that a comrade had fallen into the vat with him, and, immersing himself to the neck in the hot liquor, which sapped his strength more and more every minute, he swam in the direction the boot came from and found the unconscious form of Clancy, whose head was submerged.

The lieutenant held the fireman until their comrades rescued them. Mahoney fainted when taken out of the liquor. At the hospital the fireman's condition was said to be precarious, while the lieutenant suffered from prolonged unconsciousness.

In no case did the injuries of the firemen come from the flaming grease, but from repeated dashes into the fire zone after having been dragged out helpless by comrades.

For an hour Fred Barry fought the fire from the cellar. He was found unconscious, drowning in the hot water. Fireman O'Neil, who sustained the most serious injuries, was found lying on a stairway in a small cascade of the soap grease.

Twelve hours after the start of the fire a crew of 30 fresh men filled the vacancies in the firemen's ranks, made either by those who were in the hospital or those too weak from successive fainting spells to work any longer.

Texan Savagery

Sulphur Springs, Tex., Aug. 12.—Tom Williams, a negro, assaulted the daughter of a widow near this place. When the town was alarmed a posse of armed horsemen started in pursuit of the assailant and the negro was captured. He was taken to the court house square, chained to a stake and burned before an immense crowd of excited citizens. Little resistance was made to the mob by the officers.

Taft Upholds Administration

Manila, Aug. 12.—A banquet given by natives to Secretary Taft's party last night attracted great interest as it was expected that Taft would outline the policy of the present administration. For some time the feeling among the natives has been that the administration was deviating from the McKinley policy. This attitude was met fearlessly by Taft, who upheld the administration policy.

Structural Workers Walk Out

Philadelphia, Aug. 12.—All the structural men employed by the American Bridge company in this city have gone on a sympathetic strike. Work on several buildings and on the Schuylkill river bridge of the rapid transit company has stopped. The strike is the outcome of a grievance of the local union at New Haven.

The Business Outlook

New York, Aug. 12.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that trade reports are less uniformly favorable, but adverse factors are of a temporary nature, and the net result for the week is satisfactory. Textile markets have had the stimulus of an increased attendance of western buyers.

Hotels Were Crowded

Nantucket, Mass., Aug. 12.—Governor Douglas and party arrived here last night on a pleasure trip, but owing to an abnormal demand for hotel accommodations the chief executive had some difficulty in finding quarters. The party eventually was provided for by one of the hotels.

TO BE INVESTIGATED

New Hampshire Boy Perhaps a Victim of Foul Play

North Sandwich, N. H., Aug. 12.—Albert Mack, Jr., 18 years old, died apparently from an overdose of morphine, but the attending physician, Dr. Blair, after an examination of the body, during which he found bruises on the abdomen, decided last night to notify the county authorities and call for an autopsy. The result of the autopsy will be sent to the county solicitor.

Mack returned home from work last Saturday night apparently in excellent health, but since then he has been confined to the house, and yesterday noon Dr. Blair was called. He states that he found the young man apparently suffering from an overdose of morphine, and, while he seemed to respond to the treatment for an hour or two, he sustained a relapse and died at 3 o'clock. Young Mack has been living with his father and stepmother, his own mother having obtained a divorce a few years ago. The authorities will also investigate the report that the boy had a quarrel recently with several persons.

Police After Fake Beggars

Boston, Aug. 12.—Professional beggars who impose upon the people of Boston will hereafter be treated as criminals. Every man arrested for begging upon the public streets, after it has been proved that he is a fakir, will be measured by the Bertillon system, photographed and his record taken. Copies of his photograph and his Bertillon measurement will be sent to every charitable institution in Boston, and they will thus be enabled to protect themselves against grafters.

Will Aid In Husband's Defense

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 12.—Mrs. George F. Morris, wife of the man who last Tuesday night shot and killed Mrs. Jennie E. Spaulding, has forgiven her husband, and will begin at once to take charge of his defense. She has already engaged James F. Owens of this city to defend him. When Morris was arrested, after the shooting, the police found $1062 upon him. Morris married the Spaulding woman three weeks ago, although his legal wife was living at Laconia, N. H.

Knapp Relieved of Suspicion

Antrim, N. H., Aug. 12.—Allen Knapp, who has been held for four days on suspicion in connection with the mysterious death of George Lee, was released from custody last night. Lee's body was discovered in a deserted house last Sunday, and Knapp, with whom Lee had been drinking, was with Knapp when he disappeared. The officers have practically concluded that Lee probably stumbled and fractured his skull, and then went into the deserted house.

Shot With His Own Weapon

Taunton, Mass., Aug. 12.—After an exciting chase by a dozen members of the Taunton police force, Frank Carr of New York was arrested last night, charged with several attempted daylight robberies in the residential portion of this city. Carr was finally captured by Officer Hall, who fired four shots from a revolver that the fugitive had dropped, one of the bullets taking effect in Carr's scalp.

Douglas Turns Down Pardon

Boston, Aug. 12.—Governor Douglas has refused to pardon Joseph A. Iasigi, formerly Turkish consul in this city, who was sentenced Nov. 17, 1897, to serve a term in state prison of not more than 18 nor less than 14 years for embezzlement. Governor Douglas says that, in his opinion, this is not a case for executive clemency and, on that ground, refuses to refer the petition for pardon to the council.

Police Inspector Removed

Brockton, Mass., Aug. 12.—Police Inspector Chester E. Harris of the police department was found guilty of the charges preferred by Stella Elliott, 18 years of age, after a protracted hearing before Mayor Keith. The accusations included paternity, and allegations along such lines. The inspector, who is a married man, was dismissed from the force.

Mother Saved Child's Life

Boston, Aug. 12.—In attempting to rescue her 5-year-old daughter from being run over by a car, Mrs. Marie Marenio, living at 153 Washington street, was struck by a car last evening in front of her home. Her daughter was run over by the car and had her left leg amputated. She is on the dangerous list at the relief station.

Narrow Escape From Death

Plaistow, N. H., Aug. 12.—A lightning bolt set fire to the barn of George Tucker last evening and stretched unconscious on the floor Tucker and George Downer. Neighbors dragged the senseless men from the burning building. The barn, house and several outbuildings were completely destroyed.

Cook Shot by Waiter

Hyde Park, Mass., Aug. 12.—Charles Smith of Boston, cook in a local restaurant, was shot last night, although probably not fatally, after an all-day quarrel with Robert Wood, one of the waiters. Wood disappeared after the shooting. The bullet struck Smith in the left breast and passed through the lung.

Stillings Brothers Go to Jail

Boston, Aug. 12.—George E. Stillings and Guy C. Stillings, brothers, who were respectively president and treasurer of the Preferred Mercantile company of Boston, have been sentenced to serve one year each in jail for contempt of court. There is no appeal from the sentence.

"Little Johnny Jones" Again. Minnie Seligman---Tim Murphy's Plans.

[From Our New York Dramatic Correspondent.]

George M. Cohan's well known musical comedy success, "Little Johnny Jones," returned to New York recently after a record breaking run in Chicago and played to a packed house at the New York theater. The songs written by Mr. Cohan himself were sung by him in the same way which contributed so largely to the success of the production when it was originally put on.

The size of the audience and the large percentage of strangers in it might have led an outsider into forgetfulness of the fact that "Johnny Jones" has played two long runs in New York before.

Minnie Seligman returns to the stage this season, after an absence of two years, in a new play especially written for her. She will be remembered as the star in "My Official Wife," "When a Woman Loves" and in other plays.

With her as a co-star will appear William Bramwell.

Henri Gressitt will present the two stars in a new play by a well known author, to be announced soon. The combination is formed for five years.

After vicissitudes which would have discouraged a less persistent man Tim Murphy has finally unraveled the skein of legal complications which threatened to tie up the comedy "A Corner In Coffee," and he will at once begin the preparation of an extensive production for the coming season.

The curious feature of the case of "A Corner In Coffee" is that Mr. Murphy has all along been keen to present this play. Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, author of the story, desired Mr. Murphy to act his Elijah J. Tillotson, the South American coffee planter. The publishers of Smart Set, in which the story appeared serially, wanted Mr. Murphy to act the play, and Owen Davis, maker of the dramatization, was eager for this actor to present his play. But each claimed certain rights exclusive of others and persisted in his claims to a point which threatened to tie things up permanently.

Mr. Murphy would not enter into any contract or begin any preparations till the claims were all satisfactorily adjusted.

A way out of the tangle was suggested a few days ago. All claimants to rights in "A Corner In Coffee," accompanied by their attorneys, met in the offices of Smart Set and agreed to a trust. When "A Corner In Coffee" is produced Tim Murphy will pay all royalties to the trustee, who will hold them until it has been finally decided in court who really owns the dramatic rights to the novel. This will be the first of Cyrus Townsend Brady's books to be dramatized and acted.

"A Corner In Coffee" will require a large cast and an extensive and beautiful production, showing pictures of multimillionaire life in New York and the intimate workings of the temples of frenzied finance. Dr. Brady is to resume pastoral work and has recently accepted a call to Trinity church in Toledo, but before he leaves Brooklyn he has promised Mr. Murphy to put him in possession of all his intimate ideas regarding the character of Elijah Tillotson.

FRESH AIR FOR POULTRY.

Advantages of Keeping Houses Open at All Seasons.

It has remained for Joseph Tolman, proprietor of the Twentieth Century poultry plant, Norwell, Mass., to take a step somewhat in advance of the majority of his fellow poultrymen by adopting a new type of fresh air poultry house, which has proved itself worthy of careful consideration by all poultry keepers, writes P. T. Woods, M. D., in Reliable Poultry Journal.

Mr. Tolman raises light Brahma roasting chickens and capons for the Boston market, and a couple of years ago found that he was experiencing trouble in getting satisfactory hatches; also when the chicks apparently hatched well they seemed to lack stamina, so that the mortality among the growing stock was assuming alarming proportions. For the most part one and two pen colony houses of the tight plan were provided for both breeding and growing stock. Mr. Tolman was advised to take the windows out of his poultry houses early in May and keep them out all summer and until late in the fall. This was done, but when fall came Mr. Tolman, acting on the theory that if plenty of fresh air is good part of the year it is good all the year around, began constructing the fresh air poultry houses. Speaking of the plan Mr. Tolman says:

"For the past eight years I have been engaged in the poultry business. The first six years of my experience, I must admit, were not an entire success. There may have been various causes, but the most important of all I attribute to the want of pure, fresh air in the poultry houses. Having tried to a small extent the cloth or burlap front buildings and not obtaining the desired results, I decided upon a more radical change. I made this change in the fall of 1903 and am pleased to say we have had two decidedly cold, severe winters, which have given this system a thorough test, which system I consider was not perfected until the fall of 1904, when I constructed my 'fresh air' breeding house, which I consider perfect in all its features."

The fresh air poultry house is a very simple one to construct, being a plain hip roofed building, with a long pitch of the roof to the front or south. The roof and closed sides are one inch boards shingled, making tight roof and walls. The eaves are about four feet from the ground, and the peak of the roof is a little over seven feet. The house is eight feet wide by twelve feet long and has a window in the center of the west side and a door directly opposite in the east side. In summer both door and window are removed and replaced with wire netting. The south front is always open, being closed by one inch wire mesh netting only. This part of the house is wherein it differs from other fresh air house plans.

Culling the Flock.

No business man will keep dead stock on his hands any longer than it will take to get rid of it, and he will do that if he has to "cut prices." With the poultry breeder it may be necessary to "cut." He may have stock that will yield but little income during the winter and yet will be about what the market demands now, and he can sell to good advantage. A chicken that can be sold for 30 or 40 cents now will be no advantage to a farmer later after he has fed 5 to 10 cents' worth more grain to it. On too many farms there is no regular system of culling. Such fowls as can be caught easily are the ones that are sold, and those that elude the grasp of the owner remain in the yard. It may be that those remaining should be the very ones that ought to have gone.

Watch the Droppings.

Healthy poultry droppings are a dark slate color, firm, hard and tipped with white. If soft, light brown, yellowish or green or white tip is absent, look out for trouble unless you change food or care. By glancing at droppings each morning serious illness can be prevented.

Keep the Yards Clean.

Remember that nothing promotes better health in the poultry yard than perfect sanitary conditions. During the hot weather scrupulous cleanliness must be maintained. The liberal use of carbolized whitewash and air slacked lime will prove highly beneficial.

Chicken Leg Weakness.

This disease, so much complained of, generally arises from the housing. No floor is better than one composed of dry earth. Neither wood, brick nor concrete is so satisfactory as mother earth for the floor of the chicken house, but it must be dry.—A. V. Meersch.

Poultry Notes.

Plenty of dust baths, plenty of good fresh water and plenty of room are great things for poultry, old and young, during the hot weather.

Never overfeed the laying hens. It is better to underfeed than to overfeed the breeding stock. Fat poultry are never productive.

If you will care for the hens and feed the young chicks they will pay the grocery bill during the fall and winter.

The mainstays of success in growing poultry in hot weather are shade, cleanliness, plenty of room and proper care.

Flower Book of Real Flowers.

The Yellowstone Park Flower Book, published by the Northern Pacific, is a beautiful creation. It contains twelve specimens of real, pressed flowers, in natural colors, from Yellowstone Park, with botanical names and the places where found.

The book also has six full page, fine, half-tone illustrations showing the Park bears, the Grand canon, geysers, hotels, etc., found in the Park, with a brief description of this most wonderful region, 54 by 62 miles in size, in the very depths of the Rockies.

The Flower Book makes a beautiful souvenir. Send A. M. Cleland, General Passenger Agent, Northern Pacific Ry., St. Paul, Minn., fifty cents for a copy.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

At the Empire Theatre next week the management announces an elaborate production of the famous drama "The Lost Paradise" which has enjoyed as great favor in its English version as that which attended its original performances in Germany. Few plays of the day have been received with greater acceptance by local audiences than this as it has always called out large audiences whenever it has been played here. In next week's production at the Empire it is announced that the mechanical effects incidental to scene in and about works where the action largely occurs will be given unusual attention with a view to the realism called for by the story. A particularly strong cast is announced and the stage pictures will be made additionaly effective by the introduction of many extra people.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Another big vaudeville show is promised at Keith's for the week commencing Aug. 14. Heading the bill will be the Horsky-Bergere company, in the one-act farce, "He, She and He." Rudolf Horsky, the leading man of the company, is a famous German comedian, and Leona Bergere is a sister of Valerie Bergere, who was seen at Keith's in the early spring. The piece is an exceptionally lively and mirth-provoking affair, and will no doubt prove entertaining to patrons of the "model playhouse." Others on the excellent program will be Victor Moore and Emma Littlefield, who are making their farewell tour of vaudeville, in the exceedingly funny sketch "Change Your Act, or Back to the Woods"; George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, with a raw lot of material; Rae and Benedetto, revolving ladder experts; Daisy Dumont, a pleasing ballad singer; Clayton Kennedy and Mattie Rooney, in the funny comedy skit, "The Happy Medium"; Murphy and Andrews, vocalists and dancers; LeClaire and Hart, in a funny burlesque comedy specialty; the Young American quintet, pleasing singers and dancers, and Georgia Galvin, a talented soprano soloist. The Fadettes will make their usual change of selections, and an entire new list of motion pictures will be exhibited in the kineto graph.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

BRAINTREE.

Chester Tellier and family of Derry, N. H., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Mathews for the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Sheppard have been spending a few days at their cottage at Lakeville.

Dr. F. W. Brett and Frank A. Bates visited Leo Brett at his camp at Damariscotta, Maine, this week.

Miss Bernice Y. Chase of Pepperell has accepted a position with the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. as stenographer and will make her home with Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Brett.

Miss Clara Day joined her mother at Provincetown on Friday, and plans to spend the remainder of her summer vacation there.

Miss Susie Clark is planning to spend two weeks at Old Orchard beach, Maine. She will be accompanied by her friend Miss Edith Cram of Brockton.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad are making arrangements to lay a double track from South Braintree to Whitman in the fall.

Miss Marion Johnson who has lately graduated from the Stoughton high school will make her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Johnson of Crescent avenue.

The Braintree base ball club will play the Clapp Memorial team at East Weymouth today at 3:30 o'clock.

Monday afternoon the King's Daughters held a special meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. F. E. Dyer. Refreshments were served and many interesting plans were made for fall work.

The Woodsum Company under good management is doing a very creditable business. The New Haven road is to put in a side track exclusively for the Woodsum Coal Company and Mr. H. W. Borden is to build seven new coal pockets.

Corps 94, W. R. C. will hold a basket picnic Wednesday, Aug. 16, at the home of one of the members, Mrs. Lizzie Beale of Holbrook. Cars leave So. Braintree square at 9.50. If stormy the picnic will be held the following day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wetherell of Dearing avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Bradford of South Braintree went to New Bedford and Fairhaven Sunday and while at Fairhaven they visited the beautiful Unitarian church the gift of Mr. Rogers of Standard oil fame.

Mrs. John F. Hunt, organist at All Souls church, played the organ at the evening service of the Pilgrim church at Dorchester on Sunday. It is a larger and more powerful organ than at All Souls and the people were much pleased with Mrs. Hunt's playing.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jennings of Washington street, accompanied by several friends, enjoyed the Blue hill observations this week.

Mrs. M. Wales of Washington street observed her seventy-sixth birthday Thursday by taking a trip to Nantasket beach.

A lawn social will be held on the lawn of the Methodist church next Thursday evening, Aug. 15. Refreshments will be served.

Charles H. Brooks of Bowditch street is entertaining his neighbors with a new Columbia graphophone which he has recently purchased.

Little Lester Taylor is endeavoring to assist his widowed mother in maintaining her little family by dispensing ice cold lemonade from a little stand near Walsh's harness store. Master Taylor is fourteen years of age, but has been crippled almost ten years, being obliged to go with crutches, besides wearing a steel frame for the support of his body, until about a month ago. Therefore his effort seems more praiseworthy, as he strives to add his little mite to the family funds.

Mrs. G. F. Hussey received the sad intelligence Wednesday of the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Simeon Dyke of Wilmington, Maine.

When the flag-staff on the Jonas Perkins school was lowered to be painted it was found to be decayed to such an extent that it was condemned. The building looks very nice in its new coat of paint.

All services at the Union Congregational church, with the exception of the Christian Endeavor service, have been discontinued for the month of August. The Christian Endeavor services are held as usual every Sunday evening at six o'clock.

Mrs. Susan French Stevens who died at her home in East Weymouth last Sunday aged 86 years will be remembered by many of the older residents. Fifty years ago Mrs. Stevens was one of the leading vocalists of this vicinity.

Mrs. Lulu Rosengoeen, wife of Harry I. Phinney passed away at her home on Oak street, Friday morning at 9 o'clock, after an illness of only a few hours. Drs. Bullock and Tinkham were in attendance, but medical skill was of little avail. Mr. Phinney has been located at the railroad station here for a few years and brought Mrs. Phinney here a bride last October, where they established a snug little home on Oak street. The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved young husband in his trouble. The body was taken to Maine today.

Harry Blanchard of Washington street starts this week with a party of friends for a cruise along the coast.

Mrs. J. Ward Childs and her son, Mr. Richard Childs who are here for a short vacation entertained a few of their friends by a trip down the harbor Monday afternoon.

Charles W. Matthews has quite a curiosity in the shape of a newly arrived calf. The animal is perfect but very diminutive, weighing only 26 lbs. 2oz. and looks like a midget beside one of ordinary size.

—Popular excursion to Newport, by special train on Wednesday, August 16th. Only $1.00 for the round trip from Quincy, Braintree, Brockton and intermediate stations, with a similar reduction from stations to Middleboro inclusive. po-1-15.

Furniture Reupholstered and Repaired.

We can all look backward, but how few of us look into the future.

It's the thoughtful house-keeper that has worn out furniture looked after in the summer months.

During vacation time is the best time to spare your furniture for then some members of the family are away and at other times you keep the piazza busy.

It isn't as convenient when early fall sets in to spare your furniture.

Yes, the thoughtful house-keeper is having her furniture upholstered and repaired, mattresses made over and such work done now.

We have competent men to attend to this work for you at prices that are fair to pay.

EVANS THERE

Saw Grand Reception to President Roosevelt.

Given by Miners at Wilkesbarre.

Tells of a Visit He Made into a Coal Mine.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 12, 1905.

Dear Editor:

I have been in these coal regions a few days, and probably your readers would like to hear from me. I have been over a great deal of the Wyoming and other valleys. I have walked miles (hundreds of feet) under the earth's surface.

But what I want to tell you about first is the tremendous and glorious reception given to President Roosevelt in Wilkesbarre last Thursday, when attending the Miner's and Temperance convention at Wilkesbarre.

This city was crowded. It is estimated that over 200,000 outsiders came from all the coal regions and in fact from all over the state of Pennsylvania. Every one was trying to beat the other in honoring the man that they all claim settled their trouble in 1902. Everybody waived their hats or handkerchiefs and many got so wild that they jumped and danced, so enthusiastic were they. Boys hurraed and women threw kisses to him, and the President graciously bowed continually. When the carriages stopped before the grand stand there was a wild demonstration.

The street verily rang with cheers, and it was some time before the noise subsided in order to give the speaker an opportunity to talk.

Father Curran said that this was the first time that a President of the United States had formally visited this city. But Wilkesbarre could well afford to have waited a hundred years for the visit of a President such as we have with us today, for of him more than any other citizen since the days of the great Washington can it be truly said that he is "First in Peace, first in war and the very first in the hearts of his country men." And really you would believe him if you could see the multitude of miners shout themselves hoarse in honor of him.

I would like to give you some of the addresses of Cardinal Gibbons, Father Curran, John Mitchell. The Mayor and President Roosevelt and others spoke eloquently.

I shall never in the future burn a lump of coal without thinking of the terrible place and the hardship of the poor miners who go down into the depths of the earth, and there every day on hands and knees dig that very coal. I crept with two miners, with lamps in their caps, for many miles and actually saw where they work, and when anyone will say that 8 hours a day is too short for them, I would ask them to try it for one hour.

I will tell you lots about it in another letter. John Evans.

TAX RATES GROW.

Only One Smaller Than Ten Years Ago.

Of the 36 cities and towns about Boston, 20 have a tax rate of $18 or more per $1000. With three exceptions, all are larger than last year and with one exception all are much larger than ten years ago. Quincy makes a better showing than many of the cities, as will be seen by the tax rates which follow :

John R. Anderson Day.

John R. Anderson of Wollaston, assistant manager of the Floating Hospital, has been honored by Mrs. George P. Carter of Arlington, a good friend for many years of the hospital and a regular contributor to its maintenance. She has paid for a day on the boat, selecting today, Aug. 14, which she has named the "John R. Anderson Day." Mrs. Carter who is just now at the Profile house in the White Mountains, is an elderly woman and in the peaceful contentment of her fourscore years or so she never forgets the great suffering among babies in the city, just beginning the struggle for life amid conditions of privation, illness and the surroundings of poverty. Mr. Anderson who is a Scotchman speaks of Mrs. Carter as "one of the dearest bodies I ever have met since coming to America." There is on the boat in the permanent ward a cot named in memory of the late Nellie M. (Carter) Clark, the daughter of Mrs Carter. Since her death, Mr. Clark who lives in Hong Kong, China, annually remembers the hospital's needs with a generous contribution.

Resolutions

ON THE DEATH OF THE FIREMEN WHO LOST THEIR LIVES JULY 4, 1905,

Resolved,—As it has pleased the Great and Merciful Creator to remove from our midst two beloved Firemen, we desire to express our appreciation for them in life and our deep regret at their death.

Resolved,—That we, the members of the Central Labor Union of Quincy and vicinity, do hereby sincerely express our heartfelt sympathy to their sorrowing families and relatives, trusting that the Merciful God may give them strength to bear with patience and humility their sad bereavement; therefore be it

Resolved,—That as a token of respect to our deceased Firemen, a copy of these Resolutions be forwarded to the bereaved families of our fallen Brothers, a copy forwarded to the Chief of the Fire Department, and the same be published in the Quincy Ledger.

WILLIAM J. WALSH,
JOHN J. CONNORS,
GEORGE H. SMITH,
Committee on Resolutions.

Successful Smoke Consumer.

A German firm has patented a system for consuming smoke and preventing the wasting of coal which has been tested at the experimental station of the Bavarian "Revisions Verein" in Munich, where it was found that 72 per cent of the combustible value of soft coal from the Saar district can be utilized when this smoke consumer is used. The director of a rope and cable factory at Frankfort, Germany, where the system has been in use for some time, reports a minimal development of smoke only when fires are started or replenished; at other times no smoke is visible and the saving of coal amounts to more than 20 per cent.

CURBING OUT

Teams Squeeze Through Crescent Street.

Indignation Over the Fence.

Metropolitan Park Commissioners Criticised.

Many have viewed the new fence which obstructs travel on Crescent street, but none seem to approve of the proposed bend in the street, which will sometime enter the Furnace Brook parkway.

Many express doubt whether the Metropolitan Park Commission have a right to give away the public streets of the city as they have done in this case, and is also proposed opposite the Willard school.

Inasmuch as Dr. Ash has a deed for the land he has fenced in, the people generally admit that he had a legal right to it, but they are surprised that he should have built a fence, particularly at this time.

It is said the Metropolitan Commission are very anxious that Dr. Ash shall move his stable, as it now abuts the street, and one of the rules of the commission forbids the erection of a building within twenty feet of the parkway.

Dr. Ash wanted to be reimbursed for the cost of moving but it is said the commission thought the gift of 1456 square feet of land in exchange for about 350 was very generous on their part.

Some say the object of Dr. Ash in fencing in the street was to hurry along the construction of the boulevard, but it is doubtful if this will have any effect. The fence will simply obstruct travel and discommode his neighbors and others who have used Crescent street.

When the fence was erected on Friday it came so close to the curbing on the opposite side of the street that teams could not pass. On Saturday agents of the Metropolitan Park Commission entered upon Crescent street and removed about 100 feet of curbing, so that now, by using the sidewalk teams can squeeze through.

H. F. Doble when interviewed thought that the city should immediately secure possession of the street that has been fenced in. If necessary by purchase. Considered it an unusual proceeding to fence in a public street which had been used by the public sixty years.

There is one way of looking at it which will be a benefit to the residential abutters on Crescent street, because Crescent street having no outlet directly onto Copeland street will be closed to heavy travel, as such teams will be forbidden to pass along any part of the parkway.

Late this morning Commissioner Burke was notified by telephone that the Metropolitan Park Commission would attend to the Crescent obstruction.

The Commission soon had men at work removing more curbing near the residence of Thomas J. Lamb, and it is said they will connect Crescent street with the parkway and open both up for travel at this point.

ALL IS QUIET NOW.

Graphophone Will Not Be Played Pending Hearing.

The graphophone case of Clare vs. Allen was put over till Aug. 25 for hearing by Judge Lawton in the equity session of the Superior Court. Meantime there will be no music from the machine.

The matter came up on an order for notice for Mrs. Rose Allen, of Edison street, Quincy, to show cause why she should not be restrained from operating the graphophone in her house.

Counsel for the parties, stipulated that the operation of the machine would cease immediately, pending the hearing.

—King Edward receives daily no fewer than 3000 newspapers and 1000 letters, while the Czar and the German Emperor receive each from 600 to 700 letters and appeals. The King of Italy is troubled by about 500 and Queen Wilhelmina from 100 to 150. All these, however, are distanced by the Pope, who holds first place with from 22,000 to 23,000 letters every day.

RUNAWAY COUPLE.

Groom from Whitman and Bride from Hanover Located Here.

George H. Mann, aged 40 years, and Miss Etta Whitmarsh, aged 19, who eloped from Hanover on Monday last; were married in Quincy on Thursday by Rev. William J. Heath of Wollaston.

They were located on Hancock street by Officer Phillips on Wednesday and the parents of Miss Whitmarsh notified. Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Whitmarsh came to town, and accompanied by Inspector McKay surprised the couple.

They were told of the marriage, and Mrs. Mann said she would not return without her husband. Finally the parents agreed to this, and all started off happily for North Hanover.

Mr. Mann was a former resident of Wollaston. He went to Hanover several months ago, after being injured in a street railway accident here. He made his home at the Whitmarsh house and soon fell in love with Etta, which evidently was not pleasing to her parents.

THE PERCENTAGES.

Quincy Yachts are at Top in the Association.

The Marvel by her fine work in the Marblehead series last week in a large class has taken first place in percentages for the Y. R. A. M. championship of Class D for Cape cats. Her percentage of 91 plus is the best of all the classes.

The Bat, owned by ex-Mayor C. F. Adams, has the best percentage in Class I, leading the Bonitwo and the Hayseed.

In class E, the Rube leads the Tyro, and the best boats in classes T and X are the Vera II and Barbara.

The standing in Class D. follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Marvel, I. M. Whittemore | 640.9 | 91.5 |
| Josephine, F. H. Smith | 593.9 | 84.8 |

Death of Former Resident.

Major Henry A. Snow, formerly of Wollaston, died at Marblehead on Sunday.

Major Snow was married March 19, 1840, by Rev. Chandler Robbins, pastor of the North End Unitarian church. His wife was Miss Sarah Augusta Keith, whose family resided on Richmond street. At the celebration of their 63d wedding anniversary, at 84 Faxon road, Norfolk Downs, Quincy, Major and Mrs. Snow were greeted by two surviving children and 11 grandchildren, besides a host of friends.

Mrs. Snow died June 25 1903, at the age of 83, at Clifton Heights. Since her death he had made his home with his daughter in Waltham, spending the summer months at Clifton Heights.

Christened with Water.

While Gov. Hoch carried out his plan and the Kansas was christened with sparkling water instead of bubbling champagne, the fluid was dashed from a magnificent flask representing a champagne bottle. So the good Governor flattered himself that he had shrewly satisfied all parties. The Kansas stripe of politician is queer.—Herald.

Funeral of W. H. Glennon.

The funeral of William H. Glennon on Saturday was attended by many relatives and friends. Solemn mass was celebrated by Rev. A. F. Roche, the pastor of St. Mary's church and the burial was in the cemetery nearby. The bearers were Thomas F. Elcock, J. Leonard Ferguson, Cornelius Collins, Philip Garrity and Matthew Bryant.

Eclipse This Evening.

You will have to sit up until about midnight to see the partial eclipse of the moon tonight. However, it will begin at 9.39. The middle of the eclipse will be at 10.41, and the end at 11.43.

—A remarkable swimming feat was accomplished on Saturday in Dorchester bay, when little Rose Pitonof, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Pitonof of 337 Freeport street, swam over a mile in the phenomenal time of 33 minutes.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ But I say to you that the glitter and the glamour of the vast fortunes which in the last few years have been appropriated (and I use the word advisibility) by our so-call "captain of industry," the spectacle of men to whom great homage is paid, bribing judge and jury; examples of reckless extravagance; the growing tendency to regard a dollar merely as a reward of sucessful speculation, a prize falling from the hand of chance rather than as the honest standard of fitting recompense for faithful work performed; the flaunting in the public eye of the fallacious creed that it is cash, and not character, which gives true zest and joy to living—these things, I say, stand as a greater menace to our liberty, stand as a greater danger to our government, than all the anarchists or socialists that ever drew the breath of life.—Judge George D. Alden at reunion of Alden Kindred.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average bald-headed man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.

RULE OF SECRECY

Gossip Regarding Its Adoption by Peace Envoys

THE JAPANESE VERSION

Secrecy Agreed to as a Condition Precedent to the Conference--Witte Disclaims Knowledge of It and Says He Courts Publicity of the Proceedings

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 14.—The Japanese version of the origin and history of the decision of the plenipotentiaries to observe the strictest secrecy regarding the proceedings of the peace conference differs matrially from the Russian. From an authoritative Japanese source it is stated that secrecy was one of the conditions preliminarily arranged between the representatives of the two countries at Washington before the plenipotentiaries arrived in this country.

One of the chief reasons advanced by Count Cassini for not deciding to have the conference held in Washington was that public sentiment in America was hostile to the Russians and that the proceedings could not be kept out of the press. Therefore he insisted, if the conference was to be held in the United States, it was essential that the most rigid secrecy be observed. The matter was the subject of an exchange of views between Messrs. Cassini and Takahira, conducted through a medium which is not disclosed, as a result of which secrecy was agreed upon as a condition precedent to the conference.

"Moreover," said this Japanese authority, "all international precedent and usage favored the rule of secrecy. It would be manifestly improper for a great international issue to be tried in the newspapers day by day and hour by hour. Publicity would necessarily hamper and embarrass the negotiations. In the peace conference at Paris following your Spanish-American war that rule obtained and it was not until some time after the conference adjourned that the proceedings became public.

"But in view of the world-wide interest in the negotiations and in the known "enterprise" of American journalism Cassini and Takahira decided that it would be proper to make to the press at such times as were deemed advisable brief formal statements agreed to by both sides. All other statements published were to be considered unauthenticated. It was to secure the possibility of secrecy that the United States placed at the disposal of the plenipotentiaries the building upon a government reservation where to public entrance could be closed.

"It would be rather remarkable," said the Japanese, "if Witte had not been apprised before his arrival at Portsmouth of this preliminary agreement as to secrecy entered into upon the particular suggestion of Cassini. At any rate when the question was raised by our plenipotentiaries at the first session of the conference be assented and has not since protested."

Mr. Witte, however, still insists that he courts on behalf of the Russians the widest publicity of the proceedings. He said in response to the Japanese statements:

"I am not acquainted with the understandings which may have taken place before I was appointed plenipotentiary for the peace negotiations. What I said and what I repeat is that the initiative of keeping the deliberations of the conference secret was taken at the first meeting by the Japanese plenipotentiaries. It is true that the Russian plenipotentiaries made no opposition to it because the Russians did not come to America to defend the rights of the press. There are so many differences on serious questions between Russia and Japan that we could not undertake to add more or less important affairs. What I wish to have clear is that, if the Japanese have nothing to the contrary, I am ready at any moment to publish the full text of all the documents concerning the peace conference as well as the record of the proceedings."

Daniel Wilberforce Dead

Huntington, W. Va., Aug. 14.—A letter from Missionary Stults, at Freetown, West Africa, announces the death there of Daniel F. ## PANIC IN CHURCH

Italians Thought That Profane Stranger Was an Anarchist

Boston, Aug. 14.—Shortly after the services began in the Sacred Heart Italian church last night a man was seen to enter the church and stand in the rear aisle, calmly smoking a cigar. Then he walked towards the altar. The ushers of the church asked him to go out, but he refused, heaping curses yards long at them. Someone seated on the end of a pew said he was an anarchist and in an instant the church was in an uproar.

Everyone rushed at the man, who proved to be Isaac Williams of Canada. "Kill him!" "Tear him to pieces!" yelled the frantic parishioners, who every moment expected to hear the report of a bomb because of a threat made to blow up the church. The shrieks of the crowd could be heard for blocks, and they dragged Williams through North square.

Attracted by the cries, Officer Leonard rushed to the scene and, after fighting his way through the terrified mob, reached the side of Williams. Officer Cavagnaro arrived by this time and aided Leonard to get Williams to the patrol box.

Followed by thousands of yelling people, excited by the anarchist stories of late, the patrol wagon proceeded to the station house, where Williams was charged with drunkenness.

Schooner's Severe Voyage

Boston, Aug. 14.—After a voyage of four weeks, the three-masted schooner Sirdar reached this port from Bonaire D. W. I., with a cargo of salt. The first night out she encountered a heavy sea and bad trade winds. During the gale the mizzen and mainmasts were carried away, while the great strain sprung the butts and the vessel started to sink, taking seven inches of water an hour. It was only by constant work at the pumps that the vessel was enabled to make port.

Heavy Storm Along Saco Valley

Portland, Me., Aug. 14.—Reports from the Saco valley show that a large section was visited by what is pronounced the worst tempest ever known there. The country affected extends from Bar Mills to Old Orchard, and from the first named town to West Buxton. Several farm buildings were struck by lightning and trees were uprooted, orchards being extensively damaged. No case of personal injury has so far been reported.

Lemons Scarce and High

Boston, Aug. 14.—Good lemons cannot be purchased in Boston today for less than 35 cents a dozen, and the average price is 40 cents. A lemon famine is among the possibilities of the near future. Ordinarily they can be had for from 15 to 20 cents a dozen. Poor crops in California and Sicily account for the unusually high prices. Several of the fruit dealers have handled no lemons for some time.

Man and Woman Drowned

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 14.—Two drowning accidents occurred on the Annisquam river, the victims being George A. Abernethy, aged 38, and Annie Munroe, aged 19. Abernethy, while in bathing, was overtaken with cramps and immediately sank. Miss Munroe, with friends, was boating. The occupants of the boat attempted to change seats and the boat was upset.

Christian Alliance Collection

Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 14.—The collection taken yesterday for foreign missions at the Christian Alliance camp meeting amounted to $45,264. Fourteen pledges ranged from $1000 to $5000, and 72 of the total of 424 pledges covered all but $5000 of the total collection. Ten young women responded to the call for foreign missionary volunteers.

To Instruct In Mine Planting

Newport, R. I., Aug. 14.—The United States army torpedo planter George E. Armistead has arrived here. She is in command of Captain England of the artillery corps, and has a crew of artillerymen as torpedomen, in addition to her regular crew of sailors. She will receive detachments from the harbor forts for instruction in planting mines.

Man and Wife Drowned

South Glastonbury, Conn., Aug. 14.—While trying to save his wife from drowning last night in the Connecticut river, Columbo Serrias became a victim of a death grip and before he could break his wife's hold they both sank to the bottom. A child of the Serries was on the bank when his parents drowned.

Aged Woman Strangled Herself

Meriden, Conn., Aug. 14.—Mrs. Mercy Marvin, 80 years old, committed suicide by hanging herself with a shawl to the lower part of the bannister of the front hall staircase. By dropping into a sitting position she strangled herself to death. Poor health was the cause.

Hailstorm Injured Crops

Houlton, Me., Aug. 14.—Reports from the farming district in this vicinity show that the grain and potato crops and garden truck were damaged considerably by a hailstorm Saturday night. Many of the hailstones were two inches in circumference.

Old Home Week In Maine

Portland, Me., Aug. 14.—Old Home Week in Maine is being observed this week. There are no official state or city programs of celebrations, but all over the state there are to be numerous reunions in recognition of the event.

Hotel Man Deeply In Debt

Portland, Me., Aug. 14.—Amos W. Knight, proprietor of the White Oak Springs hotel at Poland, Me., has filed a petition in bankruptcy. The liabilities are placed at $193,036. Knight has no assets.

CHILDREN AND MEAT.

A Combination That Does Not Produce the Best Results.

I am asked what to do with a small child who wants to eat meat all the time. I certainly would forbid the little daughter meat for awhile and later allow her but a small portion once a day only.

If you allow a child meat its appetite for the foods best suited to a growing child becomes less, and it may soon turn away from milk, cereals, vegetables, etc.

If a mother realized that the stimulating effect of meat produced in the child a distaste for all less satisfying foods she would soon understand that her child was forming a dangerous habit.

Dr. Joseph E. Winter tells us that meat by its stimulating effect produces a habit as surely as does alcohol, tea or coffee. He further tells us that the foods which the meat eating child eschews contain in large proportions certain mineral constituents which are essential to bodily nutrition and health and without which the processes of fresh growth and development are stunted, says Mary W. Butler in the Philadelphia Press. Dr. Winter declares there are more so called nervousness, anaemia, rheumatism, valvular diseases of the heart and chorea at the present time in children from an excess of meat and its preparations in the diet than from all other causes combined.

The nervous system of a child is a most delicate one, and to its overstimulation, through the free indulgence in the meat habit, are due many future ills. Would we have a stronger race? Do we wish to spare our little ones many unnecessary aches and pains? Then let us look to their eating and daily habits while they are young. The little girl or boy of ten or twelve whose lunch consists of a few pieces of beefsteak and a cup of strong coffee is not to be envied. Oh, could but the mother see into the future, what miseries her guarding care, watchful eye and quiet "no" might prove the means of sparing the little one!

HOMEMADE COFFER.

Properly Decorated, It Makes a Handsome Piece of Furniture.

The taste for old furniture is bringing coffers again into favor. Two chests at a recent art exhibition were for staterooms in private yachts, and they were both carved and tinted. The panels of one were adorned with shells, seaweeds and mermaidens, finished in brown, green and a harmonious shade of blue. The other coffer was also adorned with marine pictures.

Any one who can make even fairly good burnt wood designs can have a handsome coffer at little cost. The wood should be of fine grain and good quality. A carpenter may be employed to put the frame together. Before the art work is applied the wood may be stained to give it the appearance of age.

The inside of the coffer may be lined with Japanese paper, silk or cretonne and should be supplied with sachet bags. These chests are a most convenient place for storing extra clothing, linen or bedclothes. If properly decorated the coffers are handsome pieces of furniture.—Caroline Wetherell in American Queen.

Get the Boy to Think.

William was a bright little fellow, but was given to "flying out" when his schemes met with any opposition or when he was required to do anything which interfered with his own plans. A wise mother had suggested to his mother in his childhood that a time for reflection was all that he needed and that that was best gained by setting him apart to think. This might not work with some children, but it never failed with William, and if you will try it with your ward now you may find that a time to think is all that he needs. If he comes to himself and sees that he has been unreasonable, it will be much better for you both than any arbitrary punishment or than any diminution of his monthly income. Decrees of that kind are apt to leave bitterness behind them, while a good, steady look at oneself usually inclines to reasonable views at the time and greater self control afterward. Explain to him that every member of a home owes something to that home and that he has a share in the duties of your home, as well as in its comforts and pleasures.—New Idea Magazine.

The Slavery of Fashion.

Henry Labouchere, the audacious editor of Truth, which is a periodical read by fashionable people, thus expresses his opinion of the fashions in dress: "The aim of dressmakers is to make money, and they find this easy, as they have to deal with silly people. Each year they alter the fashions and take care to do this in a way that the dresses of one year cannot be adapted to that of the next year. Women are the slaves of these intelligent harpies. They blindly accept the fashions ordained by them and seem to be entirely ignorant of the fact that what may suit one woman does not suit all. Dressmakers have very little taste. Even if they have it is warped by their subordinating it to finance. Occasionally the fashion which they inaugurate is not absolutely ugly, but it is always overlooked in order that a large price may be charged for the costume."

REAL STRUGGLE IS POSTPONED

Pessimistic View of the Peace Negotiations

GREAT BARRIERS STAND

Crucial Test Will Come on the Question of Indemnity and Cession of Sakhalin--Recognition of Japan's "Preponderating Influence" Over Korea Already Under Discussion--Russians Raise Spectre of the "Yellow Peril" and Give a Hint to the United States

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 14.—No progress was made with the peace negotiations over Sunday. The session of the plenipotentiaries which was to have been held yesterday afternoon was postponed by mutual agreement out of deference to the fact that it was the holy Sabbath, which is universally observed in Russia as a day of rest. The Russians had not been anxious for a session and yesterday morning the Japanese took the initiative and, through the intermediary of Mr. Peirce, it was decided to postpone the sitting until today.

The situation, therefore, remains the same. It would perhaps not be too much to say that the general feeling is more hopeful, in spite of open predictions made by personages connected with both sides of the negotiations that before next Sunday the plenipotentiaries will reach a point where a rupture will become inevitable. This pessimistic view is based upon the fact that so far as known the two big barriers to an agreement—indemnity and Sakhalin—remain as high and insurmountable as ever.

The real struggle is only postponed. The main problems are no nearer solution than when the plenipotentiaries met. The principal reason for optimism lies in the fact that, confronted with the absolute refusal of the Russian reply to admit the discussion of either indemnity or the cession of the island of Sakhalin, the Japanese proposed to take up the consideration of the conditions seriatim. From this it is argued that the Japanese are prepared to yield or have reason to believe a way will be found to overcome the objections of their adversaries when the crucial test comes.

An intimation comes from a high source that very strong outside influences are at work on both sides and that for the moment the effort is to gain time. The plan of having Russia practically satisfy Japan's claim of reimbursement for the cost of the war by the purchase of the Japanese military evacuation of Sakhalin continues to be advanced. Such a solution would permit Russia to say she had paid neither indemnity nor ceded a foot of territory.

The debate in Saturday's conference over the first condition—the recognition of Japan's "preponderating influence" over Korea, involving her right to control the administration of the hermit kingdom, use the littoral for strategic purposes, etc—was of a remarkable character. Indeed, the position taken by Mr. Witte reveals plainly the Russian tactics. They propose to raise before the world the spectre of the "yellow peril."

Russia claims that Japan's present purpose is to get a foothold on the Asiatic continent from which to extend her influence and dominion. Mr. Witte declared that the words "preponderating influence" did not adequately describe what Japan proposed to do and he insisted that the language used should show Japan's true purpose, which he contended is to make a Japanese province of Korea. His argument might be summarized as follows:

"Russia has no objection to Japan taking Korea, but you must avow it plainly. If it is to be taken it should be taken officially, so that the world will understand. You propose to take possession of the persons of the entire administration of the kingdom, from the emperor down to the smallest official. Korea will have no representatives abroad who can explain the situation from the standpoint of the Koreans. All of which means Korea is to belong to Japan.

"So be it. Russia will not object, but Japan should avow a purpose which is against the interests of Europe and America—especially against the interests of the United States. China, and even your ally, England. If this is satisfactory to Europe and America, Russia raises no protest. You propose to destroy every vestige of the sovereignty of the Emperor of Korea, but you desire to employ a formula which will conceal your true purpose. The country which will suffer most is America, which will understand it in about 10 years, when it is too late."

To this argument Baron Komura dissented most vigorously, although in the most friendly manner, contending that Japan only sought to secure for herself in Korea the commercial-industrial position to which she was entitled to aid in its civilization and development, and to protect the kingdom from administrative anarchy.

The fact that the Korea question should be the first to be discussed in the peace conference is strangely fitting, as it was over Korea that the long struggle between Russia and Japan, which culminated in the present bloody war, began. After Japan was forced out of Port Arthur and Liaotung in 1895 each became suspicions of the extensions of the other's influence in Korea and first in the Lobanoff agreement of 1896 and later in the Nissi-Rosen agreement of 1898 they entered upon mutual obligations. In the former Japan secured the right to protect the imperial family and to build the Seoul-Fusan telegraph, and Russia to establish a telegraph line from Seoul to the Russian frontier. In the latter, while there were mutual obligations to protect the independence and territorial integrity of Korea, Japan's industrial and commercial position in Korea was recognized.

Ever since Korea has been the bone of contention Japan has always been suspicious of Russian encroachment. At last the continued occupation of Manchuria by Russia and the Yalu timber concession induced Japan to try to come to a definite settlement with Russia in the negotiations preceding the war. They proved futile and in the Japanese imperial rescript declaring war the Emperor of Japan said:

"The safety of Korea is in danger. The interests of the empire are menaced."

Now by a sort of inexorable logic the fate of Korea comes up at Portsmouth for final settlement.

St Petersburg Is Hopeful

St. Petersburg, Aug. 14.—The Russian capital is in the dark regarding the meaning of the prolonged conference at Portsmouth on Saturday. The purport of Witte's messages received here has been imparted only to a few officials. Nevertheless, in high quarters there is a certain feeling of hopefulness noticeable. The only comment vouchsafed officially is that Witte's answer seemed not altogether unacceptable to the Japanese, else the conference would have ended there and then.

Pessimistic View In London

London, Aug. 14.—London newspapers carry lengthy dispatches from Portsmouth. The tone of these dispatches in general is pessimistic, although it is admitted that the mere fact that the plenipotentiaries are continuing to talk is indicative of the possibility that some arrangement finally will be reached whereby the continuance of the war may be avoided.

Situation at the Front

London, Aug. 14.—The Daily Telegraph's Japanese correspondent at Moji, Japan, cables that General Linevitch is constantly changing his dispositions in order to deceive Field Marshal Oyama. The correspondent adds: New arrivals are disinclined to fight and say they will surrender at the first opportunity. The Japanese who recently occupied Kamchatka are now patrolling that coast and the Sea of Okhotsk.

Trouble at Korean Capital

London, Aug. 14.—A dispatch to The Times from Tokio says that there has been considerable ferment at Seoul, the merchants claiming that they have been embarrassed by Japanese financial reforms. The Japanese gendarmes, says the dispatch, were compelled to use force to disperse a mob which was threatening the home office.

Japs Raised Seventy Vessels

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 14.—Steamer Plelades brings news that 76 sunken vessels in Port Arthur harbor have been raised by the Japanese. The battleships Peresviet, Poltava, Retvizan, Pobleda and Pallada and the cruiser Bayan are included in the list of those which will be saved.

Sentence of Mutineers

Sebastopol, Aug. 14.—As a result of the trial of 53 mutineers of the training ship Pruth, 15 have been acquitted, four condemned to be shot, three sentenced to penal servitude for life and the remainder to various shorter terms. The court recommended that two of the death sentences be commuted to penal servitude for life and the two others to 10 years' imprisonment.

Twelve Killed In Train Wreck

Cleveland, Aug. 14.—A fast passenger train collided with a freight train at Kishman, resulting in the death of 12 persons, while at least 25 others were injured, some of whom will probably die. The wreck, according to the officials of the company, was due to a misunderstanding of orders, or neglect to obey them, on the part of the crew of the freight train.

British Admiration For France

Portsmouth, Eng., Aug. 14.—The last day ashore of the French naval visitors was marked by scenes of enthusiasm unprecedented during a week in which the English simply smothered their guests with attention, from able seaman to admiral. Enormous crowds of excursionists thronged the town, harbor and navy yard.

Train Smashup In Kansas

Kingsley, Kas., Aug. 14.—The second section of a passenger train crashed into the rear end of a freight train at Lewis. The fireman and a yardman were killed. The engineer was seriously injured and the passengers badly shaken up.

Death Penalty For Boycotters

London, Aug. 14.—The Daily Telegraph's Shanghai correspondent says the governor of Newchwang has warned boycotters of American goods that their action is punishable by death.

Fishermen's Narrow Escape

Nahant, Mass., Aug. 14.—Five men who were fishing off Egg rock had a narrow escape from drowning when a sudden squall overturned their dory. The men are Charles Johnson, Charles and John Erickson, Carl A. Swanson and Michael Mellen. For three quarters of an hour the men clung to the bottom of the overturned dory. When almost exhausted they were sighted by George Lyons, keeper of Egg rock light. Before he could reach them Mellen had dropped into the water unconscious, and was dragged into Lyons' launch in the nick of time.

May Bring Up Discussion

St. Johns, Aug. 14.—Three Gloucester fishing vessels, with appliances for taking their own bait, have entered western harbors, where American fishermen enjoy fishery rights under the treaty of 1818, and have declared their intention to bait themselves. The customs collectors have telegraphed the government for instructions whether to allow this. The ministry is now considering the matter, which assumes a grave aspect as bearing upon the future of fishery relations of Newfoundland and the United States.

Reminder of Olden Days

Londonderry, Ire., Aug. 14.—Fierce orange riots, the worst in many years, occurred here yesterday on the occasion of the celebration of the relief of Derry (which was unsuccessfully besieged in 1689 by James II). A great number of persons were injured. Twenty houses were wrecked by Orangemen, who also attacked Nationalists and stoned the police. A recrudescence of rioting throughout the country is feared.

Detective Lands Three Train Robbers

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 14.—In a running fight, during which a number of shots were exchanged, Special Agent Cumming of the Northern Pacific railway captured three men who had attempted to hold up a passenger train near Sumner. The men threatened to shoot any person who might offer resistance. The train was stopped and Cumming chased and captured the men.

Boss Bakers Block Settlement

New York, Aug. 14.—Although a tentative agreement was reached between the striking bakers and the employers which promised to speedily end the strike, the boss bakers have decided to break off all negotiations and to resist the demands of the strikers to the utmost. All the Hebrew bakeshops on the East Side were closed yesterday and there was no disorder.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Preston Shirley, one of the editorial writers of the Boston Advertiser, died of typhoid fever. Shirley was born at Andover, N. H., in 1875.

Bishop A. C. Smith of the Southern Methodist church is suffering with tuberculosis and there is little hope for his recovery.

The Massachusetts Prohibition state committee has issued a call for the annual state convention, which will be held at Boston on Sept. 14.

Montgomery Dudley, 15 years old, was instantly killed at Pembroke, Me., by a shotgun. The weapon was discharged accidentally while he was handling it with the muzzle toward him.

She "Slopped Over"

[Original.]

"Nick," said Cinderella as they sat hand in hand in the moonlight on the farm porch, "every one is talkin' about Mr. Ketchem that's made such a sensation everywheres. He's a-comin' to preach in the brick church at Four Corners. They say he's powerful eloquent."

"Do they?"

"Yes. And when he preaches people git so affected they weep."

Nick yawned.

"I'm goin' to the Corners to hear him."

"What d' y' want to hear him for?"

"What for? Why, jist think o' bein' under the spell o' the eloquence of a man that has moved thousands to tears. How proud his wife must be of him, if he has one. She must worship the ground he walks on."

"I'm thinkin' she'd better worship God."

Cinderella looked offended. She withdrew her hand and said coldly:

"Sometimes I think I'm makin' a mistake in marryin' a farmer. I'd be jist in my element as a minister's wife. I should so love to see my husban' movin' people to throw their burdens on the Lord."

"If he didn't git more pay than most of 'em he'd be throwin' his burden on you."

This practical view of the case was repugnant to Cinderella. She turned her back on her lover.

"I don't reckon, Cindy," he went on, "you'd make much of a wife for a minister. My idee of a minister's wife is one that kin keep the wimmen of the congregation from pesterin' her husband; a woman full of axle grease that the hull church kin keep turnin' on. It's jist like politics. There's allus them that wants to keep the minister in and them as wants to git him out. The minister's wife should be so smooth with the 'outs' that they can't bear to do the job, and so popular with the 'ins' that they won't let 'em do it if they want to. You hain't got grease enough in y' for that."

Nick was a hard headed fellow with a good deal of horse sense, while Cindy was romantic and inclined to gush. But Cindy was a good girl, and there was every prospect that, once married, Nick could keep her from "slopping over," as he called it.

The Rev. Mr. Ketchem was duly announced to preach at the Four Corners, and Nick, in order to humor his betrothed, agreed to drive her over to hear him, it being stipulated that Nick need not go inside the church, but be at liberty to sit on the fence during service and whittle. The day was fine and the air bracing. Cindy was enraptured with the beautiful Sunday morning, which she said even without church bells didn't seem like a common week day. As the distance between her and the church lessened she grew excited at the near prospect of coming under the spell of a man who was accustomed to wring repentant tears from sinners.

"Oh, Nick," she said, "I hope I won't make a goose of myself."

"I hope you won't," said the matter of fact Nick.

"You're not sympathetic," she replied tartly.

"Not with 'sloppin' over.'"

"I don't call repentance 'sloppin' over.'"

"What y' been doin' to repent of?"

"Nothin'," she snapped.

"Well, then, what's the use of repentin'?"

"You don't understand such things. You ain't never been convicted!"

"I hain't been indicted yit."

At that moment the wagon went over a rut and something cracked. The result was that they were obliged to walk the horse the rest of the way, and when they reached the church the sermon had begun. Nick let Cindy out at the door and then drove to the shed.

Nick was joined on the fence by several acquaintances, who whittled and talked crops and stock. Through them Nick learned something pertaining to what was going on in the church that interested him. He got down off the fence and sauntered to the door. Looking in, there in one of the rear seats he saw Cindy. She was leaning forward, her eyes fairly glued to the man in the pulpit. It was evident that she was drinking in all he said. As he warmed to his subject she trembled with emotion. Nick looked over the congregation and saw that no one else was giving way to the eloquence of the preacher, which was very ordinary. We love our ideals for their transcendent qualities and our realities for their faults. Nick wished to save his beloved from making herself ridiculous. He kept an eye on her till the preacher brought his fist down on the pulpit mildly, when he saw her bury her face in her handkerchief and burst into tears. Nick slipped behind her and whispered:

"Cindy, you're barkin' up the wrong tree. That red headed young feller hain't Mr. Ketchem. He's a student from the seminary."

Cindy kept her head down and her face buried in her handkerchief, but not to hide the emotion induced by a paragon of oratory. She was hiding her chagrin at her mistake.

During the drive home Cindy made no move to converse, and Nick, respecting her feelings, kept silent. At last her head sank on his shoulder and he knew that for the future he had a curb for her whenever she proposed to "slop over."

But Nick never had any occasion to use it. Cindy had learned a lesson not to be forgotten, and from that time forward she was an adept at moderating her transports.

Lice on Poults.

Large lice, somewhat resembling ticks, sometimes attach themselves to the carunculations on the heads of the poults and annoy them so much that they do not grow well. A few applications of carbolated vaseline to the heads and necks of those so afflicted will kill these pests, and the youngsters will appear to take a new lease on life.

Never be sure that your turkeys have no lice until you have examined them carefully and repeated the search. Even then the fact that they are not found is no surety that they are not present and will not appear shortly after. It is always safe to apply preventives, and they may save a lot of expensive trouble.—H. A. Nourse.

Profit In Poultry.

A friend of ours is wont to say that the less money a man has to start poultry keeping with the better off he is, because necessity compels him to go slow, and stern necessity seems to be the only power that can induce poultrymen to let their plants grow naturally. As we compare the successful plants from small beginnings with the many failures from large beginnings and look almost in vain for a real success among the latter we think he is more than half right. It is not capital that is of most importance to the poultryman; it is knowledge of his business and experience.—Farm Poultry.

Fertility of Eggs.

Contrary to general impression, the fewer eggs a hen lays the more are they likely to be infertile, if we can judge anything from experiments carried on at the Maine station. There an attempt was made to breed downward in egg yield as well as upward. The experimenters were surprised at finding an unlooked for obstacle—namely, the infertility of the eggs from hens producing the fewest.

The Drinking Vessels.

Make it a duty to wash the drinking vessels every Monday morning. Put a strong antiseptic in the water. At this time of year one must fight all chances of disease. Put a roup cure preventive in the drinking water. Change the water at least twice a day.

THE QUINCYS

Easy Winners from the Copeland Club.

The South Quincys are Also Victorious.

Defeating the Merrymounts by a Score of 6 to 3.

In a onesided and listless game, the Quincys easily defeated the Copeland A. C. at Ward Four on Saturday by a score of 12 to 6.

As the game started rain began to fall, but let up in the third inning, and the game continued.

The Copelands opened up as though they were going to win, getting four runs in the first inning, but after that they could only get two men across the plate.

The Quincys got two runs in their half of the first, and by a great batting streak in the second got five more.

The Copelands were blanked until the sixth, when they got one run. Quincy got four in the third and one in the eighth.

After the third inning the game was never in doubt. Studley of the Hingham High school was in the box for the Copelands, and he was batted hard all through the game, while Welch's delivery was too much for the home team, they only getting six scattered hits.

In the second inning with the bases full Mullane cracked out a three bagger and later scored on a slashing hit to right by Welch.

Again in the third Mullane hit for two bases scoring Dorley and Fultz.

The features were the batting of Mullane, Rooney, Powers and Reardon; the fielding of Dunn, Powers, Rooney, Boyd and Dorley; the pitching of Welch and the catching of Fultz, their not being a Copeland player who could steal a base.

Fultz's catching has greatly aided the Quincy team, and now that he is rounding into shape he will prove a valuable man.

A VERY CAREFUL WOMAN.

Lady Eldon Could Not Abide Anything Like Extravagance.

Lord Chancellor Eldon was energetically aided in his parsimonious habits by his wife, of whom it was said that she and her daughter had but one bonnet between them. The Rev. R. H. Barham, author of "The Ingoldsby Legends," records in his diary an amusing story of Lady Eldon's penuriousness:

"June 1, 1822.—The chancellor is very fond of shooting. One morning last year his lordship, intending to enjoy a few hours' sport after a rainy night, ordered Bob, the pony, to be saddled. Lady Eldon told him he could not have it, but company being in the room, gave no reason. In a few minutes, however, the servant opened the door and announced that Bob was ready.

"Why, bless me," cried her ladyship, "you can't ride him, Lord Eldon. He has got no shoes on."

"Oh, yes, my lady," said the servant, "he was shod last week."

"Shameful!" exclaimed her ladyship. "How dared you, sir, or anybody have that pony shod without orders? John," continued she, addressing her husband, "you know you only rode him out shooting four times last year, so I had his shoes taken off and have kept them in my bureau ever since. They are as good as new, and these people have shod him again. We shall be ruined at this rate."

CATCHING A LOON.

The Way a Hunter Got One and Why He Let It Go.

Once, and only once, I caught a young northern diver, says Graham West in Recreation. It was in July in the Laurentians in a little lake far back in the forest covered hills—loons always nest on small islands in lakes, never where foxes can get at the eggs or young. The birds at first are coal black. The one I took was the size of a pigeon and it took me twenty minutes to get it. When pursued the little fellows make for the open deep water, never skulk among the weeds, and rely entirely upon their wonderful diving powers. You can only catch them when they are very young and on a perfectly calm day when you can see them the instant they come up.

I followed the bird so quickly that I was always near when it rose and by shouting and brandishing the paddle frightened it into diving before it had regained its wind. At length it could not dive more than a foot or two below the surface and then I caught it in my hand. It was savage and seasick in the canoe. The mother kept near it from first to last, swam round the canoe, calling most plaintively the while, the note being "Whe-ou-ou," quite distinct from the usual mocking laugh, "Ha-ha-ha-ha! Ha-ha-ha-ha!" I paddled the little loon about a mile and then put it overboard very gently, and the mother led it off in triumph.

Most Men Have It.

"That man who turned the corner a moment ago will probably go into No. 149," said the lazy man on the front steps.

The woman stood up to look.

"It was 147," she said.

"That is near enough," said the lazy man. "I knew he would stop some place in this part of the block."

"But how could you tell?" asked the woman.

"I could tell by the door key grab," was the reply. "Most men have it. Not one man in a hundred waits till he gets to his own door to take out his latch-key. The minute he turns into his own block he unconsciously digs into his pockets."—New York Post.

Bee Comb.

Bee comb or beeswax, the material of which the honey cells in the beehive are composed, is a wax produced by a system of chemistry carried on in the "wax pockets" which are located in the abdomen of all working bees. It is a peculiar substance and is said to be analogous to the fats of higher animals. Originally it was supposed that this wax was taken up in an almost pure state from the flowers by the bees, but recent experiments carried on by the leading botanists and chemists of the world conclusively prove that the bee is capable of elaborating his peculiar wax, although confined to a diet purely saccharine in its nature.

How He Got the Moon.

John Henry Maedler, the astronomer, whose favorite study was the moon, having learned that Frau Witte, the wife of the state councilor, owned a wonderful model of his pet luminary, spent years trying to gain possession of it. As her husband was living, he could not marry the owner of the model, so he married her daughter, and at the death of his mother-in-law the coveted moon became his.

A Lesson Wasted.

A mother was showing her dear little Joe a picture of the martyrs thrown to the lions and was talking very solemnly to him, trying to make him feel what a terrible thing it was.

"Ma," said he all at once, "oh, ma, just look at that poor little lion right behind there. He won't get any."

A Harsh Order.

On the beach near an English town a sign bearing this legend was nailed to a post:

"Notice.—Any person passing beyond this point will be drowned. By order of the magistrate."

Parried.

Young Husband—I wish I were single again. Wife—What for? You monster! Young Husband—To have the joy of marrying you again. Wife—You darling!

NORWAY'S CHOICE

Dissolution of Union With Sweden Is Favored

SHOWN BY REFERENDUM

Only One Person In Three Thousand Against the Proposition --Even Willing to Abolish Forts If Peace Depends Upon It

Christiana, Aug. 14.—The Norwegian people, in a referendum taken Sunday, pronounced in favor of the dissolution of the union with Sweden with remarkable, though not unexpected, unanimity. Of 450,000 voters, 320,000 cast ballots.

While the full result will not be known for some hours, up to midnight the returns showed that about one person in 3000 voted against the dissolution. The difference between the total number of voters and the number of votes cast is attributable to absentees, such as sailors abroad and others who are out of the country at present.

The weather was favorable and there were scenes of the greatest enthusiasm everywhere. Thousands of women who did not have the right of franchise signed petitions in the streets endorsing the dissolution. In Christiania and other cities the total population turned out, everyone wearing long streamers of the national colors and pictures of Premier Michelsen.

One of the members of the cabinet said: "The result surpasses the most sanguine expectations. The next official steps will be taken after the storthing meets on Aug. 21, when immediately the result of the plebiscite will be communicated to Sweden through the Swedish cabinet and the riksdag. The storthing will repeat the request that the riksdag declare the union dissolved. The storthing will also express a willingness to negotiate concerning the details of the dissolution. It is the earnest desire of Norway to conclude the dissolution amicably. Norway will never retract, but everything will be done to meet the wishes of Sweden in other directions. If peace depends upon abolishing the forts they will be abolished. Norway must remain a monarchy; the people do not desire a republic."

At midnight reports from 176 places showed a vote of 95,935 for and 37 against dissolution.

Boaster Devoured by Lions

Blackpool, Eng., Aug. 14.—Two lions, the property of the city, were found loose Sunday morning in the yard adjoining their cage, together with portions of the body of a workingman. The man on the previous night made the boast that he would enter the lions' cage. Evidently in an attempt to carry out this boast he opened the cage. The animals escaped and killed him, gorging themselves on his body.

Mount Whitney's Actual Height

San Francisco, Aug. 14.—Geological survey levelmen, who have been running a line of levels to the summit of Mount Whitney, have completed their work and report the true height of the mountain to be 14,502 feet. While this shows Mount Whitney to be the highest measured mountain in the United States, it makes the true height 20 feet less than the figures that have generally been accepted heretofore.

No Check to Yellow Fever

New Orleans, Aug. 14.—Following is the official yellow fever record up to 6 p. m. yesterday: New cases, 50; total cases to date, 963; deaths, 12; total deaths to date, 154; new disease centres discovered, 14; total disease centres to date, 202; cases under treatment, 343. The record of new cases is really 19 short, as that number of cases were turned in by an inspector just after the hour for closing the report.

Mysterious Woman Identified

New York, Aug. 14.—The young woman who was shot on Riverside drive Friday night and who since has been a prisoner in the prison ward at Bellevue hospital, and has refused to tell who she is or who shot her, has been identified as Delia W. Lyttel of Syracuse. The young woman left Syracuse in company with a girl named Graham, whose father is now looking for her.

Baby Slept In Dead Mother's Arms

Chicago, Aug. 14.—With her 18-months old baby peacefully sleeping in her death-rigid arms, the body of Mrs. James E. Daley was found where she had been shot to death in a saloon by her husband, a bartender. The wife had upbraided Daley for his attentions to other women. Daley said he killed his wife "because she did too much rubbering."

Foreigners Are Threatened

Shanghai, Aug. 14.—Soo Chow reports that the anti-American boycott is assuming a political character. An anti-foreign outbreak is feared. Only the northern Chinese authorities are sternly repressing the movement. Soo Chow has a population of 1,000,000 and is situated in the most populous district of China.

Auto Racer Kiser's Mishap

Cleveland, Aug. 14.—Earl Kiser, the automobile racer, who lost his left leg as the result of an accident to his machine at the Glenville race track here Saturday, is resting comfortably. It is expected that Kiser will recover, unless unforeseen complications set in.

A GOLD BRICK

How Boston Gets the Best of Us.

Uses 74 Per Cent. of the Water.

But Does Not Pay 74 Per Cent. of the Cost.

Boston uses 89 gallons out of every 119 consumed in the Metropolitan district, or over 74 per cent., but it does not pay 74 per cent. of the Metropolitan assessments for water. The Metropolitan assessments on the greater Boston cities and towns would not be so excessive if Boston paid its proper portion. It is very clearly evident that Boston is not paying the portion it should for water, and it is doubtful if it is for sewers, parks, etc.

Why should the cities and towns around Boston pay fifty per cent. of the Metropolitan water assessments, when they use but 25 per cent. of the water? Where Boston uses 89,742,500 gallons per day, the remainder of the district uses but 29,968,500.

Quincy uses 3,400,800 gallons per day which is only exceeded by Somerville and Chelsea, but none of these can be compared with Boston. The city of Cambridge is not in the district but is very anxious to get a supply.

When the Metropolitan board desire to economize on the use of water they should look to Boston alone, as that city with its big population uses 143 gallons per capita per day. The next city uses 113 per capita, and others 106 and 101, but all the others less than 100.

Should Boston save 46 gallons per capita, it would save 32,200,000 gallons per day, more than is used by the whole district outside of Boston.

Certainly the figures furnished by the Metropolitan Water Board for the month of July, made public on Saturday, afford an interesting study to the cities and towns which are helping Boston to pay for its water system.

Fate Which Overtook Engaged Couple at Crossing

TRAIN HIT AUTOMOBILE

Chaffeur and Cousin of Bride-to-Be Seriously Injured--Engineer and Fireman Jumped Before Locomotive Overturned

Bennington, Vt., Aug. 15.—Harris Lindsley of New York and Miss Elizabeth Willing of Chicago, to whom he was engaged to be married, were instantly killed, and Ambrose Cramer of Chicago, nephew of Miss Willing, and the chauffeur, Tom Adamson, were badly injured in an automobile accident at a crossing of the Rutland railroad a mile north of this town. The party were returning from Williamstown, Mass., when on crossing the track the machine was struck by a train.

Miss Willing was a daughter of Henry J. Willing, formerly of the firm of Marshal Field & Co. of Chicago. Willing died about three years ago. Lindsley was deputy police commissioner of New York.

Miss Willing had been spending the summer with her aunts, the Misses Skinner of Chicago, at a hotel in Manchester, Vt. She and Lindsley went to Williamstown with young Cramer and were making a quick run on their return when they reached Bennington.

The road leading to the north in the direction of Manchester runs up a steep incline to the tracks of the Rutland railroad. The track approaches the crossing on a curve and through a cut, which makes it almost impossible for anyone standing on the crossing to see an approaching train.

The automobile was just passing over the crossing when the train from the north, due in Bennington at 4:15 p. m., struck the machine near the rear. Mr. Lindsley and Miss Willing were directly in line with the tender of the engine, which was running backward, and were thrown with terrific force fully 50 feet in the air, and landed on their heads on some rocks beside the track. Their heads were crushed and their bodies badly bruised. Young Cramer and the chauffeur were also thrown out of the automobile, but not for any great distance, and were picked up stunned and bruised. It is believed that both will recover.

The machine was also tossed for some feet and in overturning caught fire and was completely destroyed. The collision between the train and the automobile derailed the train, but fortunately none of the cars were overturned, although all the wheels left the tracks.

The train consisted of the engine and two cars, and had met the northbound flyer at the North Bennington station. As usual, the engine was running backward from North Bennington to Bennington. The engineer was William Sibley and the fireman William Mangan. Both of them jumped when they felt the engine leave the rails, and as they did so the engine was overturned, after ripping up the track for nearly 100 feet. There were about 15 passengers on the train, and all escaped with a slight shaking up. Both Sibley and Magnam stated after the accident that they did not see the automobile until the engine was almost onto it.

The crossing is unprotected by either a flagman or a gate, and several persons have been killed at the same place. The traffic on the railroad was delayed for some hours. The engineer of the train said that he did not see the automobile until he was too near to stop the train.

Made Commissioner Last Year

New York, Aug. 15.—Mr. Lindsley was appointed third deputy police commissioner in 1904. He was a member of the Strollers and Princeton clubs of this city and the Metropolitan club of Washington. He graduated from Princeton in 1893 and was a lawyer in practice before being appointed to the deputy commissionership.

To Probe Insurance Companies

St. Paul, Aug. 15.—State Insurance Commissioner O'Brien has returned from New York and confirms the report that the investigation of the big eastern life insurance companies by insurance departments of several western states will commence in October. The first company to be investigated will be the New York Life.

Grand Jury to Look Into Errors

Nashville, Aug. 15.—Representative Gaines, who recently requested the president to have the papers in the case of the errors recently announced in the tobacco acreage report of the department of agriculture turned over to the federal grand jury at Washington, has received word that this action has been taken.

One Drowned and One May Die

Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 15.—A scowboat containing six young men capsized in Lake Ontario, off Oswego harbor, last night. Harry Kane was drowned. The others were rescued after a desperate struggle by the lightkeeper. Roy McCroble, who was unconscious when taken from the water, may die.

PROUD OF STICK.

Sergt. Barry Gets a Billy Direct from Ireland.

Sergt. David J. Barry was more than surprised at the Police station on Sunday night, when John H. Dinegan, who has just returned from a visit to the old country, presented "Dave" with a billy made of "Irish bog oak."

The stick is of the regulation length, thicker and harder than the clubs usually carried by a policeman. It is decorated and hand carved with a harp, a round tower and sprays of shamrocks.

Mr. Dinegan purchased the stick in Killarney, the original piece of wood from which it was fashioned being found in one of the bogs in that place.

Mr. Barry was more than pleased with his gift and fully appreciates Mr. Dinegan's thoughtfulness and kindness and will carry the stick with great pride.

WATER SPORTS.

To Be a Feature of Ladies' Day of Squantum Club.

The annual ladies' day event of the Squantum Yacht club will be held Saturday afternoon and evening and there will be something doing for everybody from start to finish.

From 2 until 3.30 there will be a review of the fleet followed by a sail.

Then will come a series of water sports. These will include water polo, tug-of-war, novelty races, etc.

In the evening the club house will be illuminated and there will be dancing from 8 until 11.30.

There will also be a concert by the orchestra in the afternoon during the sports, and refreshments will be served.

CUPS PRESENTED.

To Yachts Making Best Time on Marblehead Runs.

The boats of the Quincy Yacht club that participated in the club cruise to Marblehead have returned. The fleet left Marblehead at 9.05 and arrived off the clubhouse at Houghs Neck at 11.55.

The Harriet was the first boat in and won the consolation cup offered by Commodore Crane for the yacht that made the quickest run home.

A cup was also awarded the Hustler by Commodore Crane for making the best time on the run from Quincy to Marblehead.

Some Were Timid.

The Councilmen who accepted the invitation of Councilman Sawyer to be his guests on board the Yacht Eclipse last Saturday were well repaid for their trip. Many of the Councilmen are out of town and others a little timid at the threatening weather, preferred to enjoy the afternoon from the piazza of the Squantum Yacht club.

Several however, embarked on the Eclipse and had a beautiful sail about the harbor, going as far as Nantasket and Boston Light. Although the weather was threatening it served only to slightly delay the start. Refreshments were served on board the Eclipse during the sail.

City Finances.

City Treasurer Fay reports the cash receipts of the city for July were $123,415.26, and the cash expenditures $101,523.84, with a cash balance of $100,367.47.

The appropriations for the year aggregate $581,165.82; of which $336,054.29 has been expended, and $245,111.53 unexpended.

Tramp Discovered.

Officer Matthews found a tramp asleep in the rear of Tirrell's block at 2 o'clock this morning. The fellow was an Italian and could not speak good English. It was learned from him, however, that he had walked from Boston on the railroad tracks. He was sent to the police station and later allowed to depart.

Census by Wards.

At the last State census in 1895 Ward Four led in population with 4,964 and Ward Three was second with 4,696. Then came Ward One with 3,562; Ward Two with 2,741; Ward Five with 2,669, and Ward Six with 2,080.

The Eclipse.

The weather conditions were good for the observation of the eclipse last night, but being only a partial eclipse there was not a great interest in it. The lower part of the moon was obscured.

Dedham's Population.

Dedham, the county seat, has a population of 7,774, a gain of 563 in ten years, a little under eight per cent.

Three Battleships Nearing Completion.

Four Submarine Boats Started.

Keels for Two Scout Cruisers About to be Laid.

The United States government will soon have a large fleet of Quincy built warships.

The cruiser Des Moines built at Quincy is already in commission, also two torpedo boat destroyers, the Lawrence and the Macdonough.

Two large battleships the New Jersey and the Rhode Island have also been launched at Quincy, and are at the docks nearly fitted out. The Rhode Island is nearer completion than any of the thirteen battleships now being built by the government; the July 1 report was 88 per cent plus, and the Aug. 1 report 92 per cent plus.

The third battleship building at Quincy, the Vermont will be launched Aug. 31.

The Fore River Shipbuilding Company has also four submarine boats under construction with over eleven per cent. on each completed. At the present rate of progress they should be completed in nine months.

The keels of the three new scout cruisers will be laid inside of a month. Two of them will be built at Quincy.

In his monthly report, issued Saturday, Rear Admiral Capps, chief constructor of the navy, shows the amount of work done on vessels of all classes, as follows:

THE KANSAS WAY.

How Gov. Hoch Christened Battleship with Spring Water.

A Washington dispatch to the Herald says: Gov. Hoch of Kansas and his staff arrived in Washington Monday from Camden, N. J., where at the yards of the New York Ship Building Company last week was launched the battleship Kansas, the equal of any fighting craft yet authorized by Congress. Speaking of the reason why at the last moment his daughter shattered a bottle of water from John Brown's spring in Linn county, Kan., on the armored prow of the battleship, instead of using the traditional bottle of wine, Gov. Hoch said:

For 24 years Kansas has been a prohibition state. Prohibition is no longer an issue; it is a general sentiment. To christen the battleship Kansas with wine seemed to be an absolute violation of that sentiment. Before I left Kansas a delegation of prominent Kansans waited on me with a bottle of water which an accompanying affidavit certified was from John Brown's spring in Linn county. They requested that it be used. I accepted it.

"Subsequently I saw Gov. Mickey of Nebraska and told him of my dilemma. He confided to me that he had desired to use water in christening the battleship Nebraska, but that the builders at Seattle would not permit it. I said nothing but put the bottle of Kansas water into my valise, and not one of the 24 persons of my party knew of it.

"When I arrived at the shipyard in Camden I took aside the representative of the company and explained to him that while I am a Prohibitionist, it made no difference to me personally whether a bottle of wine was broken on the ship. Indeed I told him that I would rather see it used that way than poured down the throats of men. Politically I informed him that I felt that water should be used because of the sentiment in my state. He said: 'That's all right.' So at the last moment water was used.

The matter was kept secret until the christening was over. You remember when the Kentucky was launched water was used for the christening by the sponsor, but as the ship slid down the ways persons in the crowd shattered flasks of whiskey against her sides, literally bathing her in liquor. I did not want that to happen in the case of the Kansas, and now believe she was the only ship which had been launched for the navy without being sprinkled with wine or liquor.

"The prohibition sentiment is growing faster in this country than most casual observers imagine. Half the counties in Kentucky enforce prohibition laws. The same is true in Georgia, Kansas is thoroughly prohibition."

THE VERMONT.

Will Be Christened in the Good Old Way.

A dispatch from Bennington, Vt., to the Herald says: During his attendance here upon Old Home Week services Sunday, Gov. Bell was questioned as to what liquid would be used at the launching of the battleship Vermont.

He emphatically replied, nothing but champagne. He said that he had received many letters from members of the W. C. T. U. and other temperance organizations requesting that something besides wine be used, but as far as he was concerned, champagne had always been used, he could see no necessity in making a change and he should make none in the naming of the warship.

The Governor, his staff and others, among them the Governor's two daughters, will leave for Quincy Aug. 31. Surg.-Gen. W. E. Putnam and wife of this place will accompany him.

BROCKTON CENSUS.

Percentage of Increase in Five Years was Nineteen.

The new census gives Brockton a population of 47,782, a gain of 7,719 in five years, 14,625 in ten years, and 34,174 in 25 years. This is over a thousand a year during all this period.

Brockton has 23,568 males and 24,214 females.

Every ward of the city showed a gain during the last five years.

The population by the recent census have been:

|---|---|
| In 1880, | 13,598 |
| In 1885, | 20,783 |
| In 1890, | 27,278 |
| In 1895, | 33,157 |
| In 1900, | 40,063 |
| In 1905, | 47,782 |

In Bankruptcy.

Angus P. MacDonnell, the builder, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. He places his liabilities at $7512.90, none of which is secured. There are 18 creditors, the largest of whom are G. B. Bates of Quincy, $3012.56, and J. B. Rhines & Co. of Weymouth, $2918; assets $1915.

TODAY'S COURT.

Randall Hatch was sent to the house of correction for thirty days for drunkenness at Weymouth.

John R. F. McGaughey was fined $5 for drunkenness at Randolph.

Thomas Moran was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Walter and Hasley A. Strout were arraigned for assault at Milton. They were fined $5 each.

John T. Housberger and Edward A. Claxton were arraigned for violation of the by-laws of Milton, by behaving in a disorderly manner on the public streets. They were fined $3 each.

James McLeod was arraigned for assault on Joseph E. Burke at Quincy. Case continued until Aug. 31.

Fatal Accident.

Alexander T. Leahy, who was struck by an automobile at Randolph on Saturday, died at the Brockton hospital Sunday evening. He was 16 years of age, and a son of Mrs. Mary Leahy.

—The new census gives Whitman a population of 6,520; Rockland, 6,285 and Bridgewater 6,747.

A six-inch water main has been laid on Woodward avenue from Greenleaf street.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Boston is complaining that her taxes are higher this year than they were last year. Boston is but one of many cities in the same predicament. The wave of increased taxes is rolling in on many places. The situation that presents itself in some of the cities is exactly the same that presents itself to a vast number of human beings every day, and the question is "Shall we live well, right up to our income, or shall we try to save money, and not look as well or feel as contented as some of the people around us?"

The modern city, like the modern family, cannot be supported in modern style on oldtime incomes. The necessity for good streets, good sidewalks, good lighting, good sewers, good men at the heads of most of the departments—every city is shy a few on this part of the work, but most of the officials are all right—and good and up-to-date methods of having all work done, is admitted on every hand. The growth of the Massachusetts cities, too, makes it necessary to keep up a high tax rate, for the expansion of a city to any extent makes it essential to meet that expansion with the expenditure of money sufficient to provide not only for present needs, but for what are very certain to come right on the heels of that expansion. When a city or a human being begins to fall back and to lose, however, the tax rate and the expense account shrivel mightily; but in that event are the people of the city or the relatives of the citizen pleased over the dwindling expense account, and the equally dwindling income?

Let us be fairly happy in our municipal expenses. It's a sign of growth and hope and prosperity when the tax rate booms. It shows there are other and substantial booms back of it.—Brockton Enterprise.

Snbmarine Elevator.

An Italian engineer, Signor Jelpo, has invented a submarine elevator for raising wrecked vessels which promises to be of great benefit to maritime interests. The inventor has put it to a practical test with complete success, in the Bay of Naples, where a stone-laden barge, sunk a couple of years ago, and lying at a depth of about 50 feet, was brought to the surface with ease. The weight lifted was about 60 tons. The apparatus consists of compressed air chambers of canvas and wire, each equal to a lifting capacity of 60 tons, and it is possible to attach as many of these as may be necessary, after calculating the weight to be lifted. All the port authorities witnessed the experiment and warmly congratulated the engineer.

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.

Enjoy Using Herpicide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

NOT YET CRUSHED

Russia Will Not Submit to Any Humiliating Terms

IS DESIROUS OF PEACE

Should It Fail, She Has Half a Million Men "In Good Condition and Eager For Action"—Japan Expected to Reduce Her Demands

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—Practically the only hope entertained in high Russian official quarters for a peace agreement at the conference at Portsmouth lies in the expectation that Japan will recede materially from her terms as published. Official and public sentiment regarding the possibilities of peace, outlined by an official who has constant and close relations with the highest authorities, is as follows:

"That the terms are regarded in their entirety as quite impossible of acceptance and close scrutiny has not removed the very unfavorable impression their first reading has produced here. If they are not modified, especially in the matters of indemnity and territorial concessions, peace, it is thought, is impossible, and the continuance of the negotiations useless.

"Russia is honestly and sincerely desirous of securing an honorable and lasting peace and to this end has sent her plenipotentiaries to Portsmouth. They did not journey thither merely to learn the Japanese demands—the nature of their credentials proves that—but they went in an earnest endeavor to do everything possible to terminate the war in a manner compatible with the dignity of a great nation.

"The Japanese terms are regarded in Russia as demands which might be made upon an utterly crushed and powerless enemy, but it is absurd to propose them to a power like Russia, which has half a million men in the field facing the enemy. This army is in good condition and eager for action. It possesses many advantages of position, and the winter is coming on, when naval operations would be impossible. Vladivostok also is splendidly fortified and supplied. Japan, as well as the world at large, has persistently under-estimated Russia's strength in the field and her financial resources at home.

"The more hopeful feeling which is noticeable here can be traced to the conviction that Witte, who is thoroughly cognizant of the views of the Russian government, would not continue negotiations at Portsmouth unless he had reason to believe that Japan would reduce her demands sufficiently to render them acceptable to Russia. The Russian envoys went to Portsmouth ready to make reasonable and honorable concessions, and if peace is to result from the negotiations on American soil Japan also must show an equal spirit of reasonableness and sincerity in her protestations for peace. Russia believes that the world will recognize that the fault, in the case of failure, will not rest with Russia."

Crew All Swept Overboard

North Sydney, N. S., Aug. 15.—A small schooner which was leisurely sailing along the coast off Lingan Head was struck by a severe squall and capsized. Before those on shore could even make preparation for assistance the storm increased to the intensity of a hurricane and one by one the crew were seen to fall away from the bottom of their overturned craft. It is believed that all were lost.

Bennington Memorial Service

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 15.—Memorial services in honor of the sailors who were killed by a boiler explosion on the United States gunboat Bennington were held here at the Isis theatre. Nearly all business houses closed, throngs attending. Eighty Bennington survivors and 100 men from the flagship Chicago attended. Bishop Hendrick of Arizona made the principal address.

Won't Call Sympathetic Strike

Chicago, Aug. 15.—The national executive board of the Bakers and Confectioners' National union met here to take up the question of calling a sympathetic strike of bakers in New York and Brooklyn to help the kosher bakers who are on strike there. It is said the petition of the kosher bakers will be refused and the strike extension will not be sanctioned.

Compulsory Use of Air Brakes

Washington, Aug. 15.—The interstate commerce commission is about to take steps to require all railroads engaged in interstate commerce to increase the minimum percentage of air brakes used on freight trains to as great an extent as conditions and equipment will permit. At present at least 50 percent of the cars must be equipped with air brakes.

Train Wreck In Georgia

Macon, Ga., Aug. 15.—In a head-on collision two miles from Macon between a passenger train and a freight two men were killed and four so seriously injured that death will probably result. The wreck was caused by a misunderstanding of orders.

Yellow Fever Situation

New Orleans, Aug. 15.—Official yellow fever report to 6 p. m. yesterday: New cases, 55; total to date, 1018; deaths, 12; total to date, 166; new subfoci, 8; total sub-foci to date, 210; cases under treatment, 356.

EARNED $12 A DAY

Bostonian Who Gave Wife 25 Cents a Day Goes to Prison

Boston, Aug. 15.—"When he was making $12 a day as an expert engineer he didn't give me more than 25 or 50 cents any day, and sometimes he didn't give me a penny." This was what Mrs. Harriet L. Briggs of 66 Carver street told Judge Wentworth concerning her husband, Edward C. Briggs, charged with non-support.

"He was away all last winter," testified Mrs. Briggs, "and all he sent me was $25 to provide myself and child with food, clothing and shelter. I was obliged to return to my parents."

"Edward Briggs, the court finds you guilty and sentences you to the house of correction for four months," said the clerk, after Judge Wentworth had marked the papers.

Return of Chehey Strong Box

Southbridge, Mass., Aug. 15.—Herman S. Cheney's $285,000 worth of securities, mysteriously taken from his home last January, have been returned, even more mysteriously, it is said. They were found in the house of Frank L. Chapin, Mrs. Cheney's father, on his return with his family from their vacation. Mr. Cheney declines to state how the securities have been returned to him. That he has them back safely he believes is enough.

Wants State to Settle For Cabbages

Salem, Mass., Aug. 15.—The Essex county commissioners gave a hearing to Cornelius Lucy, who wishes the state to compensate him for 4079 cabbages eaten by deer on his farm at Salisbury. Under the law he was prohibited from protecting his cabbage patch. The commissioners will determine and certify the facts to the state officials.

Rainfall Less Than Usual

Boston, Aug. 15.—Ponds and reservoirs all over the state are showing a level considerably below their usual summer water mark. The hot weather had its effect, and more water is generally used in periods of excessive heat than in periods when the heat is only of average intensity; but the lack of spring rains was the principal cause.

Unconscious For Over a Month

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 15.—Miss Ethel M. Cram, who has not yet recovered consciousness since a runaway accident July 13, but for whose recovery hopes were recently entertained, is said to be in a most critical condition as the result of a relapse.

Berlin Treasurer's Shortage

Berlin, N. H., Aug. 15.—Mayor Hutchins says that the amount of City Treasurer Boothby's defalcation will reach nearly $15,000. L. D. Byrnes, a Boston accountant, has been at work on Boothby's books nearly a month.

Wrongfully Approved Goods

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—An investigation of contracts at the Schuylkill arsenal, one of the supply depots for the United States army, has begun. So far the inquiry has been confined to the contract for furs. Among those examined was Assistant Inspector Beckett, who said that he had frequently put his stamp of approval on goods which he knew should have been marked inferior. He did this, he said, by orders of his superiors.

Doctor Brought Dead Man to Life

Des Moines, Aug. 15.—Local physicians are astounded over what they term an actual bringing of the dead to life by Dr. Wilbur S. Conkling. Louis Veil, an Italian who had been cut and slashed by a razor in the hands of a negro, was stretched upon a slab at Mercy hospital, and was about to be made the subject of a postmortem examination when the doctor started the heart beats with his own hand.

Kosher Bakeries Opened

New York, Aug. 15.—After securing the assurance of police protection, 40 of the boss bakers on the East Side opened their shops last night, but there was no renewal of rioting. The employers declare that they are prepared to grant all the demands of the men regarding wages, hours and sanitary conditions of shops, but that they are determined to make a stand for "open shops."

Color Line at West Park

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 15.—W. D. Crum, the negro collector of customs at Charleston, who is a summer visitor with his wife at West Park, tried to hire a wheel chair for his wife for a ride on the board walk. The proprietor refused to order any of his white lads to push the chair, but said Crum might have it if he would himself wheel his wife. Crum declined to do so.

Collier Damaged During Test

Washington, Aug. 15.—A report to the navy department from the commandant of the navy yard at Portsmouth, N. H., on the recent accident to the collier Lebanon, says that the vessel was damaged while a test was being made with air pressure. Six weeks will be required to repair the damage. The Lebanon was being fitted up for destroying derelicts.

Novelist Under Russian Ban

Warsaw, Aug. 15.—Governor General Maximovitch sentenced Henryk Seinckiewicz, the Polish novelist, to detention for an indeterminate period in his residence for signing and publishing papers in protest against the Russification of schools in Poland. A number of other notables were similarly punished.

Bad Times In Andalusia

Madrid, Aug. 15.—The newspapers declare that 100,000 laborers in Andalusia are without the necessities of life, that several districts are at the mercy of rioters and that many landlords are seeking safety in flight.

THE SUMMER CHICK.

Best Methods to Pursue In Feeding and Care of Late Hatches.

The great thing to keep in mind when caring for late chicks is that feeding must not be carried out to the extent of being almost a cramming process, as the inevitable result will be to feed them off their feet, and therefore it really becomes the paramount issue in the raising of these late hatched chicks to see how fast we can grow them without "feeding them off their feet"—which means without injuring their digestion—and therefore we prefer to keep on the side of safety and not try to force them too fast, which would mean failure in the accomplishment of our object—maturing them before real winter sets in, writes a correspondent of American Poultry Journal.

Food rich in frame building material is therefore of first consideration, as the least approach to fattening will hinder bone construction, so necessary at this period; so we must so balance our ration that the frame and flesh growth will keep in the right relation to one another. The first food is of much more importance than is generally realized, and especially so by the beginner in the business.

A mistake in the composition of the first food may make so much trouble that it will hinder our prospects of making the chick take hold of life and begin growth as it ought to begin.

Thousands of chicks are killed every year by making this mistake, and especially so by causing looseness of the bowels by the feeding of a sloppy mess that in some cases was called "moist" when it was nothing of the kind.

Feed the little chicks all they will eat up clean every two hours, and be sure that the first meal is given at daylight and the last at night as late as it can be given them, even if a lantern is necessary to do it with, as this is of much importance in the raising of late hatched chicks.

As to the feed used, wheat bread soaked in milk and squeezed dry and fed crumbed for the first few days has always given us the best results.

After the first few days we supplemented this with fine grain mixtures and are particularly careful to see that at least one-third of this mixture consists of hulled oats cracked fine.

The first feed should be made out of this grain mixture, and also the last, and between these two feeds give soft food, which should be dry and crumbly.

Green bone finely cut and fed sparingly, so as not to induce looseness of the bowels, is also an excellent frame builder.

See to it that cold fresh water and green succulent food are supplied in abundance from the very start.

And if water is given from the very start the little chicks will not overdrink and cause trouble.

Age of Breeding Stock.

The question of when a male bird has passed the period of his usefulness depends altogether upon the bird, says American Poultry Journal. We have known male birds to be strong and vigorous in their fifth year; others that were of no use the second year. Questions of this character must be decided by the breeder. A hen, if she is a good specimen, is never too old to be used as a breeder, providing she is healthy and vigorous. If the object is egg production the females should not be kept longer than three years. Statistics prove that hens lay more eggs during the first two years than after that period, and the old hens should be disposed of in whatever way will be the most profitable, either for breeders or fattened and sold to market. Male birds should not be allowed to run with hens after the breeding season is over.

Green Bone For Hens.

Professor Watson of the Pennsylvania State college says: "Poultrymen find it to their advantage to imitate the natural food of fowls and to furnish some meat food. Fowls that are given a wide range feed largely on insects and earthworms, but when they are confined it will be best to feed meat in some form. Fresh bone, if finely cut with bone cutters, makes one of the best, if not the best, of meat foods for laying hens. It is also excellent for little chickens. Care should, however, be taken not to let the bone become tainted."

Developing Winter Layers.

The poultryman who expects winter eggs from immature or stunted pullets is going to be badly disappointed. It requires good food, good care and a good steady growth from shell to maturity to develop winter layers. A little extra care and attention just now will be well repaid by the full egg basket next winter.

Poultry Pickings.

When you see a poultryman begin to get lazy and neglect his fowls, it is a sign that the end of his career as a poultryman is not far distant.

The breeder who makes the greatest progress and improvement is the one who can see the good points in the other fellow's birds as well as those in his own. Every one cannot do this.

The hen that molts early is the one that will make the best winter layer. This is a desirable trait, and such birds should be bred from and encouraged in early molting by giving them food best suited to the purpose.

It is not possible to make a rule for feeding which can be literally and persistently followed. The idea is that no fowl or lot of fowls will eat or require the same amount of food each meal.

Do not be deceived into believing that practical qualities and fancy points cannot be bred in the same bird. This is a favorite cry with some people who can't raise good ones and who want to sell their culls.—American Poultry Journal.

THREE ARTICLES DISPOSED OF

Plain Sailing Thus Far at the Peace Conference

CRISIS IS STILL TO COME

Japan's "Preponderating Influence" In Korea, Mutual Obligation to Evacuate Manchuria, and Cession to China of Chinese Eastern Railroad South of Harbin Agreed To--How Japan May Have Portion of War Expenses Liquidated--First Great Stumbling Block to Peace About to Be Reached

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 15.—Although very rapid progress was made with the peace negotiations yesterday, three of the 12 articles which constitute the Japanese conditions of peace having been agreed to by Messrs. Witte and Rosen on behalf of Russia, neither of two articles to which Witte in his reply returned an absolute negative was reached. The crisis, therefore, is still to come. It may be reached today, as the cession of Sakhalin comes fifth in the list. The three "articles," as they are officially designated in the brief communications authorized to be given to the press, which were disposed of yesterday, are in substance as follows:

"First, Russia's recognition of Japan's "preponderating influence" and special position in Korea, which Russia henceforth agrees is outside of her sphere of influence, Japan binding herself to recognize the suzerainty of the reigning family, but with the right to give advice and assistance to improve the civil administration of the empire.

Second, mutual obligation to evacuate Manchuria, each to surrender all special privileges in that province; mutual obligation to respect the "territorial integrity" of China and to maintain the principle of equal opportunity for the commerce and industry of all nations in that province (open door).

Third, the cession to China of the Chinese Eastern railroad from Harbin southward.

There never was any question about the acceptance on the part of Witte of these "articles," the first two covering in more emphatic form the contentions of Japan in the diplomatic struggle which preceded hostilities. The third is a natural consequence of result of the war. The cession of the railroad, the building of which cost Russia an immense sum, estimated by some as high as $200,000,000, is to China.

Japan and China, therefore, will arrange between themselves the method by which the former is to be remunerated, and through this financial operation Japan might have a very considerable portion of her claim for the "expenses of the war" liquidated. The railroad is ostensibly the property of the Russo-Chinese bank, although built by government money advanced through the bank, and since its completion operated, managed and policed by the Russian government.

Japan cannot take the railroad herself. To place herself in Russia's shoes regarding the railroad would be militarily to control the destinies of the three provinces of Manchuria, which she has promised to return to China. But Japan is entitled to reimbursement for the expense to which she has been put in restoring the railroad below the present position of Linevitch's army, rebuilding the bridges and narrowing the guage. If China could not find the money some other power or powers might do so and the road would become hypothecated to the powers which advanced the money, as other Chinese roads are to those which advanced the money for their construction. It was Witte himself who organized the Russo-Chinese bank in 1895 and who has always been considered the real organizer of the Chinese Eastern company. Mr. Berg, the attorney of the Russo-Chinese bank, which owns practically all, if not all of the shares of the road, is attached to the Russian mission.

Both sessions of the conference yesterday are described as "amicable," with several slight jars, but none of them serious. The plenipotentiaries are showing admirable temper. Today, in the ordinary course of proceedings, the first great stumbling block to a treaty of peace should be reached, as after Port Arthur and the leases of Liaotung, which are included in article 4 and which Witte is undoubtedly prepared, with slight modifications, to accept, comes article 5—the cession of Sakhalin.

But it is by no means certain that when this obstacle is reached it will not be postponed until all the articles upon which agreement is easy or possible are disposed of. If this course is followed, and there is high authority for the opinion that it will be, it will indicate a disposition to put off the real struggle to the very last and the longer the conference endures the brighter the prospects of a treaty are likely to become. "Every day they sit," said a very high authority, "increases the chances of peace."

Mr. Sato said last night that he had come to Portsmouth hopeful of a successful issue of the negotiations and that he had found nothing had yet occurred to alter his optimism. The language of the three articles adopted yesterday will form practically the text of the "treaty of Washington," if one is signed, subject, of course, to a final revision.

The Japanese are not swerving from their policy of secrecy regarding the negotiations. Within the last few days the strongest pressure has been brought to bear on Komura and Takahira to modify their decision, but to no effect. The Japanese reply to all such arguments is that having entered into this agreement at the suggestion of Russia it is not for Japan to break it.

Armistice Practically Exists

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 15.—It seems to be taken for granted among the attaches of both the Japanese and Russian missions that there will be no general battle in Manchuria while the peace negotiations are on. Oyama is known to be prepared to strike the moment they fail and there may be more or less skirmishing and outpost engagements while the troops are getting in position, but it is admitted on each side that if either Oyama or Linevitch should deliberately bring on a general engagement, which might cost 50,000 or 100,000 lives, his country would be accused of bad faith in the negotiations here and would inevitably lose prestige in the eyes of the world. In the larger sense, therefore, it can be said that an armistice already exists in Manchuria.

Witte and Hebrews Confer

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 15.—A free exchange of views on the subject of the condition and treatment of the Jews in Russia was had last night in a conference between Mr. Witte, Baron Rosen and Oscar Strauss. J. A. Schiff, I. N. Seligman and Adolph Lewison of New York and Adolph Kraus of Chicago. The statement was made by the delegation calling on the Russian plenipotentiaries that nothing tangible resulted from the discussion, but future benefit was looked for. The financial condition of Russia was not mentioned in the discussion, and was not entered into as a topic of discussion, according to Straus.

Kaneko Again Visits President

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Baron Kaneko, who, on a previous trip to Oyster Bay, described himself as a Japanese of leisure sojourning in America because he likes this country, was the only caller on President Roosevelt yesterday. This was the third visit Kaneko has made to Sagamore Hill within a few weeks. Neither he nor President Roosevelt would discuss the nature of his call, although Kaneko insisted that it had nothing to do with the pending peace negotiations.

Movements of Oyama

Gunshu Pass, Aug. 15.—Field Marshal Oyama apparently is changing his dispositions and reducing his forces in Manchuria to augment those in Korea, where his front constitutes an uninterrupted series of powerful fortifications, mounted with siege guns.

Soldiers Disable Themselves

Harbin, Aug. 15.—Among the soldiers medically treated here 1200 were found to be self-mutilated on the first fingers of the right hand.

Shea Vindicates Himself

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—In a manner which was severely criticised by many delegates, President Shea of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters secured the convention's endorsement of the Chicago strike. Shea refused to have the roll called on the motion, insisting that a vive voce vote was sufficient. Although there were many nays, Shea declared the motion carried.

Seven Thousand Labor Sermons

Chicago, Aug. 15.—On the Sunday before Labor day, Sept. 3, 7000 Presbyterian preachers throughout the United States will preach to the working class upon some phase of the labor question. This is in accordance with a plan outlined by the department of church and labor, recently organized by the Presbyterian church.

Typhoid Spreads at Washington

Washington, Aug. 15.—Twenty-nine new cases of typhoid fever and two deaths from the disease were reported to the health office yesterday. The outbreak has passed in severity that of 1903, when the greatest number of persons under treatment for the disease at any one time was 224, and it has spread rapidly.

Ministers' Protests Unheeded

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 15.—Despite vigorous opposition by local ministers and a strong delegation from Ocean Grove, the Asbury Park common council last evening passed on first reading the ordinance providing for a high license for the selling of liquors in this city. The matter will now go to a popular vote.

Wallace Retains His Nerve

St. Johns, Aug. 15.—Advices from inland lumber camps in Labrador state that Indians report Mrs. Hubbard's expedition returning to the coast, having abandoned the attempt to penetrate the wilderness. Dillon Wallace, however, is pushing forward beyond any white man's previous track.

Actor Found With Throat Cut

New York, Aug. 15.—Henry Battelle, an actor, was found dead in his apartments in Brooklyn with his throat cut from ear to ear. It is assumed that he committed suicide, but the police are making a rigid investigation.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Wednesday, Aug. 16.
Sun rises—4:52; sets—6:45.
Moon rises—7:39 p. m.
High water—12 a. m.; 12:15 p. m.

Revenue Agents Shaken Up

Washington, Aug. 15.—The Star says: There has been a big shakeup among the revenue agents of the internal revenue service, but just how far it has gone is a matter of speculation. It is stated, however, that four well known revenue agents have been asked for their resignations, and at least two of the four have come here for a personal conference. One is Charles H. Ingram, in charge of New England work, stationed at Boston.

Norway "Cannot Wait Forever"

Christiania, Aug. 15.—No answer has been received from Sweden to the request that a prince of the Bernadotte family be selected to assume the throne. President Berner of the storthing said: "Norway at present desires to continue under a monarchy, but she cannot wait forever, and in a reasonable time will consider the failure to answer as a refusal and will invite another prince to occupy the throne."

One Man Laid Out Five Negroes

Cordele, Ga., Aug. 15.—Two negroes were killed outright and three fatally injured near Oakfield by a woodsman named Malfis. In consequence of a quarrel with Malfis seven negroes waylaid him. Malfis opened fire with a revolver. Two negroes were shot dead instantly and three others fell to the ground mortally wounded. By the time Malfis could reload the other two had fled.

Vacation For Canal Employes

Panama, Aug. 15.—W. E. Dauchy, who has been the engineer in charge of the Culebra division of the canal work and an appointee of former Chief Engineer Wallace, has resigned. The engineering operations on the canal are now suspended, pending sanitary work. Many employes will return to the United States during the idle period.

Chorus Girl Gets $5,000,000

New York, Aug. 15.—Rumors of a fight over the will of Alan Wood, the ironmaster, are without foundation. His wedding to Goldie Mohr, the chorus girl, occurred last spring. Only a year ago Goldie was a chorus girl at a salary of $25 a week; today she is the widow of a millionaire with a $5,000,000 dower right in his great estate.

Suspected of Being Spies

Berlin, Aug. 15.—A dispatch from Wilhelmshafen (one of the principal German naval stations on the North sea) says that two Englishmen visited the port in a sailing yacht, leaving that place yesterday. Their yacht was immediately followed by a torpedo boat and the occupants arrested and brought back, charged with espionage.

American Envoys to Venezuela

Caracas, Aug. 15.—William W. Russell, the newly appointed American minister to Venezuela, and ex-Judge Calhoun, whom President Roosevelt appointed special commissioner to Venezuela, arrived here yesterday.

Negro Boy In Slavery

Macon, Ga., Aug. 15.—J. K. Mitchell, a farmer of Wilcox county, was arrested and lodged in jail last night to await a hearing on a charge of peonage in working Charlie Warren, a negro boy, aged 15, in servitude.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Sir William L. Clowes died at London. He was born in 1856 and was known best as a naval critic, historical and miscellaneous writer.

Tenders have been asked for the construction of a great railway from Arica, in Chile, to La Paz, in Bolivia.

The Lost Company

[Copyright, 1905, by R. B. McClure.]

The orders were for Colonel Davis of the Twenty-second Federal regiment, stationed about four miles from Bull's Gap, in the Tennessee mountains, to move by night and capture a Confederate signal station which had a post upon a mountain crest ten miles away. This station commanded the pass so far as observation went, and every move of the Federal force there was at once reported.

The idea was to move slowly and quietly, and this was carried out. The regiment had four hours and a half to make the ten miles, and the vicinity of the signal station was reached at 4 o'clock in the morning. Three companies were sent to the left, three to the right, and Company E was to make a long detour to get in the rear of the station and hold a mountain road against retreat. All movements were made so quietly that no alarm was given.

Day had just begun to dawn when up from the valley came a white mist, cold as a shroud and thick enough to cut out all objects twenty feet away.

The Confederates at the station could be heard moving and talking, but there could be no attack until the mist disappeared. It hung over the mountain for two long hours before the rising sun began to eat into it, and it was near 7 o'clock before the Federals dashed forward. The surprise was complete. There were only fifty Confederate soldiers there as guard, and seeing the force opposed to them they prudently surrendered. Not a man was killed on either side, although there was considerable firing. The regiments sent out on the flanks were up in time, and Colonel Davis supposed that the firing would bring in Company E.

When an hour had gone by and nothing had been heard of it scouts were sent forward with orders for it to join the main force at once. At the end of two hours the scouts returned and reported that no trace of the company could be found beyond a certain point.

The main column returned to camp, and from hour to hour looked for the missing company. When a day had gone by without news from it two scouts were sent out. There was fear now that it had been gobbled up by a Confederate force. The scouts struck the highway and followed it to the bend, but they brought back no news.

A native had gone along with it to act as guide, and after three or four days had passed it was concluded that he might have led the detachment far enough to bring about its capture by a Confederate force. The matter rested there for a week. Then two Confederate prisoners were captured, but they denied having heard the least news of the missing company. Had it been captured they must have known of the event.

An advance by the Confederates in force just at this time prevented any further search by the Federals, and for six weeks the fate of the hundred men was almost forgotten. Then there was an investigation ordered from Washington, and the result was the trial and dismissal of Colonel Davis. The Federals had been driven out of that part of Tennessee, and as a matter of fact they did not regain the ground again until the close of the war. Flags of truce were frequently resorted to to gain news of the missing company, and all prisoners were closely questioned, but the war came to an end at last and the mystery had not been solved.

No move was made until a year later, and then Colonel Davis himself took up the case. He was a wealthy man, and he smarted under the disgrace put upon him by the court martial.

Accompanied by two picked men he went over the route from Bull's Gap. From the Confederate signal station he struck for the highway and reached it. There was but one house on the road between that point and the bend, and the widow occupying it said that no force had passed on that night. She must have heard the company had it marched that way. The scouts sent out had never questioned this woman.

Returning over the highway Davis and his companions had covered half the distance when they noticed the mouth of a ravine to the right. It started at the highway and descended so gradually that it might have been taken in the night for another road. It deepened as they followed it, and at the end of a quarter of a mile, when it had become a rough and rugged ravine, it came to a sudden ending.

This did not look at all natural, and an investigation lasting half a day brought to light the fact that there had been a landslide there. Hundreds of thousands of tons of earth and rock, accompanied by hundreds of trees, had gone crashing down into the ravine and filled it to a depth of twenty feet. The fill was from bank to bank, and its length was about 500 feet. Weeds and bushes and young trees were already growing on the made ground.

The men enlisted the help of negroes and set to work with pick and shovel, and at the end of a week they came upon a rusty Federal musket. They ceased there. They were satisfied that under that great mound were lying the bones of the missing hundred, and it was for the government to uncover them or let them lie on forever.

In that thick morning mist of long ago the guide had led them off the road, bewildered and uncertain, and they had been huddled together in the bottom of the ravine when there came a landslip to overwhelm them to the last man.

Breathes there a baseball fan with soul so dead that he does not thrill at the mention of the name of Dennis Brouthers—"Big Dan" Brouthers? If so, let him step to the guillotine and allow his guilty head to drop into the sawdust basket.

"Big Dan," let it be known, is still in the game. He is now filling a comfortable bunk at first base for the Poughkeepsie team of the Hudson River (N. Y.) league, into which he drifted after sixteen years in the National league and seven or eight in the Eastern. For years on years in the baseball world Brouthers was a name to conjure with. No batsman ever was more feared by opposing pitchers, none ever was more tenderly enshrined in the hearts of followers of the great national game, than this product of New York state, who first saw the light in Silver Lake, Dutchess county, in 1859.

Brouthers' ability in the locust lifting line was the marvel of his time. He was more than a wonder. In a baseball sense, he was the seven wonders of the world rolled into one. There wasn't any stunt he couldn't do if he only set his mind to it. The fans wouldn't have been astonished if he had doubled his own magnificent batting average in any season, so abiding was their faith in him when, particularly in a pinch, he gripped the cudgel with his brawny hands and fixed his gaze on the face of the luckless man on the slab. He actually finished the season of 1887, playing with Detroit, with an average of .419. That's only a single bit of testimony as to his stick work, however.

Stories of his batting could be told till the cows came home, and still there would be left the makings of a good sized volume. Perhaps his most notable exploit was to loft the leather over the right field fence of the old Baltimore club way back yonder in his Oriole days, when he trained with Johnny McGraw, now manager of the Giants, and a host of other stars whose combined radiance overspread the baseball firmament of that period. Parenthetically, it may be remembered that the Baltimore team was the real thing then. In addition to Brouthers and McGraw, the Orioles were made up of such high class players as Robinson, McMahon, Kid Gleason, Hawke, Charlie Esper (now a policeman in Philadelphia, and a good one), George Hemming, Hughey Jennings, Joe Kelley, Pepper Reitz, Willie Keeler, Walter Brodie, Frank Bonner and Bill Clarke, the last named now one of Manager McGraw's Giants.

With all those crackajacks wielding the willow, the ball nevertheless had not been put over the right field fence, when the club's owner, the late Harry Von der Horst, one of the most enthusiastic magnates the game ever knew, made a standing offer of $100 to the first batsman who should perform the feat. A few days later Brouthers sent the ball over the right field fence for one of the most sensational home runs ever scored in the history of the game. The ball was found and gilded and preserved as a sacred relic for many years.

| Year. Club. | Games. | Per ct. | Rank. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1879—Troy | 39 | .375 | 29 |
| 1881—Buffalo | 65 | .318 | 8 |

MAKING A NEW BREED.

How the Silver Penciled Wyandotte Was Produced.

The first step in the production of the Silver Penciled Wyandotte consisted of mating a dark Brahma hen to a partridge Wyandotte male, which resulted in silver females and in silver males with red wings, says American Agriculturist. Simultaneously dark Brahma and Silver Penciled Hamburg females were mated to a Silver Laced Wyandotte male. These matings produced Wyandotte Brahmas and Wyandotte Hamburgs; therefore the offspring of the mating of the latter contained one-half Wyandotte, one-quarter Brahma and one-quarter Hamburg blood. While the object was the production of a specimen well defined in the minds of the originators, there appeared at intervals in the process a variety of colorings, shapes and markings unsought and many times inexplicable in the brothers and sisters. The matter of selection then became a serious one. The ordeal of beginning again frequently called into play a high quality of judgment and a vast fund of patience.

The standard calls for yellow shanks and skin. These are oftentimes difficult to obtain, together with the desired white in the feather. The two colors are really somewhat inconsistent, considering the natural plumage of the Silver Penciled Wyandotte, as the yellow pigment is likely to run into the feather and deaden the bright, clean white necessary to make up the desired contrast with the black. The male birds seem to hold the yellow shanks more naturally than the females. If therefore the breeder finds a dusky yellow appearing on the female shanks, he must not be discouraged; it is nature and hardly truly objectionable. Possessed of an unusual share of beauty, they are likewise a general utility fowl. They are full, round and plump and reach maturity quickly. The standard weights are: Cock, eight and a half pounds; the hen six and a half pounds and the pullet five and a half pounds. Larger birds are often exhibited, and the increase in weight seems not to have interfered with a high score. The utility bird may be bred to weight, but the exhibition bird ought not to run above the standard weights.

The Head of the Pen.

The pen should consist of as many hens as the male bird can give proper attention to and no more, but the exact point when we reach the proper limit is a difficult thing to set down in black and white, simply because the best number is variable with members of the same flock. The estimates given by various breeders vary all the way from five to six to fifteen or even twenty hens to each active, vigorous male, but the latter estimate is one which in the practice we have never found satisfactory. In the majority of cases ten hens will be found to be as many as one cock can properly attend so as to insure the best average of fertilized eggs and the most robust chicks. Head your pen with a nice, blocky chap. In picking out the females to run with the cock it is well to make a trial mating early in the season and cull out those, if any, to which he is ugly or indifferent until only his favorites are left.—Poultry Standard.

Poultry Sanitation.

It is quite a task to maintain the proper cleanliness in the yards and houses where hens are kept. It is a very difficult task when ducks are allowed to run with the hens, and diseases due to filth are apt to enter the flocks. Turkeys may be kept with profit where there is unlimited range, and geese also where waste pasture with a water course or pond in it is available.

Concerning Geese.

Ordinarily a goose will lay twelve to twenty eggs before sitting. If the eggs are removed from the nest the goose may lay two or three sittings. Geese retain their breeding qualities through life, but probably the older ones are the best sitters.

Chicken Pointers.

It is too much to ask a chick to furnish enough blood for its own growth and that of a colony of lice. Rout the vermin and give chickie a show.

A surplus rooster is an expensive ornament in the poultry yard. Eat or kill the surplus roosters before they eat double their value.

Time learning to prevent poultry disease will be less than that spent in trying to effect cures.

Don't wait for mites to appear before beginning to fight them. Whitewash the house twice a summer, and kerosene the perches every week or two.

Curing diseased fowls is rarely worth while, because they are not likely to be "as good as new." They are likely to become diseased again and perpetuate the same sort of sickness in their offspring.

SARATOGA MONEY MAD

Gates and Drake Play Golf at $1,000 a Hole.

CADDIES GROWING PROSPEROUS.

Wall Street Man Idol of the Crowds, but Drake Is the Better Player. When Tired of Golf They Play Tennis at $100 a Point—Whims of Rich Visitors at Summer Resort.

Golf at a thousand dollars a hole, tennis at a hundred dollars a point, poker with no limit and side bets on every street as to the number of the next trolley car that comes along or tomorrow's weather—that is the kind of money madness that has got a death grip on Saratoga, says a special dispatch to the New York Journal.

Plungers like John W. Gates and John A. Drake, not content with gigantic stakes on the races and poker games, made their mornings interesting by playing golf for a thousand dollars a hole. Now and then they switch to tennis at a hundred dollars a point, which runs up into the thousands for a set. And the rest of the crowd follows according to their means.

The flush times in California when men played poker for gold mines, the feverish nights at Monte Carlo, where aristocrats gamble away princely birthrights, are both eclipsed by the money mania that has broken out at Saratoga this season. The craze follows the clock all the way around.

Get up in the morning and go down to the springs, and you will find a couple of millionaires betting each other that the first car to come along will have an odd or even number.

Walk out to the golf links, and you will see John W. Gates and John A. Drake, his substantial shadow, making tracks on the dewy grass and cutting divots out of the fair green with prodigious strokes of brassies and irons.

And every one of those strokes means about a hundred dollars, for when Drake and Gates play they lay a thousand dollars a hole.

If either should get eighteen straight holes the sum of $18,000 would change hands, but as they are tolerably matched it is rare that more than three or four thousand dollars is won or lost. Of the two, Drake plays the better game, but Gates gets a handicap which squares things up.

The caddies on the course are growing prosperous, and as soon as the golf craze spreads to the bookmakers, gamblers and the other elite of the place a job as a caddy will be worth purchasing.

On the tennis courts, which are numerous in the handsome gardens of retired plungers along the elm shaded avenues, tennis is indulged in every morning before begins the resplendent parade to the race track.

Here money changes owners almost as fast as it does at the track, while spectators on the streets pause to make side bets as to the outcome of the particular game they happen to be watching.

If you walk from the United States or the Grand Union hotel down the main street after dinner you will see knots of men grouped around pairs of plungers who are betting on the population of the town, the age of the nearest elm tree, the hour the sun sets, the color of the next horse to round the corner or the name of the conductor that will bring in the next Saratoga special.

And every bet is a big one.

Saratoga is not the home of the piker, although that variety of gambler is plentiful about her streets.

Since the death of William C. Whitney, Gates is the most important personage in the village, ranking even higher than Canfield, George Wheelock and other prominent citizens in the summer colony.

When he makes bets, the crowd watch him adoringly as he sits on the rail of the clubhouse and looks over their heads as they gather on the lawn. If he races down to the lake in an automobile before dinner, the crowd that can support automobiles follow after. And even when in pursuit of health and recreation, as well as the ever needful exhilaration of a little stake, he and Drake beat little rubber balls over bunkers on the golf course, there is a big gallery to see and applaud, for the Saratoga crowd knows that Gates is playing for big stakes, and they like to see any kind of gambling where real money is at issue.

Franklin's Bicentenary.

It is certainly discreditable that one of the three Americans who would by popular acclaim be pronounced to be the greatest the country has produced should have so little formal recognition, says the Philadelphia Record. The birthday of Washington is practically a national holiday, Lincoln's birthday is a red letter day in many states, but Franklin, the third in this triumvirate of America's greatest, is denied the honor of a public testimonial to his superlative merits. An opportunity is at hand to make good this neglect. On Jan. 17 next will be the bicentennial of Franklin's birth. The day ought to be celebrated in an appropriate manner to the furthest ends of the country. It would be becoming for Philadelphia to take the lead in doing honor to her adopted son.

New Pedagogic Theory.

The newest idea in schools for teaching children to read is to make them tap a typewriter. The novelty of the work makes the scholars take the greatest interest in thus learning the rudiments of education.

KISSED BY WITTE.

Peace Envoy Embraced Conductor Because He Spoke French.

"No one could have been more surprised than I was when M. Sergius Witte threw his arms about me and kissed me on the cheek," said Conductor E. P. Therien, who had the distinction of having received this European salutation from Russia's envoy extraordinary to the peace conference a few days ago, says a Boston dispatch to the New York American.

Conductor Therien is himself a European—a Frenchman. As an employee of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, he had had charge of the special train which transported the distinguished foreigner from Newport to Boston, after he had been induced to leave the Mayflower and go overland to Portsmouth. While relating the details of the incident recently he said:

"It is the custom in Europe for men to salute each other by kissing, although in this country it appears strange. I must say that I was surprised, but it was all right. It was M. Witte's manner of showing his appreciation for the courtesies extended to him during his first ride on an American railroad.

"All during the run from Newport to Boston the members of the party conversed in French. I am a Frenchman myself and understood all that was said perfectly. In fact, I talked with members of the party during the trip, though not with M. Witte. You can imagine my surprise then, when, upon reaching Boston, the big Russian smacked me full on the cheek.

"I did not know what to do for a moment. The situation embarrassed me. I have been among Americans so long that I have almost forgotten European customs. When I realized, however, the sincerity with which the salutation had been given by the Russian nobleman I felt greatly honored. You see, it all happened in this way:

"When we stopped at Back Bay M. Witte did not follow the other members of the party to the elevator, but strode off in the direction of the engine. When he reached the cab he motioned to Engineer J. E. Magoun and put his hand out for a handshake. Magoun leaned out of his cab and the two men shook hands. The fireman was honored in the same way.

"As M. Witte turned to join his party I touched him on the elbow to direct him to the elevator, and spoke to him in French. It was then that he threw open his arms, and, with a hearty embrace, kissed me on the cheek."

Conductor Therien is very popular on the Newport line. He has a wife, who says she does not care how many men kiss her husband.

PASTORS WHO LIKE WORK.

Building Fences, Cleaning Streets and Carrying Mail at Winsted.

The Rev. Newell M. Calhoun, pastor of the Second Congregational church at Winsted, Conn., and member of the Yale corporation, is building a rustic stone wall in front of Pine Bank, his summer residence on the shores of Highland lake, says a Winsted special to the New York World. His artistic work with the trowel is attracting mason contractors.

The Rev. George Remington, a Baptist clergyman, formerly of Colebrook, is employed by the town raking stones on the highways. The Rev. F. S. Francis of New Hartford, a Methodist clergyman nearly seventy years old, is tolling seven days a week. He carries the mail six days in the week between Collinsville and Torrington and preaches on the seventh.

Sleeve Buoys For Girl Swimmers.

One mystery that has been baffling spectators at Bailey's beach in Newport has rested in the fact that many girls who profess they are unable to swim manage to glide through the water in a manner that suggests proficiency in the natatorial art, says the New York Press. Apparently they carried no life preservers to keep them from sinking. Now the secret has been revealed. It appears that the surprising skill of the girls is due to a contrivance they carry up their sleeves. The sleeves, which are decidedly puffy, are fitted up with rubber bags, which are blown up before the garment is donned. Thus the wearers are enabled to strike out in supreme confidence that Davy Jones won't drag them down to his locker.

Teapots of Glass.

Glass teapots are coming into favor, says the Detroit News-Tribune. They are made of strong, tempered glass, and are delicately trimmed with bands of silver. Inside the teapot a hollow ball of silver rolls about and, by prompt absorption of the heat of the boiling water, prevents the glass from cracking. The charm of the crystal teapot lies not wholly in its beauty, for there is the additional advantage that the teamaker can see just what quantity she has on hand.

Dresser of Flowers.

Hairdressers for flowers is the latest device in the horticultural realm. Just prior to an exhibition of flowers the artist, or professor, takes in hand such specimens as chrysanthemums, with filament petals, and trims them, cutting them to equal lengths and combing them. He also knows how to coax buds to open, smoothing out the petals and making them resemble flowers that are full blown.

Mark Twain and the Dry Dock.

Haper's Weekly of a recent issue contains a column of entertaining "personals"—lively anecdotes and observations on persons and events in the public eye. In one paragraph is quoted a new witticism of Mark Twain's. Mr. Clemens is quoted as defining a dry dock as "a thirsty physician."

PROVED FATAL.

Sergt. Logan, Formerly of Co. K Died in Philadelphia.

Word was received in Quincy Tuesday night of the death at the Marine hospital in Philadelphia of John Logan of this city, First Sergeant of Marines on the battleship Kearsarge, of typhoid fever.

Sergt. Logan was a private of Co. K of the Fifth Massachusetts regiment during the Spanish war. At the close of the war he enlisted in the marines as a private and worked up step by step to the office of First Sergeant. He was stationed on the Kearsarge when he was taken ill with typhoid fever and removed to the hospital.

The telegram received stated if the body was not claimed it would be buried with military honors in Philadelphia.

The whereabouts of the boy's parents are unknown at the present time, and the telegram was delivered to his sister.

Sergt. Logan was in Quincy on a visit some few weeks ago. He was about 30 years of age.

SCHOLARSHIPS.

Lucky Students at Technology and Worcester Polytechnic.

The State Scholarship for the First Norfolk Senatorial district at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has been divided between C. L. Campbell of Wollaston and H. C. Faxon of Braintree a half to each.

The Worcester Polytechnic school did not have any applicants from residents of the First Norfolk district, so the scholarships were awarded outside, a half to John F. Cullen of Worcester and a half to Charles E. Putnam of Gardner.

The Second Norfolk scholarship to this school goes to Waldon J. Guild of Walpole and Jarvis Williams, Jr., of Foxboro.

The Second Norfolk scholarship to the Institute of Technolgy was divided between Daniel Adams of Wellesley and Eugene S. Connolly of Billington.

The state board of education received 160 applications for the Institute, and for the Worcester Polytechnic 109 applications, the awards in the former case including 8 full scholarships and 64 half, and in the latter 9 full scholarships and 62 half.

COOL FOR AUGUST.

Only 58 Degrees at Noon Today in Quincy.

Only one in ten years has Quincy had as cool noon temperature as today—58 degrees—and that was on Aug. 30, 1903.

The lowest August noon temperature by years has been as follows:

69 in 1896 on Aug. 28
61 in 1897 on Aug. 24
70 in 1898 on Aug. 5
66 in 1899 on Aug. 11
65 in 1900 on Aug. 12
72 in 1901 on Aug. 26
62 in 1902 on Aug. 19
58 in 1903 on Aug. 30
65 in 1904 on Aug. 20
58 in 1905 on Aug. 16

Some years in September we do not get as cool a day as today.

Kennewick Canal.

The Kennewick Irrigating Canal which waters twenty thousand acres of land on the west bank of the Columbia river, is one of the newest and best irrigating propositions in the United States. Kennewick is the gateway to the Yakima valley. The season is from two to three weeks earlier than the upper valley, and alfalfa, peaches, pears and all small fruits such as strawberries, cantaloupes, etc., which ripen very early, command the highest market price. Write to C. W. Mott, General Emigration Agent, Northern Pacific Railway, St. Paul, Minn., and he will send you descriptive pamphlets of the Yakima valley where land can still be had at reasonable prices and in a climate mild and healthful. If you wish information regarding lands or business openings in other territory covered by the Northern Pacific Railway, Mr. Mott will be glad to send it free. Will be pleased to call upon you on receipt of postal card, to give you full information regarding rates, tickets, through car and train service arrangements, etc.

C. E. Foster, District Passenger Agent, 207 Old South Building, Boston, Mass.

The lawn party held by the Salvation Army last Saturday night on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Deacon, was a real success and the building fund got a substantial help therefrom. Captain Johnson is thankful to all who helped.

NECK AND NECK.

Government and Private Construction of Battleships.

The friendly contest in naval construction between the Government and the Newport News Shipbuilding Company is becoming exceedingly close and exciting as it draws to a close, says a Washington dispatch to the Transcript.

On the first of July last the battleship Louisiana, building by the Newport News Company, was 80.79 per cent. completed, and was then .05 per cent. ahead of her sister ship, the Connecticut, under construction at the New York Navy Yard.

A report made by Rear Admiral Capps, chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repairs, shows that the rate of progress on the Government-built vesssel during the month of July was greater than on the private-built ship, and that the Connecticut is now .86 per cent. nearer completion than her rival. On the 1st inst. the Connecticut was 83.67 per cent. completed and the Louisiana was 82.81 per cent. completed.

Work is being pushed to the limit of safety on both vessels, and it is not believed that there will be very much difference in the contest in the matter of time, but the officials of the Navy Department seem to feel confident that the Connecticut will win in the contest when all the essential elements are considered, including workmanship, time and cost.

BODY RECOVERED.

Dr. Bradbury Found Two Weeks After the Drowning.

The body of Dr. W. L. Bradbury, drowned at Nantasket while swimming with Frederick G. Thayer of Wollaston, was discovered Monday night off Duxbury beach by Mr. Hawkins, a summer resident at Brant Rock, who was out in a dory at the time.

It was just two weeks previous that the accident occurred, and the body was hardly recognizable. It was floating face downward when found. One of the legs showed a long ragged cut below the knee.

The body was identified by his brother, and the burial will be at Burlington, Maine.

To Save the Drowning.

"Life-saving is not nearly so dangerous as it is generally supposed to be," said James Donelly, who for 10 years has been life-saver at Manhattan beach, and who is credited with numberless brave acts, of which he maintains a modest ignorance when questioned about them. In an article in Leslie's Weekly, he writes:

"I regret to say that were it not for the professional life-savers many persons would be drowned almost within arm's reach of a hundred or more bathers, any one of whom could save them. I have often seen a man in trouble in the water and calling for help, surrounded by a ring of bathers, all afraid to go to his rescue, because of the popular belief that when a drowning person once gets a hold on one it is impossible to get rid of him and both will go down together.

"Getting rid of him is really the easiest part of it; for the only thing to do, when the person you are trying to save fastens his arms around you, is to dive, and he will let go in short order, and then you have a chance to get him around the neck and tow him ashore. You would be surprised to see how little a full-grown man will weigh when in the water. One can easily support a 300-pounder with one hand, unless he is threshing about."

INTO THE MINES.

A Quincy Man's Trip to Scranton and Wilkesbarre.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I will take you for a little trip if you are ready. Well, all right, we are leaving the Atlas wharf, Boston, on the Old Dominion steamer of the Joy line, on an all-sea voyage around the Cape to New York. We start at 5 P. M.

It is raining a little when we leave the wharf, and it comes down harder as we steam by the beautiful islands of Boston harbor. About midnight it comes down in torrents, and we are obliged to anchor near Chatham on Cape Cod on account of the fog. But never mind we are in good company although some of the most timid of us are getting scared. Many of the ladies are out of their staterooms and around the deck, trying to find what is the trouble, but it is hard to get much information.

About 3.30 A. M. the fog clears and soon the sun came up through the clouds, and we have a most beautiful morning.

The anchor is raised and we are on the go again, and sure enough it proved to be a delightful day.

We are going by Martha's Vineyard, Nantucket, Narragansett Bay, Newport, and all these fine summer resorts, going through the sound at daylight, and having a glorious time, reaching New York very late the second night.

Now it is 1 o'clock in the morning, but never mind; come along, and we land, and cross the city to the ferry, and we are off to Hoboken with one of the D. & L. ferry boats, in order to get the 2.30 A. M. train for Scranton, Pa.

We reach there at 6.30, and in a short time we are in company of two miners going through the Kiagno coal mine. We go down the shaft at a tremendous speed to the depth of 600 feet.

We travel for two or three hours through these chambers where they are digging the coal, passing several trains of cars loaded with coal and pulled by motors or mules.

The boys use some very rough language with these mules. I asked some of them if they wouldn't get just as much work out of them if they didn't swear quite so much. It is a wonder to me that there are not more accidents. I suppose you are glad that our guides are ready to get out after our tramp through this awful place. We are going next to Wilkesbarre over the new third rail cars and then down the slides to the deepest mines in these regions.

John Evans.

FORCED ON HIM.

Dr. Ash Did Not Want Crescent Street.

But Says He Was Pushed.

Sentiment in Favor of Old Location of Crescent Street.

What West Quincy people want to know is who made the blunder on Crescent street? As a rule they do not blame Dr. Ash for fencing off his property, as he had a perfect right to do. It would appear from what Dr. Ash says that the Metropolitan Commissioners themselves put their foot in it, and that when they undertook to force him to do certain things, that he kicked and then determined to assert his rights.

In an interview by a representative of the Ledger, Dr. Ash says that he did not want the land in Crescent street but that it was practically forced upon him. He says that after the boulevard was laid out across Crescent and Copeland streets the Commissioners decided to change the line of the original location so as to save a large tree and lawn in front of the residence of T. J. Lamb. That they came to him and said they wanted a narrow strip of his land on the corner of the two streets. He told them they could have it and that he would accept any reasonable award. They refused to pay him any money, for his land, however, saying that they were not paying for land. If, however, he would deed them the strip wanted they would deed to him in exchange a piece of land on Crescent street.

Dr. Ash says that he told them he did not want the land, as the restrictions would prevent him from building upon it, and he would only be taxed by the city for land that he could not use, and which would really be of but little value to him.

They then informed him that they could prevent him from entering the street on the Crescent street side as at present and in this way the Commissioners practically forced upon him a piece of land he did not want.

A little later, finding that he might fence the land off, and realizing that a blunder had been made, Dr. Ash says they came to him about the matter, and admitted a mistake had been made, and wanted him to be easy with them. They offered to lease the land, to which he agreed, saying he would make a conditional lease. This proposition was refused, and having been forced against his will into something he did not want, he determined to fence off his property. He applied to the Commissioners to have them send out their engineers to define his lines. They did not, however, and getting tired of waiting he employed Engineer Tupper who made the necessary survey. He was about to commence his fence when out came two engineers to give him the lines.

Dr. Ash further says that he informed the city officials last June that he intended to fence off the street, so that they might have ample opportunity to get an injunction or make any other arrangements, but nothing has been done, so the fence was built.

Since the building of the fence it has developed that the Metropolitan Commissioners have also sold another strip of the street at this corner to T. J. Lamb and if he saw fit Mr. Lamb could build a fence on his line which would be twelve feet into Crescent street in front of his residence. Mr. Lamb does not contemplate doing this, however, but if he should, as he has a perfect right to do, it would add another blunder monument to some one.

A gentleman who was in the City Council of 1900, says that he remembers the circumstances of the taking of the land in this section by the Commissioners. He says that at one of the meetings a communication was received from the Mayor and City Solicitor in relation to concurring in the taking of the land at the junction of these two streets and through the Willard school yard and that the communications stated that it was necessary to pass the order that evening as it must go on record the next day.

The Council took their word for it and the matter was rushed through without debate or investigation.

This week the Metropolitan Commissioners have had men at work on the Parkway opposite the fence trying to put it in such a condition that teams can pass. The curbing on the east side of Crescent street has been removed and the street is being filled in so teams can get through. This will remedy the matter somewhat but it does not remove that unsightly fence which stands as a monument to someone's blunder.

It is said that when the boulevard is completed that it will look all right, but it is hard work to make West Quincy people believe that having the street turn a sharp angle will look as well as the street did before the fence was built.

It is very evident that the Metropolitan Commissioners had no idea when they deeded Dr. Ash the land that he would build a fence or at least not until such time as the boulevard had been completed.

The sentiment at West Quincy now is that either the City or Metropolitan Commissioners should buy the street back from Dr. Ash, and restore things to their former condition. Perhaps the Commissioners could, but the city seems to be powerless.

Boxer on Cruiser Yankee Died From His Injuries

ADVERSARY NOT BLAMED

Contest For Prize Conducted According to Naval Regulations and Witnessed by Large Number of Officers and Men

Washington, Aug. 16.—Secretary Bonaparte, after a thorough examination of the records in the case of Raphael Cohen, the coal passer on the converted cruiser Yankee, whose death resulted from injuries received in a boxing contest held on an American warship in Dominican waters on July 9, said that he saw nothing wrongful, although, of course, it was extremely deplorable that Cohen should have lost his life. He added that boxing and athletics generally are encouraged in the service, because of their beneficial influence on the health of the men, as well as to relieve the tedium of a sailor's life.

The court found that neither Cohen's adversary nor any other person was in any wise culpable and recommended that no further action be taken. Admiral Bradford approved the findings of the court, as at present informed, and the department finds nothing in the case that calls for action.

Secretary Bonaparte stated that it was shown that a careful inquiry was held July 10, immediately followed by a court of inquiry ordered by Admiral Bradford, commander of the squadron. It is shown, he said, that the investigation was thorough, that the testimony shows the boxing contest was a feature of an athletic meeting held under provisions of the regulations; that five-ounce gloves were used and that a prize of $50 was subscribed.

The testimony showed that Cohen himself suggested that a bout be arranged for him with Johnson, his adversary in the match, and when during the contest it was suggested to Cohen that he had better stop, since he was evidently out-pointed, he insisted that he would go on, saying he could win yet. Medical attention was given him immediately after the contest and when the seriousness of his condition became apparent, the senior medical officer of the fleet was sent for, but arrived too late to be of assistance.

Mr. Bonaparte explained that the testimony showed that Cohen was treated by his adversary with all possible consideration and that the contest was marked with good humor throughout. This athletic exhibition was witnessed by a large number of officers and men and, according to the testimony, everything was properly conducted and well regulated.

Interstate Military Shooting

Wakefield, Mass., Aug. 16.—Five New England states were represented at the opening shoot of the New England Military Rifle association for company teams at the Bay state rifle range. Company D of the First Maine infantry won the first prize and battery B of the First heavy artillery took the second prize. Company A of the Massachusetts infantry was awarded third prize.

Sixty Thousand Illegal Voters

Philadelphia, Aug. 16.—According to a statement made by the director of the department of public safety, based on a canvass made by the police, there are 60,083 names on the voting lists of this city which, under the law, have no right to be thereon. The assessors in all the voting divisions of the city will be asked to strike the alleged fraudulent names from the lists.

Conquering Yellow Fever

New Orleans, Aug. 16.—Tuesday's record shows that there is beginning to be an improvement in the yellow fever situation. With only 62 new cases found by the present system, there is every reason to believe that the progress of the disease has been checked. Of the six deaths yesterday only one was an Italian.

Heavy Depositors Tipped Off

Buffalo, Aug. 16.—The books of the defunct German bank, just produced by court order for the inspection of the creditors' organization, show that large amounts were withdrawn by a few depositors on the Saturday preceding the closing of the bank and on Monday, Dec. 5, the day of the failure.

American to Hang In Canada

Ottawa, Aug. 16.—Charles King, an American, will be hanged at Edmonton on Aug. 31. King was convicted of murdering an English prospector named Hayward last fall. He was tried twice. The Dominion government had the case under review and has decided not to interfere.

On an Important Mission

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—Among the passengers on the steamer Mongolia, from the Orient, was Wong Kai Kah, Chinese imperial trade commissioner. He is going to Washington. It is said that the object of his trip is to discuss the boycott and the proposed new exclusion treaty.

King Edward In Austria

Ischl, Austria, Aug. 16.—King Edward, who is going to Marienbad to take the cure, was the guest last night of Emperor Francis Joseph. Covers were laid for 20 persons at the dinner. There is no political significance attached to the meeting of the monarchs.

STRUCK SUNKEN WRECK

Steamer Races For Dock and Sinks Just as She Reaches It

Block Island, R. I., Aug. 16.—Steamer New Shoreham, while entering the harbor on her trip from Providence with 100 passengers on board, struck a sunken wreck, and had an exciting race for the dock, sinking to the main deck just as she ranged alongside the pier. The passengers were able to land over the usual gangplank.

The New Shoreham, which was built in Boston in 1901 and over the payment of which by the town there has been considerable dispute on the island, until it has become a political issue, has been making regular trips during the summer from Providence to what is known as New Harbor. This harbor was originally a large pond, which was recently connected with the sea by cutting a narrow opening.

The steamer was about half way across the harbor when she struck the wreck. The collision ripped a hole several feet wide in her bottom, but, notwithstanding the steady inrush of water, the fireroom gang and the engineer corps, headed by Chief Quinlan, clung to their post. When the steamer was within 100 yards of the dock the water put out the fires, and by the time the steamer reached the dock Quinlan was submerged to his waist. He was at his post, however, when the steamer's gangplank was pushed ashore, and then came on deck.

It is expected that the steamer will be floated in a few days.

Narrow Escapes From Death

Boston, Aug. 16.—A huge steel drill of the working scow Ajax, coming in contact with a stick of dynamite already in position, caused the explosion of several hundred pounds of the substance, on the shore of Lovell's island, which resulted in injuries to five men, and was attended by escapes from death characterized by eye witnesses as miraculous. The men were engaged in widening the channel of Boston harbor in that section known as "the narrows." The craft and its apparatus sustained damage estimated at $1500.

Boston Reaches Full Growth

Boston, Aug. 16.—From the nearly completed tabulations of the decennial census of this state it is estimated that the population of this city will not reach 660,000. Boston was given a population of 560,892 by the national enumeration in 1900. The opinion is that the city proper will not greatly increase its present population, owing to the more or less continuous emigration from the city to the adjacent suburbs.

A Preferred Mercantile Suit

Boston, Aug. 16.—Receiver Gray of the Preferred Mercantile company of this city has brought suit against G. E. Stillings, his brother, G. C. Stillings, both of whom are now serving sentences for contempt of court, and I. M. Walters, all officers of the concern, for an accounting to recover sums claimed to have been misused and misappropriated by them. About $150,000 is involved in the suit.

Women Barred From Saloons

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 16.—As a result of a murder committed in this city last week, the board of police last night issued an order to the Lowell liquor dealers prohibiting the sale of liquor to women to be drunk on the premises. It is claimed that the alleged murder of Mrs. Spaulding by G. S. Morris was due to the free use of liquor by Morris and several women in a saloon.

Brockton's Police Scandal

Brockton, Mass., Aug. 16.—Reserve Officer Frank E. Wall of the police force has been suspended by Mayor Keith pending a hearing on the charge of "improper and immoral conduct." The action against Wall is an outcome of the police scandal that has resulted already in the removal for alleged "immoral conduct" of Inspector Harris.

Strange Dog Started Epidemic

Whitinsvile, Mass., Aug. 16.—Three dogs, all in the early stages of hydrophobia, were shot here yesterday. The dogs were pets and of value. Many cases have been traced to dogs bitten by a strange dog on July 29 and July 30. Other dogs are being watched, and all dogs in the town of Northbridge are required to wear muzzles.

Coal Company Not Insolvent

Boston, Aug. 16.—Judge Lowell has issued an order discharging the receiver of the Bliss Coal company of this city, Lynn and Chelsea, and ordered him to turn over the property and assets to the corporation. This action was taken upon recommendation of Receiver Casey, who declared the company to be solvent.

Governor Wants Claims Audited

Boston, Aug. 16.—Governor Douglas has requested State Auditor Turner to furnish him with a statement of the amount which the federal government is believed to be owing the commonwealth. There are some $560,000 of unsettled Spanish war claims, of which about $152,000 have not been audited.

Dug Their Way to Freedom

Laconia, N. H., Aug. 16.—Three prisoners dug under the wall and escaped from the Belknap county jail. The prisoners were William H. Lampman, Fred Miller and the other man's name could not be learned, as the mittimus had not arrived. All were awaiting trial for alleged burglary.

Killed Himself In Cemetery

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 16.—Henry E. Browne, a chemist of South Framingham, 67 years old, drank carbolic acid in Hope cemetery and his body was found by workmen. It is said by members of the family that Browne destroyed himself in a fit of temporary insanity.

Aldermanic Graft Alleged

Boston, Aug. 16.—As a result of the action of the board of aldermen at their last meeting in unanimously passing a request in the form of an order asking for an immediate and full investigation of the accusations of bribery made by Alderman Linehan against 10 members of the board, Chief Justice Aiken of the superior court has ordered a special session of the grand jury, to meet next Monday. District Attorney Sughrue states that not only the aldermen, but all persons who may have any knowledge relative to the bribery charges, will be summoned to appear at that time.

Charges Filed Against Taggart

Washington, Aug. 16.—It is now stated at the war department that charges were filed there last April against Major Taggart, who is suing his wife for divorce in Ohio, but no action has been taken upon the charges nor will anything be done until the termination of the present suit. The charges relate to matters out of which the divorce suit has grown. Taggart also filed charges against Colonel Miner some time ago, but they were dismissed.

Offended Nicaraguan President

Washington, Aug. 16.—Minister Merry, at Managua, has mailed a statement of the reasons why the exequatur of Consul Donaldson at Managua was cancelled. It is said that the cause assigned was the use of disrespectful language towards the president of Nicaragua. Officials are not prepared to say whether any representations will be made to the Nicaraguan government with a view to rescinding its action in the matter.

Suicide In Home-Made Coffin

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 16.—Lars Peterson, a cabinet maker, was busy the past week in his workshop. Yesterday, after he had been in it an hour, his wife called, but there was no answer. She entered, but found only a coffin. With an axe she broke open the lid and found her husband dead. He had run a hose from a gas jet into the coffin, crawled in, locked the lid from the inside, folded his arms and died. He was despondent over money troubles.

Serious Conditions In Spain

London, Aug. 16.—Dispatches regarding the famine conditions in Andalusia, Spain, state that the Spanish government has entirely failed to give relief and that the resources are completely exhausted. Hunger riots are of daily occurrence and are becoming more and more serious. It is feared that the peasantry will take the law in their own hands, and even now signs of open revolt are plentiful.

Steamer at Wind's Mercy

Buffalo, Aug. 16.—Steamer Idlewild, laden with 200 women and children, was tossed about rudderless on Lake Erie for five hours in a high wind. The Idlewild was finally brought into port by four tugs. The officers preserved order among the passengers.

Big Bridge Contract Awarded

New York, Aug. 16.—The contract for building the new Manhattan bridge, which will parallel Brooklyn bridge, has been awarded to the Pennsylvania Steel company, whose bid was $7,284,000.

City Improvements.

By ANNIE E. FAXON.

It is doubtful if our City Council sees the expediency of making the appropriation asked for by the Board of Health to purify and beautify the canal. With our big school tax and with the need of more schoolhouses, it seems as if some generosity from individuals, from citizens who desire to see Quincy improve, some special effort from property owners, and even from tenants who rent houses that are within sight of this canal might eventually do some good work here.

Civic pride comes in here and many feel that something ought to be done around Revere road and the canal, at the junction of Washington street and Revere road.

Mr. Edward T. Hultman, secretary of the Massachusetts Civic League, has sent a letter of thanks to a Quincy member who has carefully tabulated the good work done in Quincy, along industrial, philanthropic and charitable lines.

The deficiency which the canvasser deplored, was along the line of external improvements to beautify our city, and here, as in Boston and in all places, a lack of money sufficient to make stringent sanitary improvements.

How can this need be met? Only by a desire of property owners, landlords to keep their property in good shape by influencing their tenants to help keep their premises outside clean and safe.

We have so much room in Quincy that with good work one can increase our population by heavy taxpayers in lieu of simple poll tax payers.

Soon the Women's club will begin its work and at no cost in money the many intelligent public spirited women on its roll, can inaugurate a branch of work that can help in this emergency. We mean such work as the Massachusetts civic league has been doing; civic improvement, by good generous hearted citizens to improve their residences. Business men have no time after their work is done for these things but they can put their hands in their pockets and help woman's work in needful lines.

DEADLOCK IS NEAR AT HAND

Peace Envoys Will Clash on Cession of Sakhalin Island

ARTICLE IS PASSED OVER

Disposition to Postpone Critical Questions Until Every Possible Point of Agreement Has Been Covered--Mutual Pledges to Observe Integrity of China and Open Door Policy Is "Unanimously" Agreed To--Question of Liaotung Leases Settled--Agreement on Five Articles

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 16.—The crisis in the peace negotiations, upon which the eyes of the world are fastened, is approaching rapidly and the end of this week or the first of next at the latest should witness the deadlock and the end if the conference is to go to pieces.

Two more of the 12 articles, numbers 4 and 6, were disposed of yesterday. Article 4 consists of mutual pledges to observe the integrity of China and the policy of the "open door" for the commerce of all nations, and article 6 covers the surrender of the Russian leases to the Liaotung peninsula, Port Arthur, Dalny and the Blonde and Elliott islands. To article 4 both parties gave ready assent, and the official statement of the adoption of that article took care to state that it was agreed to "unanimously."

Article 5, the consideration of which was postponed until later, provides for the cession of the Island of Sakhalin. Discussion appearing useless at this stage on account of the firm negative given in the Russian reply, it was decided, upon the motion of the Japanese, to defer its discussion, thus revealing the Japanese intention of postponing to the end the life and death struggle.

This is the usual procedure followed in diplomatic negotiations, enabling the negotiators to come to an accord upon all possible points before tackling the crucial issues, and the fact that the Russians acquiesced in the proposition shows that they too are careful and anxious as are the Japanese that the world should not accuse them of being responsible for precipitating the break, if break there is to be, and wrecking the conference.

This in itself is a hopeful sign. Besides, by postponing the burning questions to the end, the physiological moment for bargain and compromise arrives. Then hurriedly the last trump cards and the game is done. And there is growing hope of compromise. To the closest observers the final solution begins to crystalize quite naturally—the Russians yielding the cession of Sakhalin, Japan foregoing "the cost of the war," but taking compensation in the money to be refunded to Japan by China on account of the transfer to her of the Chinese Eastern railroad, which Russia contends belongs to a private corporation, therefore unconfiscable by Japan; the Russian government property in Port Arthur and Dalny and remuneration for the maintenance of the 100,000 Russian prisoners in Japan.

According to the Russian view, Japan has already secured all and more than she dreamed of claiming before the war. To insist upon a foe who has still half a million men confronting her in the field footing the bill for the cost of the war as the price of peace would, the Russians say, change the character of the military struggle henceforth from one for certain principles to one for the exaction of "blood money."

All questions relating to Korea and Manchuria, except the cession of the Chinese Eastern railroad and the main Siberian line running through northern Manchuria from the station "Manchuria" on the Amur, via Harbin and Vladivostok, are settled in the five articles already adopted. Some confusion has arisen about those articles and the following resume can be accepted as absolutely accurate:

One—Recognition of Japan's "preponderating influence" in Korea, etc.;

Two—Mutual obligation to evacuate Manchuria, Russia to retrocede to China all special privileges, etc.

Three—Japanese obligation to restore the sovereignty and administration of China in Manchuria.

Four—Mutual obligations to respect the territorial and administrative integrity of China and the principle of the "open door."

Six—The surrender of the Russian leases to the Liaotung peninsula, including Port Arthur, Dalny and the Blonde and Eliott islands.

The remaining seven articles are (they are not in numerical order): The cession of Sakhalin, reimbursement for the cost of the war, the cession to China of the Chinese Eastern railroad, the article relating to that portion of the main line of the Siberian railroad running through northern Manchuria, which includes provision for policing of the road by China and not by Russia; fishing rights on the Siberian coast north of Vladivostok to the Behring sea, the article affecting Russia's naval power in the far east and that providing for the surrender of the Russian warships interned in Far Eastern waters.

To all of these Russia has more or less objection. Besides indemnity and Sakhalin Mr. Witte will strenuously oppose the surrender of the interned warships, the limitation upon Russia's naval power and the cession of the Chinese Eastern railroad to China. The article relating to the Chinese Eastern railroad is No. 7 and comes up today. The Russians are prepared with documentary evidence, if the article is not passed over, to show that the railroad is a private corporation owned by the Russo-Chinese bank. Mr. Pokotiloff, one of the Russian delegates, was manager of the bank in St. Petersburg until a few months ago, when he was sent to Pekin as minister upon the death of Mr. Lessar.

Mr. Berg, the attorney of the bank, is also here and the fight upon this article is sure to prove extremely interesting and possibly prolonged, as Russia will contest the Japanese contention that the Russian government is the real owner of the railroad and that it was built for purely strategic purposes.

The only jar in the sessions of the conference yesterday occurred at the morning session, when a rather spirited controversy occurred over the question of the publicity of the proceedings. Each side manifested a disposition to charge the other with being responsible for the "leaks" and it was settled by renewed pledges to observe the strictest secrecy henceforth regarding the proceedings. As a result the correspondents have experienced additional difficulty in securing information.

The discussion on Sakhalin yesterday went far enough to demonstrate the determined opposition of Russia to its cession and there had been not the slightest signs of yielding when the agreement was reached to defer its consideration until later. Competent Japanese authority, however, still insists that Japan will never abandon this point. They declare, however, that Komura and Takahira will go to the extreme limit to secure the bases of the "treaty of Washington." They do not pretend to say that they are assured the treaty will be signed. They do not even say that they are hopeful.

Japanese Anxious to Fight

London, Aug. 16.—The Times correspondent with General Nogi's headquarters in the field sends the following dispatch: The Japanese army is anxious to commence operations. The higher officers do not believe that the military progress has been sufficient to justify the expectation that Russia will concede the terms necessarily required by Japan. If the war continues the nature of the country and of the conditions point to the likelihood that future operations will be restricted to the neighborhood of the railway. Wide turning movements, as suggested in the European press, are not likely to be features of the campaign, nor is is probable that any great military results will ensue this year.

Japanese Attack Failed

Godzyadani, Manchuria, Aug. 16.—Two Japanese torpedo boats yesterday bombarded Port Hazarevo (Port Lazareff, Korea?) An attempt was then made to land troops, but they were beaten off by Russian chasseurs.

Japs Pushing Northward

London, Aug. 16.—The Daily Telegraph's Tokio correspondent says that the occupation of Kamchatka will shortly be announced. The garrison there is only one battalion.

Better Water For Washington

Washington, Aug. 16.—Two beds of the new filtration plant have been opened. It is a source of great satisfaction to the health officials, who attribute much of the prevailing typhoid fever to the daily consumption of unfiltered water for drinking and washing purposes. Eleven new cases of typhoid fever and three deaths from the disease were reported yesterday.

Keep's Report Probably Ready

New York, Aug. 16.—Charles H. Keep, assistant secretary of the treasury, who has been in New York state for several days, will go to Oyster Bay today. It is understood that Keep will submit to the president a report of the investigation which has been made into the management of the government printing office at Washington.

Epidemic of Meningitis

Lunenburg, N. S., Aug. 16.—An epidemic of cerebro-spinal meningitis prevails here, and the churches and schools are closed. Sixty cases have developed and of that number 20 have been fatal. All the summer residents and many of the townspeople have left the city and business is seriously affected.

An Unmerciful Procurator

Odessa, Aug. 16.—The military procurator has appealed against the decision of a court martial which sentenced two boys each to 20 years and a girl to 13 years' penal servitude for being in possession of explosives. The procurator asks for capital punishment.

German Loan to Morocco

London, Aug. 16.—The Times' correspondent at Tangier says that the German legation has officially announced that the contract has been signed for a loan arranged by Count Von Tattenbach-Ashold, the special commissioner of Germany to Morocco.

Detroit Yacht a Winner

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Ste Claire, the Detroit yacht, captured the second of the series of races for the Lipton cup. Quien Sabe, Chicago, was second, and Mendota, Milwaukee, third.

CLASSES OF POULTRY.

Selection of Breeds For Meat or Egg Production.

There are six principal classes of poultry—namely, chickens, turkeys, geese, ducks, guineas and pigeons—says Professor J. J. Vernon, New Mexico College of Agriculture. They form the sources of three kinds of products—feathers, meat and eggs. The first named class supplies nine-tenths of the poultry products of the country. The next three classes—turkeys, geese and ducks—are raised almost wholly for their flesh.

The guinea forms an unimportant group. So far as the commercial products are concerned, they have neither popularity nor merit.

The pigeon forms a small though by no means unimportant class. The highly forced young pigeon, popularly known as the "squab," finds much favor with certain classes of people.

Chickens have been divided into three groups, each comprising many breeds. These groups are, first, the Mediterranean, egg producers and nonsitters, represented by the Brown, Buff and White Leghorns; second, the American, general or dual purpose, represented by the White, Buff and Barred Plymouth Rocks, the Wyandottes and the Rhode Island reds, and, third, the Asiatics, meat producers, represented by the light and dark Brahmas, the Cochins and the Langshans.

The selection of the breed necessarily depends upon the kind or kinds of products desired. If egg production alone is sought, then some one of the Mediterranean breeds should be selected. If meat alone is the desideratum, the selection should be made from among the Asiatics. But if both meat and eggs are demanded either two breeds must be selected and maintained or the selection must be confined to the American or dual purpose group.

The selection of the breed is important, but the maintenance of the purity, health and vigor of that breed is vastly more important. If pure breds possess merit over the scrub, the truth of which no well informed person will undertake to controvert, it would seem to be desirable that the identity of the breed should be maintained. Therefore the selection of the breed must be followed by proper methods in handling. Otherwise the good results sought through the selection of thoroughbred fowls will hardly be realized.

The Value of Shade.

Although the sun's rays are a great aid to every poultryman as a warming agent in winter and as a cleansing agent in all seasons, it is necessary that young and old fowls have as much protection from them during warm days as is required for comfort.

Chicks will not grow satisfactorily and fowls will not be vigorous and profitable if confined in houses and yards where the midsummer sun makes the temperature almost unbearable or if free in an open field where there is neither bush nor tree to intercept its rays.

The poultryman whose birds have free range among fruit or other trees has the shade problem solved, but he who must keep his flock on a limited area where no trees grow must make artificial shade.

Roofs made of boards and supported by posts at each corner or shelter tents made of burlap, cotton cloth or canvas serve the purpse well if high enough to permit the air to circulate freely under them.—Cor. Reliable Poultry Journal.

THE GIRDLE.

It Was a Much Used Arrangement In the Middle Ages.

In the middle ages at the girdle were hung the thousand and one odds and ends needed and utilized in everyday affairs. The scrivener had his ink horn and pen attached to it, the scholar his book or books, the monk his crucifix and rosary, the innkeeper his tallies and everybody his knife. So many and so various were the articles attached to it that the flippant began to poke fun. In an old play there is mention of a merchant who had hanging at his girdle a pouch, a spectacle case, a "punniard," a pen and ink horn and a "handkercher," with many other trinkets besides, which a merry companion seeing said, "It was like a haberdasher's shop of small wares." In another early play a lady says to her maid: "Give me my girdle and see that all the furniture be at it. Look that cigars, pinchers, the penknife, the knife to close letters with, the bodkin, the ear picker and the scale be in the case." Girdles were in some respects like the chatelaines of more modern times, but they differed therefrom in being more useful, more comprehensive in regard both to sex and to articles worn, and when completely finished more costly. It is partly for this reason that we find girdles bequeathed as precious heirlooms and as valuable presents to keep the giver's memory green after death. They were not infrequently of great intrinsic value.

A QUEER CHANDELIER.

It Is Made of Human Bones and Hangs In a Church.

In the center of the arched roof of All Saints' church, Sedlitz, in Bohemia, hangs a chandelier constructed entirely of human bones. The church in which this remarkable object is suspended is decorated from the floor to the ceiling with the blanched bones of human bodies. Garlands of bones stretch across the walls and hang from the ceiling. Pyramids, topped with golden crowns, are artistically reared from the ground with these whitened remains of the dead. The altars are literally covered with skulls, among which are hundreds of those which had been pierced by bullets or crushed by murderous blows from swords and other weapons, denoting that these grim relics of humanity have been gathered from adjacent battlefields.

Tradition says that these piles of human bones were gathered by a blind friar of the Cistercian order, who stored them in a corner of the church. As they were fast changing into their original elements, a man named Rint devoted himself to the task of cleaning and arranging them in the church. Prince Carl of Schwarzenberg took a strong personal interest in the restoration and arrangement of the church and ordered all the repairs to be done at his own expense. A large number of tourists visit this extraordinary church every year.—London Tit-Bits.

Reynolds and Two Pictures.

Sir Joshua Reynolds having become a great man, it was but natural that the town council of Plympton, near Plymouth, where he was born, should elect him mayor. In acknowledgment of the honor he painted a fine portrait of himself and presented it to the corporation. He wrote to a friend asking him to see that the picture was hung in a good light. This friend not only did so, but hung a poor picture alongside of it in order to heighten the merits of Sir Joshua's work by contrast. Then he informed Reynolds of all the trouble he had taken. In thanking him Sir Joshua told him that the poor picture had been painted by himself (Reynolds) in early life.

The Hopelessness of Gout.

A quaint old cure for the gout—a cure, from a seventeenth century medical work, that was designed to show gout's hopelessness. "First pick," said this odd cure, "a handkerchief from the pocket of a spinster who never wished to wed; second, wash the handkerchief in an honest miller's pond; third, dry it on the hedge of a person who never was covetous; fourth, send it to the shop of a physician who never killed a patient; fifth, mark it with a lawyer's ink who never cheated a client, and, sixth, apply it, hot, to the gout tormented part. A speedy cure must follow."

One Toed Women.

Everybody has heard of the small feet of the ladies of China. But it is not so generally known that they commonly have but one toe. This is, however, the fact. The great toe of the females of the first rank, and of some of the inferior classes also, is the only one left to act with any freedom. The rest are doubled down under the foot in their tenderest infancy and retained by compression and tight bandages till they unite with and are buried in the sole.

Grumpse's Openwork Socks.

"Why does Dr. Grumpse always buy openwork socks?"

"He says that, having been a bachelor for forty-five years, the kind with holes in are the only ones in which he feels natural."—Cleveland Leader.

Very Old.

Miss Passaye—I prize that book very highly. It is a very old edition. Miss Budde—Yes, dear, I thought it must be when I saw on the fly leaf that it was presented to you on your twenty-first birthday.

The Pretty Girl.

He—I dreamt last night I proposed to a pretty girl.

She—What did I say?

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Cephas Drew has returned from a trip to Wolfboro, N. H.

Mrs. Joseph W. Lombard of Cottage street is at Wrentham.

John Q. Cudworth is in New Hampshire on a vacation trip.

Mrs. Mitchell Willis of Chestnut street is at Augusta, Maine.

Mrs. Thompson of Arlington street has returned from a visit in St. John, N. B.

The Quincys and Copeland Club will play at Merrymount Park on Saturday at 3.30.

Miss Margaret Thompson is spending her annual vacation in New Hampshire and Maine.

Is the eclipse responsible for this weather? Or the talk about snow on the moon?

The Eastern Conference of Swedish Congregational churches will be held at Quincy, on Thursday, Sept. 21.

The ladies' aid society of the Universalist church will hold a midsummer festival in the vestry of the church Thursday evening.

The many friends of Arthur De Coste are pleased to see his smiling countenance at McConnell's fruit store, after a much needed vacation of a week at Nantasket beach.

The Bacca club of West Quincy is arranging for a trolley party to Nantasket next Thursday. The committee are: George A. Barry, Ralph Newcomb, Fred Wright, Joseph Flaherty and Albert Martel.

Fought It Out.

Two men on Broadway created quite a little excitement early Tuesday morning by going out into an open lot near their boarding-place and taking off their coats. A desperate fight ensued in which both men were badly done up. One has his face cut as a result of the skirmish. This is not an uncommon occurrence in this locality. There are a few quiet, respectable houses on this street, but this cannot be said of them all. Cannot the rougher element of Broadway be suppressed in some way?

Fell from Hammock.

Viola, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jones of South street, fell from a hammock Saturday afternoon and fractured her collar-bone. A local physician was called, who advised the parents to remove her to the children's hospital in Boston. This was done and after treatment she was brought back to her home, where she suffers considerably.

Quahaug Men Fined.

In the district court at Wareham on Monday six men were fined $50 each for digging quahaugs on the grants of the Wareham Oystermen's Association. All appealed and will fight the case in the Superior court at Plymouth.

TODAY'S COURT.

Henry H. Haskell and Silas Pierce were fined $5 each for exceeding the speed limit with automobiles at Quincy.

Joseph W. Howe was sent to the State farm for being a tramp at Quincy.

Patrick Regan was fined $10 for assault on Thomas Stevens at Quincy.

James E. Kerr was fined $15 for assault on Henry Sandberg at Quincy.

Mrs. Richard Riley was arraigned for assault on Annie Larson at Quincy. Case continued until Sept. 27.

DIED.

OPINION IN DOUBT

But Russia Is Hopeful of a Peace Agreement

MORE OPTIMISTIC VIEW

Failure of Prediction That Tuesday's Session Might End Conference Considered an Indication of Final Compromise

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—Press dispatches announcing the decision of the plenipotentiaries at Portsmouth to waive for the present consideration of the article relating to Sakhalin island, and to proceed with the discussion of points that Russia is willing to accept as a basis of negotiations, were received here with some surprise and even relief by the Russian public generally, which had been forewarned that yesterday's session might end the conference.

Mr. Witte is known to have considered a rupture more than possible. The Russian correspondents on Monday night privately notified their papers that negotiations might be expected to end on Tuesday, when the Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries locked horns on the question of the cession of Sakhalin. The boerse also was apprehensive and Russian imperial 4s, which were weak yesterday, fell off an eighth.

The postponement of the discussion of one of the two points on which the fate of the conference hangs is considered a good sign, but not a sure one, and the general opinion remains one of doubt, though pessimism is losing ground as the days pass without a rupture between the envoys of the respective countries.

Count Lamsdorff and some of the other ministers were received in audience by the czar at Peterhof yesterday, but the anticipated statement was not given out and probably none will be. The foreign office maintains complete reserve regarding the proceedings at Portsmouth and it is explained that, while Russia would be glad to accord a great measure of publicity to the results of the deliberations, and even desires to do so, Japan's attitude on this point necessitates the avoidance of any statement or comment regarding the negotiations. To this end all the news relating to the Portsmouth conference has been conveyed to the Russian public through the medium of the press dispatches.

The idea is advanced at several of the embassies that an outlet may possibly be found in a compromise on the two main points of the dispute, if Japan is willing to give up Sakhalin and receive from Russia not a general war indemnity, but payment for any rights that may be acquired by virtue of occupation by the Japanese troops.

Old Musician Dies in Poverty

New York, Aug. 15.—Guiseppe Nicolao, who was one of Adelina Patti's first music teachers, died in poverty in this city, aged 80 years. He was born in Palermo and graduated from the college of music in that city. He had managed several opera companies, winning artistic success, but failing to gain wealth. Finally, at the age of 60, he settled in New York. Here he turned his attention to composition.

No Geological Grafting

Washington, Aug. 16.—In response to published charges that officials of the geological survey have used information belonging to the government for the benefit of The Mining World, a magazine in which certain members were said to hold stock, Director Walcott telegraphed to Acting Director Rizer from Drummond, Mont., where he is in camp, denying the charges.

Aucton Sale of Mill Property

Enfield, R. I., Aug. 16.—The Enfield mills property was sold at public auction here, the mill buildings, cottages and the village church bringing an aggregate sum of $20,617.50. The mill was built in 1820 and has successfully passed through four successive managements. The property was closed down about two years ago because of the high price of cotton.

Iowa's Population Decreases

Des Moines, Aug. 16.—Iowa is astounded to learn that the present census, which was completed under state auspices, shows a falling off in population of 15,785 since the federal census was taken five years ago. The combined totals give Iowa a population of 2,216,068. In 1900 the state had a population, according to federal count, of 2,231,853.

Honors to Taft Party

Manila, Aug. 16.—Iloilo tendered the Taft party a magnificent reception. The civic and military forces paraded and last night the party attended a banquet at which 300 persons were present. The dowager empress of China has inquired through the Chinese consul here desiring to know if Miss Roosevelt will visit Pekin.

Auto Killed Two Children

Baden-Baden, Aug. 16.—Two children were killed during the motor car reliability run for the Herkomer trophy. The accident occurred five miles from the start of the race, while a car was rounding a corner.

Died at Age of 107

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Joseph Labonte, aged 107 years, probably the oldest resident of this state, died last night at the Old People's home.

WINTER EGG PRODUCTION.

Points to Observe In the Care and Selection of Fowls.

The production of eggs is an easy matter in spring and summer, when the hens lay naturally, but to raise a summer product in the depth of winter is less easy of attainment, says A. V. Meersch in Western Poultry Journal. There are two reasons why the "egg farmer" should make every effort to secure the production of as great a number of eggs in winter as at other seasons—first, because eggs are very much dearer in winter than in summer, and therefore the profits of the year will largely depend on the proportion of eggs which the hens can be induced to lay at that season, and, second, because in order to work up a sound business connection with consumers the producer must be in a position to supply his customers' wants all the year round.

To secure a good winter supply of eggs the following should be observed:

A good winter laying breed must be kept.

The hens must be of a highly productive strain and bred if possible from several generations of good winter layers.

The pullets which are to be kept for winter layers must be hatched neither too early nor too late.

The hens must be more than two years old.

The houses, yards and all appliances must be laid out and constructed so as to insure comfort.

The food must contain a sufficiently large proportion of those elements which are necessary for the formation of eggs, the repair of tissue and the production of heat.

It may be taken as a general rule that it is a good plan to allow the hens to hatch and raise one, two or three broods of chickens during the season when eggs are cheap. Time apparently lost in this way is made up for by the greater number of eggs produced when they are dearest and in greatest demand.

No single breed can be said to be the best for winter laying, for a breed which will do best under certain circumstances may not be suitable in others. If, however, the different breeds are divided broadly into classes, the weight of evidence points to the conclusion that for winter laying the small nonsitting breeds are excelled by the heavy sitting varieties. The nonsitters will lay a greater number of eggs during the year, but the "general purpose" or sitting breeds are better winter layers. Among the most popular of these may be mentioned the Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Orpington, Faverolle and Langshan, and when kept under favorable conditions fowls of any one of these breeds can be depended upon for a regular supply of winter eggs.

How to Set a Duck.

Some people set duck eggs on the solid ground without anything at the bottom of the nest, but this is wrong. Should there be nothing but the earth at the bottom of the nest when the eggs chip the beak of the duckling comes through the shell on to the hard ground. Out of eleven eggs there may be two or three turned so that the beak is on the ground, and when this is the case the youngsters are frequently suffocated. When there is some hay or something loose or porous at the bottom of the nest they are able to breathe and thus do not get suffocated. It is possible to set the eggs on the bare ground and every egg to hatch out without losing a single duckling, and it has been done, but there is a possibility of their getting suffocated, so it is far better to have the nest properly made.

Poultry Growing.

The reasonable application of good common sense is the most certain way to succeed with all branches of poultry growing. Too much coddling and fancy ways are not best for success. Manage them like chickens and as chickens should be handled and all will go well with them. If handled like hothouse plants, less success will be attained. Keep poultry as it should be kept, not along the fancy lines that are followed with delicate house pets. —Country Gentleman.

The Morning Feed.

Fowls which are overfed in the morning are sluggish all day and become lazy and go out of condition. It is exercise of muscle that creates proper functional tone. All birds are active by nature. If productiveness is expected natural laws must be observed. Feed moderately in the morning, especially when the flock is small and kept in limited range.

A Good Roost.

A good roost has strong wires suspended from the ceiling. Through loops in their bottom ends are run two bars grooved to receive other bars crosswise. This is easily taken apart and not so accessible to mires.

Dry breadcrumbs mixed with one-fourth their weight of raw egg, then dried till not sticky, is a fine food for young chicks or poults.

The Duck's Bedding.

Clean bedding is as necessary in duck house as in stables. Ducks will wash their feet and feathers if given a chance, but only clean bedding can keep a wholesome air in their house.

Rest For the Breeders.

With the breeding season over, give the old fowls intended for future use a summer's outing—turning them out to pasture in a shady grove or among the berry bushes.

Onions For Poultry.

For confined chickens an excellent green food is onion tops chopped fine and mixed in the mash twice a week.

CATCHING SOFT CLAMS.

An Interesting Occupation on the Shore at Low Tide.

As we walk along the shore at low tide, on the lookout for seaweeds or interesting animals, little jets of sea water will be seen spurting up from holes in the sand. Let us dig rapidly down under one of these tiny openings and we will catch the spurter, the common soft clam, but if we are not quick enough he will burrow so rapidly as to disappear entirely and only send a last spout of water into our faces, as if in defiance. Place the shell in a glass of sea water and when the clam gains confidence he will extend from his shell the long tubelike siphon, and the two openings in the end of it, with their fringed borders, will be seen.

Now take a compound microscope or a magnifying glass and watch the water above the siphon. You will see that it is moving. With the minute life forms it contains the water sweeps in swirling currents toward one orifice of the tube and plunges suddenly down it. Then, after passing over the gills and body of the clam and giving out nourishment, the water is expelled through the other tube, and we see it rising slowly from the opening. If, however, the clam takes a fancy to contract his shell and so hasten this motion we will see a little fountain shoot up and sprinkle the surroundings just as they were observed to do on the shore.—St. Nicholas.

VIRTUES OF HONEY.

They Were Known Even Before the Koran Mentioned Them.

"There proceedeth from the bellies of bees a liquor of various color wherein is a medicine for men," says the Koran. But the virtues of honey were known before the Koran said anything about it and by countless peoples besides the desert folk of Arabia. Not only has it long been used as food and medicine, but many drinks of differing potencies and flavors have been made from it. In England a favorite drink of the old time was mead, which was made by the fermentation of the liquor obtained by boiling in water combs from which the honey had been drained. In the preparation of sack mead an ounce of hops is added to each gallon of the liquor and after the fermentation a small quantity of brandy. Metheglin or hydromel is manufactured by fermenting with yeast a solution of honey flavored with boiled hops. A kind of mead is much used in Abyssinia, where it is carried on journeys in long horns. In Russia a drink called "lipetz" is made from the delicious honey of the linden. The "mulsum" of the ancient Romans consisted of honey, wine and water boiled together. "The "clarre" or "piment" of Chaucer's time was wine mixed with honey and spices and strained clear.—Chicago News.

THE EYE IN READING.

How Its Jumps Along the Printed Line Are Measured.

We know that an eye at ordinary reading distance takes in about one inch of a line at a time and that in reading a line of an ordinary book the eye makes five or six distinct jumps. But as the movements are so very minute and rapid how have they been studied?

A beam of light is thrown upon the cornea of the eye, and this beam is reflected by the cornea on a photographic plate. As the eye moves in reading the reflected beam also moves, and upon developing the plate, which is also kept moving, a zigzag line is found. A study of such photographic tracings shows that the eyes in turning back to pick up the next line have some difficulty in so doing. The longer the line of print the greater the effort, and for this reason we may conclude that a narrow line is better for an eye than a long one, and if the line be much wider than the ordinary newspaper column there is greater effort involved.—Jewelers' Weekly.

Australian Nicknames.

The Australian papers protest that the term "Cornstalks" is not proper as a nickname for the inhabitants of the big isle of the south seas. English papers have been in the habit of calling the Australian cricket team its "Cornstalks." Of the Australian states New South Wales alone confers the title "Cornstalk" upon her sons. A Queenslander is a "Bananalander," a Victorian a "Gum Sucker," a South Australian a "Crow Eater," a West Australian a "Sand Groper."

Thoreau's Deathbed.

When the forest haunting hermit Thoreau lay on his deathbed, a Calvinistic friend called to make inquiry regarding his soul. "Henry," he said anxiously, "have you made your peace with God?" "John," replied the dying naturalist in a whisper, "I didn't know that God and myself had quarreled."

The Shadows.

Were a man's sorrows and disquietudes summed up at the end of his life it would generally be found that he had suffered more from the apprehension of such evils as never happened to him than from those evils which had really befallen him.

At the Club.

"Carry any life insurance?"

"Yes, $10,000 in favor of my wife."

"Should think you'd be ashamed to look her in the face."

"Wha-what for?"

"For living. What excuse do you give her?"

He that hires one garden (which he is able to look after) eats birds; he that hires more will be eaten by the birds.—Hebrew Proverb.

What It Pays

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchant has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in cheaper papers?

A DEFINITE POLICY

Would Be Gained by Federal Control of Insurance

HAS PRESIDENT'S FAVOR

Our Highest Court Will Eventually Be Asked to Pass on the Question--Subject of a Conference at Sagamore Hill

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Federal supervision of insurance was the subject of a conference at Sagamore Hill yesterday afternoon, so important that one of the participants, James M. Beck, formerly an assistant attorney general of the United States and now special counsel of the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, missing the regular train from Long Island City to Oyster Bay, chartered a special train from the Long Island Railroad company in order to meet his engagement with the president.

The parties to the conference were the president, Senator Dryden of New Jersey, president of the Prudential Insurance company, and Beck.

The president for a considerable time, but especially since the disclosures made during the last few months regarding the operations of the Equitable Life Insurance society, has manifested a deep interest in the problem of national control of the insurance business.

Several months ago, at the president's request, the subject of national supervisory control of insurance was investigated by Commissioner Garfield of the bureau of corporations, and the conclusion was reached that, under existing federal laws, the insurance business could not be supervised by the bureau of corporations, because, in the light of the constitution and in view of certain decisions of the federal courts, it was not regarded as interstate commerce.

At the last session of congress Senator Dryden, who is recognized as an authority in life insurance, introduced a bill in the senate providing in brief for the supervisory control of interstate insurance business by the bureau of corporations. It was along the lines of this measure that the conference proceeded. The president is known to be in favor of federal control of the insurance business, if it can be brought about constitutionally. Whether it can be is the point yet to be determined. That the supreme court of the United States eventually will be called upon to pass on the question there is little doubt.

At the conclusion of the conference Senator Dryden talked frankly: "We discussed the whole subject of federal supervision of the insurance business," said he, "and our talk was very satisfactory. Personally, I am heartily in favor of such supervision by the national government, because it would ensure to companies doing business in several or in many states a well defined and well constructed set of regulations and a definite policy.

"My opinion is that a very large majority of insurance companies will favor national supervision. Under existing arrangements we are obliged to conform to different laws and regulations in practically every state. The laws and regulations are being changed continually and different insurance departments place different interpretations on the same laws. What insurance companies want is a uniform, harmonious and continuing policy and that, we believe, is to be had only through national supervision."

Mr. Beck also talked freely regarding the subject of the conference. As a lawyer, he expressed the belief that if the subject were brought fairly before the supreme court its decision would be in favor of federal control.

While no announcement was made of the conclusions of the conference, if any were reached, there is ample authority for the statement that President Roosevelt will discuss the question of insurance in his forthcoming message to the congress in the light of developments in the last six months. That he will recommend the enactment of legislation providing for federal supervision of interstate insurance, there is no room for doubt.

Took Pictures of Fortifications

Washington, Aug. 17.—Consul Orrett, at Kingston, Ja., has reported concerning the arrest of Dr. Franklin Clark of Boston for making photographs of British fortifications. Clark has been released upon bail, but will be tried upon the charge. The consul says that Clark technically violated the law, but that he had no intention of so doing, although a man of his learning ought to have known better.

Morocco Invites Further Trouble

Fez, Aug. 17.—The sultan has declined to accede to the demands of the French minister for the payment of an indemnity and the release of the chief of the Algerian settlement at Gharb, who was arrested in consequence of local troubles. The sultan claims jurisdiction over all Algerian settlers in Morocco. The incident may lead to important developments.

DELICATE JOB.

Difficult Engineering Feat to Launch a Battleship.

So many great battleships and cruisers have been safely launched on the Delaware says the Public Ledger, that it is almost a foregone conclusion that the accomplishment of each new feat of the sort will be attended by the smoothness and flawless perfection which has come to be the standard for our shipbuilders. To those who know, however, there is a great deal more to the floating of the modern warship, with its six thousand or more tons of dead weight to be moved, than the shouting and the hurrah, than the pleasant party of guests to be entertained and feted, than the question whether the "fair sponsor" shall use wine or water.

The fact of the matter is that launching a vessel of the magnitude of the Kansas is one of the most delicate and difficult engineering feats which the shipbuilder is called upon to perform. There is too much at stake for any possibility of failure; and yet there have been failures, and the engineer in charge of the launch never gets the share of credit and congratulation from the public that properly belongs to him.

Take the case of the Kansas, (a sister ship of the Vermont to be launched at Quincy, Mass., Aug. 31) a mighty mass of steel and iron, 450 feet long, 76 feet wide, towering perhaps forty feet above the keel blocks. All the supporting timbers under the curved sides which had given the workmen such a sense of security during the months of work upon the hull were knocked away, and the huge structure, instead of being moved cautiously inch by inch to the water and lowered with infinite deliberation and care, was made to traverse the distance from terra firma to the buoyant waves at a speed which has been estimated to have been—before the cradle dropped from the launching ways—something like fourteen miles an hour.

This great body, with its centre of gravity high in the air, and moving on a track narrow in comparison with its own breadth of beam, avoided a score of perils almost any one of which might have cost many human lives and millions of capital. A slight sinking of the earth foundations, the least miscalculation in the bearing surface of the ways, some unforeseen misbehavior of the lubricant, might have spelled disaster.

Of course, none of these things happened; the plans were all well thought out, and everything came to pass just as it should. But the credit and the honor due the unnamed engineer or engineers who had the work in charge are all the greater. The new battleship will carry the flag to distant seas, and will, perhaps, win glory for the nation and for the men who man her, but it is well to give a moment's thought to those who bore the responsibility for her welfare and safety in the most critical instant of her birth as a "ship in being."

CHANGE OF COUNSEL

J. W. McAnarney Resigns from Defence of Shidlofski.

Considerable publicity has been given to the report that John W. McAnarney, the ex-City Solicitor of Quincy, had been engaged to defend John Schidlofski, the alleged wife murderer now in Cambridge jail. This morning, however, Lawyer McAnarney notified District Attorney Sanderson of his resignation as counsel.

It would have been his first case as counsel for a man charged with murder in the first degree, and many a young lawyer would have welcomed the advertising, but Mr. McAnarney has business enough and did not enjoy it. He felt that he could not give the time needed to the case.

Lawyer McAnarney will be succeeded by Philip H. Sullivan of Braintree, who frequently appears before the Quincy court and has been quite successful in criminal cases.

AT OLD HOME

Dr. Fenimore S. Andrews Married at Fitchburg.

To Miss Ethel Irene Hawley.

Will Live on Bennington Street, Quincy.

From Fitchburg comes the news of a wedding of local interest, as the groom is a successful professional man of Quincy, and will bring his bride here. At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Hawley at No. 21 Winter street, Fitchburg, Wednesday evening their youngest daughter, Miss Ethel Irene, became the wife of Dr. Fenimore Shute Andrews of Quincy, the son of Mrs. Anna E. Andrews of Fitchburg.

The officiating clergyman was Rev. Harold Brewster, curate at Christ Episcopal church, assisted by Rev. James De Wolf Perry, Jr., of Christ Episcopal church of New Haven, Conn., who was a personal friend of the bride's family.

The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock in the large parlor of the home of the bride, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion with golden-rod, ferns and sweet peas. The bridal party stood under an arch of golden-rod.

The bride wore a pretty gown of white diana silk en traine, with rose point applique and veil and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas. She was attended by Miss Ethel McMullen, who wore a gown of blue mousseline de soie, and she carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Mr. Ernest Linwood Saunders of Quincy acted as best man.

The double ring service was used. Following the ceremony there was a reception, after which a lunch was served. They received many beautiful presents, including a check of $1,000 from the groom's mother, and a handsome piano from the bride's parents, together with costly cut glass dishes and beautiful household furniture.

The bride is a graduate of the Fitchburg high school. She is one of the popular young society women of the city. The groom is also a native of Fitchburg. He is a graduate of the Fitchburg high school and the Harvard dental school. He is now living in Quincy, where he has a large practice.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews left that evening, amid a shower of rice, for a wedding tour, which will be spent in New York. On their return they will reside at 34 Bennington street, Quincy.

The torpedo boat destroyer Lawrence reported a few days ago at Bangor, Maine, is now at Newport, R. I.

STOLEN TOOLS.

Man Arrested As He Was About to Board Boston Car.

Loaded down with carpenters' tools stolen from a new house on Whitwell street, a man who gave his name as Frank Devine of Boston, was arrested Wednesday afternoon as he was about to board an electric car for Boston.

There have been many complaints to the police this summer from carpenters, that their tool chests have been broken open and tools taken, and they have been on the lookout for the parties.

Wednesday afternoon Officer Murray received a tip of a suspicious man seen going toward Goffe street. It was then in the vicinity of 5 o'clock, and having in mind the thefts of carpenters tools, Officer Murray secured a carriage and went looking for the fellow.

Standing near Adams Academy he saw a man whose pockets seemed to be bulging out more than they should. Officer Murray walked up to the man and throwing the fellow's coat open saw a hammer handle. Further investigation brought out a hatchet, plane, screw driver and other tools.

These the fellow had secreted about his person. He was bundled to the police station, where he said his name was Frank Devine. He further said that he was a mason by trade and came from Boston.

A little later it was learned that the tool chest of Alfred Sanders, which was in a new house on Whitwell street, had been broken into, and tools stolen corresponding to those found on Devine. Mr. Sanders identified the tools as his property.

In court Devine pleaded guilty to a complaint for larceny, and was sentenced to three months in the house of correction.

GOES AS EXPERT.

Bert Pitts Off Today for Liverpool and Cape Town.

James Albert Pitts, son of the late Hon. Albert Pitts of the Pitts, Kimball Co. and nephew of Dr. Horace Mann Willard, sails today for Liverpool on the steamer Cimbric. He will remain in London and vicinity for eight days when he will bid farewell to his mother and sister. On September second he will leave for Cape Town, South Africa, from where he will go by rail to Johannesburg.

He is to be employed in the firm of Frazer & Chalmers as a mechanical expert. Mr. Pitts is a graduate of the Boston Institute of Technology, where he took his degree of S. B. last June. He expects to be gone about five years with the possibility of his life's work being stationed in Johannesburg.

"Bert" Pitts is a very popular young man and his many friends regret that he is leaving Quincy.

IN SHALLOW WATER

Precautions Ordered for Safety of Submarines.

The navy department has approved recommendations made by the naval board on construction, which were made with a view to safeguarding the crews of the submarine torpedo boats and to preclude, so far as possible, the probability of a disaster such as recently befell the French submarine torpedo boat Farfadet.

The board recommended that submarine boats manned by inexperienced crews manoeuver in waters not more than 8 fathoms deep and that they be provided with lifting shackles and be accompanied by a vessel provided with lifting apparatus, so that the submarine may be promptly brought to the surface should any accident occur to hermachinery.

A PIPE DREAM.

No Alligator at the Baker Yacht Basin.

One of the Boston papers has been publishing a series of pipe dream stories about an alligator that made its appearance in Baker's Yacht Basin.

According to the story the alligator could be seen in the basin from the Weymouth shore. That a rope was put about his head and he was hauled ashore.

Another story was that he got away and chased some boys, and still another that some men had him in a bag.

Investigation proves the story to be a pipe dream that orginated in some space writer's cranium.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

The formal meeting of the envoys at Portsmouth has been accomplished with all the smoothness, and lack of unpleasant incident that could be desired. As to the beginning of the conference, it has been a distinct success. Why it would have been expected to be anything else, it is hard to see, but unquestionably there was a lurking suspicion that something untoward was going to happen. The suspicion was alive both at home, and abroad. It was the first essay of this country in the field of such international politics, and there was a good deal of question whether we could carry it through without a hitch. That it was so carried out is due in very large measure to the personality of President Roosevelt.

The mere bringing of the envoys together has been a victory that European diplomacy could not have accomplished. Not that European diplomacy is of such an inferior brand. But the two countries most concerned felt that in the President of the United States they had a man who was anxious merely to give them both "a square deal." And they felt also that in coming to America for conference they were at least not sitting down in the camp of their enemies, which would have been the case with one or the other of them had they selected any country in Europe.

As to the meeting itself, we had none of the pomp of courts nor tradition and grave precedent as to how such things should be done. In that regard we were going it absolutely blind. Yet the simple courtesy of an American gentleman, wishing well to two foreign gentlemen and aiming simply to make them feel that they were both welcome and entirely untrammeled, sufficed for all the needs of the occasion. So far as any questions of formality and precedence were concerned they were simply and adequately handled by the State Department which had the arrangements for the meeting in hand. The parties to the controversy have been properly, yet cordially welcomed, and it remains only for them to reach some common ground of settlement. In this work they are well aware that they are where they will not be subjected to influence in any way.

However they may settle their quarrel is a matter of comparative indifference to us. The chief thing is to have them settle it and to give the world peace. The President of the United States has done the utmost that propriety allows in bringing them together. As has been said, he has already done more than could any crowned in Europe. He has told the peace commissioners that he wishes them a successful issue to their labors, and in this he undoubtedly has the hearty accord of all the American people.

CRISIS COMES NEXT MONDAY

Last Cards Will Then Be Thrown In Peace Conference

CHINESE EASTERN ROAD

Russia Agrees to Cession to China of That Portion Running South to Port Arthur and Dalny, Together With Branch Line to Newchwang--She Thus Surrenders Every Vestige of Her Ambition In Manchuria--Signs of Compromise on Sakhalin and Indemnity--Japan Will Strive Hard to Get the Interned Warships

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 17.—The prospects of peace are distinctly brighter. The plenipotentiaries are now laboring with a seriousness and earnestness which leave not the slightest doubt that both are anxious to conclude a treaty. Though the main points remain to be tackled and the plenipotentiaries of each side outwardly speak as if, unless the other gives way, the conference will go to pieces, the spirit of compromise is in the air.

When he returned to the hotel last night Mr. Witte said: "I am doing all I can do for peace. Of the eight articles we have already considered I have yielded seven. No other statesman in Russia would have dared to do so much, and I have done what I have done upon my own responsibility."

From an authoritative source it is now possible to forecast with a fair degree of accuracy that the crisis will come on next Monday. Articles 7 and 8, dealing with the fate of the Chinese Eastern railroad, having been disposed of yesterday, there remains, in addition to the cession of Sakhalin, which was passed over, agreement being impossible, the question of indemnity, which comes up today as article 9; the limitation upon Russia's sea power in the Far East, the surrender of the interned warships and the grant to Japan of fishing rights on the littoral north of Vladivostok.

To all except the latter, to which Russia will agree, a negative answer has been returned, absolute in the case of indemnity and Sakhalin. Perhaps both the others may be modified and yielded by Witte in order to strengthen his insistence upon Japanese concession upon indemnity and Sakhalin. To yield on either of the latter it can be regarded as practically certain that Witte would consult the czar.

The exchange of views on the five remaining articles is expected to be completed by Saturday at the latest. The plenipotentiaries will then adjourn until Monday and the interim will probably be used by the plenipotentiaries to consult their respective governments. When they meet on Monday their last cards will be thrown upon the table. Proposition perhaps will be met by counter-proposition. If there is to be bargaining, it will come then, and suddenly the conference will be over or peace will be assured. The plenipotentiaries will come together with protocols drawn up to sign and part, or stay for the elaboration of the "treaty of Washington."

Articles 7 and 8 were disposed of yesterday, the former "in principle," the latter "unanimously," according to the official bulletins. Article 7 provides for the cession to China of the branch of the Chinese Eastern railroad, running south from Harbin to Port Arthur and Dalny, and with a branch line connecting at Newchwang with the Shan Hai Kwan-Tientsin road. Article 8 provides for the retention by Russia of the line through northern Manchuria, which forms the connecting link of the main line of the trans-Siberian and the Ussurri railroad, with its terminal at Vladivostok and Harborovsk.

From both sides it is stated that the acceptance "in principle" of article 7 only means that certain points remain to be elaborated, not that a dispute still exists. But this may possibly be only a convenient method of postponing until the final struggle the acceptance of an article which could be used in the ultimate compromise.

Russia, by the acceptance of these, two articles in connection with articles 2, 3, 4 and 6, surrenders every vestige of her ambition in Manchuria. She closes the door to the warm-water ice-free port of Dalny, upon which she lavished her millions, and retains only as a commercial, not as a military road, the link of the railroad connecting her European possessions with the maritime provinces upon the Pacific, as the right to police it with Russian troops or railroad guards is given up and its protection will become the duty of China.

The Chinese Eastern railroad is T shaped. The stem runs from Harbin south. The top runs from the station Manchuria, on the Amur river, to Pogranitchnaia, where it connects with the government-owned Usurri road to the coast. It was this "cut off" which more than anything else paved the way for what is known as the "Manchurian adverture."

There are persistent rumors about the hotel that several powers, including the Washington government, are bringing pressure to bear upon Japan to forego "the cost of the war" and content herself with such other compensation as she can secure out of the railroad, the Russian property in Port Arthur and Dalny, and the cost of the maintenance of Russian prisoners in Japan, this on the theory that Russia will eventually agree to cede Sakhalin, which is now potentially conquered territory. This is undoubtedly the line of ultimate compromise, if compromise there is to be.

It can be stated authoritatively that neither the question of making Vladivostok an "open port," or the Amur river an international waterway, as some papers have stated, is included in the Japanese terms.

Japan will make a stiff fight for the possession of the interned Russian warships. Japan is exceedingly anxious to obtain these ships and in her argument will quote several international precedents in support of her demand. One reason why the Japanese are so insistent upon this article is because of their intention not to apply the indemnity, in case one shall be obtained, to the increase of the navy.

Hopeful Prospect For Peace

Tokio, Aug. 17.—The Nichi Nichi says that the continuance of the conference is indicative of a hopeful prospect for the conclusion of peace. The paper declares that if the Russians had rejected absolutely the questions of reimbursement and the cession of Sakhalin island, the Japanese would have withdrawn from the conference. These demands are equally as important as the Korean and Manchurian questions.

Anticipating Successful Issue

Odessa, Aug. 17.—The order for the departure of the infantry division that was mobilized in the southeastern provinces has been countermanded. This is popularly interpreted as indicating the probability of a successful issue of peace negotiations at Portsmouth.

Loomis to Leave State Department

Springfield, O., Aug. 17.—Assistant Secretary of State Loomis was shown the report from Lenox, Mass., that W. C. Sanger was to be made assistant secretary of state when Mr. Root assumes the portfolio. Mr. Loomis made a statement in which he indicated his intention to resign from the state department. He also said that upon leaving his present position he expects to be given a diplomatic post and that at present he has no idea to what country he will be assigned.

Twelve Killed In Quarry Disaster

Allentown, Pa., Aug. 17.—A mass of limestone weighing thousands of tons slid from a side of the quarry of the Lehigh Portland Cement company at Ormrod. Twenty-seven men were at work in the quarry, of whom only nine got away safely. The remaining 18 were huddled in a space 10 feet square. Twelve of them were killed and six injured. Two of the latter may die. All of the men are Slavonians who lived in shanties close to the quarry.

Freighter Sunk Survey Boat

Detroit, Aug. 17.—The United States lake survey steamer Hancock was crossing the channel in Lake St. Clair when the package freighter Binghamton of Buffalo struck her bow and damaged the Hancock so seriously that she sank in two minutes. The officers and crew escaped in lifeboats. The Hancock will probably be raised. Captain Wilson of the Hancock said that he had exchanged port signals with the Binghamton.

Kicking Against Commissariats

Panama, Aug. 17.—The establishment of commissariats in the canal zone by the isthmian canal commission is causing a feeling of great dissatisfaction among Panama and Colon merchants. An indignation meeting was held here last evening to protest against this action and appeal will be made to President Amador to intervene in the merchants' behalf.

To Have Public Food Kitchens

Madrid, Aug. 17.—The government has ordered Andalusian authorities to erect public kitchens for the supply of food to the famine-stricken in all the towns and villages. The railways have been requested to commence the work of repair and construction on all lines in order to give employment to the greatest possible number of people.

Attack on Empress of Japan

Frankfort, Aug. 17.—A Tientsin dispatch to The Frankfurter Zeitung says that an attempt was made on the life of the empress of China as she was passing through the northwest gate of the city to her summer palace. Her assailant was dressed as a soldier and was bayonetted by the guard.

Would Join In Case of Danger

Christiania, Aug. 17.—Discussing the maintenance of the forts on the Norwegian frontier, Bjornsterne Bjornson says that he believes that the forts will contribute to the security of Sweden, as, after dissolution, Norway and Sweden might assist each other in times of danger.

Funds For Chinese Boycott

Manila, Aug. 17.—The Chinese merchants here are secretly supplying the Chinese in Moroland with funds to carry on the boycott against American goods.

Riotous Strikers Shot Down

Granmichele, Sicily, Aug. 17.—The police here fired on strikers who were stoning them, killing seven and wounding a number of others.

A SUN BATH.

It Is a Potent Factor In the Cure of Any Disease.

There is no disinfectant made by man that can compare with the sun's rays in effectiveness.

A sun bath is a most potent factor in the cure of any disease. After one's skin becomes accustomed to the direct rays of the sun one may lie in the sunshine for hours at a time with great benefit, but at first the exposure should be of only a few minutes' duration at one time. These short periods, however, may be repeated several times a day. The best results are obtained by exposing the bare skin of the whole body (except the head) to the direct rays of the sun. Consequently a cot placed in the bow window of an upper chamber is an ideal place for a sun bath, provided that the air in the chamber is absolutely fresh and pure.

To sit on the porch in the sun is very beneficial, even if one must be so warmly wrapped up as to make it difficult for the sun's rays to penetrate to the skin.

To lie on the grass in the sun is better still—on the grass with only a blanket between the invalid and the healing powers of mother earth.

The patient's head should not be exposed to the direct rays of the sun in any case, and a sun bath should be followed by a cool sponge bath when possible.—Maxwell's Talisman.

EFFIGIES AT FUNERALS.

A Curious Custom That Was Followed In the Olden Days.

At the funerals of great personages, the old chronicles tell us, "his lively effigy," dressed to imitate life, was carried in a chariot before the corpse to the grave, then there set up under a "hearse" or a temporary monument in the church. Such effigies were often left in a glass case standing over the vault where the interment had taken place. Some statues were of wood, with heads of plaster, but the more modern ones were of wax. In the olden days laudatory poems or epitaphs were affixed with pins or wax to these "hearses" and were even thrown into graves on the coffins in a similar manner to our modern custom of flowers at a burial. When Skelton, poet laureate to Henry VIII., "took sanctuary at Westminster to escape the displeasures of the then all powerful Cardinal Wolsey it is said that he subsisted on what he earned by writing epitaphs for use at funerals in the abbey. Ben Jonson's well known epitaph to the Countess of Pembroke—

Underneath this sable hearse
Lies the subject of all verse,
Sidney's sister, etc.—

was evidently thus attached to her "hearse."—Gentleman's Magazine.

A DESIRE TO PLEASE.

It Is Always Appreciated, and In Business It Pays.

There is nothing people appreciate more than being served by those who really enjoy accommodating them. What a comfort, at a strange hotel especially, to be served by those who seem anxious to please us, who seem to take real pleasure in making us feel at home and comfortable! There is no one quality which will help youth along more rapidly than the cultivation of this desire to please, to accommodate. It appeals to everybody; it creates a good impression.

What a pleasure and a comfort when traveling to be served by pleasant, good natured people who try to please us! A surly, impudent Pullman porter often destroys the pleasure of a whole journey on a train. An impudent clerk in a hotel office can make everybody in the house uncomfortable, and such service is dear, even if it could be had for nothing.

It is noticeable that a boy who always tries to help wherever he can and to make everybody comfortable, who is accommodating in everything, is very popular and, other things being equal, most likely to be promoted.—Success.

The Madding Crowd.

One thing that annoys and humiliates a western man in New York city is the way in which he is herded with the crowd. Out west a man is an individual. He feels that he is somebody, a responsible citizen, a factor in the community, a person more or less worth while, entitled to a certain amount of respect merely as a man and regardless of wealth or social position or political power. But in New York, unless one is somebody very important, he is nobody at all. He is a mere unit in the mob, of no more moment than one ant in a hill.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Scarlet Fever.

An English physician declares that it is better to keep scarlet fever patients at home, where the germs die out gradually in the fresh air, than to send them to a hospital, where they are in the midst of dozens of other cases in all stages of the disease. On their return to school the germs are called into activity by the foul air in the room, and the disease is spread to others by coughing, etc.

No Show.

Magistrate—How comes it that you dared to break into this gentleman's house in the dead of night? Prisoner—Why, your honor, the other time you reproached me for stealing in broad daylight. Ain't I to be allowed to work at all?"

A Suspicious Agreement.

"I guess your watch is wrong."

"What! My watch doesn't vary a quarter of a minute."

"Well, I don't know how much it's out of the way, but your time is too blamed near mine to be right."

GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuell, Maryland block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '99, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of

EMILLIE BISSON,
sometimes written Emilie Bisson,
late of Quincy, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, two certain instruments purporting to be the last will and testament and one codicil of said deceased have been presented to said Court for Probate, by James H. Bisson and Alfred W. Bisson, both of Quincy, who pray that letters testamentary may be issued to them the executors therein named, without giving a surety on their official bonds.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the thirteenth day of September, A. D. 1905, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioners are hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire Judge of said Court, this ninth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and five.

RECIPROCITY CRY

Will Be Superseded by a Call For "Dual Tariff"

A LEAGUE TO ORGANIZE

Senator Cullom Outlines Plan of Maximum and Minimum Tariff, Applicable to Nations Who Discriminate Against Our Products and Those Who Don't

Chicago, Aug. 17.—"Dual tariff" in all probability is the war cry that will ring through the United States for some years to come instead of the familiar call for "reciprocity."

The new slogan means the passage of a "maximum and minimum" tariff law, permitting the establishment of reciprocity trade relations with friendly foreign countries by a vote of congress.

Alvin H. Sanders, chairman of the executive committee of the national reciprocity conference, which has opened its two days' session at the Illinois theatre, is credited with originating the war cry. Mr. Sanders broached his suggestion to a few friends after the word reciprocity had received some rough handling on the floor of the convention and it met approval among the delegates.

It is now considered probable that the reciprocity conference will close its sessions by resolving itself into the dual tariff league, an organization to have a permanent form for the purpose of educating legislators and voters in the principles of the "high and low" system of duties.

"I condemn the word 'reciprocity,'" said L. F. Lincoln of the Buffalo Life Stock association, who addressed the conference. "In the minds of many voters 'reciprocity' means nothing else than 'free trade' and free trade is not the object for which this conference is called."

This statement elicited a round of hearty applause which broke forth anew when James F. Parker, chairman of the New York Produce Exchange delegation, made a similar declaration. Both Lincoln and Parker asserted that "reciprocity" had outlived its usefulness and must go. Other suggestions for a title were tariff "elasticity," "moderation" or "alteration," but none of them appeared to meet the favor of the men who heard them.

A concise statement of the availability and the desirability of the dual tariff against reciprocity was made by Senator Cullom of Illinois, who spoke in part as follows:

"The west is almost unanimously in favor of reciprocity, the eastern senators are almost solidly against it, the minority in the senate is divided, reciprocity under the fourth section of the Dingley act has failed. I believe that the Dingley rates are sufficiently high to warrant our entering into reciprocal arrangements with Central and South American countries and with European nations as well.

"I very much prefer the adoption of the principle of reciprocity as a means of retaining and extending our foreign markets, as a means of quietly, without interruption of our business conditions, revising, where necessary, the tariff, as a means of preventing discrimination against our products, such as Germany and other nations now propose to make.

"But if we cannot secure the ratification of reciprocity treaties there is one other method that was seriously considered by the committee on foreign relations more than two years ago, when it became apparent that the reciprocity treaties could not be ratified, and that is the adoption of a maximum and minimum tariff. By that I mean the adoption of an arrangement, by act of congress, somewhat similar to that in force in France. Have a minimum tariff, applicable to all nations which give our products the most favored nation treatment, and a maximum tariff, say 25 percent higher, to apply to nations which discriminate against our products.

"The adoption of this principle would not accomplish for our foreign trade all that reciprocity would accomplish. It would not open any very extensive new markets for our products, but it would prevent discrimination. A maximum and minimum tariff is more in the way of retaliation, but something must be done, and if we cannot secure reciprocity I shall favor the enactment of a law by congress providing a maximum tariff to be applicable to every nation that discriminates against our products. There are two remedies, reciprocity or a maximum and minimum tariff, and, as it appears now, the latter, if either, is the method that will be adopted."

Against Tinkering of Tariff

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Manufacturers and Producers' association of California a resolution was adopted viewing with alarm the prospect of any change in the tariff as dangerous to the industries of California, and urging congress not to make any alteration in the tariff.

Patriotic Spirit Wilted

St. Paul, Aug. 17.—A wholesale desertion of privates from the army post at Fort Snelling is reported at army headquarters here. About 50 privates left the post without permission. The cause of the desertion is said to have been a disinclination of the men to do manual labor. The desertion occurred when they were paid.

ALDERMEN SUMMONED

They Must Appear at Boston Bribery Investigation

Boston, Aug. 17.—There was a bit of a stir in the corridor of the second floor of city hall when Inspector Norton of police headquarters appeared and proceeded to make a personal call upon as many members of the board of aldermen as he was able to find, and hand them an invitation to be present at the court house next Monday, when the special session of the grand jury has been called to consider the evidence in the alleged bribery of aldermen in connection with the national dock trust order. The inspector found several of the aldermen in the private room of the board, and they received the summonses and will be present when wanted.

It is said that the district attorney has taken further steps in his investigation of the bribery case, and that he has called to his assistance Chief Watts' bureau of criminal investigation. The district attorney would not say anything about his plans, but it is said that he is causing a most thorough investigation to be instituted, and that he may have some evidence to present outside of that of aldermen or others who have been mentioned in connection with the case.

Dropped to Their Death

Walpole, N. H., Aug. 17.—John Leach and George Jenna, farmers, were driving in a carriage to Bellows Falls, N. H. Upon a signal from a flagman at a railroad crossing close to the Connecticut river bridge the men had stopped their horse, but at the approach of an express train the horse became frightened and jumped directly in front of the locomotive. The party was carried onto the bridge a few yards distant and dropped. Leach fell headlong onto the rocks, 100 feet below, breaking every bone in his body. Jenna fell into a pool of water and was dead when found. The horse was also killed by falling on the rocks. Janna leaves a widow and child. Leach is survived by a family.

Car Killed Salvation Captain

Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 17.—While the Salvation Army was making its nightly parade here last night an electric car crashed into the procession and instantly killed Captain George Fitzsimmons of the Portland Salvation Army Industrial home. Another member of the army was slightly injured. It is assumed that Motorman Haley thought the marching Salvationists would leave the car track and therefore kept the car going at a moderate rate of speed. It took half an hour to free the mangled body from beneath the car. Fitzsimmons was 35 years of age and leaves a widow and two children.

Ethan Allen Memorial Dedicated

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 17.—A massive battlemented tower of Vermont granite, erected in memory of the Vermont Revolutionary patriot, Ethan Allen, on the farm where he spent much of his life, was dedicated in this city. The orator of the day was Vice President Fairbanks. President Roosevelt was represented by Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock, a great-grandson of the Vermont hero. Yesterday was chosen for the dedicatory exercises as being peculiarly appropriate, as it marked the 128th anniversary of the battle of Bennington.

Cigar Manufacturers Raided

Boston, Aug. 17.—Government officials placed under arrest and seized the factories of three local cigar dealers, who are suspected of swindling the revenue department out of a considerable amount of money by not complying with the law in making records of all leaf tobacco handled by them. A complete investigation will be made of the books and stock found on the premises. A fourth manufacturer, it is stated, will be taken as soon as he is located.

Fled From Police and Lost Arm

New London, Conn., Aug. 17.—William Sykes of the coast artillery, stationed at Fort H. C. Wright, Fishers Island, fell on the railroad tracks while trying to escape from a policeman and had his right arm cut off by a train. Sykes and three companions were in a quarrel at the station and the policeman attempted to arrest them.

Hiring Help For Panama

Boston, Aug. 17.—A party of 32 carpenters and six plumbers left this city for the Isthmus of Panama today to engage in government work. The men were selected at the civil service room in the federal building. Supervisor Stockelberg has received orders from Washington to remain here another week to secure more men.

Big Catches of Ground Fish

Boston, Aug. 17.—Thirty-three vessels yesterday landed on T wharf a total of over 1,225,000 pounds of ground fish. Of the catch haddock predominated, there being 810,500 pounds of that fish alone.

Jockey Perhaps Fatally Hurt

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 17.—In the steeplechase race here Jockey Callahan, who rode Malden, was seriously injured by a fall. He sustained a concussion of the brain and may not recover. Malden, running second to Balzac, stumbled in taking the water jump and threw Callahan, who landed on his head, the horse rolling completely over him.

Taken From Sheriff and Hanged

Lake Cormorant, Miss., Aug. 17.—Henry Young, a negro who shot and killed Edward A. Parry near Lake Cormorant, was taken from Sheriff Withers and a deputy last night and, at the scene of his crime, was hanged by a mob.

Government Printing Scandal

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Assistant Secretary Keep of the treasury, chairman of what is known as the Keep commission, came to Oyster Bay to present the report and findings of his committee in the recent investigation of the proposed purchase of typesetting machines for the government printing office. Further than to say that the president had approved the findings of the commission, Keep declined to discuss the matter. It is known, however, that an unfortunate condition of affairs developed in the government printing office, not necessarily dishonest, but detrimental to the interests of the government.

Interesting Railroad Figures

Washington, Aug. 17.—The annual report of the interstate commerce commission, giving the railroad statistics for the year 1904, shows that there were at the end of that year 297,073 miles of railroad in the United States. The number of railway corporations included in the report was 2104. The number of roads in the hands of receivers was 28, and at the close of the previous year 27. On June 30, 1904, there were in the service of the railways 46,743 locomotives. The total number of cars of all classes, exclusive of those owned by private companies, was 1,798,561.

Nicaraguan Government at Fault

Washington, Aug. 17.—It is possible that the United States government will not accept without protest the action of the Nicaraguan government, in cancelling the exequatur of Consul Donaldson at Managua. The information at hand is to the effect that valuable property of an American company was in danger of destruction at the hands of citizens of Nicaragua. The consul was endeavoring to secure protection for it, when he is alleged to have offended the president.

Varied Views of Restriction Law

Portland, Or., Aug. 17.—At the Trans-Mississippi congress here the welcoming addresses developed the fact that there is not altogether harmony on the subject of Chinese restriction laws. It became apparent that the sentiment of Washington and Oregon is in favor of a strict application of the restriction laws, as opposed to the more liberal application favored by the California representatives and delegates from the middle west.

Verdict In Railroad Disaster

Cleveland, Aug. 17.—Coroner Siegelstein has rendered a verdict in connection with the wrecking of a train on the Lake Shore railroad at Mentor on the night of June 23, in which 19 lives were lost. The coroner holds that Walter F. Minor, the telegraph operator at Mentor, opened the switch which caused the accident, but whether he did so on his own volition or by telegraphic orders of a superior officer he is not prepared to say.

Yellow Fever Still Raging

New Orleans, Aug. 17.—Following is the official record to 6 p. m. yesterday on the yellow fever situation: New cases, 66; total cases to date, 1146; deaths, 4; total deaths to date, 176; new disease centres, 19; total disease centres to date, 248; cases under treatment, 414. No material change in the situation is looked for in the immediate future. The death rate is about 11 percent.

Says Lawrence Is Innocent

Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 17.—J. R. Trainor, a farmer of this city, states that he is prepared to prove by more than a score of farmers that George Lawrence, now under arrest at Brockton, Mass., for the murder of William Bate, a Chicago chauffeur, last November, is innocent. He has telegraphed the police at Brockton and Chicago to this effect.

MOZART AT THE OPERA.

An Uproar, an Ovation and the Correction of an Error.

Mozart, being once on a visit at Marseilles, went to the opera incognito to hear the performance of his "Villanella Rapita." He had reason to be tolerably well satisfied till, in the midst of the principal arias, the orchestra, through some error in the copying of the score, sounded a D natural where the composer had written D sharp.

This substitution did not injure the harmony, but gave a commonplace character to the phrase and obscured the sentiment of the composer. Mozart no sooner heard it than he started up vehemently, and from the middle of the pit cried out in a voice of thunder, "Will you play D sharp, you wretches?"

The sensation produced in the theater may be imagined. The actors were astounded, the lady who was singing stopped short, the orchestra followed her example, and the audience, with loud exclamations, demanded the expulsion of the offender. He was accordingly seized and required to name himself. He did so, and at the name of Mozart the clamor suddenly subsided into a silence of respectful awe, which was soon succeeded by reiterated shouts of applause from all sides. It was insisted that the opera should be recommenced. Mozart was installed in the orchestra and directed the whole performance. This time the D sharp was played in its proper place, and the musicians themselves were surprised at the superior effect produced. After the opera Mozart was conducted in triumph to his hotel.

SCUTTLING A SHIP.

Laws Against This Crime Have Always Been Very Severe.

Scuttling may be defined as the art of cutting holes through a ship's hull, either for the purpose of keeping her steady, when stranded, by filling the hold with water and thus saving ship and cargo, or sinking her in order to obtain the money for which she is insured. It is the latter form of scuttling that we propose to deal with.

A shipmaster is monarch of all he surveys when remote from the land and no other sail above the boundary line of sea and sky; hence there would be little difficulty in his way should he propose to scuttle his ship, either to injure or to assist the owners thereof. For this reason the laws against scuttling have always been very severe all over the world. By an act of congress passed in 1804 it was enacted that "any person, not being an owner, who shall on the high seas willfully and corruptly cast away, burn or otherwise destroy any vessel unto which he belongeth, being the property of any citizen or citizens of the United States, or procure the same to be done, shall suffer death." English laws were similar. The last man executed in England for ship scuttling was Codling, hanged on Deal beach about 1804 for scuttling a vessel in the Downs in order to obtain the sum for which she was insured. Less drastic laws prevail now, and the gravity of such a case is met by penal servitude and the canceling of certificates should the offenders be shipmasters or officers.—London Standard.

Victor Hugo's Double.

Victor Hugo had a real double in flesh and blood who exploited his physical resemblance to the man of genius. He cut his beard like Hugo's, copied the master's dress in its smallest details and so for eighteen years divided with the master the admiration of the public. His especial delight was to pose in a poetical attitude in front of a Punch and Judy show. He did this at a particular spot every Thursday afternoon for years, thoroughly enjoying the murmurs of curiosity and applause proceeding from the gaping crowd which he deceived. We do not hear that he reaped any other reward but his pleasure.

A Race of Stalwarts.

The study of the improvement of the human race by selected breeding has in recent times been dignified by science. The glib argument is applied that, as we improve the race of race horses by selection of parents, we might produce similar effects by supervising human marriages. There are several fallacies in this reasoning. We are able to breed fast race horses because we want fast race horses, but the difficulty is that we do not know what ideal of man we should aim at.—London Medical Press.

The Gentle Orientals.

To rid themselves of an enemy, the residents of oriental countries frequently mix with the food of the person of whom they would be rid the tiny black specks found under the sheath leaves at the joints of bamboo. These specks, seen under a microscope, are veritable barbed arrows, and once taken internally resist the action of the gastric juices and set up an intestinal inflammation that invariably causes death.

The Bad Part.

"I dreamed last night that I was married," said the maid as she sat down to breakfast the other morning. "Is that a bad dream?"

"The only thing bad about it," growled her father, "is that it isn't true."—Chicago News.

Fiscal.

Youth—I have come to seek the hand of your daughter in marriage.

Man—Will you kindly call tomorrow? I make it a rule not to attend to business out of office hours.

Patriots are grown too shrewd to be sincere, and we are too wise to trust them.—Cowper.

Names of Note In the News

Governor John McLane of New Hampshire—Rear Admiral Mead—Brigadier General Carter—Dr. Salmon. Ambassador Casasus

GOVERNOR JOHN M'LANE.

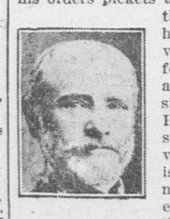
GOVERNOR John McLane of New Hampshire, who is the official host of the peace commissioners while they are at Portsmouth, is a typical New Englander, though not a native of the United States. He was born fifty years ago in Scotland, and Lenoxtown, about a dozen miles from the city of Glasgow, has the honor of being his birthplace. At two years of age he made a trip across the Atlantic as a steerage passenger, his parents having decided to find a home in America and being under necessity of spending as little as possible in traveling expenses. For some years Governor McLane's home has been in Milford, where he has a spacious residence of the regulation old fashioned New England type, surrounded by ample grounds. The mansion has a library of 5,000 volumes and a billiard room, and outside the house there are facilities for tennis, golf and baseball. Mrs. McLane is fond of society, and the family home is noted for its hospitality. The governor and his wife have three sons and a daughter. The eldest son is in business with his father, and the next is at Dartmouth college, while the daughter, Miss Hazel, is now attending Bryn Mawr. Governor McLane has a reputation for generosity to his employees and to public enterprises, and in illustration of his kindly spirit it is related that he once saw a score or more of small boys watching a baseball game from afar, but without price of seats on the bleachers. Out came his pocketbook, and the boys were not long in getting inside the fence.

Congressman John Newton Williamson, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the Oregon land investigation, represents the second Oregon district in the house of representatives, is a native of Oregon and will be fifty years of age this autumn. He attended Willamette university until within three months of graduation, when his health broke down and he had to leave without finishing his course. He removed to the high altitudes in the eastern part of the state, where he engaged in the cattle business and lived for twenty years. In 1886 he married Miss Viletha Forest and has three daughters. His public career began when, in the year of his marriage, he was elected sheriff of Crook county. He afterward served several terms in the state legislature and in 1902 was elected to congress. He was re-elected in 1904.

CONGRESSMAN J. N. WILLIAMSON.

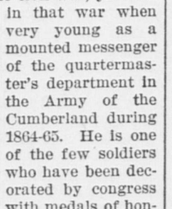
The return of Thomas Carter to the United States senate from Montana is expected to revive the snuff taking habit in that body. Owing to lack of users of the ground weed among the present members of the senate the custom has fallen into disuse. But the two tiny mahogany snuffboxes, one in the recess at each side of the presiding officer's chair, are still in position and are always kept well filled. Ten or twelve years ago there were a dozen snuff takers in the senate. It was a common sight then to see Carter, ex-Senator George of Mississippi, the late Senator Beck of Kentucky and others walk down to Captain Bassett's chair and take a liberal pinch of the powdered stuff from the latter's gold and silver snuffbox. Nowadays it is a rare thing to see a senator indulge in the luxury of an invited sneeze.

Rear Admiral William Whitman Mead, who welcomed the peace envoys of Japan and Russia to the Portsmouth navy yard, is the naval commandant at that station and has done everything in his power for the comfort and convenience of the commissioners. By his orders pickets are stationed about the naval storehouse where the envoys hold their conferences, to guard against the intrusion of outsiders. He led the procession when the envoys landed on the island where the navy yard is situated and proceeded to their meeting place. The admiral has seen important service in the course of his career, is a native of Kentucky and was born in Burlington, Feb. 18, 1845. He graduated from the United States Naval academy in 1865 and married Miss Julia B. Watts of Kentucky. Promoted to ensign in 1866, he was a master two years later and became a lieutenant in 1869. It was while he was a lieutenant that an American schooner stranded on the shores of Korea. The vessel was burned and its crew murdered. An American expedition was sent to inquire into the fate of the crew, and in this expedition Lieutenant Mead commanded the steam launch Colorado in the first day's fight with the Korean forts. When a force was landed for the destruction of the forts he was in charge of the light artillery from the flagship. In the Spanish war he commanded the United States steamship Machias and for several years after that war was assigned to the Brooklyn.



REAR ADMIRAL W. W. MEAD.

Dr. Daniel Elmer Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry in the department of agriculture, is considered one of the foremost authorities in his profession. In the course of the investigation into the affairs of the agricultural bureau and divisions a question was raised as to the propriety of his former partnership in a company which supplied meat labels to the department. Dr. Salmon loaned money to a young man to give him a start in business and then entered into a partnership with him in order to protect himself. This partnership continued until 1901, when it was dissolved because the young man, whose name is George E. Howard, had obtained contracts from the government for using the meat label he had invented. Secretary Wilson decided that there was no impropriety in the acts attributed to Dr. Salmon. The latter has been connected with the department of agriculture since 1879, and when the bureau of animal industry was established in 1884 he was made its head. He was born in Mount Olive, N. J., in 1850, and graduated from Cornell university in 1872. He is a fellow of the American Association For the Advancement of Science, chairman of the committee on animal diseases and foods of the American Public Health association, dean of the veterinary department of Columbia university, Washington, and author of numerous works.



DR. D. E. SALMON.

Brigadier General William H. Carter, U. S. A., is one of the few officers in the regular army of high rank who still have a lengthy period of active service before them. He will not go on the retired list until 1915. He is not a veteran of the civil war, yet was in that war when very young as a mounted messenger of the quartermaster's department in the Army of the Cumberland during 1864-65. He is one of the few soldiers who have been decorated by congress with medals of honor, and his medal was won through distinguished bravery in action against the Apache Indians at Cibicu creek, Arizona, Aug. 30, 1881.

BRIG. GEN. W. H. CARTER.

General Carter graduated from the United States Military academy in 1873. He entered the infantry arm of the service, but was soon transferred to the Sixth cavalry, in which he served twenty-four years on the frontier. When a captain of cavalry he was selected for appointment in the adjutant general's department, and at the outbreak of the war with Spain, when he had reached the rank of colonel and assistant adjutant general, he rendered most valuable service on account of his thorough knowledge of army organization. General Carter is author as well as soldier. Among his works are "Horses, Saddles and Bridles," "Historical Sketch of the Sixth United States Cavalry" and "From Yorktown to Santiago."

The successor of the late Manuel Aspiroz as ambassador to the United States is a Mexican statesman who has been a leading exponent of the progressive policy adopted by that republic in recent years and who is also known as a jurist, an economist and a man of letters. President Diaz in appointing to the post held by the late Senor Aspiroz the secretary of the recent pan-American conference, Senor Joaquin D. Casasus, signified a desire to make even closer the present intimate relations between his republic and ours, for Senor Casasus has been one of the foremost advocates of such a policy. It is due to the influence and advice of such men as Senor Casasus that trade between Mexico and the United States has expanded more than 300 per cent in the past ten years.

AMBASSADOR JOAQUIN CASASUS.

Senor Casasus was born in Fontera, in the Mexican state of Tabasco, in 1858 and studied at the Literary institute of Yucatan. His legal education was obtained at the Law School of the City of Mexico, and in 1880 he was admitted to the bar. His record as a jurist was made in the Mexican capital. For nearly twenty years he was a deputy in the Mexican congress and prominent in the committee on the budget. He served on a number of important financial commissions and was largely influential in bringing about the changes in the monetary system of his country which were recently adopted. His writings on the subject of international law have attracted attention in Europe, and his works on financial subjects are numerous. Though he has been so profound a student of weighty subjects he has given much attention to literature in its lighter aspects and has translated into Spanish the poems of Longfellow and also the works of several ancient Roman poets. He has a wife and seven children, and his home is noted for its hospitality.

THE PITT DIAMOND.

Its Varied Career After It Became the Property of France.

The Pitt diamond was first employed, after it became one of the crown jewels of France, in the ornamentation of the crown that was made for the coronation of King Louis XV. in 1722. In 1791 it was entered in an inventory of crown jewels that was compiled by order of the national assembly during the revolution, and it was deposited at the Garde Meuble after the assembly had determined to sell it if a buyer at a suitable price could be found, but no offer was made, and so it happened that in September it was stolen with other jewels by a band of men who broke into the Garde Meuble. It was secreted by the thieves in a hole in the timber work of a garret in a low lodging, and there it remained some time. It was at length discovered by the republican authorities and deposited in the national treasury.

It was not again disturbed until 1804, when it was set in the pommel of the sword which Napoleon wore when he crowned himself emperor at Notre Dame, in Paris. The Empress Marie Louise carried it off with other crown jewels to Blois after the Emperor Napoleon was banished to Elba, but her father, the Emperor Francis of Austria, obtained it from her and sent it to Louis XVIII. That king on Napoleon's return from Elba fled with it to Ghent, but after Waterloo returned with it to Paris. In 1830 the diamond was used by King Charles X. at his coronation, but since then it has not been employed at any ceremonial, and remains in safe custody at the Louvre.—"Memories of Madras."

LIFE IN THE UNIVERSE.

Countless Worlds In Space May Be Inhabited.

The fact that, so far as we have yet been able to learn, only a very small proportion of the visible worlds scattered through space are fitted to be the abode of life does not preclude the probability that among hundreds of millions of such worlds a vast number are so fitted. Such being the case, all the analogies of nature lead us to believe that, whatever the process which led to life upon this earth, whether a special act of creative power or a gradual course of development, through that same process does life begin in every part of the universe fitted to sustain it. The course of development involves a gradual improvement in living forms, which by irregular steps rise higher and higher in the scale of being. We have every reason to believe that this is the case wherever life exists. It is therefore perfectly reasonable to suppose that beings, not only animated, but endowed with reason, inhabit countless worlds in space. It would, indeed, be very inspiring could we learn by actual observation what forms of society exist throughout space and see the members of such societies enjoying themselves by their warm firesides. But this is, so far as we can now see, entirely beyond the possible reach of our race, so long as it is confined to a single world.—Professor Simon Newcomb in Harper's Magazine.

The Saucy Wren.

The mother wren, with her saucy tail tilted at a saucy angle, loved to come around the lattices and porches of the house to make her home.

A gray haired gentleman sitting quietly reading on his front porch one morning watched her with a mixture of amusement and affection till she flitted out of view.

Presently he felt the flutter of wings around his head, and then a pair of small feet rested there. It was the wren.

A most vigorous pulling and tugging at his hair betrayed the purpose of the enterprising little bird. When she had secured what she could carry of the soft white hair she flew away.—Pearson's.

The Father of Odessa.

A French emigre was the father of Odessa in Russia. He was the Duc de Richelieu of the line of the famous cardinal, who left France in the troublous days of the revolution and entered the Russian service. He was the governor of Odessa about a century ago. He found it little better than a fishing village and left it as it was developing into a flourishing seaport. In 1814, when the monarchy was restored, the Duc de Richelieu returned to his native land and became one of Louis XVIII.'s ministers. He died in 1821. In Odessa a statue is erected to his memory.

Meningitis In Animals.

Veterinary surgeons know, but the general public probably does not, that some animals are as liable to meningitis as are human beings. Goats and horses are the principal sufferers in the dumb creation, and from them the infection may be transmitted to man. In horses the disease is known as "hydrocephalus acutus." Of horses affected with the disease, 78 per cent die, and the remainder have a chronic tendency to relapse.—London Globe.

Still Unemployed.

"Is your son working?" asked the neighbor.

"Not yet," answered Farmer Corntossel.

"Can't he get a job?"

"He ain't satisfied with a job. He wants a position."—Washington Star.

About Time.

Father (of large family)—My dear, isn't it about time you were thinking of getting married? Daughter—Heavens! I haven't thought of anything else for years.—Illustrated Bits.

Idleness is the burial of living man.—Jeremy Taylor.

"Any Rags."

Rev. Silas H. Duffield, formerly of Quincy Neck, and an ex-member of the Quincy City Council, is at the head of a movement in Somerville, to restrict collectors of rags. The Traveller says: "Any rags," whether sung by negro troubadors or chanted by a rag-picker, is not a popular melody in Somerville. At the meeting of the Somerville Board of Aldermen, the Rev. Silas H. Duffield filed a petition asking that the buyers of old rags be restricted to a bell, as the calling of "Any rags" disturbs him while at study.

KILLED BY TRAMPS

Eighteen-Year-Old Girl Strangled and Wounded

THREE MEN SUSPECTED

Had Called at House For Food, Which Had Been Prepared For Them at the Time Assault Was Made--Victim's Father Was Close By at the Time

Kents Hill, Me., Aug. 18.—A brutal and peculiarly atrocious murder was committed here last night, the victim being Mattie Hackett, the 18-year-old daughter of Levi J. Hackett, a farmer. The countryside is aroused over the affair and officers and men are searching the neighborhood for three tramps, who had applied at the house for food, and who are suspected of having been the perpetrators of the crime.

It was shortly after supper that four men called at the Hackett homestead, told a story of having traveled a long distance, of being in need of food and asked that they might be given something to eat. Mr. Hackett instructed his daughter to prepare a meal for the four strangers. While she was engaged in this service, Hackett, accompanied by Harry Jones, went to the nearby stable to do some of the evening chores. There was nothing in the appearance of the other three men to cause Hackett the slightest suspicion, as he left his daughter alone with them in the house. Mrs. Hackett at the time was visiting a neighbor.

While Hackett and Jones were yet at the barn a scream, as of one in distress, was heard from the direction of the house. The two men hastened to the farmhouse, which they found to be deserted. Just as they were about to enter the house a second time another scream was heard, this time as if from the highway toward Readfield. The farmer, with Jones following, hurried down the road, and at a place about 30 rods from the house found, lying by the wayside, the body of his daughter. He heard the sound of men running across the fields.

As soon as Hackett recovered from a momentary shock of the sight, he summoned a neighbor to his assistance. When Hackett and the neighbor returned to the place where the girl lay they found a small cord tightly drawn about her neck, by which she had evidently been strangled, although there was also a fearful gash in her hand. When found, the girl was unconscious and breathing. She died shortly after being carried to the house. The meal which the young woman had been preparing for the men whom the police are of the opinion accomplished her death was on the table.

Searching parties were at once formed and the police of surrounding towns informed of the murder and instructed to look out for the three missing men. Harry Jones, who had made no attempt to get away, was, however, placed under arrest. He is 25 years old. In response to police inquiries, Jones said that he and the three men had been released from Auburn jail Thursday morning, and had walked to Kents Hill, a distance of 25 miles. He said the name of one of his companions was James Brennan; the other two he did not know.

Sheriff Cummings of Auburn, who was asked concerning the story of Jones, said that five tramps had been released from Auburn jail Thursday morning. They had all been committer from the Auburn municipal court. Their names are P. H. Gibbons, James Brennan, John McEachern, Richard Love and Harry Jones.

While the motive for the crime is not clear as yet, the police are inclined to the belief that the murderers had attempted to assault the young woman. The wound on the girl's head was evidently caused by a blow with a stone or club. It is believed that the blow was struck to silence the outcry of the victim.

Cotton Operatives Won't Strike

Manchester, Eng., Aug. 18.—A strike of cotton operatives in Lancashire for a 5 percent increase in wages has been averted after a lengthy conference between the master spinners and operatives. A compromise was reached under which the increase of 5 percent will be given the operatives for 13 weeks, after which time the wages will remain the same as at present until March 1, 1906.

Held For Decapitating Baby

Columbus, Kas., Aug. 18.—Charged with murder in the first degree, Louise Juniper, 19, has been held without bond. She killed her new born babe by cutting off its head with a pruning knife to hide her disgrace. Her parents are highly respectable, and the young woman moved in the upper social circles of the town.

Expenditures on Canal

Washington, Aug. 18.—The isthmian canal commission has issued a formal statement to the effect that at the average rate of expenditures in effect since April 1 last, the commission has funds sufficient to prosecute the canal work until early in January. The monthly expenditures are about $650,000.

HAD GOOD START.

Another Fire at McKenzie & Paterson Sheds.

The alarm from Box 25 at 4.45 Thursday afternoon was for a fire in the old McKenzie & Paterson office building on Canal street.

The fire, which was doubtless the work of an incendiary, was well underway when the department arrived. Flames were coming out through the roof and it looked as though the building this time was doomed. It would have been a good thing if it had been permitted to burn down. It was not, however, and a well directed stream of water soon quenched the flames. These buildings have been on fire several times.

The Central Station apparatus was called out on a still alarm at 9 o'clock Thursday night to extinguish another fire in the same building which probably started from a spark that was left after the fire earlier in the evening.

AHEAD OF CHELSEA.

Quincy Passes the City to the North of Boston.

The City of Chelsea reports a valuation of $25,109,797. This is $468,913 less than Quincy, although Chelsea led Quincy last year by $381,259.

Quincy often laments because its personal tax income is so small but it is over $2,000,000 more than Chelsea.

These figures show that Quincy and Chelsea are close together in Assessors' figures:

| | Chelsea | Quincy |
|---|---|---|
| Real estate 1905, | $22,497,950 | $20,841,175 |
| Real estate 1904, | 21,982,450 | 20,168,875 |

Royal Clan Officers.

Alexander Clark, a delegate to the Royal clan convention of the Order of Scottish Clans at New York, reports the election of the following officers:

Royal Chief,—W. H. Steen of Braidwood, Ill.

Royal Tanist, — George Taylor of London, Ont.

Royal Counsellor,—John Irvin of Taunton, Mass.

Royal Secretary,—Peter Kerr of Boston, Mass.

Royal Treasurer,—John Hill of St. Louis, Mo.

Royal Physician,—W. H. Fraser, M. D., of La Salle, Ill.

Atlantic Breaks.

The burglary at the periodical store of Branscheid & Martens on Wednesday night was the second this week. The first on Sunday night was the most successful when about $10 in cash and some cigars were taken. Wednesday night the fellows were evidently frightened by Officer Donovan, and secured only a little change. On both occasions entrance was obtained by the rear door. The first time the lock was forced and the second time a hole was cut in the panel allowing an opportunity to turn the key and also to remove an iron bar placed across the door.

FIRE SCARE.

Cottage at Houghs Neck Destroyed.

Another Nearby Badly Damaged.

Leading Hosemen Come to Blows While Fire Raged.

That Houghs Neck is lacking in suitable fire protection and that some piece of apparatus should be installed in the fire station built some years ago was again demonstrated Thursday night when one cottage was destroyed and another damaged. Had there been any wind it would have only been good luck that prevented a conflagration.

It was about 6.40 when an oil stove in the Centerville cottage on Sea street, occupied by James F. Burns of Readville and owned by Mrs. H. L. Bearce of Brockton exploded. The occupants of the cottage were out when the explosion took place and the fire had made good headway when discovered by Mrs. Webber of the Dewey cottage across the street.

The burning oil caused the fire to spread rapidly and when Hose 5 arrived on the scene it was blazing fiercely. In the meantime an alarm had been sounded from Box 14 which called the Central station apparatus to the scene.

The local company had some trouble in getting water onto the fire. First the hydrant wrench could not be found. Then there was a fracas between two firemen on the nozzle which resulted in blows.

The news of the fire caused all the cottagers to flock to the scene and the streets leading to it were black with people.

The young men of the several clubs at the beach rendered valuable aid to the firemen during the early stages of the fire and one of them, Joseph Powers, was slightly overcome by smoke while removing furniture from the Acorn cottage.

This cottage adjoined the Centerville and took fire and was badly damaged, largely by water. The furniture, however, was removed without much damage. It is owned and occupied by Albert Acorn.

When the flames came through the roof of the Centerville cottage a shower of sparks were sent flying in all directions.

Several of these burning embers alighted on the roofs of adjoining buildings and it looked at one time as though the beach would go. Among the cottages to take fire were the Blanche on Bird street, owned and occupied by Albert Gustafson, and the Celestine on Sea street owned by W. T. Tilley and occupied by Michael Walsh.

The damages to these houses was confined to a few shingles.

The furniture in the cottage of A. A. Brown was removed as it was thought this building would go. Fortunately, however, it did not take fire.

The Central station apparatus made a quick run to the scene but the fire was nearly under control on their arrival. There was an adequate water supply which proved a blessing, as it prevented a conflagration.

The loss to the Centerville cottage, which was practically destroyed, is estimated by Chief Williams at $1000 and the loss to the Acorn cottage as $300. The Centerville cottage had five rooms.

James Burns and family of Readville, who occupied the Centerville cottage, moved in only last Saturday. The family includes four children. For awhile there was anxiety for one of the boys who was missing, but he was all right.

The family lost all their furniture and clothing and also $50 in cash, which was in the trunk, and a gold watch.

The Central station apparatus was sent home shortly after 7 o'clock although it was some time before the recall was sounded.

Foot Ball Championship.

The Fore River association foot ball team will go to Philadelphia Sept. 1, to play two games for the championship of the United States; one game on Saturday, Sept. 2, and the other on Labor day, Sept. 4.

The Fall River Rovers will challenge the winners, and the Quincy team will play the winners.

The Portland Fair.

Gate admissions at the Lewis and Clark Exposition reached and passed the million mark Tuesday, August 2, and are now climbing rapidly up toward the second million. There were 27,420 admissions August 2, and when these were added to the aggregate since opening day, June 1, it was found that the turnstiles had recorded, in two months and two days, 1,013,551 admissions.

The Quincy Quarries Co. expect to ship the last of the Pittsburg Carnegie Institute job this month. Owing to the scarcity of men it was necessary to ship part of the rough stick to Westerley, R. I., to be cut.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Curtis Guild is in at the clambakes and the picnics of all nations. Not a cattle show in the State would miss him, if there were not necessity of having two shows the same day. He fits any programme like a duck's foot in the mud. He says the thing that is wanted, and says it so that none are so deaf as not to hear nor so dull as not to understand. Preserving the majesty of personal appearance, which at first impression is a bit oppressive, he mingles with the people in the spirit of true democracy and with no hint of condescension. No longer restrained by the burden of pleasing some candidate whose cause he pleads, he is now talking straight for himself. His rugged health will stand the indigestibilities of the varied fare of the autumn festivals, and the people will have an unbroken exhibition of a wholesome, engaging and persuading candidate doing his full duty by the cause which can best be promoted by his own election as governor.—Greenfield Recorder.

Terms Upon Which Envoys Seem Hopelessly Split

CZAR TO BE CONSULTED

Witte Was Instructed Not to Pay War Tribute or Cede a Foot of Russian Soil--Komura Will Also Lay the Situation Before Mikado--Distinctly Bad Impression Regarding the Outlook--A Hope That Roosevelt Will Step In If the Conference Shows Signs of Going to Pieces

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 18.—The crisis in the peace conference has been reached and pessimism is again the note. But the darkest hour is just before the dawn and there is still hope. Predictions of a final rupture today certainly will not be justified unless Baron Komura figuratively picks up his hat and announces that it is useless to proceed further. Mr. Witte, at least, will not be precipitate. At today's session, after article 11 (the limitation of Russia's sea power in the Far East) and article 12 (fishing rights on the Russian littoral) are disposed of, he will favor an adjournment until Monday to hear the last word from St. Petersburg.

The pessimism is based upon the fact that no progress was made yesterday. The exchange of views at the morning session upon article 9 (remuneration for the "cost of the war") showed at once the plenipotentiaries were as far apart as the poles and it was passed over. Article 10 (the surrender of the interned Russian warships) was also passed, not, in the opinion of one of the plenipotentiaries, because it could have been arranged, but because, with the shadow of the two main points in dispute hanging over the conference, both sides were cautious and preferred to postpone it to the end. Article 11 (limitation of sea power) is also adjustable after modification, and article 12 will present no difficulties. So that the situation is practically what it was when Witte last Saturday presented the Russian reply with its non possumus to articles 5 and 9 (indemnity and Sakhalin).

The only change is now compromise—Russia to yield Sakhalin and Japanese indemnity. Neither will yield both and perhaps Japan, at the final show of hands, will yield neither. Mr. Witte, under the imperial indications contained in the instructions given him before he left St. Petersburg, can agree neither to pay war tribute nor cede a foot of Russian soil. St. Petersburg, therefore, in the last resort, remains to be heard from. Doubtless this is the reason he favors a postponement today over Sunday. Baron Komura probably will welcome an adjournment of two days in order that he also may lay the situation before his government for its final decision.

The sudden revival of deep pessimism was induced by the report given out when the plenipotentiaries returned to the hotel last night that no progress had been made. But to those on the inside that was not surprising. Things had gone smoothly enough, only the impasse had been reached—there had been the glint of cold steel in the conference chamber. And the few words Witte said to the foreign newspaper correspondents was, as usual, not encouraging. He looked tired and said nothing had been accomplished.

No great hope is vouchsafed in the Japanese camp. "We are not bluffers," said Mr. Sato, and from an authoritative source there comes a distinctly bad impression regarding the outlook. It is coupled, however, with an expression of the hope that if it develops that the conference is going to pieces President Roosevelt may again step in.

The Japanese view is thus explained: "We came asking only what we wanted. Our terms were moderate. The world thinks so. It looks bad. I say so. I believe so. But the conference may yet be saved from shipwreck. Witte has been gracious. He has done what he can, but he has a future at home to consider."

A very important conference convened in Witte's room shortly before midnight. There were present Baron De Rosen, the other Russian plenipotentiary, and Messrs. De Martens, General Yermaloff, Mr. Pokotiloff, Mr. Shipoff and Captain Roussine, the five Russian delegates. It is the first time a full meeting of the plenipotentiaries and delegates has been held since the conference began. The preliminary discussion of the Japanese conditions is already virtually ended. It is not improbable that the final report and recommendations of the Russian plenipotentiaries was passed upon and transmitted last night to the czar at Peterhof.

It can be stated that the individual views of the members of the Russian mission differ as to which point should be yielded if a compromise is to be offered. Some favor surrender on Sakhalin, others on indemnity. None are ready to give up both points.

It was learned that during the conferences the Japanese plenipotentiaries several times manifested a sort of a desire to couple the consideration of the disputed points. This might indicate a willingness to bargain at the end.

$7,000,000 INVOLVED

Suit Brought as Result of Big Fight Over Copper Stock

Boston, Aug. 18.—Suits to recover 70,000 shares of Copper Range stock, valued at $7,000,000, against Albert C. Burrage, Thomas W. Lawson and 14 great brokerage firms have been filed in the equity session of the superior court. William A. Paine, Charles H. Paine and Herbert I. Foster, as Paine, Webber & Co., are the plaintiffs.

These suits are a result of the Copper Range war, which came to a climax in State street the other day when Burrage and Lawson are alleged to have sold through brokers 70,000 shares of Copper Range which they were bound by contract to hold for another year.

The market value of the 70,000 shares at the time State street was threatened with a panic as a result of the war between the financiers was $6,000,000 and the par value $7,000,000. By the suits Paine and his firm seek to recover damages and alleged actual loss.

Has Record as a Thief

Boston, Aug. 18.—After a desperate chase in the market district, in which two alleged express thieves sought to escape the police, behind a madly-driven horse, Patrolmen Hyland and Murray arrested one of the men and captured the buggy. Captain Gaskin charges the men with being express thieves, who have reaped a rich harvest in the district, using a buggy and horse as their means of escape after committing the thefts. The arrested man is William E. Sullivan, a man with a record of two imprisonments for larceny. He is 22 years old and very small.

Veteran Firemen's Muster

Manchester, N. H., Aug. 18.—The Alabama Coon company of Stoughton, Mass., won the annual playout of the New England Veteran Firemen's league. The Hancock of Brockton was second and the Protector of Brockton third, while the fourth and fifth prizes were divided between the T. W. Lane company of East Manchester and the City of Lowell of Lowell, which were tied. The companies participated in a street parade, 32 tubs being in line.

Disturbers Put to Rout

Boston, Aug. 18.—But for the timely intervention of a dozen hearty marines belonging to the U. S. S. Maryland, an organized raid last night at Lincoln wharf, on the Bass Point steamer New Brunswick, by hoodlums attempting to beat their way on a moonlight pleasure trip, might have succeeded. Although it necessitated a free fight, causing bloodshed and great delay, the ruffians were put to rout after being badly beaten.

More Tobacco Men Arrested

Boston, Aug. 18.—Internal revenue officers attached to the Boston office have continued their crusade against certain manufacturers of cigars and tobacco, who are alleged to be in schemes to defraud the government out of revenue. In addition to the arrests already made, deputy marshals arrested Joseph Mazzio of this city and Frank Cappolo of Lawrence. Both gave bail.

Embezzler Sent to Prison

Boston, Aug. 18.—In the superior criminal court here Louis J. Urann was sentenced to state prison for from three to five years after pleading guilty to the charge of embezzling $11,533 from his employer, Samuel D. Goodenough, a provision dealer. When the thieving was discovered, Urann fled to Seattle, Wash. He put up a hard fight against extradition.

Notorious as a Fraud

Boston, Aug. 18.—Judge De Courcy sentenced to state prison for from four to seven years A. S. MacGill, who had pleaded guilty to uttering forged checks. Copies of records of conviction and sentence by Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia courts against MacGill in financial fraud cases were exhibited to the court before the imposition of sentence.

A Boy's Unusual Experience

Boston, Aug. 18.—Edward R. Hanson, aged 14, went to the roof of a four story building to fly his kite. In his eagerness to assist its flight, he ran backward, lost his balance and fell to the ground. When aid reached him he insisted he was not hurt, but he was taken to a hospital, where it was found that no bones had been broken.

Far-Off Jobs Go Begging

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 18.—The civil service examinations scheduled to be held in the postoffice building yesterday and today were declared off because of the failure of any applicants for the open positions to appear. Positions were offered in Manila and in Panama as physical chemists and bookkeepers at $1800 per annum.

Worcester Has Much Typhoid

Worcester, Aug. 18.—Worcester is in the midst of a small typhoid epidemic, owing to an impure milk supply. Thus far 23 cases have been reported on one milkman's route. This man obtained his milk on the watersbed of the metropolitan water system, and the state board of health is expected to take a hand.

Cruiser and Gunboat Collided

San Francisco, Aug. 18.—The cruiser Chicago went aground and later collided with the gunboat Bennington in San Francisco harbor on arrival from San Diego with the disabled gunboat in tow. A strong ebb tide was running and the tow-line, on which the Bennington was trailing, parted. The current of the tide carried the Chicago across the bow of the Bennington and there was a smashing of metal when the ships came together. Both were considerably damaged.

WENT THROUGH DRAW

Excursion Train's Plunge Kills Half a Hundred Negroes

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 18.—Owing to the inability of the engineer to control the air brakes, an excursion train from Kinston, N. C., bound to this city, plunged through an open draw over the western branch of the Elizabeth river, eight miles from Norfolk, and 50 persons were drowned. Only seven bodies have been recovered from the wreckage. The list of injured, so far as can be ascertained, numbers nearly 100, though most of these are slightly hurt.

Edward Jeliffe, manager of the excursion, and Edward Forbes, who assisted him, were the only white victims, all the others being negroes.

The Merritt Wrecking organization dispatched an expedition to the scene for the purpose of raising the sunken cars, which lie in about 25 feet of water. Until the cars are raised an accurate estimate of the number of dead is impracticable.

Conger to Be Sent to China

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Edwin H. Conger, formerly United States minister to China, will return in the near future, if present plans are carried into effect, to China. His mission will be of a semi-diplomatic nature, the specific purpose of which will be to allay, if possible, the agitation aroused in parts of the Chinese empire against the use by the Chinese of American products. The ambassador will not return to his post in Mexico and arrangements are making for his projected mission to Pekin.

Tariff League Organized

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The reciprocity conference, called to devise means of bettering the trade relations between the United States and foreign countries, finished its work yesterday, arranged for a committee of 15 to prosecute the plans of the convention and formed a permanent organization to be styled the American Reciprocal Tariff league. The committee will have full power to organize and promote the work for which the convention assembled.

Suicide In Public Park

Philadelphia, Aug. 18.—Confessing that he had lived under an assumed name for a quarter of a century and revealing the fact to his family and friends that he was related by blood and marriage to prominent and wealthy people of Pittsburg, Joseph A. Thompson swallowed cyanide of potassium, laid himself on a bench in Fairmount park, and died. The man's name was supposed to be Joseph A. Thomas.

Fever South of New Orleans

New Orleans, Aug. 18.—While the daily number of new cases of yellow fever in New Orleans has risen during the last three days, reaching 77 yesterday, the deaths are few. Rather alarming news from outside of New Orleans continues to come in. There is widespread infection in the Leeville fishing settlement, at the mouth of the Bayou La Fourche, 80 miles south.

To Fight Eight-Hour Rule

New York, Aug. 18.—The periodical publishers of this city, at a meeting yesterday, adopted a resolution that the periodical publishers of America should pledge their support to the United Typothetae in their determination to resist the present adoption of the proposed eight-hour rule of the Typographical union.

Bicyclist In Bad Crash

Buffalo, Aug. 18.—J. G. Willett, while speeding a motor cycle at Kenilworth track, crashed into Eddie Bald's racing car, which had just passed him. Willett was badly, but not fatally, hurt. Bald kept his seat in his car, but it tore up about 50 feet of fence before he could bring it to a stop.

Polo Player Knocked Out

Hempstead, L. I., Aug. 18.—John F. Foster of England was probably fatally hurt on the Meadowbrook polo field. His right leg was broken and he suffered internal injuries. Foster's mount fell, throwing the rider over his head and rolling on top of him. The pony broke a leg and was shot.

In Favor of Compromise

London, Aug. 18.—The London newspapers continue to be pessimistic regarding the prospects for peace, although in some notable instances there is evidenced a desire to hedge on the uncompromising attitude assumed by the Japanese in the earlier stages of the Portsmouth conference.

Anxiety Over Fruit Steamer

New York, Aug. 18.—Steamer Athos, which sailed from Port Antonio, Ja., for this port on Aug. 2, with a cargo of fruit, is eight days overdue and insurance agents are beginning to inquire about her. The heavy weather of the past few days has caused a feeling of alarm on her account.

Lawson Wins Interesting Race

New York, Aug. 18.—Fourteen of the most prominent cyclists in this country started together in the 20-mile open professional bicycle race here last night. After a hard grind Iver Lawson of Salt Lake City won the honors in 50:11 4-5. It was an interesting contest from beginning to end.

A Hundred Lives Lost

Sydney, N. S. W., Aug. 18.—Confirmation of the report that the Marshall islands were visited by a hurricane and tidal wave on June 30 has been received here. One hundred lives were lost.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Saturday, Aug. 19.
Sun rises—4:55; sets—6:40.
Moon rises—9:03 p. m.
High water—1:45 a. m.; 2:15 p. m.
The weather will be fair in New England; warmer in west portion.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

How to Save by Judicious and Economical Buying.

Careful purchasing of household necessities is one half the secret of economy, while careful use of the article bought is the other half. Economy in buying consists in the perfect adaptation of the purchase to the purse and needs of the family.

First.—The article should be worth the amount asked for it—that is, its intrinsic value should be such that, as prices average, you are getting the full worth of your money. If it is an article for the table it should be in good condition to use and of good weight and measure. Nothing is worth buying at all that is half spoiled or that will not wear well in proportion to its cost. If for personal or housekeeping purposes, its quality should be the best to be obtained for the price.

Second.—The article should supply a genuine need. The need may not be immediate, but it should be both possible and probable. Many things can be purchased by watching the sales between seasons, when rather than keep them over the shopkeepers are willing to sell even below cost. But only standard goods should be bought in this way. Many persons have a mania for buying everything they see that is cheap, and then perhaps they never use it. Food, clothing and household articles are often accumulated without regard to quantity, and then changing fashion makes them worthless, this being especially so with ornamental things. Buy of such only what you actually need.

In purchasing for the table a list should be made out the day before and looked over the next morning. In buying groceries a list is indispensable if one would buy cheaply—have just enough and do not forget at the critical moment just how much is really required.

And when one does not go to market every day, and few do, a few minutes spent in seeing how much is on hand that can be used and a short menu of the meals of the next two or three days made is time well spent, for in this way a lot of perishable stuff would not be ordered, but, say, a roast, with possibilities of cold meat and rissoles or stew, or some other piece of meat that can be utilized in several ways, and vegetables which will keep at least three days. One can easily learn to market for three and four days at a time, and thus one saves time and money. In buying a roast of beef insist that the bones cut off from your meat be given you, and get a couple of knee joints of beef and one of veal at the same time. These make the finest stock, and from that hundreds of different things, all good and wholesome, can be made, and if you go to buy them alone you have to pay much more than if you purchased a large joint besides. Often a butcher will throw in one or two knuckles where a leg of lamb or some other rather expensive piece has been taken.

It is in quality, good judgment and in buying only what is needed, and that after reflection at home, that the good housekeeper is known and in which true economy consists.

How to Fry Bacon Properly.

There is no more universally popular breakfast dish than fried bacon, and many people can eat bacon that is properly cooked and daintily served when nothing else will tempt them. The great secret in cooking bacon is to have a clean frying pan, says the New York Journal. No pan should be used longer than six months. At the end of that time it should be discarded and a new one bought. As pans are very cheap, this will not be hard to do. Before putting the pan on the range see that the fire is clear and steady. Then put on the pan, and before putting the bacon in let the pan get quite hot. Cut the bacon in thin slices and turn it as soon as the edges begin to curl. If there is much liquid grease in the pan, pour it off, as the bacon will grow sodden if allowed to remain in it. Have the dish on which the bacon is to be served piping hot and garnished with a little parsley. This will make a very tempting breakfast dish.

How to Remove Grease From Hands.

A preparation that will remove grease and stains from the hands is this, which should not be used if there are cuts, as it will burn intensely: Cut into small bits an ounce of any nice laundry soap and dissolve it in an ounce of fresh lemon juice. It may be necessary to warm the juice to do this, in which case put the liquids in a small bowl and set into a saucepan of boiling water until the soap is dissolved. Remove from the heat and add one-half ounce of oil of bitter almonds, one-half ounce of glycerin and a quarter ounce of carbonate of potassium. Use as you would soap, rubbing it first well into the hands before applying water.

How to Preserve Green or Wax Beans.

A good way for preserving green or wax beans is to soak the beans for a few hours in cold water or parboil them slightly, says Good Housekeeping. Cut them in long, thin slices and pack in large jars with generous layers of salt between the layers. When the jar is full cover with a cloth and put on a weighted plate to keep the beans in the brine. They should keep perfectly until spring.

How to Build Up Shattered Nerves.

People who are ill or out of sorts or run down ought to have jams, honey, good candy and appetizing sweets of every description. Sugar is a nerve builder and a muscle builder. Nervous people are never great eaters of sugar, and they would be stronger if they took more sweets. Those who take sufficient sweets into their composition are always hardy of nerve and strong of muscle.

CITY BREVITIES.

The Cherry avenue bridge is being repaired.

There will be an auction of furniture on Monday next at Hancock hall.

Henry Martens of Branscheid & Martens will leave Sunday for a two weeks' visit in New York.

Mrs. J. F. Leonard of Bigelow street was the guest of her parents at Whitman the first of the week.

The review of the Squantum Yacht club tomorrow will take place at 2 P. M.; the water sports at 4, and dancing will begin at 8.

Miss Elizabeth Cook and Miss Martha E. Jenkins of this city were guests on the Floating Hospital on Thursday. It was Ruth Chamberlin Benton day.

As a milk team was entering Elm street from Bigelow street about six o'clock this morning it made too short a turn, and the wagon was capsized. There was a general smash of bottles and mix up of milk, etc.

The football match of the Fore Rivers and the Quincys last Saturday was a draw, the score being 1 to 1. Tomorrow the same teams will meet on the Ward Two playgrounds and play for the championship of Quincy.

Bellevue Park and Montclair.

Master Eddie Whelan of Bowdoin street, who has undergone three operations at the City Hospital, Quincy, has returned home, and it is hoped that he will soon be able to walk without the aid of crutches.

Miss Annie Irving of Squantum street has gone to Scituate for the rest of the summer.

Mr. W. McCarthy has gone to Trenton, New Jersey, for a two weeks' sojourn.

Mrs. Sarah Probert, wife of Robert Probert, and mother of Mrs. M. Goodwin, passed away at her home in Hyde Park last week.

Are You Going East or West?

If so, you can save money by traveling on Detroit and Buffalo Steamboat Co.'s new steamers between Detroit and Buffalo. The service is the best on fresh water. Send two cents for folder, map, etc. Address, A. A. Schantz, G. P. T. Mgr., Detroit, Mich.

High Tax Rate.

The tax rate of Revere is $22 per $1,000 an increase of $2 over last year. The income from Revere beach does not seem to help out very much.

—The Rockport Granite Company pays a tax of $18.56 in the city of Gloucester.

Buried In Wax.

King Edward I. of England died July 7, 1307, and 400 years later the English Society of Antiquarians opened his tomb in order to find out if he really had been buried in wax, as the legend ran. The chronicler of the time remarks, "To their great astonishment, they found the royal corpse to appear as represented by the historian." Although "the skull appeared bare, the face and hands seemed perfectly entire." The king was found to be six feet two inches in length, thus fully justifying his nickname of Longshanks.

Wanted Her Money's Worth.

Mme. Parvenu—Can I get you and your orchestra to play at my soiree next Thursday night?

Orchestra Leader—Certainly.

Mme. Parvenu—Well, you may consider yourself engaged. But I want to make arrangements to hire you by the piece. Do you understand? The last time I engaged you by the hour, and your men took advantage of it and played slow, soft things most of the time.

A Raft at Sea.

Mrs. Chugwater—This paper says the passengers escaped on a raft. How could they make a raft at sea? Mr. Chugwater—They could use the ship's log, couldn't they? Why don't you use your own reasoning faculties once in awhile?—Chicago Tribune.

Wheat and Oats.

While the millionaire is making money in wheat his son is often blowing it on wild oats.—Tom Watson's Magazine.

An irritable man has, like a hedgehog, rolled up the wrong way, tormenting himself with his own prickles. —Hood.

IT IS FOR LADIES, TOO.

They Can Stop Their Hair Falling Out With Herpicide.

Ladies who have thin hair and whose hair is falling out, can prevent the hair falling out, and thicken the growth, with Newbro's "Herpicide." Besides, Herpicide is one of the most agreeable hair dressings there is. Herpicide kills the dandruff germ that eats the hair off at the root. After the germ is destroyed, the root will shoot up, and the hair grow long as ever. Even a sample will convince any lady that Newbro's Herpicide is an indispensable toilet requisite. It contains no oil or grease, it will not stain or dye. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

RAILWAY QUESTION

owery Kingdom Involved In Its Settlement

RUSSIA TO GIVE IT UP

China May Not Care to Assume Great Financial Burden--Japan May Advance Money If She Thinks the Venture Will Pay

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 18.—China has at least constructively become a party to the peace negotiations. Article 7, relating to the transfer to China of the branch of the Chinese Eastern railroad, running south from Harbin, which was agreed to by the peace plenipotentiaries "in principle" Wednesday, will involve perhaps in the final settlement prolonged and complicated negotiations both between China and Japan and the Pekin government and Russia.

Russia has agreed to surrender the road to China and give up her concession obtained in 1898, but China must assent, and assent means she must agree to remunerate the Russian government, which guaranteed the bonds for the building of the road, in an amount hereafter to be determined.

Japan also has her claim for the rebuilding of the road destroyed by the Russian armies, the reconstruction of bridges and change of gauge. The matter remains primarily to be adjusted by Japan and China and it is not unlikely that the Tokio government is already in communication with the Pekin government on the subject.

The long dispatches, sent by Baron Komura to his government upon this subject after Wednesday's session, make this probable. Possibly an answer from China is essential to final agreement upon article 7, and this may be the true reason for the postponement after accord "in principle" had been reached.

China's wish to be consulted concerning articles of the treaty affecting her territory must be respected in this particular at least. China may not care to assume the financial burden involved in taking over the road. She certainly could not raise the money without hypothecating the property. If Japan is convinced that the road will eventually become a paying commercial venture she might herself advance the money, or it might be raised for China by an international syndicate and become a part of the system of Chinese imperial railroads. If not, Japan might and probably would for the present step in Russia's shoes, although she has solemnly promised China to restore Manchuria and to retain the railroad would be to retain strategical control of the province.

The amount Russia will realize is impossible to estimate. It will undoubtedly be only a comparatively small fraction of the sum poured into it. By the terms of the concession China had the privilege of taking over the road at the end of 36 years upon the repayment of capital, construction and deficit charges.

Japan recognized that Russia was entitled to some remuneration. But the basis is not known. The Russian claim was founded on the principle of international law that a belligerent occupying territory can exercise the right of usufruct of private property during occupation, but cannot confiscate as a spoil of war. Mr. Witte, in whose brain was born the conception of the Chinese Eastern railroad, was particularly competent to defend the rights of the company, which Russia claims is distinctly a private corporation, although making no concealment of the fact that it was backed by the government because of political considerations.

The original concession obtained in 1896 for the Chinese Eastern, then simply the "cut off" through northern Manchuria, was obtained by the late Mr. Rothstein, director of the Russo-Chinese bank, and Prince Uktomsky, and the company was formed for the construction of the road. In 1898, after the lease of Port Arthur and TaHen Wan (Dalny) was obtained from China, the concession for the southern branch was negotiated. It provided for a Chinese president of the road, and Shukingchin, who had been the Chinese minister in St. Petersburg, was president until he fell a victim to the anti-foreign Boxer uprising in 1900.

The bonds issued with the government guarantee were sold like government 4 percent rentes and are now in the hands of the banks and general public like regular government obligations. Although the loss on operation has been heavy, the Russo-Chinese bank always believed it would become a remunerative concern.

Train Will Be Strangely Laden

New York, Aug. 18.—A train will steam out of New York Monday, the passengers of which, with the exception of keepers, nurses and physicians, will all be lunatics. The train will transfer 600 patients from the Long Island state hospital in Brooklyn to the hospitals at Rochester and Willard. The transfer is necessitated by the overcrowding of the Brooklyn institution.

Sailors Imposed Upon

Washington, Aug. 18.—The state department is to investigate the British ship Evelyn for taking American sailors away in violation of the laws. An American consul at Algiers has reported that Alonzo Hymord and Jacob Jones, two American sailors, were induced to join the Evelyn at Norfolk, under promise of good pay and a short voyage. Once on board the two found that the voyage would be long and they were also forced to sign papers for the cruise. At Algiers they were induced to go ashore and were left there penniless.

Officials Expect Lasting Peace

London, Aug. 18.—While pessimism reigns supreme in the reports from Portsmouth and the editorials appearing in the newspapers, there exists in official circles in London a strong conviction that a treaty of peace will be the outcome of the conference. The British government, which has been kept informed of the progress of negotiations through Minister Hayashi, is fairly hopeful that a lasting peace will be concluded.

"Studied" the Patterson Woman

New York, Aug. 18.—A. R. Ash, the wealthy Duluth lumber broker, who has leaped into sudden fame through his attentions to Nan Patterson, made a statement in which he lay a large part of the blame for his notoriety to his thirst for psychological research. To him, he said, Miss Patterson had never been more than a "character study," whose personality afforded him the opportunity of gratifying his curiosity.

New Commercial Arrangement

St. Petersburg, Aug. 18.—Mr. Witte soon will make a formal announcement in America of a reduction by Russia of the duties on American machinery, tools, etc., which have been operative since 1901. Ambassador Meyer secured this concession after extended negotiations with the ministries of finance and foreign affairs.

Departure From General Policy

Washington, Aug. 18.—C. M. Leitch, United States stamp deputy collector of internal revenue at Wilmington, Del., who some months ago was elected a member and subsequently was chosen president of the city council of Wilmington, will be permitted to retain both offices. This decision has been reached by President Roosevelt.

Chinese Boycott Petering Out

Yokohama, Aug. 18.—The American boycott committee has virtually abandoned the proposed general boycott against Americans, in accordance with instructions from Shanghai. These instructions merely give advice not to buy American merchandise, though members may sell to Americans.

BIGGEST GOLD BRICK.

Exhibit From Nome, Alaska, at Lewis and Clark Fair.

WEIGHS ABOUT NINETY POUNDS.

It Is a Foot Long, Four Inches Deep and Five Wide—Nuggets That Attract Attention—Displays of Other Minerals Which Tell of Nome's Untold Wealth.

The biggest gold brick ever cast, nearly as large as two building bricks placed end to end, which contains $25,000 worth of gold that is purer than the gold in a twenty dollar coin, recently arrived at the Lewis and Clark exposition in Portland, Ore., and is being exhibited by the Nome district of Alaska as evidence that Nome is still a great gold producing region, says W. E. Brindley. The gold brick is a foot long, four inches deep and five inches wide, and it weighs approximately ninety pounds.

The city of Nome, on the Seward peninsula, in the extreme north of Alaska, beyond the string of islands that stand out like the bill of a snipe, contains a population of from 2,500 to 3,000 people in the winter time and ten times as many people in the summer. The town has an enterprising chamber of commerce, which in fifteen days got together the most wonderful mineral exhibit ever displayed by one region.

While the gold brick which Nome is showing has attracted more attention than any other single article in the United States government building at the fair, three nuggets, worth in the aggregate $8,000, stand second in popularity. These are exhibited in a small wire cage, and a man who wears in his belt a revolver of the size common to melodrama and wild west shows stands guard over them. The biggest nugget of the three, which weighs 182 ounces, is worth $3,276. There is a hole in one side of the cage big enough for one to put his hand through it, but not large enough to enable him to take out the nugget. Over the chunk of gold there is a legend which reads, "You can lift the nugget, but don't take it away," and all day long people crowd one another for a chance to hold $3,276 worth of gold for just a fraction of a minute.

The nuggets and the gold bricks constitute Nome's most interesting gold display. They are owned by the Pioneer Mining company and were found in Anvil creek, near Nome. Near the nugget cage is a table on which, under glass, are small boxes of pay dirt. This display is not so spectacular as that in the nugget cage—which, by the way, includes a host of smaller nuggets in addition to the three big ones—but it is remarkably interesting. The pay dirt shows no gold and looks like ordinary gravelly soil. One box of it is abeled: "Pay dirt from Anvil creek. Average value $1.20 per bucket." One at once begins to figure how many buckets an ordinary man could fill in a day, and the figures are startling. Another box contains broken rock and is labeled, "Portion of bedrock from Portland bench claim—$421,000 result of work of seven men for sixty days."

But gold is not the only mineral resource of the country round about Nome. Some 150 miles from Nome, at a place called Cape York, on Buck creek, there is a mountain of tin, where $25,500,000 worth of the metal is in sight. The tin is found in a substance called cassiterite crystals, which contains 72 per cent of metallic tin, and from 40 cents to a dollar's worth of gold to the ton. There is a whole mountain top, ten miles long by two miles wide, of this cassiterite, which is worth $441 a ton at the present price of tin, 30 cents a pound. Last winter 500 tons of the ore were taken out, and the magnitude of the industry is hardly to be conceived. Then, again, at Ears mountain, on Shismaroff inlet, 180 miles northwest of Nome, there is a ledge of cassiterite. The ledge is exposed to a width of 15 feet and runs 1,000 feet up the mountain, reaching an elevation of 400 feet. From this it is presumed that the ore vein is 400 feet deep.

And then there is quicksilver, another new proposition and a very profitable one from all appearances. Quicksilver ore is found on the Kuskokwin river, distant 800 miles southeast of Nome. Some of it runs $400 worth to the ton, but $100 is probably the average. The ore is found on the surface. It is burned in an immense caldron, so that the quicksilver vapors rise and are afterward precipitated or condensed into liquid quicksilver by being immersed in cold water. At the exposition the richness of the ore is demonstrated by a piece from which the quicksilver has been smelted. The rock is honeycombed like a pumice stone.

It costs 20 cents a pound on the average to transport coal from the mines in British Columbia to Nome; hence the importance of the discovery of a coal mine which produces a fairly good grade in the far north. The coal mine is located on Chicago creek, which flows into the Kugruk river, which in turn flows into Kotzebue sound. At the surface three tons of coal were found to be equal in heat producing power to one ton of Wellington coal. Now a shaft has been sunk 300 feet, and two tons of the coal at that depth are worth one of Wellington. By means of this coal, which is essential to winter mining in the far north, $250,000 worth of gold was taken out last winter. The discovery of the coal thus opens up immense possibilities in winter mining. It assures a regular year round population for Nome.

this meal of blood, it was purposely applied to nonimmunes in camp.

"In December, 1900, five cases of the disease were developed as the result of such applications, in January three and in February two, making in all ten, exclusive of the cases of Dr. James Carrol and Dr. Jesse W. Lazear. Immediately upon the appearance of the first recognized symptoms of the disease in any one of these experimental cases the patient was taken from Camp Lazear to a yellow fever hospital one mile distant. Every person in camp was rigidly protected from accidental mosquito bites, and not in a single instance did yellow fever develop in the camp except at the will of the experimenters. The experiments were conducted at a season when there was the least chance of naturally acquiring the disease, and the mosquitoes used were kept alive by maintaining them at a summer temperature.

"A completely mosquito proof building was divided into two compartments by a wire screen partition. Infected insects were liberated on one side only. A brave nonimmune entered and remained long enough to allow himself to be bitten several times. He was attacked by yellow fever, while two susceptible men in the other compartment did not acquire the disease, although sleeping there thirteen nights. This demonstrates in the simplest and most certain manner that the infectiousness of the building was due only to the presence of the insects. Every attempt was made to infect individuals by means of bedding, clothes and other articles that had been used and soiled by patients suffering with virulent yellow fever.

"Naturally yellow fever is transmitted by the mosquito and always and only by the mosquito. The harmlessness of fomites has been fully demonstrated by our experiments in 1900 and 1901, in which three young Americans slept for twenty consecutive nights in a room from which mosquitoes were excluded garnished with articles soiled with discharges from fatal and other cases of yellow fever. Three and four large boxes were packed and unpacked each morning by these nonimmunes, who suffered no disturbance of health from these exposures. The room was 20 by 14 feet, double walled, tightly sealed, heated to above 90 degrees F. and dark.

"Two other nonimmunes then occupied the room for twenty nights, while additional articles of bedding and clothing were added. They slept in the garments and between the sheets that covered cases of yellow fever, some of which were fatal. The result of the second attempt was nil. A third attempt was then made with two additional nonimmunes equally without success. Not the slightest indisposition followed close and intimate contact with this repulsive material in any case. Temperatures and pulse rates were recorded at regular and frequent intervals. Four of these seven nonimmunes were subsequently infected by blood injections and by means of infected mosquitoes."

Dr. Lazear's Singular Death.

The first death from the mosquito experiments was that of Dr. Jesse W. Lazear in November, 1901. Dr. Lazear, an army surgeon, was one of an army board, all of whom submitted themselves to the bites of infected mosquitoes. The death of Dr. Lazear was singular. He had voluntarily been bitten for the sake of experiment and suffered no effects. Afterward while he was visiting the yellow fever ward at

SURGEON GENERAL WYMAN.

Las Animas a mosquito lit on his hand. He allowed it to remain there and bite him. Five days afterward he was taken ill and died.

A naval surgeon described some incidents which occurred in Las Animas hospital, Havana, during the height of the yellow fever epidemic in the American intervention days in Cuba, when another physician and he ran the institution, says the New York Herald.

Bedlam at Night.

"We managed fairly well during the day, but at night—midnight—when we were worn out, the bedlam produced by the patients in their delirium was awful. They made all sorts of noises in different languages, for there were different nationalities represented. The uraemia which resulted from the characteristic effect of the disease on the kidneys caused convulsions and particularly facial spasms.

"The sick would make the most distressing grimaces, which in the wee, sma' hours o' morn would cause some of the female nurses to tremble and cry and beg for a short respite in the open air. They would go out on the verandas, steady themselves, then back to business. But the most horrible of all was the hemorrhages, too horrible to describe. And all this caused by the bite of a particular kind of mosquito!"

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Houses are in demand, and hard to obtain.

Roy Thornton of Farnum street is on a business trip to Dover, N. H.

D. E. Wadsworth & Co. will begin their "Manufacturers Ends" sale on Saturday.

Mrs. E. B. Holmes of Newcomb street is enjoying a vacation in New Hampshire.

There will be a number of men from Post 88, G. A. R., attend the encampment at Denver next month.

Mrs. John A. Carter and children and Miss Nellie Hartnett of New Hampshire are visiting in Weymouth and Quincy.

The Hodges house on the corner of Elm and Mechanics streets has been sold to a Mr. Thompson of the Fore River works.

It was an unusual quiet day at the district court this morning. Not a case was heard, and the judge did not go on the bench.

As many of the Councilmen are out of town some doubts are expressed if there will be a quorum present at the meeting next Monday.

Richard M. Sanborn of Sanborn & Damon is taking a week's vacation which he has certainly earned by close attention to business.

Smaller Tax Rate.

The city of Gloucester has a smaller tax rate this year, the assessors fixing it this week at $18.20 which is 60 cents less than last year.

The total valuation of taxable property in the city is placed at $23,395,346, against $23,242,923 last year, an increase of $152,423, the real estate valuation being $16,735,620 against $16,399,820 last year, an increase of $335,809, while the personal estate is valued this year at $4,659,726 against $4,843,103 last year, a decrease of $283,377. The total number of polls is 7996 a decrease of 237 from the number returned last year, 8,233, but this number will undoubtly be increased by the additional commitment.

☞Eyeglasses fitted scientifically. No guess work.—Williams.

Mack Has Schoolboy "Phenom"

John Knight, Shortstop of Philadelphia Americans, Youngest League Player --- Inherits Ability. John Evers of Chicago Another Prodigy.

The Athletic club of the American league enjoys the unique distinction of having discovered and at once used with success in championship games a mere schoolboy, without professional experience. That youth is John Knight, the new 1905 shortstop who leaped from obscurity to national fame in a day, as it were.

SHORTSTOP JOHN KNIGHT, PHILADELPHIA AMERICANS.

Knight was born in Philadelphia in 1885 and learned to play ball on the lots and with school teams. He comes by his talent rightly, as his father, now a city employee, was pitcher for the old Shibe club in 1878-79, and a right good pitcher too.

It is, by the way, quite a coincidence wholly unequaled in the history of baseball that both father and son should have played on clubs thirty years apart, headed by the same man—Ben Shibe, the present head of the fourth Athletic club. Young Knight in the course of time was admitted to the Philadelphia High school, of whose team he became third baseman in his junior year, 1904. After the school term closed he finished the season with the Brandywine club of West Chester, Pa., playing under the name of Ryan. During the past winter he was engaged by Connie Mack upon the earnest recommendation of friends and taken south last spring. He made a favorable impression upon Manager Mack and his fellow players and was held for substitute work. In the very first championship game of 1905 Shortstop Monte Cross had his hand broken by a pitched ball, and Knight was sent in to play an unfamiliar position, his experience having been confined to third base play. His instantaneous success is a matter of record. While not the equal of the agile Cross as a ground coverer, he nevertheless proved himself a clever fielder, while at the bat he was a wonder.

For weeks Knight was in every batting rally, won a number of games by timely hits and led the Athletic team and the American league with a great batting average.

Another lad, a mere stripling, who has suddenly won wide baseball fame is John Evers, second baseman of the Chicago Nationals. Evers is only twenty-two years old, two years the senior of Knight. He was born at Troy, N. Y., on March 21, 1883. He made his debut as a professional with the 1902 team that represented his home city in the New York league and made such a fine record that in September of that year he was sold to the Chicago club.

SECOND BASEMAN JOHN EVERS OF CHICAGO NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Evers had more chances in 1904 than any major league infielder, first basemen excepted. His batting record follows: With Troy, .283 in 1902; with Chicago, .293 in 1903 and .265 in 1904. He led the New York league in home runs in 1902, but has not made a four base hit during his National league career.

CHOLERA IN FOWLS.

Treatment Is Mainly Preventive—Isolate Infected Birds.

Medicinal treatment for true cholera is of little value. The disease is so rapidly fatal that it is rarely discovered until too late to attempt treatment, writes P. T. Woods, M. D., in Reliable Poultry Journal. No attempt to treat birds sick with the cholera should be attempted unless they are very valuable. For the safety of the rest of the flock they should be strangled and cremated.

The treatment is mainly preventive. Observe cleanliness and the usual common sense rules of poultry keeping. Quarantine all new birds brought home from shows. Do not use eggs for hatching unless you know they are from healthy stock. In hot weather, when diarrhea is prevalent in the neighborhood, do not feed eggs to fowls without first thoroughly cooking them.

As soon as the disease is discovered establish a pesthouse remote from the other poultry buildings, a place that can be easily and thoroughly disinfected. Isolate all suspected cases in the pesthouse as soon as you can find them. Give these birds a few drops of creolin in their drinking water, just enough to turn it faintly milky, or give them drinking water in which has been dissolved one one-tenth of a grain tablet of corrosive sublimate to the quart of water. A good home remedy in any severe diarrhea and often in mild cases of cholera is to drop twenty to thirty drops of spirits of camphor on sugar and dissolve the whole in a pint of water. Place this before the sick birds and allow no other drink.

All birds which show marked symptoms of the disease had better be killed and cremated at once. This is safest and best. Kill them by strangling or by a sharp blow with a blunt club, breaking the neck. Do not draw blood, as the blood is infectious and you do not want to spill it. If they bleed, scrape up all blood and burn with the body and disinfect the place where it fell. Rake up and burn all litter used in houses or runs occupied by infected birds. Spray the runs and all parts of the buildings with a strong solution of creolin or a 1 per cent solution of sulphuric acid in water.

Some of the quarantined birds may recover without other medicine than that advised for the drinking water, as before mentioned. The proportion of creolin is about one teaspoonful to an ordinary wooden bucketful of drinking water. I prefer the use of corrosive sublimate unless a large number of birds are to be treated. This manner of general treatment is the cheapest and the easiest way of handling the diseased birds. Individual cases may be treated in the case of valuable birds. These I give a one one-thousandth of a grain tablet of corrosive sublimate (mercury bichloride) every three hours. Food given should be easily digested soft food and fed sparingly. All droppings should be disinfected and burned or buried deeply.

If no new cases develop within twenty days after the last known case was quarantined and the premises disinfected the disease can be considered checked.

A Grand Minorca.

The rose comb Black Minorca cock Regent, whose picture is here reproduced from American Poultry Journal, was the winner of first prize at the St. Louis exposition and created a sensation among the breeders and fanciers at that time. Regent is a massive bird with true Minorca shape. He was bred and is owned by George H. Northrup of Raceville, N. Y., who refused $1,000 offered for the bird at the fair. Mr. Northrup placed Regent's value at $1,500.

MINORCA COCK REGENT.

Merits of the Minorca.

It should be no easy matter to name a breed that is as well suited to confinement as the Black Minorca. Where the Ancona would fret, the Leghorn look dirty, the Plymouth Rock get too fat, the Minorca will thrive. It is tame and tractable in disposition, lays a very large egg of a clear, chalky whiteness, and most strains are very prolific. The plumage does not show the dirt, and the Minorca if properly attended to will still look a handsome, well groomed fowl even in the most dingy surroundings.—A. V. Meersch.

Ration For Chicks.

For chicks from ten days to two months try this mixture: Wheat, fifteen pounds; cracked corn, ten pounds; hulled oats, fifteen pounds; Kaffir corn, five pounds; hemp seed, three pounds; granulated bone, three pounds; ground beef scraps, two pounds; fine grit, three pounds; crushed charcoal, two pounds. Add clabber and green bone twice a week.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Moisten the Dust Bath.

Moisten the dust bath slightly, as the fowls' natural dust bath consists of moist dust and not the dry powdered dust, as is supposed by the majority of poultry raisers.

HANDLING THE SICK.

How the Skillful Nurse Makes Her Patient Comfortable.

To make the patient comfortable is the first duty of the nurse of modern times. There are, however, some ever important things to be remembered, the first of which is that all the surroundings of a patient shall be as cheery and natural as possible.

The chamber should be an attractive one, if it can be so arranged, with plenty of windows through which the purifying sunshine enters during some part of the day, says the Chicago Tribune. If the patient can bear it the shutters of these should be kept open.

Of course a careful nurse will never allow her patient to face a light directly or even the dancing flecks of sunshine which come through the shutter chinks.

The air with which an invalid is to fill his lungs hour after hour must be pure and sweet, since it is to become a powerful ally in the battle with disease. It is not enough to ventilate the room thoroughly once a day, though that is important, but there should be a steady current of air passing through, created perhaps by an open fireplace and window lowered slightly at top or opened a little both above and below when there is no chimney.

The nurse is a paragon in her quiet movements and tactful notice of her patient's needs without asking questions. She sees for herself that the pillows need shaking. She knows when the hot water bag should be applied to cold feet without troubling their tired owner about the matter, and she must be able, moreover, to administer medicines and nourishment at appointed times and comfortably to him. She sees that whispering is not carried on to the annoyance of her patient. She seldom asks him how he is feeling, trying to keep his thoughts from himself.

The skillful nurse selects the most nourishing food, with as little waste about it as possible—eggs, milk, gruels of cereals, meat broths or puree of beans or peas, for instance.

The preparation of the food and the mode of serving must be faultless.

A flower or two as decoration to the tray add a charm to the repast.

How to Revive Fading Roses.

Bouquets of wilted roses, seemingly fit only for the rubbish heap, may be completely revived and freshened by a method which, in its results, is identical to that of a heavy dew. The life of a rose bouquet can easily be increased or lengthened to twice what it would ordinarily be by this simple method, says the Housekeeper. Put the stems of the roses in a tumbler of water and then place the tumbler and roses in a vessel of sufficient size to allow the entire bonquet to be covered. A large pail or boiler is very good for the purpose, or, if a large number of roses are to be revived, a bath or washtub will fulfill all requirements. Cover the vessel tightly and leave undisturbed for twenty-four hours. By that time the roses will be found as beautifully fresh and invigorated as if just plucked from the bushes and with every petal covered with the artificial dew. Wilted lettuce may also be freshened and kept in crisp and excellent condition for weeks if treated in the same way.

How to Make Raised Buns.

Use one pound of flour, one egg, half an ounce of compressed yeast, a little salt, milk, probably about half a pint, in making raised buns. Sift together the flour and salt. Mix together the yeast and a teaspoonful of castor sugar till they are liquid, beat up the egg and add it to the yeast. Strain these into the middle of the flour, add the milk gradually, mixing all well together until it is a soft dough. Divide it into six pieces. Roll out each thinly, prick them all over with a fork, put them on a greased baking tin, place the tin by the fire for one hour for the cakes to rise well. Then put them into the oven to bake. They will take from five to ten minutes. Split and butter them and serve them hot, or they are very good cold.

How to Make Crab Apple Jelly.

To each pound of crab apples add half a pint of water and one lemon, cut very thin, for every six pounds of fruit when making crab apple jelly. Set all in a big pan, cover with a flour and water crust, or a big plate will answer, and stew in a moderate oven until the fruit is quite soft and all juice extracted. Place in a flannel straining bag, suspend it and allow to drip for thirty-four hours. Then to each pint of juice add one pound of granulated sugar and boil one hour. More juice may be obtained by pressing the bag, but it will be cloudy, and for this reason should be kept separate from the first product.

How to Fill Crevices In Woodwork.

Far cheaper than putty and equally efficacious as a filler of crevices in woodwork is a mixture made by soaking newspapers thoroughly in a paste made of one pound of flour, three quarts of water and a tablespoonful of alum. The mixture, which should be about the consistency of putty, should be forced into the cracks with a knife, and it will harden like papier mache and may be stained or painted to match the floor or skirting board which it is used to repair.

How to Make Peach Ice Cream.

Peach ice cream is one of the most delicious of fruit creams and is not at all hard to make. The peaches must be quite ripe and of some rather soft variety. Peel and mash the fruit and sweeten it well. Whip a quart of cream and partially freeze it before adding the peaches. When the cream is frozen to a soft mush, stir in the fruit, mix thoroughly and finish the freezing. This makes a very rich cream.

The Lure of The Far North

Return of the Unsuccessful Fiala Expedition—Previous Attempts to Find the North Pole—Fate of Franklin

JUST as Commander Peary starts for the arctic regions Anthony Fiala, who was almost given up for lost, returns from them. Year in and year out the search for the north pole goes on and the hardships and dangers explorers experience within the Arctic circle neither deter them from making renewed attempts at finding the pole nor prevent others from following in their footsteps. It often happens, as in the case of Fiala, that one party of explorers gets lost in the ice or is unheard from for a long time, and then a relief expedition is sent after it. Perhaps a third party is sent to look for the relief expedition.

It is two years since Anthony Fiala sailed from Norway on the expedition equipped by the late William Ziegler of Brooklyn to look for the north pole. The America, in which Fiala and his fellow explorers hoped to reach a point near the pole, was crushed in the ice early in the winter of 1903-04 and lost, with a large part of her coal and provisions. The loss of the ship prevented Fiala from successful prosecution of his plans for polar exploration, although several attempts were made by him and his fellow adventurers to reach high latitudes. They did not get higher than 82 degrees 13 minutes. The scientific work planned was successfully carried out, however, by William J. Peters of the United States geological survey. Provisions stored in Franz-Josef Land saved the party from severe hardship while awaiting rescue.

W. S. Champ, secretary of the late Mr. Ziegler, started out to look for Fiala in June, 1904, but was unsuccessful in finding him. This summer he set out again, with better luck, for he found Fiala alive and well and all of his party with him except a seaman who had died from natural causes. That a party of thirty-seven should spend two years in the far north with a loss of but one man is deemed a good record and fine testimony to the ability of the leader, Mr. Fiala. He is a Brooklyn man, is thirty-five years of age and served with credit in the Spanish war. He was in the first expedition sent to the arctic by Mr. Ziegler and led by Evelyn B. Baldwin. When he sailed from New York for Norway over two years ago a Nashville young lady named Clare Puryear stood on the pier and waved a farewell. As soon as he gets back to this country, it is now announced by the family, she will become Mrs. Fiala.

The past sixty years have been very prolific in efforts to explore the polar regions. The most noted of the early arctic explorers was Sir John Franklin, who in 1845 set out on his third expedition to the far north with two ships called the Erebus and Terror. He was never seen again alive and died in June, 1847. All the members of his party perished with him. Many expeditions were sent out to rescue his party or discover what had become of them, but it was not until 1859 that through the efforts of Lady Franklin definite knowledge of Franklin's fate was obtained, and it was not until Lieutenant Schwatka's voyage north in 1879 that the bodies of Franklin and his associates were found.

American polar exploration dates from the Franklin relief expeditions, and it was in the year 1850 that the Advance and Rescue, under command of Lieutenant De Haven, set out in search of the English explorer. Their mission was fruitless so far as finding him was concerned. In 1853 Elisha Kent Kane, a surgeon in the United States navy, set sail for the north with a similar object, and his voyage, though it had no results in respect to Franklin, added considerably to the knowledge then possessed about the far north. In 1860 Dr. Isaac I. Hayes carried the American flag to 81 degrees 35 minutes north, and in 1871 Captain Charles Frederick Hall, in the Polaris, succeeded in reaching 82 degrees and 2 minutes, but died on his ship shortly afterward. In 1881 came the expedition under Lieutenant Adolphus G. Greely, which penetrated to high latitudes and made many valuable observations, but met with severe hardships. The survivors of the party were rescued in 1884 by Rear Admiral W. S. Schley, then a captain in the navy. It was in 1886 that Robert E. Peary made his first voyage north, and the present one is his ninth.

Marlboro Loses.

The city of Marlboro shows a loss in population by the new census, as compared with 1895, and probably is the smallest city in Massachusetts. The population is 14,072, against 14,977 ten years ago. In 1880 the population of Quincy was 10,570 and the population of Marlboro 10,127. Now Quincy is about twice as large.

THE FRIGATE BIRD.

It Has the Greatest Wing Power of Any Flying Animal.

It has been demonstrated that the wing area of different flying creatures varies from about forty-nine square feet per pound of weight in the gnat and five square feet in the swallow to half a square foot per pound of weight in the Australian crane. The frigate bird has the most wonderful wing power of any of the flying animals, being able to cut the air at the rate of 100 miles an hour and live continually on the wing day and night for a week or ten days. Ornithologists of note even give it as their opinion that a healthy individual of this species would be equal to the task of making a trip around the world without once closing its wings in rest. It is also claimed that some species can remain motionless in the air for hours without flapping their wings. That they can exert three times the horsepower per pound of weight that a man can and about the same amount more than a horse. It is, without question, a fact that birds in general can exert physical energy that is without parallel in nature. It is generally supposed that birds are lighter, bulk for bulk, than other animals, but repeated experiments have proved that there are no grounds upon which to base such an opinion.

HOSPITABLE FOLKS.

One Never Beholds a Small Dining Table In Brazil.

The Brazilians are a most hospitable people. Although they have large families, they take in all their stray, unfortunate relatives. It is not unusual to find households of twenty-four persons or more. Ofttimes the host and hostess have no children, and the family is made up of sisters and cousins and relatives-in-law. One never sees a small dining table in Brazil. It is always a very long board in a very large room. When it is not to be all occupied the cloth is spread only at one end. No effort is made at artistic effects. Rigid rules for table deportment are not observed. You will not gain the frowning enmity of your hostess if you splash her table linen with wine. If she notices it at all she will think good naturedly that these things cannot be helped.

Bread comes by the yard to eat with coffee in the morning. The midday breakfast is begun with salad and ends with guayaba jelly, cheese and a delicious little cup of black coffee.

Dinner is a repetition of breakfast in dishes and in order of serving, excepting that soup is substituted for salad at the beginning and more desserts are offered.

—Attorney General Herbert Parker is to resume his law practice in Worcester when he closes his service for the State at the end of this year. He has formed a partnership with Charles C. Milton of that city, under the firm name of Parker & Milton. Henry H. Fuller and George A. Gaskill, son of Judge Francis A. Gaskill, will be associated with the firm.

A WOMAN SUSPECT

Possible Clue to Murderer of Mattie Hackett

AN ARREST IS EXPECTED

Strangling of Girl Was Carefully Performed--Cord About Her Neck Long Time After Body Was Found and Before Death

Kents Hill, Me., Aug. 21.—The authorities of Kennebec county are engaged in investigating what appears to them like a tangible clue to the murderer of Mattie Hackett, the 17-year-old daughter of Levi Hackett, who was strangled near her home here Thursday night. This clue is being carefully followed and, it is said, proves to be almost strong enough to warrant an arrest. It is considered possible that an arrest may be made today. The latest theory entertained by the officers is that a woman was responsible for the girl's death. This idea was suggested last week, but until yesterday little evidence could be found to support it.

Frank H. Ham, high sheriff of Kennebec county, when seen at the jail in Augusta, said that since the beginning he has maintained and still maintains that it was a woman who committed the crime. Until some definite action has been taken the sheriff does not care to give his reasons for this theory. The inquest will not be held until Tuesday afternoon and it may be postponed.

The cord with which Miss Hackett was strangled was of the kind commonly used for large bundles. It was smaller in diameter than a lead pencil and was twice placed around the neck. One end was then passed through a noose and pulled tight. The noose end was a slip-knot, which, when the long end of the cord was pulled tight, closed and held like a vise. So hard had it been pulled that blood was forced from the nose and ran over the right side of the face.

The girl when found lay with her head a foot or more lower than her feet, and the flow of blood was back toward the hair. This may have given rise to the first reports which told of a gashed face and a crushed skull, but save the marks of a stout grip on her arms between the elbows and shoulders there were no indications that the murderer had used other force than the strangle knot.

The most deplorable phase of the case is that the cord about the neck was not sooner discovered. At least 15 minutes must have elapsed from the time of the discovery that a murderer had been at work before the girl was taken to the house and some few minutes more passed before the cord was seen. Miss Hackett was breathing when she was carried in, but the last least heart flutter ceased about the time when a knife sundered the cord about her neck.

The funeral of Miss Hackett, which was held yesterday afternoon at the Union church of Readfield, was so largely attended that all persons who went to the little edifice could not obtain seats. The officiating minister was Rev. Wilbur F. Berry, president of the Maine Wesleyan seminary at Kents Hill, assisted by Rev. Miss Elizabeth Goldwaithe of the Universalist church. The bearers were four students at Kents Hill seminary who were friends of Miss Hackett.

Lester P. Lyons of Boston, to whom Miss Hackett was said to have been engaged, arrived to attend the funeral, but the ceremonies had been concluded just two minutes before he reached the village. Miss Hackett was buried in the village cemetery.

CITY COUNCIL.

Vacation Over—Some of the Business for this Evening.

The first meeting of the City Council since the adjournment in July will be held this evening. The meeting was adjourned to this date on account of the drawing of jurors. Aside from this there will be public hearings on the petitions to accept Bromfield and Curtis streets and on several petitions for pole locations.

The N. E. T. & T. Co. will present petitions for permission to attach its wires and fixtures to poles of other companies. Several petitions for minor licenses will also be received.

The Committee on Finance will probably report on the order for $500 for widening Granite street near its junction with Hancock street.

In the calendar is the order granting the N. E. T. & T. Co. permission to attach wires and fixtures to poles on Federal avenue and Goddard street.

Quincy Mansion School.

The Fall term will begin on September 21st. A class of young pupils will be formed for the study not only of the "common branches," but also of French or German; Natural Science, in simple form adapted to their needs; art and music. A number of instructors, larger than usual, has been engaged all of whom are experienced, and expert teachers. Attention to individual needs is the specialty of Quincy Mansion School.

Battleship Furniture.

The furniture and mess fittings for the new battleship Rhode Island, nearly completed at Quincy, are expected today from the Boston navy yard where they were made. The force of master ship joiner George Burroughs will now get out the furniture and fittings for the battleship New Jersey.

Mayor Violated Speeding Laws

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Mayor Dunne, John Boylston and a chauffeur were riding through Evanston when he was arrested on the charge of going too fast. All three occupants of the automobile were taken to a police station. Dunne remained outside while the other two appeared before the justice. The fine of $10 was paid and the machine moved away after Dunne had inquired concerning the speed limit in his own city.

Castro Wants to Fight Us

New York, Aug. 21.—The Tribune says: Venezuela has placed orders in Europe for torpedo boats, guns and ammunition, at the cost of about $2,500,000. An American who has just returned from Venezuela is authority for the statement that President Castro recently declared that he was going to fight the Yankees, which explains the unusually large orders for war material.

More Trouble at Kishineff

St. Petersburg, Aug. 21.—A dispatch from Kishineff says that rioting occurred there Saturday evening, following the publication of the czar's manifesto. The demonstrators are described as numbering several thousand, but were dispersed by cossacks.

Watching Kamchatken Coast

Godzyadani, Manchuria, Aug. 21.—A small squadron of Japanese cruisers is cruising off the shore of Kamchatka. Armed schooners and torpedo boats continue demonstrating all along the Siberian coast.

Royal Match Arranged

Madrid, Aug. 21.—The newspapers announce that a marriage has been arranged between Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria and Infanta Maria Teresa, second sister of King Alfonso.

—Miss Ruth Thomas, who was drowned at Scituate Friday, was a general favorite at the Perkins institution for the blind in South Boston, where she had been instructor to Tommy Stringer, who is deaf, dumb and blind, during the past term. She was a daughter of David R. and Susan Thomas of Worcester, where she was born 28 years ago. She was a graduate of the Worcester Classical High school and went from there to Mt. ## LADIES' DAY.

Squantum Yacht Club Entertain.

Too Much Wind for Timid Ones.

Aquatic Sports, Music, Refreshments and Dancing.

The annual ladies day of the Squantum Yacht club was held Saturday afternoon and brought out a large number of ladies. A stiff easterly breeze prevailed all the afternoon which kicked up quite a sea. It was rather rough and many of the timid ones perferred to enjoy the concert and scene from the club verandas rather than venture out and run the risk of a ducking. The yachts that participated were close reefed and the guests aboard were kept dry. The launches, however threw considerable spray and a few guests got sprinkled with water.

At 3 o'clock Commodore Bryant put out in his twenty-five horse power launch Squantum. This was the signal for the start. It was so rough that no attempt was made by the boats to pass in review, but they gave their guests a sail in the bay.

While they were out Thorley's orchestra gave a concert on the club veranda, the program being as follows:

|---|---|
| "Here they come," | March |
| "Sweethearts and Roses," | Waltz |
| "The Idolizers," | Two Step |
| "When the Bees are in the Hive," | Cornet Solo |
| Mr. Joseph Thorley | |
| "Western Girl," | Two Step |
| "Loving Hearts," | Redowa |
| "Sailing," | Two Step (new) |
| To the Ladies—Compliments of A. R. Leavitt | |
| "How'd you like to spoon with me?" | |
| From "The Earl and the Girl" | |
| "Dixie Belles," | March |
| Popular Hits | |
| "Love's Own," | Waltz |
| Good Afternoon, | March |

After the sail there was a series of water sports. These included a polo game between teams composed as follows:

Team I, —Archie Briggs, John McClure, Henry Swanson and Curtis Hallett.

Team II, —Laurie Bean, Henry Arthur, Clifton Hill, and George Coleman.

Two five minute halves were played. Neither side scored in the first half. In the second half goals were made by Briggs and Hallett of Team I.

Then there was a tender race which was won by Archie Briggs, with Curtis Hallett second.

At 5 o'clock a lunch was served.

In the evening the club verandas were illuminated with uncountable Japanese lanterns and electric lights, and there was dancing until 11 o'clock.

Those to participate in the sail were: Flagship Squantum, Commodore Charles M. Bryant—Roger H. Wilde, George Bean, John Clark.

Launch Squaw, Captain Hamilton Flood—Mrs. C. M. Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cotter, Mr. and Mrs. John Malcolm, Howard Gannett.

Launch Fairbanks, Capt. A. H. Hall—Mrs. A. H. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Burke, Mr. and Mrs. T. Roche, Miss Laura Coles, Miss Grace Coles, Mrs. Almore Hatch, Miss Harriet Bennett, Mrs. Shirley F. Nutting, Mrs. Benjamin Johnson, Mrs. George Turner, Louis Coles, Frank Spencer.

Yacht Eclipse, Vice Commodore George F. Sawyer, Jr.—Mrs. Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Marble, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Heffernan, H. A. Johnson, William H. Clark.

Launch Laurencia, Capt. Harry W. Read—Miss Maud E. Read, Miss Mabel W. Read, Miss Helen Curtin, Miss Marion Baker, Howard Tirrell, Frank Ewen, Ernest Moore, Horace Jackson.

Yacht Primrose, Capt. F. V. Kolb—Miss L. Kolk, Archie Briggs.

Yacht Blossom, Capt. William Croucher—Mrs. L. H. Millberry, Mrs. H. Britton, Miss Mildred Green, Miss Torrey, Miss Etta Hutchins, Mrs. William Croucher, Ralph Croucher, Charles Seaman, Miss Grace Millberry.

Launch Squanto, Capt. Frank Coe—Mrs. Coe, Miss Anna Harding, Miss Ruth Parker, Miss Louise Wilde.

Yacht Zoe, Capt. F. J. Stewart—Mrs. F. J. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. James McCarthy, W. J. Ripley, Miss Addie Campbell, Edward McCarthy, Miss Rose McCarthy, Miss Helen McCarthy, Miss Anderson.

Yacht Agilis, Capt. Frank E. Badger—Miss Genevieve Wilson, Miss Maud Gray, Miss Florence Gray, Miss Mabel Read, Miss Marion Baker, Miss Isabel Healey, Miss Etta Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Bahee, Herbert D. Gearwar, Walter P. Hill, George W. Woodward.

NOT ENGAGED.

But Father of Young Lady Sends Announcement to Papers.

The announcement of the engagement of two young people at Wollaston has caused considerable comment, as it is denied by both parties.

The news was sent to press on Saturday by Gen. Thomas R. Matthews announcing the engagement of his only daughter, Miss Marjorie Louisa Matthews, to Mr. Selden W. George of 203 Farrington street.

It seems the young people were not consulted at all, and were surprised and chagrined at the publicity.

"Such a statement is wholly unauthorized," indignantly declared Miss Mathews, when she learned the engagement had been announced by her father, "and he has done that to spite me for leaving home six weeks ago, because of the friction between my stepmother and myself. She has caused me sufficient trouble thus far, but I suppose she intends to keep it up.

"Mr. George is simply a close friend of mine, and it was through an invitation of his mother that I came here to spend a few days. If my father thinks that I am engaged, or that I am to be married in the near future without his knowledge, he is entirely mistaken. I have not seen him for some time and he is probably worrying because he fears that his friends will learn that I have left home without his knowledge or advice and thinks that by announcing my engagement I might get married at once, which would, in his estimation, be an excuse for leaving home.

"After enduring the friction as long as I could, which has existed for some time between my stepmother and myself, I decided to leave home six weeks ago and I went directly to the home of my aunt, Mrs. S. K. Johnson, 80 Bower street, Roxbury. Until this week I was at her house and I came to Wollaston for rest. I expect to return to Roxbury within a few days."

Mr. George also denies the engagement and corroborates all Miss Matthews says.

Gen. Matthews has thus far escaped an interview, and has not explained his announcement.

Mr. George and Miss Matthews met while both were pupils at the Quincy High school, and ever since they became acquainted have been very close friends. Mr. George has visited at the Matthews home in Boston and after Miss Matthews left her father the young man called upon her at the Bower street house, the home of the aunt.

The Mathews family formerly lived at 348 Marlboro street, Back Bay, but have given up their residence there, and are now living in Wollaston, where for some years past they have spent their summers. Miss Mathews was graduated from the Quincy High school in 1902, and later from Quincy Mansion school. She finished at the High school when she was 15 and then entered the academy, remaining there for three years.

Mr. George is connected with a stationery store in Boston.

Gen. Matthews second wife was formerly Miss Kennard, belonging to a well known family of the same name, of Wollaston, and she is said to be possessed of considerable means. Notwithstanding that she had no children, it was stated that a strong personal antagonism exists between her and Miss Mathews, which in the past has frequently caused family turbulences.

AN OLD STORY.

Efforts to be Made to Stop the Numerous Incendiary Fires.

Someone is determined that the old granite sheds and office of George S. Paterson on Canal street shall be destroyed. Numerous attempts have been made in the past to burn the buildings but the fire department has always been too swift for the parties and the blaze has been extinguished.

During the past week seven attempts were made to burn the buildings. Twice on Thursday was the department called on bell alarms for a fire in the buildings, and once on a still alarm. Saturday their were two more bell alarms from Box 25, for a fire in the same sheds. The first came in at 6.09 P. M., and the second at 7.35.

In both of these cases the fires were quickly extinguished.

On Sunday the Central station apparatus was called out twice on still alarms for fires in the same buildings. The first being at 1 o'clock and again at 3 o'clock.

Chief of Police Burrell has made up his mind that these incendiary fires must stop and he has taken steps to apprehend the parties.

LATEST!

ON A STRIKE.

Drillers Out at the Shipyard

Because of a New Schedule.

Management Expect to Come to an Agreement.

Between eighty and ninety men employed as drillers and tappers on the battleship New Jersey at the Fore River shipyard are out on a strike against what they consider an unfair reduction in wages.

Saturday, the Fore River Co. posted a new schedule of wages to go into effect today. The drillers are not satisfied with it and for this reason are out.

At their headquarters in French's hall this noon the men said that they were out on a strike against a cut in wages.

Asked as to how much of a cut had been made, the men replied that it varied with different workmen, and that it would be difficult off hand to state just what the cut was. They believed, however, that it would average ten per cent.

At 2.30 this afternoon the men on a strike held a meeting behind closed doors at French hall. They were still in session when the Daily Ledger went to press.

General Manager Smith, when interviewed by telephone this noon, admitted that some men were not at work. He did not wish to say anything about the matter at present, however, as he had not had time to take up the matter with them. He believes that the matter in dispute will be readily adjusted and that the suspension of work will be but temporary.

TRUNKS RIFLED.

A Fellow Boarder Arrested on Charge of Larceny.

Victor Sainio was arrested at East Boston by Lieut. McKay Saturday afternoon, upon a warrant charging him larceny. It is alleged that Sainio rifled the trunks of fellow boarders at Quincy, of money, and other articles, and skipped.

The larceny is alleged to have taken place last Friday morning, Aug. 18. Sainio boarded at 2 West street. On the above morning it is alleged that he did not go to work as usual, but remained at home, and that as soon as the other boarders had gone, he rifled their trunks.

From the trunk of Niilo Tuominen it is alleged he secured $26 in money; from David Freeman, $8 in money and a suit of clothing; and from William Laine a gold watch.

Shortly after one of the boarders returned home from work and found that the trunks had been broken open.

The police were notified and Sainio was located in East Boston where he was arrested. He was arraigned in court.

MAYOR THOMPSON.

Returns from an Extended Sojourn in New Hampshire.

Mayor Thompson has returned from a visit of several weeks to Fitzwilliam, N. H. His health improved wonderfully during his absence. He looks better and says he feels better.

Politics Warming.

Political clambakes were the order of the day on Sunday. The Quincy Associates held one at Germantown, and the Ward 2 Tammany club one at Pawsey's.

—A Harvey Co. (Kansas) widower took his second wife home and introduced her to the children by saying: "This is your new mamma." They looked at her critically and the youngest blurted out: "Is that the best you could do, papa?"—New York Tribune.

The Opechee continues to win prizes for her new owner, F. W. Gilmore, being first in her class at Winthrop on Saturday.

Smart Little Garment.

For a tea or coffee coat piece lace is quite the smartest fabric, and nothing is more useful for table d'hote, etc., when traveling than one of these smart little garments.

The one shown here is set into a band at the waist and covered with a swathed corselet and finds its completion in a short added basque. It hooks down the center front, the ends of a wide ribbon folded inside the V shaped opening being caught down from a smart bow on the figure line to hide the fastening.

Gherkin Pickles.

Brine for pickling is made by adding sufficient salt to water to allow it to float an egg. Boil this an hour or so and remove the scum. The brine may be used repeatedly if salt be added to maintain the original strength. About one-third the original amount will effect this.

Gherkins are simply little cucumbers. Take them from the brine and lay upon a sieve to drain; boil some brine and pour over them, then allow to remain for a day. Next drain upon a sieve, wipe dry with a cloth, put into bottles and cover with vinegar. To improve the flavor of the vinegar add a little dill. A harmless green color may be given by boiling vine leaves with the vinegar or by adding a little bicarbonate of soda to the hot brine.

The Eggshell Gloss on Wood.

As a rule, furniture in these days suffers from too much furniture polish rather than too little. The delicate surface for which old pieces are famous, known as "eggshell gloss," was obtained by a minimum of furniture polish and a maximum of elbow grease. There is an art in applying furniture polish.

APPEARING OLD

Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment.

You cannot afford to grow old.

In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible ones youthful appearance.

It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxurious growth of hair.

The presence of Dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.

Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use.

Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as Dandruff cure.

Suggestion to Refer the Mooted Points to The Hague Tribunal Would Be Hard For Czar, as Author of Peace Conference, to Reject--Japanese Give No Sign of Their View of Change In Situation Produced by the President's Action--The Final Decision as to War or Peace Is Expected This Week

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 21.—The chances of peace have undoubtedly been improved by President Roosevelt's action in stepping into the breach in a last heroic endeavor to induce the warring countries to compromise their "irreconcilable" differences, but the result is still in suspense. The ultimate decision of the issue has practically passed from the plenipotentiaries to their principals, from Portsmouth to St. Petersburg and, perhaps, in a lesser extent, to Tokio.

Although there are collateral evidences that pressure both by President Roosevelt and neutral powers, including Japan's ally, Great Britain, whose minister, Sir Claude MacDonald, according to advices received here, had a long conference Sunday afternoon with Mr. Katsura, the Japanese premier, is still being exerted at Tokio to induce Japan to moderate her terms, there is also reason to believe that President Roosevelt was able, at his interview with Baron De Rosen, to practically communicate to the latter's senior, Mr. Witte, Japan's irreducible minimum—what she would still yield, but the point beyond which she would not go.

It is authoritatively announced that the feature of the proposition of President Roosevelt, communicated through Baron Rosen to Mr. Witte and transmitted by the latter to the czar, was based upon the principle of arbitration. Whether the proposal contemplates arbitration of all the articles upon which the plenipotentiaries have failed to agree, or only upon the question of indemnity, cannot be stated with positiveness, but it is more than probable that it relates only to indemnity or to indemnity and the cession of the Island of Sakhalin.

Neither is it possible to say whether the president has yet made a similar proposition to Japan. The customary diplomatic proceedings in such a case would be to submit the proposal simultaneously to both countries, but there might be an advantage in securing the adherence of one before submitting it to the other.

To the czar, the author of The Hague peace conference, the suggestion of arbitration, which will necessarily immediately command the sympathy of the public opinion of the world, will be particularly hard to reject. If he agrees, Japan, if she has not already done so, would be all the more bound to submit her claim to the decision of an impartial arbitrator. Acceptance by both sides would involve a great extension of the principle of arbitration, as nations have heretofore declined to arbitrate questions involving their "honor and dignity."

Both Takahira and Witte, in the earlier stages of the conference, absolutely rejected the idea of arbitration, and only Saturday both reiterated their disbelief in such a solution. It was noticed, however, that Witte's opinion was not expressed as strongly as last week.

It can now be affirmed positively that, if Russia refuses to act upon suggestion or proposition of President Roosevelt, the peace conference will end in failure.

And in the Russian camp little encouragement is given. Baron De Rosen reached here after an all-night ride from Oyster Bay shortly before noon and immediately went into conference with Witte. They remained closeted together for almost three hours, during which the whole situation was reviewed. Baron Rosen communicated to his chief the president's message and it was transmitted to the czar, together with Witte's recommendation. No clue to the nature of this recommendation has transpired. But it can be stated that Witte, no matter how he personally may view the proposition, is distinctly pessimistic as to the character of the response which will come from St. Petersburg.

The Japanese, it is firmly believed, cling to the substance, if not the form, of the demand for remuneration for "the cost of the war." Perhaps they are willing to decrease the sum asked, but substantial compensation, under whatever guise it is obtained, they decline to relinquish. And they are also firm upon the cession of Sakhalin. By the transfer of the southern branch of the Chinese Eastern railway first to Japan for relinquishment to China, payment for the maintenance of the Russian prisoners and the surrender of the Russian warships, it is possible to figure out a total transfer to Japan in money and property of about $250,000,000. But this is the limit.

The Japanese are very reticent and it is impossible to obtain from them the least indication of their view of the change in the situation produced by the president's action. It is taken for granted that the president's appeals were made to Japan as well as Russia, but the Japanese side of the negotiations looking to a compromise are almost completely in the dark. It is assumed that Baron Kaneko was able to explain the Japanese views to the president. If the president is successful with Russia it may be that he must then turn to Japan. That would be the natural course if he has suggested to Russia what he regards as a fair compromise and has undertaken, if Russia accepts, to use his influence to induce Japan to accept.

Emperor Nicholas' decision, upon which the fate of the conference seems now to hang, will, according to the best informed Russians, depend upon conditions at home. The two big factors are the internal conditions and the reports from the front as to the military situation. The former has been ameliorated by last Saturday's manifesto, and the character of the reports received by the czar from Manchuria are known to be good. General Linevitch has expressed absolute confidence in victory and since the conference began he and his generals have not only reassured the czar that the army was never in better condition, but they have actually sent messages to Witte imploring him not to make peace. They demand an opportunity to retrieve the "honor and prestige" of the army, and in a country where the army is the bulwark of the government the wishes of its generals are not lightly to be disregarded by their sovereign. Not only to make peace but to pay tribute to the enemy would, therefore, be a very difficult task for the czar, notwithstanding his desire for peace.

The issue will not necessarily be decided on Tuesday. Indeed, it is quite likely that there may be some delay in the answer from St. Petersburg, in which case an excuse will be found to adjourn the meeting over from day to day. The Japanese will not be impatient, but the final decision will without doubt come this week.

Further Visits Not Expected

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 21.—President Roosevelt's great effort to bring about a successful issue of the peace conference at Portsmouth practically was concluded with his conference Saturday afternoon with Baron De Rosen. The proposition then submitted will have to be passed upon not only by the Russian envoys, but probably by the czar himself. On the determination reached as to that proposition very likely will depend peace or an indefinite continuation of hostilities between the belligerents.

It is not expected here that the president will receive further visits from either Russian or Japanese representatives prior to the next meeting of the conferees. There is ground for the belief that the Japanese plenipotentiaries were cognizant of the details of the president's final effort to prevent a rupture of the conference and are prepared, so far as their government is concerned, to carry into effect the proposition he submitted to the Russian envoys. No intimation of the nature of that proposition is given here.

Rupture Is Anticipated

Tokio, Aug. 21.—A meeting of the cabinet was held yesterday at the home of Premier Katsura. Afterwards Katsura drove to the palace and made a report to the emperor. Later the premier received British Minister MacDonald, to whom he granted an extended interview. Following the call of MacDonald the premier conferred with the minister of war, minister of marine and the Chinese vice minister of foreign affairs. The premier and his conferees declined to discuss the situation, but it is generally believed that a rupture of the peace conference is inevitable.

Russia's Attitude Unchanged

St. Petersburg, Aug. 21.—Russia's official attitude regarding the final reply to be made to Japan is unchanged. Only a very great concession on the part of Japan on the question of indemnity and the cession of Sakhalin will make peace possible. The questions pertaining to the limitation of Russia's naval power and the surrender of her interned warships are considered here to be quite susceptible of satisfactory arrangement and not liable to cause serious trouble.

Tide Hinges Upon Roosevelt

Paris, Aug. 21.—The morning papers devote lengthy leaders to expressing admiration for President Roosevelt in his efforts to bring about peace. The papers adopt a hopeful view, yet they consider the situation extremely delicate and that the turn of the tide will depend upon the influence of the President of the United States.

The Situation In Korea

London, Aug. 21.—The Daily Telegraph's Tokio correspondent says that despite the heavy rains the Japanese have advanced in northern Korea. The Russians abandoned their advance works and were driven back. The Japanese army in Korea already has effected a certain communication with Field Marshal Oyama.

Linevitch's Defense Works Complete

London, Aug. 21.—The Daily Telegraph's Japanese correspondent at Mojl says that General Linevitch's defense works are now complete. His troops number between 400,000 and 500,000. Trainloads of troops are arriving from Russia and many are being sent to the Tumen.

The Case of Adam and Eve.

"In a certain church in Colorado Springs," said an Oregon clergyman, "there used to be a queer old, crusty character, a Scot who was noted for his profound knowledge of the Scriptures. I lectured in that church one evening, and after the lecture the Scot and I and some few others fell into conversation.

"I was urged to put the old man's Scriptural knowledge to the test. I was urged to question him and to let him question me. He would get the better of me—that, every one said, was certain—but I had my doubts and, turning to the Scot, said confidently:

"'I will try you, my friend, with the grand, leading, insurmountable question, How long did Adam remain in a state of innocence?'

"The Scot answered:

"'Till he got a wife.'

"Then, with a grim chuckle, he went on:

"'But can you tell me, sir, how long he remained after?'"

Ringer and Wind.

Making a ringer in the pitching of quoits must have been a part of the training which made the English longbowmen so terrible in siege that by gauging the distance and taking the lay of the wind they could send up a deadly volley at the exact angle to drop their arrows with destructive force into the heart of a beleaguered city. Getting the lay of the wind is the first thing to be learned in the noble art of pitching horseshoes. If the wind be contrary, the nicest calculations as to everything else will be in vain. It is only a supreme master of the game, a dazzling genius in its mathematics, who can play against the wind—that is to say, one who, if the wind be from the east, can, by throwing at exactly that degree of an oblique angle needed to make it meet the wind full at the point opposite the goal, may hope to have it carried to the right spot.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Exact Obedience.

Native servants in India have the generally desirable, though sometimes inconvenient, virtue of the Chinese—doing exactly as they are told. The trouble is that they seldom use judgment.

Lord Roberts during a campaign in India had ordered his man to prepare his bath at a certain hour. One day a fierce engagement was going on, but the servant made his way through a storm of bullets and appeared at his commander's side.

"Sahib," said he, "your bath is ready."

Even a better story comes from an unknown soldier who was awakened one morning by feeling the servant of a brother officer pulling at his foot.

"Sahib," whispered the man, "sahib, what am I to do? My master told me to wake him at half past 6, but he did not go to bed till 7."

Bathers Who Sleep Floating.

"To fall asleep floating on the waves is not an impossibility," said an Atlantic City life guard. "On the sun warmed billows on an August afternoon I once floated off to sleep, and when I awoke I was nearly half a mile out at sea. I know a Camden man who often takes a floating nap off Chelsea.

"A good many people can't float even though they can swim. They can't float because they keep the line of the body, from head to heels, stiff and straight. The line should be kept curved a little—it should resemble a very broad V—and all the muscles should be loose, relaxed. It is easy to float. I have taught many children of six and seven years to do it."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Branding Criminals.

Until the end of the eighteenth century the prisoners' dock in most important English law courts was furnished with an iron upright and collar fixed in front of the person who was being tried. If a conviction followed and the judge elected to include a decree of branding in the sentence that portion of it was carried out upon the spot. The criminal's hand was put through the collar, which was effectually screwed round the wrist and, the necessary branding irons having been previously heated in the courthouse fire, was forthwith marked upon the thumb with the letters which the judge directed to be burned upon it.

One Way to Win Sleep.

A writer in a medical journal suggests a new way of juggling with insomnia. His sleep inducer is a chain of magic words so associated in sound or meaning that each suggests the next subsequent—for instance: Ice, slippery; smooth, rough; ruffian, tramp, etc. When sleep is coy recite the list mentally. This is said to be a sure cure. It keeps the mind from rambling from subject to subject, as the mind tends to do in sleeplessness.

The Undesirable Simple Life.

Cheese and a cottage complicate life if your digestion is weak and your desire urban. So poverty is a less simple state than the possession of an income, because you are forced, if not into envy, the chief deficiency from simplicity, into struggle with unessential details, with the effort to get hold of something which is of no matter.—London Outlook.

A Theory.

"Why don't sailors say 'right' and 'left' instead of starboard and larboard?"

"Oh, I don't know. I suppose they'd hate to make things too easy for landlubbers."

It is a fine thing to know when to let go. Many a man holds on too long. It is better to jump overboard than to go down with the sinking ship.

CURZON'S PLAINT

Viceroy of India Thinks He Was Shabbily Treated

RESIGNATION TENDERED

Submitted to King Edward, Who Accepts It--Strained Relations With Kitchener Revealed by the Official Correspondence

London, Aug. 21.—The resignation of Lord Curzon of Kedleston as viceroy of India and the appointment of the Earl of Minto as his successor was announced at the India office last night. According to the correspondence which is issued in the form of a white book, it appears that Curzon's resignation was cabled to that office on Aug. 12. The correspondence shows a decidedly bitter feeling between Curzon, the India office and Lord Kitchener, commander-in-chief of the forces in India, over the new scheme of army administration in India.

Lord Curzon's dissatisfaction came to a head with the refusal of the cabinet to appoint Major General Barrow, on Curzon's recommendation, military supply member of the council. Replying on Aug. 2 to the refusal of Mr. Brodrick, secretary of state for India, to make this appointment, Curzon requests that the government reconsider its decision "in order to enable me to accept the responsibility, which I infer his majesty's government still desires me to assume."

Mr. Brodrick again refused to comply with the request for the appointment of Barrow and Curzon replied as follows: "It is apparent that his majesty's government deny me that confidence which alone can enable me to serve them and attach a fundamentally different interpretation from myself to the modifications upon the acceptance of which I alone consented to remain in office. The situation therefore remains where it was when I resigned in June. If the government are unable to accept my views I request the premier to place my resignation in the hands of his majesty."

To this Brodrick replied that there was a request from Balfour that Curzon reconsider his determination. In a final dispatch, however, dated Aug. 12. Curzon says: "The main question is not the choice of individual, but one of the principles underlying a future change in our administration. I am reluctantly driven to the conclusion that the policy of his majesty's government is based on principles that I could not conscientiously carry into execution. In the interests of the new organization it is desirable that I should be relieved of my duties with as little delay as possible."

To this Balfour himself replied that he had "with the most profound regret submitted Lord Curzon's resignation to the king."

Supplementary dispatches, after the receipt of the resignation, show, firstly, that Curzon and Kitchener were unable to agree over the details of the reorganization; and secondly, that Curzon, at the time he left England, expressed his entire disagreement with the scheme. "But," says he, "I loyally commenced the undertaking and only resigned when I realized that conflicts were certain to arise between the commander-in-chief and the rest of the government of India."

His concluding sentence reads: "I reflect with sorrow how little justification there has been for the claim you make of having rendered me your constant support."

West Pointers on the March

Newburgh, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The entire battalion of West Point cadets, with about 175 of the regular army attached to the post, have arrived at Fishkill, having marched from Cold Spring, where they camped Saturday night after their first day out on a five days' trip over country. Today the camp will move toward Wappingers Falls. There are six companies of cadets, five pieces of artillery and 15 wagons with supplies.

Spaniards Condemn Protection

Madrid, Aug. 21.—The Mercantile club has memoralized the minister of finance, requesting the government to return to free trade and condemning protection, which, it states, is the origin of labor troubles and was the cause of the loss of Cuba and the Philippines. The document is receiving much attention from press and public.

Africans Giving Germans Trouble

Berlin, Aug. 21.—The governor of German East Africa telegraphs that the situation in the colony has changed for the worse. The emperor has ordered two cruisers to proceed immediately to East Africa. Reinforcements also will be sent to aid the protective troops of the country.

American Ship Wrecked

Honolulu, Aug. 21.—Ship Spartan of San Francisco went ashore on the east coast of Mani. The Spartan and her cargo are a total loss. The crew was saved. About 30 years ago the Spartan was sunk at the entrance of New York harbor when on a voyage from Manila.

PASSION FOR SPEEDING

Ultimately Results In Death of Millionaire Walsh's Son

Newport, R. I., Aug. 21.—Vinson Walsh, aged 19, son of the millionaire copper king, Thomas F. Walsh of Washington and Denver, was killed here, and his sister, Miss Evelyn Walsh, sustained a fractured leg, in an automobile accident. Mrs. James L. Kernochan, Harry Oelrichs and Herbert Pell, all well known in society, were in the automobile and were badly shaken up but not seriously hurt.

The automobile, driven by young Walsh, and going at the rate of nearly 50 miles an hour, lost a tire and became unmanageable while crossing the bridge spanning a small stream just beyond the bathing beach in Middleton and crashed through the railing of the bridge, turned a complete somersault in the air and struck the water right side up. As it struck the railing of the bridge a heavy timber rail was driven with terrific force through its front and struck young Walsh in the head, inflicting the injury from which he died. The injuries to the other members of the party were caused by being thrown out into the bed of the stream, in which there was but 18 inches of water.

It is said that the chauffeur begged Walsh to be careful on the down hill grade, but that his request was not heeded. The lad had often been fined for speeding.

Fires Perhaps Incendiary

Medford, Mass., Aug. 21.—Three fires of unknown origin, but thought by the police to have been incendiary, destroyed property valued at $45,000. The largest of the three fires was that which destroyed the First Methodist church, causing a loss of $35,000. The first of the fires was that which destroyed Foster's wharf. The wharf was an old one and unused. The loss was $2000. The church fire followed quickly after the wharf fire, and while the former was in progress a blaze was discovered in the rear of hose 4 house of the fire department. This building was good fuel for the flames. The loss to the city is about $8000.

Slaughter of Seagulls

Boston, Aug. 21.—Chairman Field of the state fish and game commission has inaugurated a crusade against violators of the game laws, particularly hunters for plumage, and threatens a raid on milliners who are dealing in feathers and plumage contrary to the statutes. It is stated that 40,000 seagulls have been shot on Cape Cod and its contiguous islands, and that foreigners, who do not understand the laws, are especially tempted by the prices offered by dealers in plumes and feathers.

Eight Years a Fugitive

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 21.—Wojciek Biolewski, 64 years old, surrendered himself to the police here and told a strange story of an occurrence in Shenandoah, Pa., eight years ago by which he fears a police officer was killed by a bullet from his gun. For eight years he has wandered around the country until remorse for the supposed accident led him to surrender himself. He will be held until an investigation can be made to determine whether he is wanted.

Heavy Claims Against Missing Man

Berlin, N. H., Aug. 21.—The police of this city were notified last night of the disappearance of C. Lamoureux, president of the Canadio-American Insurance company, a French-Canadian benefit society, and efforts are being made to locate him. Claims for about $21,000 have been presented by the creditors of the missing man. Lamoureux held the office of assessor for some time. He was prominent in city politics.

Gatcomb Gets $3000 Forfeit

Boston, Aug. 21.—The special $15,000 match between Audubon Boy, Ecstatic and Belle Mc, which was scheduled for Readville next Tuesday, has been declared off by J. Y. Gatcomb, owner of Audubon Boy, who, in a letter to the Boston papers, declares that the owners of the other horses failed to post $4000 each and that the $3000 forfeit has been paid him by the stakeholder.

Visiting Clergymen In Pulpits

Concord, N. H., Aug. 21.—The religious observance of Old Home Sunday, a fundamental feature in the program of the week, was more widespread yesterday than in the six previous years of the festival's history. Several clergymen from without the state gave Old Home sermons in New Hampshire pulpits.

Fire Escape Cleft Boy's Skull

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 21.—James H. Freeman, 12 years old, was instantly killed by the falling of a fire escape in the rear of Graves' block. In some way the rope which fastened the fire escape became loosened and the heavy mass fell on the Freeman boy. His skull was cleft and he died almost immediately.

Suicide of Hospital Inmate

Providence, Aug. 21.—Miss Mary A. Henry, an inmate of the Butler hospital, wandered away and her body was found a few hours later in the Seekonk river. Miss Henry had been under treatment at the institution for melancholia. She was 35 years old and a resident of Pawtucket.

Two Track Walkers Killed

Leominster, Mass., Aug. 21.—Two men were killed and one slightly injured here by a local freight train. The dead are John Mack, aged 25, and James Killelea, 32 years old, both residents of this town. The men were walking on the railroad tracks.

Letting Up on Boycott

Shanghai, Aug. 21.—The boycott against American goods is evidently weakening and the intended mission of former Minister Conger is considered to be entirely superfluous.

Over Sixty Years a Legislator

Fredericton, N. B., Aug. 21.—David Wark, the oldest legislator in the world and a member of the Canadian senate at Ottawa, a life office, is dead at the age of 101 years, 6 months. He was born in Londonderry, Ire., of Scotch parentage. He came to New Brunswick when he was 24 years old. Wark's legislative career began in 1841, in which year he was elected as a member of the New Brunswick legislature, and from that time until his death he had been connected with a parliamentary body.

Improvement Not Wide Enough

St. Petersburg, Aug. 21.—The Novoe Vremya and The Russky Slovo praise the douma project. The other St. Petersburg newspapers, however, fail to show much enthusiasm. While half-heartedly admitting that the project makes for improvement, these latter papers freely criticise the limitation of the powers of the douma and ask for an extension of the freedom of the press, freedom of meeting and political amnesty.

At Least Sixteen Killed

Norfolk, Aug. 21.—The bodies of two more victims of the excursion railway wreck of Thursday were found in the Elizabeth river. One was that of Thomas Ferguson, who was knocked off the bridge when the train plunged through the open draw. This makes 16 known dead up to this time. It is thought that at least seven people are yet missing.

Laborers Caught In Wreckage

Pittsburg, Aug. 21.—Fifteen men were carried down by the falling of a wall in the ruins of the Avenue theatre, which was destroyed by fire about a month ago. The men carried down were all Italian laborers and 13 of them were taken from the wreckage in a badly battered condition. Physicians say none of the victims will die.

Chinamen In Shooting Match

New York, Aug. 21.—Another battle of warring Chinese secret societies was fought in Chinatown last night. As a result two men have serious bullet wounds, two more were slightly injured and the latter, with five others, were locked up until the police have had time to try to straighten out the many tangled versions of the affair.

Five Hundred Dumped Into Cellar

Pittsburg, Aug. 21.—More than 500 men, women and children were precipitated 15 feet into a cellar by the collapse of a platform during the exercises incident to the laying of the cornerstone of the Beth David Russian Hebrew Orthodox synagogue. Nearly all were cut and bruised, but none was fatally hurt.

NEWS IN BRIEF

John E. Veau, aged 22, was drowned at Whitinsville, Mass. Veau and two companions were out in a boat when the craft capsized. The other two men were rescued.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, former British chancellor of the exchequer, is en route for Singapore by way of the United States.

A miniature railway train at Kennywood Park, Pittsburg, jumped the track and 10 passengers were badly hurt, but none fatally.

Mrs. George H. Jordan, an aged widow, despondent over the recent death of her husband, committed suicide by drowning at Freeport, Me.

Webb Jay, the automobile racer who was so badly injured at Buffalo, continues to improve. Barring complications, he will recover.

Daniel Kean, the oldest citizen of Western Maryland, died at Cumberland, aged 101 years. He helped build the Chesapeake and Ohio canal before the days of railroads.

The fraternal Order of Eagles has selected Milwaukee as the next meeting place.

Jeremiah Sugure, an aged resident of Danvers, Mass., committed suicide by hanging. No motive is suggested for the suicide.

The Eclipse Of the Sun

Interesting Scientific Event on Aug. 30—Many Telescopes to Be Trained on Old Sol—The Shadow Track

THE eclipse of the sun on Aug. 30 is a subject of much interest among astronomers, and scientific expeditions have gone to those portions of the earth where the phenomenon can be observed to the best advantage. Although it is of chief interest to astronomers, the general public will give some attention to the event and will watch to see how the sun looks on the morning of Aug. 30. Telescopes will be pointed at the orb of day on that morning from many points on the globe, but chiefly from northern Canada, Spain, Tunis, Egypt and Persia. In these countries the face of the sun will be totally obscured by the shadow of the moon. In the United States only the partial eclipse will be visible. Astronomers expect to be able to make good observations in the north of Spain, as prospects for clear weather will be good and the totality of the eclipse will occur there at noon. Complete extinction of the sun is necessary for the observations which scientists desire to make, and so they go where they get directly in the path of the shadow. The shadow track is approximately 100 miles wide, but toward each end of the track the duration of the totality diminishes, so that it is best to get as near the center as possible.

The total eclipse will last but a little over three minutes, and the scientific men will have to work fast in making their observations, taking their photographs, etc. These observations will be directed chiefly to two ends, determining the nature of the sun's corona and settling the question whether there is a planet nearer the sun than any yet positively discovered. Certain peculiarities in the orbit of Mercury have led to the suggestion that there is a body nearer to the sun than this planet and that it exerts a pull upon Mercury. Some observers of the heavens claim to have noted such a body. The corona of the sun can be observed only on the occasion of an eclipse. It presents many beautiful and wonderful aspects and is a subject of absorbing interest to those of scientific tastes.

This event is considered to be of so much importance by the government of the United States that it has dispatched to the Mediterranean a squadron of war vessels under command of Rear Admiral C. M. Chester with a party of scientists, some of them members of the scientific staff of the United States naval observatory and others professors in colleges and men of scientific attainments who are associated with various branches of the federal government. For two years past the staff of the naval observatory has been getting ready for this event, and many elaborate instruments have been prepared especially for use in connection with it. Camps for observation of the eclipse have been established ere this in Spain and Algeria. Besides this expedition several others have been sent out. The Lick observatory of California dispatched three—one to Labrador, one to northern Spain and one to Assouan, Egypt. Expeditions of lesser importance will represent some other institutions in places where good views of the eclipse may be had.

Residents of the United States can view the partial eclipse by getting up in good season on Aug. 30. In the western part of the United States it will be seen at sunrise and in the eastern portion shortly after sunrise. For instance, in New York the sun will rise on that morning at 5:24 and the eclipse will be visible from 7:52 to 7:30.

The shadow cone of the moon cast by the sun on the day of the eclipse will first strike the earth in the neighborhood of Winnipeg, Man. The sun will there be a black globe. Then this great shadow, over 100 miles in width, will begin a rush over continents and oceans. It will cross Hudson's bay, very soon after will be on the coast of Labrador and then will commence the journey across the Atlantic. Passengers on steamships in the track of the eclipse will enjoy a rare spectacle. Day will be turned into night; the gleams of light around the sun's rim, known as the corona, will be seen and perhaps reflected in the ocean. When the sun is high in the heavens the shadow will enter Europe near Cape Finistere. Across Spain to the Mediterranean it will fly and then across Tunis, Algeria, Egypt and the Red sea, ending its course in Arabia just two hours and forty-six minutes after beginning its journey in Canada.

ECLIPSE AND ALPHA

Winners of the W. Y. C. Championship Race.

A stiff breeze from the east that sent the boats away under close reefs greeted the Wollaston yacht club Saturday at its club championship race. The boats got away at 2.30 and at that time there was a howling breeze.

There were three starters in Class A but the Deutzia and Cathline soon withdrew, leaving Councilman Sawyer to finish the race alone in the Eclipse.

In Class C there were two starters, the Alpha and Peacock. The boats were neck and neck throughout the race, the Alpha finishing one second in the lead. Corrected time gave her a lead of nearly twelve minutes.

The summary:

CLASS A.

| Yacht and Owner. | Actual time. h. m. s. | Corrected time. h. m. s. |
|---|---|---|
| Eclipse, G. F. Sawyer Jr. | 1 11 20 | 51 58 |

MARVEL WINS.

In Saturday's Race of the Quincy Yacht Club.

The old rivals, the Marvel, Hustler, Moondyne, Josephine and Dorothy III, met again Saturday in the club race of the Quincy Yacht club. This was the only class that started and the boats finished in the above order.

The wind was fresh from the east, and the boats got away close reefed. The Marvel led the fleet over the course, and finished four and one-half seconds ahead of the Hustler.

The Argestes was disqualified at the start for crossing the line before the gun sounded, and did not again start.

The Josephine and Dorothy III were also in a hurry to get away and were across before the gun sounded but they came about and started over again.

The skipper of the Argestes claimed that the gun was four seconds slow in firing, and he also protested the Josephine for forcing the Argestes to cross the line before the gun was fired.

The summary:

| Name and owner. | Actual time. h. m. s. | Corrected time. h. m. s. |
|---|---|---|
| Marvel, I. M. Whittemore | 2 05 00 | 1 25 04 |
| Hustler, H. W. Robbins | 2 09 32 | 1 28 51 |
| Moondyne, Shaw Bros | 2 09 12 | 1 30 43 |

WHITEWASH

Administered to Quincys by Copeland Club.

Merrymounts Defeated at Weymouth.

The Victors, Sacred Hearts and Bigelows Win.

The Copeland Club won a great victory on Saturday over the Quincys, administering a coat of whitewash to the tune of 2 to 0.

Safe hits were few and far between, the Copelands making four and the Quincys five. The Quincys had fewer errors and Black struck out more, but Coughlin's three base hit won for the Copelands.

Merrymounts Defeated.

At Weymouth on Saturday the Clapp Memorial team defeated the Merrymounts in a loosely played game. The Merrymounts out batted and out fielded their opponents but were unable to score, owing to poor base running, until the last inning, when Drake crossed the plate for the run that kept the Merrymounts from being blanked.

Victory for Victors.

In a slow and uninteresting game on Saturday on the Ward Three playgrounds, the Victors defeated the Makaria team in the Granite City league by a score of 12 to 8.

Every man of the Victors made at least one safe, Forsyth leading with a home run and a two baser.

The Makaria boys also found the ball but made numerous errors in fielding.

Features of the game were the pitching of Penley for Victors and Troupe's catch of Davy's fly which was captured on a dead run with his bare hand in the second inning.

Shall We All Die of Thirst?

After telling of the gradual drying up of the great lakes and rivers all over the world in an article in Chambers' Journal, J. T. Whitby continues:

"Everywhere in our own country, as in others, water springs are giving out and water beds drying up, slowly perhaps, but surely. The increase of population and the modern system of drainage have of course a great deal to answer for, but much of the drought is undoubtedly caused by the rapid destruction of timber on all sides, for trees not only attract rain clouds, but preserve the moisture of the soil. While it is impossible for puny man to control the geological period through which we are passing and whose characteristics would be, according to some, the gradual disappearance of water, it may be inquired whether it would not be advisable to postpone that disagreeable moment of a world without water as far as possible by the better preservation of our woods and forests and the persistent replanting of trees."

Raw White Potato For Inflamed Eye.

The writer wishes to testify, from his own experience, to the efficacy of the raw white potato when used for irritated and inflamed eyes. It is used as follows, but care must be exercised not to let the juice of the potato come into contact with any cloth or clothing, which it will ruin by turning black. The potato to be used should be pared and then scraped with a spoon into small fragments and a little water added. This should be laid upon a cloth which has been placed over the eyes, and then the patient should open and close his eyes as much as possible so as to allow the liquid to have its effect directly upon the eyeball. The patient will find great relief in this effective but inexpensive treatment. Of course the patient must be and remain in a reclining position.—Stanley R. Walbridge in Detroit News-Tribune.

Softening the Blow.

A young Virginia woman who was very ill was approached by her colored servant, who said, "Miss May, mah mothah dun had a cousin what had de same ailments what you dun got." "Is that so, Cora?" replied the lady. "Yessum," responded Cora, encouraged, "but mah mothah's cousin she died, 'deed she did." "Well, Cora," said her mistress, angry that she should tell her such a tale at such an inopportune time, "if that's all you have to say to me you can leave the room and don't come in again. I don't want to hear such stories." Cora was thoroughly frightened at what she had done and wished to ameliorate her ill chosen story, so she thought for a moment and, turning to go, said, "Well, Miss May, mah mothah tole me she died mighty easy."

Points About Pins.

Thorns were originally used in fastening garments together. Pins did not immediately succeed thorns as fasteners, but different appliances were used, such as hooks, buckles and laces. It was the latter half of the fifteenth century before pins were used in Great Britain. When first manufactured in England the iron wire of the proper length was filed to a point and the other extremity twisted into a head. This was a slow process, and 400 or 500 pins was a good day's work for an expert hand. The United States has the credit of inventing the first machine for making pins. This was in 1824. The inventor was one Lemuel Wellman Wright.

—A nature-study museum established in a disused mortuary in St. George's-in-the-East, London, contains a comb with twenty pounds of honey, collected mainly from the sugar cargoes in the docks by a colony of 7000 bees.

CARE OF WOMEN'S FEET.

How to Keep Them Pretty as Well as Comfortable.

One's general health depends largely upon the comfort of one's footwear and the judgment used in the selection. If young women are sensible about choosing out of door shoes I think some leniency must be permitted them in house shoes, says a writer in McCall's Magazine. Have some pretty slippers if you can afford them. Have one pair if no more. The young woman who is employed all day will take much pleasure in pretty slippers with which to replace her shoes when she comes home in the evening. It is well to make a shoe bag for one's room and have the slippers where they are easily at hand. Even if you are tired you will find the change of footwear to be infinitely restful. It is well to have more than one pair of walking shoes too. By alternating these one throws into play different muscles which aid in resting the feet.

Do not wear shabby shoes in rainy weather. Even if they are covered by "rubbers" these must be removed during office hours, and nothing is a surer indication of one's neatness than the shoes. If they are worn, see that they are blackened. Wear the best shoe you can afford. They will last longer and hold their shape.

To go back to house slippers—a much daintier subject—be sure to discard them when they show a tendency to become worn. It is a temptation to wear old slippers when they have grown comfortable. Have them comfortable in the beginning and avoid the untidiness of down at the heel footwear. A woman's heel is almost always attractive when daintily dressed and never more so than at home.

The feet should always be bathed at night, and by removing any weariness this treatment is an excellent sleep producer. The water should be salted, allowing two tablespoonfuls of salt to a quart of water, and let it be hot or cold, according to individual constitution.

The feet should be scrubbed all over with a nailbrush, which will often prevent a formation of corns, and hard spots on the soles may be reduced by using a fine piece of emery paper or a fine file before the feet are placed in the water.

The brine may be made by dissolving a pint of sea salt in two quarts of water, pouring it into a covered jar or bottle and allowing it to stand for twenty-four hours. As the brine is used, the bottle may be filled with clear water, repeating the process until all the salt is gone.

A powder used in the German army for sifting into the shoes and stockings of foot soldiers is called "fusstreupulver," and consists of three parts of salicylic acid, ten parts of starch and eighty-seven parts of pulverized soapstone. It prevents chafing.

How to Avoid a Danger.

In large markets, where every scrap has a value, says Good Housekeeping, you often see hamburg steak of a good red color piled up in a neat dish and marked "10 cents a pound." If people only stopped to think of it, they must know that no market can buy good meat a cent less than 10 cents a pound—skin, bones and all—so that meat which sells for that money has something wrong with it, and, as a matter of fact, that meat is the very worst leavings, chopped up with old fat, and with it an acid is mixed which will keep it from spoiling or becoming discolored for two or three days. Of course no honest market does that, but the women go where things are cheapest, and they feed their husbands and children on such stuff. The acid, of course, is just as effective to keep the meat from digesting as it is to do the rest, and so the family get no good from it even if it doesn't actually poison them.

How to Make Pickled Cabbage.

When pickling cabbage shave or cut fine good, firm cabbage to measure four quarts, chop fine one large onion and two red and two green peppers and mix all well together. In a stone jar place alternate layers of the mixture and a level tablespoonful of salt; let it stand in a cool place for twenty-four hours, then drain, pressing out all the liquid. Mix together one-half cupful of white mustard seed, one-quarter cupful of whole cloves, as much allspice and one tablespoonful of whole peppercorns. Pack the cleaned jar with alternate layers of the cabbage and spices. Pour in slowly sufficient cider vinegar to cover and set aside in a cool place. This will keep for some time if kept cool.

How to Cook Catfish.

Most lovers of catfish like it fried in cornmeal and boiling lard, with adjuncts of corn bread and hot coffee, but stuffed and baked a la redfish the meat has hardly a superior among fresh water fish, says Outing. Sliced and broiled, with a basting of butter, black pepper and salt and served with egg sauce, it is simply delicious, or, if one's taste runs to court bouillon or stew, it is equally good. Catch a few and try them and see if this opinion is not correct.

How to Make Damson Pickle.

To pickle damson plums put one pound damsons in a stone jar. Boil together one-half gallon vinegar, one pound sugar, one teaspoonful whole cloves, one tablespoonful each whole allspice, mace and broken cinnamon. While the vinegar is hot pour it over the fruit. Repeat this for five days. On the sixth day boil the fruit for thirty minutes and put in sealed jars.

How to Remove Scars With Olive Oil.

A daily application of hot olive oil, well rubbed in with the tips of the fingers, it is said, will very much lessen the unsightly appearance of scars.

Odd Fellow Dead.

John H. Pierce, a well known granite cutter, died on Saturday evening, after a lingering illness, at his home on Centre street. He joined Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows at its institution on March 10, 1884, and took a great interest in the order. The lodge will attend the funeral on Tuesday afternoon.

Assaulted in Boston.

Dennis Behan, who claims Quincy as his residence, reported to the Boston police on Sunday morning that he had been assaulted and robbed by two thugs at the corner of Kneeland and Albany streets. He was taken to the Emergency hospital.

The Social Realm.

He sought the old scenes with eager feet—
The scenes he had known as a boy;
"Oh! for a draught of those fountains sweet,
And a taste of that vanished joy!"
He roamed the fields, he mused by the streams,
He threaded the paths and lanes;
On the hills he sought his youthful dreams,
In the woods to forget his pains.
Oh, sad, sad hills; oh, cold, cold hearth!
In sorrow he learned thy truth—
One may go back to the place of his birth—
He cannot go back to his youth.
—John Burroughs.

RECEPTIONS.

Close the Season of Vacation Clubs.

Creditable Exhibit of Sloyd.

Entertainment Given and Games Enjoyed.

The summer's work of the Home Science association has been brought to a close this week by a series of receptions.

On Tuesday evening at Miss Spear's home on Granite street, the members of the Sloyd class entertained their friends. Miss Spear received in her rooms which looked charming with their home atmosphere, with their pretty flowers and lights arranged by the hostess. During the evening refreshments were served, and the Misses Margaret and Clara Brown entertained the company with several piano and violin selections. In the meantime the boys were working, one section at a time at their benches, in the workroom, thus enabling their methods of work to be seen. Their extremely creditable exhibit, the result of Mr. Sampson's instruction, can be seen now at Miss Spear's.

On Wednesday morning the Coddington Vacation club entertained their mothers and boy friends at the Adams school, when games were enjoyed by all; lemonade and fancy cakes being served later.

On Wednesday afternoon despite the rain, the mothers of the Adams club were entertained. All enjoyed first an interesting program of songs by the club, violin solos by Miss Andrea Dahl, recitations by Miss Catherine Faircloth, two of the members, and the Highland Fling, Sword dance and Fisher's Hornpipe danced in costume by little Miss Helen Kennedy. The girls then participated in a Chuck-a-Luck tournament, a game consisting of throwing tiny shot bags into numbered holes in a frame. The prizes, two decorated cards, were taken by Florence Williams and Elizabeth Durand.

Refreshments were served to the friends by the girls, after which the Virginia Reel was danced with much animation by the club.

On Thursday morning the Adams school welcomed their friends at the schoolhouse, and on the afternoon of the same day the Coddington club received their mothers. Songs were given by the club. Miss Margaret Brown accompanied by Miss Clara Brown played on the violin; Miss Faircloth again pleased the company with her humorous selections, and Miss Zita Pitts a club member, danced very daintily the skirt dance, and gave as an encore the Fishers' Hornpipe. Molly Moran and Annie Tracy were the prize winners in the Chuck-a-Luck tournament following. Lemonade and cake were passed, and after dancing the reel the club disbanded, but not without expressing many hopes that the club work would be carried on the following summer.

LARGE COLUMN.

Handsome Work by Quincy Column Turning Company.

The Quincy Column Turning Co. are getting out some large and handsome columns for a cathedral at Denver, Col. The main columns, which are made in sections, are four feet in diameter, and are being polished here. There are eight sections, 5 feet, 9 inches long, and four sections, 6 feet, 3 inches long.

In addition to these there are some moulded cap pieces which set between these sections, and two smaller columns that are one foot in diameter and 6 feet 10 inches long.

The granite used in these columns is what is known as the pink Jonesport, Me., stock.

Admitted to Bar.

L. A. Cook of Weymouth, the assistant clerk of courts for Norfolk county, was admitted to the Massachusetts bar yesterday. Judge Barker administered the oath to the 107 applicants.

—England has an Anti-Baby League. They propose that the government shall take active steps to decrease the birth rate, and that a penalty be inflicted on those who "overburden society with more than their fair share of offspring."

SHOWS A LOSS.

Gloucester Falls Below Waltham and Probably Quincy.

The population of Gloucester by the census of 1905 is 26,006, a loss of 115 in five years and 2,205 since 1895. The figures of Gloucester and Quincy since 1880 are given below:

| | Gloucester. | Quincy. |
|---|---|---|
| In 1880, | 19,329 | 10,570 |
| In 1885, | 21,329 | 12,145 |
| In 1890, | 24,651 | 16,723 |
| In 1895, | 28,211 | 20,712 |
| In 1900, | 26,121 | 23,799 |
| In 1905, | 26,006 | |

It will be seen that Quincy has been making rapid strides in overhauling Gloucester, and will probably pass her the census. A gain of 2,198 will put Quincy ahead. Waltham has a population of 26,239 only 233 ahead of Gloucester.

SALARY INCREASED.

Peter Kerr, the Royal Clan Secretary, to Receive $2,400.

The Royal Clan of the Order of Scottish Clans resolved at their New York convention yesterday that hereafter less attention should be devoted to the insurance side of the order and more to a fraternal policy.

It was decided to hold the next convention in August, 1907 at Halifax.

It was decided that hereafter one assessement shall be paid annually in March to increase the present surplus of $26,000.

The salary of Royal Secretary Peter Kerr of Boston, formerly of Quincy, was increased by $200 to $2400.

Eightieth Birthday

Mrs. Elizabeth Faxon had a quiet 80th birthday last Wednesday. She is sister to Mr. Henry H. Faxon and Mr. J. Franklin Faxon. These three are now the only sons and daughter of the late Job and Judith Hardwick Faxon. This family lived in the picturesque old homestead on Mount Rural. Job lived to be 93.

Mrs. Faxon received a few of the family and personal friends informally. Prominent among the birthday offerings was a large bouquet of red and white carnations.

The youngest female of this name, Elizabeth Faxon, is the little daughter of John G. Faxon of Fitchburg.

—The annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission giving the railroad statistics for the year 1904, shows that there were at the end of that year 297,073 miles of railroad in the United States, of which 212,243 were single track, 15,824 double track, 1467 three-track and 1467 four-track, the remainder yard track and sidings. The increase in single trackage for the year was 5627 miles, exceeding the increase for any previous year since 1890.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Czar's Manifesto Creates National Consultative Body

FOR PRELIMINARY STUDY

Legislative Propositions to Go Up Through Council of Empire to the Czar, Who Still Retains Supreme Autocratic Authority

St. Petersburg, Aug. 19.—Russia's national representative assembly, the fruit of decades of stress and striving for reform, which endows the Russian people with the right of being consulted through their chosen representatives in the suggestion, preparation and repeal of legislation, today takes its place among the fundamental institutions of the empire.

In a solemn manifesto, Emperor Nicholas announced this morning to his subjects the fruition of his plans summoning the representatives of the people as outlined by him in a rescript issued on March 3 last and fixes the date for the first convocation as mid-January, and in a ukase address to the senate formally orders that body to register as the imperial will a law project, formulating the nature, powers and procedure of the new governmental organization.

The manifesto, ukase and project were published this morning in special editions of The Official Messenger in St. Petersburg and Moscow. They were given out for publication at noon to all the newspapers throughout the empire, many of which prepared to issue extra editions to signalize a momentous historical event, overshadowing in importance the liberation of the Serfs.

The date of the occasion was chosen with due regard to the poetical symbolism so dear to the Russian heart, for on this day is celebrated the great religious feast of the transfiguration of Christ, with the bringing to the church of the first fruits of the new harvest.

The national assembly will be a consultative organization in connection with the council of the empire and not a legislative body. The powers of the czar remain theoretically absolute. As the czar is the supreme lawgiver and autocrat, the decisions of the douma have only a recommendatory and not a binding force, though the rejection of any legislative measures by a two-thirds majority of both houses is sufficient to prevent that measure from becoming law.

The representatives of the people will have not only the right to be heard on any legislation proposed by the government, but also can voice their desires on new laws and will have the right to exert a certain supervision over budgetary expenditures.

The suffrage, though wide, is not universal. It is based on property qualification, the peasantry having a vote through membership in communal organizations. A considerable portion of the residents of the cities, possessing no lands, together with women, soldiers, civil functionaries, etc., are without suffrage.

Many of the main features governing the elections to and the proceedings and powers of the national assembly which the czar has now ordered to be constituted have already been cabled. The paragraph of the first section sets out the purpose of the new legislative body as follows:

"The douma is established for the preliminary study and discussion of legislative propositions which, according to the fundamental laws, go up through the council of the empire to the supreme autocratic authority."

The term of the douma is to be five years, but it can be dissolved by the czar. There is to be a general session, but the douma will also meet by sections, the length of the sessions being determined by the czar. The president and other officers are to be elected by the members.

Grudging Spirit at London

London, Aug. 19.—The newspapers comment somewhat briefly on the manifesto of Emperor Nicholas and Russia's new constitution. While the movement is hailed as the commencement of a new order of things for Russia, the tone of the comment is extremely sceptical, and whatever praise is bestowed is offset by the gruding spirit pervading the editorials.

Sentiment Evenly Divided

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 19.—In an informal election, the residents of Asbury Park decided against the proposition to issue licenses to hotels to sell liquor by a vote of 409 to 401. As the election was only taken for the purpose of ascertaining the popular sentiment on the liquor question, the result is not binding on the common council which, it is believed, will create a license commission.

Had Thirty-Six Dagger Wounds

WOMAN'S WORLD

MISS NELL HAVEN.

She Is an Expert on Photography Employed by the Government.

Miss Nell Haven of San Francisco is the only woman in the United States who is recognized by the government as an expert on photography.

In many notable cases this young woman has been called upon by the United States supreme court to give expert testimony as to the photographing of different subjects, and her opinion never fails to take an important part in the decision of the court.

Miss Haven has made a particular study of the Bertillon system, and her pictures are accepted by the government as equal to those made by the great expert in the south of France. Work of this kind passes daily through her hands. It was while acting as assistant to M. A. Samuels, who does the photographic work connected with the immigration bureau, that Miss Haven acquired her wonderful skill.

In addition, the young woman speaks fluently several languages, Chinese being one of them. Her reputation among the Chinese is such that almost every distinguished visitor from the orient seeks a sitting before her camera.—San Francisco Cor. Detroit News-Tribune.

Dress Detail.

No woman can be considered well dressed who is habitually seen with buttons missing from shoes or gloves or who puts on her clothes as if her shoulders were merely pegs on which they had to be hung and never look as if they were comfortable and appropriate.

A touch of color in the wrong place, awkwardly arranged plaits or folds, a loop of braid hanging loose for want of a stitch, the place of a missing hook supplied by a pin, each forms a jarring note in an otherwise harmonious whole.

It is the little things that count in the matter of dress, as in everything else in life.

Even with an umbrella or parasol and the way it is used there is much to mark the breeding of its owner. Few people who are particular as to their personal appearance care as a general rule to carry an umbrella unrolled instead of neatly rolled up.

There is something very characteristic also in the manner in which an umbrella is handled, as any one will see who studies or observes his fellow creatures.

Every one knows the aggressive woman who elbows her way through crowded thoroughfares quite heedless of the pokes and knocks she gives with her umbrella and the woman who gets into street cars and carriages and leaves her parasol in such a position that all other passengers trip over it or knock it down.

These bad habits often arise more from thoughtlessness than from ignorance, but those who have once discovered their mistakes can learn to be more careful in future.—New York Journal.

The Letters She Writes.

"I write lots of letters that I never mail," said a Kansas City woman to a friend recently. "What do I do with them? I tear them up. I write them simply to get things I want to say off my mind. For instance, if the butcher has sent me a mediocre steak and I am mad about it, I don't call him up and scold him. I send the steak back and then sit down and write a letter giving him the very mischief for his carelessness. When I have written it I read it over. I have the rebuke out of me, and I feel better. Next I tear the letter up. The butcher gets his steak back and knows he was careless. He sends another one and is more careful next time. He didn't need the calling down, but I needed to get rid of it.

"Every once in awhile I sit down and write notes to people telling them exactly what I think of them. When I get the things I want to say off my mind the notes are destroyed, and I am relieved. That is the way I keep people liking me. I say what I think of them and have the satisfaction that comes from saying it, and it never reaches them or anybody else."—Kansas City Times.

Mother's Turn.

"It is mother's turn to be taken care of now." The speaker was a winsome young girl, whose bright eyes, fresh color and eager look told of light hearted happiness. Just out of school, she had the air of culture which is an added attraction to a blithe young face. It was mother's turn now! Did she know how my heart went out to her for her unselfish words? Too many mothers, in their love for their daughters, entirely overlook the idea that they themselves need recreation. They do without all the easy, pretty and charming things, and say nothing about it, and the daughters do not think there is any self denial involved. Jenny gets the new dress and mother wears the old one, turned upside down and wrong side out. Lucy goes on the mountain trip and mother stays at home and keeps house. Emily is tired of study and must lie down in the afternoon, but mother, though her back aches, has no time for such an indulgence. Girls and young women, take good care of your mothers! Coax them to let you relieve them of some of the harder duties which for years they have patiently borne.

Try Hannah More's Way.

It is told of Hannah More that she had a good way of managing talebearers. It is said that whenever she was told anything derogatory of another her invariable reply was, "Come, we will go and ask if this be true." The effect was sometimes ludicrously painful. The talebearer was taken aback, stammered out a qualification or begged that no notice might be taken of the statement. But the good lady was inexorable. Off she took the scandal monger to the scandalized to make inquiry and compare accounts. It is not likely that anybody ever a second time ventured to repeat a gossipy story to Hannah More. One would think her method of treatment would be a sure cure for scandal.

The Mending Basket.

Necessaries for the mending basket are a pair of shears, a pair of scissors, a yard tape measure, a small pincushion filled with pins, a needlebook containing assorted darning needles, assorted sewing needles, a tape needle and a bodkin, rolls of tape of different widths in gray, white and black, three small boxes containing different sorts of buttons, a card each of white and black hooks and eyes, darning cotton of different colors for hose and gloves, a hose and a glove darner, a thimble and a box of common starch for perspiring fingers. All these are of use in the mending basket.

Brittle Hair.

An old fashioned remedy for brittle, dry hair is about the best yet discovered, provided the patient does not object to its rather unpleasant consistency. This is two parts of castor oil to one of hartshorn rubbed into the scalp every night or so. It results in an abundance of thick, glossy hair, but the woman of today objects to its use on account of its effect upon the fluffiness required by the modern coiffure.

Potatoes au Gratin.

For potatoes au gratin peel and slice the potatoes very thin and arrange them in layers in a baking dish, sprinkling salt, pepper and bits of butter between the layers. Then turn over them a cupful of hot milk and bake for half an hour. Just before removing from the oven sprinkle the top well with grated cheese and allow them to brown.

Household Peace.

The average woman considers it part of her duty as a good housewife to make a fuss, but she is mistaken. There is only one way of attainment in small affairs. Make up your mind decisively what you want and see that you get it as nearly as possible. After that leave off worrying and never refer to the subject again.—Bystander.

Tablecloths.

Tablecloths look much better if there is no fold except down the middle of the table. To keep a cloth thus it must be pulled very even before ironing and then ironed very carefully and very dry on both sides. Then with a fold once, not creased, it may be rolled around rolls of paper kept for the purpose.

Two Good Rules.

There are two good rules which ought to be written on every heart—never to believe anything bad about anybody unless you positively know it to be true; never to tell even that unless you feel that it is absolutely necessary and that God is listening while you tell it.—Woman's Life.

For Cut Fingers.

The mother of a growing family of boys has in her emergency closet a collection of finger stalls of assorted sizes, and each is provided with two narrow tapes to secure it to the wrist. Near them is a box of surgical cotton. The outfit is ready for bruised and cut fingers.

Position In Sitting.

When sitting, don't sag. This is an ungraceful habit and one that is easily acquired. It's a habit of laziness, too, and a damage to the lungs. Sit up properly and breathe naturally so that fresh air in your lungs may conduce to the clearness of your complexion.

Cold water is often more satisfactory than warm water for washing glass if it is left to drain and then polished when dry. The glass will look much brighter if done in this manner.

Enameled ware may be safely scoured by the use of finely powdered pumice stone. A few drops of ammonia in a pail of water will perform the ordinary cleansing.

What is meant by a smart woman is one who develops her good points, with due regard to the fashions and the modes of the moment.

YELLOW FEVER, ITS CAUSE AND THE SYMPTOMS

Experts Claim the Stegomyia Species of Mosquitoes Is the Only Transmitter of the Disease Now Ravaging New Orleans.

Its Real Origin Is In a Warm Climate—First Recognized Definitely In the West Indies In 1647—Survivors Become Immune From Further Attacks.

Details of Experiments In Cuba to Determine Cause of the Fever—Heroic Martyrdom of Dr. Jesse W. Lazear—Surgeon General Wyman's Views — How Present Epidemic Started.

A FRUIT ship, a bunch of bananas, a mosquito and an Italian—these four agents, according to the deductions of the health authorities of New Orleans, were responsible for introducing yellow fever into New Orleans as long ago as last May. The first appearance of the disease, according to the same deductions, was in the Italian quarter where the Italian laborer who unloaded the fruit ship lived.

From the originally infected vicinity the fever spread until there had been several deaths. The characteristic peculiarities of the Italian when confronted by an epidemic showed themselves in instinctive efforts to hide the fever from the health authorities, and the result was that the prevalence of the disease was not known even to the city health officer until the middle of July.

An attack of yellow fever comes on with severe chills or rigors when it comes suddenly. It may come on more gradually with languor, headache and malarial symptoms. The temperature goes to 105 degrees, sometimes higher. The fever lasts from three to five days, attended with pain in the back, limbs and head. There is nausea and vomiting. The yellow tint of the skin, from which the fever gets its name, begins on the second or third day. Yellow fever develops usually from three or four days after infection. Sometimes it takes seven days. In severe cases small hemorrhages take place into the skin and mucous membrane. The vomit is at first white. Later it becomes very dark in appearance, like coffee grounds, when it is known as "black vomit." There is bleeding at the nose, mouth and gums. Delirium usually follows, then unconsciousness and death.

First Recognized In West Indies.

Although yellow fever has been occasionally seen outside of the tropics, its real origin is in a warm climate. It was first recognized definitely in the West Indies in 1847, where it prevails, as well as on the west coast of Africa, Central America and southward along both coasts of South America and northward to the south Atlantic and gulf states. It has been brought to north Atlantic seaports by vessels. The coming of frost generally stops yellow fever. Survivors of one attack of yellow fever become immune from further attack. The mortality varies. In some epidemics it has been as high as 85 per cent; in others as low as 10 per cent.

Experts seem to agree that the first step to combat the spread of yellow fever is to attack the mosquito. In this connection Dr. Walter Wyman, surgeon general of the marine hospital service, who is in charge of the campaign against yellow fever in New Orleans and to whom belongs the credit of encouraging and urging the experiments leading to the acceptance of the theory that the stegomyia mosquito is practically the only carrier of the poison that causes yellow fever, recently spoke as follows to the Washington correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch:

"Scientifically it is not true that the stegomyia (female) is the only carrier of yellow fever. For all practical purposes the assertion is true. Until we know the cause of yellow fever we cannot truthfully say that that mosquito is the only disseminator. There may be other carriers of it, but we never have found any trace of them.

Mosquito Only Infection Agent.

"The best way in dealing with an epidemic, or any other thing, for that matter, is to proceed upon known facts. We know the stegomyia carries the cause of yellow fever. Therefore the order to all the men in the marine hospital service is 'kill the mosquito!' If the fever persists after the mosquito has disappeared we will know that there is some other way for carrying it.

"What have we to show? Havana, after 150 years of annual visitation, free from the disease. Laredo, Tex., treated by men believing in the mosquito theory and treated accordingly, with only about 10 per cent of the population attacked by the disease, contrasted with Laredo, Mexico, across the river, disbelieving the theory, 50 per cent of the people attacked.

"The stegomyia does not live north of Mason and Dixon's line. He does not live in all the territory south of it. The mountains of North Carolina are too cold for him. Before we knew anything about the work of that pest observation taught us the country was divided into two parts—the infectible territory and the noninfectible. After we got to know about the stegomyia we found that the limits of his habitat were coextensive with the limits of the infectible domain."

"Next to killing the mosquito by making it impossible for him to breed what is the best preventive?"

"The screening of every person with a fever for four days. Yellow fever is hard to diagnose. It begins like many other fevers.

"Screening during the first four days makes it impossible for the insect to become infected from the patient. Three days is the time in which a mosquito can get the poison from a human being, but four makes assurance doubly sure.

"After a mosquito has taken the blood from a patient who has had yellow fever for not more than three days it takes twelve days for the insect to become a source of infection. So you can see that if the first yellow fever case is caught in time the campaign against the mosquitoes will be beneficial if it is vigorously prosecuted during the next nine or ten days. After that if the insect that bit the patient is still at large the chances of infection are very numerous. It takes five days for the poison deposited in a human body by a mosquito to develop; hence the five day detention.

"The stegomyia is a slow moving insect. After a patient has been removed to a doubly screened hospital in a doubly screened ambulance it is the business of the doctors to return to the house as quickly as possible and burn sulphur there, because the chances are that the insect that bit the patient is still on the premises."

The fact that mosquitoes convey yellow fever was established by the late Major Walter Reed, surveyor of the United States army, when in 1900 and 1901 he supervised the experiments with yellow fever in Cuba after the United States came into control of the island, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. These tests were thorough and convinced the army officer that beyond a doubt the mosquito is the only transmitter of the fever germ. Following is the report of these experiments, and it should satisfy all laymen when it is borne in mind that all the subjects were Americans—United States soldiers who had volunteered:

Special Camp Built.

"A camp was especially constructed for the experiments about four miles from Havana. The inmates of the camp were put into most rigid quarantine and ample time was allowed to eliminate any possibility of the disease being brought in from Havana. The personnel consisted of three nurses and nine immunes, all in the military service, and included two physicians.

"From time to time Spanish immigrants, newly arrived, were brought in from the immigrant station. A person not known to be immune was not allowed to leave camp, or if he did was forbidden to return. The most complete record was kept of the health of every man to be experimented upon, thus eliminating the possibility of any other disease than yellow fever complicating the case.

"The mosquitoes used were especially bred from the eggs and kept in a building screened by wire netting. When an insect was wanted for an experiment it was taken into a yellow fever hospital and allowed to fill itself with the blood of a patient. Afterward, at varying intervals from the time of this meal of blood, it was purposely applied to nonimmunes in camp.

"In December, 1900, five cases of the disease were developed as the result of such applications, in January three and in February two, making in all ten, exclusive of the cases of Dr. James Carrol and Dr. Jesse W. Lazear. Immediately upon the appearance of the first recognized symptoms of the disease in any one of these experimental cases the patient was taken from Camp Lazear to a yellow fever hospital one mile distant. Every person in camp was rigidly protected from accidental mosquito bites, and not in a single instance did yellow fever develop in the camp except at the will of the experimenters. The experiments were conducted at a season when there was the least chance of naturally acquiring the disease, and the mosquitoes used were kept alive by maintaining them at a summer temperature.

"A completely mosquito proof building was divided into two compartments by a wire screen partition. Infected insects were liberated on one side only. A brave nonimmune entered and remained long enough to allow himself to be bitten several times. He was attacked by yellow fever, while two susceptible men in the other compartment did not acquire the disease, although sleeping there thirteen nights. This demonstrates in the simplest and most certain manner that the infectiousness of the building was due only to the presence of the insects. Every attempt was made to infect individuals by means of bedding, clothes and other articles that had been used and soiled by patients suffering with virulent yellow fever.

"Naturally yellow fever is transmitted by the mosquito and always and only by the mosquito. The harmlessness of fomites has been fully demonstrated by our experiments in 1900 and 1901, in which three young Americans slept for twenty consecutive nights in a room from which mosquitoes were excluded garnished with articles soiled with discharges from fatal and other cases of yellow fever. Three and four large boxes were packed and unpacked each morning by these nonimmunes, who suffered no disturbance of health from these exposures. The room was 20 by 14 feet, double walled, tightly sealed, heated to above 90 degrees F. and dark.

"Two other nonimmunes then occupied the room for twenty nights, while additional articles of bedding and clothing were added. They slept in the garments and between the sheets that covered cases of yellow fever, some of which were fatal. The result of the second attempt was nil. A third attempt was then made with two additional nonimmunes equally without success. Not the slightest indisposition followed close and intimate contact with this repulsive material in any case. Temperatures and pulse rates were recorded at regular and frequent intervals. Four of these seven nonimmunes were subsequently infected by blood injections and by means of infected mosquitoes."

Dr. Lazear's Singular Death.

The first death from the mosquito experiments was that of Dr. Jesse W. Lazear in November, 1901. Dr. Lazear, an army surgeon, was one of an army board, all of whom submitted themselves to the bites of infected mosquitoes. The death of Dr. Lazear was singular. He had voluntarily been bitten for the sake of experiment and suffered no effects. Afterward while he was visiting the yellow fever ward at

SURGEON GENERAL WYMAN.

Las Animas a mosquito lit on his hand. He allowed it to remain there and bite him. Five days afterward he was taken ill and died.

A naval surgeon described some incidents which occurred in Las Animas hospital, Havana, during the height of the yellow fever epidemic in the American intervention days in Cuba, when another physician and he ran the institution, says the New York Herald.

Bedlam at Night.

"We managed fairly well during the day, but at night—midnight—when we were worn out, the bedlam produced by the patients in their delirium was awful. They made all sorts of noises in different languages, for there were different nationalities represented. The uraemia which resulted from the characteristic effect of the disease on the kidneys caused convulsions and particularly facial spasms.

"The sick would make the most distressing grimaces, which in the wee, sma' hours o' morn would cause some of the female nurses to tremble and cry and beg for a short respite in the open air. They would go out on the verandas, steady themselves, then back to business. But the most horrible of all was the hemorrhages, too horrible to describe. And all this caused by the bite of a particular kind of mosquito!"

APPLE BLOSSOMS

By MARGARET RICHARDS

No kind fate intervened to warn her as he came into the room, quick and eager, and she went to meet him with outstretched hands and shining eyes.

"I am so glad for you," she said impulsively, giving him her hands. "Don't try to pretend you are not proud of yourself, for of course you are. We bought every one of the evening papers and pored over them until I, for one, am positively overcome with awe when I consider 'that rising young architect, Richard C. Doane.'" And she swept him a low courtesy. "'And fame sat lightly on his brow,'" she quoted teasingly.

"But she isn't sitting there yet," he laughed, retaining the slender fingers and holding them tightly in his own. "This is only the beginning. There's plenty of hard work ahead."

"You are sure to succeed," she interrupted softly.

"I can only hope so," he returned. "I have worked hard for it and I feel that it is in line with my other work. Yes," he went on thoughtfully, "I think we shall succeed."

"And then?" she asked.

His face was very bright and eager, and she found, to her consternation, that the color flooded her cheeks as her eyes met his. Embarrassed, she picked up a spray of apple blossoms lying on the table. She walked over to the fireplace, drawing the pink and white petals nervously through her fingers. He followed her and stood with one arm resting on the mantel.

"I wonder," he said in a voice he tried in vain to steady, "if I dare to unfold the rest of my aspirations."

"Why not?" she replied, trying to speak easily. "You know I care very much for whatever concerns you." Under the circumstances this was about as unfortunate a remark as she could well have made.

Reassured, he came closer. "Like all well regulated aspirations," he said, with embarrassed hesitancy, "they are inspired by one governing idea"— He broke off abruptly and, with a quick step toward her, took her hands in his. His embarrassment had gone and his eyes were very tender. "Surely you know, Catherine, sweetheart," he whispered unsteadily; "surely you know."

For a moment her heart seemed to stop, then with all her strength of will she pushed him from her. "No, no, Richard, I cannot," she whispered brokenly. "I have promised. I cannot."

"Promised what, sweetheart?" he asked, puzzled by this sudden change.

"You know, we have seen a great deal of Mr. Channing lately," she went on unsteadily. "He is often here and is always sending us things—books, game, flowers. Every day something comes either for mother or me. Usually for mother, though—so I never dreamed—he is so much older"—

"Today," she went on, a mournful little catch in her voice, "his man brought those." She nodded toward a curiously wrought bowl on the table, where, massed in sweet profusion, a wealth of apple blossoms overflowed, pink and white and fragrant with faint perfume. "And this." She walked to the desk, and, picking up a note, held it out to him.

Mechanically he took it. "Dearest of all women," it began—and he read it to the end.

His face went suddenly white.

"Catherine, surely you will not marry this man?" he demanded hoarsely.

She covered her face with her hands. "I have promised," she moaned.

"Promised! He doesn't even ask for your answer until tomorrow night."

"I have promised mother," she explained, with gentle dignity. "There are business reasons I cannot explain. He was very kind three years ago when father died. We owe it to him to do anything we can."

"It is absurd! Quixotic! The man is three times your age," he returned hotly. Then his voice changed and he took the slender hands in his. "Surely you will not do this thing—let me talk to your mother," he pleaded gently.

"Mother must not know," she said. "Had you seen the distress in mother's face you would know I must do it," she continued. "Don't you understand?" she ended plaintively.

"No, I don't," he answered grimly, "but I do understand that John Channing is worth a couple of millions. Women are all alike," he went on, with sudden bitterness. "It's never what a man is, but what he has that tips the scale. Love cannot compete with Bradstreet. I've been the usual kind of a fool, I suppose," he ended, with a bitter little laugh.

If he had taken her in his arms, then and there, it would have ended differently, but he was very young and very proud and very unhappy and thought it was a manly thing not to show how much he cared. Or if she had let him see that he was dearer than any other man, millions or no millions, he would not have gone, but she, too, was young and proud.

So, hurt and angry, he had gone, and she stood where he had left her. She wanted him to go, of course, but it was hard to have him leave like that. She meant to be very brave and cheerful; she kept her heartache to herself; her mother or her husband (here a little wave of self pity shook her) should never know. She sank into a chair and leaned her soft, bare arms on the table. The bright, fair head drooped slowly until it rested against them, and the fire light threw fitful, golden shadows on the white folds of her gown and quivered fantastically on the mass of fragrant blossoms over her bowed head.

* * * * * * * *

The dance at the Ventnor Country club was in full swing. Lights were blazing; the sound of violins came through the open window. Inside, the fifth dance was well under way, and a distracted, disheveled young man sought frantically for a tall, golden haired girl in a thin white gown.

Meanwhile the owner of the white gown and golden hair had slipped away—away from the lights and music and confusion—away from the vision of a stern, gray haired man which had suddenly confronted her—and stood on the wide, moonlit porch outside, alone in the sweet scented dusk.

"You are so silly to act like this," she argued with herself. "He isn't going to hurt you, is he? It doesn't help it any to stay out here and be a coward. Go back. You said you'd do it. Go back." Then she drew closer into the friendly shadows and laid her hot cheek against the cool, young leaves. "Richard, Richard, dear," she repeatedly softly.

Inside, the dance had ended. The music stopped with a crash; the dancers scattered in little groups, and the erstwhile distracted young man found evident consolation in the society of a plump little brunette, who showed no inclination to elude him.

Two persons who had been watching the dancers detached themselves from the crowd and came toward her along the moonlit porch; her mother, pretty, graceful, looking singularly young as the moonlight touched her flushed and —yes—laughing face. There was no doubt about John Channing's mirth; he was laughing heartily.

"He certainly said 'For Miss Page.'" "How could I know?" she heard her mother smilingly protest. And then, "He probably lost the card—my stupidity! Served me right for being afraid to speak," in John Channing's lower amused voice. As they neared the shadow in which Catherine stood he turned and, taking her mother's hand in his, lifted it to his lips. His stern face softened as she had not dreamed John Channing's face could soften, and there was a newly tender note in his voice. "As though," he said softly, "there could be any other woman in the world for me but you."

Swiftly, noiselessly, Catherine turned and fled; around the clubhouse, across the porch, down the steps, into the moonlit garden, conscious only of divine relief. Then as the absurdity of the thing came over her there came with it an uncontrollable desire to laugh. On and on she ran, struggling with subdued laughter, down the path, away from the lights and noise and people—and almost into the arms of a young man who turned sharply around a corner.

"I beg your pardon," he began politely, then stopped short, staring at the laughing face so near his own.

She held out her hands with a little cry of delight that gladdened his heart; to save her life she could not have spoken.

For a moment his eyes searched hers; then his face cleared as if by magic. He wasted no time in explanations, which could be deferred to a more appropriate season, but proceeded promptly to take the lovely, laughing vision in his arms.

Fooling Mother.

Most boys and girls think they are fooling mother. I used to think that way. It is the same way with all mothers. It is a good deal easier to fool father than mother. Mother doesn't say as much as father, but she sees twice as far. Just because mother doesn't jump on to you every time you have done something wrong it is no sign that you have her fooled. She is just giving you enough rope so you will hang yourself. Mother is a whole lot wiser than she gets credit for being. That pleasant smile she gives you when you are putting up some fairy tale would make you feel like a three cent piece with a hole in it if you could only see what was behind it. Mother fools you every day in the week, and it's a glorious thing for you that she does. She not only fools you, but she fools father too. Father is always wise and throwing out the impression that he knows something. Mother just goes about her business and says nothing, but she is thinking a whole lot all the time. The next time you attempt to fool mother stop and think a couple of times before getting on the ice. It may save poor mother the humiliation of thinking what a triple plated chump she has for a son.—Osborne (Kan.) Farmer.

An Endless Journey.

Most of us have probably speculated, at one time or another, what would happen if a hole were bored right through the earth and one were to drop a stone into it, and a scientific man gives his views on this puzzling question. "The stone," he says, "would fall with increasing speed to the center of the earth, where it would have attained a rate of nearly 300 miles a minute. Its momentum would carry it at a constantly reducing speed through the remaining half of its journey, until by the time it appeared at the antipodean end of the hole it would have come to a standstill. It would then begin to drop again and would perform exactly the same journey on its return to the starting point. Thus it would continue to travel backward and forward from one end of the earth to the other practically forever."

They Were Stopped.

"I want those eggs stopped!" shouted the tragedian, striding to the footlights.

"Well, you're stoppin' 'em, ain't you?" asked the boy in the gallery, soaking him with another.—Houston Post.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

To keep ahead of the city of Waltham in population, the census of Quincy for 1905 must show a gain of but 2,340, while a gain of 1,101 will be necessary to keep ahead of the city of Pittsfield. These were the cities just below Quincy by the census of 1900 and the only ones pushing us any.

North Adams has lost in population, so that Quincy will pass that city and possibly Gloucester and Everett.

By the last census Everett led Quincy by 437, and Gloucester led Quincy by 2,226.

The State Board of Health estimates the population of Quincy at 26,798. but we expect it will be nearer 30,000. The figures will be known in a few days.

MODES OF THE DAY.

Tunics Coming In—New Trimmings. Serge Gowns.

Tunics are growing in vogue, that is evident, and very graceful are they when the figure proportions are beyond criticism. These tunics are almost always open down the front, and they look all the better for it, as this cut offers a chance to trim the open sides and to carry that trimming up the bodice fronts, which adds greatly to one's height. Tunics, of course, are only appropriate upon long skirts, either trains or half trains.

Cloth trimming embroidered in tan or in flowered designs with gay silks or inset with lace is fashionable for velvets, for chiffon, for silks and even figured nets. Motifs, bands and shaped pieces do the hand workers turn marvelously with gold and silver as well as crystal additions. So light and supple is the cloth that it fits in admirably by never suggesting any wooliness whatever.

All white so far worn by the smartest women in the forenoon is evident at the fashionable resorts.

The white serge dress shown, designed for a young woman, is stitched in red, with tiny red taffeta buttons and belt, red taffeta fancy tie and yoke of tucked mull. The sleeve has a puff at the top, then at the elbow are tiny buttons and straps over tucked and plaited white mull and a mull cuff.

Simple but remarkably pleasing voile gowns have been seen at bridge during the past weeks when extravagant dress was not the correct thing. A pale brownish pink chestnut voile over a changeable silk in a pink and light bronze tone was charming.—Vogue.

—John D. Rockefeller says that sometimes it has seemed to him as if he might advance the Christian faith by the endowment of chairs in theological seminaries. The trouble with Rockefeller and that sort of program would be that while with one hand he is seeking to develop the world's faith in God, with the other hand, which is engaged in gathering in the shekels, he would be doing his best to destroy the world's faith in man. And a world that loses faith in man is rapidly losing faith in his Maker.—Haverhill Gazette.

Insurance at Houghs Neck Declined.

Refusal to Renew a Policy.

The Locatity Not a Desirable One.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Will you please print the accompaning letter which is a good argument for better fire protection at Houghs Neck. Property holders here, with this week's fire fresh in mind, believe that the new fire station should be immediately equipped and put into service. We cannot understand the delay:

Wm. John Tilley.

Boston, Mass., May 15, 1905.

Messrs. C. H. Hobart & Son, Braintree, Mass.

Gentlemen:—In Re No. 1501553—Mary V. D. Shaw.

Through a mistake of the undersigned, this risk was marked for renewal instead of drop at expiration, which was intended.

We are not writing any business at Houghs Neck believing that that locality is not desirable, and have instructed our Boston agents to discontinue writing there, which fact we should have advised you of.

We regret to disturb the policy but will thank you to take early action, and take same up, cancel and return to the New York office for their files, for which we thank you in advance, and beg to remain,

Yours very truly,
W. F. Dearborn, Jr.
Special Agent.

WORTHLESS RECIPES.

How to Avoid Them and Obtain Useful Ones Instead.

A cooking recipe which contains merely the ingredients to be used may be of use to an emperor's chef, but is worthless to the average housekeeper, to say nothing of the inexperienced young wife. What housekeepers want is a recipe that will tell you just how to put the ingredients together. The place to get those recipes is in the Household Department of the Boston Daily Globe.

The best Boston paper published—The Boston Globe. Have it at your home every day.

AN ABSURD POSITION

STAND TAKEN BY THE ENEMIES OF TRADES UNIONS.

Employers' Associations Claim the Right to Organize and Boycott, but Deny the Right of Workers to Do Likewise.

"Personal freedom" and "individual liberty" is the cry of the employers from one end of the land to the other. They come before the public and in their very modest way request the liberty, the freedom and the right to "hire" whom they please, "pay" them what they please, "work" them as they please and "discharge" them when they please. They proclaim loudly they will treat with their employees only as individuals. No union shall dictate to them what they shall or shall not do; no union shall interfere with their business; no union shall control their affairs.

These are common, everyday expressions, and the good natured American public thinks this a fair proposition, but to understand it thoroughly we must get behind the scenes, as it were, and investigate. What do we find? A different state of affairs altogether. To one another these employers say: "Let us hold our association intact. We must organize more persistently than ever. Our only salvation lies in combination. By this means we can crush out the smaller contractors altogether and get complete and absolute control of the building industry. We can inaugurate lockouts, provoke strikes, break agreements and do as we please. We can dictate terms to our employees and rule them with an iron rod. They must accept our terms or go. We will manage our own affairs in our own way without let or hindrance. We will not tolerate the interference of the union in any manner."

These expressions were used on the floor of the convention of the Manufacturers' association and Citizens' alliance held in Indianapolis more than two years ago, and they have been repeated at every convention since. They are the ranting ravings of prejudiced minds.

If trades unions taught such principles, enunciated such doctrines or held such ideas they would be publicly condemned. Yet we are compelled to listen to the "bombastic blowings" of our employers and say nothing. If the bosses have the right to organize, have not the men the same right? If the bosses have a right to set a price on their work, have not the workmen the same right? If the bosses have the right to lock out their men, have not the men the right to go and strike against the bosses for just cause? No, no, says the employer. No, no, says the Manufacturers' association. No, no, says the Citizens' alliance. You men may have rights, but we, the "upper ten," have "divine" rights. We are a superior race and must not be interfered with. We have nothing in common with you.

"Consistency, thou art a jewel," some one wrote, but he did not have in mind at the time that one human being was superior to another. Nor are we the only ones to suffer at the dictates, the whims and the fancies of the Master Builders' association. To the material supply men it says: "Do not sell material of any kind to any one unless he is a member of our association. If you do we will never deal with you again. We will boycott you and put you out of business." And so these "pillars" of the earth, these "defenders" of the law, these "upholders" of liberty, claim their organizations are legitimate, while the poor trades unions are condemned as "vile institutions" because they are fighting for an increased wage, a shorter workday and better working conditions generally.

The more you study the question the more absurd is the position taken by the employers. How much better off we should be if we would use a little common sense, if we would only follow the Golden Rule, to do unto others as we wish others to do unto us. If we would only meet one another halfway in a spirit of fairness and friendliness, discuss the questions at issue open and aboveboard, give and take, settle our differences, shake hands and go, we might then feel proud of the organizations we respectively belong to. You bosses may blow and fume and swear and sweat, but you will never accomplish the complete annihilation of the trades union movement. You might as well get that idea out of your heads now, once and for all, and get down to business in the good, old fashioned way. You will accomplish more by that means than by any other. Your open shop bubble has been burst in a thousand pieces. It is a failure. Give it up. We are not asking for impossibilities or anything out of the way. All that we want is a fair show and a square deal. If you cannot give us that, then get out of business altogether.—Frank Duffy in Carpenter.

Boston's Labor Day Parade.

Every one is now assured that this year's Labor day parade will be the largest in point of numbers that has ever appeared on the streets of Boston. Every effort is being made by the Central Labor union and B. T. C. committees to get every one of the organizations affiliated with them to vote to parade.

The various councils of trades, as the carpenters, teamsters, printing trades and others, have also taken up the work and are urging every one of their unions to turn out and assist in the effort to be made to show the strength of organized labor in this city. Already more than a score of unions which have not been in the habit of parading every year have voted to be in line this year.—Boston Globe.

THE TOOTHBRUSH TREE.

An Accommodating Little Plant That Grows Only In Jamaica.

The toothbrush was brown, brown alike in handle and bristles, and its shape was uncouth.

"It is a homemade article," said its owner. "It grew on a little tree, a toothbrush tree. They have a toothbrush tree in Jamaica. As we go out and pluck a peach or a pear, so the Jamaican goes out and plucks a toothbrush.

"Literally, of course, he doesn't pluck a toothbrush. He cuts off a twig and ravels out one end into bristles. The wood, you see, is somewhat saponaceous, like slippery elm, and it has an aromatic flavor like dentifrice. It makes a toothbrush of good quality.

"The bark of this singular tree is often ground into tooth powder. Here is a box of the ground bark. It smells good, doesn't it? Though it makes no lather, it keeps the teeth very white.

"Jamaica is undoubtedly the only country in the world where you can go out and pluck not only your toothbrush, but your dentifrice, from a tree."—Chicago Chronicle.

How to Pack Dress Skirts.

When you fold your skirts to pack them in either a suit case or a trunk hold the skirt up in front of you, closing the band and placket, and fold the center back of the skirt to the center front, then fold the sides of the skirt over backward, says the Ladies' Home Journal. When you place the skirt in the trunk, to make it short enough to fit turn the top portion under and put either a roll of tissue paper or some of your underclothes in the fold to keep the skirt from creasing too deeply. Then, before you put your waist or coat in, pack in some more of your underclothes to fill in the corners and crevices. Little things like collars, sashes and the smaller underclothes can be rolled and put into the body of your coat and into the sleeves. Attention to small details like these is the way to keep your clothes fresh and clean and to prevent them from showing that they have been on a journey.

How to Walk Gracefully.

It never occurs to some women to ascertain whether they look graceful or the reverse when they walk until perhaps they catch a glimpse of themselves in passing a shop with a mirror in the window, and then they are probably surprised, agreeably or otherwise. To walk gracefully, the body must be held erect, with the shoulders thrown back and the chest expanded; the head should be slightly raised and the knees should be kept straight and the legs moved from the hips. Any rolling movement of the body should be carefully guarded against, stiffness must be avoided and an erect and yet easy attitude cultivated.

—The Brookline Press says that many of the ladies in the metropolitan district declare they will not trade with the new Siegel department store at Boston because of the numerous billboards of the company which have made the landscape unsightly. Undoubtedly another case where the advertising appropriation would better have been spent in the newspapers.

—Now they say Peter Faneuil's money was tainted. This, however, will not prevent the future rocking of the Cradle of Liberty.

—The tax rate of Brookline is $12 per $1,000, an increase of $1.50.

MISS KEITH.

Given Farewell Reception at Braintree.

Returns as Missionary to Japan.

Will Marry Upon Arrival a Dorchester Man.

Thursday evening in the First Congregational church Braintree, the program of the mid-week prayer meeting was changed that all present might listen to a talk on Japan by Miss Cora F. Keith, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arza B. Keith of Braintree. Miss Keith has been a missionary in Japan for the past five years and has been here nearly six months on a leave of absence.

Deacon A. H. Cobb led the meeting, hymns were sung with enthusiasm and following scripture reading, Rev. Mr. Morrison of Braintree offered prayer.

Miss Keith was then invited to address the gathering. She came forward and in a free and cordial way won the hearts and encouragement of her friends present. With the aid of a large map, Miss Keith pointed out the places in which she has labored and the large island Shikoku, where she will live in the city of Matsuyama. Matsuyama has a population of about 50,000 people, about the same number as Brockton.

In a few days after Miss Keith's arrival in Matsuyama, going via San Francisco and the Pacific ocean, she will become the wife of Charles M. Warren of Dorchester, Mass., who is a missionary.

Miss Keith gave a very interesting description of the houses in Japan and said it was very hard for Mr. Warren to rent a house with two floors for nearly all Japanese houses have all the rooms on one floor.

It is the intention of the happy couple to make their new home as much like those here as possible and therefore Miss Keith has ordered furniture sent from Boston which cannot be obtained in Japan. The Japanese sit upon the floor when they eat or entertain guests and at night sleep on beds made up on the floor. The Japanese straw carpets are nearly an inch thick and before walking on them the people remove their shoes. Miss Keith will try to get along with Japanese carpets.

There are only a few people in Matsuyama who speak the English language but fortunately they live near each other, making their duties more pleasant.

Miss Keith had thoughtfully brought to the meeting a large number of unmounted photographs taken in Japan which were interesting.

During the intermission refreshments were served and then Mr. A. H. Cobb, in behalf of Miss Keith's freinds, presented her with a purse.

Miss Keith has also received a half dozen solid silver teaspoons from the Thayer class and other useful presents. She responded to the gift in very fitting words.

After a speech full of worldly interest and also a prayer both by Dr. Gallagher, the meeting adjourned.

Bondsmen Superseded

The personal bondsman is fast becoming obsolete; the risk to private fortune is too great.

The corporate bond is just as rapidly supplanting the old form; and, in time, men will marvel that they were ever called upon to incur the danger of personal suretyship.

In point of safety, convenience and propriety, there can be no comparison between the two; the one is just as weak and perilous as the other is strong and safe.

The time is near when it will be thought as reasonable to borrow the key of a friend's safe as to borrow his name for surety purposes.

Persons who are required to give bonds should apply to

TOO MANY FAVORED

Changes in Tax Laws Operate Against Real Estate.

Editor Quincy Ledger:

Referring to your editorial on Taxation it seems to me our people have good reason to feel concerned about the high rate. But as a general rule, only little attention is paid to this important question, because "what is everybody's business is nobody's business." I think however a great many of our citizens would study this question more if the societies and churches in Quincy would take it up for discussion.

Our legislature is without doubt responsible for the increased taxation in the last twenty-five years in Massachusetts. If our voters had been on the alert the legislature would not have been permitted to destroy our taxation laws and put the whole burden onto the shoulders of those least able to bear a tax.

Prof. Adams says: "Every increase in the population of a city and enlarged area of assessment should normally result in a decrease of debt per capita, and a decrease in taxation." We have both these conditions but our taxation is higher than ever. The principles governing taxation are as fixed as the principles of mathematics. It may be hard to convince a man of this fact, but nevertheless it is true. It is also true that every man should pay taxes according to his ability but how few of our assessors enforce this rule. A few years ago in Boston a special tax Commission reported that more than three billions of property escapes or is dodged every year in that city. Ex-Mayor Winn of Malden, no better authority on taxation in the world, said recently, "The owners of personal property steal the assessed valuation of Massachusetts every fifteen years," and there isn't the least doubt of it.

The recent change in our Corporation tax laws deprived many of our cities of a large amount of revenue. Worcester alone lost more than fifty thousand dollars.

In this connection I would like to submit the enclosed clipping from the Springfield Republican under date of August 15, 1905. In 1873 Massachusetts taxed five hundred millions personal, today she taxes less than three hundred millions, although we know there is ten times more than that held by our rich citizens.

Yours truly,
Alexander Fryer.

NEGLECTED CAUSE OF HIGHER TAX RATE.

There is one cause for the higher local tax rates, which are being generally announced, that has not received much attention. This is the new business corporation law which undertook to Jerseyize Massachusetts policy in relation to incorporated undertakings.

The state tax commissioner, in his last annual report, gives us some idea of the extent of the losses suffered through the changes effected by the new law which went into effect in August of 1903. Not including street railway corporations, but presumably including all other public-service corporations, it appears that:—

|---|---|
| The total loss to localities in 1904 over 1903 was | $393,132 |
| And to the commonwealth it was | $117,010 |
| Making a total loss of | $510,142 |

All of which loss falls upon the localities which have to make good not only their own losses in amounts returned to them by the state, but the loss to the state which passes it on to the cities and towns in an increased state tax.

And practically all of this large loss comes from the new corporation law. The corporations to which the new law applies gained a total reduction in assessment for taxation in 1904 over 1903 of nearly $30,000,000. Their taxes were reduced by $252,644 on account of deductions allowed in the case of stocks and securities not taxable in the hands of individuals, and on account of property held outside of the state; and there was a further reduction of $208,825 in taxes on account of the 20 per cent limitation clause. While the state made an offsetting gain on account of incorporation fees, this was small and within an estimated sum of $65,000.

It is thus made to appear that the cities and towns last year lost over $400,000 in taxes from the new law and had to make up the sum from increased levies on the property of individuals. This year's loss is no doubt quite as heavy, offsetting a large part of the gain from the transfer of the care of the insane to the state, and causing further additions to state expenditure and the state tax to fall with maximum force upon the local grand lists.

If the state had gained anything otherwise from this incorporation, we might stand these tax losses with some equanimity. But nothing has been gained otherwise. Loss in reputation for Massachusetts corporations has accompanied loss in taxes. We have legalized bogus capitalizations in the hope of getting some of the swindling trust promotion business carried on under New Jersey laws, and find that it is not to be so. Losses in taxes and reputation have been attended by gain in no direction so far as can be discovered.

SERGT. LOGAN

Buried Today with Military Honors.

Mass at St. John's Church.

Marines as Pall Bearers—N. L. S. W. V. as Escort.

The funeral of Sergt. John Logan of the marine corps on the battleship Karsarge was held this morning from St. John's church at 9 o'clock. The funeral mass being celebrated by Rev. John J. Casey.

The Gegorian mass was sung by the regular choir. Thomas Donivan sang Di Profundis at the offertory, and after the absolution service a quartette composed of Miss Julia Restelli, Miss Mary McConarty, Mr. Aloysius Carey and Mr. Joseph Burns sang "Lead Kindly Light."

The remains were escorted from Brown's undertaking rooms to the church by Camp Boyd, N. L. S. W. V., while Sergts. Hall, Julian, Malloy, Barkley, Moore and West of the Marine barracks at Charlestown Navy yard acted as bearers.

The casket containing the remains was draped with the National flag, and as it was borne down the centre aisle at the church, "Nearer My God to Thee" was played by the organist.

After the services the remains were taken to Holy Cross cemetery, Malden, where the military funeral was held and three volleys fired by a squad of marines.

The body was escorted as far as City Hall by the Spanish War Veterans and Marines. The Marines accompanied the remains in hacks. The Spanish War Veterans went by train and met the remains at the cemetery.

There were a number of floral pieces which included, pillow of roses and carnations from the Spanish War Veterans, harp of roses and carnations from the Quincy members of the A. O. H., pillow of roses and carnations from the Quincy Club Associates; a spray of roses from T. Doran and A. Williams; a bouquet of daises from Thomas Fay, and an anchor of roses and carnations from the employes of James T. Penniman.

HINTS FOR ORATORS.

How to Make a Speech Before Public Audiences.

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary to get up and make a speech do not forget that public speaking is good conversation. Don't yell and, therefore, talk over the heads of your auditors. Do not talk at them, but to them. When practicable a good idea is to scan the faces of your hearers, beginning at the front on your left and proceeding from left to right, back and forth, until you have observed the occupant of the last seat on your right in the rear of your audience. People are flattered by the speaker noticing them. Besides, it helps to "hypnotize" your audience.

Gesture is the only universal language. Combined with the language of countenance it is understood by the entire world, for it is the language of nature. Prepare a few sentences with appropriate gestures, and your audience will believe you to be a past master in the art of gesticulation. To thrill an audience you must arrange sentences and accompanying gestures so that both at the same time shall reach the climax in your eloquence.

On stepping to the front of the platform have a full breath as you greet your audience. Surely never meet it with all your batteries run out. The most eminent orators and actors stimulate their emotional nature by daily drill in vocal exercises. A good practice is the repeating of the alphabet and its various sounds in different tones, pitch and force. Constant practice clears and strengthens the vocal powers, as observed in newsboys, train callers and auctioneers, says Elmer E. Rogers, a well known Chicago lawyer, in the Chicago Tribune.

The most difficult of all oratory is the campaign political speech, and he on whom the politicians agree as a first class "spellbinder" may by preparation put up a good speech on any topic.

Outdoor speaking is perplexing, as in the attempt to reach all hearers the speaker is liable to pitch his voice too high, which then does not carry so well as a more natural tone. If convenient speak toward the noise or music.

The less a speaker knows the longer it takes him to say it. Therefore cut your speeches short.

Public speaking is a profession. Animal food promotes eloquence, and the orator ought to have a good sleep just before his appearance to speak. No one except a political candidate is obliged to shake hands and accept hospitality. Avoid this physical drain before speaking.

The orator of today must be a student, reader, thinker and writer. In olden times the orator was a disseminator of knowledge, but now the public itself is quite well informed.

How to Get Rid of Flies.

To kill flies beat the yolk of an egg with a tablespoonful of molasses and black pepper finely ground. Set it about in shallow places where the flies will be attracted, says the New York World. They can walk on, but not off. A sweetened infusion of one dram of quassia in a gill of water, with one-half gill of molasses, put in a glass and a pasteboard with a hole in it over the glass (care being taken to put a rim of molasses on the under side of the pasteboard) will also prove a catch all for flies.

How to Rest Weary Nerves.

When you feel fagged, try the harmless stimulant of hot milk, says McCall's Magazine. Heat the milk till a skin begins to wrinkle on the top of it and then drink it in sips. You'll find it wonderfully refreshing when you are feeling "fagged out," and it will do you more good than the best beef tea, for hot milk is most nourishing and stimulating, whereas beef tea is only the former.

How to Prepare For Emergencies.

A little court plaster, both black and white, may be found most useful, not only in case of a bad scratch or cut, but the black will mend a rent in gown or suit so that it is almost unnoticeable.

Points of Interest.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACES OF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Small fee asked.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M. until 4 P. M.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John, Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company where warships are being built for the government.

HACKETT MURDER

Kennebec County Authorities Are In the Dark

TRAMP THEORY SCOUTED

Belief That Girl Was Slain by Some One Who Knew Her—Young Man Who Owned the Watch Found on Her Body Is Questioned by the Police

Kent's Hill, Me., Aug. 19.—No arrest of any person charged with the murder of Mattie Hackett, the 17-year-old daughter of Levi L. Hackett, who was found strangled near her home here Thursday evening, has been made. Kennebec county authorities say that the case is one of the blindest they were ever engaged upon, and, although they have worked hard, they have not found sufficient evidence to warrant an immediate arrest.

Several theories have been taken up by the officials, including the report that several tramps had visited the vicinity of the Hackett homestead just previous to the tragedy. Two tramps, who were riding on a freight train on the Maine Central railroad, were held at Waterville, but they will be released, as the authorities are satisfied they had nothing to do with the case.

The county officials have abandoned the theory that the murder was committed by tramps. The officers incline to the opinion that the young girl was killed by someone who lives or formerly lived here, and therefore knew Miss Hackett well. For several hours they investigated along this theory, but as yet they are not prepared to announce a definite result.

It is learned that a young man was questioned by the county officials late yesterday. A watch said to be the property of the young man was found on the girl's body. When asked to explain this circumstance he said he did not know how Miss Hackett got his timepiece, but he supposed the girl's brother must have found it and loaned it to her. It was a watch of little value and the young man had not been wearing it of late. He told the officers he had called on Miss Hackett occasionally, but he did not keep company with her regularly. The youth was not detained by the officers.

Coroner Morse has made arrangements for an inquest. A jury was empaneled to take the evidence, but no witnesses were heard. Meanwhile Dr. Sturtevant of Augusta had arrived to hold an autopsy under direction of the county authorities.

The autopsy revealed the fact that the girl's death was due entirely to strangulation. A slight scratch on the nose and finger marks on both arms were found, but these were the only marks found. There was no evidence of a criminal assault. The coroner ordered that portions of the body be sent to Brunswick, where Professor Whittier of Bowdoin college will make an analysis of the organs.

Harry Jones, the young man who called at the Hackett homestead Thursday evening for supper, and who was with Hackett in the stable when the murder was committed, has been taken to the jail at Augusta, where he will be held as a witness. Jones' correct name is Thompson. As he had been held in the Androscoggin jail as a vagrant he gave the name of Jones to Hackett, not caring to have his relatives know of his plight. He had used the same name at the jail in Auburn.

While in the stable with Hackett the young man claims to have heard conversation between a man and a woman, the voices sounding in the direction of the spot where Miss Hackett's body was found, and one expression which he says he distinguished indicated that the girl had resented a suggestion or action of some sort.

Incentive to Catch Murderer

Augusta, Me., Aug. 19.—High Sheriff Ham of Kennebec county has offered a reward of $200 for information which will lead to the apprehension of the murderer of Mattie Hackett. The selectmen of Readfield, the township in which Kent's Hill is located, have offered a reward of $100.

Auto Speeder Dumped Into Mud

New York, Aug. 19.—An automobilist, said to have been Governor Frazier of Tennessee, suffered a wreck on a steep hill at Oakdale, L. I. The automobilist was driving his car at 50 miles an hour when the car lurched to one side and dashed against a big tree. The automobilist was hurled into a swamp and escaped severe injury because of the soft mud.

Five Religious Persons Murdered

Berlin, Aug. 19.—A dispatch received here from the governor of German East Africa says that a Catholic bishop named Spies, two missionary brothers and two sisters were murdered while traveling from Kilwa to Liwale.

Reaction Against Strike

Warsaw, Aug. 19.—The efforts of the Social Democrats to bring about a general strike have failed completely. With the exception of a few factories and shops in the Jewish quarter, business is going on as usual.

Stranding of Cable Steamer

Canso, N. S., Aug. 19.—The cable steamer Colonia is ashore off this port in a bad position. Attempts to float her have failed. It is thought the steamer has been badly damaged.

TORE OFF HIS SHIRT

Boy Used It to Flag Train and Probably Averted a Wreck

Kingston, Mass., Aug. 19.—A train was saved from striking an obstruction upon the track, near the Halifax station, seven miles from here, by the action of a boy who waved his shirt at the engineer. The train was in charge of Conductor Burns and Engineer Wilkinson and had just passed Monponset when the engineer noticed a small boy running along the track frantically waving a flag. The brakes were immediately set and the cause of the boy's excitement was seen to be two ties which had been placed across the rails.

The engine struck the sleepers and one of them went under the forward wheel before the momentum was overcome. The locomotive was not derailed.

The sudden stopping of the train had badly shaken up the passengers, a number of whom were thrown about from their seats, sustaining bruises. When the train stopped they poured out to ascertain the cause of the incident and they found that the boy who have given the danger signal was Joseph Gaffney of Boston, aged 10, who is spending the summer near Halifax and who had discovered the menace and determined to give warning.

As he ran down the track, realizing the need of something with which to signal, he pulled off his shirt and this was the "flag" which the engineer had seen and which had enabled him to prevent a serious accident.

Automobile Was Speeding

Bennington, Vt., Aug. 19.—With the examination of several witnesses who live near the scene of the accident, the inquest into the cause of the death of Harris P. Lindsley and Miss Evelyn P. Willing, who were run down and killed in their automobile by a train last Monday, was practically completed. Those who saw the accident testified that the locomotive whistle was blown and the bell rung before the crossing was reached, and that both train and automobile were running at an estimated speed of 35 miles an hour.

Dry Wells Replenished

Salem, Mass., Aug. 19.—Rains this week have been a godsend to the residents of Hamilton and Wenham, who have had to depend on driven wells for their water supply. The drought had taken nearly every bucketfull of water in the wells, and for several days owners of big estates in Wenham had been hauling water from Wenham lake the source of supply for Beverly and Salem. The heavy rains have replenished the supply.

Unoccupied House Looted

Boston, Aug. 19.—The police have discovered that the unoccupied East Bay residence of William P. Wilson has been recently ransacked by burglars, and silverware, draperies and bric-a-brac has been taken. Owing to the absence of the family at Cape Cod, the police are unable to estimate the extent of the loss.

Not Recognized as Murderer

Plymouth, Mass., Aug. 19.—The Chicago men who came here failed to identify George L. Marsh as the man wanted in Chicago in connection with the murder of William Bate. Accordingly they left town without further action, and Marsh was remanded to jail on the charge not connected with the Illinois case.

Miss Tucker Leaves Rochester

Rochester, N. H., Aug. 19.—Miss Mary A. Tucker of Providence, who was found in the woods near here some days ago after nearly two weeks of wandering from a camp at Wolfboro in a dazed mental state, was able to leave yesterday. It was stated that she would go to a sanitarium near Boston for treatment.

Massachusetts Marksmen Win

Wakefield, Mass., Aug. 19.—The Massachusetts team won the New England military rifle championship with a grand total of 3008. Rhode Island was second, with 2845; Maine third, 2841; New Hampshire fourth, 2379, and Connecticut fifth, with 2275.

Old Home Week In Granite State

Concord,, Aug. 19.—The New Hampshire seventh annual Old Home Week opened today. At the headquarters of the State association in this city information has been received of observances of various kinds in 90 cities and towns.

Uninjured by Forty-Foot Fall

Boston, Aug. 19.—Willie Brady, 3 years old, of 129 Gerard street, Roxbury, fell a distance of 40 feet from the third story window of his home last evening, but was uninjured outside of a slight shock.

Coal Team Drivers Want Advance

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 19.—The coal team drivers of this city voted last night to strike unless their demands for $1 a week increase in wages were not granted. The strike will involve 100 drivers.

Hunting Mackerel Haunts

St. Johns, Aug. 19.—The United States fish commission schooner Grampus, with a party of fishery experts aboard, sailed last night on an extended cruise to discover, if possible, the haunt of the mackerel, the disappearance of which has recently caused great anxiety among American fishermen.

Financial Aid For Strikers

Toronto, Aug. 18.—The International Typographical union voted to pay $20 a week to aid the union printers in their strike against the Philadelphia Inquirer on the condition that the Philadelphia union will subscribe a like amount.

BY OUTSIDE INFLUENCES

Prompt and Heroic Action Can Alone Bring Peace

ENVOYS ARE FAR APART

Adjournment Until Tuesday to Allow Both Sides to Turn to Home For Last Word Before the Final Cards Are Thrown--The Russians Will Never Yield Both Indemnity and Sakhalin --Prevailing Feeling That the Next Session at Portsmouth Will Be the Last One--Midnight Message From President Roosevelt In Interest of Peace

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 19.—Black pessimism reigns at Portsmouth. The prevailing view is that the fate of the peace conference is already sealed, that it has ended in failure and that all that now remains is for the plenipotentiaries to meet on Tuesday, to which day they adjourned yesterday afternoon upon completing the seriatim consideration of the Japanese terms, sign the final protocol and bid each other farewell. In other words, that the meeting Tuesday will be what diplomacy calls the "seance d'adieu."

But there is still room for hope of a compromise. Neither President Roosevelt nor the powers will see the chance of peace shipwrecked without a final effort, and that pressure is being exerted especially at Tokio to induce her to moderate her terms is beyond question. Just what is being done or is to be done has not transpired, but in these days with modern means of communication much can be accomplished. King Edward is understood to be now lending a helping hand and the financiers of the world are known to be exerting all their influences.

At Tokio and St. Petersburg the final issue will be decided. The Japanese have been implacable throughout the six days' sittings. They have listened and explained, but they have yielded not an iota of the substance of their original demands.

Mr. Witte accepted outright seven of the 12 Japanese conditions, and one in principle; four, including the main issues, indemnity and Sakhalin, he rejected. The other two, limitation of naval power and the surrender of interned warships, might have been arranged had there been any prospect of agreement on the two points upon which the divergence seemed irreconcilable. In the oral discussion of the terms Witte yielded upon two articles, but substantially the result of the 13 sittings of the plenipotentiaries has only been to emphasize the position taken by Witte in the written reply he presented last Saturday to the Japanese terms.

And now both sides turn to home for the last word before the cards are thrown face upward upon the table next Tuesday. For the impasse reached yesterday by the plenipotentiaries is recognized to be only a diplomatic fiction. If, in the interim, fresh instructions are received by either side, compromise is yet possible. But the chances are recognized to be slim. So far as the Russian plenipotentiaries are concerned there never was a chance of their yielding both indemnity and Sakhalin. The cession of Sakhalin without indemnity was, according to the best inside information, the extreme limit to which Witte would ever consent to go, and the czar has not yet given the word even to concede that. And last night a new factor was suddenly introduced which, in the opinion of those competent to judge, lessens materially the chances that he might do so, namely, the issuance of his manifesto granting a popular representative body to his subjects. The bearings of this "historic document," as Witte described it a few days ago, upon the issue are easily comprehensible. It is bound to ameliorate the internal situation in Russia. It is the entering wedge for the realization of the century-old dream of the Russian people.

The manifesto was to have been issued last Saturday when the Russian reply was presented, but it was held over until the conclusion of the oral consideration of the Japanese terms. Meantime the terms had been published everywhere throughout Russia. The press had replied that Russia could not pay money for the privilege of getting out of Manchuria. The czar had publicly proclaimed to his subjects July 28 in reply to a telegram of the Oremburg clergy, "the Russian people can rely upon me. I will never conclude a peace humiliating or unworthy of great Russia." The manifesto is the czar's answer to the Japanese demand for the payment of a war tribute. The grant of this broad reform is regarded as virtually an appeal to the Russian people for support to resist it.

At Tokio it is impossible to tell what view will be taken. Peace can probably be even now secured by the sacrifice of indemnity. Vague intimations come from the Japanese side that the demand for "the cost of the war" might be moderated, but Witte's reply is that he will pay liberally for the maintenance of the Russian prisoners in Japan, but "not a copeck for tribute." The gravity of the situation from the Japanese point of view is contained in the following authoritative statement:

"I cannot say positively, because all things are possible, but I fear that the meeting on Tuesday will be the farewell session of the Washington conference. Japan has done her utmost for peace. Russia now knows Japan's unreducible minimum."

Mr. Witte himself last night gave not the slightest encouragement. For publication he said: "We meet Tuesday only to sign the protocol," with the accent upon the word only. Another bad sign was the change in the personal attitude of the plenipotentiaries toward each other. During the week they have been growing more and more friendly at the luncheon which they take together at the navy yard. This conversation was lively and even gay at times. Yesterday they sat together and ate in silence. All seemed strangely constrained, as if realizing that they could only agree to disagree and that the war must go on. The situation can be summed up in a single sentence. Prompt and heroic action by outside influences alone can save the conference.

At midnight Assistant Secretary Peirce was hurriedly called to the Hotel Wentworth, where a day message was awaiting him from the president. He immediately wrote a lengthy reply. Later he was called to the telegraph instrument and for half an hour carried on a conversation by telegraph with the president, who was at the other end of the wire at Oyster Bay.

At 12:50 a. m. the telegraphic conversation with the president ceased and Peirce left the hotel. He said he was going home, but beyond that declined to make any statement. "I can tell you nothing," he said to all the anxious inquiries of the newspaper men.

There is reason to believe that the purpose of the president's conversation with Peirce was to arrange for one of the Russians to go to Oyster Bay. The president is understood to be already in communication with the Japanese, through Baron Kaneko. Mr. Roosevelt is undoubtedly prepared to make a last effort to induce the warring countries to compromise.

Kaneko Again Visits President

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 19.—President Roosevelt's only visitor yesterday was Baron Kaneko, who studiously conceals his precise mission, but is known to be a confidential representative in this country of the Japanese government. This was his fourth visit to the president in a few weeks. Reasons developed for the statement that Kaneko's call had relation to the proceedings of the peace conference at Portsmouth. He is known to be in direct communication with the Tokio government.

Still Hoping For Agreement

Paris, Aug. 19.—Conflicting reports emanating from Portsmouth, though creating a feeling of uneasiness, do not give rise to any diminution of the hope and expectation that the negotiators will reach a basis for final agreement.

Bright Business Prospects

New York, Aug. 19.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that assurance of prosperity on the farms generates confidence in all departments of trade and industry. Contracts are placed for distant delivery and commercial payments are more prompt. Jobbing trade is brisk, especially in dry goods, and all the large cities report a full attendance of outside buyers.

Infernal Machines For Bankers

New York, Aug. 19.—Two small infernal machines were sent to prominent New Yorkers yesterday. Jacob H. Schiff, the banker, was the target of the more dangerous of the two machines, a contrivance capable of causing death. The other was received by M. Guggenheim's sons. Both were turned over to the police, who have no clue to the senders.

Depositors Apparently Tipped

Buffalo, Aug. 19.—A full list of depositors and the amounts they withdrew from the defunct German bank on the eve of its failure has been given out. The total amount withdrawn was $306,195.05. When State Superintendent Kilburn closed the bank there was but $193,335 left in it.

Thirteen Dead--Five Missing

Norfolk, Aug. 19.—The removal of the two railroad cars which plunged into the open draw at Elizabeth river revealed but two bodies, making the number of bodies recovered 13, with five persons missing. Railroad officials are convinced that the death list is now complete.

Motorist Badly Injured

Buffalo, Aug. 19.—Webb Jay was seriously injured at Kenilworth park, his automobile going through the fence. Jay's injuries consist of nine broken ribs, a fractured leg and severe contusions on the body and head. He is not expected to recover.

Yellow Fever Holding Its Own

New Orleans, Aug. 19.—The following is the official yellow fever record to 6 p. m. Friday: New cases, 62; deaths, 8; total cases to date, 1582; total deaths to date, 188; new disease centres, 16; total to date, 278; number of cases under treatment, 415.

Telegraphers Give Up Strike

St. Paul, Aug. 19.—The strike of the telegraphers on the Great Northern system was officially called off last night, the men on that line having voted by a large majority to return to work.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Sunday, Aug. 20.
Sun rises—4:57; sets—6:49.
Moon rises—9:32 p. m.
High water—2:30 a. m.; 2:45 p. m.

The weather will be fair in New England; warmer in west portions.

In Hands of Kidnappers

New York, Aug. 19.—Word has been received at the office of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church that on July 18 Stoboonagam Ammal of Madras had been kidnapped. For 10 years the woman has been the most important convert from Brahminism to Christianity to be found in Madras. She came from the strictest sect of the high caste Hindus. For some years she has been actively engaged in missionary work.

Negro In Industrial Ranks

New York, Aug. 18.—"The Chicago strike and negro labor," with a plea to negroes who are used as strike breakers to make this recognition of their labor value a key to enter the ranks of respected labor, instead of the cause of their industrial ostracism, was the subject of a speech delivered at the National Negro Business league's convention by S. L. Williams of Chicago.

Wants Accounting of Securities

New York, Aug. 19.—Action has been brought in this city by John W. Young, promoter of the former United States Shipbuilding company, demanding of the Mercantile Trust company of this city an accounting of securities of the shipbuilding company, amounting to $60,984,000.

The Duties of an Ambassador

By WHITELAW REID,
Ambassador to Great Britain

SOME one spoke the other day of the duty of our embassy as consisting merely in "jollying the English." In so far as this means that whenever an ambassador has to say anything he should say a friendly thing IF HE CAN, the remark is well enough. Surely the meanest disposition in the world is that which grudges uttering the truth because it may be pleasant to others to hear it.

But there is a duty of an ambassador more important even than promoting good will, highly important as we all consider that to be. The very people and government to whom he is sent would recognize the superior AND IMPERATIVE nature of this other duty. An ambassador is sent to look after the interests of his own country. Happy his lot if the interests of the country that sends him and those of the country to which he is sent are not conflicting. That is an ideal state very nearly approached at this moment, but not to be counted on ANYWHERE definitely as a permanence. If, unhappily, these interests are ever found to conflict, the most injurious and THE MOST TREACHEROUS FAULT an ambassador can commit is to sacrifice or imperil the interests of his own country, whether merely through a judgment warped by the subtle influence of his foreign association or in the deliberate and sordid hope of remaining persona grata in the country in which he temporarily resides.

It was a happy and illuminating phrase of our late secretary of state when in a humorous vein he told us that our foreign policy consists chiefly in the Golden Rule and the Monroe doctrine. It requires but another word, in fact, to make it completely comprehensive. To the Golden Rule and the Monroe doctrine we need only add the Dix doctrine to sum up the whole body of state department instructions for our dealings with foreign nations.

NO ONE, NO NEW YORKER, NO AMERICAN, EVER FORGETS THE DIX DOCTRINE—"IF ANY MAN HAULS DOWN THE AMERICAN FLAG, SHOOT HIM ON THE SPOT."

Neither that nor the Monroe doctrine is international law, but both are sure to remain indefinitely FUNDAMENTAL parts of American international policy, and when you illumine both by the Golden Rule you have set forth what I firmly believe is the sincere and devout wish of the United States with regard to all its foreign relations and the work of ALL ITS REPRESENTATIVES in the diplomatic service.

Scepter of Commerce In American Control

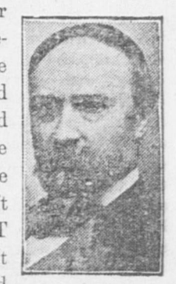
By CHARLES WARREN FAIRBANKS, Vice President of the United States

THE scepter of commercial power is speedily passing into American control. If we are but true to the vast opportunities which lie at our hands, the United States will become the acknowledged leader in the commerce of the world. The conquest will be achieved by the men of trade AND NOT BY THE MEN OF WAR. It will come by an irresistible law of commercial gravity. It will come because of our increased productive capacity; because of our superior ability to supply the needs of others; because of the illimitable resources of our farms, mines and factories; because of multiplied methods and enlarged facilities of cheap transportation from the centers of production down to the seaboard. We take pride in our commerce because it tends to lift the country to a higher and better level. IT TENDS TO EQUALIZE CONDITIONS. It enlarges the opportunity of labor and capital, and gives our people more homes and fills them with more of the comforts of life. It brings communities and trade centers together in common interest. A higher civilization follows in its pathway.



While we are a commercial people, we are not subservient to commercialism. We seek to expand commerce as a means, NOT AS AN END.

WE SEEK ITS CONQUESTS THAT WE MAY MINISTER TO THOSE HIGH ASPIRATIONS WHICH ARE THE BIRTHRIGHT OF THE ANGLO-SAXON RACE.

Publicity the Hope Of the Republic

By S. S. McClure, Author and Editor

IT is my belief that publicity, by which I mean publication of such matter as will keep the people intelligently informed, is the true hope of government in a democracy. I would much sooner trust the influence of a well informed and honest public press in keeping life insurance companies straight than any insurance commissioner in any state, AND THIS APPLIES TO EVERY OTHER INTEREST AND FUNCTION IN GOVERNMENT.

The reason is this: All the officials are themselves employees of the people. Public business differs from all other business in this respect—that in other businesses the employers are owners, have ultimate charge and can see to it that their business is managed honestly, but a city or state or nation can only itself have OTHER EMPLOYEES to see that its business is honestly managed. But a newspaper or a magazine can step in and as an unofficial tribune of the people can see to it that public affairs are honestly managed, and an individual or group of individuals or newspaper or magazine, unofficial, GENERALLY UNPAID, must do this duty in a democracy or government cannot be kept sound.

AND THAT IS THE SOLUTION OF GOVERNMENT.

Charles Stickney was fined $15 for assault at Randolph on Lester M. Holbrook.

John Johnson was sent to the State farm for being a tramp at Milton.

William J. Barss was arraigned for disturbing the peace at Quincy. Case continued until Sept. 2.

—Two Wellesley laborers were last week hurled into the air by a charge of dynamite, and wonderful to relate, escaped with slight injuries. Ralph Johnson and Fred Anderson, two Swedes, employed by John Crosswell, a Wellesley contractor, were tamping dynamite in a ledge in Cliff road, when they tamped a bit too hard. When the smoke had cleared away the men were lying 20 feet from where they had been at work, slightly hurt.

BRAINTREE.

James T. Weeks spent Sunday with his wife and relatives at Laconia, N. H.

Selectman R. A. Gage has improved Common and Middle street, and now Cleveland avenue is receiving his attention.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Richards who have been living in Boston, for the past three years are again located at their home on Taylor street.

The many friends of Carl Baugs of Pond street, will be happy to learn that he has secured a valuable scholarship from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston.

Mr. J. G. Minchin of River street haa been confined to his bed the past ten days and is now reported much improved.

Edward Hefferman, the popular mail carrier of Monatiquot heights, has been enjoying two weeks at Old Orchard, Maine.

Capt. Will Shaw, his son Ferdon and William Perry, returned Sunday from a cruise in the Moondyne to Marblehead with the Q. Y. C. They had a week of real sport.

By invitation of our C. C., Waldo B. Fay, Monatiquot lodge, No. 83, Knights of Pythias will hold an outing at Bro. Fay's farm at Sherburne, Mass., on Labor day, Sept. 4.

Mrs. Price, an aged resident who died at her home, on Thayer avenue, East Braintree, was well known and was born in this vicinity. She was Mary Ann Thayer, and married a soldier of the civil war. She has suffered for years with severe rheumatism.

Mrs. Hegermann of New York with her mother and little son arrived on Sunday night. They are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ward of Elm Knoll road.

Encourage the young people in their most laudable effort to open the Union church once a week throughout the pastor's vacation and by your presence and cooperation help to make these summer evening services strong, effective, and helpful.

Mrs. Elizabeth White observed the eighty-third anniversary of her birth in a quiet enjoyable manner on Sunday at the home of Mr. L. W. Bates, Commercial street where she resides with her brother Clinton Nash.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the Union Congregational church on the second Sunday in September.

The opening dance of the fall will be a "sunlight" in aid of Saint Francis church, to be held in the Town hall, Labor day. Cuff's orchestra will furnish the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Belyea have the sympathy of all, in this hour of their berevement. From their home two bright young boys have been called to higher and eternal service. The parents were justly proud of these children, they were so largely the joy and light of the home, and all who knew them loved them.

Rev. Matthew F. Mc Donnell, pastor of St. Francis church has been enjoying a two weeks' vacation at Old Orchard, Maine. During his absence Rev. Father Montrucchio has been here.

The Good Will society and friends will take an outing at Fort Point, Weymouth, next Friday. They will leave South Braintree on the 8.40 A. M. electric.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Stoddard of Taylor street, have recently purchased the house on Academy street owned, and occupied by Mr. F. B. Spaulding, and will soon occupy their new home.

Miss Florence M. Peterson of New York is making her home with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. W. H. H. Bailey of Union street.

Miss Bertha Tobey has accepted a position with the Tubular Rivet and Stud Company of Wollaston.

Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Vining had as guests this week Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Holber and family of Medfield, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Stone of Quincy, Mr. and Mrs. William Vining of Rockland, Mrs. B. C. Sampson of Whitman, Miss Emily Sampson of Rochester, New York, and Mrs. Osen Belcher of South Braintree.

Having missed the smiling countenance of Fletcher F. Stoddard for several days we were at a loss to know where he was until several choice souvenir postals arrived yesterday from New Haven, Conn. He has visited Savin Rock, a delighted park, patronizing the roller coaster, flying horses, chute the chutes, ferris wheel, etc., and expects to tour the surrounding towns in an automobile.

Blue Hill lodge No. 208, A. O. U. W., entertained last Wednesday evening the officers and degree staff of Codman lodge of Boston, headed by Master Workman MacLeod, a prominent Boston physician and James F. Eichorn one of the most efficient degree masters in Massachusetts. G. A. R. hall was crowded with members of the order and the exemplification of the ritualistic work was the best ever seen in this section of the state. One candidate was initiated. A delegation came from Hyde Park headed by Mr. O. P. Margeson formerly of this town. The Rev. Samuel Morrison of Maple street occupied the pulpit of the First Congregational church last Sunday morning.

Next Wednesday, Aug. 23, Puritan lodge, I. O. O. F. and neighboring lodges will hold a grand picnic at Canobie Lake, N. H. The train leaves the South Braintree station at 7.53 A. M. and it is hoped a large company of members with their friends can arrange to go.

The Unity Circle of King's Daughters met on Tuesday of last week with Mrs. F. O. Wellington of Quincy avenue. After the meeting the members were taken home in Mr. Wellington's fine automobile.

A large concourse of hearers gathered at Washington square, Weymouth, to listen to a band concert by the Quincy Band last Saturday evening. East Braintree was well represented. After the concert Dr. C. D. Harlow treated the musicians to soda, serving the players in relays of four or six at a time. The favor was appreciated by the weary heated performers.

Kennewick Canal.

The Kennewick Irrigating Canal which waters twenty thousand acres of land on the west bank of the Columbia river, is one of the newest and best irrigating propositions in the United States. Kennewick is the gateway to the Yakima valley. The season is from two to three weeks earlier than the upper valley, and alfalfa, peaches, pears and all small fruits such as strawberries, cantaloupes, etc., which ripen very early, command the highest market price. Write to C. W. Mott, General Emigration Agent, Northern Pacific Railway, St. Paul, Minn., and he will send you descriptive pamphlets of the Yakima valley where land can still be had at reasonable prices and in a climate mild and healthful. If you wish information regarding lands or business openings in other territory covered by the Northern Pacific Railway, Mr. Mott will be glad to send it free. Will be pleased to call upon you on receipt of postal card, to give you full information regarding rates, tickets, through car and train service arrangements, etc.

C. E. Foster, District Passenger Agent, 207 Old South Building, Boston, Mass.

Highland Park.

Highland Park has had a most successful week, owing to the musical comedy entitled "When Reuben Comes to Town." "The Dazzler will be the coming attraction and it bids fair to be the best yet. This play gives an opportunity for a lot of good artists to display their individual talent which they will do to perfection. The Comedy brass band, which will appear in this show, will be one of the great attractions. The Village Choir which made such a big hit in Lowell last week, will be as fascinating as any on the program.

—It is said that Hebrews have planned to remove every man, woman and child of their race from Russia, and that for a beginning they will migrate 600,000 to the Holy Land of their far ancestors and bring 400,000 to this country. The treatment the Hebrews receive in Russia ought before this to have brought into action their prosperous fellows throughout the world.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Robert Hilliard will head the Keith bill for the week of Aug 21. Mr. Hilliard will present his new play, "As a Man Sows," which has never been in Boston, and he will be assisted by a competent company of actors, including little June Pelton, whose picture, bid Keith's patrons "Good Night" every evening. The surrounding show is an exceptionally strong and well-balanced one, including the Juggling McBanns, two of the greatest club jugglers in the varieties. A most regrettable announcement in regard to the entertainment the week of Aug. 21 is that which conveys the intelligence that the Fadettes woman's orchestra is to bring a long and successful summer engagement to a close. Their program for that week will be made up of the most popular selections they have played this season, and no doubt the theatre will be crowded with their many friends. The kinetograph will show an entire new list of motion pictures.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

At the Empire Theatre next week it is announced that the attraction will be Bronson Howard's brilliant society comedy "Saratoga," a play that has held favor with American audiences for the best part of the present generation. In the coming production it is designed to present the play in the dress of to-day, and its types of character are as prominent in the present social life of the great watering place as they were when the author first introduced them to the American public!

The usual free distribution of souvenir boxes of choice chocolate bonbons will be made at the Monday matinee.

Smathers And Odom To Retire

Running Turf Will Feel Loss of Owner and Jockey, Though Latter Will Conduct a Stable of "Bangtails"---Odom's Enviable Reputation.

The running turf is about to lose two important as well as popular figures. They are E. E. Smathers, owner of the great champion McChesney, and George Odom, best known as "the honest jockey."

Mr. Smathers, originally from Pittsburg, but now a New Yorker, has decided to curtail his turf connections about 50 per cent and will hereafter number only light harness horses in his stable. So the running turf must bid his colors farewell.

ELMORE E. SMATHERS.

Mr. Smathers has won wide popularity by reason of his absolute fairness and marked liberality in supporting turf affairs. His loss will be difficult to remedy.

George Odom's retirement from the ranks of jockeys will be deplored by every lover of a good horseman and an honest young man. During his long years as a jockey no breath of suspicion ever has attached to his name. He has ridden bad races and has been criticised for them, but in every case it was simply an error of judgment.

It is increasing weight that has driven Odom from the saddle. He now weighs 131 pounds stripped, and, as the horses are too delicate to pack anything heavier than a midget, Odom has been compelled to seek the ranks of owners and trainers for a living.

Odom now enters upon his career as an owner with a clean reputation, backed with a comfortable fortune. He made more money out of riding than any of the boys who were willing to use the "strong arm" now and then.

Odom was born to be a rider. His early home was in Columbus, Ga., where his father, a southern gentleman, owned and raced a private stable. The old gentleman gave George a pony when he was about six or eight years old, and the boy learned to ride. He grew up in the saddle.

When he was sixteen his father placed him with a friend as an exercise boy. Soon he made such progress that he was given a mount. He was still only sixteen when he rode his first race, for W. P. Burch in New Orleans. He didn't win at first. Beginners seldom do, for they don't get the best horses in the stable. But after awhile young Odom attracted so much attention that he was signed by W. H. Clark. He won his first race on Klepper at Morris park in the fall of 1898.

President Roosevel's Worldwide Hit

The president mae a hit with the entire world, from te pope and London Times to John L. Crimmins, when he presented Russia o Japan, expressed in diplomatic language a hope that the best would win and finally called time, says Harper's Vekly. We guess that, barring possibl ?. Jefferson, he is the only president we have had who could speak really god French. He also speaks excellent English. The most busy day was tha which brought Secretary Shaw, Mr. Morgan and Baron Kaneko, one ster the other. The president went o bed pretty tired that night. O Sunday he preached.

A Wide Awake Stoolma'am.

CAN WE DO IT?

Will Quincy Pass Everett in Population?

Chances Are That She Will.

Quincy Expects to Move Up Two or Three.

By the census of 1900 the city of Everett jumped in ahead of Quincy. It was only by a narrow margin of 301 people, however, and the City of Presidents is hoping to recover lost ground. It has been contended that the census of 1900 did Quincy an injustice, and that really the figures should have been nearly 1000 larger. It was taken at the time of the big granite strike in 1900, when many granite workers were out of the city.

The growth of Everett has been phenomenal. In 1890 it was smaller than Melrose and Hyde Park, with a population of only 4,159. Today it has twice as many as either of these municipalities.

In 1895, Everett nearly overtook Quincy, the former having a population of 18,573 and the latter 20,712.

From 1895 to 1900 Quincy made a gain of 3,187, and Everett with an increase of 5,763 went ahead. Here are the figures of the two cities for the last six censuses:

| Year. | Everett. | Quincy. |
|---|---|---|
| 1880 | 4,159 | 10,570 |
| 1885 | 5,825 | 12,145 |
| 1890 | 11,068 | 16,723 |
| 1895 | 18,573 | 20,712 |
| 1900 | 24,336 | 23,899 |
| 1905 | 29,108 | |

It will be seen that Everett has gained 4,772 by this census, or 791 less than in the five years from 1895 to 1900. Should Quincy gain less during that period than it did by the census of 1900 it will of course remain in the wake of Everett. However, should Quincy gain 5,210, which is smaller than estimated, it will not only pass Everett, but with a population of 29,109 will go ahead of North Adams and Gloucester. Much is anticipated of the 1905 census of Quincy which will be announced in a day or two.

LOSS IN VALUATION.

Cambridge Assessors Find Less Personal Property.

The big city of Cambridge reports a loss in assessed valuation of $982,300 this year, and the tax rate has jumped from $17.90 to $19.00 per $1000. The loss was wholly in personal estate it being $1, 352,700 less than last year, while real estate is assessed for $470,400 more. The total valuation is $103,845,300 and the city has 26,697 poll taxpayers.

At Funeral of Michael W. Gerry of Atlantic.

Michael W. Gerry, a respected citizen of Atlantic, passed away at his residence 43 Old Colony street, Saturday evening, Aug. 19, after a three weeks' illness of Brights disease.

Mr. Gerry had been employed by the City of Boston at Moon Island for the past twenty-five years, and around Atlantic and Quincy he was familiarly known. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus which order was represented at the funeral.

He leaves a wife, four daughters and two sons to mourn his absence besides many relatives and friends.

The funeral was held from the Sacred Heart church this morning at 9 o'clock.

Mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Cuffe. At the conclusion of the Mass "I love to hear my Saviour's Voice," "Angel Voices" and "Nearer My God to Thee," were rendered by Edward J. Sullivan.

The interment was at West Quincy.

The pall bearers were Timothy Carey, Stephen H. Edwards, Martin H. Cunniff and Gerald A. Sullivan of the Knights of Columbus.

The flowers were many and beautiful. Some were:

Standing cross,—from members of K. of C.

Standing cross,—Employees of Moon Island.

Pillow,—"Father."

Pillow,—"Uncle."

Wreath,—"Brother."

Wreath,—"At Rest" from Brother.

Wreath,—Katherine and M. Sullivan.

Wreath,—D. J. Bradley.

POND UNHEALTHY.

West Quincy People Want Nuisance Abated.

The Board of Health gave a public hearing Monday evening at City Hall on the petition for the abatement of the nuisance at Gragg's pond near the junction of Copeland and Crescent streets.

Mayor Thompson, W. D. Burns, Thomas J. Lamb, Miss Mabel G. Gragg and Mr. and Mrs. J. Martin appeared and spoke in favor of the petition.

The Board then took the matter under advisement.

Fell Down Stairs.

Mrs. L. B. Corey, housekeeper at the Greenleaf, had a bad fall while in Boston on Monday. She was coming down stairs in an office building on Tremont street, when she either tripped or had a fainting spell, and fell headfirst the whole length of the stairway. She received cuts over the eye and on the face. She was treated at the Emergency Hospital and later brought to Quincy. She is not seriously injured.

The Pity of It!

A certain lady of wealth living in the north of Ireland was recovering from a serious illness and one morning called for an egg, which she ate with much enjoyment. As she passed back the cup and plate to her nurse she said, "An egg is a delicious thing." Then, with much melancholy, "What a pity," she added, "it is so common among the poor."—London Globe.

"No, but we're makin' some," replied the little maiden.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Optimistic.

"Billy Bliven asked Miss Parseigh how old she was," said one girl to another.

"Did she get angry?"

"No. She was flattered. She thought she must look very young or he'd never have dared."

ON RIGHT TRACK.

Boys Implicated in Recent Fires.

One Arrested and In Court.

Good Work by Officers Hultman and Murray.

Through the good work of Officer Murray and Constable Hultman a number of boys have been apprehended for setting the fires on Sunday in the old stone sheds on Canal street. That the right parties have been apprehended, there is no doubt as they have admitted to the police, and Chief Fire Inspector Rice that they were concerned.

The first real clew came from Constable Hultman, who says he was on his way to Mount Wollaston cemetery on Sunday afternoon by the way of Canal street, when he passed some boys near the granite shed who were acting suspiciously. However, he went along and after passing Field street he hid to await developments.

Soon he saw the boys cross Canal street and they had with them a bottle and some seaweed or excelsior. A few moments later he saw smoke arising from the granite sheds and he summoned the fire ahparatus by telephone at the Almshouse.

Going to the fire he saw the same boys there, and reported his discovery to Chief Burrell at the police station.

Fire Inspector Rice came out Monday and Chief Burrell detailed Officer Murray upon the case, who spent the afternoon and evening in the vicinity of Canal street. Being able to speak a little Italian he was soon able to get on the right track.

Shortly after 6 o'clock he arrested Dominica Frogoni of Canal street on his return from the shipyard, and took him to the police station. From further information he latter took into custody Francis B. DeYoung of Payne street and William W. O'Neil of 118 Washington street.

At the police station the boys confessed to their part in the various fires and implicated Harold C. Gould of 91 Revere road and Thomas Mullany of Brackett street. They were also taken to the station and admitted that they were concerned.

This morning Chief Fire Inspector Rice again came to Quincy and held an inquest at the district court room. At this inquest the boys made sworn statements to Inspector Rice of their part in the affair.

But one of the boys however, was arraigned in court. He was the Frogoni boy who was over sixteen years of age, and he was held in $500 until Thursday. The other boys will be summoned into court the same day.

MEANS MORE PAY.

Many Officials Will Be Benefitted if Quincy Grows.

The judges and clerks of the different police and district courts are vitally interested in the census figures now being put out from time to time by the state census bureau.

This interest is because of the fact that it is the new data on which their salaries are based, and it is possible that many of them may get an increase in income as the result of labors of the census enumerators.

In the police and district courts the salaries are based on the population of the districts over which these courts have jurisdiction, and if the population of the East Norfolk district, which includes Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Milton, Randolph, Holbrook and Cohasset shows sufficient increase, the salary of the court officials will likewise be increased.

Makarias Won.

A mistake was made by the scorer of the Granite City league game on Saturday, so that the players of one club had the name of the other. It was the Makaria team which won by the score of 12 to 8.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Can you give any good reason why so many people persist in opening car windows when traveling? While it may be true that they feel a little breeze while the train is in rapid motion, all the inconveniences and dangers attending their act fall on the unfortunate victims who sit behind them and who get covered with dust and dirt and get their eyes full of cinders. The average railway train is none too clean at the best but under such conditions one's clothes are damaged and lungs filled with the fine dust of travel, and all because some selfish, or more generally, perhaps, thoughtless individual throws open a window. The old traveler has learned by experience that such relief is more apparent than real and the train is just as comfortable with the windows closed and ventilation given through the channels originally designed.—Waltham Tribune.

☞The world is full of these get-rich quick schemes, but the results are shady and doubtful. More people stay broke looking for a scheme of this sort than ever found them and materialize on their expectations. The old reliable way is to stay by the conservative methods, aided by good solid work. The world is too full of people looking for an easy way to make a livelihood. The condition now exists that so many are looking for the easy way that it is harder to find that way than it is to get out and make a living by legitimate methods.

There are opportunities, to be sure, where men make a lucky strike, but they are so few and far between that they don't cut much ice. The far better way is to get into some occupation which suits you and stick to it. You may not die rich, which is a desire which very many are possessed with, but then you will have a much more agreeable life of it, with a fair share of its pleasures and comforts, which after all is the great desiderata.—Gloucester Times.

☞It is with a feeling of apparent deep surprise that some newspapers have received the knowledge that Gov. Folk of Missouri loves his cigar and his drink of whiskey, and that District-Attorney Jerome of New York is also partial to an occasional stimulant and to the cigarette. Some affect to believe that these reformers ought to be entirely superior to these commonplace habits of the ordinary human—or shall we say the extraordinary human? But if the pages of history are scanned, it is to be feared that much will be found in the career of many other reformers that will astonish some of the readers. There are those in the world, too, who will say that a reformer along certain lines cannot be expected to be a reformer, or a reformed man himself, along all lines. All flesh is weak. The man who wouldn't steal a cent may be assailable by temptation in some other manner. The man who is honest to a degree in his political career may be a man whose private life is no better than that of millions of others. The man who will buy his way into politics or stand for corrupt political campaigns in his behalf may be the soul of honor in his personal dealings in business and in the social world. The perfect man has not yet been born.—Brockton Enterprise.

PEACE HANGS IN THE BALANCE

Depends Upon Czar's Reply to Roosevelt's Proposition

OUTLOOK IS VERY DARK

Russia Is Not Disposed to Cede Territory or Pay War Tribute, While Japan Remains Unyielding In Her Demands--Belief That the President Has Not Received Active Aid Expected From Neutral Powers--Japan Prefers Continuance of War to Peace Which Would Not Be Lasting

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 22.—The result of President Roosevelt's effort to save the peace conference from failure remains in suspense. No direct reply to the president's proposition communicated to Mr. Witte Sunday has come from the czar, but other advices received from St. Petersburg indicate that the czar and his councillors are unshaken in their determination neither to cede territory nor pay war tribute.

What the president is doing on the Japanese side remains as deep a mystery as ever. Little light is shed upon the visits of Baron Kaneko to Oyster Bay. The Japanese do not even admit that he is their medium of communication with the president. They go no further than to reiterate that Mr. Roosevelt understands their position and that they have the fullest confidence in him. They show not the slightest indication that they have in any wise changed their position or are prepared to yield more than they were last Friday, when the plenipotentiaries adjourned until today.

If Witte does not receive fresh instructions before 3 o'clock today, when the conference is resumed, the situation will be exactly what it was when the adjournment was taken on Friday. The gulf will be as wide, deep and unspanable. Both sides will present their protocols for signature. One side or the other must then make a move, or all that will be left will be a brief final protocol certifying that they have reached the parting of the ways and to bid each other farewell.

But such an abrupt termination is hardly anticipated. Baron Komura, if Witte has nothing to propose, might present Japan's irreducible minimum, embodying the final concessions she was prepared to make if she is prepared to make any, or formally propose collective consideration of all the articles still in dispute. Any move on the other side would involve another adjournment, or such an adjournment might be frankly proposed by Witte, as he would not be guilty of the discourtesy of allowing the conference to go to pieces before receiving a specific reply to President Roosevelt's proposition.

It is safe to assume, therefore, that in the absence of such a reply the conference will be prolonged beyond today, and every delay, in the opinion of the president's friends, means hope. There is warrant for the statement that Witte personally sympathizes with the president's proposition, no matter how it may be regarded by his master and the latter's advisors. The spirit of all the advices received from Russia has been such as almost to preclude hope of an eleventh hour change.

The general belief here is that President Roosevelt, while he has the moral support of one of the neutral powers, has not received the active aid he expected. England's declination to offer advice to Japan is disappointing, though the motives that actuate her in refusing to do anything that might be construed as an attempt exercise pressure upon her ally tending to rob her of the fruits of her victory are fully appreciated. There are evidences here that co-operation by Great Britain would have had been resented by Japan.

Among the Japanese no note of hope is sounded. With genuine reluctance they seem almost resigned to the shipwreck of the conference. They declare that their position is unchanged and they speak of renewing the war with a snap of their black eyes which speaks volumes for their confidence in the success of Oyama when the word is given to advance.

"We have fought for a lasting peace," said one of the attaches closest to the chiefs. "We have been victorious. If Russia came to Portsmouth unprepared to pay the price of defeat all is over. We do not believe the president considers the terms unreasonable. He knows Japan's position as accurately as does either of the Japanese plenipotentiaries. We do not believe he will even ask us to weaken at the last moment and yield, even to save the negotiations. Heartily as the whole world desires peace, Japan believes the neutral powers would prefer that war should continue for a year or even two years longer than that Japan, for the sake of immediate peace, should make concessions now and be forced perhaps a decade hence to reopen hostilities."

The plenipotentiaries and the members of their suites apparently had little to do yesterday. Those of the latter who were not engaged in completing the final drafts of the protocols joined in the festivities of the summer resort. But when the subject of the negotiations was mentioned their answers were almost invariably pessimistic and some of them openly predicted the end would come today.

Powerful Pressure For Peace

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 22.—President Roosevelt has not abandoned hope of a successful issue of the Washington peace conference. He has not relaxed, either, his efforts to prevent a rupture between the conferees when they reconvene at Portsmouth. Baron Kaneko, a confidential representative in this country of the Japanese government, arrived in Oyster Bay quite unexpectedly yesterday. That he was the bearer of important information is known, but the nature of his messages is not disclosed. The statement that powerful pressure not alone from President Roosevelt, but from neutral powers of Europe, is being brought to bear upon the governments of Russia and Japan to insure a successful issue of the conference at Portsmouth, can be reiterated. The nature of that influence cannot be ascertained.

Where Russia Cannot Yield

St. Petersburg, Aug. 22.—While it is impossible to learn the actual contents of the government's communications to Mr. Witte, it can be declared that the requirements of the state make concessions on the questions of indemnity and Sakhalin, as these questions were originally presented by the Japanese, impossible.

Reliance on Roosevelt

London, Aug. 22.—The morning newspapers are not hopeful of the result of today's peace conference at Portsmouth and rather place reliance on President Roosevelt's efforts to secure the prolongation of negotiations than on any disposition of either side to concede toward securing a peaceful settlement.

Seized Vessel Had Big Cargo

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—Steamer Australia, reported by cable from Tokio to have been seized by the Japanese at Petropavlovsk harbor, was chartered by Roth, Blum & Co. of this city. On May 24 last she sailed from here, carrying an assorted cargo of merchandise valued at $83,841, destined for various ports of Asiatic Russia.

Infernal Machine For Police Captain

New York, Aug. 22.—Gun cotton enough to kill a man, arranged in an infernal machine and disguised as a gift cigar box, was received by Precinct Police Captain O'Reilly. This is the third deadly explosive instrument of similar construction sent through New York mails in the last four days, the other two being received by Jacob H. Schiff, the banker, and M. Guggenheim's Sons. If the box had been opened quickly it would have caused the death of O'Reilly.

A Descent on Agitators

St. Petersburg, Aug. 22.—The police have at last applied a check to the activity of the central bureau of the central league and confederation of professional reform organizations by descending on a meeting of the central committee and arresting 10 of the leaders present. In this committee are university lecturers, doctors, engineers, lawyers and other professional men. The government feared the league was about to inaugurate a campaign against the douma.

Affects Rights of Autoists

New York, Aug. 22.—The appellate division of the New York state supreme court has handed down a decision placing on the chauffeur the responsibility of an accident in which a person may be injured while an automobile is turning a corner. The lower court recently took a different view of the matter and threw out suits brought by persons injured under such circumstances.

Quakes In Three States

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 22.—Owensboro and Henderson, Ky., and Evansville, Ind., were shaken by an earthquake at 11:05 o'clock last night. Citizens of Owensboro were greatly frightened.

Cairo, Ills., Aug. 22.—An earthquake occurred at 11:06 o'clock last night. It lasted about one minute and shook the strongest buildings in Cairo.

Theatres Disregarded Law

New York, Aug. 22.—Corse Payton's Lee Avenue theatre and the Unique theatre, both in Brooklyn, have been closed because there are no skylights over the flies of the stage as required by the regulation of the health department. No performance can be given until the skylights are provided.

Steamer Lowers a Record

Honolulu, Aug. 22.—Steamer Siberia, from San Francisco, has broken the record between the two ports. The Siberia's time was 4 days, 19 hours and 20 minutes, three hours less than that of the Korea, which had the best previous record.

Prepared to Investigate Claims

San Domingo, Aug. 22.—Cruiser Galveston has arrived here. Dr. Hollander, representative of President Roosevelt, who will investigate the claims against the government of Santo Domingo, was a passenger on the Galveston.

Houses Overturned by Tornado

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 22.—A tornado struck Roosevelt, Ariz., and almost every house in the town was overturned, but only one person was injured. The town is situated in a gorge.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Wednesday, Aug. 23.

AN ADROIT DIPLOMAT.

Baron Rosen Has Scored Many Notable Achievements.

It is an interesting coincidence that when Baron Rosen, then Russian minister to Japan, left Tokyo on the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese war it was Baron Komura who, as minister of foreign affairs, handed him his passports. Now the two men are engaged in deliberations over the ending of the struggle then just beginning.

Baron Roman Romanovitch Rosen, state councilor, chamberlain of the imperial court and a knight of the orders of St. Vladimir, St. Ann and St. Stanislaus, comes of an ancient baronial family. His ancestors lived in the land of the vikings, and his immediate branch of the family followed the conquering banners of Gustavus Adolphus in the invasion of Muscovy 300 years ago. They settled in Lithuania, where the family estates are. He is about fifty-seven years of age and has served his country as a diplomat in many posts. It was while he was managing the cession of Sakhalin to Russia as a young man that in cultivating the acquaintance of the Japanese officials he ordered for the pretty wife of one of them a complete European costume from Paris. Realizing that the little lady would not know how to don the garments, he gave instructions that they should be packed in the order they were to be put on. In some way these instructions were reversed, so that when his fair friend first appeared in diplomatic society she caused somewhat of a sensation.

GOVERNOR A GOOD SHOT.

Record In Politics and Marksmanship of Louisiana Executive.

Governor Newton Crain Blanchard of Louisiana, whose name has figured much in the New Orleans dispatches since the outbreak of yellow fever, was chosen to his present post in 1904, but he has been a long time in the public eye and is regarded as one of the leading statesmen of the south. He was a member of congress from a Louisiana district from 1880 to 1893, which at the time was the longest service of any congressman elected from Louisiana since the civil war. From 1893 to 1897 he was a member of the United States senate and during the years intervening between the latter year and his election as governor was a justice of the state supreme court. Governor Blanchard was born in 1849 in Rapides parish and passed his early life on a cotton plantation. He graduated from the Louisiana State university and obtained his legal diploma from Tulane university. In 1873 he married Miss Mary Barrett.

GOVERNOR NEWTON C. BLANCHARD.

When Governor Blanchard was at Washington he held the title of champion shot of the District of Columbia. His reputation as a shot came from his habit of trying his skill in shooting galleries in Washington. As a boy he hunted for small game in the woods of Louisiana and became very fond of the sport. Once while on a trip with a party of congressmen the statesman tried shooting at pipes suspended from the ceiling of a rifle range. Each was to have six shots. Mr. Blanchard had hit five pipes, and when he hit the sixth it rebounded and struck another and brought that down also. It was this record that brought him the championship.

Mistakes Attract Attention.

The average person takes pleasure in calling attention to errors in spelling or grammar in signs. The mistakes furnish them a temptation to display their knowledge that is hard to resist. "Every now and then," said a local haberdasher, "I fix up a window sign with a misspelled word or an error in grammar in it. Dozens of people drop in to tell me where it's wrong. Of course I act surprised and thank them. Then the chances are I sell them something." At a Kansas City theater there used to be an advertising curtain which bore the word "versus" spelled "verses." The word attracted more comment than many of the acts did. It made people talk about the theater, and in the theatrical business to get the public to talking about things is the first step toward money making. So many people began to bother the house manager about the misspelled word, however, that he finally had to have it changed.—Kansas City Times.

"Weak Hearts."

It is a harmful thing for any one to coddle his heart when there is no disease, and I think we (the medical profession) are far too instrumental in aiding and abetting this. We do far more good by pronouncing people sound, even if out of health, and thus sending them forth with renewed hope, than by keeping them in the chains of uncertainty and nervous dread, than which nothing can be more crushing to the utility of a life or more harmful to the chance of regaining health.

I know of no symptoms of a "weak heart." Yet the use of the term leads either to a state of nervous dread from which recovery is most difficult or else to a life of luxurious idleness, which, by the enervation it causes, is likely sooner or later to be precedent to the end it would seek to avoid.—Dr. James Goodheart of London.

The Crucifix In the Banana.

The increasing popularity of the banana in this country recalls a curious reference to the fruit to be found in an old volume entitled "The Glasse of Time In the First Age," divinely handled by Thomas Peyton (1620). In the eighty-first stanza occurs the following:

A cucumber much like it is in shew,
Of pleasing taste and sweet delightful hue;
If with a knife the fruit in two you reave,
A perfect cross you shall therein perceive.

In the Canary islands and in Brazil it was regarded as an affront to the Saviour to cut the banana with a knife, as it revealed the crucifix. But in order to see this clearly it is necessary to cut the fruit when it first commences to ripen or, if ripe, immediately after it is taken from the plant.—London Standard.

Rats.

A plan that will sometimes destroy a large number of rats is to fill a barrel partly full of water and cover it with an inch or so of meal. A hole is bored in the barrel a little above the meal, and the rats enter, sink through the meal and find a watery grave. In catching rats in steel traps great care is required to deceive the rodents. Traps need to be well covered and everything done to avoid raising the suspicions of the "varmints." Often when rats refuse to eat poisoned bread and butter they may be baited with poisoned crackers, cheese or meat. Rats are shy and gamy creatures, but it is possible to "make game of them."

He Knew Too Much.

A curious Malayan legend says that in olden times the waters surrounding Singapore were so infested with swordfish as to make it impossible for the fishermen to pursue their daily task. A boy advised the rajah to let down into the water freshly peeled stems of the banana plant, and, this being done, the fish imbedded their swords in the stems and were easily killed. The boy genius was considered a danger to the throne, and he was executed lest he grow up and become a conspirator.

Whistler's Idea of Hands.

Whistler, the artist, said: "I always use Irish models for hands, with their long, slender fingers and delightful articulations, the most beautiful hands in the world. I think Irish eyes are also the most beautiful. American girls' hands come next. English girls have red, coarse hands; the German girl has broad, flat hands, and the Spanish hand is full of big veins."

To Break It Gently.

Mike had been appointed a committee of one to break the sad news to the widow.

"Here," said Pat, "where are yez goin'?"

"To the tilegrapht office. I'll sind her a dispatch, and whin she gets it she'll faint and the turrable shock'll be painless."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Love.

"What is love?" asked the sweet girl, who was looking for a chance to leap.

"Love," replied the old bachelor, "is a kind of insanity that makes a man call a 200 pound female his little turtledove."

The American Woman's Home.

Hundreds of thousands of American women are born, live their lives and die in boarding houses or hotels without ever finding time to create a home for themselves or without even feeling a desire to do so.—House Beautiful.

A Sign of Economy.

The Old Man—H'm! Is he a saving and economical young man? The Sweet Young Thing—Indeed he is, papa. Why, he trims his cuffs!

Without earnestness there is nothing to be done in life.—Goethe.

WHY WASTE MONEY?

Much Money Wasted on Skeleton Recipes.

A skeleton recipe, that is to say, one giving only the ingredients, causes a great many inexperienced housekeepers to lose money by wasting valuable cooking material. Avoid the waste by getting your cooking recipes from the Household Department of the Boston Daily Globe. Globe recipes are written by women who will explain just how to put the ingredients together.

HEALTHY PLANTS

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth.

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart.

You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co. Detroit, Mich.

What It Costs
... AND ...
What It Pays

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchan has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in a cheaper paper?

CLOSING OF VALVE

Primary Cause of Disaster on Gunboat Bennington

BOILERS NOT DEFECTIVE

Fireman's Error Caused Steam Gauge to Fail to Register When There Was Excessive Steam Pressure--Court Martial Recommended In Case of Ensign

Washington, Aug. 22.—Secretary Bonaparte has received and made public the proceedings and findings of the court of inquiry, which investigated the explosion on the gunboat Bennington at San Diego, Cal., on July 21. The findings were a complete surprise, for they at once set at rest the stories which had circulated to the effect that the Bennington's boilers and perhaps those of other naval vessels of the same age were defective. As a matter of fact the court found the explosion resulted from the closing of a valve which connected the exploded boiler with its steam gauge, so that the pressure on that boiler may have been several hundred pounds to the square inch when the accident occurred.

While praise was accorded to the officers and ship's company for their conduct during the harrowing scenes following the accident, the officer and men who were responsible, in the opinion of the court, are pointed out, and court martial proceedings suggested in the case of the only one of them surviving, Ensign Charles T. Wade.

The court consisted of Commodore Stevenson, retired, and Captains Moore and Phelps. The finding recites the arrival of the Bennington at San Diego and says:

"About 9:20 on July 21, after both boilers had been filled and the furnaces started, it was observed that the steam gauge on boiler B showed about five pounds of steam pressure, and at this time Oiler Decourtani, acting as water tender, directed D. N. Holland, fireman, to close the air cock on boiler B; that Holland climbed up and closed a valve and almost immediately the steam gauge on boiler B failed to register any pressure; that this was apparently not noticed by either the water tender or the fireman and no attention appears to have been paid to the fact that the steam gauge failed to register, but they kept on working the fires and firing heavily; that when the steam gauge on boiler A showed 135 pounds there was no pressure showing on the steam gauge of boiler B."

The finding then goes on to state that about 10:30 o'clock a small leak was found in boiler B. A request had been sent to the boiler maker to come and attend to the leak when the explosion occurred. All that happened after the explosion is described at considerable length. The opinion of the court follows:

The court is of opinion that the explosion was caused by excessive pressure in boiler B, which came about first, by shutting the valve connecting the boiler with the steam gauge instead of the valve on the air cock alone, as was intended, so that the steam gauge did not indicate the pressure in the boiler; second, by unusual and heavy firing in the boiler to get up a pressure which the gauge failed to show; third, by the failure of the sentinel and safety valves to lift at the pressure for which they were set, and the pressure increased without relief until it was beyond the strength of the boiler, which gave way in its weakest part, afterwards found to be the corrugated flue of No. 2, the lowest or middle furnace, which collapsed.

The court is also of opinion that D. Holland, fireman, second class, who was the fireman on duty firing boiler B at and before the time of the explosion, by mistake shut off the steam valve connecting boiler B with its steam gauge instead of the air cock as directed, thus preventing the gauge from recording the steam pressure on its boiler; that Frank D. Courtenai, oiler, acting water tender, on watch in charge of this boiler from about 9:15 a. m. until the time of the explosion, failed to observe that this steam gauge was not recording and continued pushing the fires on this boiler, and further, when leaks developed from excessive pressure, failed to relieve this pressure, which should have been done at once; that E. B. Ferguson, chief machinist's mate, on watch in charge of the engine and fire rooms, failed to inspect boiler B under his charge while steam was being raised, and failed to cause this steam gauge to be connected with the boiler. The said D. N. Holland, Courtenai and Ferguson are all now dead and therefore no further proceedings can be taken against them.

The court is of the opinion that further proceedings should be had in the case of Ensign Charles T. Wade, who was in charge of the engineering department of the Bennington at the time of the explosion and since Oct. 22, 1904, in that he failed in his own person to see that the safety valves on boiler B was overhauled at the proper time and kept in good working order, but accepted the verbal statement of his subordinate or subordinates that it had been overhauled in March, 1905; and further, that Wade failed to keep the sentinel valves on the boilers in good working order and failed to cause the safety and sentinel valves on all the boilers to be tested, in accordance with naval regulations, in all of which he was negligent in the performance of his duty, and the court recommends that Wade be brought to trial before a general court martial.

AN AGED SINNER

Former Solon Has Had Much Experience With Prison Life

Boston, Aug. 22.—J. D. Standish, aged 72, a former member of the Pennsylvania legislature, was sentenced by Judge De Courcey to serve not more than six, nor less than three years, in the state prison for uttering forged checks.

Standish made his appearance here in 1901. He was arrested by Boston officers on Aug. 7 of this year as he was leaving the Trenton (N. J.) jail, where he had been confined. He was charged with forging checks here four years ago. According to police information, Standish was born in Pennsylvania, had been a schoolmaster and a friend of the late Senator Quay.

In 1888 he was arrested in Fargo, N. D., on the charge of swindling in Canada, was taken to Manitoba and sentenced to 10 years in prison. It is alleged that Standish, through false testimony, was convicted of a crime committed by Charles A. Chandler of this city, who had embezzled some $50,000 from Masonic benefit orders in Canada. After serving four years, Standish escaped, was recaptured in Detroit and sent back to prison. Meanwhile the real Chandler died at St. Albans, Vt., and Standish was pardoned by Premier Laurier of Canada.

On April 30, 1903, Standish was arrested in Newark, N. J., for forging checks and given 2½ years in prison.

Wife Murder and Suicide

Brockton, Mass., Aug. 22.—Two letters written by James W. Crawford, a shoemaker, saying that he intended to murder his wife and then kill himself, were received too late to prevent a tragedy, for before a Brockton physician and an Auburndale relative could arrive at the Crawford home the shoemaker had fulfilled his threat. With a razor and a butcher knife he almost severed his wife's head from the body. He then committed suicide by cutting his own throat with a razor. The murderer, who was 53 years of age, left a note, claiming full responsibility for the crime and declaring that the crime was due to jealousy.

Schooner and Mate Lost

Chatham, Mass., Aug. 22.—The coal-laden schooner M. C. Haskell, New York for Rockland, Me., is a total wreck on Handkerchief shoal, and her mate, Nielson C. Paulsen, was drowned. Captain Wingfield and the other members of the crew came ashore in their own boats. The vessel ran aground on the shoal at low tide, and when the tide turned she rolled over and sank. A thick haze which obscured the lights on the shoal was the cause of the disaster.

State Police Investigating

Medford, Mass., Aug. 22.—State police officers are engaged in making an investigation of the four incendiary fires which occurred within an hour here Saturday night and which caused a total loss of nearly $50,000. The fires resulted in the total destruction of the First Methodist Episcopal church, the partial destruction of a boathouse, the burning of sheds on Foster wharf and the destruction of a shed belonging to the New England Brick company.

Funeral Instead of Wedding

Manchester, Vt., Aug. 22.—A double funeral was held here for Harris Lindsley, deputy police commissioner of New York city, and his fiance, Miss Evelyn P. Willing of Chicago, who were victims of an automobile accident at Bennington a week ago. Lindsley and Miss Willing were to have been married this week. The services were held at the Congregational church and the bodies were buried side by side in Bellwood cemetery.

Accidental Discharge of Explosives

Boston, Aug. 22.—While some old ordnance shells were being destroyed at Mystic wharf, one of the shells exploded, injuring William W. Stewart and Michael Curley. Stewart sustained compound fractures of both legs, while both men were seriously burned. Sergeant Arnold of the coast artillery at Fort Strong had two fingers of his right hand blown off by the explosion of an old mine at the wharf on Castle Island.

Schoolteacher Kills Herself

New Fairfield, Conn., Aug. 22.—Miss Norry Tracy, a former school teacher here, killed herself by shooting in the presence of the family of George Olivett, with whom she was visiting. She was 27 years old. Mental depression is thought to have led to the act.

Rodents Caused $8000 Fire

Brookfield, Mass., Aug. 22.—Fire partially destroyed the parochial residence of St. Mary's Catholic church here last night, causing a loss of $8000. Rats in a storage room are said to have caused the fire. Nothing in the house was saved.

Population of Lowell

Boston, Aug. 22.—The bureau of statistics of labor announces that the population of the city of Lowell, according to the census just taken, is 94,845. This is a gain of 10,478 over the state census in 1895.

Virginia Democrats Voting

Richmond, Aug. 22.—A Democratic primary is being held throughout the state today for the choice of candidates for the United States senate to succeed Senator Martin, for the governorship and other offices. The nominations will be equivalent to election. Governor Montague is opposing Martin, who seeks re-election.

Employment For the Starving

Madrid, Aug. 22.—The cabinet has approved a scheme to push ahead public works in order to give employment to many of the famine-stricken and relieve the distress in Andalusia.

Italian Tribute to Our Sailors

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 22.—Tribute to the memory of the victims of the boiler explosion on the gunboat Bennington was given by the officers and the men of the Italian cruiser Umbria. Several officers and 50 sailors went to the military cemetery on Point Loma, where they placed upon the mound, under which lie nearly 50 bodies of the Bennington's sailors, a floral wreath five feet long by four feet wide, tied with ribbons of heavy silk on which in letters of gold were the words "Royal Italian Navy S. S. Umbria, to the victims of the U. S. S. Bennington."

Standard Oil's Latest Acquisition

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—The Post says: The actual transfer of the San Francisco Gas and Electric company to the Rockefeller interests has taken place. The work of absorbing the San Francisco Coke and Gas company will now be undertaken, it is said, by the Rockefeller interests. When both of these companies have been taken over the gas companies of San Francisco will then be in control of the Standard Oil company.

Fraternity and Good Will

New York, Aug. 22.—On the occasion of the visit of the second cruiser squadron of the British fleet to New York in October 1200 American sailors will entertain a like number of their British brethren. Arrangements are now making for a great banquet, smoker and theatre party which shall repay Prince Louis of Battenberg's men for all the entertainment they have showered upon the Americans in times past.

Leaves Army In Disgrace

Washington, Aug. 22.—The president has approved the sentence of dismissal in the case of Second Lieutenant Ebert G. English, Fifth cavalry, who was court martialled on charges involving the obtaining of money under misrepresentations, of duplication of pay accounts and making false certificates relative thereto, etc.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Mrs. Frances Jermain, 76 years old, for 24 years librarian of Toledo's public library, died of heart failure. She resigned her position in the library two years ago.

In a feud fight in Powell county, Ky., Campbell Anderson was killed and Tom and Cale Morton, brothers, were seriously wounded.

The new Dominican college of the Immaculate Conception at Brookland, a suburb of Washington, was dedicated with appropriate ceremony.

Major General Wood has arrived at Washington. He will shortly leave for the Philippines.

A Judge and a Pistol.

A correspondent of Law Notes writes of the administration of justice in a certain insular possession of the United States when the island was under Spanish rule. Judge Z. had had a quarrel with an editor. The judge arranged with a hoodlum to insult the editor in order to provoke him to a breach of peace. A policeman to arrest the editor was a part of the "plant." The plot was carried out, but the editor kept his temper. The officer arrested him, none the less. He was haled before Judge Z., who found there was no case. The judge took from a drawer of his desk a revolver, silver plated and beautifully inlaid with gold and mother of pearl, showed it to the prisoner and informed him that the policeman had delivered the weapon to him as one taken from the person of the defendant and asked him what he had to say to the charge of carrying arms. The editor examined the weapon, put it in his pocket, admitted that he had had it in his possession, produced a permit from the Spanish authorities to carry arms and, with true Castilian politeness, bowed himself out and off with the judge's beautiful pistol.

Gifts at Baptisms.

Gifts to infants at their baptism are of ancient origin. Formerly the sponsors generally offered gilt spoons to the child. These spoons were called apostle spoons because the figures of the twelve apostles were carved at the top of the handles. Rich sponsors gave the complete set of twelve, while for those who were not so opulent four was considered the proper number, and poor sponsors would content themselves with offering one. In the latter case the handle of the spoon generally exhibited the figure of any saint in honor of whom the child received its name. It is in allusion to this custom that when Cranmer professed to be unworthy of being sponsor to the young princess Shakespeare makes the king reply:

Come, come, my lord;
You'd spare your spoons.

The mug or spoon and fork offering of the present day appears as a very debased survival of a really beautiful christening offering.

Origin of Dog Days.

According to the generally accepted doctrine the dog days begin on July 3 and end on Aug. 11, but there have been disputes as to every possible point about them. It was universally agreed that they were connected with the dog star, but which one? The real dog star, Sirius, or Procyon, the Little Dog? Then there were disagreements as to the particular astronomical performance of the star that fixed the dog days; as to their number, which varied in different estimates between thirty and fifty-four, and whether they were to be reckoned before, after or around the star's performances. The forty settled on precede the rising of Sirius with the sun. A belief grew up that in these days dogs went mad, but terrestrial dogs have really nothing to do with it. The original belief was that the star and sun together brought intense heat and all sorts of plagues.—London Chronicle.

Cloth Dyed With Cobalt.

Cloth changes color with a change of weather if it is dyed with chloride of cobalt. In clear weather it is a blue, when a change is near it turns to violet and for rain to bright pink. The change is due to moisture, and it can be produced by breathing upon the cloth. This property of cobalt salts has been applied to the construction of floral hygrometers. The petals of artificial flowers are tinted with cobalt salts and vary in color from blue to pink according to the weather. Their action is different from that of a barometer, which indicates a change of pressure of the atmosphere and is also usually behind the change of weather. The barometer indicates the cause of the storm, and the colored cloth shows its effect.

Clean Spectacles.

Oculists will agree that many persons who wear spectacles, although the lenses may be perfectly adapted to the needs of the eye, suffer much inconvenience and possibly ultimate damage simply through not keeping their glasses clean. Students and writers, lawyers and clergymen, business men and school children who use glasses rarely keep them clean, and from their cloudy and grimy state serious injury results to the eyesight. The glasses should be frequently cleaned with alcohol, which is preferable to water, and either tissue paper or chamois leather is better than the usual handkerchief.

First Use of "Magazine."

"Magazine," properly a storehouse (Arabian), has been annexed by literature, but it is interesting to assist at the birth of its now common literary use—in that venerable periodical, the Gentleman's Magazine. In the introduction to its number (1731) we read, "This consideration has induced several gentlemen to treasure up, as in a magazine, the most remarkable pieces on the subjects above mentioned."—London Times.

Mean Thing.

"No," said Miss Passay, "I don't like the photos Kamrer made for me. They make me look like a woman of forty."

"Well," replied Miss Peprrey, "you should have told him not to touch them up if you didn't want them to look so youthful."—Philadelphia Press.

A Hard Cut.

Mr. Jawback—Why are you not wearing your wedding ring? Mrs. Jawback—I wore it out doing housework!—Cleveland Leader.

An old Chinese proverb says, "Be very appreciative, and the people you admire will spit in your face."

—While you are so comfortable these hot day in your pleasant country homes, does your mind travel into the crowded homes of the poor children of the city, and have you given such assistance as you can to those organizations which are doing all they can to provide a few days of pleasure amid green fields for those not so fortunate as you and yours? A few pennies placed in the hands of those who are engaged in work of providing homes for a week or so for children and invalids from the city, will bring down blessings upon the donor and appreciation from the receiver.—Athol Chronicle.

THE PARKWAY

Nine Contractors Put in Their Bids

To Build Quincy Bay Reservation.

Will Later be Extended to Blue Hills Reservation.

The Metropolitan park commission received several bids Monday, says the Boston Advertiser, for the proposed improvement of the Quincy shore between Squantum Head and the National Sailors' home.

The necessary land was appropriated by the commission some time ago, although but slight improvements have been made there since.

A section of parkway, leading in from the main highway, Hancock street, to the northerly end of the taking is the extent of their efforts in this direction.

This portion of the park commission's tract is to be known as the "Quincy shore reservation.

It is a strip of land skirting Quincy bay and of sufficient width for a boulevard along the crest, with a gradual slope towards the water.

The road will be completed by inserting filling and adding a surface dressing which will make it correspond to the other park drives.

The nature of the location is such that the work of construction will be quite easy.

The reservation can be best reached from Boston by the new parkway, now partially graded, which leaves Hancock street a little north of the Atlantic station and extends over the low ground to the base of Squantum Head.

The parkway will cross the railroad tracks near Hancock street, where a bridge will be built.

From the southerly end of the new reservation Wollaston avenue will afford a direct connection with Merrymount park at Quincy and all town roads southward.

The road along the shore, for which the bids are now in, will be 1 1-2 miles long and will necessitate 170,000 cu. yds. of filling and 2500 cu. yds. of grading.

Bids were received from 9 contractors, but none has as yet been determined on.

BARON KANEKO'S BOY.

Little Son of One of Japan's Statesmen Wants Harvard Degree.

An incident in the life of Baron Kentaro Kaneko, former member of the mikado's cabinet, who is now in the United States, gives an intimate insight into the relation between Japan and the United States, says World's Work.

The baron is a graduate of Harvard university. After he had become one of his country's most distinguished statesmen the university conferred the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon him. President Eliot gave a dinner in honor of the baron, after which he said to him:

"Harvard university has conferred on you its highest honor. We can do no more, but I understand there is a son in your family. We claim him as a future recipient of the degree we conferred upon you. I trust he will come to us and be a worthy successor of his father."

"He will come," replied the baron.

The baron returned to Japan and told the Baroness Kaneko about the incident. She told the little boy that he was to go to Harvard and receive the degree, and the fact made a great impression on the child. Whenever he was naughty the mother said:

"If you are not good you will not receive the Harvard degree." He always became good.

Events moved swiftly in the far east. The war with Russia came. Baron Kaneko, who had an important part in national affairs, prepared to go to the United States. A week before he started this conversation occurred:

"When do you start?" asked the Baroness Kaneko.

"In a week," replied the baron.

Just then the little boy interposed:

"Where are you going, papa?"

"To the United States," he said.

"Then I must go with you and get that Harvard degree!" exclaimed the child.

The boy is now a student at the Noble's school in Tokyo. Upon his graduation he will go to Harvard.

Ayer's Hair Vigor. To be sure, gray hair is better than no hair. But why have it gray, and thus tell everybody you are getting old? Keep it dark and rich; make it long and heavy. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Day Dreaming.

It is much easier to fancy what we should like to have, what position we should like to fill and how we should act if different circumstances surrounded us than it is to put forth the efforts and self denial necessary to make such attainments. A proportion of life is consumed in this manner. This habit is justly called day dreaming, for as in sleep the brain, deprived of the power of will to direct it, weaves cobwebs that the first breath of consciousness dispels, so in this listless condition the mind, uncontrolled and unguided, brings forth specious fallacies that reason, when fully aroused, will utterly dissipate. These day dreams are sometimes defended on the ground that if useless they are at least harmless; that if they confer no benefit they inflict no injury. This, however, cannot be the case. Nothing occupies so neutral a position. Uselessness is of itself an injury, but besides this habit of idle reverie produces positive evils. Valuable time is wasted, energy is frittered away, the mind is enfeebled, the activities are discouraged, the present active life is rendered tame and insipid.

Jumping.

Jumping to the ground from a height, jumping from the ground over a height and long jumping may be either harmless or highly injurious, according to the way in which one alights. The human brain cannot stand jars. When it receives them it is injured, although the injury may not be felt for years. Headache, giddiness, sleeplessness, neuralgia and a whole host of other departures from health may be set up by jarring the brain. In jumping the great danger is not to the legs. The part chiefly risked is the head. When the feet touch the ground the shock passes up the limbs and spinal column, the parts above serving as buffers and so preventing the parts below being thrown too greatly in the upward direction. But the head has nothing above it; hence the shock may dislocate the neck or fracture the skull. One should always alight on the toes and with the legs slightly bent. This position greatly helps to prevent jarring.

Named For His Satanic Majesty.

The unfortunate disaster by which a life has been lost on the Welsh mountain known as the Devil's Kitchen has drawn attention, says the Dundee Advertiser, to the curious but seemingly universal practice of past times in naming peculiar natural formations after his Satanic majesty. It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that hardly a county in the British isles is without some place or thing with the designation Devil, all of which prompts the thought that his Satanic majesty must be a holder of a considerable amount of property on this terrestrial globe. The Devil's Punch Bowl, the Devil's Bellows, the Devil's Beef Tub, the Devil's Frying Pan, the Devil's Lake, the Devil's Dike, the Devil's Caldron, are a few instances which occur at random, scattered about in various parts of the country.

Made Red Hair Fashionable.

The French painter who won attention for his red headed girls cannot be classed among the great masters, but he made red hair fashionable and is said to have been responsible for the peroxide blond. Not until Henner introduced his sweetly brown and red women to the art world did pink and white beauty find it was insipid to be fair. Red heads extinguished the blond cendree, and even the dark haired "washed" their locks until they were of the desired Henner colorings and acquired "tones" that were so warm they improved the dullest skin. Henner's pictures may be said to have apotheosized the much derided "carrot head." He saw red and made it "heavenly brown."

The Mustache.

The home of the mustache is in Spain, and here is the history of its origin: After the Moors first invaded the country the Christian and Moslem population became so mixed that it was difficult to say which were Moors and which Spaniards. The Spaniards then hit upon a means by which they could at once distinguish their brethren. They did not shave their lips any longer and they allowed a tuft of hair to grow below their under lips, so that their beards formed the rude outline of a cross. Thus the mustache became a symbol of liberty and fraternity.

Have a Purpose.

Have a purpose in life and stick to it. Be sure you're right, that the purpose is worth your effort, that to win is just the thing, and then stick. Live plain, be honest and work hard. Steady work and plain food will keep a man in the path of rectitude when sermons fail and contribute not a little to his success. The brain cannot do its best work when sprinkled with the ashes of a dissolute, ill directed life. Be sure you're right, then stick.—Dr. Abbott.

Needless.

The good fairy called her assistant and showed her a golden box.

"Take this box," she said, "and lock it carefully in the safe. It contains good advice."

"My mistress," replied the assistant, "why should we lock up good advice? No one will ever take it."—Puck.

The Boy and His Pa.

"I make a chum of my father."

"I could never do that with mine."

"Wouldn't he like it?"

"He might, but ma wouldn't. I'm usually out till after midnight."—Houston Post.

The reason why lovers are never weary of one another is this—they are ever talking of themselves.—Rochefoucauld.

AN ARREST NEAR

Possible Clue to Strangler of Mattie Hackett

SUSPECT IS A WOMAN

She and Her Husband Fail to Satisfy Authorities as to Her Whereabouts on the Evening the Murder Was Committed

Readfield, Me., Aug. 22.—With the arrival at Readfield Corners of Sheriffs Ham and Brown and County Attorney Leigh, four people, one woman and three men, all of whom may yet prove to be important witnesses in connection with the Mattie Hackett murder mystery, were put upon the rack.

Among those examined were Ethelyn Hackett, a sister of the murdered girl; Proprietor Stevens of the local hotel at which Mattie Hackett once worked; Bert Raymond, a hostler employed at the hotel, and his wife, Mrs. Elsie H. Raymond, and his brother, Nathan Raymond. A Mrs. Milliken, also, was questioned by the officers.

Raymond remembers having missed his wife about 8 o'clock last Thursday night, and going in search of her afterwards. Mrs. Raymond insists that she was home all this time sitting out under the trees.

The county officers express the opinion that they have sufficient evidence to warrant the immediate arrest of a woman who has been strongly under suspicion. They base their assertion on what they consider several bits of strong circumstantial evidence. The officers say that footprints of a woman found at the scene of the murder were made by a number six shoe, the size worn by the suspect. Four persons have been found who saw a woman pass along the highway that evening.

What is regarded as the strongest feature of the case, however, is the failure of the woman and her husband to satisfy the authorities as to her whereabouts on the evening in question. The description of the clothing worn by the woman at the time is altogether at variance with the description given by another person in the same house where the suspect resides.

The theory of the state is that the person who is supposed to have committed the murder was afflicted with puerperal insanity and that she had entertained the idea erroneously that her husband paid much attention to Miss Hackett. Owing to the condition of the suspect it has been decided to forego making an arrest until her condition improves.

Discouraging Yellow Fever Report

New Orleans, Aug. 22.—Yellow fever has taken a bound forward in New Orleans and the situation in the state is far from satisfactory. The official figures for New Orleans show a material increase in new cases and in disease centres. Nine persons died yesterday of yellow fever; new cases, 61; total to date, 1446; total deaths to date, 205; new foci, 16; total foci, 322; cases under treatment, 328.

Three Killed In Feud Fight

Harriman, Tenn., Aug. 22.—A feud battle occurred near Alice, in which Frederick Miller and his son, John Miller, and Fred Johnson were killed, and Henry Miller, another son of Frederick Miller, was dangerously wounded. They were fired upon by men from ambush. For more than 20 years a feud war has raged between the Miller and Rawlings families.

Chart Perhaps at Fault

Honolulu, Aug. 22.—The tug Fearless has returned from an unsuccessful attempt to float the American ship Spartan, which went aground off the coast of Maui. Her bottom is badly ripped and she is being pounded to pieces by a northwest gale. Her captain says the charts showed 30 fathoms of water where she struck.

Death of Editor of St Nicholas

New York, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, editor of St. Nicholas magazine, author of stories for children and poet, died in her summer cottage at Tannersville. She had been in ill-health for several months. Mrs. Dodge had been editor of St. Nicholas since its establishment in 1873.

War on Beef Trust

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Chicago hotel men, wholesale butchers and restaurant keepers have formed a combination to fight the "beef trust." Two plants—one costing $150,000 and the other $300,000—are in course of erection, and a third, to cost $500,000, is contemplated.

Crotians Going to Law

Chicago, Aug. 22.—The United States courts have been appealed to for the appointment of a receiver for the National Croatian Society of the United States, a fraternal insurance society. The receivership proceedings are the result of internal disagreements.

Arrest In Stabbing Case

New York, Aug. 22.—Antonio Strollo, a laborer of Lambertville, N. J., was locked up last night on suspicion of knowing something about the murder of Antonio Torsiello, whose body was found in VanCortlandt park on Aug. 18 covered with stab wounds.

Yellow Fever In Missouri

Gregory, Mo., Aug. 22.—Three cases of yellow fever have developed here within the last 24 hours. All the victims are Italians. One of them has died.

EXTRA

A BIG GAIN.

Population of Quincy 28,067.

Increase in Five Years, 4,168.

Increase in Ten Years 7,355, Over 31 Per Cent.

Just after three o'clock this afternoon, the 1905 census of Quincy was announced, the total being 28,067.

This is a gain of 7,355 in ten years or over 31 per cent.

The gain in the last five years has been 4,168.

With one exception it is the largest gain ever made in five years.

The figures at each census have been:

| | Population. | Increase. |
|---|---|---|
| Census 1800 | 1,081 | |
| Census 1810 | 1,281 | 200 |

BIG BATTLESHIPS

Larger Ones Now Planned by the Navy Department.

The Bureau of Construction of the United States Navy, says a Washington dispatch, is figuring on plans, which, if they are carried out, will give to the American Navy two battleships either one of which will be more powerful than any two battleships afloat or projected, while as for other vessels, such as second-class battleships and armored cruisers, either ship, it is thought, could hold its own against half a dozen of them.

So anxious is the Navy Department to make these two battleships—the Michigan and the South Carolina—in every respect superior to any warship yet projected that it is quite probable that it will be necessary to ask Congress to appropriate an extra $1,000,000 for their construction.

As the bill authorizing the battleships passed the last Congress it provided for the construction of two 16,000-ton battleships. This tonnage, it appears, is not sufficient if the heavier battery project is carried through, and it will be necessary for Congress to appropriate money to increase the tonnage to 18,000.

Great Britain, it is pointed out, is building 18,000-ton battleships, and the United States, in order to hold her own on the sea, should possess vessels of equal tonnage.

Fairbanks Family.

OFF FOR THE BEACH.

Wind-Up of Season of the Summer School.

More than half a hundred happy little hearts were gladdened by the brilliant sunshine this morning, after last night's showers.

At half past eight o'clock nearly sixty pupils of the summer school, with half a dozen lady chaperons, left City Square for a day at Nantasket.

It was a basket lunch party. The dainty white, pink and blue gowns of the girls, some of which were fashioned and made by their own fingers, the white shoes and stockings, russet hose and boots, and hair ribbons, all made a pretty picture.

One enthusisatic girl had a tin horn, and the party started for a long, perfect summer day at the beach, a fitting wind-up to some weeks of earnest work.

Started by Oil Stove.

The alarm from Box 136 at 3.01 Tuesday afternoon called the department to a lively blaze in the house of L. Grossman on Water street. The fire started from an oil stove. The damage will not exceed $125. The recall sounded in a few minutes.

Death of Husband and Wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Katon of Cohasset died within twenty-four hours of each other this week, Mrs. Catherine Katon on Monday of heart trouble, aged 60 years, and Mr. Katon, aged 50, shortly after as a result of the shock due to the death of his wife.

HEROIC RESCUE.

Boy Up to His Neck in Salt Marsh.

Released with Great Difficulty.

Noble Deed of Thomas Mattie of Braintree.

Thomas Mattie of Cottage farm on Union street, East Braintree, saved a boy's life on Monday.

While gathering salt hay on the marshes near Quincy woods at Houghs Neck, Mr. Mattie heard a subdued choking sound. Hastening to the spot whence the noise proceeded, he found a boy sunk in the quagmire up to his neck in mud. After an hour's hard work by means of ropes and boards, he succeeded in rescuing the perishing lad.

The rescue was effected just in time, for fifteen minutes after the poor child had been released from his perilous situation the spot was entirely covered with water by the incoming tide.

Edward Madden, about ten years of age, was going to pick huckleberries and crossed the marshes to reach the berry patch more quickly than by keeping to the safe solid ground. When his footing failed him and he began to sink in the mud he wildly cried for help, and for an hour used every exertion possible to free himself from his horrible predicament; only to become weaker and weaker and to sink more and more hopelessly into the engulfing sands. In his struggles his shirt was torn off.

At 9.30 A. M., when Mr. Mattie heard his moans and hurried to the rescue, no time was to be lost. Again and again, the sturdy man attempted to reach the well-nigh exhausted lad. He could gain no footing, at length laying some sticks upon the treacherous quicksands, he carefully approached near enough to get a rope over the boy. There was great danger of hurting the little sufferer. After repeated attempts at last the child was drawn out of the quagmire.

Three quarters of an hour elapsed while every means possible were employed to get the boy out alive. He was very weak. After washing and cleaning the boy, Mr. Mattie covered the little fellow up with his coat and put him in the sun to dry. In three hours he was able to walk to his home.

We congratulate Mr. Mattie that he was successful in his efforts to rescue the young boy from that most perilous position. We trust the Massachusetts Humane Society will have it brought to their notice for we shudder to think what would have been the result had Mr. Mattie failed to achieve the work of rescue, and we are persuaded that his strong arm and quick and ready grasp of the only way to save life averted a fatal disaster.

DINNER TONIGHT.

Quincy Board of Trade Favored with Good Weather.

Evidently the Quincy Board of Trade will profit by postponing their annual excursion until tonight, for it is a perfect day, and just such weather as one would pick out for a visit to the beach.

At 5.50 this evening on the arrival of a special car from East Milton, West and South Quincy, special cars will be taken for Houghs Neck, where the excursionists will embark on the steamer Houghs Neck which has been chartered for the round trip to Nantasket Point.

A shore dinner will be enjoyed at Wade's Hotel. The committee say it will be informal with little or no speech making. Everyone is invited.

The return trip will be by boat to Houghs Neck and special cars to Quincy and East Milton.

FOOT BALL LEAGUE.

Two Quincy Teams Entered for Merrimac Valley Championship.

The schedule of the Merrimac Valley league, association football, will open with eight clubs on Saturday, Sept. 9. Quincy has two teams entered, the Quincys and the Fore Rivers, and two matches will be played in this city, Sept. 9 and 16. The Lawrence is a new team, replacing the Lowells.

Teams from Billerica and Everett applied for admission in the league but were refused.

The first prize will be a challenge cup and twelve gold medals. The second prize twelve silver medals with gold centre.

The opening games of the schedule are:

SATURDAY, SEPT. 9.
Methuens vs. Fore Rivers at Quincy
Lawrence vs. Quincys at Quincy
Lynn vs. Merrimacs at Lawrence
Boston Rovers vs. Andovers at Andover

SATURDAY, SEPT. 16.
Lynn vs. Methuen at Methuen
Boston Rovers vs. Quincys at Quincy
Andover vs. Lawrence at Lawrence
Merrimac vs. Fore Rivers at Quincy

Other games in the Quincy club schedule are:

Sept. 23, Methuen at Methuen
Sept. 30, Andover at Quincy
Oct. 7, Lynn at Lynn
Oct. 14, Fore River at Quincy
Oct. 21, Merrimac at Quincy
Oct. 28, Lawrence at Lawrence
Nov. 4, Boston Rovers at Boston
Nov. 11, Methuen at Quincy
Nov. 18, Andover at Andover
Nov. 25, Lynn at Quincy
Dec. 2, Fore River at Quincy
Dec. 9, Merrimac at Lawrence.

Chicken Thieves.

As two lone newspaper scribes were slowly wending their way homeward through Miller Stile road in the vicinity of midnight, Tuesday, their keen eyes espied a lantern light in Dr. Everett's chicken coop. That chicken thieves were about, to them, there was no doubt.

In a few moments the Police had been notified and Officer Matthews was sent down to investigate. He found that two chicks had lost their lives by having their necks wrung. The presence of the two scribes or the awakening of the keeper, who sleeps in the barn, had evidently frightened the thieves away.

One of the scribes is morally certain that he saw one of the thieves run away on his approach.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ We are degenerating as a nation, because we are a generation of starch eaters. Starch contains no proteid element, makes good fat, but feeds no brain substance, nourishes no nerve tissue. To live on it is to be a human counterpart of a skimmed milk calf—a weazened-faced, flabby-fleshed eurotic, with neither stamina nor self-reliance. The outcome of the Russo-Japanese war hinges not on a dynasty, but on diet. And if the Anglo-Saxon race goes on for another century living on starch foods it will end in gradual extinction, as did the North American Indian.—Prof. Herbert W. Hart.

☞ Whatever claims the Commonwealth may have against the United States will in the future be collected in the regular way by the Law Department of the State. The Cotton claim will be the last one which Massachusetts will allow. If the Attorney General's office cannot collect it, it will have to go by until the national government is ready to do the right thing. There has been quite enough graft on the claims thus far collected, and, thanks to Attorney General Parker, there will be no more of it. He was not able to stop the Cotton business, but he has fixed it so that no imitator can duplicate the grab. —Lynn Item.

☞ Springfield is just now stirred up over an attempt to make a sidewalk lounger move on, and the Springfield News calls for strict enforcement of the ordinance against sidewalk mashers. Like many another law the enforcement ought to be with common sense and judgment on the part of the officer, who can make such an ordinance useful and wise or who can make it foolish and a nuisance. Indiscriminate orders to keep moving are not desirable nor necessary for good order and safety on the streets, but the loungers and loafers ought to be moved. One of the local policemen finds a good solution of the problem in making those who have occasion to stand on the sidewalks face the street from the curbing, in which position ordinary conversation can be carried on quite as easily and there is no danger of insulting looks or remarks to women who pass. His quiet "turn around" is quite as effective as a "move along" and the sidewalks along his beat are notably free from annoyances of the "masher" variety.—Haverhill Gazette.

FIALA IN ENGLAND

Relates Experience In Trying to Reach the Pole

MADE DANGEROUS TRIPS

Greatly Handicapped by Loss of Ship and Poverty In Dogs--Scientific Work Accomplished Under Great Difficulties

Hull, Eng., Aug. 23.—Anthony Fiala of Brooklyn, leader of the Ziegler polar expedition, the members of which were rescued by the relief ship Terra Nova under the command of William S. Champ, secretary of the late William Ziegler, has arrived here on his way to the United States. Mr. Fiala said:

"This has been another in the long list of failures to reach the pole, unless the three determined attempts made to reach high latitude should be considered as not having proved altogether futile; but, although the great question of the pole remains unsolved, we have brought back data which should prove of scientific value and have explored and surveyed the archipelago from Crown Prince Rudolph Land to Cape Flora, discovering four new channels and three large islands.

"Failing to find an opening in the ice in long. 38:57 E, lat. 79:57 N, we determined to force a way through at the 48th parallel. Here we were imprisoned for four days, finally getting through with the use of gun cotton. At the end of August, 1903, we reached Teplitz bay, the most northern harbor of Franz Josef Land, where a base and camp were established.

"The America had a narrow escape on Oct. 22, 1903, when she broke adrift, finally, however, being brought back to her anchorage, where she was crushed just about a month later. A shelter was built on shore and the members of the expedition were kept busy during the winter preparing for the spring sledge journey and in scientific work, which was retarded by severe storms.

"The first sledge party left March 7, 1904, but was compelled to return owing to injuries received by several of the men after reaching Cape Fildgely. A second attempt, made on March 25, likewise resulted in failure, the sledges being smashed when but a short distance from land. Leaving a small party at the base, I returned to Cape Flora, the trip occupying 16 days.

"Relief failing to arrive, in September, 1904, I, accompanied by W. J. Peters (of the United States geological survey) and a small sledge party, started back to the base, which was reached Nov. 22, 1904, after a most eventual and dangerous trip, rough ice having to be crossed in dense darkness and the men and dogs falling into holes and crevices and running against walls of ice. Crossing Hooker Island, two of the men fell into a crevice for a distance of 65 feet and were wedged between walls of ice. Their rescue was attended with the greatest difficulty, one being so badly injured that he had to be lashed to a sledge.

"With the exception of a Norwegian fireman, who had died, we found all the party at the base in good health and preparations were again begun for another sledge trip to the northward. The weather delayed the party until March 16, 1905. On this day the party left the base, which we renamed Cape Abruzzi, for the ice pack to the north. Crossing a glacier east of Cape Rath, we forced a way to the northward, but our progress was slow, the ice being rough and the men having first to cut a way and then to assist the teams over the rough road. High temperature and fogs also helped delay our progress. For two days and three nights we were in a temperature of 34 degrees above zero, when it should have been below zero, and the ice was constantly cracking under the tents.

"Under these conditions and with the pressing need for the sending of supplies to the party at Cape Flora, together with my poverty in dogs, I decided to return. The conditions on the southward trip were worse than on the northward one, but a fortunate drop in the temperature allowed us to cross a network of open lanes and we reached Cape Abruzzi April 1. Mr. Porter, third in command of the expedition, was sent south to explore the archipelago, while the rest of the party worked at the moving of stores south to Camp Ziegler, making provisions in case we should be compelled to spend a third winter in the Arctic. Meanwhile the scientific work continued without interruption.

"On July 30 news came of the arrival of the relief expedition and we made a trip of over 20 miles on rotten ice to join the Terra Nova."

Mr. Fiala has not yet decided on the date of his departure for the United States.

Kramer Had to Hustle

New York, Aug. 23.—Cycling Champion Kramer defeated W. S. Fenn of Bristol, Conn., here last night in their $500 match race. Kramer won the first heat by a length and the second and deciding heat by a foot, although he finished sitting up.

Woman Charged With Murder

Digby, N. S., Aug. 23.—Hope Young of Plympton, formerly of Boston, is on trial here on a charge of murdering Minnie A. W. Young, a child left in her care by its parents in Boston. The grand jury returned a true bill against the young woman.

BRIBERY CHARGES FAIL

Grand Jury Clears the Skirts of Boston Aldermen

Boston, Aug. 23.—The grand jury of Suffolk county, which has been investigating a charge of bribery preferred by Alderman Frank J. Linehan against 10 members of the board of aldermen, returned a "no bill" and declared to be unanimously of the opinion that no crime had been committed.

The charge was made at a meeting of the board, Linehan alleging that members of the board had been bribed in connection with an order granting a franchise to the Boston national dock trust to operate and maintain tracks on streets in East Boston.

The matter was taken up by the district attorney and 35 witnesses, including all the aldermen, were examined before the grand jury.

Asks $50,000,000 From Standard Oil

Boston, Aug. 23.—A motion was made in the state supreme court for the appointment of a commission to take the testimony of John D. Rockefeller and other officers of the Standard Oil company in the $50,000,000 suit brought by Mrs. Elizabeth F. Greenough of Boston, who alleges that amount to be due her as royalty on the oil refined by the company since 1874. The suit is based on an alleged contract made with the late Benjamin F. Greenough, the inventor of a refining process, who was to receive 1-4 cent on every gallon of oil sent out by the Standard Oil company.

Struck Ledge Close to Wharf

Nantucket, Mass., Aug. 23.—Steamer Gay Head, which arrived here last night from Woods Hole and New Bedford, with 125 passengers on board, struck a submerged ledge of rocks. The passengers were not greatly alarmed, as the Gay Head was close to her wharf, and they were all landed safely within a half hour after the vessel struck. The bow of the steamer is about 20 feet from the wharf.

To Consider Marriage and Divorce

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Aug. 23.—At a meeting here last night of delegates appointed by 15 states to a congress called by Governor Pennypacker of Pennsylvania to further the interests of a movement looking to uniform laws regulating marriage and divorce, it was voted to have the convention assemble at Washington Feb. 15, 1906.

Friction In Art Museum

Boston, Aug. 23.—Edward Robinson, director of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, has sent a letter to the trustees, resigning his position. His letter implies that there has been friction between himself and the governing body regarding questions of policy, and states that his decision now indicated is final.

Streak of Hot Weather

Boston, Aug. 23.—One death and one prostration by heat were recorded with the police here yesterday. The thermometer at the federal building reached 90 degrees, which is the hottest Aug. 22 of local record with the exception of the corresponding day of 1880, which was 91 degrees.

Nobody Was Killed

York, Me., Aug. 23.—A faithful search of the Cape Neddick woods failed to reveal the body of a man at first supposed to have been killed in a fight and further investigation has been abandoned. The officers consider that the affair was nothing serious and no one was injured.

Ran In Front of Engine

Baldwinville, Mass., Aug. 23.—George Greenwood, 11 years old, of West Rindge, N. H., visiting his aunt here, started for the postoffice with two cousins and while making a short cut ran across railroad tracks directly in front of an engine and was killed before their eyes.

Bonfire and Lamp Fatal

Haverhill, Mass., Aug. 23.—Emma Doe, 8 years old, died from burns suffered while at play around a bonfire. Mrs. Harriet Dunham, aged 64, died of burns suffered by the overturning of a lamp at her home.

Virginia Democrats' Choice

Richmond, Aug. 23.—In the Democratic state primary Thomas S. Martin was nominated to succeed himself in the United States senate and C. A. Swanson to succeed A. J. Montague as governor of the state by large majorities. J. T. Ellyson was nominated for lieutenant governor. The nominations are claimed by the Democrats to be practically equivalent to elections, though the Republicans propose to make a strong fight.

Child Reveals Terrible Crime

Knoxville, Aug. 23.—The little daughter of Mrs. John Lea, lately a widow by the supposed suicide of her husband, has confessed to her grandmother that her mother and James Hix, who boarded at the home of the Leas, killed her father. The little girl declares Hix held her father while her mother broke his neck with a weapon, Hix telling her where to strike.

Wreck In Long Island Sound

New York, Aug. 23.—Schooner Marion E. Rockhill went ashore during a fog near Amagansett bay, L. I., and her crew of five men were rescued by life-savers from Amagansett station. The wrecked vessel was bound from South Amboy, N. J., to Danversport, Mass., with coal. M. L. Gilbert is her captain and owner.

Serious Yellow Fever Situation

New Orleans, Aug. 23.—Report of the yellow fever situation to 6 p. m. Tuesday: New cases, 57; total to date, 1503; deaths, 9; total, 214; new foci, 21; total, 342; remaining under treatment, 319. The news from outside the city shows the continued seriousness of the situation.

Contract Labor Law Violated

Omaha, Aug. 23.—Immigration Inspector Mansfield caused to be brought before him a number of Greek boys who are engaged in shining shoes in different shops in this city. He learned that one firm has brought a great number of these boys from Greece and employs them shining shoes in the large cities throughout the country. The boys admitted that they were paid by the year, that their food and clothing was furnished by their employers, and that they came to the United States with the understanding that they were to be given this kind of employment.

Report of Cure of a Leper

Manila, Aug. 23.—A patient who had been afflicted with leprosy and who had been under X-ray treatment here for that disease died of liver complications. After the patient's death every part of the body was subjected to a searching microscopic examination by bacteriologists, but not the slightest trace of leprosy could be found, showing that a cure had been effected.

Additions to Chinese Population

Washington, Aug. 23.—During the month of July 253 Chinese were admitted to the United States and nine were deported. Of those admitted 98 were United States citizens, 51 returning laborers, 61 returning merchants, 7 merchants coming in for the first time, 22 members of merchants' families, and 14 belonged to other exempt classes.

Germans Deport Samoan Chiefs

Tutuila, Aug. 8.—Via San Francisco, Aug. 23.—The German authorities in German Samoa have found it necessary to deport from Samoa to German New Guinea several turbulent chiefs who have been intriguing against the government for some time. Most of the natives regret to see their chiefs taken away.

Big Transfer of Timber Land

Fredericton, N. B., Aug. 23.—Arrangements have been made for a transfer of 166,000 acres of timber land, together with a number of mills, by the William Richards company of this city to the International Paper company of New York. The price will be between $600,000 and $750,000.

In Chorus Cried, Give Us Newbro's Herpicide.

This word of late has been in everyone's mouth, and many are wondering what the word signifies, though no one has yet been found, who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE does the work. Well, for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, we would say that HERPICIDE means, a destroyer or killer of "Herpes." Now "Herpes" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A similar microbe causes dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair; this is the microbe that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE promptly destroys; after which the hair grows. Sold by leading druggists. # INFLUENCE OF ROOSEVELT

It May Save the Peace Conference From Failure

PROPOSITION OUTLINED

Would Allow Each Side to Make Recession Upon Articles Which Were Productive of Deadlock --Compromise Satisfactory to Japan and to Witte, But Latter Is Powerless Unless Czar Gives the Word--Long Conference Follows Message From the President to Russian Envoys

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 23.—From an authoritative source is revealed substantially the suggestion of President Roosevelt for breaking the existing deadlock in the peace negotiations and rescuing the conference from failure. His solution would ingeniously permit the satisfaction of the Japanese demands for the reimbursement of the cost of the war and at the same time enable Russia to face the world with the declaration that she had not ceded a foot of territory or paid a copec of war tribute to the victor.

Tersely stated it consists in an agreement by Russia to repurchase possession of either all or half of the Island of Sakhalin, now in the military occupation of Japan, for a sum the amount of which, if the two countries cannot agree, shall be decided by some method of arbirtation hereafter to be determined. The purchase money, together with the sum Japan would obtain from the cession of the Chinese Eastern railroad and the maintainance of the Russian prisoners in Japan, would, it is estimated, about equal the amount claimed by Japan as her bill for the cost of the war. Practically, therefore, the solution offered by the president involves recession by Japan upon article 5 (the cession of Sakhalin) and recession by Russia upon article 9 (indemnity).

It seems practically certain, though this cannot be affirmed positively, that the president has been able to give Mr. Witte substantial assurance that Japan would be willing to accept such a compromise. This is apparently supported by the authoritative Japanese statement made last night in the reply to a question as to whether Japan had not decided to make substantial concessions: "It all depends upon Russia."

It was the president's message to Witte which caused the sensation of Tuesday. Early in the morning had come the official announcement that the meeting of the conference which was to have been held Tuesday had been postponed until today. The public reason assigned was that the protocols for submission at the sitting had not been completed.

But a few hours later the true reason leaked out. J. L. McGrew, one of the stenographers attached to the executive offices at Oyster Bay, had arrived with a communication from the president for the Russian plenipotentiaries. Messrs. Witte and Rosen had left the hotel, ostensibly for a ride to York beach, but instead had quietly slipped over to the conference building at the navy yard to receive the message from Assistant Secretary Peirce. The most elaborate precautions had been taken to insure secrecy, but it leaked out through a "tip" from New York.

From 10:30 until 1:10 Witte and Rosen remained at the conference building with Peirce. All those present decline to make any statements regarding what transpired at the navy yard, even refusing to admit that any importance attached to the matter. Mr. Witte would only admit that he had gone to the building "to send a message" and Rosen and Peirce refused to make any statements.

Mr. McGrew left on the 3:05 train for Boston, whence, according to report, he took the Merchants' Limited after first inquiring at the intelligence office for the connections to Oyster Bay. He carried a dress suit case, which probably contained the reply to the president. This reply, it is believed, was prepared by Witte and Rosen after Peirce had delivered to them the president's message. A suggestion is made that during their stay at the navy yard the Russian plenipotentiaries were in direct communication with the president by telegraph, but there is nothing to substantiate this and under the circumstances it appears unlikely.

Mr. Roosevelt's message to Witte and Rosen is believed to have been the result of his interview Monday at Oyster Bay with Baron Kaneko, one of Marquis Ito's close friends, who has acted as the president's medium of communication with the Tokio government. A story was in circulation at the hotel to the effect that Kaneko's secretary, Mr. Saki, was here in communication with the Japanese plenipotentiaries and also with Peirce, but investigation developed the fact that, although Saki had been here a week ago, he was not here yesterday.

It has been asserted that in addition to the president's communication to Witte, through Rosen, last Saturday, and by messenger yesterday, messages directly to the czar have been delivered by Ambassador Meyer at St. Petersburg, but no confirmation is obtainable.

The general disposition is to regard yesterday's swift and kaleidoscopic developments as materially brightening the chances of the success of the president's heroic endeavor to save the peace conference from failure. But it is realized that all, as before, depends upon the attitude of the czar and his advisors. Mr. Witte, it is positively stated, personally favors the solution offered by the president, but he is powerless unless the czar gives the word. With the most intense anxiety that word is awaited. It will spell peace or war.

A long cable message from St. Petersburg, which is believed to be the Russian reply, arrived about 10 o'clock last night, and Witte's secretaries immediately began deciphering it. Considerable excitement was apparent in the annex, where the Russian headquarters are located. Sheet by sheet the translation was taken to Witte's room. The rumor is that it is a refusal—a non possumus, a reiteration of the Russian position that she has given ample proof of her desire for peace in the articles already accepted and that more she could not yield with dignity and honor.

No confirmation of the rumor that Russia's reply is a negative can be obtained, and it must be accepted with all reserve. The lights in the rooms of Witte and Rosen were burning long after midnight.

It is stated that Baron Komura, at the session today, has agreed to offer the president's compromise proposition. A high authority believes it impossible that a final rupture can come today, no matter what the character of the czar's final instructions to Witte. "If the negotiations can be prolonged into next week," said he, "so much pressure will be brought to bear upon the czar that he will not be able to resist."

Against Further Concessions

St. Petersburg, Aug. 23.—Referring to the question of arbitrating the unsettled points of the Japanese demands, The Russ and The Novoe Vremya declare that arbitration is impossible because the questions at issue are too vital to both countries. The papers generally argue against further concessions.

Russia to Buy Part of Sakhalin

London, Aug. 23.—The Portsmouth correspondent of The Times states that there is real hope for peace, the basis of settlement being the retention by Russia of a portion of the Island of Sakhalin in consideration of a payment of money in lieu of indemnity.

Norway Extends Olive Branch

Christiania, Aug. 23.—The storthing adopted, by a vote of 104 to 11, the proposals of the government for the formal opening of negotiations with Sweden for the dissolution of the union. The government proposed to communicate the result of the recent referendum to the Swedish government and to ask it to accept the abrogation of the act of union and to co-operate in negotiations for a specific settlement of the questions connected with the dissolution.

Adrift In Lake Michigan

Chicago, Aug. 23.—After being afloat in Lake Michigan since Sunday in a small rowboat, John Chartres and Miss Zelda Stewart were rescued yesterday afternoon. Both were in a precarious condition because of exposure and lack of nourishment and sleep. On Sunday afternoon the couple went boat riding on the lake. During a squall one of the oars was broken and Chartres was unable to propel the boat after that.

Footpad Kills a Woman

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Mrs. H. E. Mize of New York city, accompanied by Mrs. E. F. Wilson, also of New York, left the Del Prado hotel, where they were stopping, about 10 o'clock last night for a short walk. A short distance from the hotel they were stopped by two men, who demanded their valuables. Mrs. Mize started to run, when one of the men shot her in the head, causing her death.

Fifty-Two Years In Poorhouse

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Albert Rogers, who for 52 years was an inmate of the Broome Cooper, died at that institution last night. As a young man he was indolent and refused to do anything for his support. In 1853, when he was 22 years old, his people had him committed to the poor farm, where he lived a life of ease and contentment ever since.

Removal of Bank Assignee

Denver, Aug. 23.—Judge Mullins removed Henry M. Beatty as assignee of the Western State bank and named the Continental Trust company as act instead. Beatty is a defendant in the suit pending against the bank and is said to have, as cashier, paid to an aerie of Eagles money which they had on deposit after the bank had closed its doors.

Chicago Printers May Strike

Chicago, Aug. 23.—At a meeting of the Chicago Typothetae it was decided not to make any contracts on the eight-hour-day basis and as a result a strike of printers is expected. If the trouble involves employes in other branches of the job printing trade nearly 4000 persons may be thrown out of work.

Retires From Diplomatic Service

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Edwin H. Conger has resigned his post as American ambassador to Mexico, to take effect Oct. 18 next, and President Roosevelt has accepted the resignation. Mr. Conger says he resigns "for reasons pertaining to my private business and personal affairs."

HOLY ROLLER CRUSADE

Religious Sect's Plan to Oust Devil From Big Cities.

SPECIAL TRAINS WILL BE HIRED

"Angel" Benjamin, Chief of the Crusaders, Hopes to Make Converts Among Millionaires to Return With Him to the City of David In Michigan—Holy Rollers Strictly Moral. How They Educate Children.

"Angel" Benjamin, chief of the Holy Rollers, of Benton Harbor, Mich., is preparing a crusade against the devil in several of the big eastern cities. Philadelphia is on the list. The "angel" is now gathering his apostles about him and has begun preliminary preparation. No dates have been set, but the invasion may be expected early in the fall, says a Benton Harbor dispatch.

The Holy Rollers are one of the fast growing religious sects, and what their campaign will result in is a matter of conjecture. It is estimated by some persons that "Benjamin the Holy" and his wife, "Beautiful" Mary, have $10,000,000 at their command. Whether or not the estimate is well founded, the fact remains that Benton Harbor, which until very recently was only a small village, is developing under the "angel" into one of the most important places in Michigan. Benjamin has built a great electric lighting plant, and his $500,000 temple, an exact counterpart of the structure of the Mormons in Salt Lake City, is almost completed.

Many other things Benjamin has done with the wealth at his command, but the latest is the building of scores of residences intended for the converts whom, he says, he will bring back with him from the east. For more than a year Benjamin and Mary have been planning the eastern crusade, and more than $100,000 has been spent in gathering together a musical organization with which to carry it on. For months talent has been arriving from Germany, Italy, France and other European countries, and now he has 100 men and women singers and players, to whom he is weekly paying out large sums. A school of music, under the directorship of a noted musician, has been established in the City of David, and for weeks the musicians have been practicing together. Besides these musicians from every land, among whom, Benjamin says, will be numbered men and women of fame, a juvenile band of fifty boys and girls will invade the east with the Holy Rollers' apostles.

The most interesting three people of those who will make the trip are Benjamin, his wife Mary and Mary's private secretary. Benjamin himself is a fine looking man, and by many Mary would be called beautiful. She is slender, possesses a pair of dark, lustrous eyes and nut brown hair that she wears loose and which falls in natural waves and ringlets almost to her waist.

This trio will lead the work of the Holy Rollers. It is probable that the work will begin some time in September. Benjamin, who talks only in millions, will take with him a million dollars, it is said. He announces that he will hire special trains, which will transport free of charge hundreds of thousands of people into the cities he visits from the surrounding country. From the people to whom he preaches the chief angel expects to get several million dollars. During the last year money has been pouring into the City of David from every quarter of the world, the bulk of it having come from Australia. In fact, "Beautiful Mary" and "Angel" Benjamin confidently expect to corral a few of America's great multimillionaires.

At present there is a little war on among Benjamin's chief apostles, and for that reason the "angel" cannot state definitely when the campaign will begin. Some of these apostles urge Benjamin to begin with Chicago as being truly the city of the devil. Others hold that Philadelphia needs moral cleansing more than any other place on earth, and it is not at all improbable that Philadelphia will be visited first. Still others of the apostles hold that Michigan should be thoroughly conquered, as the Mormons conquered Utah, before outside operations are begun. But Benjamin argues that Detroit and other Michigan cities may be invaded by lesser guns while he attacks the east.

Meanwhile the gigantic building operations in the City of David are still going on.

Not long ago 100 converts joined Benjamin from Australia, and with them they brought half a million dollars for the "angel." Arrangements had been made for the housing of these people, but efforts tenfold as great are now being made in order to accommodate the easterners who will be asked to call the City of David their home.

The Holy Rollers are a strictly moral people. They believe in educating every child, whether girl or boy, as they believe that education only will conquer the world. They believe that every child should possess an accomplishment, and every child of ten years or over in the City of David must study music or something else that will serve to refine.

In five years, Benjamin says, the City of David will number a million people. Every family in it will own a home without a dollar owing upon it. But they will own nothing else. The properties will be worked, as they are now, in common, and all, he asserts, will live in peace, comfort and happiness, each working indefatigably for the conversion of the rest of the world.

Antartic Penguins.

Some of the penguins in the antarctic regions weigh as much as eighty pounds and are about four feet high, with a splendid orange patch on the neck. The young take three years to develop fully, and even then the plumage is distinctly less brilliant than in the older birds. Both the movements and migration of the penguins are remarkable. When first followed the bird prefers to walk, but when in danger of being caught it drops on to its abdomen and with the help of the wings glissades at a pace too great to be overtaken by a man walking. They seem aware of the movements of the great ice fields and use them to help their migration to the pack ice in the north. They take trouble to collect stones, which they delight to steal from one another's piles, for nests.

Many of the ways of the penguins are suggestive of preserved instincts. Their attitude when sleeping is modeled on that of birds with fully developed wings. But the penguin has to be content with reaching the shelter of his wing with no more than the tip of his beak.

Ancient Indian Observatory.

At Jeypore, the pleasant, healthy capital of one of the most prosperous independent states of Rajputana, India, is the famous jantra or observatory, the largest of the five built by the celebrated royal astronomer, Jey Sing, the founder of Jeypore, who succeeded the rajas of Amber in 1693.

Chosen by Muhammad Shah to reform the calendar, his astronomical observations were formulated in tables which corrected those of De la Hire. He built five observatories, at Delhi, Benares, Muttra, Ujjain and Jeypore.

It is not under cover, but is an open courtyard, full of curious and fantastic instruments invented and designed by him. They have been allowed to go out of repair, and many of them are now quite useless, it being impossible even to guess what purpose they served in the wonderfully accurate calculations and observations of their inventor, but the dial, gnomons, quadrants, etc., still remain of great interest to astronomers.—Scientific American.

Real Elixir of Life.

Contentment is the real elixir of life. It is the real fountain from which flow the waters of perennial youth. Sometimes it costs an effort, a tremendous effort, to say it is all right, but the man or woman who can say it is much better off for thus looking at the sunny side of the world than the person who harbors a grievance against all mankind and walks through the world burdened with the somber thoughts of his disappointments. The discontented perhaps never stop to think how much worse off they could be; that, no matter how few their pleasures, there are those in the world who have fewer or none at all; that, given health and strength and the full possession of the senses, they are advantaged and blessed in the race of existence.

The Tempering of Copper.

The expression "the tempering of copper" arises from a thirteenth century misunderstanding of the Greek word baphe—a word used by the Greco-Egyptian alchemistic writers of the third century. Berthelot, the eminent authority on alchemy, has shown that this word may mean tempering, coloring (of cloth, glass and metals), the coloring materials or the coloring bath. Egyptian alchemy was busied originally in producing brilliant bronzes on copper and the copper alloys, and this expression "the tempering of copper" means, and always has meant, bronzing copper so that it may simulate silver or gold.—Arthur Jones Hopkins in New York Times.

Honey In the East.

In ancient Egypt honey was employed as an embalming material, and in the east to this day it is largely used for the preservation of fruit and the making of cakes, sweetmeats and other articles of food. In India a host will offer to his guest a dish composed of honey and milk or of equal parts of curds, honey and clarified butter. It is given to a bridegroom on his arrival at the door of the bride's father. In the east, also, when grafts, seeds and birds' eggs are to be transported a great distance they are often packed in honey.

Another Victim.

"Poor Mrs. Boozer suffers terribly from the liquor habit," said Mrs. Gabb.

"How is that?" inquired Mrs. Chinn, scenting gossip.

"When her husband comes home at night is he is too far gone to pay attention to her remonstrances and the next morning he has such a headache he can't listen to her."—Portland Telegram.

Unlike Fishing Lines.

"That fishing song in the new opera is clever, don't you think?" asked the critic.

"No," replied the hard luck angler; "it isn't at all natural."

"No?"

"No; the lines are too catchy."

She Quotes an Authority.

Elsie—When I grow up, mamma, I'm going to be extravagant like you. Mamma—What makes you think I'm extravagant? Elsie—Well, I'm sure I've heard papa say so lots of times.

Now They Don't Speak.

Clara—I always tell my real age. Estelle—Well, you can afford to. You see, you're not as old as you look.—Detroit Free Press.

Probably.

"Kind words cost nothing."

"Exactly. I think some folk distribute them freely on that account."

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

An unusually large number of Quincy deaths are reported today.

Mrs. E. A. Penniman visited friends in Randolph on Tuesday.

Miss Lolo Frazer is visiting her aunt, Miss Fanny Frazer of Beach street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Ela of Faxon avenue spending the week at Nantucket.

Miss Dorothy Fay of Marlboro street, is the guest of relatives in Leominster, this week.

Miss Dorothy Fay of Marlboro street is the guest of relatives in Leominster this week.

Miss Helen B. Josselyn of Hancock street is with friends in Gloucester, for a few days.

Rev. and Mrs. Leon H. Austin are expected home from Connecticut some day this week.

Miss Maud Butters of Somerville is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. George W. Bennett of Arlington street.

Mrs. George Monk and Miss Carrie Newcomb enjoyed a trip by boat to Gloucester on Tuesday.

A musical entertainment will be given next Wednesday evening in the West Quincy M. E. church.

Miss Helen Curtis of North Adams is being entertained for a few days by Miss Marjorie Fay of Marlboro street.

Miss Helen Curtis of North Adams is being entertained for a few days by Miss Marjorie Fay of Marlboro street.

Mrs. John McTiernan of Copeland street passed away early this morning. Funeral services will be held Friday morning.

Matthew Wood and family of South Boston will move next week into the house on High street, lately purchased by them.

Commodore Wiley is homeward bound from Peaks Island, Maine, where he and his family have been enjoying several weeks cruising.

William H. Bennett, who has been in the confectionery business at Wollaston, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. Liabilities, $334.63; assets, nothing.

The Knights of Malta will try their hand at conferring the Black Degree tomorrow evening. The degree team have been practicing steadily since the institution of the commandery and have attained quite a degree of efficiency.

Miss Kate Doyle, the obliging bookkeeper for W. B. White & Co. of Baxter street, accompanied by Miss Blanche Delory, have gone to Wolfboro, N. H., for a much needed rest from arduous duties, to be absent two weeks.

People are aware of the fact that Officer Larkin is again on duty. On Monday two arrests were made and the patrol wagon was called to the Point twice in succession. On Tuesday Mr. Larkin did more good work, and there is seldom a day passes, but that one arrest, at least is made at Quincy Point.

Miss Annie Fay of this city is visiting her friend, Miss Porter of Avon.

The Rose Cliff associates held a hurdy gurdy dancing party at the Bradley clubhouse, Rose Cliff, North Weymouth, Monday evening. The affair was largely attended by the summer residents.

GIRL IMPLICATED.

Took Prominent Part in the Canal Street Fires.

It is claimed that an Italian girl encouraged the boys to set the numerous fiers in the McKenzie & Paterson sheds. It is said that it was she who furnished them with the necessary articles to start the fire and that she further urged them to be sure and do a good job.

The name of the girl is withheld for the present. It is understood, however, that a summons has been issued for her and she will be arraigned in court tomorrow with the others.

Swimming Exhibits.

An under-water swim of eighty feet was one of the feats which delighted a gathering of a thousand or more spectators, young and old, at the annual exhibition of the boys' department of the L-street baths, at South Boston on Monday afternoon. There were all sorts of strange races, some in ludicrous costumes, and others with strange accessories like planks, pushed or propelled through the water with the swimmer. There were also several splendid exhibitions of life saving.

One of these exhibitions was by Edward Kelley, eight years old, who has really saved a life in the water. He had another boy of the same age to simulate the drowning person, and Kelley, swimming out to him, turned him on his back, supported him under the chin, and towed him to the raft, where he pushed the supposedly unconscious form to a place of safety on the planking and climbed out himself. Seven other boys also performed similar "rescues."

GOWN GOSSIP.

Many of the new separate waists are draped. The fashion is usually becoming.

The new fall hats are sometimes fitted with movable bandeaux or bandeaux merely pinned in to be adjusted to suit the wearer.

The veil plays a most important part in fall millinery. One sees all sorts of handsome veils attached to hats and apparently forming a part of the color scheme.

The white blouses to wear with coat suits are as ornate as or even more so than they have been. Delicate fabrics like chiffon and crepe de chine lead in popularity.

A very popular waist for summer outings will undoubtedly be worn in the house during the coming season. This is the flannel blouse with a rolling collar, elbow sleeves and immense four-in-hand tie of bright silk.—New York Post.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

Rev. S. P. Cadman, D. D., of Brooklyn, has framed and hanging in his study the celebrated letter of Abraham Lincoln to Mrs. Bixby.

A Londoner suggests that church bells be abolished, practically everybody knowing what the time is nowadays, and that a flag be hoisted on each church during a fixed period before service.

Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the United States senate, declares that everybody should sleep ten hours a day. Dr. Hale never engages in any brain work after 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Bishop Hoss of the Methodist Episcopal Church South will preside over the Brazil mission in the fall. Bishop Galloway has charge of the missions in Japan, Korea and China. The Cuban and Mexican mission work is under the care of Bishop Chandler.

WATER CURES.

Cold water bandages relieve a sore throat when caused by cold.

Hot water compresses applied at once will check an attack of croup.

Bathe a sprain with hot water instead of cold. It will prevent swelling.

A hot bath instead of cold after hard or severe exercise will prevent the muscles from getting stiff.

A hot bath followed by a cold sponge will often cause a sleepless person to fall into a refreshing slumber.

Clothes wrung out of hot water and placed at the base of the brain will often relieve a severe headache.

Hot water bandages reduce swellings and inflammation and prevent discoloration or bruise caused by a blow.

THE ART OF WAR.

Acting on observations made in the Russo-Japanese war, the German army henceforth will carry dark colored scabbards in lieu of the bright ones hitherto used.

"Tommy Atkins," the British soldier, is going back to his old uniform of scarlet, discarding the khaki. The army officers consider that with the brighter uniforms they will be able to get many more recruits.

M. Maurice Berteaux, the French minister of war, intends to suppress drums in the French army. He says drummers are useless in battle since they carry only revolvers, whereas buglers are armed with rifles.

The continued case against Sainio, for larceny from Niilo Tuominen, was further continued until Aug. 31.

Daniel McIntire was arraigned for bastardy at Quincy. Case continued until Sept. 9.

The slot machines seized from Nicholas Garbarino, Edward P. Vinton, Alfred Peterson and Ralph J. Renton were ordered destroyed, the money in the machines to be returned to the county.

Henrick Carlson was arraigned for bastardy at Quincy. Case continued.

The continued case of Robert Barton, for assault on William McPherson was called. The complainant acknowledged satisfaction and the case was dismissed. The defendant will pay all costs including doctor's bills.

Odd Fellows Funeral.

The funeral of John H. Peirce, who died Saturday, was held Tuesday at 2.30 from his late residence on Centre street. The services were largely attended, members of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows being present in a body. Services were conducted by Rev. A. A. Ellsworth which were followed by the Odd Fellows burial service. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery. There were a number of floral pieces from the family, Odd Fellows and friends.

—The annual exhibit of the Hingham Society of Arts and Crafts is being held this week.

WHO KNOWS BEST?

Gen. Matthews Insists His Daughter is Engaged.

Gen. T. R. Mathews has been interviewed by a Boston reporter at his office, 88 Broad street., and insists that his 18-year old daughter Marjorie and S. W. George of Wollaston were engaged, in spite of stories which had appeared to the contrary.

Gen. Mathews had just returned from Princeton, where he and Mrs. Mathews had been a few days, and said he already had been shown newspaper clippings. The whole story of his daughter's denial of the engagement and of any entanglement in the family was decidedly a bit of news to him.

As far as anything of the latter kind was concerned he was positive there was none on his or Mrs. Mathews' part.

The young people had been engaged for some time, and thinking they would meet with his objection owing to their youth, he had announced it publicly in order to have them understand they had his full approval. It was announced to their friends two weeks ago.

Gen. Mathews said he did not know what to make of the stories, as both he and Mrs. Mathews had called on the young man's parents and talked the matter over and he supposed it was settled.

"Wonderland 1905."

The annual publication of the Northern Pacific Railway, contains nine chapters of interesting matter bearing on the Northwest.

The tourist, the new settler and farmer, the man or woman of historical tastes, can all find matter of interest in its pages.

School teachers and scholars in the public schools will find the book extremely useful for auxiliary reading and study.

It is also a good all around book on the Northwest for general reading.

The latest number of this justly famous publication is the best issue to date. The cover cannot be surpassed for beautiful simplicity. The illustrations are very attractive, the folded inserts of panoramic views (a new feature) being particularly fine.

It treats of the new $4,500,000 capitol of Minnesota at St. Paul, of Isle Royale a coming summer resort of the Northwest, of the Pyramid Park, (commonly known as the Badlands) of North Dakota. Of Montana's representation at the Union National Convention held at Baltimore in 1864, of the romantic legend of "The Sepulchre of Lame Deer" of Yellowstone Park, of Kachess, a beautiful Washington lake, "The Lewis and Clark Exposition," the journey from California eastward via Portland and the Northern Pacific Railway. The article on Yellowstone Park is an especially valuable one containing an immense amount of specific information of an historical and descriptive character and being illustrated vividly and elegantly.

Send six cents in stamps for the book to A. M. Cleland, General Passenger Agent, Northern Pacific Railway, St. Paul, Minn.

Another Complaint.

Victor Sainio, who was in court the first of the week for larceny of money, watches and clothing from fellow boarders at 2 West street, was brought into court this morning and arraigned upon another complaint, charging him with larceny on June 26 of a watch and $25 in money from Jacob Pino. The cases were continued for disposition until Aug. 31.

—Visitor—"My good man, you keep your pigs much too near the house."

Cottager—"That's just what the doctor said mum. But I don't see how it's agoin' to hurt'em!"—Punch.

STILL NO ARREST

Officers Claim to Have Clue to Hackett Murderer

STATE OFFICIALS AID

Mrs Raymond Declares She Possesses No Knowledge of the Crime--Sheriff Is Looking Up Movements of Mill Workers

Kents Hill, Me., Aug. 23.—Although the county authorities have worked hard and the state sent an officer to assist, no new developments in the investigation of the murder of Mattie Hackett have come to light. The officers still adhere to the theory that the crime was committed by a woman, and they still maintain that they have collected sufficient circumstantial evidence to connect the person whom they suspect with the girl's death.

T. E. Hartnett of Portland, an investigator of crime, who is connected with the office of Attorney General Hamlin, arrived on the scene during the day and conducted a quiet investigation apart from that of the county officials. The attorney general will go to Augusta on Thursday and hold a consultation regarding the case with County Attorney Leagh and Sheriff Ham. It is announced that no arrests will be made until after the conference.

"I cannot throw the slightest light on the manner in which Mattie Hackett met death. It is cruel of anyone to mention my name at this time. God knows that I am suffering enough in my present condition without being featured in this awful affair."

Lying in the bed where the physicians say she will be confined for several weeks more, Mrs. Elsie H. Raymond, whose examination as to her whereabouts on the night of the Mattie Hackett murder was continued by the authorities yesterday, tearfully protested her ignorance of anything pertaining to the deed.

That the peculiarly knotted cord which resulted in the death of Mattie Hackett is the vital clue is the belief of Sheriff Ham, who has already started in to look up the recent movements of parties in Lewiston, Waterville and other mill towns within a certain radius of this town.

The "weaver's knot," as it is called, is one not infrequently tied by mill hands, and from among the ranks of mill operatives the sheriff thinks may be found the one who knows most about the circumstances leading up to the girl's death.

Suit to Recover Rabbit's Foot

New York, Aug. 23.—The celebrated rabbit's foot, said to be responsible for saving Nan Patterson, Roland B. Molineux and many other tombs prisoners from the electric chair, is about to be the subject of a lawsuit. When Nan Patterson left the tombs she neglected to turn the talisman over to its owner, John G. Jones, the tombs caterer, who says that the former Florodora girl was to keep it only until it had prevented her conviction. Jones intends to loan it to Berthe Claiche, who killed Emil Gendron.

Japs Interested In Railways

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Six representatives of the Imperial railway system of Japan arrived in Chicago yesterday on the way to New York. They are in this country to study the American locomotive and to purchase railway supplies. One of the party said: "Japan is preparing to spend over $30,000,000 in railway supplies and the bulk of these will be secured in the United States and England."

Friends of Tabby Organize

Albany, Aug. 23.—Feminine cat fanciers living in various parts of the country have incorporated the Lockhaven Cat club for the purpose of cultivating an interest in the ownership of thoroughbred cats, to find homes and care for vagrant cats and to give private and public exhibitions of cats. The headquarters of the club is in Rochester.

Hussars Refused Duty

St. Petersburg, Aug. 23.—Complaining of the food and because of the unpopularity of one of their non-commissioned officers, a squadron of the hussars encamped at Krasnoye Selo refused duty. The matter interfered with their participation in the maneuvers of the guard corps, which were held in the presence of the czar yesterday.

Boycott Has Some Effect

Washington, Aug. 23.—Protests against the Chinese boycott of American goods continue to be received at the state department, but very few make any suggestions that losses have been incurred, although transportation companies have said that there has been a falling off in the shipment of American goods to China.

Polish Strikes Are Serious

Warsaw, Aug. 23.—Owing to the strong military measures adopted, the strike will not become absolutely general, but still the situation is serious. Practically all the factories at Warsaw and Lodz are closed. Serious rioting has occurred at the latter place. The newspapers are not appearing at Lodz.

Hail Wrecked Windows

Schenectady, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Thousands of windows were broken by hailstones which fell in a storm that broke over this city last evening. The American Locomotive works lost 2000 panes and the General Electric works suffered nearly as much.

PASTOR AND WIFE.

Surprised by Women of Swedish Lutheran Church.

Rev. J. A. Bernhard and wife and Baby Bernhard accepted an invitation to dinner from Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lofgren on Monday. It was very essential that the baby should be present as will be seen.

The dinner was at noon and was bountiful and well served and enjoyed by both families. Soon fifty or more ladies and children, who had met at a neighboring house, marched into the yard.

Some one told the pastor it was Mrs. Lofgren's birthday, and all proceeded to celebrate. Rev. Mr. Bernhard soon found out the cause of the gathering for he was presented a baby carriage and also a good purse so that baby will have daily outings hereafter.

The afternoon was enjoyed by all. The grounds were prettily decorated with American and Swedish flags. Coffee, ice cream and cake were served. Photographer Skinner secured a fine group picture of the gathering.

Penny Machines Forfeited.

The several penny slot machines seized by the Watch and Ward Society at Houghs Neck were ordered destroyed by the District court this morning, and the money forfeited to the county. After court the machines were broken open and all the pennies taken out. The machines contained all the way from one cent to nearly $10.

Excursion to New Hampshire.

Quite a party of Odd Fellows from Quincy with their ladies are participating in the excursion today of Puritan lodge of Braintree to Canobie Lake, N. H. The party left Quincy about 8 o'clock. They go as far as Nashua, N. H., by train and from there to Canobie Lake by electrics. It is a delightful day for the trip and the party will have a good time.

| By census of 1905 | - - | 28,067 |
| By census of 1900 | - - | 23,899 |
| Increase in five years | - | 4,168 |
| Per cent. increase in five years | | 18 |
| By State census of 1905 | - | 28,067 |
| By State census of 1895 | - | 20,712 |
| Increase in ten years, | - | 7,355 |
| Per cent. increase in ten years | | 36 |
| By census of 1880 | - - | 10,570 |
| Increase in 25 years | - | 17,497 |
| Per cent. increase in 25 years | | 166 |

These figures make an excellent showing for the city of Quincy.

We have doubled our population in less than twenty years, probably since we became a city in 1888.

The increase of 4,168 in five years has never been exceeded but once in a similar period, and that was from 1885 to 1890 during which time Quincy changed from a town government to a city government.

A percentage of gain of nearly 18 in five years would be appreciated in most cities.

The gain of 7,355 in ten years, also, has been excelled but once in a similar period, the gain from 1885 to 1895 being 8,567.

The percentage of gain in ten years is nearly 36, far in excess of most of the cities and towns of Massachusetts.

To increase our population from 10,570 to 28,067 in 25 years is still more wonderful. This is an actual gain of 17,497, or nearly 166 per cent.

Only one Massachusetts city of less than 30,000 has excelled this record, and that is Everett, which has grown from 4,159 in 1880 to 29,108 in 1905. Everett is the only city that has passed us in the race, while Quincy during the same period has passed Woburn, Newburyport, Northampton, Chicopee, Pittsfield, Gloucester and Waltham. That is where the real test of gain enters, to pass others in the race. To pass seven is a remarkable achievement after becoming one of the first 30 cities in the state. The figures of other cities will be presented in an early issue.

Population by Wards.

By wards the South Quincy ward has the largest population having passed the West Quincy ward since 1895. Ward One is third and the Quincy Point ward fourth, with Wollaston and Atlantic following in the order named.

The largest gain in the ten years was in the Quincy Point ward, a total of 1,768, which was in excess of Wards Three and Four together. The Wollaston ward made the second largest gain and the Atlantic ward was just ahead of Ward One. Wards Three and Four made the smallest gain.

The summary below gives the population by wards both in 1905 and 1895 and also shows the increase by wards:

| | 1905. | 1895. | Increase. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Ward One, | 4,793 | 3,562 | 1,231 |
| Ward Two, | 4,509 | 2,741 | 1,768 |
| Ward Three, | 5,817 | 4,696 | 1,121 |
| Ward Four, | 5,564 | 4,964 | 600 |
| Ward Five, | 4,031 | 2,669 | 1 362 |
| Ward Six, | 3,353 | 2,080 | 1,273 |
| The City, | 28,067 | 20,712 | 7,355 |

Population by Sexes.

Quincy is an exception to most cities and towns, and the State of Massachusetts, in that it has more males than females, there being 14,414 males, and 13,653 females, an excess of 761. Wards One, Two, Three and Four lead in this respect, Ward Two alone having 605 more males because many employes of the shipyard are here without their families.

The Wollaston and Atlantic wards have an excess of females, a total of 442.

They are more equally divided in Ward One than any other ward as will be seen by these figures by wards:

| | Males | Females | Total |
|---|---|---|---|
| Ward One | 2442 | 2351 | 4793 |
| Ward Two | 2557 | 1952 | 4509 |
| Ward Three | 2999 | 2818 | 5817 |
| Ward Four | 2945 | 2619 | 5564 |
| Ward Five | 1880 | 2151 | 4031 |
| Ward Six | 1591 | 1762 | 3353 |
| The City | 14,414 | 13,652 | 28,067 |

How We Have Grown.

The figures at each census have been:

In Other Cities.

Several of the cities whose populations have been announced have made smaller increases than Quincy, for example, Taunton, Chelsea, Chicopee and Woburn:

| Place. | 1905. | 1895. | Gain. |
|---|---|---|---|
| New Bedford, | 74,321 | 55,251 | 19,070 |
| Taunton, | 30,952 | 27,115 | 3,837 |

A Few Towns.

Brookline continues the largest town in the State with a population of 23,424, but the gain in ten years was not as large as Quincy. Weymouth has gained but 294 in ten years and is not yet large enough to become a city, although as large as Quincy in 1880.

GRAND SHORE DINNER.

Enjoyed by the Quincy Board of Trade--Menu and Speeches.

PRESIDENT SANDBERG.

The annual excursion and dinner of the Quincy Board of Trade on Wednesday was most successful, thanks to the efforts of President E. J. Sandberg and Secretary A. W. Stetson.

Nantasket Point was the objective rendezvous and about 100 Quincy business men enjoyed the trip and the shore dinner.

A special electric car left East Milton at 5.30 P. M. and the excursionists got aboard at West Quincy, South Quincy and City Square. The route from Quincy was by electrics to Houghs Neck, and thence by special steamer direct to Nantasket Point.

It was a delightful sail at the sunset hour, the water being calm, and the harbor beautiful. There was an absence of yachts under sail, but the steamers were numerous, and there were a few launches.

Wade's Hotel at Nantasket Point was reached soon after seven o'clock, and the dinner was in readiness. At the head table on President Sandberg's right was Mayor Thompson, and on his left General Manager Smith of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company; also ex-Mayor John O. Hall, Secretary Stetson and others.

At the other tables were Representative Harry S. Nicol, and most of the city officials including Commissioner Burke, City Treasurer Fay, Tax Collector Cunningham, Assessors C. H. and Julius Johnson, City Engineer Flood, Messrs. Teasdale and Kittredge of the Board of Health, and Councilmen Piper, Stone, Crane, Hines, and Spargo.

Music on the steamboat and in the dining room was furnished by Cianciarulo Bros. of Boston, and encores were numerous.

It was one of the best shore dinners ever spread, well cooked, hot and bountiful in quantity.

THE MENU.

Clam Chowder — Fish Chowder
Steamed Clams — Green Corn
Baked Scrod — Fried Perch
Potatoes
Clam Fritters
Tomatoes — Cucumbers
Roast Beef — Roast Lamb
Potatoes
Lobsters, plain or fried
Potato Chips
Ice Cream — Cake
Watermelon
Brown Bread — Rolls
Tea — Coffee

President Sandberg presided at the post prandial exercises, and first entertained a motion to extend a vote of thanks to the pretty young ladies who acted as waiters. It was adopted amid enthusiasm.

He introduced as the first speaker Mayor Thompson, saying he had been Mayor the past year and hoped to be for a few years more.

Mayor Thompson said he appreciated the honor and privilege of being present, and pointed out how the association could be an important factor in the development of the city. We are no mean city. The census bureau reports today that Quincy has a population of 28,607, a gain of over 35 per cent. in ten years.

The city government needs the support of just such an association as a live Board of Trade. The city has no money to squander or for ornamentation, scarcely sufficient for the necessities.

The Mayor said five or six architects were making plans for the High school enlargement. He hoped the School Committee would approve more than one plan, approval by the School Committee being required by the City Charter. The question of finance was for the City Council.

The Mayor has not been idle relative

SIRES AND SONS.

Rear Admiral Schley is said to smoke the strongest cigars made.

General Booth, head of the Salvation Army, announces his intention to organize an order of poverty.

The nestor of orientalists, Julius Oppert, whose eightieth birthday was celebrated recently in Paris, is a German by birth, but since 1854 he has been a naturalized citizen of France.

Alphonse Bertillon, the inventor of the finger print system of identifying criminals, is described as a quiet, modest man, with more the appearance of a scientist than of a hunter of men.

Swift MacNeill, who is regarded as the champion questioner of the house of commons, is a barrister by profession. Parliament is his hobby, but he has also a love for collecting old plate and china.

Sergius Witte, the czar's plenipotentiary in the peace conference, is said to be the handsomest of Russia's notable men. Indeed, he is thought to resemble the magnificent Alexander III., father of the present czar.

Theodore Roosevelt has a larger collection of college degrees than any of his predecessors. He has now ten titles to distinction of this kind and is privileged to write after his name eight LL. D.'s, one L. H. D. and one B. A.

"Although I work a good many hours a day," says Inventor Edison, "my life is a very quiet and restful one. I do not worry, I am fond of fun, and I like good fellows. I do not want to deal with mean men or men whose lives are devoted to getting money."

Solicitor General Henry M. Hoyt has more responsible duties than fall to any other assistant to a cabinet office. Mr. Hoyt is a Philadelphian and went to Washington in 1897 to serve as assistant attorney general. He is the son of a former governor of Pennsylvania and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania.

THE MOTHS.

History of the Troublesome Brown Tail.

How They Work and Multiply.

Valuable Information by Mr. A. H. Kirkland.

The history of the brown-tail moth is as old as the history of economic entomology. When the early scientists began to record the habits of insects injurious to fruit trees, this pest was one of the first to be described. It found its way to Somerville, Mass., in the late nineties, probably on rose bushes imported from Holland, and has now spread throughout eastern Massachusetts, southern New Hampshire and southwestern Maine.

The first outbreak of the brown-tail moth covered only a few square miles in Somerville and Cambridge. It was sufficient, however, to yield a swarm of moths which flew, or were drifted by a high wind over a wide territory. As the female moth is a strong flyer its spread has been rapid. In addition to the effect of the wind, the insects are also strongly attracted to light. It results, therefore, that a swarm of moths arising from any infested spot and being drifted by the wind out of their immediate environment fly to the nearest mass of lights.

Thus the centres of cities and towns become first infested, and here are established the colonies from which a more general infestation takes place. Electric cars, railroad trains, and even steam-boats serve to transport the moths. The writer has repeatedly seen them, attracted by the lights, enter into the street or steam cars and be carried for miles. The rapid spreading of the insect indicates that within a few years it will be well distributed throughout New England.

LIFE HISTORY.

The brown-tail moth lays from two hundred to four hundred small globula eggs, thickly covered with a mass of brown hairs from the tip of the abdomen of the moth. The typical egg mass is about two-thirds of an inch long and about one quarter of an inch wide. While the eggs are occasionally deposited on branches or trunks of trees, or even on lamp posts or house walls, a very large majority are laid on the under surfaces of the leaves of fruit and shade trees. The moths show a strong liking for pear trees, and will apparently seek out trees of this species in preference to any others. At the same time the apple, elm, wild cherry and white oak are very commonly infested by the insect, while other trees suffer to some extent.

The eggs, laid in July, hatch the following month, and the young caterpillars, feeding in a mass, soon commence their work of spinning their winter webs. In making this web, a number of leaves in the vicinity of the egg clusters are drawn together and are carefully spun with a tenacious silken web. With the approach of cold weather the caterpillars enter the web and close the exit holes. We then have the strange phenomenon of a caterpillar wintering over when only one-quarter grown and emerging the following spring to complete its life history. Whatever extremes of cold we have in Massachusetts do not seem to affect these insects adversely. They emerge in the spring, eat first the buds, then the blossoms, and attack the foliage of fruit trees as soon as it develops.

The full grown caterpillar is light brown with a white stripe on either side and about two inches in length. Stripping the foliage of one tree they march to another, and so continue until full grown, when the cocoons are spun within the leaves at the ends of the branches or sometimes on the tree trunks. The pupation usually takes place the latter part of June, and the moths emerge from the first to the twentieth of July. The snow-white female moth is conspicuously marked with an enlarged tuft of brown hair, which gives to the insect its common name.

NETTLING by the CATERPILLARS.

The damage by the caterpillars to the fruit trees is only a part of the story. Whenever these insects come in contact with human flesh they produce a most severe and painful nettling. This is apparently not due to any poisonous material in the hairs, but rather to the finely barbed and brittle hairs themselves. So severe is this affection that in many cases people have been made seriously ill by it. The best remedy for it is the liberal use of cooling lotions, or, what is more satisfactory, even if less pleasant, the free use of common vaseline.

REMEDIES.

The habit of the caterpillar in webbing over in webs at the tips of the branches gives a key to the simplest and cheapest remedy, which is merely to cut off and burn the webs during the fall, winter or spring. This preventative means is most effective, and gives such excellent results that in Germany, France, and Belgium there is a law making it obligatory on property owners to destroy the webs during the winter season. Where citizens neglect to carry out this work it is done for them by local authorities, and the sum thus expended added to their tax levy.

The work of removing the webs is best done by the use of a long-handled tree pruner or similar device. Particular care should be given to gathering the webs and burning them, as any left on the ground will yield caterpillars and continue the infestation locally.

Spraying is very effective against these insects; in fact they are much less resistant to the action of poison than is the gypsy moth or elm leaf beetle. To secure best results, spraying should be done as soon as the foliage develops in the spring. Five pounds of the arsenate of lead paste to one hundred gallons of water is sufficient, or, if preferred, one pound of good Paris green kept well stirred may be applied in one hundred and fifty gallons of water.

Where the caterpillars swarm from trees along fences or on house walls the use of kerosene emulsion or strong soap suds is advisable. Fall spraying with arsenate of lead is also effective, but the feeding of the caterpillars at that time of the year is usually of minor importance.

Little good can be done in the way of collecting the eggs or trapping the moths by light, although many of the mature insects are destroyed by arc lamps. There is no method of combatting the brown-tail moths that will give better results for the outlay than the destruction of the webs in the winter season. Cases will arise where the caterpillars swarm from adjoining estates, and where this occurs banding the trees with some sticky material, as heretofore described, will protect the foliage from harm.

NATURAL ENEMIES.

Like the gypsy moth the brown-tail moth is attacked by numerous parasites and by certain birds, but the latter do not appear to take to it as readily as to the former insect. Of the birds, the cuckoos, vireos and orioles are most helpful, while English sparrows eat many of the winged moths. The garden toad also does its part in feeding first on the migrating caterpillars and later on the moths as they fall injured from the street lights.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit innoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.

DOOMED TO DEATH

Hope Young Convicted of Murdering Child.

TOOK SENTENCE CALMLY

Woman Bound and Gagged Two Little Ones and Left Them In Woods to Die--One Recovered After Terrible Suffering

Digby, N. S., Aug. 24.—The trial of Hope Young for the murder of Minnie Ward Young was concluded here last night and the woman was sentenced to death.

The jury, after a half hour's deliberation, returned with a verdict of "guilty," with a recommendation to mercy. The judge then discharged the jury and told the witnesses that they would not be further required. The spectators were then ordered from the courtroom and the judge proceeded to pass the sentence of death. The prisoner was pale, but perfectly calm. She stood up and when asked if she had anything to say replied "not guilty."

The judge then said: "The jury having found you, Hope Young, guilty of murder, you shall be taken back to the jail from whence you came and kept there until Wednesday, the 20th day of December next, and between the hours of 4 a. m. and 12 noon, you shall be hanged by the neck until dead, and may God have mercy upon your soul."

When the condemned woman caught the words of the death sentence her face flushed and she appeared to weaken, but for a moment only. As the sheriff escorted her from the court she had again assumed her normal condition and was quite cool. On the way back to her cell she asked for the daily papers so that she could read the proceedings. As her counsel and the sheriff left her she exclaimed in a loud voice, "I am as innocent as you are of the crime for which I have been condemned to death."

Everything was removed from her cell for fear that she might do herself bodily harm.

The crime of which Hope Young was convicted was one of the most cruel, most revolting tragedies ever enacted in the provinces.

Two small children—one a baby, 18 months old, Elma Young, the other Minnie Ward, a pretty 6-year-old girl—were gagged and bound and left to die in the woods a mile from the house where Hope Young lived.

Minnie Ward was dead when found, and it was believed that the little one was murdered before being left in the woods. The baby was alive when found and, although her body was badly swollen from the bites of insects and her life was despaired of, she finally recovered.

The woman had been living at the house of Kingsley Melanson as his housekeeper. She was the mother of the baby; Elmer Young, a Boston private detective, was declared to be the father of both children, and Marie Ward of Boston testified that she was the mother of the murdered girl.

Two weeks after her arrest Hope Young confessed to a crown detective that she hid the dead body of Minnie Ward in the woods, but claimed that the girl had first died a natural death.

Yellow Fever Record

New Orleans, Aug. 24.—Dr. Stark, state health officer at Lafourche, says that Dr. Devron has reported to him that up to date he has found 170 cases of yellow fever and 200 cases of dengue at Leeville, and conditions are such that help is needed immediately. The following is the yellow fever report for New Orleans up to 6 p. m. yesterday: New cases, 53; total to date, 1556; deaths, 5; total deaths to date, 219; under treatment, 312.

Arrest of Broker Peckham

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Frederick A. Peckham, the New York broker, indicted for complicity in the department of agriculture cotton reports scandal, was arrested here and arraigned before Commissioner Davison, who ordered an adjournment of examination until today. In default of $12,000 bail Peckham was lodged in jail.

Immigrants Badly Treated

New York, Aug. 24.—A charge that 200 steerage ptssengers on the steamship Erny had not been provided with sufficient tables and chairs was brought against Captain Cosulich of that steamer and he was arrested by a United States marshal. The Erny came from Trieste.

Objections to Commissariat

Panama, Aug. 24.—A permanent committee has been appointed by the merchants here to seek a modification of the arrangement establishing commissariats in the canal zone. The committee will endeavor to obtain an equitable readjustment of the matter.

American Request Refused

Ottawa, Aug. 24.—A proposal to the Canadian government that some Americans might raise and remove to Detroit three British warships which were sunk in the River Thames brings the statement that the government will not allow such a project.

Canadian Tariff Inquiry

Ottawa, Aug. 24.—The Canadian government will not postpone the tariff inquiry as has been urged by commercial bodies. It will begin immediately. The investigation will open in western Canada.

EASY FOR SADIE MAC

Outclasses Field In the Race For Stake of $10,000

Readville, Mass., Aug. 24.—Three well fought harness races for three famous stakes, the $10,000 Massachusetts, the $5000 Neponset and the $3000 Tyro, closed the grand circuit meeting at the Readville track. Sadie Mac took the first, in record time for the event, Allerson won the second after six heats had been run off, while Katherine L captured the third. Miss Wilks of Galt, Ont., is the owner of Sadie Mac and Katherine L, while Allerton is the property of W. H. McDoel of Chicago.

Sadie Mac's victory was expected, and the mare would have won in straight heats but for tripping her toe at the distance flag in the second heat, when she had a safe lead. In no year since the inception of the event in 1896, except when Boralma won, has the winner of the race so outclassed the field as did Sadie Mac yesterday.

The Neponset dragged along for six heats, and saw the contestants so weary at the end that the time fell back from 2:05 1-4 to 2:13. It was generally conceded that Ed Geers would win with Walter Direct, but the stallion was plainly unfit for so hard a contest.

The Tyro saw the largest field of youngsters that has faced a starting judge in several years. Gatherine L held the field at her mercy. All previous records of the season by the 3-year-olds were broken by more than a second.

Disbarred After Five Years

Boston, Aug. 24.—An order was handed down by Judge Fessenden of the superior court, directing that George L. Weil be removed from the office of attorney at law in this commonwealth. The Bar association entered a complaint against Weil nearly five years ago, and the case has been pending ever since. It was alleged that Weil collected money belonging to clients and had appropriated it to his own use. There were also other charges of conduct improper for an attorney.

Douglas May Again Run

Boston, Aug. 24.—The first step toward the renomination of Governor Douglas was taken yesterday when Robert M. Burnett, who has been strongly urged to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, said that he will not enter the field. Chairman Flaherty of the state committee announces that if the Democratic leaders give Douglas to understand that they propose to nominate him, the governor will consent to run.

Marsh Arrested as a Deserter

Brockton, Mass., Aug. 24.—Released after having been imprisoned since Aug. 15 as a fugitive from justice, suspected of the murder of Chauffeur Bate, near Chicago, George L. Marsh was again arrested, this time as a deserter from the United States army, and taken to Fort Banks. George R. Marsh, the young man's father, personally appealed to Governor Douglas to intervene for his son, and hopes to be able to secure his release.

Everett's Great Growth

Boston, Aug. 24.—Of the 21 additional towns and cities for which the preliminary count of the decennial census was completed, Everett shows a most remarkable growth in population, a gain of nearly 57 percent in 10 years. The town of Hingham presents the remarkable coincidence of having precisely the same number of inhabitants today that it had 10 years ago, and the town of Berlin has gained only nine individuals in 10 years.

Convention of Lawyers

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Aug. 24.—Leading members of the bar, representing nearly every state in the country, were in attendance upon the first session of the 20th annual meeting of the American Bar association. President Tucker of Lexington, Va., gave a comprehensive review of the noteworthy changes which have been made in the statutes by the national congress and by state legislatures during the past year.

Death of Oliver Stevens

North Andover, Mass., Aug. 24.—Oliver C. Stevens of Boston, former district attorney of Suffolk county, died here last night at his summer home. Three weeks ago Stevens tendered to Governor Douglas his resignation as district attorney, an office he had held without interruption since 1875, and, with few exceptions, has rarely had to make a contest for. He was born in this town in 1825.

Sentence of Vermont Outlaws

Bennington, Vt., Aug. 24.—Lavinia Lamphear, the outlaw leader, and Daniel Brockway, her most devoted knight of the road, retracted their pleas of not guilty, after spending several weeks in Bennington jail, and have been sentenced. The girl must spent 2½ years in the house of correction and Brockway must serve 14 years in jail.

Auto Accident May Be Fatal

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 24.—While speeding 40 miles an hour, G. W. B. Fletcher, a Philadelphia wholesale grocer, was thrown from his automobile and probably fatally injured. He was thrown directly in the path of a heavy touring car going at a high speed in the opposite direction, which passed over his body.

Almost a Conflagration

Beverly Farms, Mass., Aug. 24.—During a fire which started in the barn of Connolly Bros. burning brands were carried by the wind to nearby buildings and a dozen fires were afire at different times. The total loss on the dwelling houses will not exceed $2000. Connolly Bros.' loss is $15,000.

CITY BREVITIES.

Trolley excursion parties pass through this city nearly every day, bound for some of the many resorts along the south shore.

Miss Mary B. Keating of Quincy will return Monday from Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, where she has spent the past six weeks.

The joint committee on Health and Ordinances of the City Council will meet tonight to consider the proposed amendment to the Plumbing ordinance.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 5, A. O. H., presented their pianist, Miss Elizabeth A. Barron of West Quincy, a very handsome locket and chain at their meeting this week.

There was a small army of Boston reporters about the city Wednesday afternoon looking for pictures in the juvenile fire bug cases. One paper is said to have secured twenty-four pictures.

Narrow Escape.

Loss of life was very narrowly averted on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. at Atlantic on Monday, when the express train for Boston due to pass the station at 4.06 P. M., would have run over at least one person but for the clear headedness and courage of the baggage master, who seized the young lady standing dazed before the locomotive and drew her from the track as the train sped by. During the work upon the Hancock street bridge, people have had to avail themselves of an opening in the fence opposite the station, or walk quite a circuit to pass and repass from Hancock street to the station. Several people were passing at the time of the narrow escape.

ROOSEVELT'S COMPROMISE

Is Presented to Russian Envoy and Promptly Rejected

WILL NOT PAY TRIBUTE

Komura Is Asked to Withdraw All Demands Therefor In Article Relating to Sakhalin--The Conference Adjourns Until Saturday to Allow Envoys to Consult Their Governments--Situation Is Considered Very Black--Real Hope Now Rests With the President--Meyer Is Working For Peace

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 24.—The Japanese plenipotentiaries at the conclusion of yesterday afternoon's session of the peace conference threw their cards upon the table. It was the dramatic moment—the moment to which all the previous proceedings of the conference had led. The protocols, involving agreement upon 8 of the 12 conditions originally presented by Japan, had been signed. One side or the other must make a move or the plenipotentiaries had reached the parting of the ways.

The adversaries faced each other across the table. Of course it was well understood what would happen, but that, in a way, only made it more dramatic. Figuratively, President Roosevelt suddenly entered the conference room. Mr. Witte sat silent and the move in the great diplomatic game passed to Japan. Baron Komura, in a few words, explained that Japan, in her great desire for peace, was ready to make certain "modifications" of the original articles, in the hope that Russia would find it possible to accept them. He then presented in writing to Witte the compromise proposition which President Roosevelt had suggested.

It was specific and offered to withdraw article 9, providing for the payment by Russia of Japan's bill for the cost of the war, on conditions that Russia would accept article 5, which provides for the cession of the Island of Sakhalin, so modified as to include an arrangement for the repurchase by Russia of the northern half of the island for 1,200,000,000 yen. In addition it offered to withdraw entirely articles 11 and 12—surrender of the interned warships and limitation upon Russia's sea power in the Far East. It was President Roosevelt's compromise and Witte knew its contents as well as Komura. The question of whether he had been "bluffing" was put to the test.

Without a moment's hesitation Witte explained that the modification proposed was merely a sham, a change of phraseology, a diplomatic attempt to ask Russia to pay war tribute under another name. He could not accept it. He told Komura that Russia wanted peace. She had given the proofs in accepting every article involving the issues upon which the war was fought, but she could fight and money for tribute she would not pay a copeck. He asked Komura to withdraw all demands for tribute.

And so the plenipotentiaries separated to meet again on Saturday, ostensibly to permit Witte to place in writing, as the rules of the conference require, his reply to the Japanese compromise proposition. In reality the adjournment over the two days was to give each side an opportunity to consult its government for the last time.

The outlook is black. The Japanese are not talking. Indeed, they appear to be more taciturn and more resolute than ever. The only possible line of further Japanese concession is considered to lie in the direction of a diminution of the amount of the purchase money demanded for the north half of Sakhalin. The decision rests, therefore, with Russia. Unless the czar agrees to yield between now and Saturday the end is likely to come on that day. And the indications from Peterhof, instead of raising the chances of a change of heart on the part of the czar, seem to indicate even a firmer determination to yield neither territory nor indemnity, sugar-coated though the latter may be.

The long instruction received Tuesday night, while not a reply to the communication of President Roosevelt given to Witte at the navy yard Tuesday afternoon, was of a character to almost completely destroy hope that it will be possible for Witte to satisfy the Japanese demand. If Witte were absolutely free this conference would not fail. He would make peace. He sympathizes with the solution offered by the president, but his hands are tied and unless he receives an imperial command he cannot move.

Black as the prospect appears, however, the failure of the negotiations is not certain. The Russian camp is pessimistic to a man, but they all know the quick and startling changes of front that sometimes take place at Peterhof. And there are factors in the situation which might affect one of those sudden and inexplicable changes in the czar's attitude which has frequently astonished Russia. Private advices from Russia say that sentiment in the large centres favors acceptance of the compromise. This may mean much. But the real hope still rests with President Roosevelt. He is resourceful. He has made another move. He has sent Ambassador Meyer direct to the czar and they were together, according to advices received here, for three hours yesterday.

Mr. Roosevelt himself may know more about how the czar feels than Witte and be able to act upon the information conveyed to him by his ambassador. The report is industriously circulated here that Emperor William is responsible for the attitude of the czar and everything is traced back to the meeting of the two emperors on board the Hohenzollern in the Finnish gulf. In support of this it is positively stated that after the interview Witte's instructions were made stronger and more unyielding.

Appeal Has Support of Neutrals

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 24.—President Roosevelt's final effort to induce a cessation of hostilities in the Far East is almost dramatic in its extraordinary interest. Through Mr. Meyer, the American ambassador at St. Petersburg, he has made a direct appeal to the czar to permit the adoption of such measures in the pending peace conference as will terminate the war.

Thus far the president has gained his points, one after another. It was due to his efforts that the conference did not break finally last week and his further important suggestions prevented a final dissolution of the conference on Monday. Now he has carried his appeal for peace straight to the czar, an appeal, too, which can be said to have the positive support of the great neutral powers.

Conference With the Czar

St. Petersburg, Aug. 24.—Ambassador Meyer had an audience with the czar at Peterhof yesterday afternoon, which lasted three hours. Presumably the matter of peace was discussed at length, but nothing can be ascertained at present regarding what actually took place, as the embassy declines to give out any statement. It is known, however, that a long cablegram has been sent to Washington giving the results of the conference.

Possible Message From Kaiser

St. Petersburg, Aug. 24.—Captain Von Hitze, the German naval attache who enjoys special relations with the czar, has gone to Peterhof and it is expected he will be given an audience today. The fact that personal communications between these two monarchs are often made through military instead of the ordinary diplomatic channels lends interest to this audience.

Requires All the Presidents' Tact

Paris, Aug. 24.—The views in the morning papers concerning the possibilities of peace continue to be optimistic, while admitting that the situation is still extremely delicate and requires all the tact of President Roosevelt.

Peace Union Resolutions

Mystic, Conn., Aug. 24.—The 39th annual session of the Universal Peace union and the Connecticut Peace society is in session here. Resolutions were forwarded to the Japanese and Russian envoys at Portsmouth, beseeching them to bring about a lasting and durable peace. Following the sending of these resolutions the peace union drew up another calling for prayers for peace from all ministers, priests and rabbis in the United States.

Cotton Raisers Fix Prices

Atlanta, Aug. 24.—The Georgia division of the Southern Cotton association adopted resolutions calling upon cotton growers to fix a minimum price of 30 cents a bushel on cottonseed and to sell not a pound at a less price; also declaring that no cotton shall be sold by farmers under its jurisdiction at less than 10 cents a pound until a fixed price shall be agreed upon by the executive committee at its meeting in September.

Looking For Chicago Murderer

Chicago, Aug. 24.—The police made a number of arrests in connection with the murder of Mrs. Effie F. Mize, who was killed on Washington avenue, but all those arrested were released with the exception of William Bracey. The shooting was the act of a hold-up man, who probably feared that the cries of the woman would lead to his arrest and who shot her to facilitate his escape.

Date For Jones Celebration

Washington, Aug. 24.—Secretary Bonaparte and Superintendent Sands of the naval academy have determined upon April 24, 1906, as the date for the celebration in honor of Admiral Jones. This date is the anniversary of the capture of the British man-of-war Drake by Jones. It is expected that a French squadron will be at Annapolis at that time.

Fever Scare In Illinois

Brownsville, Ills., Aug. 24.—Some 300 laborers who have been working with a negro from Shreveport, who was taken sick of what is said to be yellow fever, are in a panic for fear of contracting the disease. Many citizens of Brownsville have met the negro since he passed the quarantine at Cairo. The negro has been isolated.

Revolutionists Baffle Police

Riga, Aug. 24.—The situation in the Baltic provinces is not improving. Several political murders have been reported. Official advices show that the disturbances are fostered and directed by a thoroughly organized social revolutionary committee, with headquarters at Riga, the emissaries of which defy the best efforts of the police.

HACKETT INQUEST

Coroner's Verdict Says Girl Died of Strangulation

GUILTY ONE NOT NAMED

Levi Hackett, Describing Death of Daughter, Collapses on the Stand--Officials Still Certain That Woman Committed Crime

Readfield, Me., Aug. 24.—Following the dramatic recital of the events immediately preceding and following the murder of Mattie Hackett by a strangler the coroner's jury, which held an inquest into the matter, found death due to strangulation from a rope in the hands of a person or persons unknown.

Thus the inquest puts the seal of mystery on this most amazing story of murder. Now, while there is no question that there will be an arrest in the case, it may not come for at least two weeks.

Only three witnesses were examined at the inquest, these being the father of the murdered girl, Levi L. Hackett, Dr. Milliken and Dr. Sturtevant. These latter told that death came from strangulation, that there were no other marks on the body save that at the throat and the black and blue marks on the girl's arms, indicating that her murderer seized her from behind, then fastened the fatal rope.

Previous to their testimony the girl's father told a graphic, dramatic story of the finding of the body, of the removal from the road into the house while the girl was still breathing, and later of the finding of the cord about the neck. Had the cord been found sooner the girl might not have died; or had he heeded the first sounds which came from the road, indicating trouble of some kind, the murder might have been averted.

Twice during the telling of this story the father collapsed on the stand. In each case it was necessary to stop the proceedings for a few minutes.

Detective Hartnett, sent here by the attorney general to investigate the crime, and Sheriff Ham believe that a woman committed the murder, and that a man was possibly an accessory after the fact.

According to this theory the girl was called out of the house into the darkness on the road by a man whom she knew and had no reason to fear. She went willingly. There it might be that the man left her a moment and a woman, who witnessed the meeting and who believed she had previous cause for jealousy against Miss Hackett, strangled her with the cord.

This is one of many theories. It is known that the officials are not satisfied at all with the story told by a woman who has been under suspicion, hence their questioning of her from time to time. They have questioned a man in the case, too, from time to time, believing that he knows the murderer, but will not give the information because it would strike one near to him.

Meanwhile Mrs. Elsie H. Raymond, who has been mentioned in the case as being absent from home at the time of the murder, although she declares she was only in the orchard in the rear, is calmly awaiting the official act. She knows her name has been connected with the affair and talks of it freely, without excitement or anger. She protests her innocence of any knowledge of the affair, and gives a detailed statement to account for her whereabouts at the time of the murder that seems, on its face, absolutely irreproachable.

Thousands Shook Fairbanks' Hand

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 24.—In the presence of Vice President Fairbanks, veterans of northern New York united with Ransom post, G. A. R., in unveiling a beautiful monument in Library park, commemorating the patriotism of soldiers of the town of Oswegatchie who fell in the Civil war. When Fairbanks had finished speaking thousands of his audience shook his hand.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

The Ward One Republican Committee hold an important meeting tonight.

Channing Willis of Thompson street has had his house newly painted.

Charles Turner of Newcomb street is entertaining his parents of Bath Maine.

The residence of Charles Webber of Bay View avenue has been recently repainted.

Tomorrow will be the last Friday of August and there will be only one more Saturday half holiday for some.

It was on Aug. 24 that the Vulture hand engine arrived in town and was stationed at Quincy, Point,—Aug. 24, 1844.

Miss Mary E. Marnock, whose death occurred on Tuesday of this week, was a former pupil of Woodward and a favorite among her young classmates.

Dr. John A. Gordon left last night for Canada for a month in the camping regions. During his absence Dr. Burke will take charge of his patients.

The prize winner at the whist party held by the S. of V. Auxiliary No. 3, on Wednesday were Miss Bertha Reed, Ralph Merritt and George Dexheimer.

W. T. Richards, Jr., and Claire Daly of this city left by boat on Tuesday evening for Augusta and other Maine cities. They expect to be away about three weeks. Souvenir postals received by their many friends announce their safe arrival and that they are enjoying a grand vacation. Undoubtedly they will have many fish stories to spring on their friends upon their return.

GIRL MISSING.

Wanted in Connection with Fire Cases.

Five Boys Now in Court.

Cases of All Continued Until Next Thursday.

The five boys arrested in connection with the incendiary fires at the Paterson sheds on Canal street last Saturday and Sunday were arraigned in court this morning.

Agent Davis of the State Board of Charity was present to look after the interests of the boys.

State Fire Inspector Rice, Chief Engineer Williams, Chief of Police Burrell, Officer Murray and Constable Hultman were also present to tell what they knew of the fires if necessary.

As all of the boys are juveniles the cases were called at the juvenile session.

Frogoni the oldest of the boys had already been in court and pleaded guilty, and his case came up on continuance. He was represented by counsel. The other boys were arraigned separately and all pleaded guilty.

These boys were Thomas Mullany, aged 13 years; Harold Gould, aged 13 years; William O'Neil, aged 14 years; and Francis B. De Young, aged 13 years.

The complaint charged them with wilfully and maliciously burning sheds of some person unknown at Quincy, August 20.

After the boys had pleaded, Agent Davis, Inspector Rice, Chief Burrell and counsel for Frogoni held a consultation with the court, after which the cases were continued until next Thursday.

Frogoni is held in $500, and the other boys in $300 each.

Wednesday night a summons was issued against Rosa Paraguas, aged 17, the girl who it is alleged put the boys up to setting the fires. When Chief Burrell went to serve the summons, however, he found that the girl had vanished. She had not been apprehended up to noon today.

An Active Man.

Mr. J. E. Hayward, one of the young men of East Braintree, who has been a subscriber for the Quincy Patriot for over sixty years, leaves tonight for a week's outing in the wilds of Maine. Looking about no doubt for a pretty young widow to travel with him. Although over eighty years of age he is as smart as a cricket and enjoys traveling as much as a youth of twenty. It gives us pleasure to see one as well and active as Mr. Hayward.

Three Calves.

Walter Littlefield says that Houghs Neck is not dead yet. He has a four-year old heiffer which gave birth to three calves Tuesday. Mother and calves are doing well.

—Don't you love the silent stars?" murmured the fair young thing.

"Never heard o' any," replied the practical youth. "They're always jawing with their husbands or their wives or their managers or somebody."—Houston Chronicle.

VICE PRINCIPAL.

Miss Carrie E. Small Accepts Appointment at Acadia Seminary.

The Prince Edwards Island paper prints the following item of interest relative to the recent principal of the Woodward Institute in this city:

Miss Carrie E. Small, M.A., who has accepted an appointment to the office of Vice-Principal of Acadia Seminary brings with her to the accomplishment of a most difficult task, rare personal qualifications, large experience and intelectual attainments of a high order. Her education has been secured at Wellesley College and Brown University. From Brown University Miss Small received her degree of B A, with "fine honors in Philosophy," and her degree of M. A. with honors in Pedagogy. This academic training has been largely supplemented by special courses in Felix Adler's Summer School of Ethics, various courses with professors at Yale and Harvard, and by extensive travel in Europe and America.

"As an educator she has had a long and most successful experience. After several years teaching in secondary school work she was appointed Principal of Plymouth (Mass) High school. Her success here led to her appointment as principal of the Woodward Institute, Quincy, Mass., a high grade school for girls, with an endowment of $300,000. After a most successful experience in school organization and study, Miss Small resigned this position to complete long contemplated courses of advanced study, from the completion of which she comes to Acadia Seminary.

"It would be a pleasure to quote from the many letters which contain unsolicited expressions speaking in the highest terms of Miss Small's personality and work. It is enough to add that Dr. Alexander McKenzie, of Shepard Memorial Church, Cambridge, Mass., Mary A. Livermore, President W. H. P. Faunce, Rev. T. D. Anderson, D. D., Providence, R. I., unite in a most favorable estimate of Miss Small as a woman of noble christian personality, high ideals, advanced attainments, good judgment, fine taste and a true culture.

"Acadia Seminary is to be congratulated upon this appointment."

STRANGER WON.

On the Run of Quincy Yachts to Provincetown.

A card from Vice Commodore Robbins announces the safe arrival at Provincetown of the Quincy Yacht club fleet that are participating in the second club cruise.

The fleet started at 5.15 Wednesday morning under command of Vice Commodore Robbins.

The boats had a light northwest wind until reaching Wood End. Then the breeze was light from the northeast. The sea was smooth during the trip and the sail was an enjoyable one.

The Hutoka was the first boat to arrive coming to anchor in Provincetown harbor at 1.53:30, but the Stranger won the race on corrected time.

Following is the summary of the run:

GRAND EXCURSION.

Odd Fellows Find New Place for an Outing.

Under the auspices of Puritan lodge 179, I. O. O. F., of Braintree, 267 people enjoyed an outing at Canobie Lake Park at Salem, N. H., on Wednesday.

Puritan lodge had for associates on the excursion many members of the neighboring lodges in Quincy, Weymouth and Randolph, also friends of the order who were desirous of a choice day's excursion. Nearly half of the excursionist were women and young ladies.

The party assembled at the North station, Boston, and the special train over the B. & M. R. R., left at the appointed time, 9.02 o'clock, arriving in Methuen, at 9.50. Four mammoth electrics were in waiting, and inside of five minutes two bells were given, and the run of six miles to Canobie lake was made in about fifteen minutes.

There the excursionists found one of the prettiest and perhaps the best parks in New England. The park is extra large, full of attractions and the shade trees are not to be surpassed. People arrived in electric cars from the surrounding cities, Lawrence, Lowell, Nashua, Manchester, Haverhill, and also many towns until the Puritan lodge excursionists were hard to find in a gathering of over 2,000 people.

The excursionists enjoyed the large gasolene launch and the boats on the clear water of Canobie lake, and patronized the open air theatre, roller coaster, large restaurant, etc.

About fifty from Quincy were in the party. Boston was reached on the return trip shortly after seven o'clock.

GRAND SHORE DINNER

to that Crescent street fence that blocks the road. He took the matter to the office of the Attorney General where Assistant Darling gave the opinion that the city of Quincy had abandoned that portion of Crescent street when they transferred it to the Metropolitan Park Commission for the Furnace Brook parkway, quoting Chapter 450 of the Acts of 1885. The Mayor says he questioned if it was not different with a long used street than with private land, but was told there was no difference. The constitutionality of the act might be questioned in the courts.

The Mayor touched on Metropolitan affairs in general, saying that they might be expensive, but nevertheless water was a blessing, and there was no better water supplied to any city in the United States. Sewers also were a great benefit to the health of the city.

General Manager Smith of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, was next introduced. He hoped Quincy realized the importance of the shipbuilding plant to the city. It was employing over 3000 men and the pay roll amounted to over $40,000 per week. It was building vessels with a total tonnage of 70,000 including three U. S. battleships and hoped to enlarge on this. The company was interested in progressive improvements, and have the sole control over the Curtis marine turbine and Holland submarine boat. Was also building a steam traveller, which was an innovation.

A large number of local men were employed and he found them reliable, and that they readily adapted themselves to the business. The apprentice system was being enlarged and the company was taking all the Quincy boys it could get. We hope to build up the plant and make it a credit to the city.

Principal Assessor C. H. Johnson said the Board of Trade was an organization which could help Quincy socially and financially. He urged business men to join the association and push Quincy.

Ex-Mayor John O. Hall said opportunity was knocking at the city's doors, and that we could by combined effort make Quincy a city second to none. Our advantages are limitless and we have the business enterprises. The city was bound to grow, but it should grow with a definite plan.

Representative Nicol brought greetings and said he was ever ready to work for the city and the Board of Trade at all times.

A. W. Stetson moved three cheers for President Sandberg and the dinner was over.

There was no moon to light the sail home, but the steamer started at 9.45, and made the trip safely, and quickly to Houghs Neck, and the special electric cars reached Quincy about 11 o'clock.

To Play at Weymouth.

On Saturday the South Quincy team will journey to Weymouth for a battle with the Deweys of that town. This promises to be a most interesting game as it will bring together two of the strongest teams in this section. Owing to the sickness of the South Quincy manager, "Sid" Patterson, the popular young pitcher, whom many teams fear, will manage the team. He says that the South Quincy rooters will see two youngsters on the team Saturday who are bound to make good. He refuses to disclose their names at present, but says they will cover first and second base respectively. The fans are trying hard to "dope" out who these players might be, but they are not worrying as they are confident that "Pat" will turn out nothing but the best.

By Trolley to Marblehead.

Sunday, Aug. 20, Marblehead was the centre of attraction for those who love yachting, also those who take pleasure in viewing a grand display of yachts even if they do not indulge in the pasttime themselves.

The presence of the New York Yacht club visiting the Eastern Yacht club in old Marblehead harbor was enough to draw thousands to that quaint old town and among those from Wollaston were two trolley parties. The first to start were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Page, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ryder Doane, who are effusive in their account of the pleasure they had in viewing the sights, and taking pictures of prominent features. The surf at "The Neck" was just in its fury. The "Churn" being particularly grand.

The second party was composed of Mrs. Robert Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lombard, Miss Susie Page, Mr. Moses Whittier and Mr Joe Whittier. They first went to Bass Point and had dinner, and then proceeded to Marblehead where they spent the afternoon, returning in the evening, after a most strenuous outing, as Joe puts it, for there was something doing every minute.

BEFORE NOV. 1

Quincy Shore Parkway Will Be Graded.

The Contract Awarded This Week.

To the Newell & Snowling Construction Company.

Work is to be pushed on the new Metropolitan parkway in Quincy between the National Sailors Home and that portion at Atlantic which has already been brought to a grade, as the contract requires that it sball be graded before Nov. 1.

The Metropolitan Park Commissioners have awarded the contract for filling and grading for which bids were offered Monday, to the Newell & Snowling Construction Company. This company's bid was the lowest of nine. It is to begin work at once. It will put the proposed shore drive in condition for the top surfacing and finishing, where at present the shore is merely in its natural state.

The list of bids and bidders was as follows:

Newell & Snowling Construction Company, $65,700.
Rowe & Perini, $78,375.
T. H. Gill & Co. $91,875.
William H. Ellis, $102,875.
Coleman Brothers, $104,900.
Eastern Dredging Company $120,100.
Jones & Meehan, $137,700.
Globe Construction Company, $139,525.
Thomas E. Ruggles, $220,200.

The variation in bids was remarkable, some contractors wanting over three times as much as the successful bidders. The figures of Newell & Snowling are evidently low.

—A French lawyer, Leon Cléry, left in his will the sum of 80,000 francs, the interest on which is to be given every year to whatever school teacher may be adjudged to have done the most in inculcating pity for the animals among the pupils.

—The latest thing in Paris journalism, a paper bearing the title of L'Invisible, made its appearance on the boulevards on Oct. 5. It is printed in white ink on black carbonized paper.

AT HOUGHS NECK.

No Move This Year for an Illumination—Personals.

The summer residents have commenced to think about getting back to their winter homes. Some families have already gone and others go next week. There have been some new arrivals however.

The idea of any form of an illumination festival has been given up. Many would have liked to hold some celebration, but the residents are not united. Some want a rousing one day affair while others want to extend it over three days. The three day affairs have been tried for two years and have proved grand fizzles.

A. Schaubel and family of Natick are housed in the Harrington cottage on Bird street.

Letter Carrier Dunham finds his automobile very handy in the delivery of mail.

Rev. A. A. Ellsworth will be the speaker at the religious service at the Union chapel on Sunday at 11 A.M. It is hoped that summer residents will attend these services largely.

W. W. Campbell of Malden with family are in the Burnham cottage on Rock Island road.

The Acorn cottage damaged by fire last week is being repaired.

George R. Ingersol of Brockton with family are enjoying the month of August at the Marguerite cottage on Shannon street.

Mrs. Elizabeth Downey of Dorchester with family is at the Peterson cottage on Turner street.

MILTON.

Mr. and Mrs. George Arnold have returned from a visit at Providence, R.I.

George W. Webster has returned from Provincetown.

Frank Erhard is home from a trip to Brant Rock.

Mrs. William H. Doherty, who has been ill, is reported as being convalescent.

Mr. and Mrs. John Forde are expected home from Europe this week.

The house of Hose 2 has been repainted.

Officer James Wigley, day officer at East Milton, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

The alarm from Box 46 on Sunday was for a slight fire on Central avenue.

The Thursday Evening club had a grand time last week on its excursion to Nantasket. The only drawback was the sickness of the vice-president caused by eating too many clams.

Clarence Halvey of Hose 2 has returned from his vacation.

Bellevue Park and Montclair.

Miss Ethel Young of Brighton is staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Young, at their cottage in Bellevue Park. Miss Young spent the first of the summer on the Cape.

Miss Irene DeLory of Montclair avenue is in Natick for a week. From there she will go to Providence.

Walter Clark returned Saturday from a three weeks' sojourn in Bethlehem, New Hampshire. Mr. Clark spends his summers in Bellevue Park. He is one of the prominent golfers of the Merrymount Golf club.

Eric Felt of Broadway has been in Lynn for the last six weeks.

Mrs. Spencer and daughter Lily, of Squantum street have returned from Woburn where they have been spending a part of the summer.

HOW TO SAVE.

Timely Hints to Prevent Drowning.

By Wesley Jones of U. S. L. S. C.

What Ought to be Done and What Ought Not.

There are so many lives lost every year by drowning that might be saved by a knowledge of how to act in cases of emergency that we are constrained to publish the regular summer bulletin of advice.

A large proportion of the lives lost every year are of chilhren who have never been given any conception of the dangers on the water, either in bathing or boating. We have been urging persistently upon parents and school boards the duty and necessity of education in this direction, and of teaching the young how to swim and how to act when boating.

As a result many lives have been saved the past year by children in their teens. Let us kindly impress upon your readers these rules:

First—Do not go out in any pleasure boat of small or large dimensions without being assured that there are life-saving buoys or cusions aboard sufficient to float all on board in case of an upset or collison.

Second—With a party, be sure you are all properly and satisfactorily seated before you leave the shore—particularly so with girls on board. Let no one attempt to exchange seats in mid-stream, or to put a foot on the edge or gunwhale of the boat to change seats, or to rock the boat for fun. This, by rollicking young people, has upturned many a boat and lost very many lives every year. Where the waters become rough from a sudden squall or passing steamers never rise in the boat, but settle down as close to the bottom as possible, and keep cool until the rocking danger is past. If overturned, a woman's skirts, if held ont by her extended arms, while she uses her feet as if climbing stairs, will often hold her up while a boat may pull out from the shore and save her.

A non-swimmer, by drawing his arms up to his sides and pushing down with widely extended hands, while stair climbing, or treading water with his feet, may hold himself up for several minutes, often when a single minute means his life, or throwing out the arms, dog fashion, forward overhand and pulling in, as if reaching for something, that may bring him help, may at least keep him afloat till help comes.

Third—In rescuing drowning persons, seize them by the hair or collar, back of the neck; do not let them throw their arms around your neck or arms. If unmanageable do not strike them, but let them drop under a moment until quiet, then tow them into the shore. If unconscious, do not wait a moment for a doctor or ambulance, but begin at once. First, get the tongue out, and hold it by a handkerchief or towel to let the water out; get a buoy, box or barrel under the stomach or hold them over your knee, head down, and jolt the water out, then turn them over side to side four or five times, then on the back, and with a pump movement keep their arms agoing from pit of stomach overhead to a straight out and back 14 or 16 times a minute until signs of returning life are shown. A bellows movement pressure on the stomach at the same time is a great aid if you have help.

Of course you will at first loosen collar and all binding clothing. Let some one at once remove shoes and stockings, and at the same time rub the lower limbs with an upward movement from foot to knee, occassionally slapping the soles of the feet with the open hand. Working on these lines our volunteer life savers have been successful after two hours of incessant manipulation, but are generally successful inside of 30 minutes.

Spirits of ammonia to the nostrils, or a feather tickling in the throat, often helps to quicken, but we rarely need anything more than the above mechanical means. Use no spirits internally until after breathing and circulation are restored, then a moderate use of stimulants or hot tea and a warm blanket or bed is of the first importance.

Wesley Jones.

LEG FOR MARVEL.

First in the Cape Cat Class at Provincetown.

There was such a strong southeast wind for the opening regatta of the South shore circuit at Provincetown that one of the Quincy yachts was dismasted and two others went to her assistance and withdrew from the race. The Stranger of the Quincy and Wollaston clubs was the disabled boat. The Marvel finished over two minutes ahead of the Hustler and won the race by 39 seconds.

In Class E the order was Tyro, Rube, Nutmeg, Nedric II and Peri II. In Class I the Osprey II led the Hayseed II, Mirage II and Kittawake. The order in the handicap class was Rambler, Mildred II and Peggy II.

The schedule of the Cape Cat class follows:

| Yacht and owner | Actual time. h. m. s. | Corrected time. h. m s. |
|---|---|---|
| Marvel, I. M. Whittemore | 2 21 20 | 2 18 47 |
| Hustler, H. W. Robbins | 2 23 32 | 2 19 26 |
| Arawak, G. H. Nickerson | 2 26 34 | 2 23 58 |
| Argestes, G. H. Wilkins | 2 25 25 | 2 24 19 |
| Stranger, F. E. Dawes | Dismasted | |
| Moondyne, Shaw Bros. | Withdrew | |
| Goblin, R. M. Lothrop | Withdrew | |

BIDS FOR SEA WALL.

Four Contractors for the Improvements at Hull.

The Harbor and Land Commissioners opened bids on Thursday for a sea wall and jetties at Stony Beach, Hull, for which many tons of Quincy granite will probably be wanted.

The Sampson Bros. Corporation bid $10.67 per foot for wall, and $5.75 for jetties.

William H. Ellis bid $8.36 for wall, and $3.43 for jetties.

Daniel E. Lynch wants $13.50 for wall, and $5.20 for jetties.

William L. Miller would do the wall for $8.23, and jettings for $3.52.

Bids were also opened for building a breakwater at Vineyard Haven, for which three bids were received; and for dredging Nantucket harbor.

THE COUNTY GAINS.

Population of Norfolk, 32,668 More Than in 1895.

The census bureau reports the population of Norfolk county at 167,487, against 134,819 ten years ago. This is a gain of 32,668 or over 24 per cent. Quincy is growing faster than the county as the percentage of Quincy is over 35.

The county figures for thirty years are:

|---|---|
| In 1875 | 88,321 |
| In 1880 | 96,507 |
| In 1885 | 102,142 |
| In 1890 | 118,950 |
| In 1895 | 134,819 |
| In 1900 | 151,539 |
| In 1905 | 167,487 |

The percentage of gain in Middlesex county was 21 plus; in Worcester 18, and Hampshire only 13.

Norfolk county had over one-twentieth of the population of the State in 1900 which entitles her to two senators. As the population of the State will be under 3,350,000 Norfolk county will more than hold its own.

—The signs put up by some "sma merchants" in Scotland are very amusing. An Aberdeen sign ran, "Fresh butter and eggs Laid Here Daily by Betsy Smith." Another not far distant was, "Peats, Coals and Other Groceries Sold Here." In an East Lothian town an announcement was printed, "Balls and Marriage Parties Purveyed."

—A Kansas pastor has been fined by his flock because he did not preach enough on church doctrine. The simple religion of Christ is lost in the shuffle in that part of the wild and woolly west.

—In Japan, as in Russia, there is no such thing as free speech, and the alleged constitutional government is much less than the term implies as only one citizen in each hundred is allowed to vote.

TWO GOVERNORS

Expected at Launching of Battleship Vermont at Quincy.

Also Members of Russian Navy and the U. S. Navy Officials

The Third Battleship Launched at Quincy—One of the Largest in the Navy.

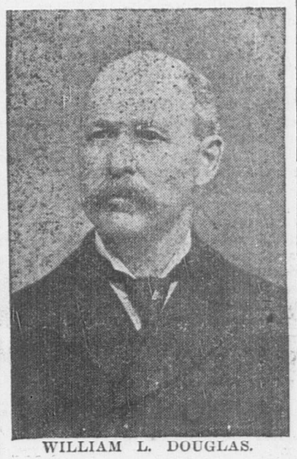
Arrangements are now about completed for the launching next Thursday for the Battleship Vermont at the works of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. This will be the third battleship to be built and launched in Quincy.



WILLIAM L. DOUGLAS.

High tide Thursday is at 11.30 and it is planned that the big fighting ship shall take her maiden dip about 10.30. It will probably be a little later however, before she slides into her natural element.

Miss Jennie Bell daughter of Gov. Charles J. Bell of Montpelier, Vt., will christen the ship, and as she begins to slide down the ways will break a bottle of wine over her bows with the words "I christen thee, Vermont."

The launching will be witnessed by a large party of distinguished guests. These will include Gov. Charles J. Bell of Vermont with his personal staff and their wives; Gov. and Mrs. W. L. Douglas of Massachusetts and some members of his staff; Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles H. Darling, the Vermont Veteran association 50 strong who will occupy a special stand near battleship; the officers of the Vermont Association of Massachusetts and the Daughters of Vermont; Com. A. G. Boutakoff, Russian Naval Attache at Washington, many of the New England Congressmen, Mayor Thompson of Quincy, W. S. Lark and W. L. Balsinger of the Carnegie Steel Co., President Grove of the Cramp Shipbuilding Co. and naval officers from the Navy Yard at Charlestown.

The official Vermont party will arrive in Boston Wednesday evening, and will make their headquarters for the night at the Somerset. Thursday morning carriages will be taken for the South Terminal where a special train will leave at 9.30 for the Fore River Works. The train will run as far as East Braintree and then over the Fore River Co. private tracks to the works, landing the party within a few feet of the battleship.

After the launch a lunch will be served by the company, to the guests, in the mold loft, and there will probably be some informal remarks of a congratulatory nature by the Governor of Vermont and others.

Admission to the launching stand will be by ticket. There are, however, many vantage points outside of the yard from which the launch may be seen, and if the day is pleasant it will be witnessed by thousands.

This ship when completed will be the largest and the most powerful in the American navy, and will be the equal of any in the European navies. Every advance in modern shipbuilding has been drafted by the Fore River Co., and there are many radical departures from the conventional lines of naval construction.

Girl Not Located.

The police have been unable to locate Rosa Paraguas, the Italian girl who it is alleged put the boys up to set fires on Canal street.

The chances are that they will not hurt their eyesight looking for her, as long as she keeps away from Quincy.

State Conventions.

The Democratic State convention will be held in Faneuil hall, Boston, Saturday, Oct. 7, the day following the Republican convention.

—Those who were expecting an early settlement of the Equitable muddle, will be compelled to wait a long time. The investigating committee has decided to defer the work "until" it can find an "honest lawyer," and our readers know it is a difficult thing to find.

A new block is being built on Washington street near the Norfolk House. It is rumored that an out of town druggist will occupy the street floor.

—Springfield unions have voted to give up their annual labor day parade and the vote is causing much talk about the city.

—The American Writing Paper Company pay the heaviest tax in Holyoke, nearly $100,000.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Quincy has no reason to be down hearted over the new census returns, even though the 30,000 so fondly anticipated did not materialize. A population of over 28,000 places the "City of Presidents" well up in the list of municipalities both in Massachusetts and the United States. In the good old Bay State we are No. 20 and in the United States about No. 160, being No. 171 in 1900. Having moved up in Massachusetts it is reasonable to suppose that we have moved up in the country.

The only sore spot in the returns is the fact that Quincy did not pass Everett, as Everett is the only city that has passed Quincy since 1880 and maintained her lead. Perhaps it should be glory enough that Quincy in the meantime has passed the cities of Woburn, Newburyport, Northampton, Chicopee, Pittsfield, Gloucester and Waltham. Probably Quincy will be kept busy by some of these cities during the next five years, but we do not propose to be overtaken.

The census returns of 28,067 for Quincy is in excess of the published estimates of the State Board of Health and other State boards, and indicates marked progress. The percentage of increase in five years has been over 17 per cent., and for ten years over 35 per cent. This percentage will be much above the average for the State, and excelled by very few cities and towns.

The census figures afford another opportunity to "boom" Quincy! Talk Quincy! And enthuse over Quincy! We are bound to grow! And with good generalship, and careful financiering Quincy will come out all right!

Massachusetts is the only state in the United States with more cities larger than Quincy. These facts which were compiled after the National census of 1900 should be kept in mind:

Alabama had but 3 larger.
Arizona none.
Arkansas but 1.
California only 4.
Colorado 2.
Connecticut 6.
Delaware but 1.
District of Columbia 1.
Florida only 1.
Georgia but 3.
Idaho none.
Illinois but 8.
Indiana only 5.
Indian territory none.
Iowa but 6.
Kansas 3.
Kentucky 4.
Louisiana 2.
Maine but 1.
Maryland only 1.
Massachusetts had 22. (Now 19)
Michigan only 4.
Minnesota but 3.
Mississippi none.
Missouri only 4.
Montana but 1.
Nebraska just 3.
Nevada none of 5000.
New Hampshire a solitary 1.
New Jersey 10.
New Mexico none.
And New York but 16.
North Carolina had none.
North Dakota also none.
Ohio, the Presidential state, 11.
Oklahoma none.
Oregon but 1,
Pennsylvania only 18.
Rhode Island 3.
South Carolina just 1.
South Dakota none.
Tennessee but 4.
The big State of Texas 5.
Utah just 1.
And Vermont not 1.
Virginia but 2.
Washington only 3.
West Virginia just 1.
Wisconsin only 5.
Wyoming none.

"Quincy is no mean city!" The sooner her people realize this and "talk Quincy" the better for all concerned.

—The Japanese government is placing large orders for metal and woodworking machinery in this country. The machines are intended for use in the imperial arsenals, shipbuilding yards, locomotive works, etc. One single order placed a few days ago included 100 lathes.

PRODDING SULTAN

France Demands Release of One of Her Citizens

MUST BE DONE AT ONCE

Failure to Comply Will Result In Disciplinary Measures--Intention of Military Authorities to Occupy Moroccan Town

Paris, Aug. 25.—As the result of a special meeting of the council of ministers here it was announced that a military demonstration will be made against Morocco unless the sultan promptly yields to the French demands for the release of the French Algerian citizen, a merchant named Bouzian, who was unjustifiably arrested at Gharb, a Moroccan town on the Algerian frontier.

Instructions were sent to the French minister at Fez, Mr. Taillandier, to make a final and imperative demand on the sultan. The minister was informed that if this demand should be refused the entire personnel of the legation was to depart from Morocco and a military movement would simultaneously be begun along the Algerian frontier.

It is the intention of the military authorities to occupy a Moroccan border town, probably Oujida, owing to its strategic command of the route to the Moroccan capital. However, the officials are confident that the sultan will yield before the threat of using military force.

The demonstration as planned is somewhat similar to that which an American squadron made at Tangier to compel the release of Ion Perdicaris, who was captured by the bandit Raisuli. The French authorities deemed a naval demonstration inexpedient, owing to the possible international complications resulting from other countries sending warships to observe the demonstration, while a military demonstration against Morocco would be largely a police measure not involving the general political question of French authority in Morocco. The persistent refusal of the sultan to yield, however, might compel the French to advance further than a border town.

Germany has thus far approved the French demands for redress, but fears are expressed in some quarters that the sultan will refuse to yield in the hope of securing the aid of Germany. Practically all the leading powers have approved the determination of the French government to adopt a firm course. The proposed course cannot be put into execution before another week, owing to the time necessary to communicate the final demands to the sultan.

Spread of Fever Due to Foreigners

New Orleans, Aug 25.—Many Italians and other foreigners fled from New Orleans to surrounding parishes when yellow fever first grew violent. They established nests of infection at various points and now many of them are drifting back to New Orleans, bringing back the infection. Thursday's report of yellow fever in New Orleans is: New cases, 44; total to date, 1600; deaths, 7; total, 226; new foci, 10; total, 360; remaining under treatment, 285.

Failed to Swim Across Channel

Dover, Eng., Aug. 25.—The 30th anniversary of the success of Captain Webb in swimming across the English channel brought out three candidates anxious to emulate the famous swimmer. They were Miss Annette Kellerman, T. W. Burgess and Horace Mew. After covering six miles, Miss Kellerman was overcome with sea sickness and gave up the attempt. Mew and Burgess also quit.

Swedish Prince For Norway's Throne

Stockholm, Aug. 25.—The feeling in government circles regarding the accession by a Bernadotte prince to the Norwegian throne has undergone a complete change. King Oscar no longer opposes the acceptance of the crown by his son, Charles. As soon as the union between Norway and Sweden is dissolved his answer will be given and it probably will be affirmative.

Reviewing Bennington Report

Washington, Aug. 25.—Speaking of the consideration that has been given the Bennington report, Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte says that it seems to be more and more important as the testimony in the case is reviewed. No action has yet been taken upon the recommendation of the court of inquiry that Ensign Wade be court martialled.

Two Men Killed on Steamer

Montreal, Aug. 25.—A. Jackson, a fireman, and Alexander Smith, third engineer, were killed on the steamer Lakona by an explosion in the engine room just as the boat was leaving port for Glasgow. The fifth engineer, Andrew Miller, was badly scalded.

Half a Million Loss by Fire

New York, Aug. 25.—A loss of more than $500,000 was caused early this morning by a fire in three stores of the extensive plant of the Bush Terminal Warehouse company in Brooklyn. The fire was started by lightning during a terrific storm.

Russian Official Resigns

St. Petersburg, Aug. 25.—The czar has accepted the resignation of M. Bouligin as minister of the interior. Count Alexis Ignatieff, it is thought, will probably succeed him, although General Trepoff is mentioned as a possibility.

STORM IN CONNECTICUT

Three Persons Struck by Lightning and Crops Damaged

New Haven, Aug. 25. Connecticut yesterday afternoon was visited by one of the fiercest electrical storms of the year and with it came a downpour of rain that swelled streams, flooded cellars and did great damage to crops, especially through the central and eastern parts of the state. Reports from different sections of the state show that the storm, in some respects, was the worst ever experienced, especially in Hartford and vicinity and Ansonia and vicinity. In New Haven the storm did little damage and there were no fatalities as a result of it. Only for a few minutes did the wind roar.

At Hartford 1.51 inches of rain fell from 3:30 until 5:30 o'clock and at West Hartford over 2½ inches was the official fall. The damage to tobacco and other crops about that section of the state was heavy.

At Unionville, William Shaw of Brooklyn was instantly killed by lightning while under a baseball grand stand, and at Hartford Mrs. J. L. Babkirk was probably fatally injured by lightning while standing in a doorway at her home. Loretta Shurtell of Ansonia was struck by lightning while in her kitchen and terribly burned. Her injuries may prove fatal.

A huge ball of fire, which is declared by the startled residents of Black Point, a New London summer resort, to have been as big as a haystack, hung over the barn of Charles Denison for what seemed to be several seconds, and then struck. The electrical display was one of the most vivid ever seen there.

Bard Hutchinson Takes a Bride

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 25.—John W. Hutchinson, the famous bard of High Rock, Lynn, Mass., singer of songs of freedom, who, in his 86th year, recently announced his engagement to a young violinist and is defendant in a breach of promise suit filed by another woman, was married in this city to Mrs. Agnes P. Everest of Washington. The Bride is 50 years of age, has twice been married and is a singer and teacher.

Brothers Perished Together

Westbrook, Me., Aug. 25.—Fabian, 6, and Albert, 7, two children of Angus Gallant, were drowned in the Presumpscott river here while playing along the bank. The younger boy fell in, and in trying to assist him the older one lost his life. Playmates ran nearly a half-mile to their homes before giving the alarm, otherwise the lives might have been saved.

Sudden Death at Camp Meeting

Sterling Junction, Mass., Aug. 25.—Charles Buck, aged 76, a leading manufacturer of edge tools, came to attend the Methodist camp meeting. He was attacked by acute indigestion, fell at the gate of the camp ground and died two hours later. Buck carried on in Milbury the extensive business established by Buck Bros. and was widely known.

Schooner Banged by Warship

Newport, R. I., Aug. 25.—After colliding with and damaging the little kerosene oil schooner N. S. Gallup, the battleship Kearsarge arrived in the harbor last night with the disabled craft and her crew of two. The warship was not damaged and the loss to the owner of the schooner, the National Oil company, does not exceed $500.

Poisonous Restaurant Chowder

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 25.—Warren S. Hardy is in the critical ward at the city hospital with ptomaine poisoning, which he attributes to a restaurant chowder which he ate. This is the second case within a few days that has been caused by the serving of canned goods in soups and chowders in Worcester restaurants.

Satisfied With Bankruptcy Law

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Aug. 25.—At the second day's session of the American Bar association an interesting development was the adoption of the recommendation of the committee on commercial law that the association oppose the repealing by congress of the present bankruptcy law.

Grounded In Boston Harbor

Boston, Aug. 25.—Steamer Munnatawket ran ashore on Deer island last evening while coming on a trip from Nahant, and was grounded so fast that four tugboats were unable to move her. There were on board over 100 passengers and all were taken off by tugs and brought to this city.

Urged to Stand For Governorship

Boston, Aug. 25.—Governor Douglas, through his private secretary, has made public a letter he received from Richard Olney, urging him to reconsider his determination not to be a candidate for renomination. The statement also says that many similar letters have been received.

Gunboat's Boilers Leaky

Boston, Aug. 25.—Gunboat Nashville, which was to have sailed yesterday from the navy yard for Brooklyn, was forced to remain here on account of a leakage in her boilers.

Manila Wrestling With Cholera

Manila, Aug. 25.—There is an outbreak of Cholera in Manila. It is thought that it is due to green vegetables from Hong Kong. Yesterday two soldiers died at Camp McKinley, which is now quarantined. In the city several natives and one American woman have died.

Want Jerome For Mayor

New York, Aug. 25.—The city committee of the Citizens' union last night, by a vote of 30 to 16, decided to offer the nomination for the mayoralty to District Attorney Jerome.

THAT STAB AT LABOR.

Trades Unionists Should Steer Clear of Would Be Disrupters.

Some inquiries reached me regarding the convention held in Chicago in June, the call for which was signed by some of the officers of the American Labor union, the Western Federation of Miners and a number of individuals who, so far as my information goes, are not members of any labor organization, writes John B. Lennon in American Federationist.

To answer these queries individually takes a good deal of time and is not as satisfactory in some respects as answering them all at one time and in one way, and briefly I want to give a few reasons why I believe that trade unionists should not lend encouragement to those who took part in this conference.

If trades unionists will observe carefully the composition of this proposed organization they will readily discover that it is composed of elements that have refused point blank to co-operate with the general labor movement of the country. They are not now and have not been to any very considerable extent members of the American Federation of Labor or co-operators in the general labor movement of the country as carried on by the trades unionists.

Any degree of success they could attain would only create further discord. I do not believe that they can attain success of any consequence, but the mere fact of trying to form an organization, if it be one only in name, makes an excuse if not a reason why the workers of the country who are now unorganized refuse to join unions. They will say to the organizers: "Your movement is itself divided. Until you can agree among yourselves I will stay on the outside."

No such division as these people propose can be found among the employers of the country. They do not form rival organizations in industry because some of them are Democrats and others are Republicans and still others Prohibitionists or single taxers. So far as industrial organization is concerned they are one everywhere.

But this convention, because of alleged political differences, desires to divide the labor movement. Fortunately it will be unable to do so to any extent, but its intention to do so is self evident, and no loyal trades unionist can or will give any support or sympathy to an undertaking of this character.

TRADE AGREEMENTS.

Tend to Promote Harmony Between Labor and Capital.

The annual report of Chauncey H. Castle, president of the Stove Founders' National Defense association, which has just been made public, is regarded as a notable recognition, from the employers' standpoint, of the practical value of trade agreements and of the increasing respect for their inviolability among both employers and wage earners. The recent convention of the association ratified the new agreement made by its conference committee with the Iron Molders' Union of North America, a prominent feature of which is an increase in the ratio of apprentices. The following are extracts from President Castle's report:

"This is the twentieth annual meeting of the Stove Founders' National Defense association, and while your officers have during the last year had a large number of grievances to adjust none of them was of a very serious nature. This may be accounted for by the fact that the officers of the various organizations with which we have agreements have become more familiar with the objects and intents of the agreements and impressed with their importance and value in the settlement of questions in dispute. I am pleased to be able to say that in all cases the letter and spirit of the agreements have been carried out, so that peace and harmony have prevailed.

"The number of cases of general importance that have been adjusted during the last year is seventy-one. Of this number those involving the molders were thirty-six; mounters, twenty-eight; polishers, seven. In six instances the molders quit work and were, in accord with the agreements, obliged to return before consideration could be properly given their grievances. In the same number of cases the mounters who had gone out on an independent strike were under agreements obliged by their officers to resume their work pending adjustment. In one or two cases our members shut out their workmen through error, but on being admonished by us opened the shop to them while the grievances were being taken up and adjusted under the agreements. In all instances the questions were adjusted without difficulty, with little expense and in full accord with the intent and purpose of our agreement."

Labor Notes.

About 500 waitresses in Boston have recently been taken into the Bartenders, Cooks and Waiters' union.

The Pittsburg fire department, numbering 300 men, has joined the United Labor league, A. F. of L.

Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers' brotherhood will have an international convention this year for the first time in four years. The executive board is now in session at Lafayette, Ind., making the arrangements. The convention will be in September.

The New Jersey court of appeals has declared its belief that the union label law of that state is unconstitutional. The case on which the decision was made has been appealed to the state supreme court. That court has previously decided in favor of the law in other cases.

PRESIDENT IS FIGHTING ON

Dealing Directly With Peterhof and Tokio

PEACE PROSPECT IS DIM

Response of Czar to Japanese Proposition Regarding Repurchase of Sakhalin at Fixed Price Is Unfavorable--Irriducible Minimum Is Not Yet Reached--Kaiser's Visit to the Czar Followed by Show of Defiance on the Part of Russia--Komura and Takahira Opposed to Waiving Demand For Reimbursement of War Expenses

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 25.—Up to 11 o'clock last night six cablegrams had been received by Mr. Witte from St. Petersburg. All came from Count Lamsdorff and all were opposed to the Japanese compromise proposition as presented at Wednesday's meeting. However, it is positively stated that the cablegrams announce that direct pour parlers are now in progress between Emperor Nicholas, President Roosevelt and the Japanese government.

The prospects of peace seem desperate, but they are not hopeless, despite the prevailing pessimism. There is still a chance and the forces working for peace are continuing their labors. The president failed twice, but he is fighting on.

The result of Ambassador Meyer's audience at Peterhof Wednesday was unsatisfactory, but at least it was not a rebuff. It left the door open and within a few hours after the receipt at Oyster Bay of Meyer's account of his audience the president had sent a new appeal, through Mr. Witte, who received it from Mr. Peirce. The czar had, in effect, declined the proposed compromise offered by Japan. He had refused it because, under a disguise, Japan offered to withdraw the article asking remuneration for the cost of the war on condition that Russia repurchase from the military possession of Japan the northern part of Sakhalin at a fixed price of 1,200,000,000 yen—the estimated "frais de guerre." Every message received from Peterhof was inflexible upon that point. Had Japan not inserted the sum, had that been left for future adjustment, the proposition would undoubtedly have proved more palatable.

It can be positively stated that the divergence in the compromise as suggested by the president and as offered by Japan at the conference touched this very point. The president did not suggest any price or the fixing of a price, and it is believed, although this cannot be affirmed, that his latest effort is to secure the consent of the czar to agree to accept the Japanese proposition with the amount subject to future adjustment by an arbitral board or otherwise.

When asked if it was correct, as reported, that the Japanese had said their last word and that all hope was over, a Japanese authority most competent to speak replied: "No, we have not declared that our proposition of Wednesday was our irreducible minimum. We are not assuming a threatening attitude. That is not the way to make peace." But the plenipotentiaries themselves no longer control on either side. The negotiations have passed from their hands to their principals at Peterhof and Tokio.

Most persistently the report continues to be circulated here that Emperor William has been one of the main obstacles to peace; that while ostensibly in sympathy with the president's efforts, he is advising Emperor Nicholas not to yield. The foundation for this belief is the fact, which appears fully confirmed, that Witte's instructions were made more imperative and intransigeant upon the question of indemnity and cession of territory after the kaiser's interview with the czar in the Gulf of Finland. Beyond this no evidence is offered.

It is significant that Witte made it a point last night to express his disbelief in the report from St. Petersburg, which caused consternation here, that Count Lamsdorff had authorized Reuter's agent to declare that Russia under no circumstances would pay a contribution either direct or indirect or make a cession of territory whatever. Mr. Witte said he could not imagine that Count Lamsdorff could have authorized such a statement without informing him (Witte).

According to competent Japanese authority, Komura and Takahira are opposed to the waiving of Japan's demand for reimbursement of war expenses.

"In the conference the Japanese contention was that in conceding the ante bellum demands of Japan Russia admitted either that she was beaten or that her attitude prior to the war was unjustified, and in either case Japan holds that Russia should pay the cost of the war. Japan feels that Russia's talk of 'saving her face' is hardly reasonable, claiming that her face was lost when she conceded the ante bellum demands, which constituted the real casus belli."

Advices received by the Japanese mission from home say that the Japanese public opinion is not only bitterly opposed to further concessions, but favors even harsher terms than those originally presented. The Japanese people feel, and their feelings, it is said, will be respected by the government, that to weaken now would mean that Japan must reopen the war in a decade. "Better fight it out now, while we have an army in the field," they say, "than make a truce for 10 years or more and then reopen hostilities."

Dealing With Czar and Mikado

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 25.—A crisis in the peace negotiations is approaching rapidly. Whether there is to be peace between Russia and Japan or a continuance of the war will be determined very likely within a few days.

The utmost secrecy is manifested regarding the communications with the president, not the slightest intimation of the nature of their contents being permitted to become public. It is quite certain now that in addition to making a direct appeal to the czar to take such measures as may bring the pending negotiations to a successful issue, President Roosevelt has communicated with the Japanese government along similar lines.

Flat Refusal to Pay Indemnity

St. Petersburg, Aug. 25.—The latest developments clearly indicate that under no circumstances and no disguise will the principle of indemnity be admitted, and this decision is accepted by the Russian public as final. It is declared at the foreign office that Russia's desire for peace was manifested in the spirit of concession shown by the Russian mission on the other disputed points, and that if Japan was willing to waive this demand, which was consistent neither with the honor nor the dignity of Russia, there would be no trouble in arranging peace, Japan's insistence on indemnity being the only barrier to the termination of the war.

Have Not Despaired of Peace

London, Aug. 25.—The London papers, commenting on the peace conference situation, while admitting the apparent hopelessness of the aspect, do not yet despair of a peaceful settlement, in view of the fact that all differences except indemnity have been virtually arranged. The Portsmouth correspondent of The Morning Post insists that peace will be concluded and declares that Russia is willing to pay $50,000,000.

Two Warships For Japan

Tokio, Aug. 25.—The former Russian battleship Peresviet, now the Sagami, has arrived at the Sasebo navy yard from Port Arthur under her own steam. The ex-Russian cruiser Bayan, also the Aso, of the Japanese navy, is expected to arrive there from the same port today.

Disaster Overtakes a Transport

Tokio, Aug. 25.—The Japanese transport Kinjo was sunk in a collision with the British steamer Baralong on Aug. 22 in the Inland sea. One hundred and twenty-seven invalided Japanese soldiers were drowned.

Lightning Started Spectacular Fire

New York, Aug. 25.—Struck by lightning during a terrific storm at midnight, ship Mulberry Hill, laden with case oil and naphtha, lying in the stream midway between Tompkinsville and Stapleton, was burned, lighting up the bay from the battery to Sandy Hook. The crew of 24 men left the ship just after the fire started and landed at Stapleton.

Young Couple Under Arrest

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 25.—A youthful couple, claiming to be Stewart Kennedy and wife, were arrested here at the request of the authorities of Springfield, Mass. The charge against Kennedy is that of forgery and against his wife that of being a fugitive from justice. They are held to await extradition papers.

Bennington's Interior Wrecked

Vallejo, Cal., Aug. 25.—The gunboat Bennington has been taken out of drydock. The boiler room and the engine room still present a frightful appearance, only the debris having been removed. As no authority has been received to make repairs the gunboat will go out of commission.

Vessel and Petroleum Burned

London, Aug. 25.—The steam ketch Albatross, loaded with petroleum, caught fire in the English channel last evening and burned furiously. The fire created intense excitement at the channel ports. The crew was safely landed, but the vessel is a total loss.

Combination Against Tammany

New York, Aug. 25.—The executive committee of the Republican city committee has decided in favor of fusion against Tammany in the coming mayoralty contest. All anti-Tammany organizations are requested in a resolution to meet Aug. 31.

Nord's Services Appreciated

Port Au Prince, Haiti, Aug. 25.—In recognition of services rendered to the country by President Nord, parliament has bestowed upon him the title of "regenerator of the country" and has presented him with property valued at $5000.

Colorado Town Flooded

Denver, Aug. 25.—It is reported that a cloudburst at Tabasco, a coal mining camp near Trinidad, flooded the town last night and drowned nine persons. All communication with Trinidad was cut off after the report was sent.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Saturday, Aug. 26.
Sun rises—5:03; sets—6:30.
Moon rises—12:45 a. m.
High water—7:15 a. m.; 7:45 p. m.

A high area over the north will cause the temperatures to be rather moderate during the next few days in New England. The weather will be generally fair, except in eastern New England.

National League

Chicago won the game at Philadelphia after 20 innings of sensational playing. Both Sparks and Reulbach pitched remarkable ball and their support at times was phenomenal. Neither side scored until the 13th inning, when Chicago earned a run. Philadelphia at once tied the score. Nearly every member of both teams figured in sensational plays.

DOUBLE DWELLING.

An Attractive $4,000 Building For a Twenty-five Foot Lot.

[Copyright, 1905, by Stanley A. Dennis, 224 Broadway, New York.]

We herewith present to our readers a model design and plan for a two family house which can be erected on a twenty-five foot or larger plot with equally good results at a cost, under favorable conditions, of $4,000. Some of the special features are the private entrances to each apartment in the front and the rear stairs, which run from the cellar to the second floor. This building is provided with two chimneys and can be built and used with or without heating apparatus in the cellar. There is a cellar under the entire house with walls of stone and cemented floor containing separate coal bins and storerooms for each apartment. The frame is of hemlock lumber and timber sheathed with paper siding and shingled. The front pediment and the space between the windows are plastered on metal lath with cement. The roof is covered with cedar shingles.

All windows have outside blinds of white pine with rolling slats and are hung with wrought iron angle hinges and spring back hooks. The exterior is covered with two good coats of white lead linseed oil paints, of such colors as may be desired.

The floors throughout are of narrow yellow pine, well blind nailed. The interior walls are plastered with two good coats of patent plaster and sand. The interior trim is of clear cypress of special design with plain molded heads. The doors are all made with panels. Mantels are of quartered oak with beveled mirrors, tiled facings and summer pieces. The entire house is piped for gas separately for each floor. The stairs are of cypress lumber with oak newels, rails and balusters. The hardware throughout is of plain wrought black iron with combination knobs, roses and escutcheons.

The bathrooms and kitchens contain full modern plumbing and fixtures. The walls of the bathrooms are laid off in tile on rock wall plaster and white enameled.

All interior woodwork is finished in the natural wood with one good coat of liquid wood fillers and two coats of light hard drying varnish.

Those desiring to build such a house will do well to study this design and plan carefully.

Fireproof Country Homes.

The country home need no longer be built of wood nor of other flimsy material to invite disaster. The age of fireproof homes has come for the country as well as for the rich. Two things have heretofore militated against the general construction of fireproof homes outside of large towns and cities. One has been the cost and the other the question of artistic excellence. Both of these objections are removed through the invention and construction of fireproof material, which are both cheap and artistic in treatment.—Architectural Record.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

The demand for houses in Wollaston is much greater than the supply.

The Tax Collector holds a sale of real estate for unpaid taxes this afternoon.

The vacationists have begun to arrive home and to settle down for the winter's work.

Rev. A. A. Ellsworth preached last Sunday at the beautiful little town of Francestown, N. H.

Mrs. Nelson V. Titus attended the Fairbanks family reunion at Dedham on Thursday.

Wallace C. Bennett, who is one of the counsellors at a summer camp in northern Maine, is one of a party which is taking a long tramp to Fort Kent, where they will not arrive until about the middle of September. Part of the trip is made in canoes.

No yachting events are scheduled by the local clubs for Saturday.

The Registrars of Voters are busy preparing the list of voters.

In a few weeks football will take the place of baseball as an outdoor sport.

Mr. Turner of Bath, Maine, who is visiting his son of Newcomb street, is seriously ill.

The Merrymounts and Copelands will meet on the diamond at Merrymount park tomorrow.

A number of changes have been made in the officials' offices at the street railway headquarters.

Mrs. Charles Melville of East Howard street has returned from a few weeks' rest in Westerly, R. I.

Rev. B. F. Eaton well known among Universalists of this city was the old-home day speaker at Southampton, N. H.

A number of the journeymen plumbers were given a hearing Thursday evening on the proposed amendment to the plumbing ordinance by the joint City Council Committee on Health and Ordinances.

Grading is being done this week around the new block at the corner of Newport avenue and Brook street, Wollaston. The block is nearing completion and is a great improvement to the corner. It is a pity it was not set back on a line with the other buildings on the street.

A wide vista is now presented through the complete opening beneath the partial span of Hancock street bridge at Atlantic and the wall is about ready to place the other span and forward the work to completion.

Ernest W. Arnold of Berlin street, who has been for some years employed by the firm of Hooper, Lewis & Co., has recently accepted the position of assistant buyer in the stationery department of Jordan, Marsh & Co.

TODAY'S COURT.

CLOSELY GUARDED

Hackett Murder Suspect Cannot Leave Her Home

AN ARREST IS IMMINENT

Discrepancies In Statements of Two Most Closely Questioned --Mrs Raymond Protests Innocence of Knowledge of Crime

Kents Hill, Me., Aug. 25.—By order of the county authorities a guard has been stationed at the home of the woman who is suspected of strangling Mattie Hackett. It is probable that an arrest will not be made until next week.

Now every effort is being devoted to completing the chain of circumstantial detail which is intended to enmesh this woman. New facts have been discovered. They all point to one woman. Detective Hartnett was asked if anything had developed in his investigation to indicate that the suspicion of a woman was along the wrong line.

"There has been no change," he replied. "Nothing that has been presented to me has been enough to turn the investigation from the channel in which it was originally started. New facts all seem to point the same way. There are discrepancies in the statements of the two persons who have been most closely questioned."

Mrs. Elsie H. Raymond and her husband are the two persons who, so far as known, have been "most closely questioned." Certain it is that a new fact discovered is considered of vital importance by the detectives in connection with Mrs. Raymond.

This is a pair of missing low tan shoes. Mrs. Raymond had been accustomed to wearing them. When asked for her shoes the other day, that they might be fitted to the tracks of a woman found in a field leading away from the scene of the murder, Mrs. Raymond produced some black boots. Yesterday her husband was asked where the tan shoes were.

"They were burned a week ago last Saturday," he replied. "Several pairs of my wife's old shoes were burned then."

The officials are now prepared to stand on this: That a woman, even in Mrs. Raymond's condition, could walk two miles at night in 20 minutes and have strength enoughto commit murder by strangulation. Mrs. Raymond is on the verge of motherhood now; two weeks will see her a mother.

Mrs. Raymond knows that her name has been mentioned in this matter; she knows that a motive of jealousy and consequent hate of pretty Mattie Hackett has been attributed to her, yet she does not collapse or show any sign of uneasiness. She protests her innocence of knowledge of the crime stoutly, and is awaiting the action of the officials unruffled.

This is one of the many strange features of a murder which is clothed in mystery from the moment Mattie Hackett left her home, for what reason no one knows, until she was found dying within sound of her father's voice.

The imminence of an arrest may be due to the fact that a bundle of cord, exactly like that used in the murder and with a "weaver's knot" tied in it, identical with two of the four knots in the strangler's fatal weapon, has been found hidden in the stall of a stable near the Elmwood hotel.

While the questioning of various persons in connection with the murder has been going on, the officials who were investigating kept up the search for cord similar to that with which Miss Hackett was slain. The finding of this cord seems, therefore, a culmination of one of the principal searches.

A long conference was held yesterday afternoon and last evening at Augusta between Attorney General Hamlin, Assistant Attorney General Philbrook, T. E. Hartnett, an inspector in the attorney general's office, County Attorney Leigh and High Sheriff Ham. Late last night Hamlin arrived here from Augusta and stated that he had decided to investigate the case today.

Will Use Balloons and Kites

Washington, Aug. 25.—Secretary Wilson has approved a recommendation by Professor Moore, chief of the weather bureau, for the appointment of Dr. Oliver L. Passig as one of the directors of scientific research at Mount Weather, Va. His special line of research and investigation will be the exploration by balloons and kites of the meteorological phase of the upper air.

Murder Mystery Unsolved

Chicago, Aug. 25.—The street murder of Mrs. E. F. Mize is still unsolved by the police and all former clues, including that centering around William Bracey, who was arrested on suspicion, have been abandoned. Bracey was released last night. No additional arrests have been made and the police are without a clue.

Steamer Went Ashore In Fog

New York, Aug. 25.—While bound from Port Antonio, Ja., to this city with a cargo of fruit, steamer Banes went ashore during a dense fog 10 miles west of Fire Island lighthouse. The steamer is in a dangerous position.

American Cruiser Ashore

Manila, Aug. 25.—Cruiser Rainbow, flagship of the Philippine squadron, with Rear Admiral Reiter on board, went ashore in Butuan bay, in Northern Mindanao. The Rainbow is resting easily.

THE HANDY MAN.

Happy Is the Home That Has This Factor of Comfort.

A handy man is the greatest convenience a woman can possess. Ever since Eve presumably found him in Adam family life has more or less depended upon him, save in those uncivilized tribes where, in addition to being a woman, the female has to assume the tasks of the man, says Kate Gannett Wills in Boston Cooking School Magazine. But, as specialization has stepped in to take the place of being jack of all trades, the handy man is dwarfed and in many homes has become extinct. Yet what wife or mother would not rather have him round the house than an expert bacteriologist or a connoisseur in ceramics! Only the wealthy, who can issue the day's orders to as many separate individuals as there are jobs to be done, can get along without him.

The handy man is a kind of general mechanician, knowing a little about all useful trades. He is an amateur plumber, carpenter, electrician, surveyor, farmer, nurse and doctor. The more primitive the section in which he lives, the greater his power. Usually he has more common sense than other people, and his ready dry humor amuses us in spite of ourselves, for, though grateful that he can do so many things just well enough, we yet are often annoyed that they are not better done. Still, he is the helpmeet of the tired wife and mother and has been known to turn the clothes wringer, make the coffee, wash the dishes and walk the floor with the baby. That he should lay the kitchen fire and do the chores is part of the widely recognized but unwritten marriage contract.

He may be an inventor spoiled in the making, having taken out several useless patents, or he may have graduated into the handy man from having broken down as minister, lawyer or insurance agent. The genuine kind, however, starts in life handy, hired out as a boy, and is the sole support of his mother until he falls in love. He straightens out crooked nails, saves strings and paper bags and eats with his coat on, having a sense of the fitness of things.

He is not the kind that spends money on barns and mowing machines, yet lets his wife fetch water from the well, for he pipes the water supply into the house as far at least as the kitchen sink. Being handy, he sees the pecuniary value of labor saving devices for women as well as for men. And, oh, the fences he mends, the gate latches he adjusts, the wagons he repairs!

The scarcity of handy men increases with each new specialization in industry, but we all have heard of happy home lives where the man is handy, the home jobs he does accruing not only in value of things done, but in savings deposited in the bank.

Blackberry Jam.

Take two gallons of blackberries, carefully pick them over and thoroughly wash in cold water. Place in a preserving kettle and pour over them one quart of water and cook until soft, being careful they do not burn. Stir at intervals with a wooden spoon to break up the fruit. Remove from the fire and press all through a wire sieve into a large stone or earthen jar, avoiding tin. Stir the pulp thoroughly. Take one quart and put it into the kettle, and when it boils add one quart of granulated sugar previously heated in the oven. Bring to a boil and let it cook rapidly for fifteen minutes, shaking the kettle from time to time so it will not stick to the bottom. When it begins to jelly it is done. This can be tested by dipping a silver spoon in cold water, then take up a little of the boiling jam and drop it slowly in a saucer. If it hardens it is done. Pour into small jars, and when cold seal tightly and place in a dry place. Never try to make more than a quart of the jam at once.

Candied Sweet Potatoes.

Parboil sweet potatoes, cut them lengthwise, lay in a baking dish, sprinkle thickly with brown sugar and powdered cinnamon and cover liberally with lumps of butter. Pour over them water enough to moisten the sugar and bake in an oven, basting frequently with the rich sauce that will soon form.

Rest the Eyes.

The eyes should be rested for a few minutes when the sight becomes in the least blurred. Never sew on dark cloth after night, and, if sewing must be done by artificial light, have the table spread with a white cloth.

Serving Iced Melon.

Melons of various kinds are tempting during these hot days, more especially when thoroughly iced. Having selected a watermelon of good size and shape, cut it so as to form a basket, as is shown in the illustration. Scoop out the red pulp in spoonfuls, put it into a covered can or mold and bury in ice or ice and salt for an hour until thoroughly chilled without really becoming frozen. Cut the edges of the basket rind in points or scallops and fill with the chilled pulp, serving at once. Cantaloupes can be served in the same way and should always be well iced.—Table Talk.

PROOF OF EDUCATION.

Chicago Professor's Questions Requiring an Affirmative Answer.

Professor Frank J. Miller, examiner of secondary schools, said recently at the junior chapel of the University of Chicago that only those who can answer all of the following questions in the affirmative are educated, says a Chicago dispatch:

Has education given you sympathy for all good causes? Has it made you easier to interest in them? Has it made you public spirited, so that you look beyond your own dooryard and take interest in a clean city?

Has it made you a brother to the weak?

Have you learned the proper value of money and time?

Have you learned how to make friends and keep them? Do you know how to be a friend yourself?

Can you look an honest man or pure woman straight in the eye?

Do you see anything to love in a little child?

Will a lonely dog follow you in the street?

Can you be high minded and happy in the drudgeries of life?

Can you think washing dishes and hoeing corn are just as compatible with high thinking as playing the piano or playing golf?

Can you be happy alone?

Are you good for anything to yourself?

Can you look out on the world and see anything but dollars and cents?

Can you look into a mud puddle and see the blue sky reflected? Can you see good in everything?

Can you look up to the sky at night and see beyond the stars? Does your soul claim relationship with the Creator?

Professor Miller said the failure to answer any of these questions affirmatively is enough to send the man or woman who thinks he or she knows it all back among the uneducated. "The college curriculum does not contain all that is necessary to the educated man," said Professor Miller. "A man may be graduated and go out into the world and still prey on society, notwithstanding his so called education."

Human Skin.

The skin is the only part of the human body that is not hardened by age.

To Wed.

The word wed at first was not confined to the sense of marrying. To wed was to enter into a solemn pledge of any kind. Nobles and warriors were called wedded brethren when bound by oaths of amity and friendship.

Nasturtium.

Literally translated the word nasturtium means "nose twister." It is Latin, and Pliny explains that the plant received its name on account of the effect of its acrid scent upon the human nose.

Potato Glue.

If you have no glue handy and you want to stick something, try this: Take a small piece of cold boiled potato and rub it down with your finger on a piece of paper for about five minutes. It will then be of the right consistency and will stick as well as the strongest glue.

Queer Town Names.

Among the queer names of towns in England are Hangman Hill, Dirtcar, Deadmans Green, Friends Fell and Hungry Bentley.

A Buried Irish City.

In Iceland there is the ancient town of Bannon, situated in a once fertile tract between Wexford and Waterford, as effectually covered with sand as ever Pompeii was with redhot cinders or Herculaneum with lava.

Othello and Desdemona.

Documents have been discovered in Venice which are said to identify Othello of Shakespeare's tragedy with a certain Nicholas Querini, son of Francesco, while Desdemona was the daughter of Palma Querini. Both belonged to noble Venetian families, and they were related to each other.

Camphor.

Camphor is the only sure preventive of moths. Moths, were it not for camphor, would probably overrun the world.

Ringleader.

"Ringleader" was at one time a good word. A century or so ago a great bishop wrote of Christ as "the ringleader of our salvation." So with "time server." It once held its root meaning of one who did service to his time.

Montesquieu.

Montesquieu was so much affected by the criticisms of his works that the annoyance hastened his death.

A. M. and M. A.

The rule followed by editors of both the Oxford and Cambridge chronicles in the position of the letters A. M. and M. A., for the title master of arts, is that where the context is in Latin the form is A. M. and where it is English M. A.

In the Time of Augustus.

In the time of Augustus a female dancer was worth $2,000; a flute player who could also dance, $3,000; a doctor, $700; a copyist, $900.

A Coal Diet.

Apropos of a statement that "coal would appear a strange article of diet," a correspondent writes to the Westminster Gazette, saying that it is not only children and cats who regard it as a luxury, as he has an Irish water spaniel which makes away with a number of lumps a day unless the coal is kept out of his reach.

What It Costs
... AND ...
What It Pays

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchan has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in a cheaper paper?

The Social Realm.

A laugh is just like sunshine,
It freshens all the day,
It tips the peak of life with light,
And drives the clouds away;
The soul grows glad that hears it,
And feels its courage strong—
A laugh is just like sunshine
For cheering folks along!
A laugh is just like music,
It lingers in the heart,
And where its melody is heard
The ills of life depart;
And happy thoughts come crowding
Its joyful notes to greet—
A laugh is just like music
For making living sweet!

* Divided in 1887.

The progress of Quincy in population could not be shown to better advantage than in the above summary, which includes all the smaller cities of Massachusetts.

The cities are arranged in the order of the 1905 census, and a glance at the 1880 column shows readily which have grown the fastest. Malden which heads the list, was in 1880 number 11, while Everett which started at the foot is now eight. Quincy which stood number fifteen in 1880 is now number nine. And so on.

Salem which was in the lead in 1880, has dropped to number three, and Chelsea from number two to number five. Taunton, Gloucester, Northampton and Newburyport are other cities which have found the pace too fast.

Among the cities which have more than doubled in 25 years are Quincy, Malden, Haverhill, Fitchburg, Newton, Everett, Waltham, North Adams, Medford, Beverly and Melrose.

Some have doubled in the 20 years, from 1885 to 1905, viz: Quincy, Malden, Fitchburg, Everett, Medford, and Melrose.

Everett has doubled in fifteen years.

With a few exceptions these cities have gained at each census. The exceptions are Taunton, Gloucester, North Adams, Newburyport, and Marlboro, each of which have lost at least once.

At the top of the list are four cities very closely bunched,—Malden, Haverhill, Salem and Fitchburg having between 37,000 and 38,000. Malden will undoubtedly leave her rivals behind.

Four cities are as closely bunched at the foot of the list for the booby prize,—Newburyport, Woburn, Melrose and Marlboro. This prize will not go to Melrose, because she aspires higher.

What are the chances for Quincy at the National census of 1910?

The city should then have a population of 33,000.

It is hardly probably that Waltham, Gloucester or Pittsfield or any of the cities now below can overhaul Quincy, even if she does not reach 33,000

The chances of Quincy overtaking Everett are not as good as they are for overtaking Taunton. Should Taunton again lose, Quincy will surely pass, and the prospects are that she will pass even if Taunton gains a little. Fitchburg seems to be out of reach at present.

Brookline now the largest town in the State is giving some of the cities a hot chase, being larger than eight or nine. Some years hence she may push Quincy, but the "City of Presidents" now has a lead of nearly 5,000.

The statistician will find much more of interest in the census figures given above.

Points of Interest.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACES OF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Small fee asked.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M. until 4 P. M.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company where warships are being built for the government.

CRIME IN PRISON

Mrs Rogers, Condemned Murderess, a Participant

A CONVICT VISITED HER

Story That He Had Key to the Outside Door of Her Cell and Woman Opened Inside Door Corroborated by Murderess

Bellows Falls, Vt., Aug. 26.—Sensational testimony concerning affairs at the Vermont state prison at Windsor was given at the inquiry now being held by the state on the conduct of Vermont public institutions. The most unexpected evidence was that of Horace Boyd, a prison officer, who testified regarding the sojourn in prison of Mrs. Mary M. Rogers, who was convicted of the murder of her husband in August, 1902. The execution of the condemned woman was arranged several times, but was each time deferred through her lawyers resorting to the higher courts.

Boyd testified that Vernon Rogers, a convict who is serving a sentence of 16 years, had told him that he (Rogers) had access to Mrs. Rogers' cell by means of a key which the prisoner had made in the shoeshop of the institution. The convict is not a relative of Mrs. Rogers. Officer Boyd further stated that Rogers and the condemned murderess had not conducted themselves properly. This gross violation of the prison rules, it was added, had continued for a month, according to the story which Rogers told Boyd.

After Boyd had been dismissed from the witness stand the state sprung a surprise by making public certain evidence which had been taken by the special committee appointed by the legislature to investigate public institutions. This evidence, it was explained, was brought out at an executive session on July 12. On that day E. W. Oakes, former superintendent of the prison, testified that Rogers had informed him that Fred Morse, another prisoner, had given him (Rogers) the key which fitted Mary Rogers' cell.

Oakes also said Rogers had told him that the latter's key opened the outside door of Mrs. Rogers' cell, but would not unlock the inside door. The second door, Oakes testified, was opened, according to Rogers' story, by Mrs. Rogers herself, who removed the screws in the lock by means of a pair of scissors, which she had become possessed of. Oakes further testified that while these alleged happenings occurred he was ill, and that the prison was in charge of E. P. Harpin, the warden. When Oakes heard of these irregularities he discharged Harpin immediately.

At yesterday's hearing the state officials also made public a statement made by Mrs. Rogers herself. This statement was made in the form of a confession to Matron Durkee of the state prison concerning occurrences last spring. It is written in Mrs. Rogers' own handwriting and said that she had seen Vernon Rogers frequently in the corridor, as he was allowed the freedom of the prison and the prison shops. Mrs. Rogers admitted that she had talked with the man, who told her that he was discouraged. The woman's statement then told of alleged meetings which she and Rogers had in her cell. The statement corroborated the testimony of Rogers at the hearing as to the means employed to open the cell doors. Mrs. Rogers deposed that she had been guilty of wrong doing from March 1 to March 10.

Conscience a Matter of Food

By Professor HERBERT W. HART, Dietetic Specialist

MR. LAWSON of Boston said the other day that he stole money years ago and did not know that he stole it, but now he knows he stole it and he will give it up—that is, his brain has become CONSCIOUS OF HONESTY. It is not generally known that the "organ" of conscience varies more or less in size in every individual and that it requires suitable nutrition daily to sustain it in its normal action like any other function of brain or body. If its wastes are not replenished the organ will fag and cease to act and shut up shop, as the eyes do when, through lack of food or exhaustion, they close up the shutters and take a rest. It is often the case that a man who has proved himself most conscientious may in some important act (especially where his bodily wants are interested) fail to exercise any conscience at all. Cardinal Gibbons, like many other well known public men, may observe and deplore the commercial corruption and public intrigues, but no amount of publicity or enforcement of the law will put a stop to illegal acts resulting from abnormally constituted brains SUSTAINED BY THE FASHIONABLE SYSTEM OF LIVING. I maintain that the food products and liquids now in general use are the primary cause of all the abnormality of thought and action that takes place daily in every position and condition of civilized life.

I have lived among forty millions of people who have had no doctors, drug stores, dentists or hospitals, and very few prisons, and no lunatic asylums, whereas in America, between the years of 1850 and 1880, according to the most reliable statistics, while the population increased 100 per cent, insanity increased 600 per cent, and has gone on increasing till there is scarcely accommodation for the insane. The St. Elizabeth asylum at Washington has about 3,600 inmates from the Philippines, the result of the supply by the government of hard tack, which contains no brain sustaining phosphates.

I have mentioned the cause of abnormalities from which human beings suffer and will now give the only rational remedy:

FIRST.—IT SHOULD BE MADE A PENAL OFFENSE FOR ANY MILLER OR TRADESMAN TO MUTILATE OR IN ANY WAY DETERIORATE OR ADULTERATE THE FOOD OF MAN.

Second.—Every baker should be licensed and bound under penalties in case of default to supply perfectly constituted bread—namely, one containing all the nutritious properties of the wheat grain without deterioration, sophistication or adulteration.

Third.—All cooks should be licensed by law, the license only to be granted to cooks suitably qualified and who undertake to provide the necessary perfectly constituted foods without decortication, abstraction or any deteriorating manipulation, sophistication or adulteration.

IF IT IS WORTH WHILE TO PROVIDE BY LAW THAT MILK SHALL BE PURE AND NOURISHING, WHY SHOULD NOT BREAD, WHICH FOR AGES WAS THE STAFF OF LIFE, RETAIN ALL ITS NUTRITIOUS PROPERTIES?

It can be stated without fear of contradiction that a thousand and one forms of sickness and disease now prescribed for by the 80,000 physicians of America have developed mainly since the first introduction of sifting and dressing the wheat grain so as to enable the miller to produce a white flour, which is COMPOSED ENTIRELY OF STARCH, only fit for stiffening petticoats or paste for bill stickers.

Any First Class Power Would Whip Our Navy

By Rear Admiral ROBLEY D. EVANS

THE navy is only begun. We should, I believe, have a navy large enough to meet any possible combination of powers against us. WE NEED A NAVY SO LARGE THAT WE WILL NEVER USE IT IN ACTUAL WAR.

Our navy at present is not large enough to meet one of the first class powers. That is my personal opinion.

Of course it is for the people of this country to say how large the navy shall be. It is our business to fight with whatever navy the people give us.

WE WILL FIGHT WHETHER THE NAVY IS BIG OR LITTLE, BUT MY OWN OPINION IS THAT IT IS MUCH TOO SMALL NOW.

Railways Are Trying To Run the Government

By A. B. CUMMINS, Governor of Iowa

I AM willing to make it strong, and say that the corporations are trying to invade the province of the common people. There is one privilege I am not willing to give the corporations—THE RIGHT OF VOTING. The day of public ownership, however, must not dawn until we have exhausted the resources of the common people to regulate the railways.

RAILWAYS ARE GOING TO RUN THIS GOVERNMENT—IF THEY CAN. I'M WILLING TO TRUST THEM IN MANY THINGS, BUT IN MATTERS IN WHICH THEY HAVE A FINANCIAL INTEREST I AM NOT.

United States Criminal Laws Are Utterly Inadequate

By WILLIAM H. MOODY, Attorney General

THE whole criminal code of the United States ought to be gone over carefully not merely in the way of codification, but with a purpose to amend AND STRENGTHEN the laws. In the present circumstances the United States courts cannot work with promptness and facility in many cases. As a matter of fact, in illustration of this condition, it is far more difficult to take a man from one United States court's jurisdiction across the Brooklyn bridge into another jurisdiction of the United States court than it is for the state of Maine to get a criminal it wants from the state of California. Of course such a condition is ANOMALOUS and ought not to exist.

GUILT IS ADMITTED

Equitable Life Officials Engaged In Illegal Acts

ANSWER TO SUIT FILED

Directors Place the Blame Upon Certain Individuals, but Claim to Be Ignorant, as a Whole, of Wrongful Transactions

New York, Aug. 26.—The Equitable Life Assurance society has joined with the state of New York in asking for a full investigation in court of its directors and officers and their alleged wrongdoings in managing the moneys of the society. The document which announced this determination was the answer of the 49 Equitable directors to charges made against them in connection with a suit brought against the Equitable Life Assurance society by the people of the state of New York. This answer was filed with Attorney General Mayer.

Admission is made that some officials of the Equitable have been guilty of improper and illegal acts. In all 13 charges are answered by the directors. Among these answers they admit the $250,000 loan to the Depew Improvement company. They admit the improper loan of the Mercantile Trust company, but waive responsibility in this loan so far as the board of directors is concerned and indicate Alexander, Jordan and Deming as the persons having the most intimate knowledge of these transactions.

The charge that excessive salaries were paid to officers of the Equitable is not directly answered, but admission is made that, under guise of salaries, excessive fees were given to certain Equitable officials who were also directors in other companies. In defense the answer states that these practices were not known to the whole board of directors.

Outlining their belief as to the best policy to pursue in fixing the blame for the Equitable scandals, the directors say, first, that the blame for alleged cases of misconduct will be found to rest on individual officers and not upon the directors as a body. Having made this explanation the answer then admits in a general way the wrongdoings charged.

The first charge specifically answered is that premises on Broadway were let at inadequate rental to the Mercantile Safe Deposit company. This is admitted.

With certain reservations, admission is then made that the capital stock of the Missouri Safe Deposit company was acquired by the Equitable society, which paid $250 a share for shares of a par value of $100. The reservations include a claim that the alleged purchases were never known to the whole board of directors.

As to excessive and unwarranted loans to agents the reply admits that they were made. Instances are mentioned in which the system of making advances to agents is necessary and proper within reasonable limits.

The consolidation of the Western National bank of the city of New York with the National bank of the United States of New York, by which a money loss resulted to the Equitable society and a profit to some of its directors, is also admitted. But the directors say that the responsibility for these losses must be divided among those individual defendants who "directly participated in or had, or by any reason of their official duties and position should have had, knowledge of the transactions."

The table of alleged improper salaries to Equitable officials, which was embodied in the state's charges, is declared to be a true statement of the figures. A direct admission is then made that these sums were paid without sufficient vouchers or audit.

Admissions are made on the subject of pensions and to the charges that money under the guise of fees was received by directors and stockholders who were simultaneously officers of the Equitable and other corporations. After admitting that these moneys were received as charged, the reply states: "Many of these defendants were ignorant of said transactions, which were not of a character necessarily known to the whole board of directors."

The $250,000 loan to the Depew Improvement company is admitted, with a proviso which states that this admission is restricted to "those of the individual defendants who were, or ought to have been, cognizant of these transactions."

Charges of the existence of excessive deposits in the National Bank of Commerce of New York, the Mercantile Trust company of New York, the Commercial Trust company of Philadelphia and at least 19 other banks are admitted, but this admission is restricted to those directors and officers who actually had charge of or knowledge of these transactions.

Precisely the same restricted admission is made concerning the officers of the American Deposit and Loan company, a corporation which is admitted to have been organized for lending money to policyholders upon policies held in the Equitable and used to the profit of directors and others in the Equitable.

Regarding the $10,000,000 surplus held by the Equitable society the directors' reply on this charge is that they do not know precisely what their rights are regarding the surplus and that they are willing to leave this matter for the courts to decide.

ROBBED OF $3265

Boston Hebrew Alleged Victim of a "Confidence" Game

Boston, Aug. 26.—Abraham Moran, a Russian Hebrew, was arrested last evening on a warrant charging the larceny of $3265 from Benjamin Viner, a fellow-countryman. The alleged theft was committed in the public gardens on Aug. 5.

According to the claims of the police, Moran, his brother-in-law, Jacob Schodoroff, and a man named Epstein interested Viner in a mythical plan to organize and operate an extensive tailoring establishment. Viner drew $3265 from the bank and met Moran, Schodoroff and Epstein in the public gardens Aug. 5, when, it is alleged, Moran took the money from Viner's pocket.

Moran last night denied all knowledge of the robbery and told the police that he did not know the whereabouts of Schodoroff and Epstein. Moran is 31 years old and lives in the South End district. Viner was a resident of the West End, and conducted a small store in the South End.

Braved Submarine Dangers

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 26.—President Roosevelt, late yesterday afternoon, made a descent in Long Island sound on board the submarine torpedo boat Plunger. He was aboard the vessel about three hours. At one time the little boat was submerged for 50 minutes and in that time was put through all of the submarine feats of which she is capable. The president said that he was immensely impressed with the boat and with the manner in which she was handled.

No Criminal Negligence

Painesville, O., Aug. 26.—Coroner York has rendered his verdict in connection with the railroad wreck at Mentor on the night of June 21, which resulted in the death of a number of passengers. The coroner said the testimony was insufficient to hold anyone guilty of criminal negligence. He added, however, that the testimony tended to show that the switch which caused the wreck was opened by an employe of the company.

Murderer Left Bloody Memento

Lewistown, Mont., Aug. 26.—Samuel Studzinski, 67 years old, a fur buyer and pawnbroker, was found dead in his place of business, having been beaten to death. Robbery is believed to have been the motive. On the dead man's breast the murderer placed a small card on which was written in blood "H. C. No. 17." A similar card was found on the front of a small heating stove in the same room.

Disaster In Colorado Town

Trinidad, Col., Aug. 26.—According to belated, meagre reports, somewhat conflicting, about a score of miners were drowned, or are missing, 25 or 30 houses and shanties were washed away or damaged and much damage was done to mines and railroads near Tobasco by a cloudburst. Communications are so difficult that no definite news of the disaster is available.

Against Marriage of Soldiers

Washington, Aug. 26.—The annual report of Brigadier General Wint, commanding the department of the Missouri, recommends that army chaplains shall not be allowed to perform marriages of soldiers unless previous permission has been given by the commanding officer, the enlistment of married soldiers being discouraged by the war department.

Great Commercial Activity

New York, Aug. 26.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that distribution of autumn merchandise is in progress unusually early this year, and the volume of forward business is so heavy that the last half of 1905 promises to establish a remarkable record of commercial activity. Current retail trade is well maintained.

Children Died From Poison

Moncton, N. B., Aug. 26.—Two young sons of Warren Reid are dead from poison and a third is dying. Physicians who had been called to attend the children decided that death of the two was due to arsenic. The authorities believe that the poisoning was accidental. The ages of the children ranged from 2 to 6 years.

Indictment of Statistician Holmes

Washington, Aug. 26.—Edwin S. Holmes, Jr., until recently the associate statistician of the department of agriculture, but who was dismissed as an outcome of the investigation into the leakage in the cotton crop reports, has been indicted by the grand jury on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government.

Hay Estate Reaches Over $250,000

Washington, Aug. 26.—A petition by Mrs. Clara S. Hay, widow of the late Secretary of State Hay, for the probate of Hay's will has been filed in the probate court. The petition states that Hay left property, real and personal, to the value of more than $250,000.

Crash on Scenic Railway

New York, Aug. 26.—A car on one of the scenic railways in Luna park, Coney Island, ran off the track last night while making a sharp descent and was crashed into by the car following. Ten persons were painfully injured.

American Schooner Confiscated

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 26.—Schooner North of Seattle has been confiscated by the Canadian admiralty court, with her dories and stores. It is alleged the North poached on the Vancouver island coast.

Went Fifteen Rounds

San Francisco, Aug. 26.—Jimmy Gardner of Lowell won his fight with Buddy Ryan at Colma in the 15th round of a 25-round bout. They weighed in at 142 pounds.

THE OUTLOOK IN RUSSIA

What a Noted Revolutionist Thinks Will Happen.

SERIES OF LOCAL OUTBREAKS.

Abraham Cahan Does Not Look For a French Revolution—Zemstvo Representatives Will Be Allowed to Meet and Dictate Terms For Representative Government—How Mobs Will Be Quieted.

"Is there to be a French revolution in Russia?"

The question was asked of Abraham Cahan, the well known Russian revolutionist and author of the remarkable novel of revolutionary Russia, "The White Terror and the Red."

"The question is not unnatural," said Mr. Cahan, "in view of the bloody outbreaks in Warsaw, the strikes and disturbances in so many Russian cities, the dramatic revolt in the Black sea fleet and the spectacle of a Russian battleship cruising the sea manned by mutineers and surrendered voluntarily after the rest of the fleet has shown itself afraid to use force on account of the general disaffection of the sailors. There may be a vast amount of bloodshed to come in Russia, but there will not be a French revolution in your sense, because the country is too vast and too heterogeneous."

"Then you do not look for revolution?"

"I do not say that," said Mr. Cahan. "There will be a series of local revolutions. Whether the central government can be overthrown is a question of time."

"How about the Black sea mutiny?"

"There were undoubtedly members of the revolutionary committee on the mutinous battleship. The Russian sailor is usually a little more advanced than the soldier. A very active propaganda has been going on among the sailors for the last three years. Some officers are members of the revolutionary organization. Undoubtedly the revolutionary party controlled this ship through representatives on board. In my novel "The White Terror and the Red' I describe a dynamite mine laid under a street for Alexander II. in case he came that way, although, as a matter of fact, he went another way and was killed by bombs. It is not generally known that the dynamite was supplied from the Cronstadt navy yard by a naval officer."

"Will the autocracy be forced to yield?"

"I think it will. The reactionary element is represented by Boulygin, minister of the interior, and General Trepoff, minister of police. At present the reactionaries seem cowed. The press of Russia today is printing things which would have sent the editors to Siberia ten years ago. It is almost free. The 'underground press,' which is described in 'The White Terror and the Red,' is not much more radical than the regular papers. Even the conservative papers denounce the advisers of the czar. What is likely to happen is that the czar will yield, that the zemstvo representatives will be allowed to meet and will practically dictate terms for a representative government, free speech and amnesty for political offenders.

"Boulygin's constitution will be discarded and a more liberal constitution adopted. The mob will be quieted by the zemstvo representatives, who are in touch with the peasants, and by the revolutionists, who can influence the working people. But unless this is done promptly there will be an epidemic of bomb throwing and many violent deaths."

NOVEL CALENDAR.

One Designed by Flammarion Would Answer For Every Year.

Notwithstanding the disastrous results attending the attempts of French scientists at the time of the revolution to reform the calendar, this subject seems still to interest certain individuals, and the most recent proposition comes from M. Camille Flammarion, the well known astronomer, who intends to recommend to the French chamber of deputies a bill to make compulsory a new calendar he has devised, says Harper's Weekly.

M. Flammarion would commence the year at March 21, the vernal equinox, and divide it into quarters, each containing two months of thirty days and one month of thirty-one days. Consequently the year would consist of 364 days and there would remain an extra or fete day which would not belong to any single month. Leap years would be marked by two such fete days.

The new calendar is so designed that the same dates would always occur on the same days of the week, and one calendar would answer for every year.

A Statue to Adam.

After all these years a statue has been set up to that original and deserving person, Adam, says the New York World. It stands on Nicholas Engasfos' front lawn, Ninety-fifth street, Chicago. The statue is of plaster and cost $836. Several of Adam's distant relatives subscribed. The statue represents a muscular man about forty years old, who wears a full beard and looks like a Russian.

Golf Without Profanity.

A new sect known as "Christian Golfists" has been founded by the Rev. George Cady, one of the best known Congregational divines in Iowa, says a dispatch from Iowa Falls. Dr. Cady, who is an enthusiastic golfer, manages to play the game without using profane language, and he thinks he can induce others to drop that habit.

A PICTURESQUE CAREER.

Romance In the Life of Henry W. Denison, Adviser to Japanese.

There is much that is picturesque and romantic in the career of Henry W. Denison, who has come to this country from Japan as the special adviser of the Japanese peace commission. For years Mr. Denison has been a counselor of the mikado on foreign affairs, and it is said that there is no American who stands so high as he does in the estimation of the Japanese people. He was born fifty-eight years ago in Guildhall, Vt., which is just across the state line from Lancaster, N. H. Residing near by and sometimes doing chores for the family was his cousin, the late Charles A. Dana, who afterward rose to fame in the world of politics and journalism. As a rugged but somewhat uncouth schoolboy Denison lived in Lancaster and there fell in love with the village belle, Miss Nellie Cross, a member of the town's leading family. She did not at first encourage his suit.

HENRY W. DENISON.

In the course of time Mr. Dana, who had then risen to be assistant secretary of war, obtained a place for Denison in the treasury department. While working as a clerk he studied law. But the young man's health seemed to be failing, and he became so ill that he was taken home to Lancaster to die of consumption, as his friends supposed. The White mountain breezes so improved his health that he was enabled to return to Washington. Here he became interested in a young lady whose father about that time was appointed United States consul at Yokohama, Japan. He determined to follow the young woman to the orient and so obtained an appointment as deputy marshal at the consular court.

Although the affair with the consul's daughter did not result in an engagement, it so happened that when the father returned to the United States young Denison succeeded him as consul. He made such a fine record that when his term expired the Japanese persuaded him to remain as counselor to the government of foreign affairs. He made a trip to America in the early seventies, and the first thing he did on reaching this country was to marry his old sweetheart, the Lancaster village belle. He has received many decorations from the mikado, and a banquet was given at Tokyo last spring in honor of his long service and signal achievements. All the dignitaries of Japan were present.

ADMIRAL CLARK'S CAREER.

Retiring Naval Officer Is Best Known as Captain of Oregon.

Rear Admiral Charles E. Clark, who went on the retired list of the navy a few days ago, is best known as Captain Clark of the Oregon and will be best remembered for the famous trip he made as commander of that vessel during the Spanish war. When war broke out the Oregon was on the Pacific coast and was needed in the Atlantic. He brought the big battleship around Cape Horn over a course 13,000 miles in length in sixty-five days and arrived in time to take an important part in the battle of Santiago.

Admiral Clark was born in Vermont in 1843, graduated from the Naval academy in 1863 and participated in the engagement of Mobile Bay in the civil war and in the bombardment of Fort Monroe. After the war he was assigned to the Pacific station and was on the Suwanee when that vessel was wrecked off Vancouver island in 1867.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Many things have been written against the evils of tips. While sometimes they are harmless, we believe autoists are carrying things too far, when they themselves defy the law and bribe boys to help them out. The following item in the Dedham Transcript explains:

"For some time the small boys of this town have been reaping a harvest of dimes and quarters tipping off automobilists as to the whereabouts of the police and their traps on Washington and other streets. They found the tipping business a paying one, but now they have got to divide their chances with competitors—the motormen of the street railways. Monday the police timed a large number of automobiles, but in no case was any one of them exceeding the speed limit considered fair and proper by the authorities."

Hyde Park is one of the big towns of the State to be congratulated. It is in the Metropolitan district and has large assessments to pay like other municipalities near Boston. Its State tax and county tax are also larger than last year, but nevertheless on a small increase in valuation it is able to report a reduction of fifty cents in its tax rate, making it only $16.80. The valuation is $12,882,270, an increase of $228,045. Other towns and cities should endeavor to ascertain how Hyde Park did it.

Why not invite your out-of-town friends to the launching in Quincy next Thursday of the largest battleship built in this country. The city is missing a great opportunity when it allows an event of this magnitude to pass without making it a grand gala day. Some arrangements should be made so that the Vermont people and other distinguished guests of the Fore River company may see something of Quincy. The plans now are to come by train directly to the shipyard and to leave as quietly. If brought to their attention, many of the visitors would like to inspect the birthplaces of the Presidents; their burial places; the Dorothy Q. house and the granite quarries. The launching will be early in the day, and there should be an hour or two in the afternoon for sight-seeing.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The whole world is anxious for peace at the present time, and none more anxious than the United States. There is, of course, some interest for humanity's sake, for there is no need of further slaughter, but there is a very material interest in the plea for peace as well. During the first four months of the present year Russian imports over the European frontier have fallen off over $28,000,000, or 27 percent from the imports for the same period of last year, and the greatest loss has been in cottons and machinery, the American loss being one of the largest.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞ The Grand Army of the Republic is growing old, but age has not affected its gallantry. Women's work has always been appreciated by the organization, and the Woman's Relief Corps has received at the hands of the veterans many courtesies. But it has remained for the present commander-in-chief to make comrades of the women by appointing three distinguished members of the relief corps as aids on his staff. The act was a graceful tribute to a worthy and important auxiliary body, and it is safe to predict that General John R. King will have no helpers at the national encampment at Denver who will be more trustworthy or more willing to perform the duties assigned to them than his new aids, Mrs. Sherman, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Fuller.—New York Tribune.

Not Forgotten.

Sauntering in the old Hancock cemetery yesterday, we saw a fresh wreath of immortelles of purple and white upon the grave stone placed in memory of Mr. George Dawes. This family lot is at the extreme northwestern corner near the railroad. The Dawes family lived in Quincy in a house upon the site of the residence of Mrs. James Edwards on School street. Mr. George Dawes was well known as he was in the employ of C. F. Hovey all his active life. Few made such lasting friends as he did.

WILL BE MISSED.

Floral Tributes Numerous at Funeral of Miss Marnock.

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of Mary Elizabeth Marnock was held from the home of her mother, Mrs. Emma Marnock, 29 Bennington street.

The burial services, of the Episcopal church, were conducted by the Rev. Herbert Barker.

At the house a large concourse of friends of the family and members of the order of "Loyal Ladies," of which the deceased was a member, assembled.

Mary E. Marnock was the second and only surviving daughter of the late Alexander Marnock, granite manufacturer. She was well and most favorably known in South Quincy. Noted for her personal charms and of a cheerful and lovable disposition, she was popular at the social functions in the district. And was ever ready to lend a helping hand for the benefit of the order to which she belonged, and for those in the circle of her acquaintances whom misfortune may have overtaken. Miss Marnock was in the twentieth year of her age.

The sickness which ended the young life last Tuesday evening, overtook her last spring. Since that time she suffered much and all that a loving mother and an anxious family could do was done. Much sympathy by a large circle of friends is felt for Mrs. Marnock and her family.

The burial was at Mount Wollaston cemetery, where the Loyal Ladies read their burial services at the grave. A select quartet rendered a service of song.

The floral tributes were numerous and most choice, the following being among the pieces noted:

Pillow with "Lizzie," from Mother.
Broken column with "Sister" from A.C. Marnock and wife and E. D. Marnock.
Wreath, Mr. and Mrs. John Stronach and family.
Spray of roses, Mr. Edward Joy.
Pillow, Mr. George Hebert.
Pillow, Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor.
Crescent, Copeland Club.
Spray, W. R. C. No. 103.
Spray of astors, Waverly Lodge No. 193, K. & L. of H., Charlestown.
Gates Ajar, Employees of A. Marnock & Co.
Pillow and cross, John J. Joyce and L. G. McLeod
Spray of pink roses, Miss E. G. Smith.
Wreath, Vena Deane and Rachel Norrie.
Wreath, Charles Barnicoat and Miss Mamie Kennedy.
Spray of pink roses, Annie Hartwell.
Basket of white roses, Misses Margaret McCue and Sadie Berry.
Pinks, Miss Margaret W. Milne.
Pinks, Miss Celina Beliveau.
White pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Drummond.
Roses, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. McDonald and Miss Jennie Norrie.

Pink roses, Mr. and Mrs. James Brady and daughter.
Pillow, Mr. Arthur Brady.
Astors, Mr. Chas. W. Hodgkinson.
White roses, Misses M. and M. M. Wood.
Mound of white roses with dove, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Guinan.
Wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mavers and family.
Basket of white roses, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Spargo and family.
Basket of white roses, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. W. Marshall.
Basket of white roses, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Whiting.
Pink roses, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Masson.
White pinks, Miss Katie Flowers.
Roses, Mrs. Wm. Birse and daughter.
Roses, Mrs. A. Hall.
Bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. John Williams.
Asters, Mrs. Hallet and Mrs. Genthner.
Asters, Mr. and Mrs. J. Robie.
Asters, Miss Mae Drumgold and Miss Josie Nicholson.
Asters, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mitchell.
Asters, Peter L. Litchfield and Wm. Higgs.
White pinks, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kirkland.
White pinks, Miss Katie Austin.
Pinks, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Carman.
White asters, Miss Jennie McDonald.
White asters, Miss Agnes Souter.
Roses, Mr. and Mrs. George Gustin.
Roses and asters, James C. Williams.
Roses, Mr. and Mrs. Matherson.

Sudden Death at Braintree.

Nehemiah R. Procter, a well known citizen of Braintree, died suddenly about 9 o'clock this morning, aged 60 years. For many years he conducted a local store with his brother, and in recent years has had a news store on Railroad street. Some years ago he was postmaster. He was prominent in musical affairs, and was generally liked.

He was an active member of Monatiquot lodge, K. of P., of Braintree.

BIG EVENT.

More Interest Than Usual in Launching.

Thirty-five Hundred Tickets Issued.

And There Are Daily Requests From Vermont for More.

Although there has always been a great amount of interest in launching of battleships at the Fore River, the interest in the launch of the Vermont next Thursday bids fare to eclipse anything yet.

In point of attendance within the yards it will excell. Everybody in Vermont wants to come, and if assured of gaining admittance there would be thousands more than will be present. The demand for tickets has been unpredented.

Already 3,500 tickets have been issued, and every mail brings requests for more.

Chief of Police Burrell has been requested to send down eighteen policemen to preserve order and prevent accidents. They will be assisted by the company's own force of specials.

The three reviewing stands at the bow of the boat are about completed. Those at the sides will be occupied by the Vermont associations, and that at the front by the official party.

It is now expected that a band from one of the battleships at the navy yard will be present.

Funeral of Mrs. McTiernan.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary A. wife of John McTiernan, and daughter of the the late Michael and Julia Elcock, took place yesterday morning at St. Mary's church, West Quincy.

Although a patient sufferer for over a year her death came unexpectedly and as a severe shock to family and friends.

Mrs. McTiernan was a woman of aimable disposition and retiring manner, which won for her a host of friends, who filled the church at the services, which were very impressive.

Requiem mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. A. F. Roche. The musical portion was under the direction of Miss Mary A. McKay.

As the body was borne to the church, Mrs. Mary White Murphy, a life-long friend of the deceased, touchingly rendered "Nearer My God To Thee," at the offertory, "Ave Marie," and at the conclusion. "Face to Face."

There were many beautiful floral offerings among which were:

Pillow marked "Mother."
Wreath, "Sister."
Casket piece from Rev. W. J. Foley.
Wreaths, from Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dinegan, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell and Mr. and Mrs. John Casey.
Garlands, from Mr. Pickering and family and Mr. and Mrs. John Hussey.
Cross, from Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Fitzgerald.
Pillow, marked "Rest" from Copeland A. A.
Mound and cross, from St. Mary's C. F. A. and M. R. Society.

The pallbearers were all nephews of the deceased.

Mrs. McTiernan is survived by a husband and three sons, John L., Joseph E. and James M., three brothers and a sister, James H., Thomas M., George F. and Elizabeth J. Elcock.

Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Well Known in Weymouth.

Mr. Maurice Keohan, a well known and highly respected resident of Weymouth, died at his home last Tuesday evening after a lingering illness. Funeral services were held Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the Church of the Sacred Heart.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John J. Murphy, Rev. John J. Coan, deacon, Rev. Bernard Bradley, sub-deacon, Rev. Charles O'Brien, master of ceremonies, and Rev. John P. Cuffe present in the sanctuary. Music was by a quartet composed of Mrs. Nellie Nolan Carroll, Mrs. John Sullivan, John Hanley and John Sullivan. Interment was at St. Francis Xavier cemetery.

He was of a retiring disposition and always an upright citizen. He leaves a widow, one son and three daughters to mourn his loss, one of the daughters being the wife of Dr. John H. Ash of West Quincy.

—There have been four deaths in Dedham within a week all over 79 years of age. Mrs. Silas Pettee Shaw, Samuel George Snelling, Thomas Hendry and Charles C. Sanderson.

WASHINGTON LETTER

[Special Correspondence.]

The treaty making machinery of two great nations is in motion. The process of drawing Japan and Russia together for the purpose of securing terms for the settlement of the present war has many interesting side features, chief of which is the marked contrast it presents between the modern and the old fashioned methods of adjusting serious international differences.

The telegraph and the cable have revolutionized the business of making treaties. In the days when communication between nations was limited to sailing vessels negotiations dragged on for months and sometimes for years before an agreement could be had.

Before the period when friendly powers took up the diplomatic troubles of contending nations, flashed a few cables around the world and presented peace terms of a nature satisfactory to both sides in a controversy the governments had to resort to strategy and submit to no end of hard labor and expense to accomplish their ends. In the short space of a week President Roosevelt sounded Germany, Great Britain and France as to their attitude on the question of peace in the far east.

Department Women's Home.

A movement started some time ago among the women employees of the government printing office for the establishment of a department women's home is spreading to the other government departments, according to Mrs. Arvilla McDonough, who is on the board of directors and actively engaged in the work. It is stated that in all probability the home will be opened some time this winter. The idea is not to establish a charitable institution in any sense, but it is simply to give the women of the departments who have no homes and live in rooms a place to live and have the comforts of a home. A minimum charge will be made for rooms and board, and sitting rooms, parlors and libraries will be provided.

Public Printing Investigation.

Last winter congress authorized the joint committee on printing to make an investigation during the recess into methods of printing public documents at the government printing office and to report to congress upon its meeting at the following session. This joint committee, of which Senator Platt of New York is the chairman, was supposed to take up the matter of all useless expenditure in printing duplicates of government reports, to look into the nature of the material that is being printed at the expense of the government and to report its recommendations for curtailing such expenditures.

Early in the summer the chairman called a meeting of the joint committee to meet in New York city, but upon a failure of the members to show up Senator Platt decided to allow the matter to go over until the cool weather of the fall, when it was said he would call the committee to meet in this city and go to work in earnest and probe the methods pursued in the ordering of printing.

It is now assured that when the committee does get to work it will find enough to occupy its attention for quite a time. It will be face to face with the increase of the government's expenditure for printing from $3,500,000 in 1898 to $7,000,000 at the present time. This doubling of the government's printing bill has alarmed many of the leaders in congress in view of the deficit of the treasury and the recommendation of the public printer that the government printing office be enlarged by replacing the old building at the corner of North Capitol and H streets with a modern seven story building to correspond in general style with the newly built part of the office.

The Capital Pro Tem.

Oyster Bay, the summer capital of America, is entirely devoid of social life so far as the president's family is concerned. The Roosevelts, big and little, are taking life as people should in "the good old summer time." Mrs. Roosevelt has had several intimate friends from time to time as house guests, but there has been no formal entertaining. The entire family devotes itself to riding, driving, boating, tennis and other outdoor sports, and its daily companions are members of the numerous Roosevelt clan who are summering at Oyster Bay. The president has divided his time about equally between work and pleasure. In the intervals of labor he goes off on little jaunts, the last one being a camping out in the woods party, when he cooked his own meals and bathed in the bracing waters of the sound.

Patriarchs of the Senate.

The United States senate is regaining its youth. When the long session adjourned, little more than a year ago, the number of frail men in that chamber who walked about with uncertain step was a subject of comment by many observers. Statistics then showed that sixteen of its ninety members had passed the allotted three score years and ten. Seven of these in a single twelvemonth have ceased to be members of that body, four by death and three by retirement, and of these three one has already died. It is doubtful if so great a thinning out of the aged men ever before occurred in the senate. Those who died have been Quay of Pennsylvania, Hoar of Massachusetts, Bate of Tennessee and Platt of Connecticut. Those who retired on March 4 who had passed the age of seventy were Hawley of Connecticut, Gibson of Montana and Stewart of Nevada. No new man has become seventy in the year nor has any seventy-year-old man been elected to the senate. The nine members who possess this distinction now are Morgan and Pettus of Alabama, Platt and Depew of New York, Frye of Maine, Proctor of Vermont, Cullom of Illinois, Allison of Iowa and Teller of Colorado.

The body of Miss Annie M. Hunt, who died at her home in Randolph on Wednesday, was brought to Quincy, her former home, where the funeral services were held yesterday afternoon.

Councilman and Mrs. Fred C. Chamberlin of Wollaston, returned last night from a camp in the Canadian woods. He is much improved in health but his left arm is still disabled with rheumatism.

The attention of the Commissioner of Public Works is respectfully called to the channel of water across Saville avenue on Hancock street. For some reason this does not run off, and the odor there is very bad lately.

So many good objects appeal to us, that it would be well to have a separate little cuddy hole for small sums to help these good works, apportioning a mite to each. Just now the Day Nursery by his increased helpfulness needs our cooperation.

Cyril F. Randall of this city, only son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Randall, has been elected a teacher at Stutton near Worcester. He is a graduate of the Washington school, Adams Academy, and the Bridgewater Normal school. He will enter on his new duties in September.

Business College.

Mr. E. C. Perry, principal of the Plymouth Business school visited Quincy today in the interests of that institution, and has rented Colonial hall in the Sayings Bank building for the purpose of opening a branch of the school here.

The studies to be taught and text books used are the same as in the high grade business schools. The principal is a member of the National Association of Private School Managers which insures the very best courses of studies.

This school has branches in Plymouth, Hyannis, Nantucket and Wareham and was established in 1897.

The Boston office is located at 712 Tremont Temple.

The new branch here will open on or about Sept. 11th.

IN THE PARTITIONS.

Fire Starts in Basement of Newcomb Place House.

The alarm from Box 171 at 7.50 this morning called the department to a fire in a house on Newcomb place occupied by Thomas Hewson. The fire started in the basement where Mr. Hewson kept a lot of paint pots. It was probably caused by spontaneous combustion, although a blue flame oil stove in the basement took fire, and was thrown out of doors.

The smoke worked up through the building and filled the house. It was thought that the flames might have crept up through the partitions, and the firemen were kept at the house some time in case fire should make its appearance in the upper rooms.

The fire lose will not be large.

While the Wollaston apparatus was going down Washington street it met a drove of cattle and it was a kind of hide and seek to get through without running any of them down.

It was half an hour before the recall sounded.

HUSTLER SECOND.

Outsailed by the Arawak at Provincetown.

The Quincy yacht on the South Shore cruise sailed yesterday in the first handicap class in the regatta under the auspices of the Provincetown yacht club. It was a lively contest in which the Arawak took first prize on corrected time with the Hustler second.

The summary:

| Name and owner. | h. m. s |
|---|---|
| Arawak, H. C. Nickerson | 2 36 14 |
| Hustler, H. W. Robbins | 2 38 59 |
| Marvel, I. M. Whittemore | 2 41 03 |

CHOICE MISCELLANY

An Up to Date Lass.

The advancement of woman by leaps and bounds continues. First, we had the women's clubs, then the women's hotel, with bell girls and "lady" porters, and later the Woman's Downtown Lunching club. There is one New York young woman, living in the vicinity of Madison square, who is still ages ahead of the rest of her sex in the race for equality with man. She wears men's shoes, a four-in-hand tie and a dress that is as near an approach to a suit of clothes as the laws of dressmaking will permit. She carries her umbrella as a man would his cane, and her walk is a close imitation of the Harvard "strut." The other day one who passes constantly through the park on her way downtown saw this concrete example of advanced womanhood sitting on a bench writing a letter instead of reading the paper while she had her shoes shined. The passer-by looked by instinct, as it were, for the cigar in her left hand, but that fortunately was reserved for a still more remote period of feminine development.—New York Post.

Makers of the Northwest.

Their one care is a constant watch for opportunity, and their rule of honor is respect for every other man's right to try. They laugh when they win, because success in a successful country need not be taken too seriously. They laugh also when they fail, because failure amid so many opportunities is ludicrous. They are crude, and they meet their social problems in their wives' names. Their optimism is the optimism of plenty. Their conceit grows out of their achievements.

The New Yorker scornfully says: "Why should I go west? I have everything that is worth seeing right here in New York." To this the American replies, "Yes, everything except the United States of America."

"You think you are the whole nation," says the New Yorker.

"No," says the American. "I'm only a part owner. But I know my country and my partners. You don't."—World's Work.

The Flight of a Swallow.

Unless swallow stories be like anglers' yarns, a bird belonging to an Antwerp gentleman has just established a record. A flight of homing pigeons had been arranged from Compiegne to Antwerp. The swallow, caught by the gentleman from a nest under his own roof and duly marked, was sent to Compiegne and given its freedom with the pigeons at 7:15 o'clock in the morning. At 8:23 that same morning the swallow returned to its nest at Antwerp. It had covered the distance between the towns of just under 148 miles in one hour and eight minutes, having, therefore, traveled at the extraordinary speed of two miles and some three hundred yards per minute. The first pigeon to reach its cage, also at Antwerp, arrived there only at 11:30.—London Telegraph.

St. Louis Seeks a Million.

That St. Louis is getting ready for the coming million population is shown by the official report of the building commissioner for the month of July.

Such a showing, calling for the erection of buildings that would make a fair sized town, is striking evidence of the fact that St. Louis lost nothing, but gained tremendously in prestige and in industrial and financial strength, by the Louisiana Purchase exposition. The month's building record is not only remarkable as compared with that of last year, but is the biggest in the history of the city.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"Washing" the Blood.

Many strange things go to the laundry, but it is surely novel to conceive the idea of putting one's blood to the wash. However, it appears to be not only possible, but practicable, and Dr. Roux of the Pasteur institute has just laid before the Academy of Science an apparatus invented by Dr. Ripin for this highly singular purpose. The apparatus had sufficed to "wash" one-fourth of the blood of a dog at one operation without any mishap. It is hoped that the invention will render practicable the elimination of plasma from the blood in certain affections.—London Globe.

One of Menelik's Proclamations.

Emperor Menelik has had occasion recently to inform his people that he has coined a new Abyssinian dollar. This not very exciting information was given in a proclamation full of oriental picturesqueness. The following are only a few of the minor flourishes: "Hear ye! Hear ye! May God strike discord to the enemies of our mountains and hills! May he strike discord among the enemies of our Lord Menelik! May he strike discord into the enemies of Mary!"

Probably No Mistake.

A deserter from the British army was identified recently by the following tattoo marks upon him: A cross on the left forearm, with the words, "In loving memory;" a jockey with two flags, Buffalo Bill, a heart on the back of the left hand, a horseshoe with crossed whips, a cross with the figure of a soldier leaning on it, a pierced heart, a heart on the right forearm, a heart with clasped hands, a soldier and a girl.—Indianapolis News.

A Monster Map.

What is probably the largest mounted map in New York is that in the office of a big express company in Broadway near Rector street. The map covers the side wall of the first floor from floor to ceiling and half the length of the building, which extends from Broadway to Trinity place. This makes it probably 18 feet high and more than 100 feet long.

BRAINTREE.

James W. Colbert resumed his occupation as ticket agent at the South Braintree station Thursday after enjoying a five weeks' vacation.

Charles Greelish is substituting as letter carrier on the northern bound route, while the regular carrier is having a vacation of fifteen days.

Today at 3:30 o'clock the home ball team will play the Clapp Memorial club at East Weymouth.

Sunday, many employees of the New York, New Haven, and Hartford railroad enjoyed an excursion to Old Orchard Beach, Maine.

Linfield Capen is enjoying a six weeks' vacation the greater part of which he will spend in Nova Scotia.

Charles Winslow of Dyer hill who has been very ill and threatened with typhoid fever is reported to be much better.

Interest has revived at the canoe club house as many of the active members have returned from their annual vacations and are taking advantage of the beautiful summer evenings to indulge in their favorite pastime, canoeing.

Herbert Parker of Hancock street returned last Sunday from Damariscotta, Maine, where he has been enjoying camp life.

The Loyal Knights and Ladies will spend Labor day at Monponset pond. The party will leave on the 9.09 train from South Braintree or from South Braintree square on the 7.45 electric to connect with train at Whitman at 9.31. Basket Lunch.

Lawrence C. Mott with two gentlemen left New York Friday morning in a mammoth touring car and arrived here just before 6 P. M., and later went to Boston.

Mr. H. A. Vinton of Weymouth, has the sympathy of friends and business associates in Braintree in the loss of his wife, who died on Thursday of last week after a long and painful illness. The funeral was held on Sunday at 3 P. M. Rev. William Hyde of the Trinity Episcopal church, Weymouth, conducted the service. Mrs. Eva Baker rendered two appropriate musical selections. Beautiful flowers in great abundance testified to the affection of a wide circle of friends. A daughter Mrs. Richmond Clapp and a sister Mrs. Augusta Walker are also bereaved.

Eleanor, the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wilson of Mt. Vernon avenue has been quite ill this week.

Forest I. Neal is enjoying a two weeks' vacation visiting St. Johns, N. B., and the provinces.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Pearson and two oldest sons are visiting relatives in Natick.

Arthur Levangie who has been spending the summer at Nova Scotia has returned home.

Dr. O. G. Tinkham with a party of friends: Henry Kiley, Joseph Kelley, Leon Collins and Fred Smith, made a trip to Marblehead last Sunday in the doctor's motor boat.

Joseph I. Bates a former well known resident of this place suffered a severe shock of paralysis at his home in Scituate a few days ago and now is seriously ill.

The name, Jonas Perkins School, is a great ornament to the building. Complimentary remarks are heard as the golden letters attract the attention of the passer along the highway. This adds a last touch to the appearance of the structure with its fresh coat of paint, standing on its fine, sightly location, surrounded by ample and well kept grounds.

Rev. Oliver Huckel of Baltimore, Md., a former Braintree pastor preached at Shawmut Street Congregational church Boston, on Sunday. Rev. Mr. Huckel's recent article in the last Congregationalist on "Where M. Witte went to Pray." has been widely read by his friends and old parishioners of Union church. The description of the Russian church in New York city and the account of the service and ritual and religious ceremonies with the Russian plenipotentiaries in attendance is very imely and interesting.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Miller and daughter of Liberty street are enjoying frequent excursions in their fine large touring car.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Edwards of Bellevue road, Norfolk hills, are taking delightful trips in their automobile this summer.

Miss Jessie McGregor, of Liberty street, is substituting as clerk at the South Weymouth Bank through the vacation season.

The Unity Circle of King's Daughters met at Miss Anna Hayward's on Quincy avenue on Tuesday afternoon. Members returned from their various summerings were present and an interesting and profitable meeting was enjoyed.

Harold Wellington of Quincy avenue has enjoyed a visit with a fellow student of the Massachusetts Technology Institute in Connecticut this week.

The salt water bathing at Hayward's Grove was never more popular. Numbers of the bath-houses are hired throughout the season. This sheltered cove is an excellent spot in which to learn to dive and swim.

On Monday evening a number of the young friends of Miss E. Gertrude Barnes of Thayer place, tendered her a surprise part at G. A. R. hall it being the anniversary of her birth. A beautiful gold chain and locket was presented by her parents, a valuable ring by the members of the Wyelljaycee club of which she is a member, gold pins by Miss Gertrude M. Berry, china pin tray by Mrs. Susan Harbin. The evening was spent in dancing and music. There being many fine singers among the audience the musical selections were much enjoyed. Master George Abell our promising young musician, presided at the piano. Refreshments of cake and cream were served.

The members of the Wyelljaycee club will be entertained by Miss Anna M. Tracey at her summer home at Surfside, Nantasket, this afternoon. Outdoor whist will be enjoyed in the afternoon, while the delights of Paragon park will contribute to their entertainment in the evening.

Leo Brett returned last Sunday from a month's vacation spent at Damariscotta, Me. He enjoyed the trip exceedingly going both ways in his naphtha launch. The young man has proved himself to be a competent sailor by facing an east wind most of the way into Boston. The trip home was made in two and one half days.

Public Works.

The Bureau of Census has just published Bulletin 20, presenting statistics of cities having a population of over 25,000. This bulletin contains comparatively few statistics relating to the population living in these cities, but is for the most part a compilation of data relative to the resources, transactions, plant, and machinery of the municipal corporations, forming a sort of statistical inventory and balance sheet.

One finds in these tables such facts as the length (in miles) and the area (in square yards) of the paved streets classified with reference to kind of paving; miles of sewer; number of street lamps; miles of street railway track; number of school buildings and number of teachers and pupils; the number of public libraries with the number of volumes they contain; the number of almhouses and orphan asylums with the number of inmates; the number of policemen, and the number of arrests they have made; the number of fires occurring during the year, and property loss from such fires; the number of marriages recorded in the office of the city or county clerk and likewise the number of divorces, etc., etc.

Bellevue Park and Montclair.

Rumor has it that Herbert S. Fairclough is talking of erecting several houses in Bellevue Park in the near future.

Miss Irma Carr of Everett is staying with friends on Broadway for two weeks.

Miss Marguerite L. Holbrook of Broadway is spending a week on Columbia road, Dorchester, with her aunt Mrs. P. R. Sutherland.

Miss J. Belle Barnes of Lowell, also Mrs. J. E. Orr and family of Brooklyn, New York, are visiting Mrs. Orr's sister, Mrs. E. F. Parlee of Pope street.

Mrs. Kissler of Readville is staying with her son, Mr. F. J. Kissler of Pope street.

Miss Warrena Brodte of Yonkers, New York is the guest of her aunt Mrs. O. S. Rymarczick of Ardell street, Montclair this week.

Mrs. Joshua Fairclough of Bristol, Conn., formerly of Squantum street, Montclair, is visiting her son Herbert Fairclough of Hancock street, Norfolk Downs.

New Registry.

The new Norfolk county registry building at Dedham is now open for business. The Register of Deeds and the Register of Probate have their quarters there. The building is commodious and well adapted to all the requirements, and a credit to the county and the County Commissioners who have erected it for a reasonable sum of money.

—The late F. W. Rhinelander, President of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, once narrated in a New York studio a pretty story about Mr. Gladstone. "A miniature painter," he said, "Did a little portrait of Mrs. Gladstone in her old age. It was a pleasant, taking little portrait. It pleased Mrs. Gladstone tremendously. But one day a young relative of the family, looking at the miniature in Mrs. Gladstone's absence, said to Mr. Gladstone with a rude chuckle: 'Good, very good; but don't you think it rather flatters the old lady?' Mr. Gladstone laid his hand on the young man's shoulder, and in his beautiful, mellow voice, he said: 'My boy, it is the truth beautifully told.'"

—The man who runs in debt usually has to walk out.

NEW PROPOSAL FROM JAPANESE

It Alone Can Save Peace Conference From Wreck

OUTLOOK MOST GLOOMY

Words and Money" the Bar to an Amicable Agreement--President Roosevelt's Efforts May Yet Bring About Desired Results--Functions of the Envoys Practically Suspended--Expected to Adjourn Today Until Next Week--Chances Do Not Preclude Favorable Outcome of Conference--England and Japan in New Alliance

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 26.—At 1:30 this morning a long cipher message arrived from Oyster Bay for Assistant Secretary Peirce.

The press is permitted to announce that Emperor Nicholas answer to President Roosevelt's latest appeal was partially responsive.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 26.—The peace conference seems headed straight for the rocks. Despite the fact that every question of principle involved in the quarrel between the two countries has been settled in favor of the victor and that in reality only "words and money" still separate them the negotiations seem on the verge of a final rupture.

The air is filled with gloomy forebodings, as superficially everything indicates that today's session of the conference will prove the "seance d'adieu." In the most positive fashion it is declared that no new instructions had reached Witte up to last evening which would permit him to entertain the consideration of the compromise proposition submitted by Komura on Wednesday and, therefore, unless Japan has a new proposal to make today, all that seems to remain is for the plenipotentiaries to meet, sign a declaration that the conference has completed its labors, shake hands and part as enemies—not as friends.

But there are still unknown factors in the situation which in a twinkling might change the situation. The result of President Roosevelt's second appeal directly to Emperor Nicholas has not transpired, and the result of the pressure upon Japan to alter the form of her proposal by the elimination of the purchase price of the northern half of Sakhalin is not known.

But the indications on both scores are not reassuring. The press dispatches from Tokio and St. Petersburg, read with the most intense interest here, indicate an intransigeant attitude on the part of both governments. Yet both are anxious for peace and only "words and money" bar the path. Probably it is not a matter of more than $200,000,000. Yet the Japanese cling doggedly to their demands. Their people at home insist upon it.

Nevertheless, there is warrant for the statement that they are not as implacable as they appear and the distinct impression is gathered that they will scale their money demand and use any "formula" which would be acceptable to Russia. It is not believed they propose to let the conference end today.

On the Russian side, all pretense of claiming that Witte is any longer negotiating has been abandoned. He has gone to the furthermost limit of his imperial master's orders. More he cannot do, sincerely as he personally may desire to bring the negotiations to a successful conclusion.

Mr. Witte's position is a difficult and peculiar one. He is a statesman of large ambition. Liberal at heart, he is yet a servant of his sovereign. At the present juncture his role is described as like that of Mirabeau. He stands between the king and his people. He obeys his sovereign, but he wants his people to know where the responsibility for the fate of the negotiations must rest. At the same time he cannot himself take a firm stand against his sovereign. For this reason, and the authenticated history of this conference will bear out this statement, he preferred, when first appealed to by President Roosevelt, to have the latter go straight to the czar with his suggestion

Shortly before midnight Witte gave absolutely no encouragement to the idea that there would be a change of heart at St. Petersburg. Unless Tokio was ready to recede further, he expressed the opinion that all was over. He used the following words: "I have received no telegram from St. Petersburg which changes the situation. Indeed, I do not expect any. I have not asked instructions, so that I cannot receive any. If tomorrow there is to be a change it must come from the Japanese side."

This would seem to indicate that the president's second effort had failed at St. Petersburg. What, if anything, he has been able to do at Tokio through his interview with Kaneko yesterday afternoon still remains a mystery. That the last word has not come from Tokio and that Komura may still appear in a conciliatory role today may possibly be inferred from the following fact:

The time for the sitting of the conference today was not set when the adjournment was taken on Wednesday. Last evening Witte notified the Japanese mission that he was ready to meet this morning at 9:30. The Japanese demurred, on the ground that the minutes of the last meeting would not be ready in time. Therefore, at their request, the meeting was set for 3 o'clock this afternoon. Information indicates that the president's efforts are not exhausted; that he is still in communication with Tokio and St. Petersburg. Today's meeting, consequently, is likely not to prove decisive. It will be perfunctory and some pretext found to adjourn over until Monday or Tuesday.

President Striving For Peace

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Although the negotiations temporarily are suspended at Portsmouth, they are proceeding actively through President Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill. It appears to be likely that the envoys will adjourn their deliberations until next week to afford them ample time to receive and consider instructions from their respective governments which will be based on exchanges now in progress between Sagamore Hill and St. Petersburg and Tokio.

What St Petersburg Hopes For

St. Petersburg, Aug. 26.—Everybody in St. Petersburg is awaiting the developments of today and hoping that a compromise is being effected, the most likely basis of which, it is believed, would be no indemnity, but a payment for Sakhalin to be left for future adjustment.

Roosevelt May Save the Day

Paris, Aug. 26.—The peace conference is commanding increased interest, the newspapers displaying pessimistic views, coupled with a tinge of hope that President Roosevelt's role of champion of peace may save the day.

IS BROAD IN SCOPE

England and Japan Sign New Treaty of Alliance

London, Aug. 26.—A new Anglo-Japanese treaty of alliance has been signed. The foreign office declines to give official confirmation or denial, but it is understood that the treaty was signed some days ago. There is no reason why it should not be signed prior to the conclusion of the Portsmouth conference, as the action of that conference will not affect its terms.

The new treaty is broader in scope in some respects than the former treaty, notably where it includes the recognition by Great Britain of a Japanese protectorate over Korea and on other points which it was not necessary to include in the old treaty.

In some respects the new treaty contains limitations as compared with the old treaty. For instance, the latter contained a clause to the effect that in case of a combination of two "powers against Great Britain, Japan would be obliged to assist her ally," while the clause in the new treaty only requires the assistance of Japan so far as the British colonies in the Far East and the Pacific are concerned.

It is understood that the terms of the new treaty were fully agreed upon before parliament adjourned, but it was also agreed that the official announcement of its signature and of its full terms should be deferred until after the conclusion of the Portsmouth conference.

Strengthens Japanese Demands

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 26.—The public announcement of the new Anglo-Japanese alliance is considered to strengthen Japan's position in the negotiations and is regarded as a Roland for the Russian Oliver in the czar's assembly manifesto. At the same time, it is stated that it has freed England's hands and permitted her to support the president's efforts without creating suspicion at Tokio.

Denial of Fever In Memphis

Memphis, Aug. 26.—The Memphis board of health has issued a statement denying the presence of yellow fever in this city. The statement was occasioned by a report that the United States authorities at New Orleans had information which led them to believe that yellow fever existed at Memphis.

Gashed Throat and Hanged Himself

Gardner, Mass., Aug. 26.—William E. Brooks, aged 31, a chairmaker, stood before a mirror and gashed his throat with a razor. Failing to end his life that way he then made a noose out of a shirt and hanged himself from a closet door. He is thought to have been temporarily insane.

The Mannatawket Floated

Boston, Aug. 26.—The Nahant line steamer Mannatawket, which ran ashore on Deer island while coming through Shirley gut with 100 passengers on board, was successfully floated last night. The vessel came up the harbor unassisted and tied up here with a slight list to port.

Missionary Not Abducted

Baltimore, Aug. 26.—The Sun has received a letter from Editor Parkhurst of Zion's Herald, denying the recently reported abduction of Miss Sooboonagam Ammal, the high caste Hindu convert to Christianity and missionary.

Charged With Poisoning Sons

Grayling, Mich., Aug. 26.—Mrs. Naomi Aldrich was bound over here for trial before the circuit court, charged with having poisoned her two young sons to procure life insurance money.

THE REAL TEST

Of Herpicide Is In Giving It a Thorough Trial.

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vigors may look nice and smell nice, but the point is—do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair?

No, they do not, but Herpicide does because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Herpicide stands the "test of use."

It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease.

Sixty-Five New Cases of Fever

New Orleans, Aug. 26.—Partial quarantine of New Orleans against Louisiana points infected with yellow fever has been ordered by the state board of health, the idea being to prevent those who carried fever from New Orleans to outside towns from returning to New Orleans, bringing with them fresh infection. The yellow fever situation in New Orleans shows an increase in new cases and disease centers. The report to 6 p. m. yesterday is as follows: New cases, 65; total cases, 1665; deaths, 6; total deaths, 232; new disease centres, 16; total disease centres, 376; remaining under treatment, 280 cases.

Steamer and Cargo Total Loss

Newbern, N. S., Aug. 26.—During a dense fog the local freight and passenger steamer Blanche of this city was sunk through a collision with steamer Neuse of the Norfolk and Southern Railroad company. The Blanche remained impaled on the bow of the Neuse, which gave opportunity to rescue all the crew and passengers uninjured, after which the Neuse freed herself by backing away and the Blanche went down. There was no insurance on either the steamer or her large cargo and the loss will be practically total.

In Behalf of Immigrants

New York, Aug. 26.—In its attempt to secure better treatment for immigrants who come to this country in the steerage of the ocean liners, the department of commerce and labor caused the arrest of Captain Sartoris of the steamer Sicilia, from Mediterranean ports. The captain is charged with failure to provide tables and seats for the use of the 702 steerage passengers. He was held in bail to await the action of the federal grand jury.

Work of Secret Service

Washington, Aug. 26.—The annual report of Chief Wilkie of the secret service shows a total of 532 arrests, of which 41 related to counterfeits of currency, 52 to altered obligations, 344 to the counterfeiting of coin and the others in connection with various violations of the federal statutes. Native born offenders numbered 392.

President's Efforts Commended

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Aug. 26.—The most striking feature of the American Bar association convention came when resolutions approving President Roosevelt's efforts to end the war between Russia and Japan were adopted. The resolutions were brought before the convention just previous to its adjournment.

Loss Falls Upon Exporters

Odessa, Aug. 26.—The export trade in grain from Black sea ports is paralyzed by lack of railway facilities, the government having retained all the rolling stock for military contingencies. Exporters will sustain heavy losses, owing to their inability to fulfil engagements.

ATTRACTIVE IDEAS.

CLEVER AND EFFECTIVE DEVICES IN FURNISHING.

Two Suggestions For Combining Utility and Decoration — Desirable Door Guard—Practical Homemade Washstand.

The home that must be furnished on a moderate sum of money often has an advantage in general attractability over a house that is fitted up on an expensive scale. In two bedrooms that were lately visited by the writer there were two pleasing suggestions for combining a necessary utility with a decorative appearance.

In leaving a door into a chamber open for ventilation it is often desirable to screen a portion of the room from the hall. This may be accomplished by hanging a door guard over the opening between the hinges. The guard illustrated is made of two strips of heavy brown linen sewed together, with the bottom fringed and knotted and the top ornamented with old Japanese sword hilts.

The idea of building a washstand against the wall was not a novel one, but the way in which it was carried out was unusual. A jog in the wall at the right of the mantel gave ample space for holding the toilet set. Too often the facilities for bathing are inconvenient from being disposed too closely together. This is the chief fault of the old fashioned washstands that were made in the colonial times to fit into a corner of the bedrooms. The exterior fittings of the washstand were an opaque striped dimity that matched the cover of the bed. The protector fastened against the wall was a finely spotted swiss muslin put up with a narrow heading. The top of the washstand was covered with white oilcloth (the kind used on kitchen tables), and over this a spread of cotton faced pique was laid. A standing towel rack was kept near the washstand to hold fresh linen, and the slop jar when not in use was pushed under the dimity curtain to one side of the understructure of this washstand, which was an empty flour barrel on which two wide, smooth boards were nailed.

A variation of this idea may be carried out in a corner of a room by having a three cornered board fitted into the angle. Sometimes the barrel may be discarded, and instead cleats of wood for supporting the board top may be secured to the wall itself.

The hangings for the washstand may be selected to suit the colors in the room and a thick or thin texture used according to the individual taste.—Designer.

Clam Bouillon.

For clam bouillon wash the shells in cold water and put the clams in a kettle over the fire with one pint of hot water to every quart of clams. Cover closely, that the steam may cause the shells to open. When open remove the shells and strain the broth. Chop the clams fine and return them with the broth to the fire. Simmer for twenty minutes and strain through a cloth. This broth when served may be reheated with an equal quantity of milk or cream and seasoned to taste.

One Way to Take Raw Egg.

For a convalescent a fresh egg beaten very light is sometimes added to a glass of strong lemonade. The lemon will destroy the raw animal taste that is so offensive to some.

An Adding Up of Days.

"A noble life is not a blaze
Of sudden glory won,
But just an adding up of days
In which good work is done."

The Corona a Thing of Weird Beauty — Many Expeditions on Way to Advantageous Points of Observation—Views to Be Taken by Automatic Photographic Telescopes

IT is not every year that can afford the luxury of a solar eclipse. For that reason, if for no other, 1905 can crow over her less fortunate neighbors. Long will she be remembered, at least by the astronomers, for a total eclipse of the sun is a thing that the astronomers literally go miles to see. For the purpose of observing the one that occurs on the 30th of August they are going thousands of miles, in fact. Some of them are traveling to Labrador, some to Spain, some to northern Africa and some even to Egypt. Not only so, but they are to take with them much finer apparatus than was ever before used for a like purpose. There will be a number of expeditions from the United States and others from every leading nation of Europe. Old Sol will have so many telescopes pointed at him that day that there is no wonder he will hide h's face behind the moon. He is too old to be particularly modest, but such persistent staring would disconcert even the most ancient.

The scientists, on their part, expect to find out things. For example, they anticipate learning whether there is really a planet inside of Mercury or not. That little world has been doing eccentric things that have led some to believe that there is another little world still nearer the sun, pulling at her orbital skirts, as it were. Two astronomers out in Colorado said they actually saw such a world. But others doubt it. Now is the chance to see for themselves.

A Solar Mystery.

Then the corona is something of a solar mystery. Some have thought it a substance and have named it coroneum. Others have regarded it as only a phenomenon of light. Whatever its scientific constitution, it is a thing of weird beauty. Sometimes its streamers shoot out for millions of miles. At others it is star shaped. Then it runs like a rim of fire about the shadow of the moon. It is only visible at the time of a total eclipse; hence the anxiety of the astronomers to photograph it and study it at their leisure.

Practically all the instruments used this year will be photographic telescopes. The sensative plate is much more reliable than the human eye. Not only so, but these photographic telescopes have been arranged to work automatically. One would not suppose that a cold blooded scientist would have ordinary human emotions. Perhaps some of them have not. It is related of one well known astronomer, who had headed many eclipse expeditions, that he never had time to see an eclipse he was so busy "observing them." But this is not true of others. So marvelous is the phenomenon that the scientist is forgotten in the man, who stands gazing in open eyed and open mouthed wonder. As the eclipse only lasts about three minutes—that is, in its totality, every second must be utilized; hence automotic machinery has been devised that would not be stopped by anything less sensational than an earthquake.

Secretary Shaw Interested.

Two notable expeditions will go from the United States. One of these is from the naval observatory at Washington. This will establish three stations, one in Labrador, one in Spain and one probably in northern Africa. The famous Lick observatory of California will also have three stations, one in Labrador, one in Spain and the third at Assouan, Egypt. In addition to these will be many smaller expeditions from various observatories in the country. Congress made an appropriation for the naval observation, and Secretary Shaw lent it his assistance. Nor is he the only cabinet officer interested if reports are to be credited. No less a man than Secretary of State Root is now in Labrador, and it is believed he is on the ground for the purpose of viewing the eclipse.

Outside of the Americans Canada will send an expedition to Labrador, as will also the governor of Newfoundland, who is something of a scientific bug himself. Then England will have several bunches of observers out, as also will Germany. It is not stated that the kaiser will attend any of these, though how he can let such an opportunity pass is more than the ordinary man can understand. He has done pretty much every other stunt, and why not an eclipse?

From Manitoba to Persia.

The path described by the total eclipse will reach from Manitoba to Persia. It will start at sunrise in the western Canadian province, thence will sweep eastward at the rate of 2,000 miles an hour across the British dominions, will cross Labrador, will speed like a cannon ball over the Atlantic, crossing Spain about noon; thence across the Mediterranean it will skirt northern Africa, gradually diminishing its speed as it approaches the equator, and thence across Egypt it will disappear at sunset in Persia.

The path of the total eclipse will be about 167 miles wide, and its duration at a given point will be three minutes and forty-five seconds. It will require quick work to take the required number of photographs in this brief time, but the astronomers are prepared for lightning-like execution. The United States naval observatory has been getting ready for two years. There is one sixty foot telescope to be used and others almost as large. On one of the instruments is a new style of lens that is considered an improvement over any lens ever used in a telescope before. There will be all sorts of timing apparatus. The photographic telescopes will be run by clockwork in such a way as not only to overcome the motion of the sun, but to throw the image at all times on a given stationary point.

Most Startling Phenomenon.

Even to the lay mind the phenomenon of a total eclipse is one of the most startling and spectacular in nature. As the deep, purple shadow approaches it looks like a palpable, substantial presence, rushing over the earth like some awful visitation from on high. No wonder the phenomenon in all ages has aroused the superstitious terror of the people. In the middle ages it was regarded as a sign of the end of the world. In all times it has been looked upon as an emblem of divine wrath. Savages have often been brought to subjection by white men who accurately foretold the coming of an eclipse. Even Columbus did not scruple to awe the natives into submission by such means, only he had to be contented with the milder spectacle of an eclipse of the moon.

Spectacle of a Lifetime.

The semidarkness on the earth has quite as much effect on birds and animals as on men. Chickens go to roost while the rest of the brute creation, at first confused by the false night, finally seek their rest, only to be routed out a few minutes later by the gradually returning light. In the heavens the spectacle is one to be remembered a lifetime. Stars rush out suddenly, only to be swallowed up again as the moon's shadow passes. But the sun is never entirely blotted out. As though despising the comparatively little body that obscures him, he projects about it a circle of fire that now shoots out its streamers into space and now glows like a necklace of rubies. This corona often seems like an aurora borealis in midheaven. It has been a mystery to scientists, and it is to solve this mystery that such expensive and laborious preparations have been made for the present solar event.

The partial eclipse may be seen for a distance of about 2,000 miles on either side of the belt traversed by the complete shadow. It is the partial eclipse that will be visible in the United States. In the extreme west it will probably not be seen at all, or at least only for a very short while at sunrise. In the central portions of the country it may be observed for a longer time, still at sunrise. In the east it will be visible shortly after sunrise. At New York, for example, the sun rises at 5:24 on Aug. 30, and the partial eclipse is scheduled to appear at 5:52 and will remain till 7:30. It will be necessary to be up with the early birds and early worms to enjoy the spectacle.

One of the most interesting phenomena of the partial eclipse is the disk shaped patches of sunlight that shine through the leaves of trees. It is a law of light that when passing through an interstice its shape is similar to that of the body from which it proceeds. Moonlight is scarcely strong enough to reveal this effect, but when the sun is shadowed into a crescent the result is startlingly apparent.

Chinese as Eclipse Predicters.

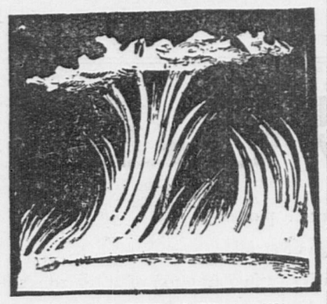
It has not always been possible to predict eclipses so accurately as at present. There has been some sort of attempt in that line from time immemorial, but in the old days the solar prophets, like some others, came to grief. Nowadays we do not kill the weather forecaster who goes astray in his predictions, however much we should like to do so, but in other times the mistaken foreteller of things to come did not get off so easily. There is a story of two Chinese astronomers, named Hi and Ho, who failed to predict an eclipse, and, as a consequence, when the sun refused to give his light, the people, the emperor along with the rest, were scared into a blue funk. The royal nerves were so racked, in truth, that their possessor concluded that his state of nervousness should be shared by the two astronomers, whereat he notified them that he would have their heads chopped off as soon as the executioner got around to them.



SECTIONAL VIEW OF THE CORONA.

Warned by their sad fate, another Chinese astronomer thought he would be on the safe side and predicted two eclipses that never came off. He was promptly imprisoned by the then reigning emperor, but neatly got out of it by writing a book wherein he set forth that the eclipses would have come along on schedule time except that the virtues of the emperor so appealed to the divinities that rule such matters that the said divinities had the affair postponed, wherein we see that the Chinaman is a natural diplomat.

Thrashing by Electricity.

A novel thrashing scene recently occurred on the farm of August Broerman in the west part of Cuyahoga county, O., when George Heinfeld with his force of men continued thrashing grain for Mr. Broerman until 10 o'clock at night and all by the light of a number of electric lamps, the current for which was produced by a dynamo driven by the engine while the other machinery was being operated, says a special dispatch from Wapakoneta to the Cleveland Plain Dealer. An employee of the electric light plant at New Bremen installed the dynamo.

A Russian General's Salary.

The salary of General Kuropatkin, one of the commanders of Russia's military forces, is said to be $100,000 a year.

Rosen's Reason.

[Baron Rosen of the Russian peace commission is provoked at being followed about by an army of camera fiends.—Current News.]

I'm weary as can be-sky of the crowd of camerists
That never, never, day or night, from vigilance desists.
I've had myself snapshottedoff and kodakizedovitch
Until I fear I'll overcrowd my small historic niche.
I can't step out to take a stroll to stretch my tired legs
But hosts of shutters swift are clicked by squeezing rubber eggs;
I can't lift up my hat to greet a comrade or a friend
But some confounded camerist has caught my graceful bend.

At night as I put out the light to tumble into bed
A flashlight in my room explodes—I'm frightened almost dead.
Then in some sheet next day I'll read, with anger's deepest thrill,
"Above is Baron Rosen as we caught him dishabille."
I cannot frown or yawn or stretch, I cannot speak or smile,
But—click! A cut with caption you can read at half a mile.
And even now—to me 'tis sad; 'twill make the public laugh—
Some rag will shriek of this my mood set forth en photograph!

I'm weary as can be-sky of the mob of camerists—
The vampire throng that never from its vigilance desists;
I'm tired of "Rosen's eyebrows," of "Herr Rosen's whiskered chin,"
Of "Rosen, as this picture shows, has hair that's rather thin,"
Of "Rosen's hand is hairy, as this photograph denotes,"
Of "These are lips of Rosen, who for peace or warfare votes."
I can't step out to take a stroll and stretch my languid legs
But hosts of shutters quick are clicked by squeezing rubber eggs!

BASE HITS.

Miller Huggins is daily proving his worth as a member of Kelley's Cincinnati outfit.

Why are not more nice things said about Dan Shay, the St. Louis Cardinal shortstop? He handles himself as easily as any man in the business playing that position.

Reulbach, Chicago Nationals, is a great pitcher. He has a well balanced head, plenty of action, an abundance of confidence, a great variety of curves and quick delivery.

Cincinnati newspapers stick to their statement that Ned Hanlon is to succeed Clarke as manager of the Pittsburg Pirates. President Dreyfuss says it isn't true, and there you are.

Manager Clarke of Pittsburg declares that he is perfectly satisfied with Howard as a first baseman and that the new man will be kept at first base for the rest of the season.

The Boston National fans are bemoaning the loss of Phil Geier and Dick Cooley. Both are playing fast ball with their respective teams, and the Bean Eaters could use them handily.

The St. Louis Cardinals have landed a good backstop in Jack Sullivan of the St. Paul team, lately a Detroit salary drawer. Not only is Sullivan an accurate man in his throwing to the bags, but he is a fair hitter and above all has a good head.

OUR IMMIGRANTS.

Under the present lax laws too many undesirable immigrants are allowed to get past the regular gates without an increase of the number through the Canadian back door.—Buffalo Commercial.

The number of immigrants who arrived at the port of New York in the last month was 48,000. The number rejected was 1,000. How many of the other 47,000 remained in New York to add to the already awful spectacle of misery in that city?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

There is no doubt that a large Italian immigration into the southern states would do much to build up that section industrially. But the same is true also of New England and the whole northeast, where small farmers have an increasing market in the rapid growth of our large cities and towns.—Springfield Republican.

CURIOUS CULLINGS.

A death notice in an English newspaper terminated thus: "At rest with the Lord. Friends accept this intimation."

During a recent hailstorm at Pottsville, Pa., a man threw a large hailstone upon the walk to see the pieces of ice fly. When the missile broke a live toad jumped out and hopped away.

Edward Kennedy of Stamford, Conn., a negro, is slowly turning white. The change began six years ago, beginning near the finger tips. Medical men agree that the change is due to a loss of a pigment in the blood.

While a British infantry regiment was engaged in "bathing parade" at West Worthing, on the English channel, the other day, the tide came in, took the tunics and other things they had left on the sands and carried them off to sea.

CURRENT COMMENT.

War has been declared against the dealers in medicated meats. Pure meat or none.—Pittsburg Gazette.

Our big new battleship Missouri already needs $18,000 for repairs. Paying $8,000,000 to $7,000,000 for a battleship is not by any means all that one costs.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

It may be that the touring automobilists have done the cause real service through their indiscretions. Public opinion on automobile racing upon the public highways is now fully understood.—Manchester Union.

The Cubans have a simple method of solving a difficulty. When they disapprove of an investigation they burn the records. And science fully sustains their theory that fire is far more reliable in its cleansing properties than whitewash.—Washington Star.

THE ROYAL BOX.

King Edward has just bought a particularly fine specimen of the French bulldog, for which he paid $1,200.

The Empress Haruko is fifty-six years old and is two years senior of her husband. She is one of the most beautiful women in Japan.

The mikado is six feet tall. He is one of the tallest men at his court. He is stout, broad shouldered and weighs 200 pounds. His countenance has an expression of an athlete which is not represented in his photographs that are made public.

The other day the crown prince and princess of Germany while riding in a motor car came suddenly upon an equestrian whose horse reared and became unmanageable. The prince leaped out, seized the horse and quieted it, while the princess with rare presence of mind snapshotted the incident with her camera.

RUSSELL SAGE.

Russell Sage is eighty-nine years old, but he has not lived more than about ten days in all that time.—Chicago Journal.

An eastern writer refers to Russell Sage as a philanthropist in disguise. All will admit the completeness of the disguise.—Los Angeles Express.

Russell Sage, the millionaire, who has entered his ninetieth year, is almost free from criticism. He is above suspicion—he hasn't given away a dollar.—Columbus (O.) State Journal.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Lewis N. Curtis and Ward L. Hayward have improved Mrs. Lois K. Wales' fine residence on Coddington street, by painting.

W. R. Lofgren is to alter the large stable of John R. Graham on Washington street, into a two-family house with all modern conveniences.

Rev. A. B. Tyler returns today from a vacation pleasantly spent at Amherst, and will occupy his pulpit, Sunday.

Tax Collector Cunningham sold 59 estates at auction yesterday afternoon for unpaid taxes of 1904. The estates were largely assessed to non-residents.

A red hot game of football association rules is being played at South Quincy this afternoon between the Quincys and an eleven from the steamship Ivernia.

William Lynch, Timothy Decoste, Byron Brown, Raymond Brown, and Henry McDonnell have returned from Houghs Neck, where they have been camping for two weeks.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening. The meeting was called largely for the purpose of drawing jurors, although any business may be transacted.

Work will be commenced Monday filling those boxes in the new Post Office block with concrete. It will take two or three weeks for the concrete to harden.

The Magazines.

The newspaper man looms big and strong in our vigorous modern life, taking often a man's part on many fields to which duty has sent him. Not too frequently, he is pictured effectively and justly in fiction by a pen that has had its training in actual newspaper work—the modern school of the novelist. We have a fine example of just this sort of intelligently vivid character drawing in a new story of action, "The Fortress," by a young newspaper man, Will Levington Comfort. This strong, human novel appears complete in the September issue of Lippincott's Magazine.

"Wonderland 1905."

The annual publication of the Northern Pacific Railway, contains nine chapters of interesting matter bearing on the Northwest.

The tourist, the new settler and farmer, the man or woman of historical tastes, can all find matter of interest in its pages.

School teachers and scholars in the public schools will find the book extremely useful for auxiliary reading and study.

It is also a good all around book on the Northwest for general reading.

The latest number of this justly famous publication is the best issue to date. The cover cannot be surpassed for beautiful simplicity. The illustrations are very attractive, the folded inserts of panoramic views (a new feature) being particularly fine.

It treats of the new $4,500,000 capitol of Minnesota at St. Paul, of Isle Royale a coming summer resort of the Northwest, of the Pyramid Park, (commonly known as the Badlands) of North Dakota. Of Montana's representation at the Union National Convention held at Baltimore in 1864, of the romantic legend of "The Sepulchre of Lame Deer" of Yellowstone Park, of Kachess, a beautiful Washington lake, "The Lewis and Clark Exposition," the journey from California eastward via Portland and the Northern Pacific Railway. The article on Yellowstone Park is an especially valuable one containing an immense amount of specific information of an historical and descriptive character and being illustrated vividly and elegantly.

Send six cents in stamps for the book to A. M. Cleland, General Passenger Agent, Northern Pacific Railway, St. Paul, Minn.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to those friends and neighbors who so kindly sympathized in word and deed with us in our recent hour of affliction.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Curiosity having been rife regarding the forthcoming season at the Castle Square theatre, the patrons of that house in particular and playgoers in general will be glad to learn that its doors will reopen on Labor Day with a special holiday matinee performance. During the first week of the season, "Old Heidelberg," the play of German student life in which Richard Mansfield starred successfully several seasons ago, will be presented by the Castle Square stock company, which will be one of the largest and best in the country, its members having been especially chosen for their ability to act both in modern plays and in the classic drama. The leading man will be John Craig, well known through his previous association with the Castle Square in the same capacity, and the leading woman will be Lillian Kemble, who returns to the position she so capably filled last season.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

The Colonial Septet, an organization of three women and four men, in the hansomest and best staged musical act offered this season, are to be the headline attraction of the Keith Vaudeville program for the week of Aug. 28. The Septet present a musical play in three scenes representing an old Hallowe'en and the act is further enhanced by gorgeous costumes. The surrounding show is of the usual Keith standard including Berzac's circus, the latest European importation for the Keith circuit, the principal feature of which is a revolving table, which is ridden by a horse and which is impossible for a man to ride; Thompson and Vidocq, two of the cleverest conversational comedians in the varieties; Spissell Brothers and Mack, clever comedy acrobats, Jane Courthope and company, in the one-act farcial sketch, "A Fisherman's Luck;" Mark Sullivan, monologue comedian and vocalist; Stanley and Brockman, in vocal specialties and imitation; Mirzl Von Wenzl, a pleasing Tyrolean warbler, and Barr and Evans, in a funny comedy sketch. The kinetograph will show an entire new list of comedy and interesting motion pictures. Commencing Aug. 28th doors will open at 1 P. M.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Another of Boston's playhouses, the Boston Theatre, will throw open its doors for the dramatic season of 1905-6 on Saturday, September 2. It will be the fifth season for Mr. Lawrence McCarty as lessee and manager and, as usual, he is prepared to guarantee a list of entertainments which shall conform strictly to his approved policy of "highest class attractions at fair prices." Among the season's attractions will be several of the latest London, Paris and New York successes, including that famous musical comedy, "Fantana," which, for a year and a half or more, has been doing a record breaking business at the Lyric Theatre in New York. He will open the big playhouse with Shubert's latest star offering, DeKoven and Ranken's new comic opera, "Happyland." The plot of this piece deals with certain phases of life in the mythical kingdom of Elysia. It is in two acts, the scenes of which are laid in the courtyard of the imperial palace of Elysia and the Elysian fields. De Wolf Hopper, who has the star part, will be seen in the comic role of Ecstaticus, King of Elysia.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

At the Empire Theatre next week, the last of the summer season, the attraction will be H. A. de Souchet's farce comedy "The Man from Mexico" with Walter Perkins in his great character of Benjamin Fitzhew, the man blessed with a lively imagination. This play has not been seen in this city since Mr. Perkins appeared in it with the Castle Square Theatre company a few seasons ago, and its revival will give much satisfaction to all who recall the immensely funny ways of Mr. Perkins in its leading character. Manager Lindsay Morison, who has been given charge of the Empire Theatre for the season beginning Sept. 4, announces the principal engagements already made are as follows: E. L. Snader, stage manager; Mary Hall for leading lady; Olive White, second leads; Mary Sanders, comedy; Gertrude Berkeley, character; Jennie Kendrick; Howell Hansel, leading man; Frank Losee, second leading man; James Seeley, first old man; Edwin Nicander, light comedian; Francis Byrne, juvenile leads; William Evarts, character and comedian; William Hanson, character; John Meehan, second juvenile; and William C. Mason, prompter.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

The return of Mr. Wright Lorimer and his sumptuous production of "The Shepherd King" to Boston for a single week's engagement at the Colonial Theatre on Monday, September 4th, will be welcomed by the hundreds of people who saw this beautiful play when it was presented in Boston on previous occasions, and by still other hundreds who were not so fortunate. Mr. Lorimer, his play, and his truly magnificent production created a most favorable impression. The actor's strong, virile and yet tender portrayal of David, the shepherd-poet-king of Israel, is one long to be remembered and showed at once why he had leaped into the very front rank of American stars. As for the production it can be safely said that with the single possible exception of "Ben Hur" nothing like it has ever been seen on the American stage. Such scenes as are produced by scene painter and electrician may surprise the most jaded theatregoer as nothing before seen can at all compare with the beautiful sunset at the home of Jesse on the Hills of Judea near Bethlehem; the early morning scene at the Camp of Saul in the Vale of Elah; the barbaric splendor of Saul's palace at Gibeah; or the weird and awesome scene in the cave of the Witch of Endor. There will be matinees on Monday, Labor Day, Wednesday and Saturday.

—"Business men should be careful," writes a correspondent of a London newspaper, "to read their typewritten correspondence before committing it to the post. I have received a typewritten letter from a gentleman of German extraction who informs me that he is a 'wholesale tobacconist and cigar impostor.'"

A RECORD BREAKER

Doctor Said to Have Taken Seven Wives In a Week

A TOTAL OF SIXTY-ONE

Many More Expected to Claim Matrimonial Phenomenon as Husband--Disappeared While Under Indictment For Bigamy

Boston, Aug. 28.—Dr. George A. Witzhoff, the Swiss dentist, who is alleged to have married and robbed at least no less than 61 confiding women in various parts of the United States, holds the record not only for number of marriages, but for time; for it is averred that he went through seven wedding ceremonies in as many days.

Miss Etta Randall of Cambridge, a young woman of beauty and refinement, who says that he married her two years ago, under the name of Dr. Edmund R. Muller, brings the action on which Witzhoff will be held if the police succeed in finding him.

After the marriage Miss Randall discovered that he had married Anna O. Parkhill of Sayville, L. I., under the name of Dr. Witzhoff. It was also found that under the name of Weston he had married Dora Dorf of New York. On June 9, 1904, an indictment was found against the much-married man in New York on a charge of bigamy. Meanwhile he disappeared, and only recently came into the limelight, when dozens of his wives commenced sending their names to lawyers.

Sixty-one women have been heard from, each of whom avers that she was captivated by the doctor's engaging manner and that she was robbed and deserted, and it is believed that the matrimonial phenomenon will be claimed as husband and robber by many others.

Miss Randall says that it is easy to explain the doctor's success in winning women's hearts, for he was an accomplished gentleman and concealed his crime under a highly-polished exterior. Loving words and affection were his stock in trade, and none could suspect him of wrong, even in thought.

Miss Randall, who feels keenly the publicity in which she finds herself, says that she soon will go to New York, where the perfidious dentist is to be arraigned—when he is caught.

If the plans of the detectives do not miscarry, Witzhoff will be under arrest soon.

Printers' Strike Scheduled

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Before the middle of this week every union printer in the 37 shops controlled by the Chicago Typothetae will be on strike, and before another week has passed the fight may be extended to 12 of the principal cities of the middle west, the employers of which are organized with the Chicago Typothetae into a middle west association. That the printers will put up a long and bitter fight against the Typothetae is certain.

Drowned In His Own Lake

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 28.—Rudolph Franz, owner of Mountain lake, was drowned in the lake by becoming entangled in the stems of water lilies while trying to save two women who had overturned the boat in which he was rowing them. The women reached out to gather lilies and the boat turned completely over.

Fatality on Crossing

Mattapoisett, Mass., Aug. 28.—Charles F. Hammond, 23 years old, an expressman, was instantly killed, and Addison Curtis, 40 years old, a plumber, was seriously injured as the result of a collision between an express wagon and a train on a crossing. The wagon was demolished and the horse was killed.

Miners' Struggle Coming

Tamaqua, Pa., Aug. 28.—President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America, in a speech here, made an unequivocal declaration that his organization will, at the expiration of the present wage agreement in April next, demand recognition of the union and an eight-hour day.

Prince's Visit Will Be Brief

St. Johns, Aug. 28.—At a public meeting it was unanimously resolved to abandon the proposed ball and other civic festivities in honor of Prince Louis of Battenburg, owing to his intimation that he intends to spend only one night in St. Johns. Disappointment is general.

Would Eliminate Negro Soldiers

Selma, Ala., Aug. 28.—A petition has been circulated here among officers and former officers of the state troops asking that the negro members of the Alabama National Guard be mustered out. The movement will be pushed.

Internal Strife Continues

St. Petersburg, Aug. 28.—There is a great increase in the agrarian agitation in various parts of the country, notably on the Caucasus, where there have been serious disturbances.

Thirteen Yellow Fever Deaths

New Orleans, Aug. 28.—Following is the official fever record to 6 p. m. Sunday: New cases, 31; deaths, 13; new disease centres, 12; cases remaining under treatment, 109.

Under Government Ownership

Shanghai, Aug. 28.—An imperial edict declares that telephones and wireless telegraphs throughout China are government monopolies.

SLAVES TO HOUSEWORK.

Short Cut to Woman's Emancipation From Household Drudgery.

Housekeepers have reason to complain that although man's work is from sun to sun, woman's work is never done. At least such is the case with those housekeepers who do not read the Household Department of the Boston Daily Globe. One of the popular features of that department is practical instruction in the art of saving yourself while doing housework. Every woman owes it to herself to take advantage of the Globe's Household Department, where they can have the best possible advice on housework, written by New England housekeepers who have had years of experience.

Order the Boston Globe delivered regularly at your home.

OPEN A FURNITURE ACCOUNT.

If you have never tried it, you will be delighted with our co-operative plan. We sell you anything you need for your house—Furniture, Carpets, Glenwood Range, Piano or an entire outfit, deliver it at once and in return you pay a little down and a little each week. You'll never miss the trifling outlay and you can make your home t tractive and comfortable with apparently no effort on your part. Our low suburban rents enable us to sell you at prices much lower than those of Boston stores. We have much that is of interest to you at this wonderfully low priced store.

OPEN FOR BUSINESS.

New $350,000 Registry Building at Dedham now in use.

The new $350,000 Norfolk registry building, located on High street, opposite the Court House, Dedham, was informally opened on Saturday. No exercises were held to mark the event. The ground for the building was broken on July 16, 1903, and the cornerstone laid Oct. 19 of the same year. It is a two-story fireproof structure of a composition of marble and cement. One story projects in the rear. Exclusive of the hallways, the building has a floor space of 17,023 square feet. On Saturday the registry of deeds was opened for public business and this morning the registry of probate was open. There is a Probate Court room in the building.

Those who have inspected the building and furnihings pronounce both unequaled anywhere in the country. In the way of public buildings in the shiretown, the county of Norfolk has indeed been most generous and up-to-date, and what is more, the officials who occupy them have public confidence.

Charles E. Hatch, operator, and Charles F. Dodge, clerk, returned Saturday evening from a two weeks' vacation trip spent at Georges Mills, Lake Sunapee, N. H.

AT PROVINCETOWN

Marvel Wins Again in 18-foot Class.

Saturday's races at Provincetown was a splendid final to the three days' series, although the capsizing of the flag boat off Long Point made it difficult for the racers to find the mark and came near spoiling the race.

In Class D were all the old rivals including several of the Quincy Y acht club fleet. Capt. Whittemore's Marvel won the race defeating the Argestes by four minutes. The summary:

| Name and owner. | h. m. s |

TERRIFIC STORM

Sunday Morning at Stoneham, did Immense Damage.

Stoneham was demoralized as a result of the terrific electrical storm which struck the town.

For more than an hour the storm raged furiously, accompanied by deafening crashes of thunder and frequent brilliant flashes of lightning. One bolt of lightning struck the residence of Tree Warden Walter H. George, on Main street, shattering every pane of glass in the house, and doing other damage; another tore up the highway at the corner of Main and Marble streets, breaking one of the town's main water supply pipes and effectually tying up the electric car lines on Main street.

Flashes of lightning striking the wires played havoc with telephones and telegraphs throughout the town and practically every instrument was put out of commission.

CAPT. HARDING

Robbed of $600 in Boston on Saturday Morning.

While Standing in Front of Store on North Street.

W. F. Harding of Wollaston, captain of the five-masted schooner Grace A. Martin, just in from Norfolk, Va., with 5000 tons of coal, was the victim of a pickpocket in front of 12 North street on Saturday, the thief making off with $600 in $20 bills.

Capt. Harding, who lives at 21 Winthrop avenue, Wollaston, got to port Friday, and on Saturday went to Boston to collect his freight money and was given a check on the Second National bank for $600. He went directly to the bank and presented his check for payment. The cashier gave him the money in $20 bills, making a nice, fat roll, which Capt. Harding, who wore an outing suit with no vest, carefully tucked into his hip pocket, where he thought it would be safest.

Capt. Harding had some business to attend to in the market district, and he walked down there, feeling occasionally of his pocket to see if the money was still there. The last time he remembers of finding it safe was just as he was crossing Dock square. He turned into North street, and when he came to No. 12 something in a window attracted his attention and he stopped to look in for a moment.

As he stood looking into the window the captain was jostled by a man, and when he turned around to look at him the stranger murmured some sort of an apology for bumping against him and walked away, quickly being lost in the throng of marketers about there at the time. The captain thought the bump he had received was accidentally done and said nothing to the man, but he noticed that he seemed to be about 45 years old, about 5 feet 10 inches in height, slim built, rather dark complexioned, with a stubby brown mustache, and that he wore a brown mixed suit, a turn-down collar and a black derby hat.

In making these observations the skipper hadn't thought about his money but a teamster passing by on a dray saw the money stolen, and yelled to Mr. Harding: "Look out, you're being robbed!"

"Look out, you're being robbed!"

Mr. Harding replied: "Oh, I'm all right."

In a moment, however, he discovered his loss, but the thief had disappeared in the crowd with the money.

The captain was speechless when he discovered that his $600 had disappeared. He ran in the direction taken by the man who had jostled him, and looked in all directions in Dock square, but he couldn't get a glimpse of him, so he hurried to station 1 and told the police. A general alarm was sent out for the robber.

DIDN'T GET AWAY.

Officer Fires Two Shots at Escaping Prisoner.

There was quite a little excitement in City Square just before the arrival of the late train Saturday night, when Officer Maloney fired two shots after a prisoner who was attempting to make his escape.

The prisoner was Michael Mahoney, who had been arrested for assaulting Nellie Gallivan.

According to the story of the girl the affair took place at a Houghs Neck dance hall. She says that Mahoney did not want her to dance with a certain party and taking her by the arm put her out of the hall, and said if she danced with the party he would shoot him. The only claim that Mahoney had over her affairs was that he at one time wanted her to marry him.

Mahoney was arrested by Officer Maloney who took him aboard an electric car and brought him to Quincy. As the car was rounding the corner from Coddington to Washington street Mahoney jumped off and ran.

Officer Maloney gave chase and drawing his revolver fired two shots into the air. This caused Mahoney to stop when he was taken to the patrol box and sent to the police station.

DREW A KNIFE.

A Drunk Attempts to Stab Officer Holloran.

A Finn, who gave the name of Alexander E. Autfeld, arrested at South Quincy late Saturday night for drunkenness, attempted to use his knife on Officer Holloran as he was taking him from the patrol wagon at the police station. Fortunately, however, the officer was too quick for him and knocked the knife from his hand. Autfeld was then locked up. He was arraigned in court this morning for assaulting an officer with a dangerous weapon.

Boston Common.

The scene on the Common yesterday afternoon was as gay as in a midsummer Sunday, although the chill in the air made one think ahead to the frosty weather of the fall. That, however, was not altogether a drawback to the display of diaphanous toilets by the women, for quite a number of cool, breezy white gowns were conspicuous among the cloth costumes worn by the majority of fair promenaders.

The crowd was a big one, which divided its attentions about equally between the musical attractions furnished by the band, and the interest created by the speakers on the mall. There were a number who preferred to lounge on the seats and watch that water spout on the frog pond, or else to take a more active interest in the pigeons that flocked about for regular feeding from such persons as wanted to make friends with them.

The parkstead around the bandstand furnished sitting accommodations for a comfortable crowd, who seemed to have no fear of the dampness which the ground might contain after the rain of the morning. Men lounged about on the grass in the "90-above-zero" attitude, while the women made cushions of their skirts and maintained a more erect position.

The Public Garden drew an immense gathering and never, we think, have the grounds, plants and flowers been more beautiful.

Panic in Trolley Car.

The Boston Journal says, while crossing the Atlantic Railroad bridge yesterday afternoon a car of the Old Colony Street Railway Company bound from Neponset to Milton jumped the track and crashed into an iron girder of the bridge, causing a panic among the twenty-five passengers, many of whom were women, and cutting several of them with flying glass.

The front vestibule of the car was shattered and every window on one side broken. The force of the impact snapped the heavy girder like a pipe stem. There was a rush for the rear door on the part of the passengers, but the conductor succeeded in quieting them. Several of those who were cut were taken to a nearby drug store and treated.

Only the fact that the car was not going at a high rate of speed prevented a serious accident.

Dropped Dead.

Wilbur Giggey, age 34 years, whose home was at 42 Charlesbank road, Newton, dropped dead Saturday afternoon at the Fore River Ship building works, while at work in the engineering department.

Medical Examiner Jones who was called said death was due to apoplexy. Giggey's body was taken to Hall's undertaking rooms. He leaves a widow.

Drift of Opinion.

☞We, who have an unlimited supply and have never lived in the country can have no idea how economical country people are with the water supply, they look upon needless waste of water positively wicked. We are apt to waste water without thinking much about it. For this reason it is a nice idea to teach young folks about the source of our water, the mechanism necessary to bring it to us, the cost, the danger through sickness from poor water and from fire should the supply give out, a visit to the reservoir and pumping station is also interesting and instuctive.—Beverly Times.

☞Somebody who has looked deeper than the ordinary observer gives this history of base ball: The devil was the first coacher. He coached Eve, and when she stole first, Adam stole second. When the servant of Isaac met Rebecca at the well she was walking with a pitcher. Samson struck out a good many times when he beat the Phillistines. Moses made the first home run when he slew the Egyptians and Cain made a base hit when he slew Abel. Abraham made a sacrifice. David was a long distance thrower, and Moses shut out the Egyptians at the Red Sea.—Gloucester Times.

☞Yes, "thanking" is a fine art and one too little studied. Master this and you will possess an accomplishment which will be as pleasing as it is rare. Hundreds of times a day, at school and at home, your lips frame the words "Thank you, I am ever so much obliged," or something similar. Now, when anything becomes common, it often ceases to have much meaning to us, and this is especially true of thanks.

We allow the home people to take our appreciation of their favors and little acts of thoughtfulness for granted with the customary "Thank you," while if we put heartiness and a bit of our real selves into our words and looks of appreciation, we would increase the desire of others to please us. In a little town, people often wondered why a certain girl had so many more gifts sent her than others had, and why she was wanted so constantly here and there. She was no prettier, brighter, no more deserving than many others, but the secret lay in her delightful way of showing her pleasure and appreciation of the kindness of others.—Gloucester Times.

—You said that young man was a promising politician." "Yes," answered Sen. Sorghum, "I must say he promises things with all the ease and ability of an old hand."—Washington Star.

—The cream of the base-ball club should be found in the pitcher.

THEATRE OF WAR

Great Armies Await Outcome of Portsmouth Conference

FRONT MUCH EXTENDED

Character of Third Stage of War Will Be Complicated--Administration of South Manchuria In Complete Control of Japs

Gunshu Pass, Manchuria, Aug. 28.—General information relating to Portsmouth affairs continues to reach here from three to ten days late. Since the Japanese reconnoitered the Russian center about 25 or 30 miles on Aug. 10, which resulted in retaliatory skirmishing as well as the checkmating of a wide movement of considerable bodies of troops throughout three days, nothing important has occurred.

During the long quiet there have been reinforcements to both sides, giving the theatre of war a much changed appearance. The front has been greatly extended, made possible by the use of the wireless telegraph and because of the unprecedented size of the armies. The character of the third stage of the war, whether it be active hostilities, demobilization or the garrisoning of contested territory, will be complicated.

The relative positions of the two armies is comparable to that of a year ago, and the country immediately facing the Japanese is almost identical to that which confronted them at Liaoyang. The acquisition of the railway and rivers by the Japanese at Mukden, together with their Fengwangcheng and General Kawamura's new line of communication and defense, running from the head of navigation on the Yalu river across to Kaiyuan, with the occupation of the Changpaishan mountain region, makes control of the administration of southern Manchuria as complete as that achieved in the north by similar organization, and in the rapid consolidation of these connections the destiny of Manchuria is clearly fixed, regardless of other influences.

A press correspondent recently traversed 200 miles over the old imperial hunting reserve on the east flank, which was opened to settlement several years ago. Heavy crops of oil beans, millet, maize, indigo and hemp are under cultivation there now. This comprises a region extensively scouted by the Japanese, who appear bold and active pending the negotiations.

The people complain of horse thieves and robbers.

After an enormous rainfall during the past 10 days it is believed that the rainy season is closed.

Russian Stations Destroyed

Tokio, Aug. 28.—Rear Admiral Katoka reports that the naval division sent up the Amur river bombarded and destroyed two Russian guard stations at Zharef and Lazervo. These stations had recently been reinforced.

Cursed Husband and His Family

Kalamazoo, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Bernice McCarthy, aged 29, wife of a farmer living near here, was found dead near the McCarthy farmhouse. On a table in the house was a note, supposed to be in Mrs. McCarthy's handwriting, saying that she could not live at home and had determined to end all her troubles. "As for my husband," the note continues, "I hope that my curse will follow him and his family to all eternity." The woman had trouble with her husband and left him a week ago.

Actors In a Bad Crash

Berlin, Aug. 28.—The collapse of the timber work of a terrace 16 feet above the stage during a rehearsal at the Metropole theatre, while 30 performers were on the terrace and the stage was crowded, caused the injury of 20 persons. Panic-stricken actors and actresses rushed into the streets in stage attire. It is feared that four of the injured will die.

A Score Killed by Dynamite

Mazatlan, Mex., Aug. 28.—Twenty Mexican laborers were killed and a number injured by the premature explosion of a quantity of dynamite at the Port works at Manzanillo. The bodies of those killed were horribly mangled and were buried in a common grave. The explosion was the result of carelessness on the part of some of the laborers.

Poison Killed Three Children

Moncton, N. B., Aug. 28.—The last of the three children of Warren Reid of Coverdale, who had been ill, is dead. All three were poisoned in some manner, but the source of the poison has not been traced. The physicians say that the deaths of the three were due to arsenic. The authorities are investigating.

Broke Out of Penitentiary

Albany, Aug. 28.—Cosimo Biele, accused of murder, and Thomas Hart, charged with burglary, dug their way through the ceiling of their cell in the Albany penitentiary and escaped over the roof. Their escape was not discovered for some time. A general alarm of the escape has been sent out.

Lynching In North Carolina

Newbern, N. C., Aug. 28.—John Moore, a negro, 20, was taken from Craven county jail in this city and lynched by a mob of 100 masked men armed with rifles and revolvers. Moore was charged with beating a woman whose house he had attempted to rob.

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

HEROIC HOTEL CLERK

Fourth Victim of Fire In a Maine Summer Hotel

Readfield, Me., Aug. 28.—Robert Boutwell, the hero of the fire at Lake Maranacook Saturday, in which three Boston people lost their lives, died Sunday as a result of burns and other injuries received in notifying the guests of Hotel Maranacook that the building was on fire. Harvey L. Boutwell of Malden, Mass., the father of the young man, was present when the latter died. The body was removed to Augusta and will be taken to Malden by the young man's father.

Boutwell was the clerk at Hotel Maranacook and after the fire had been discovered by the crew of a passing railroad train he proceeded to awaken the 60 or more guests in the hotel. In doing this he was severely burned about the head and hands and inhaled both smoke and fire. Boutwell was 17 years old.

The other fatalities as a result of the fire were: Edward A. Martin, 35 years old; Mrs. Edward A. Martin, 32; son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin, aged 7. The bodies of the Martin family were discovered eight hours after the fire, when the ruins had cooled sufficiently to permit a search.

Christening and a Holdup

Wakefield, Mass., Aug. 28.—A number of Italians, who had been attending a christening in the North Saugus woods, held up an electric car last night near the place of their festivities. Conductor Petersen attempted to put them off, which enraged them. They turned upon Petersen, who was chased into the woods, where he stayed for an hour or more. Some of the Italians returned to the car and attempted to take possession of it. The passengers were terrorized. A detachment of officers was sent to the scene and four of the Italians were arrested, the others making their escape. Traffic on the road was delayed nearly two hours.

Surbridge a Slippery Customer

Boston, Aug. 28.—Randolph C. Surbridge, who mysteriously disappeared in January, 1902, leaving stockholders in companies he had promoted about $200,000 short, is said to have, up to recently, been practicing law in San Francisco under the name of Charles Randolph. Efforts have been made many times by the police to locate Surbridge, and each time they have got hold of a clue and were about to have detectives drop upon him he apparently has been "tipped off," and has disappeared anew. They have no idea where his new abode may be.

Battleship Struck Lightship

Newport, R. I., Aug. 28.—The keeper of the Brenton's Reef lightship reports that during the heavy fog on Thursday, the battleship Iowa collided with his vessel, carrying away part of the stem of the lightship, all her head gear and part of the forward rail. The stem was cut down to within three feet of the water line. The keeper claimed that the fog whistle on the lightship was blowing at the regular intervals.

Killed by Canned Beans

Boston, Aug. 28.—Probably the victims of ptomaines, in the canned beans which they ate, Joseph Oliver, 38; his son, Joseph, 2, and his father-in-law, Antonio Gomes, 68, of Cambridge, died after a night of great suffering in a fisherman's camp on Peddock's island. Oliver was a fisherman and occupied a shanty on the island with his wife and son. His father-in-law was down for over Sunday.

Fell Dead Alter One Blow

Franklin, Mass., Aug. 28.—Death terminated a dispute here last night between Bernard McDonald, aged 40, a foreman of a gang of men employed by the Hodge boiler works of East Boston, and Michael Connors, aged 55, one of the workmen. Connors fell to the ground dead, after one blow had been struck, and the foreman is under arrest, tending the outcome of an autopsy.

No Arrest In Hackett Case

Readfield, Me., Aug. 28.—County authorities are investigating further the mystery surrounding the death of Miss Mattie Hackett of Kents Hill, who was murdered a week ago last Thursday night. The officers are reticent as to the result of their investigations, although Sheriff Ham states that he still believes a woman to have been the author of the crime.

Drowned Before Sons' Eyes

Swansea, Mass., Aug. 28.—In swimming out into the swift current of Lee's river in order to recover his hat, Carl Collins was seized with cramps and was drowned before the eyes of his two young sons and a third boy. Collins was 35 years old and was employed as a loomfixer in Fall River. A widow and three sons survive.

Engineer Admits Doing Wrong

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 28.—George Dawson, a brakeman, was injured in a wreck between two freight trains on the viaduct Saturday night and died Sunday. Engineer Stowe, after admitting his guilt in running past signals set against him, disappeared and no trace of him has been found.

Boy's Feet Burned Off

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 28.—The body of Michael Bove, 11 years old, was found under the arch of a railroad bridge here. Death was due to contact with a live electric light wire, both of the boy's feet having been burned off at the ankle.

Hose Wagon Driver Killed

Chelsea, Mass., Aug. 28.—William H. Butler, driver of hose wagon 3, died as the result of injuries received in fighting a fire at the lampblack works of Samuel Cabot. A pair of "green" horses, frightened at the fire, ran over Butler.

CARE OF THE HAIR.

With Special Reference to Children. Washing and Drying.

It is really surprising how little time and attention are given to the proper care of children's hair. Grownup folks have their hair shampooed and their scalps treated regularly, while nature seems to be left to care for the little ones in this respect, says the Ladies' World in preface to some hints on the care of the hair.

Infants' heads should be washed just the same as any other part of the body every morning. Sometimes there will appear what is called a slight "crust" on the top of the little head; in such cases rub the scalp at night, very gently, with some vaseline. In the morning this should be washed off with warm water and the best quality of toilet soap, using several waters—warm, of course—to rinse away the soap. Dry the head thoroughly with a soft towel, then rub on a little bay rum to prevent taking cold.

Never rub soap on the hair or scalp of children or grown people, as it makes the head sticky, and it is almost impossible to get it off. Instead, make a good soapsuds, rub the soap on a sponge or washcloth, then wash the head as you would your face, always using plenty of clean water to rinse the hair. It is important to remove every trace of soap before starting the drying process.

When the hair has grown to be any length, it should never be rubbed dry with a towel, as that breaks the hair of young or old. Wrap a towel around the head and squeeze out all the water you can, then massage the scalp with the finger tips. Let the person sit in a warm place, preferably in the sun or in front of a register; let the hair hang down the back until thoroughly dry, then brush it gently for a few minutes. Now take the comb and a small quantity of hair, beginning at the ends to remove the tangles, working toward the head.

Do not torture the poor children with curling irons; there is no use in trying to make straight hair anything but straight, and the least bit of dampness undoes all your work. You can, however, make straight hair silky, shiny and beautiful simply by giving it plenty of good care.

If the hair is falling, eat as little meat as possible and all the fresh eggs, vegetables and fruit you can. Diet has more to do with the hair than is generally supposed.

Never use a fine comb—it is injurious to head and hair—but brush the hair as much as possible; it makes it glossy. And there is a right way of brushing the hair too. The brush must be grasped firmly in the right hand and the hair held loosely in the left; then go from the forehead to the ends of the hair evenly, so as not to cause tangles.

The Scented Garden.

Many notes as to value of fragrance, its disinfecting properties and uses to the human race as well as to insects and even to animals, are given in "The Book of the Scented Garden." It is not generally known that atmospheric heat is absorbed far more quickly by odorous vapors than by unscented air, especially by cassia, which cools the air more than a hundred times as quickly, and even the scent of lemon or rosemary more than sixty-eight times as much as ordinary air containing no perfume. A practical detail of much value at the present season is this—that all insects detest the scent of lavender and fly from it, midges, moths and other troublesome flies being easily kept at a distance by the use of this refreshing scent.

When You Go to the Country.

When you go to the country select a place that is mountainous or hilly, or, at any rate, has a good elevation. A pine wood region is also healthful, even if it is only of moderate elevation. So also is the seashore.

When you go to the country get all the ozone you can into your lungs. Remember that the chief reason for going away from your comfortable home is to get a change of air.

When you are in the country go out into the open; spend all your time out of doors. Don't sit indoors dressed up in your finest clothes, knitting, crocheting and gossiping. You can do that at home. Get outside and stay there.

Useful Crochet Work.

For a bath slipper, illustrated in the New Idea Magazine, the following instructions are given:

Use knitting cotton No. 4 and either a coarse steel or medium size bone crochet needle. Begin with three chain, work a single crochet into each one, taking up the back of each stitch so as to form a rib. Turn, work across the row the same as before, only increase or widen by putting three stitches into the center stitch. Repeat (always widening in the center) until there are twenty rows.

CROCHETED BATH SLIPPERS.

To shape the sides, crochet up to within four stitches of the center, turn and go back. Decrease in this way every other row until there are only two stitches left.

The edge or scallop is made of three chain, three double crochet, three chain, three double crochet, etc., all across the top. Run a narrow ribbon through and turn the point over, as shown in the illustration.

Sew to a pair of lamb's wool soles.

CITY BREVITIES.

There were no races by the local Yacht clubs Saturday.

It was on the 29th of August in 1903 that the schooner Thomas W. Lawson was launched at Quincy.

The third annual reunion of Houghs Neck members of the M. C. O. F. will be held Wednesday evening at Fensmere hall.

Ex-chief of Police J. W. Hayden of Quincy Point and W. Cushing Baker of Germantown will go to Denver, Col., with the G. A. R. boys; leaving this city on Friday.

There was a constant stream of visitors to the Dorothy Q house Saturday, sixty in all passing through on inspection. The visitors came from Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois and many places in Massachusetts.

Mrs. Earl Sumner and daughter Grace, of Corfu, New York, who came on to the Fairbanks' reunion at Dedham, have been the guests of Mrs. H. O. Studley and Miss Ella Stetson of Washington street the past few days.

City Council Business.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held tonight. The meeting is called largely to draw jurors, but any regular business may come up.

The list of persons named by the Mayor for election officers will come up for confirmation.

The Committee on Streets will report on the petitions of the N. E. T. & T. Co. for attachments of its fixtures and wires to poles of other companies and on the petition of the Electric Light Co. for a location for poles on Washington street.

The same committee will report orders for public hearings on the petitions of the Telephone Company for attachments, and on the petition of the Electric Light Company for a location of poles.

Other matters upon which this committee will report are the order for $5,000 for macadamizing Sea street; $5,000 for paving Quincy street; $700 for resurfacing Walker street; for changing the name of Squantum street for renumbering; cross walks in City square; lights on Quarry street; concrete sidewalk on Rawson road; and on the petition of S. F. Newcomb to remove pole on his property.

POWERLESS TO MAKE NEW STEP

Peace Envoys Are but Messengers For Their Masters

SITUATION IS DESPERATE

Czar's Refusal to Pay Indemnity or Reimburse Japan For Cost of War Considered as Final--Russians Think Themselves In Position to Command World's Sympathy--Japanese Public Opinion Demands Tribute--President Considers Japan Is Entitled to Indemnity and the Island of Sakhalin

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 28.—The life of the peace conference seems to hang by a thread, but the thread will not be broken today. At 10 o'clock last night, after a conference between Messrs. Takahira and Witte in the latter's room, the announcement of the postponement was made. Mr. Witte explained that Takahira had told him that no new instructions had reached him from Tokio and fearing none might be received before the meeting today he had suggested the propriety of postponing the meeting until Tuesday. To this Witte said he had readily assented. Mr. Takahira made the following statement to the press:

"Inasmuch as this conference was initiated by the friendly offices of your president after consultation we felt that we should be cautious about terminating its labors."

Pressed as to whether he regarded the situation as hopeless, Takahira said: "No, not hopeless, but almost hopeless."

This in itself, from one who has spoken always in the most guarded fashion, is sufficient to show the desperateness of the situation. The real crisis in the negotiations is at hand. It is very acute, but if it can be tided over for a few days without a rupture a basis of peace acceptable to both sides may come very suddenly. But to save the situation now Japan must speak. If on Tuesday she has nothing to offer all is over. Mr. Witte, even if he would, is powerless to make a new step. His hands are tied. He now occupies the role of an imperial messenger who transmits his master's order to Baron Komura, and Komura turns them over to Tokio for the response. The conference room has ceased to be a place for negotiations. It is simply the place where the emperors of the warring countries exchange their communications by the hands of their envoys.

Upon the point of indemnity or "reimbursement of frais de guerre" under any disguise, Emperor Nicholas has given the mikado his last word. Mr. Witte accepts it as final and in writing has informed the Japanese plenipotentiaries that Russia would have nothing further to say upon the subject. Russia would cede half of Sakhalin and pay the cost of the maintenance of the Russian prisoners, but that was all. Emperor Nicholas had given the same response to the president through Ambassador Meyer.

The Russians generally seem not displeased with the situation. They believe Japan has been diplomatically maneuvered into a corner from which, if she now persists in her attempt to exact tribute with the alternative of a continuation of the war, she cannot extricate herself before the public opinion of the world. Japan, here and in Europe, they say, appealed for sympathy on the ground that Russia had compelled her to take up arms to protect her life. The fortune of war had gone in her favor and Russia, recognizing that she had been beaten and prefering peace to the continuation of the war, had agreed to cede upon every point involved in the quarrel. She was willing to allow Japan full swing in Korea, she was willing to get out of Manchuria bag and baggage and commit herself to the recognition of China's integrity and the policy of "the open door." But Japan insisted upon tribute and because Russia refused prolongs the carnage. In that act they contend Japan would change the purpose and character of the war, which would cease to be longer one of principle, but degenerate into a war for the exaction of money.

There is no doubt that the Japanese are worried over this aspect of the situation and they do not propose to be placed in this position if it can be helped. With the sentiment existing in Japan demanding reimbursement for the expenses of the war, a money payment beyond what would be obtained for the maintenance of Russian prisoners and the Chinese Eastern railroad could not be foregone. But if redemption by Russia could be placed upon purely a commercial basis Russia might agree to it. Logic points in this direction for the ultimate compromise, if there is to be one.

Whether the president has renewed his efforts cannot be ascertained here. His former suggestion for a compromise failed. He made his appeal simultaneously to both the czar and the mikado. He proposed the "indemnity-Sakhalin" combination, but not in the form in which it was presented by Komura at Wednesday's meeting. Instead of setting the price (1,200,000,000 yen, the estimated cost of the war), he suggested that if an agreement could not be reached the fixing of the price should be left to a board or commission. But Japan insisted upon inserting the sum and thus made it impossible, in view of the Russian declaration, to accept it. Emperor Nicholas refused to go further in addition to the concessions already made than to agree to the cession of half of Sakhalin.

According to a high Russian authority who has been in a position to see President Roosevelt's communication proposing a compromise it quite clearly showed that the president considered that Japan's victories gave her the right to ask for an indemnity in fact, if not in name, and was also entitled to Sakhalin and that her military occupation of Sakhalin gave her the right to the island.

The president's friends claim that when the full text of his proposition is before the world all criticism must cease. It is well, therefore, again to repeat the statement which comes from one in full possession of the entire action taken by President Roosevelt:

"If the civilized world could know at this time the precise nature of the propositions made to Russia and Japan by President Roosevelt, it would seem that the force of public opinion, of the great neutral opinion of the world, would induce the plenipotentiaries and their governments to pause and consider seriously the results before breaking up finally the present conference without an agreement. Indeed, they might scarcely dare, in the face of the world's opinion, to refuse to accept, in principle at least, the suggestions offered by the president."

Assistant Secretary Peirce, after the announcement of the decision to adjourn over to Tuesday, saw Witte and Takahira and then sent a long cipher message to the president. Although the public was led to believe that the meeting was definitely adjourned until Tuesday, it is learned that, according to the joint understanding between Witte and Takahira, it was agreed that there would be no meeting until Japan's response to what may be regarded as the Russian ultimatum arrived. The meeting therefore may not be held until Wednesday or Thursday. Tokio must now decide and, judging from the tone of the Japanese press, the government must face a great deal of opposition at home if it yields further.

Japanese Cabinet In Session

Tokio, Aug. 28.—A specially summoned council of the cabinet and elder statesmen is now in session discussing the latest final phases of the peace conference at Portsmouth.

Took Own Life In Church

Minneapolis, Aug. 28.—A few minutes after the close of Rev. W. B. Riley's address at the First Baptist church, while 200 persons were leaving the edifice, a man who is thought to be W. Rowen of Sublette, Ills., got up in a pew and fired a bullet through his heart, dying instantly. A draft for $700 was found on his person. At the report of the revolver many women became greatly frightened.

Fever Reaches Mississippi

Vicksburg, Aug. 28.—Physicians of the Natchez board of health yesterday examined and pronounced as yellow fever two patients. Later five negroes convalescent from yellow fever were found in the northeast end of town, together with 17 suspicious cases of illness, 13 of which are undoubtedly yellow fever. The infection is traced to a negro woman who came from New Orleans.

Nourmahal's Captain Was Correct

Newport, R. I., Aug. 28.—Government official who have been examining the harbor off Fort Adams have discovered an uncharted ledge within a short distance of the fort. It was here that the steamer Nourmahal struck recently. The investigation was made in consequence of protests made by Captain Ricketts of the Nourmahal that his boat had struck upon an uncharted ledge.

Pleasure Seeker Drowned

Hull, Mass., Aug. 28.—A squall capsized a catboat containing Michael Rutledge and William McGee in Welt river, and Rutledge was drowned. McGee was rescued by an unknown man on shore, who also brought Rutledge ashore, but he died immediately. The young men belonged to a camping party of Boston boys.

New Head of Panama Road

Washington, Aug. 28.—W. G. Beird of Chicago has been appointed superintendent of the Panama railroad to succeed P. G. Prescott. He relinquishes a higher paying position with the Rock Island system to accept the new appointment, which carries a salary of $6000 a year.

An Interrupted Honeymoon

Haverhill, Mass., Aug. 28.—Less than 24 hours after his marriage Augustus M. Foster, formerly of Lynn, was arrested here on the charge of the larceny of $50 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, of which he was a local agent in Lynn. He will be taken to Lynn.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Tuesday. Aug. 29.
Sun rises—5:06; sets—6:24.
Moon rises—3:51 a. m.
High water—10 a. m.; 10:15 p. m.

There will be showers in New England. It will be somewhat warmer.

Raindrops.

The largest raindrops are about one-fifth of an inch in diameter. To determine the size rain is allowed to fall into a thick layer of flour, each drop forming a pellet of dough, and these pellets are compared with dough pellets obtained from drops of known size delivered on the flour by artificial means.

Minister Arrested In Church

Milford, Conn., Aug. 28.—Rev. R. W. Field, former pastor of the First Baptist church, was asked to resign from the church several weeks ago, but for some time he has insisted on filling the pulpit. Yesterday, as Rev. W. A. Herrod was about to preach, Field attempted to force his way into the pulpit when he was requested by the deacon to resume his seat among the congregation. He refused, and at the instigation of the deacon's deputy, Sheriff Mallory arrested him. He was released on bonds of $25 to appear in court.

Philadelphia Hermit Kills Himself

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.—Edward F. Pond, aged 65, who for nearly a year had lived a hermit's life, was found dead in his home with the gas turned on. The police say he committed suicide. The body was fully clothed and in the pockets were found an envelope containing $1500 in money, three bank checks, a number of shares of railroad stock and three building association certificates. Pond was formerly a merchant.

War on Dynamite Fishermen

Eastport, Me., Aug. 28.—Captain Pratt of the Canadian fishery protective cruiser Curlew and Fish Warden Kane of Eastport are engaged in a campaign against fishermen in Passamaquoddy bay and the Bay of Fundy who use dynamite for killing pollock, cod and other kinds of fish. Several arrests have been made within the past few days. Two men were fined $100 each and were sentenced to serve 60 days in jail.

Nome's Great Yield of Gold

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 28.—Assayer Wing, in charge of the local assay office, says that his estimate of the gold output of Nome for the season of 1905 is $10,000,000. This amount will be the record for Nome and will exceed the output of last year by $3,000,000.

Edmund B. De Garmo of Portland, Me., 19 years old, was drowned while passing his vacation at a camp at Weld pond. He would have entered the University of Maine the coming term.

NEW SHORT STORIES

Remembered His Failings.

A Cincinnati man was describing the dinner in London that admitted Joseph H. Choate to the society of the Old Benchers of the Inner Temple.

"Mr. Choate was in his best mood," he said. "With epigrams, witticisms and anecdotes he kept the table in a continuous roar.

"Perhaps he made his most telling impression with a story about an impoverished young Irish gentleman, the Hon. Denis Bellew.

"He said that Mr. Bellew, driven forth by poverty from his father's estate, went to London to seek his fortune.

"He had been a gay, convivial blade, and in the little home village he was missed. There was not a poacher nor a rolsterer within ten miles that hadn't a soft spot for Denis in his heart.

"Word one day passed about that up at the castle news had been received of Denis. The village at once became excited, and a deputation of a half dozen or so was soon on its way to see the old lord.

"HE HAS BEEN CALLED TO THE BAR."

"'My lord,' said the spokesman, 'is it true ye've got news o' yer son Denis?'

"'Aye, true enough. News at last, boys,' said his lordship.

"'Faith, then, an' phwat might the bhoy be doin' up in London?' was the next question.

"'He has been called to the bar,' the lord answered proudly.

"The deputation looked at one another, for the phrase was new to them. Finally in a loud whisper one said:

"'Oi don't know phwat thot manes, but from phwat Oi remember of the bhoy he didn't want no callin'.'"—Pittsburg Gazette.

Got the Money.

Sada Yacco, the charming little Japanese actress, is a great favorite in Paris. She is, moreover, exceedingly frank, appallingly so, as may appear from the following incident which her friend, Loie Fuller, is telling just now:

Mistress Sada was invited to take part in a private performance given by President Loubet. She was delighted, and so were the host and his guests, the Loubet pleasure promptly taking the form of a magnificent Sevres vase, which was presented to the fascinating oriental by the august donor himself.

A smile was his reward—that beaming, childlike smile which only a pretty Japanese girl can properly achieve. Sada Yacco recognized the gentleman's good intentions and gave him full credit for them, but she is as practical as she is grateful, and this is what she said:

"Very sorry, very sorry. Not take vase to Japan. Too far. Get broken. Take money. Very sorry."

While the onlookers gasped, she beamed on the president all over again, sweetly, serenely unconscious she had done anything out of the ordinary. And she got the money.—New York Times.

How Webster Hung the Scythe.

When a boy on his father's farm Daniel Webster seems to have had the usual farm boy's dislike for work. It is said that he was helping his father mow a field when the old gentleman noted, with some irritation, that Daniel was forever stopping, looking off into space, fussing with his scythe, etc.

"What's the matter, Daniel? Why don't ye keep mowing?" he asked.

"This scythe don't hang right."

"Sho! Get the right hang on it and hurry up."

Daniel surveyed the refractory tool a moment and then calmly walked to a neighboring apple tree and hung it over a branch.

"That's about the right hang for it," he remarked as he scooted out of range of the paternal wrath.—Detroit News-Tribune.

He Made a Hit.

It is usual to divide up the time devoted to the "missions," or religious revivals given in Catholic parishes, into periods for each class of the faithful—one week for the married men, one for the single men and the same for the women. In one of the large uptown churches in which Jesuit Father O'Donovan led the band of preachers he made an instantaneous hit by the manner in which he announced the order of the exercises.

"The first week," said he, "will be for the married men, the second for the unmarried men, the third for the married women and the last"—then he paused for a moment as he said—"for the unclaimed treasures."—New York Times.

Not Guilty.

Joseph Evans of Somerville was acquitted on the charge of murder by Judge John Haskell Butler on Saturday in the municipal court. This is a case which has attracted much attention because of the peculiar relations of all the parties concerned, and the decision by Judge Butler, after careful consideration, is of more than local or temporary significance.

Joseph Evans is alleged to have had for a housekeeper the wife of Allan Barber, who was separated from her husband. Mr. Barber, after unsuccessful efforts to investigate the exact status of his wife in the household of Mr. Evans, employed the services of a private detective agency.

On the night of Aug. 1, a private detective, with a number of companions, rang the doorbell of the house of Evans, of which all the occupants had gone to bed, and, when the door had been opened, endeavored to force his way into the dwelling. In this purpose the private detective was resisted by Evans, and in the course of the struggle was fatally shot.

The decision of Judge Butler in this case, that the defendant Evans was acting strictly within his right when he resisted to the last degree the attempted invasion of his home by a person without legal warrant, is in harmony with the time-honored principle of law among English-speaking peoples, a principle that has found axiomatic expression in the phrase that "a man's house is his castle."—Boston Globe.

For Health.

What a man needs is health. Fresh air, pure water, a little daily exercise and sufficient shelter in rigorous climates for peace and safety—these, says Mr. Hawthrone, are about all the requirements for any sane and sensible human.

There are several millions of people in the country working for considerably more than that, however. Mr. Hawthrone will hardly be able to satisfy them by telling them about the delights of air and water and exercise. They are exercising every day for all they are worth, trying to get much more than the air and water they find so plentiful. The demands of the time for simple life are found principally in a book, whose author collects his royalties carefully and who makes money for something else than the demands of a simple existence. The people as a rule are looking for something more complex and more varied. Mr. Hawthrone dosen't appear to be a man who thrives on air and water diet all the time. Certainly his salary calls for something more than that. And yet, so far as the actual crying demands of the time are concerned, and so far as happiness at its best is concerned, is there really much more needed by the earth worms than some good food, plenty of good water and good air, and plenty of sane and sensible exercise? Many of them take a fortnight off each year to get away and enjoy this sort of thing, and then they return to their old haunts, begin again to live as far away from the vacation plan as possible, and so show themselves to be truly that most illogical and changeable of all creatures on earth—the human being—Brockton Enterprise.

MERRYMOUNTS WIN.

Defeat Copelands by a Score of 5 to 3

A red hot game of ball was played at Merrymount Park Saturday between the Merrymounts and Copelands, the former winning by a score of 5 to 3.

The game was well played throughout. It was anybody's game up to the final innings. Neither side scored in the first. Copeland scored three runs in the second. In the third Merrymount scored 4 ruus.

It was then a succession of goose eggs until the eighth inning when Merrymount scored another run.

The batteries were Kolson and Drake; White and Coughlin. The score:

DYEING.

In case of mourning, Clothes Dyed Fast Black and finished in from 3 to 5 days, at Warshaw's Quincy Steam Dye House.

Established 1892.
1503 Hancock street, Quincy.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. Sylvia Langdon Dunham of Southington, Conn., has begun her one hundred and sixth year and is "still spry."

Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago is described by the leading society paper of London as one "so exclusive on the other side that she will not recognize even all the Four Hundred."

Mrs. Mary McArthur Tuttle has been elected a life member of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical society because of her writings in connection with the Ohio centennial.

The widow of Morris Sharp of Washington Court House, O., will carry out the wish of her husband to endow three chairs in Ohio Wesleyan university at a cost of over $100,000.

Ex-Empress Eugenie visited the Kiel harbor a few weeks ago in her steam yacht Thistle. She is seventy-nine years old and still quite active. She wanted to see the town which had so rapidly become world famed and was shown the principal streets and sights. She speaks German fluently.

Kathie Lanner, the daughter of Josef Lanner, who in his day disputed the title of "waltz king" with the elder Strauss, is living in London, aged seventy-six. She has just retired from the theatrical life, to which she has been devoted for sixty years. She began her connection with the stage in Vienna.

Mlle. de Rosen, daughter of the Russian ambassador, when she makes her debut in society will receive from the czarina the badge and title of a titular maid of honor to her majesty. This is a distinction that falls to the share of all the unmarried daughters of Russian ambassadors abroad after they have "come out."

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Sam Bernard has scored a striking hit in "The Rollicking Girl."

Richard Mansfield will begin his next season in Chicago, when he will produce Schiller's "Don Carlos."

Marie Doro will be in William Gillette's company next season. She is now playing with William Collier in London.

Charles Frohman will inaugurate the season at his Criterion theater, New York, with the appearance of Maxine Elliott in a new comedy by Clyde Fitch.

So successful has William Collier's engagement in London proved that Charles Frohman will keep him at the Comedy theater all the summer. He is still appearing in Richard Harding Davis' amusing farce, "The Dictator."

Henry B. Harris of the Hudson theater, New York, has purchased the dramatic rights of Sir Gilbert Parker's novel "Pierre and His People," which he will have dramatized for the use of Robert Edeson, who is starring under his management.

"Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots," Augustus Thomas' great comedy, which ran nearly all last season in New York, will open the season at the Lyceum, New York, with the original cast. The engagement is for two weeks only, after which the company goes on a tour.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

Edmund J. James will be installed president of the University of Illinois during the third week in October.

Swimming is part of the curriculum of the public schools of Yarmouth, England. The boys are taken to the shore in parties and are trained till they can swim fifty yards in the sea.

The eminent German archaeologist, Adolf Michaelis, whose seventieth birthday was celebrated on the 22d of June at Strassburg, has been connected with the university of that city for thirty years.

The low salaries paid to educators is illustrated by the announcement that Dr. Andrew Sledd has been chosen president of the University of Florida by the state board of control at a salary of $2,500 a year. Professor A. A. Murphree goes in as head of the State Female college at the same salary.

LAW POINTS.

A clause in a will forbidding the sale of testator's real estate during the lifetime of the life tenant is held, in Wood versus Fleetwood (N. C.), 67 L. R. A. 44, to be void as against public policy.

That a will may pass title to after acquired real estate under a statute providing that every person may, by last will, devise "all his estate, real, personal and mixed," is decided in Mueller versus Buenger (Mo.), 67 L. R. A. 648.

The right of a carrier to limit by special contract his common law liability and thereby to exempt himself from liability for any loss resulting otherwise than by the negligence or misfeasance of himself or his servants is sustained in Russell versus Erie Railroad company (N. J. Err. and App.), 67 L. R. A. 433.

THE WRITERS.

Justin McCarthy says that his three objects in life have been attained. They were: To write books, to be a member of parliament and to live in London.

Mrs. Sarah Brooks, the octogenarian writer of Medford, Mass., although confined to her house, is at work on a new volume which is to be entitled "A Garden With a House Attached." Mrs. Brooks will celebrate her eighty-fourth birthday on Sept. 22.

Dr. Joseph Spencer Kennard is to have the distinction of being knighted by the king of Italy at the next levee. Dr. Kennard recently removed from Philadelphia to Tarrytown, N. Y., and his novels in the Italian tongue have received greater royalties than any novelist save D'Annunzio.

DECIDED AT POKER.

La Moure's Five Card Draw Won the Name of the County.

When the extreme western border of Dakota was colonized there was a lively squabble about what the new county should be called. There were four commissioners whose duty it was to decide on the name, and at the board meetings the vote for the name of the county was always two and two, and public feeling began to run high. John Winn suggested that the four commissioners should take 500 white chips apiece and play a game of poker to decide, the chips to represent $5 each. This was agreed to, and the game commenced with the entire population on hand. For two hours little gain was made, and then a jack pot came around, for which seventy-three hands were dealt before it was opened. Finally Commissioner Edwards opened it for $100. He held three kings, Judd La Moure held a zigzag, and the others dropped out. Edwards drew one card. La Moure dealt himself five cards, and the betting commenced. Men with revolvers kept the crowd from the table. After several raises there was $5,000 in the pool private money, besides the chips. Then the hand was called. Edwards held three kings, and La Moure had drawn a full, three fives and a pair of fours. He rose to his feet and cried, "Gentlemen, this is McKenzie county," and so it was and is called. The game lasted eighteen hours, and La Moure and Winn were carried shoulder high around the town, which saw no sleep that night. The cards held by La Moure are to be found among the archives of the county, labeled "La Moure's Five Card Draw."

NAMING A VESSEL.

Why President Arthur Would Not Call It the Concord.

While General Arthur was president and during one of the summers of his administration he was on board the Dispatch at Newport, and Secretary of the Navy Chandler was pestering him to consent to naming the new dispatch boat, afterward the Dolphin, the Concord, after the first battle of the Revolution. General Arthur was disposed to quiz Chandler about his proposed name. He preferred the name Dolphin as being more suggestive of speed at sea. When Chandler argued the importance of keeping in mind the heroic resistance of the colonial militia and the brilliant opposition offered to Pitcairn's men General Arthur asked him:

"What is it that you propose to call this ship?"

"The Concord," answered Chandler, giving the approved New Hampshire pronunciation.

"There," retorted Arthur, inviting the attention of Captain Reeder. "Do you hear that? Conquered. Do you think that a good name to give a ship-of-war? Then, suppose you change the pronunciation and call it Concord, just as spelled. Does it not strike you, Chandler, that there is a degree of Concord in the presence of a vessel of war?"

The new ship was called the Dolphin, but the Concord appeared after General Arthur had ceased to have influence in naming the ships of the navy.

Sex In Ants.

The different species of ants are pretty generally distributed over the globe, and on this account the naturalists infer that there is work for them to do in the great economy of the universe. In each colony males, females, neuters and sometimes soldiers are to be recognized. The males are invariably smaller than the females and, like those of the feminine gender, have wings in their original state. The neuters, which are the workers, are without wings in any of their transformations, and the soldiers are recognized by the armor plates on their heads.

Love of Work.

The love of work, which was one of the characteristics of the historian Froude, is well illustrated in a story told of his last illness. The cancerous affection of which he afterward died was slowly destroying his healthy and vigorous frame. At one time he seemed to be much better, and when the physician came to see him he noted the improvement and told his patient of it. Froude asked whether it was likely that he would be able to go back to his work again. On hearing that this was impossible he said, "If that is the case, I do not wish to live."

Animals and Colors.

The theory has been advanced that the conspicuous colors developed in various species of snakes, insects and animals are nature's method of advertising the fact that such are poisonous, either in the bite or sting which they inflict, or that the flesh is unpalatable if used for food. The believers in this theory cite the wonderful display of colors in the eclaza wasp, the coral snake, the horridium fish and the Gila monster.

A Compromise.

"Haven't Henpeck and his wife settled their differences about their visiting cards?"

"Oh, yes; they've compromised on 'Mr. and Mrs. Marie Henpeck.'"—Philadelphia Press.

Syllogistic.

Teacher (of class of zoology)—What is the proof that a sponge is a living animal? Young Man With the Bad Eye—A man is a living animal. Many men are sponges. Therefore a sponge is a living animal.—Chicago Tribune.

Age does not make us childish, as some say; it finds us true children.—Goethe.

AKBAR'S EXPERIMENT.

Result of His Whimsical Search For a Natural Language.

Akbar, one of the first of the great moguls who ruled India, has been named the Asiatic Charlemagne. He was a statesman and an educator and built a palace for the reception of men who loved learning and sought after wisdom. The great mogul's passion for knowledge is said to have been shown by a whimsical experiment he once made to determine if it was true, as he had heard, that Hebrew was the natural language of all who had never been taught any other tongue.

To test this assertion Akbar caused a dozen nursing children to be shut up in a castle six leagues from Agra, his capital city. Each child was reared by a dumb nurse. The porter also was a mute, and he was forbidden, upon pain of death, to open the gates of the castle. When the children were twelve years of age Akbar ordered them to be brought before him.

Men learned in Sanskrit, in Arabic, in Persian and in Hebrew were assembled at the royal palace to tell what language the children spoke. Akbar, seated on his throne and surrounded by these linguists, ordered the children to be brought in. Each child was addressed, and, to the surprise of the assembly, every one answered by a sign. Not a child could speak a word. They had all learned from their nurses to express themselves by gestures!

First Come, First Served.

A week before commencement Jones, a senior, who was weary of boarding house fare, was happily engaged in donning his dinner clothes. A smile of delighted anticipation played upon his features when Robbins entered in a dinner coat.

"Hello, Charley!" greeted Jones cheerily. "What's up?"

"Oh, nothing up," said Robbins. "I'm just going round to the Clemenses to call—going to see if I can't get asked to dinner."

The smile faded slowly from Jones' features.

"Oh, I say, Charley," he expostulated, "can't you go somewhere else? I was going there."—Youth's Companion.

Genius Bad at Figures.

I know an eminent Greek professor who could not reckon his class fees. Faraday had, I believe, no gift for mathematics. Darwin declared that he never understood an equation. I question if Isaac Newton could have passed any examination in literary or aesthetic subjects, with his idea that poetry was ingenious nonsense and statuary only stone dolls. It is a moot question if Napoleon Bonaparte would have passed a matriculation in French. I shrewdly suspect that neither Bonaparte nor Wellington would shine in a military academy examination.—Letter in London Telegraph.

Grewsome Punishment.

A grewsome form of punishment is still practiced in Afghanistan. A recent English expedition discovered at the top of the Lataband pass an iron cage suspended from a high pole fastened in the ground like a telegraph pole containing a shriveled human body. The mummy was that of a thief, who had been imprisoned and allowed to die of thirst and hunger in this iron cage.

Your Learning.

Wear your learning like your watch, in a private pocket, and do not pull it out and strike it merely to show that you have one. If you are asked what o'clock it is, tell it, but do not proclaim it hourly and unasked like the watchman.

A Queer Branch.

Uncle George—How do you like arithmetic? Little Dick—Pretty well so far, but the teacher says that next week we are to begin learning how to extract roots. Guess he must think we're all going to be dentists.

Compliments.

"Say, Horn, you're the worst blower I ever heard of!"

"Well, it's a pipe you're full of hot air yourself!"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

She Didn't Want Much.

Elderly Woman—Remember, I'm not particular about having a striking likeness, but I must have a pretty picture.

JAPAN WAIVES THE INDEMNITY

Consents to Leave Price of Sakhalin to Arbitration

LOOKS MORE LIKE PEACE

Burden Will Be Shifted to the Shoulders of Russians If They Reject Modified Proposition--Witte Feels Pressure of Russian Sentiment That War Be Continued--Much Going on Beneath the Surface at Portsmouth While President Was Negotiating a Compromise

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 29.—Baron Komura, acting upon instructions received from Tokio as a result of yesterday's meeting of the cabinet and "elder statesmen" under the direct presidency of the mikado, will today submit to Mr. Witte a new basis of compromise. That compromise, it is firmly believed, will insure peace.

The revelation contained in the announcement that Japan had already informed Emperor Nicholas, through Ambassador Meyer, that Japan was ready to waive the question of indemnity and submit the price to be paid for the northern half of Sakhalin to the judgment of a mixed commission but prepared the way for Japan's backdown upon the main issue.

The announcement was the sensation of the day. It had met with denials high and low. It was declared to be impossible, incredible. The Japanese declined to admit it and the Russians said they had no confirmation. Mr. Witte intimated strongly that St. Petersburg had not apprised him of any such action by the president. There was even a disposition to ridicule the idea of arbitrating the price of half of the island.

Nevertheless, on all hands it was admitted that if Japan took this position the ground was cut out from Emperor Nicholas. Mr. Witte, by consummate skill in conceding all the demands of Japan involving the real issues of the war, had maneuvered his adversaries into a position where, unless they abandoned the claim for indemnity, they could be held responsible for continuing the war for money.

The Japanese, by now foregoing the demand for indemnity, practically turn the tables upon the Russians and shift the burden back to her shoulders if she does not consent to submit a minor issue to the impartial judgment of a tribunal. Mr. Witte publicly dissents vigorously from the proposition and there will still be a struggle with Peterhof, but if Japan agrees to formally renounce all claims for direct or indirect compensation for the expenses of the war the big stumbling block to peace is out of the way.

Everything will depend upon the form in which the proposal is submitted. Should the renunciation be so coupled with the other proposition that Russia could claim it was still only a disguised demand for tribute the gulf might be narrowed, but not bridged.

All the private advices that reach the Russian mission from St. Petersburg indicate that the military party is bellicose, insistent that Linevitch be given a chance and active in its insistence that negotiations be broken off.

Even Witte feels the pressure of this sentiment, and as a man of ambition he may not feel that he can afford to lay himself open to the charge that he is temporizing with the situation. He has power under his instructions to reject out of hand any proposition involving the payment of a kopeck of tribute. He need not consult his imperial master. He is a man of inspiration and he is quite capable, if the Japanese proposition savors still of "blood money," to refuse even to accept it for reference to St. Petersburg.

But such a reckless stroke is not expected. Mr. Witte knows that public opinion both in America and Europe as well as Russia would condemn him if he broke off the negotiations just as the way was opened for a possible accord.

While apparently the real negotiations leading up to the present denouement were conducted by the president at Oyster Bay, acting through Baron Kaneko on the one hand and Ambassador Meyer on the other, it is now believed that much has been going on beneath the surface here.

Another indication of the sudden turn in the events was the arrival here last night of Frank A. Vanderlip, vice president of the City National bank of New York. He registered at the hotel as "John Howard" and after dinner went to Witte's room and remained there one hour. When asked his mission Vanderlip said he was only "interested in the situation." He had met Witte several years ago when he was at the head of the Russian finance ministry and had also seen him in New York upon his arrival. He had talked with him about the situation, the outlook in Russia, the state of the negotiations, etc. He evaded inquiries as to whether the subject of a loan had been discussed, but considering the importance of the "financial group," of which the City National bank is a member, and the fact that the bank took a portion of one of the Russian loans, it is fair to assume that the question of finance was not entirely ignored.

Some of the Japanese correspondents were greatly excited over the reports that the Tokio government had surrendered on the subject of indemnity. They refused to believe it, declaring that, if true, it would cause a tremendous outburst of popular feeling in Japan.

Mobilizing Russian Troops

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—An imperial ukase orders the mobilization of troops for the reinforcement of the army in the Far East. The order applies to certain districts in 12 governments and to the Don Cossacks. Horses have been requisitioned in various districts of 18 governments.

Eyes Turned Toward Tokio

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—The scene having changed from St. Petersburg to Tokio, the eyes of the officials and people are now turned to Japan with keen interest which last week was lacking.

Resignation of Kuropatkin

London, Aug. 29.—The Japanese correspondent of The Daily Telegraph at Moji, Japan, sends a report that General Kuropatkin has resigned his command and that his health has collapsed.

Leopold Admires Roosevelt

Brussels, Aug. 29.—King Leopold received the delegates to the inter-parliamentary congress yesterday afternoon. He conversed with each of the American members, expressing his admiration for the United States and saying that he kept President Roosevelt's signed photograph on the desk in his study. The congress further discussed the American propositions for a model arbitration treaty and a permanent congress of the nations.

A Remarkable Coincidence

New York, Aug. 29.—Separated by 1000 miles distance, Mrs. June Johnson and her husband, Allan Johnson, a banker at Little Rock, Ark., met death almost simultaneously. At the precise hour when Mrs. Johnson's body was taken from the bathing waters of Coney Island, a telegram came into this city to inform her of the death of her husband. The woman was a magazine contributor.

Policeman Won the Fight

New York, Aug. 29.—Policeman Hauke of Brooklyn, with his wife, was walking through Highland park last night when they were attacked by five young men, who fought with stones. Hauke had to use his pistol and David Banks, 16 years old, has a bullet wound which will probably cause his death and George Edwards, 18, has a bullet hole in his leg. The three others escaped.

Germans Win Skirmish With Natives

Berlin, Aug. 29.—A detachment of marines and sailors from the German cruiser Bussard surprised about 1000 insurgent natives, half of whom were armed with rifles, near Kowoni, German East Africa. The Germans killed 73 of the insurgents and drove many others into the River Rifiji, where they were drowned. No German casualties have been reported.

Killed by Live Wire

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 29.—Charles W. Pembrook, aged 32, a lineman in the employ of the Cambridge Electric Light company, was repairing wires on a tall pole when he slipped and fell across a number of wires. He was electrocuted by a live wire, which nearly severed the head from his body before he could be taken down.

Infuriated Cow Tossed Child

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 29.—Little 3-year-old Alfred Doyle of Cambridge, who is spending the summer here with his mother at the Nugent farm, was bruised and cut by an infuriated cow which attacked him while he was petting her calf. He was rescued from a second attack by Charles Nugent and John Nugent.

No Corsets For "Gym" Girls

Pittsburg, Aug. 29.—Radical dress reform has been adopted by Professor Emil Rath, instructor of the gymnasium and fencing classes at Central Turner hall. In his prospectus, which has just been issued, he sets forth in a conscicuous place: "The wearing of corsets during exercises is positively forbidden."

Three Struck by Lightning

Hood River, Or., Aug. 29.—While examining the contents of the record box on the summit of Mt. Hood, Professor Lyon, Mrs. Lyon and Mark Weigant, a guide, were struck by lightning. All three were prostrated, but will recover. Lyon is connected with the Smithsonian institution at Washington.

Dismissal and Imprisonment

Washington, Aug. 29.—The president has approved the sentence in the court martial case of First Lieutenant G. S. Richards, Twenty-Third infantry, who was convicted of duplicating pay accounts and was sentenced to dismissal from the service and to one year of hard labor.

Cruisers Ready to Go to Morocco

Toulon, Aug. 29.—The French naval authorities have been ordered to hold two cruisers in readiness to proceed to Morocco in case the sultan's reply to the French demands in reference to the imprisonment of the French-Algerian merchant are unsatisfactory.

Letter from Porto Rico.

The following interesting letter is from a Quincy boy located at Culebro, Porto Rico.

San Juan, Aug. 14, 1905.

Dear Editor:—I have lived in Quincy all my life until I became a soldier for Uncle Sam. It is a very good life for a young man to live. The people of Quincy think I was killed so I send you this letter to let them know I am alive and well. I left Quincy four years ago, and hope that when I go back to Quincy it will be a large city.

San Juan was held by an angry mob of strikers, Aug. 14th, as the outcome of the long shoremen's strike for an increase of wages, to twenty-five cents an hour, which has been in progress a month. It was under the control of a mob between 7 and 3 o'clock today. The mob, in which there were about two thousand armed persons, dug up paving blocks and stones and with these and other missiles rushed through the streets fighting the soldiers and police, who were armed with rifles and fired scores of shots but mostly in the air.

One person was killed and forty injured, who are in the hospitals. Three of them will die. While the U. S. Marines were engaged with the rioters another mob, composed mainly of young men and boys, threw stones at the arc lights in the main streets, with the result that nearly the entire city was in total darkness all night. The mob sought refuge in a disreputable district, which was surrounded by the police and squad of Marines, who patrolled the city for the remainder of the night. At midnight the Marines, who numbered only two hundred, had the city under control. Reinforcements are expected today.

Yours truly,
Private George H. Bavin.

Base Ball.

The Merrymounts will go to Braintree on Saturday to play the deciding game of the series with the Braintrees, each team having taken one game. The Merrymounts will have the regular team with the exception of right field, which will be filled by Stevens for the balance of the season.

On Labor day morning the Merrymounts will play the Quincys at the Park. This game will conclude the series with the Quincys and will be witnessed by a large crowd.

Chase-Chace Family.

The sixth annual reunion of the Chase-Chace family association will be held at Hotel Vendome, Boston, at 10 A. M. Thursday, September 7, 1905.

The gatherings of the association have been increasing steadily from year to year in point of interest and attendance and the meeting of 1905 bids fair to eclipse all its predecessors. Lieut. Gov. Guild and also representatives of several of the State Governments of New England will be in attendance.

More Than 28,067.

Quincy, August 28, 1905.

Editor Daily Ledger:

Dear Sir:—Since the announcement of the population of Quincy, by the Census Bureau, the reading public has been treated to much interesting, comparative information concerning the same.

Doubtless this has been read with great interest and was certainly the result of much time and study.

The writer respectfully suggests that if but a small fraction of the time which you have already employed be used for an analysis of the figures published it will convince you, as it has him, that errors of considerable magnitude have been made.

It is not the desire of the writer to criticise men or newspapers but it is of great importance to Quincy that it be credited with the correct number of residents and it is that reason solely that prompts me to impose upon your space.

It will take but a very few minutes of the time of anyone who is interested to convince them that there were many more than 28,067 bona-fide residents on May first last. Enumerator.

Children's Outing.

About 125 children were entertained Monday at Houghs Neck by the Metropolitan Outing Association. The children came to the beach on the morning boat and had a grand good time on the beach.

At noon time they were provided with a shore dinner served in a large dining hall. The children returned to Boston on the 7 o'clock boat.

Must Have Air-brakes.

There has appeared in various newspapers recently notice that the Pennsylvania railroad announces that it will not accept from other lines freight cars not equipped with air-brakes after July 1st, 1906.

It may be interesting to note that since April 1st, 1905, the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad has refused to accept from connecting lines freight equipment cars not equipped with air-brakes or piped through for air-brakes.

Not Time to Talk Strike

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—President Baer of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad company says that the possibility of a great strike in the anthracite regions next year is too remote for present discussion.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ At least one of the trusts has been found to have a soul. The United Cigar Stores Co., which a short time ago presented each of its employees with insurance policies ranging from $1,000 to $2,590, the annual premiums of which are to be paid by the company as long as the holder continues in his position, in now planning a large apartment house in New York, to be tenanted by its bachelor employees, numbering about 700 in New York city alone. The building is to contain, besides the usual apartments, gymnasium, bowling alleys, smoking and reading rooms and other provisions for the comfort of the tenants. The apartments are to be rented at cost, the company expecting to receive its return in the increased efficiency of its employees when comfortably housed in this way, and it also hopes to prevent in that way frequent changes in the staff.—Banker and Tradesman.

☞ In these days of sojourn by the sea and in the country the art of swimming is more than ever a prime necessity. If people would only recognize the fact that one cannot drown with nose and month out of water, and that the more the body is submerged the easier they can float there would be less drowning accidents to report. Of course a cool head is the all important requisite, as abject fear is the most fatal defeat of all. In acquiring this art of swimming select a depth of water about up to the waist, then lie out flat upon the stomach, nose and chin only above the water, with the hands spread out flat upon the water, fingers together. A slow gradually deepening stroke is the best until the arms are at right angles with the body, then draw the elbows quickly to the sides and thrust the hands forward for another stroke. In this manner if one keeps cool the art of swimming may be easily acquired. No matter if the head goes under a few times with new beginners the depth of water is perfectly safe and if the mouth be kept shut it will be attended with little or no inconvenience. One would be surprised how quickly he can get the hang of it by observing these rules. We have a case in point where a young lady acquired the art of keeping above water in the very first attempt. Of course she was not frightened at the start which was the best assurance of success.—Rockland Standard.

—Better begin now to save up your money for the fall fairs and cattle shows with their African dodgers and shell games.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

ISTHMUS REFORMS

Chief Engineer Stevens Has Made a Good Start

LOOKS TOWARD ECONOMY

Suspends Excavation Work at Culebra Because of State of Unpreparedness--A Number of Men In Many Departments Are Out of Work

Panama, Aug. 29.—The new chief engineer has been here only about a month, but it is already apparent that there is a stronger hand at the helm. Changes in organization and policy have come with extraordinary promptness. Mr. Stevens seems to have been able to put his finger on some weak spots almost immediately.

One entire department, the general quartermaster's, has been abolished, and in place of it another one, the bureau of labor and quarters, has been established, with a new chief. This change has been accompanied by the elimination of much of the red tape and unnecessary letter writing that formerly prevailed. One entire set of underpaid checkers who stood between the preparation of the payrolls and the payment thereof has been dispensed with.

The most radical move made by the chief engineer is the suspension of the work of excavating at Culebra and the partial suspension in various departments contributory thereto, on account of the state of unpreparedness in which he found the tracle facilities for handling the material excavated, and the insufficient railroad equipment for caring for the immense amount of supplies which is pouring into Colon on every steamer.

The mechanical department, a large part of whose work consists in keeping in repair the machinery used at Culebra, has also laid off a good portion of its men. Many employes now on their six weeks' leave in the states have been notified not to return. No more men are to be brought down for the present. The sanitary, building and railroad departments will work with an increased force, so that when the work is resumed in its full activity, some three months hence, there will be comfortable houses and adequate facilities for prosecuting the work in a business-like manner.

The chief engineer has instituted another reform, which is not likely to be popular. He has given orders that great effort must be made to keep down expenses. There are to be no more increases in salary for the present, except for extraordinary reasons. This is a radical change in policy. Up to the present time men who attended to their work properly, and some who didn't, could count on an increase every few months. It was this consideration which kept the greater part of the force here through the yellow fever outbreak and the period of discomfort, which is not yet entirely at an end.

Another matter to which the chief engineer has given his attention is the equalization of the pay of laborers and mechanics. He thinks the same pay should be given in the various departments for the same class of work.

This has not been true in all cases hitherto. It has happened several times that one department has been crippled by men leaving and entering another department, where they have been offered more money. It has been a common practice for a man to abandon his work, change his name, and apply for and obtain work at an increased rate in another part of the isthmus, representing that he has never been in the service of the commission before.

It is easier to do this than it sounds, for negroes all look alike down here, and in many cases the man who hires them never sees them again after they go to work. The chief engineer has hit upon the right way of stopping this by equalizing the rate of pay for the same work and thus destroying the inducement. The whole system of the payment of labor is to be put on a rational basis and hereafter it will not be possible for a chief of department who is disposed to keep down expenses to suffer by having his men hired away from him.

Tobacco Farmers Lose Heavily

Windsor, Conn., Aug. 29.—Revised estimates of the damage to tobacco by hail in Windsor and vicinity place the loss at not less than $200,000. The storm was the severest Windsor growers ever experienced. Many farmers are ruined. The storm was the second in the Connecticut valley this season.

Expert Will Settle Dispute

Natchez, Miss., Aug. 29.—City Health Officer Fitchette refuses to accept the diagnosis of the county health officer and other physicians that there is pronounced yellow fever in Natchez. Dr. Young of the marine hospital service is on his way to Natchez from Jackson.

Hundred Men on Strike

Providence, Aug. 29.—Union painters, carpenters and other workers, numbering about 100, employed by Lewis J. Pierce of this city, have struck because of the alleged employment by Pierce of a non-union group of painters.

Double Killing Ends Quarrel

Huntington, W. Va., Aug. 29.— William P. Barbour last night shot and instantly killed Etta Denney, after a quarrel over a love affair. He then shot and killed himself.

SLAYER HAD A HELPER

Father of Mattie Hackett Gives Authorities a New Clue

Readfield, Me., Aug. 29.—All doubt of the sheriffs that more than one person is implicated in the murder of Mattie Hackett was removed by a story told by Levi L. Hackett, father of the victim. He declares that as he was hastening down the dark country road, on hearing the girl's death cry, the sound of voices came from some point in the fields which skirted the thoroughfare.

"It was just after the outcry which caused me to investigate that I heard the hum of conversation somewhere at the left of the road," he said. "Discovering my daughter in the road, I called for help and we hastened to the house. In the excitement I forgot the talk which had come to me from the field.

"Now I am convinced that the slayers of my girl were gloating over their deed, for the voices were high-pitched and exultant."

And the officers say another link has been added to the theory that a man and woman are at the bottom of the affair, and they regard this last development as one of the most important that has yet arisen.

Boston Chinamen at War

Boston, Aug. 29.—The presence in Boston of a young Chinaman who is known as the Chinese Billy the Kid is said to be the real root of the trouble between the two tongs which has now reached the acute stage and which requires the services of eight plain clothes men. These men are watching Chinatown night and day, and underneath its apparent calm they can see signs of trouble. Billy the Kid, as the Americanized Chinese call him, is known to his countrymen all over the United States. Although but 23 years old, he has been concerned in a score of killings during the last four years.

Socialists Make Nominations

Boston, Aug. 29.—A full state ticket was nominated by the Socialist party of Massachusetts at its annual convention here. James F. Carey of Haverhill was placed in nomination for governor. There was less interest than usual in the convention on account of the fact that this year the Socialists are not recognized as a legal political party, this being due to their failure last year to poll 3 percent of the total vote cast for governor.

Bride Is Left Alone

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 29.—Augustus W. Foster, who was snatched from his bride of two hours by an unromantic policeman at Haverhill Sunday evening, was brought to this city and locked up on a charge of larceny of $50 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, of which he was agent. Foster says that the story that he jilted a Lynn girl and that she informed the police of his whereabouts is untrue.

Locomotive Engineer Killed

Brattleboro, Vt., Aug. 29.—A locomotive and a freight car of a mixed train jumped the rails at a point between Williamsville and Newfane, 12 miles from here, and went down a 25-foot embankment. Engineer Shattuck was scalded by escaping steam and died in a few hours. Fireman La Forest escaped unhurt. Shattuck leaves a widow in this town. The exact cause of the accident is unknown.

Killed by Excitement

Fryeburg, Me., Aug. 29.—Woodman S. Eaton of Portland started in an automobile for Portland and had gone some distance when the apparatus refused to work, and he was not able to stop it. The machine went over an embankment. Eaton was not severely injured, and had succeeded in adjusting the machinery, when he dropped dead from heart failure, due to the excitement. He was 59 years old.

Murder Charge Preferred

Franklin, Mass., Aug. 29.—At the conclusion of an autopsy performed on the body of Michael J. Connors, who was killed during a street fight here, the medical examiner announced that death was due to cerebral hemorrhage. It is alleged that Connors was struck by Bernard McDonald. McDonald was arraigned and held in $2500 for a hearing on the charge of murder.

Waterman Hearing Continues

Victory, Vt., Aug. 29.—Counsel for the defendant in the case of Robert Waterman, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of his 6-year-old daughter, Lilla, made a motion in the hearing before Justice McGinnis that the prisoner be released. McGinnis overruled the motion and required the defense to present witnesses at the hearing.

Death From Collapse of Roof

Providence, Aug. 29.—Thomas Lynch, a carpenter, was killed, and James Murray, a mason, was probably fatally injured by the collapse of a roof of an ell at the Riverside woolen mills in Olneyville. Workmen were making alterations on the building and the supports of the roof were not strong enough to hold it in place.

Steamer Bumped Into Wharf

Block Island, R. I., Aug. 29.—While the steamer Montauk was making her dock here with many passengers aboard, her engines became unmanageable and the boat crashed into the pier and grounded in the mud. Manuel Ellis was badly injured by being struck by the boat. The wharf and boat were both slightly damaged.

Died at Wife's Funeral

Boston, Aug. 29.—While attending the funeral of his wife in Winchester William Adams was overcome by an attack of heart trouble and expired within a few minutes. Adams was for many years a hotel proprietor. He was 86 years old.

KNABENSHUE IN FLIGHT

Daring Aeronaut Not Afraid While In the Air.

STRONG MAN OF STEEL NERVES.

Young Toledo Aeronaut Says He Feels as Safe In the Air as on the Ground—Has to Know Just Where to Shift His Weight to Balance His Airship, Which Goes In Any Direction Excepting In a Gale.

"When I am up in the air sailing in my ship I feel just as confident and safe as when I am walking on the earth," said A. Roy Knabenshue, the young Toledo aeronaut, the other morning as he carefully threaded his fingers around the huge silk bag that had safely carried him around New York city in a flight on the previous afternoon. "My ship can go into the air in any direction unless there is a gale blowing."

That statement was proved when the daring young aeronaut sent his airship from the vacant lot at Sixty-second street and Central Park West to the Flatiron building and back, to the great astonishment of thousands of persons who lined the streets and gazed into the air for more than an hour, says the New York Globe. Scores of persons had heard that the ship was to appear shortly after 2 o'clock, and they obtained positions from which to watch the flight to advantage.

Knabenshue's car is so light and flimsy of construction that the first idea is that it could not sustain a man's weight. It does not weigh more than fifty pounds, exclusive of the engine.

A structure made of the thinnest of wood is suspended from the gas bag, and upon this the young inventor trusts his life. The skeleton is made of spruce scantlings, held together by little bolts, none of which is more than an eighth of an inch thick.

The frame is fashioned after the shape of a triangle, the extreme length of it being an ellipse, sharply pointed at the ends. Criss crossed from the scantlings at equal distances of about a foot are thin steel wires that hold the frame scantlings in shape and support the engine and the man who operates the machine.

The machine when in flight presents a fascinating and picturesque appearance. The huge gas bag is almost transparent, and when the sun shines on it it has much the appearance of the sail of a first class yacht at sea. Below the bag hangs the frame on which the inventor sits and guides the ship and runs the small engine which operates a propeller at one end.

This propeller is the only visible moving thing on the car. The aeronaut is but a speck in the air, and if it was not known that there was a man on the frame it would take the hardest kind of persuasion to convince any one that there was.

Knabenshue himself is a man of twenty-eight. He is thin and strong and with nerves of steel. He weighs but 140 pounds, stands five feet seven inches, is of dark complexion and has a clear eye. This spareness of limb and flesh makes him best fitted for the task that he has undertaken, for every pound of flesh that he carriers means a corresponding loss of weight that must be taken from the strength of his engines or to the structure to which he clings.

This 140 pounds of Knabenshue is so much ballast for his ship. If a heavy current of air hits his ship unexpectedly fore, aft or on the side he must know where to stand upon the web of scantling and wires. He must skip about, throwing his weight at the right moment to the right place and bringing his ship to the right angle of equilibrium. If his judgment errs death probably will be his fate.

Knabenshue comes from good stock. His father is now the American consul at Belfast, Ireland. Knabenshue, Sr., was at one time editor of a Toledo newspaper, and it was there that the son achieved his greatest victories over the winds. Like a pilot of the seas, Knabenshue knows the currents of the air. This is as essential to a proper sailing of an airship as it is to the man who holds the wheel on the greatest ocean grayhound.

It takes fifteen hours to inflate the airship bag. Hundreds of little bags filled with sand hold the inflated bag in readiness for the adjusting of the framework when the ship is being made ready for flight.

Great Fire In London Predicted.

"Within the next few years, I tell you, there will be another great fire, attended by loss of life, in the city of London." This is the prophecy which Edward Atkinson made to one of the representatives of the St. James Gazette. As regards the mechanical appliances employed by the London fire brigade Mr. Atkinson gave it as his opinion that we are far behind the United States. "Your appliances are mere toys," he remarked. "I read of your having an engine which can throw a jet of 500 gallons a minute, but that is not enough. I have not seen a single standpipe in any street here. In America the standpipe runs to the highest floor of the loftiest building and is so constructed that the engine on its arrival can be connected without a minute's delay. No hose is needed, and water is thrown on to every floor. We do not have, as you do, a few such jets of water thrown from the ground level."

No More Bows In China's Army.

An imperial edict in China abolishes bow and arrow from the army. All the soldiers are to be armed with the most modern weapons.

Steamship Quickly Went to the Bottom Off Florida

STRUCK BY A HEAVY SEA

Cargo Shifted and She Sunk In Less Than Ten Minutes--But Two Survivors of Crew, While Twenty Were Drowned

Ferdnandina, Fla., Aug. 29.—Twenty men, constituting all but two of the officers and crew of the American steamship Peconic, bound from Philadelphia to New Orleans with coal, were drowned by the sinking of that vessel off the coast of Florida.

About midnight of Sunday, during the heaviest part of a storm which had raged all day, the officer of the deck gave the order to put to sea, fearing they were approaching the coast too near. In the endeavor to turn, the ship was struck with terrific force by an immense wave, the cargo shifted and she began sinking rapidly. In less than 10 minutes after the alarm was sounded she had gone to the bottom and no trace of her was left upon the waters.

The account of the escape of the two men out of all the ship's crew was remarkable. One of these men was at the wheel at the time the order was given, the other was on watch. As soon as the ship began to careen these two men rushed for one of the small boats, which they jumped into as the vessel began to go down. With their knives they severed the ropes as the water's level was reached and the small boat was thrown far out on the waves. They furthermore say that they discovered through the blackness and storm the figures of part of the awakened crew, some of whom managed to crowd into another of the ship's boats. This was, however, caught in the trough of the sea, thrown violently against the ventilators and then wedged fast. Pitiful cries for help could be heard as the ship went down.

Alone through the remainder of the night, with the storm raging and threatening each moment to swamp their small boat, these two men were gradually borne ashore toward Ameila Island, landing just at 11 a. m. Their condition was pitiable. The men, whose names are respectively Bagellini Humberti, an Italian, and Antonio Clark, a Spaniard, were unable to speak out of their native tongues, and it was some time before the facts of the disaster were thoroughly ascertained. They have testified to the correctness of the above statement before a notary public and the community here cared for their wants. At the time of the disaster the ship was about 20 miles northeast of here.

The only names that the two men could give were Captain Jones, Mate James and Seamen Calaleno and Indecioato. They say there were five Spanish firemen, one French sailor, one Spanish seaman besides Clark and the balance were Italians.

The vessel had been engaged in the fruit trade from Central America to New Orleans, but on account of the quarantine regulations prohibiting the import of bananas she had been engaged for two voyages to carry coal from Philadelphia to New Orleans. She was a ship of 1154 tons register, and had on board about 1500 tons of coal. She arrived at Philadelphia Aug. 14 and cleared for New Orleans Aug. 19.

Inventor Lake to Leave Us

MAKING A CAMPFIRE.

How One Can Be Built Under Adverse Circumstances.

Nobody should boast of being able to build a campfire unless he can do it in a rain when all the forest is wet and succeed in lighting the fire with the first match.

Even in a driving rain that has lasted for days the clever woodsman can find bits of twig and other inflammable material that may be damp, but not sodden. He can always find perfectly dry stuff in hollow trees and under roots. He will spend perhaps half an hour, perhaps even an hour, looking for the stuff of this kind and will not dream of starting his fire until he has collected at least a hatful of tindery stuff and an armful of small twigs and branches as dry as any that can be found.

Having deposited all this stuff under the best shelter possible, he drags a log to the place where the fire is to be and turns it over, when of course it exposes a dry side, in which the tinder may be placed without getting wet. Then other logs are piled to form a wall against the wind.

Now the tinder is piled up and then with a sharp knife the driest sticks are whittled so that a pile of thin shavings is accumulated. The more shavings there are the better.

Then the driest sticks are laid over these and the shavings set afire. Carefully add wood as the fire burns up, but never put enough on to smother the flame. One wet twig will blaze when two may choke the fire.

How Vinegar Can Be Made Useful.

Some new uses for vinegar are thus described in the Housekeeper: If a tablespoonful of vinegar is put into the lard in which doughnuts are fried it will prevent them from absorbing too much of the fat. One or two teaspoonfuls of vinegar put into a kettle containing boiling beef or chicken will hasten it in becoming tender. A little vinegar put into stove blacking will make it stick better and prevent dust from flying while polishing. A little vinegar put into the water when rinsing the hands does much toward curing and preventing chapped hands. Vinegar put into a bottle of old or dried glue will moisten and make it like new again. Vinegar boiled on the stove while cooking onions or cabbage will prevent the odor from filling the house. Vinegar and salt mixed will brighten and clean brass or copper kettles, ornaments, gas fixtures and the like. After its application the articles should be rinsed and polished with a clean, dry cloth. A good furniture polish is a mixture of one part of vinegar to two parts of sweet oil, used sparingly. The furniture should be polished after its use by a clean cloth. Vinegar and water is good for bruises and sprains.

How to Put on Your Gloves.

Every woman should have among her toilet table fittings a good glove stretcher and a little rice powder to use when putting on gloves in case the glove has not been fitted at the store. After dusting the inside of the glove carefully with rice powder the tidy girl draws on the fingers, leaving the thumb until they are all firmly in place, making sure that each finger is put on absolutely straight, says the Chicago Journal. If the glove is a trifle small and works on very hard it is well to remove it after it is half way on and start afresh. If it fits tightly about the wrist she fastens the last button and trusts to the gradual stretching of the kid over the wrist. The tidy girl removes her gloves with infinite care. She starts by loosening the fingers just a trifle at the tips, then she turns the wrist down and draws the glove wrong side out carefully, not jerkily. If the finger tips have been properly loosened the glove will not turn all the way wrong side out.

How Hot Water May Be Made Useful.

A strip of flannel or a soft cloth folded lengthwise dipped in hot water and wrung out, then wrapped around the neck of a child that has croup, will bring almost instant relief. A towel folded several times and dipped in hot water and applied over the site of toothache or neuralgia is splendid. This treatment for colic has been found to work like magic. Nothing so promptly cuts short congestion of the lungs, sore throat or rheumatism as hot water when applied early in the case and thoroughly. Ordinary headaches almost always yield to the simultaneous application of hot water to the feet and the back of the neck.

How to Tell Good Fruit.

Some of the signs by which to tell good fruit and vegetables are here indicated, says the Washington Star. Oranges are sound and juicy when heavy, but not too hard. Radishes and turnips when spongy are not fit to eat. Pineapples are best when the edges of the top are smooth; in inferior qualities the tops are of the saw edged variety. Celery is good when it breaks without much bending. Asparagus should be quite stiff. Nuts cannot be judged very correctly until they are opened, but they should be of good weight and not too hard to crack.

How to Find Health In Vegetables.

Onions and radishes are preventives of colds and sore throat. Olive oil is much more healthful than meat fats for cooking, is easier on digestive organs, if you get it pure. To take a spoonful after a meal is recommended. In California invalids drink olive oil a cupful at a time.

How to Clean Oily Bottles.

To clean oily cruet bottles put a few strips of blotting paper into the bottle with a little warm water and an equal quantity of vinegar and add a piece of washing soda. Shake a few times and then rinse in warm water.

HERCULANEUM.

Its Destruction Came From a Deluge of Lava Water.

Herculaneum, in Italy, is one of those ancient cities which have not only been buried, but actually forgotten, for ages. The town, supposed to be of Etruscan origin, lies on the Campanian plain at the foot of its destroyer, Vesuvius, almost midway between Naples and Pompeii.

What caused the catastrophe of the year 79 A. D.? Geologists have come to the help of the archaeologists, and it is now held that the destruction of Herculaneum was somewhat different from that of Pompeii, although Pompeii was also covered and buried and the general effects were the same in both instances. In the case of Pompeii the city was overwhelmed by the shower of small stones from the volcano and the subsequent rain of ashes, but Herculaneum seems to have been deluged with "water lava," and far fewer people were able to make their escape from the city than from Pompeii.

It is the theory that the steam from the crater turned into rain, and, mixing with the volcanic dust, formed a huge volume of muddy torrent. This gathered other soil as it poured over the land, raised the level of the country more than sixty-five feet and finally left a mass of compacted tufa. This torrent ran on to the sea, making its own channel and forming a kind of lagoon around the previously safe harbor which entirely prevented any ships from approaching the place thereafter. —Chicago News.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Dr. A. B. Packard has returned from his vacation at Old Orchard Beach.

Mrs. George T. Magee left today for a few days' visit to Brant Rock, Mass.

Miss Helen M. Sprague of Park street, is spending a few days with relatives in Milton.

Miss Mary Michael and sister Isabelle of Hardwick, Vt., are guests of relatives in this city.

Frank Waterhouse of Lincoln avenue is driving a fine touring car which he has recently purchased.

The street railway ran a special trolley excursion to Highland Park today. The special car left City square at 9.50.

Reginald Sprague of Park street returned last week from a six weeks' cruise to the Provinces and New York.

Mrs. Clinton Jones and daughter Ruth of Arlington street have returned from a very pleasant stay at Christmas Cove, Me.

Councilman Chamberlain of Park street, who has been very ill this summer, has just returned from a sojourn in Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Davidson of Marion street are receiving congratulations, a daughter being born to them last Sunday.

Mrs. Chandler W. Smith of Arlington street has been spending a few days with her son and his wife in New Rochelle, N. Y.

Miss Margaret Sibley of Grand View avenue has returned from Point Allerton, where she has had a delightful summer's outing.

Fred Leavitt and David Farrell two popular sporting men of Willard street have gone to Warren, N. H., for a long fishing trip. The lake at Warren has an abundant supply of trout and perch and their friends are expecting big consignments of these delicious fish. Mr. Leavitt and Mr. Farrell will stay with Mr. H. H. Washburn who once lived in West Quincy and from his letters a big time is planed.

MARVEL WINS.

A Number of Quincy Boats in Races at Wellfleet.

The Marvel added another victory to its list in the races at Wellfleet on Monday, winning in the cape cat class by 50 seconds.

The weather conditions were fine, and the contests in the different classes close, and exciting. The wind was from the northeast, and of sufficient strength to send the rails under, and during the early part of the race most of the boats went away will reefed.

Another series of races are being held today. The summary of Monday's race:

| Name and owner. | Actual time. h. m. s. | Corrected time. h. m. s. |
|---|---|---|
| Marvel, I. M. Whittemore | 2 16 19 | 2 13 25 |

| Notorus, C. O. Whiting | did not finish | |
| Goblin, R. M. Lothrop | withdrew | |

TODAY'S COURT.

Clarence Falconer was arraigned for assault on Max Steer at Quincy. He was fined $10.

J. F. Moriarty was arraigned for assault at Braintree. Case continued until Sept. 1.

—Carrie Nation says Gov. Folk is a lobster, which shows bad taste on her part, but it is certain his vigorous reform administration sets heavily on the Missouri democratic stomach.

DIED.

SHAW—In Braintree, Aug. 28, Miss Jennie A. Shaw of 659 Washington street, aged 17 years and 8 months.

DYEING.

In case of mourning, Clothes Dyed Fast Black and finished in from 3 to 5 days, at Warshaw's Quincy Steam Dye House.

Established 1892.

1503 Hancock street, Quincy.

TRUNK RIFLED.

Sneak Thief About Early This Morning.

Teddy Coleman, coachman for Hugh Tracy, reported this morning that the trunk at his boarding house had been broken open and rifled of a suit of clothing, $2 in money and an alarm clock.

When Coleman went to work this morning the articles were in his trunk. Returning to his room an hour later he found that the trunk had been broken open and the articles mentioned above carried away.

State Population 3,000,000.

Chief Pidgin of the census bureau gives his complete tabulations for the State to the public, all except Boston, which remains to be counted. With all the counties complete, except Suffolk, in which Chelsea, Revere and Winthrop are included, the population of the state is 2,405,558, as against 2,003,263 by the census of 1895, showing a gain of 402,295 in the 10 years. By the United States census of 1900 the population of Massachusetts, without Boston was 2,244,454.

Upon the basis of 12 1-2 per cent. average increase, taking the census of 1900, which gave to Boston 560,892, the population of the city this year would be 631,003. It is not anticipated by those in charge of the tabulation that the count of Boston's population will reach those figures, but it is anticipated that the aggregate for the state will slightly pass the 3,000,000 mark.

The footings of the counties, without the tabulation for Boston, but including Chelsea, Revere and Winthrop, show the following as the population of the commonwealth:

| Counties. | Males. | Females. | Totals. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Barnstable | 13,066 | 13,765 | 26,831 |
| Berkshire | 48,221 | 51,069 | 98,290 |
| Bristol | 129,780 | 139,225 | 269,005 |
| Dukes | 2,210 | 2,341 | 4,551 |
| Essex | 187,505 | 193,411 | 380,916 |

| Totals | 1,170,959 | 1,234,599 | 2,405,558 |

*Boston omitted.

It is not expected to obtain the complete count of Boston for some days yet—perhaps not until after Labor day. The work of tabulation is necessarily more complicated.

The footings of the 32 cities outside of Boston are as follows:

| Cities. | Totals. | Gain. | Percent. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Beverly | 15,222 | 3,416 | 28.93 |

*Loss.

It will be noted that Brockton makes the largest percentage of gain of any city in the State; and Quincy is number four in percentage of gain.

The Faxon house on Hancock street occupied by Dr. Garey is being slated.

Mortgagee's Sale.

BY Virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Filomene Ferrari and Annibal Ferrari, her husband, both of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts to John H. ## FOUND IN QUINCY.

Horse Stolen by Hull Burglars.

The horse stolen from Hull by burglars Sunday night was found Monday by the Quincy police in an orchard on Atlantic street.

The burglars who entered the Hull postoffice stole a horse and buggy and made their escape. It is then reported that the parties drove to another stable where they exchanged horses.

It then appears that they drove toward Boston passing through Quincy between four and five o'clock Monday morning. When Atlantic was reached the outfit was turned loose and the parties proceeded to Boston by street cars.

The Quincy police were notified about 10.30 Monday morning to look out for the parties.

They had been gone some time, however. A little later the horse was recovered.

A Syndicate for Marrying.

A former wife of Dr. G. A. Witzhoff, the arch bigamist, has identified his picture as being that of a man who, under many names, had married at least 20 girls of the east side of New York and who was one of many men who for years had been marrying women for the purpose of robbery.

The statement of the young woman was taken at length by Benjamin Franklin, lawyer for Dora Dorff, a deserted wife.

The fact developed also that there were in the number of men who made up the marriage syndicate of which Witzhoff seemed to be the head, at least 27 members, and that they had married during the last few years at least 500 girls, and that in every case the wives were deserted at the earliest possible moment after their money and jewels had been taken.

The woman who so positively identified a picture of Dr. Witzhoff as the man who married and then deserted her after taking about $800 of her money, is Sophie Youcker, who lives in Broome street, and who, when Lawyer Franklin showed her a picture taken in Minneapolis of Witzhoff, said that it was without doubt the photograph of her missing husband.

Miss Youcker said she knew that after he assumed at different times the names of Abraham, Kreiger, Horowitz, Glucker, Shawartz, Cohen, Cahn, Goldstein and Stein, and that under one or the other of these names he married different girls, only to rob and desert them at the first opportunity.

Under the name of Goldstein the man married Rebecca David of 294 Stanton street. He married a week later another girl named "Rebecca," who lived in Attorney street, and in 10 days deserted and robbed each woman.

These marriages were all arranged through a schatchen, or marriage broker. The broker participated in the plunder.

No Coal Strike.

President Baer of the Reading Railroad Company, does not expect a strike in the anthracite region. He believes the miners are better satisfied with present conditions, and will make a peaceful adjustment of the wage scale for another term of years. The coal interests will certainly do their part to avert a strike.

THE BRITISH MUSEUM.

Its Reading Room and the Thousands of Books It Contains.

In the reading room of the British museum desks are crowded with students all day long, and in addition to the books of reference, some 20,000 in number, which fill the open shelves of the room, from three to four thousand volumes are given out every day. Theology in a wide sense, including the Bible, Biblical literature, church history and works on the religious rites and ceremonies of all races and creeds, is easily at the head of the list, with about 300 volumes. Topography comes next, with about twenty fewer, and of these books on London amount to a quarter, books on English topography to another quarter, the other half being for the rest of the world. History and biography come next, English history being mostly in demand, and books on France and the French provinces second. Essays, criticism and miscellaneous literature take the fourth place and are followed by fiction—not less than five years old—moral philosophy, poetry and the fine arts, the drama, law and philology, political economy and so on down to politics, mathematics and chemistry, which have about forty volumes apiece, and, lastly, works on naval and military subjects, which seldom have more than three or four volumes each. It is a curious list and throws a useful light on the sort of studies taken up by the readers in the museum.—London Globe.

THE DOG'S EYE.

Watch That, Not the Mouth, For Symptoms of Hydrophobia.

As dogs do not perspire, the only relief they seem to get when overheated is from inhaling cool air through their wide open mouths in short, puffy breaths. The friction between tongue and lips caused by their rapid, laborious breathing produces saliva, which is sometimes ignorantly diagnosed as rabies, one of the symptoms of hydrophobia. Many innocent victims have lost their lives on account of such stupidity.

If your dog should feel ill, sick with some ordinary ailment, he will wag welcome to you with a sad, pitiful expression, looking up inquiringly as if asking for help and relief. If it has come to the worst and he feels by instinct the germs of the dreaded disease in his frame, his action will be entirely different. You will find him with low bent head, withholding his usual glad welcome, hardly noticing or glancing at you.

If your eye meet his, the restless, nervous, strange expression will startle you. The dog, feeling his doom, is conscious of approaching danger and would like to prepare and warn you. These unmistakable and easily recognized signs should be watched closely and always heeded. Corner the dog at once and, with the help of a broom or barn fork, keep him at a safe distance until locked up.—Country Calendar.

THE SCOTS GRAYS.

Regiment of Dragoons Famous Since the Time of Charles II.

"Second to none" is the proud motto of the gallant and famous regiment, the Second Dragoon guards, or Royal Scots Grays. It is a happily chosen motto, for the fame of the regiment is worldwide. Its brilliant achievements on the field of battle during two centuries, its striking and historic name, its grand and imposing uniform have made the Royal Scots Grays, as an individual corps, there is no gainsaying, the most widely known and familiar of all the regiments of the British army.

Since the regiment was raised, in the reign of the second Charles, the dragoons have borne themselves well in many a famous field, but want of space forbids us to note the exploits until "earth shaking" Waterloo came on the glory roll of the gallant grays. Here, with the English "Royals" and Irish "Inniskillings," they formed the famous union brigade which made the never to be forgotten picture of the "Fight For the Standard." That widely known picture shows a man of the grays, Sergeant Ewart, capturing the eagle of a very famous French corps, the Forty-fifth of the line.—Scottish American.

Misers of Words.

We have the richest language that ever a people has accreted, and we use it as if it were the poorest. We hoard up our infinite wealth of words between the boards of dictionaries and in speech dole out the worn bronze coinage of our vocabulary. We are the misers of philological history, and when we can save our pennies and pass the counterfeit coin of slang we are as happy as if we heard a blind beggar thank us for putting a pewter sixpence into his hat.—"Morals of Marcus Ordeyne."

It Depends.

The Inquiring Boy—How long a time is a jiffy, father? The Perspicacious Parent—It depends on whose jiffy it is, my son. When a woman is putting on her bonnet and says she'll be ready in a jiffy, it means from fifteen minutes to two hours. A man's jiffy is from one to five minutes.—London Answers.

External Evidence.

Teacher—Of what country is the rhinoceros a native? Willie—England. Teacher—Oh, no! What makes you think so? Willie—Th' way his clothes fit 'im.—Cleveland Leader.

Inference.

Grayce—I know something about Mabel. Gladys—What is it? Grayce—I will never, never tell. Gladys—Oh, you know something good about her, eh?—Pittsburg Post.

"HOMELESS TWENTY-SIX."

Lonely Traveling Men's Organization Forms Branch Society at Chicago.

"The Homeless Twenty-Six," whose regular habitat, as nearly as can be determined, is somewhere within Pittsburg, Pa., recently sent two wandering delegates to Chicago to organize some of the floating population of that city into a local branch, apparently for no other reason than that misery loves company, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

Contrary to what might be expected, the society, although labeled "homeless" and identified by a strange, unintelligible badge worn by the members which looks like an algebraic formula, is not composed of "Wandering Willies" and dusty tie pacers, but is made up of traveling, business and professional men.

Twenty-six is the mystic number, because twenty-six traveling men, unable to reach their homes last Thanksgiving, which was on Nov. 26, ate dinner together at a hotel in Pittsburg and became the charter members. From a membership of twenty-six the organization has increased to 6,500, with branches in several large cities. The intention of the members is to add Chicago to the list.

W. S. Williams and Hiram Schoch of Pittsburg, who are themselves of the original twenty-six, a few nights ago gathered together a hundred or more of the outcasts of Chicago who wear the badge of the homeless and laid plans for regular gatherings, with headquarters at the Auditorium. No announcement was made as to who will be the executive head of the nomads, but undoubtedly it will be some prominent Chicago business or professional man.

"We first felt the need of an organization like this to promote sociability among traveling men when the original twenty-six found themselves stranded in Pittsburg last Thanksgiving," said Mr. Schoch.

"We wanted to enjoy our dinner in congenial company and got together for that purpose. Our stomachs started the movement, but our hearts were back of it and we are using our heads to make a success of the organization."

THE TWO MYSTERIES.

A Poem on Death by the Late Mary Mapes Dodge.

The death of Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, editor, writer of stories and poet, which occurred recently, gives touching appropriateness to this very human poem by her on death, which, by the way, has been widely attributed to Walt Whitman, says the New York Globe.

THE TWO MYSTERIES.

[In the middle of the room, near the coffin, sat Walt Whitman, holding a beautiful little girl on his lap. She looked wonderingly at the spectacle of death and then inquiringly into the face of the aged poet. "You don't know what it is, do you, my dear?" said he, and added, "We don't either."]

We know not what it is, dear, this sleep
so deep and still;
The folded hands, the awful calm, the cheek so pale and chill;
The lids that will not lift again, though
we may call and call;
The strange white solitude of peace that settles over all.

We know not what it means, dear, this desolate heart pain;
This dread to take our daily way and walk in it again;
We know not to what other sphere the loved who leave us go
Nor why we're left to wonder still not why we do not know.

But this we know: Our loved and dead, if they should come this day—
Should come and ask us, "What is life?"
not one of us could say.
Life is a mystery as deep as ever death can be,
Yet, oh, how dear it is to us, this life we live and see!

Then might they say—these vanished ones
—and blessed is the thought:
"So death is sweet to us, beloved, though
we may show you naught.
We may not to the quick reveal the mystery of death;
Ye cannot tell us, if ye would, the mystery of breath."

The child who enters life comes not with knowledge or intent;
So all who enter death must go as little children sent.
Nothing is known, but, nearing God, what hath the soul to dread?
And as life is to the living so death is to the dead.

Bertillon's "Speaking Portraits."

M. Bertillon, who created the anthropometric method of identifying criminals, superintended some fresh methods at the Palais de Justice recently, says the Washington Post's special correspondent at Paris. The innovation is known as the "speaking portrait." One hundred and two members of the detective and other services were present. To each one was given a verbal "portrait"—that is to say, a description of one of his colleagues present—and he was asked to find in the assembly the one to whom the portrait applied. The experiments were highly satisfactory. Nearly all the detectives found their man. M. Bertillon was warmly congratulated by Signor Nicefero, professor of criminology at the University of Naples, who witnessed the tests, which took place in public.

Benevolence on a Yacht.

The Rev. J. Antle, a Canadian missionary, is a smart yacht skipper. Dr. Hutton, formerly of the Garfield Memorial hospital in Washington, knows engineering. Together they are conducting a benevolent quest in the logging and fishing camps about Vancouver, says the New York World. Mr. Antle had a craft built at a cost of $4,000 to serve as a floating church and hospital. Her cabin holds a congregation of sixty. She has two hospital beds, medicines and operating tools. If these are not sufficient the Columbia can carry ill or injured men to a base hospital at Rock Bay. The skipper is the preacher; the doctor is the engineer. One deckhand and a cook complete the crew.

WOMAN AND FASHION

An Attractive Garment.

Nothing appeals to the dainty woman more surely than tasteful negligees. This one is made of white lawn with trimming of embroidery and can be utilized either for the hours of relaxation in one's own room or for the family breakfast table, being essentially graceful and becoming. The material and the embroidery are both attractive and practical, inasmuch as they launder admirably well, but there are many pretty flowered batistes, organdies and the like which make exceedingly attractive garments of the sort, and wash silk also is much used, while trimming can be lace frills or almost anything that may be preferred, while it may be well to add that for the cooler days or for the trip to the mountains or the seashore challie, albatross and the like are much to be commended. For the medium size will be required 4¼ yards of material 27, 3¾ yards 32, or 2⅝ yards 44 inches wide, with 7⅛ yards of insertion and 2¼ yards of embroidery for frills.

Reds Much In Vogue.

The reds most in vogue just now are the tomato and geranium colors. The red of the gardenia is also worn and the matchless red of the camellia. These shades are seen everywhere and in everything, but particularly is the red of the geranium worn a great deal, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The most popular red for gowns is cerise. This lovely French shade, familiar to all, comes in cloth of so soft and lovely a tone that it fairly pleads to be purchased. There is a cerise cashmere which cannot be equaled for loveliness. It makes up very well indeed with a deep green and is very ladylike when subdued with dark green leather and with dark green bands of stitched cloth.

The Handkerchief Sleeve.

Pretty kimonos always offer an attractive field for the woman who can construct, and one of the prettiest summer arrangements is achieved in the handkerchief sleeve. It is a large square of the material—say white lawn—bordered with colored lawn or trimmed with a straight edge of embroidery. The square should be as large as a man's largest sized handkerchief, and the circular piece for the armhole is cut a little to one side of the center so as to leave the greatest length of the sleeve on top.

In the French Style.

Long waisted or French dresses are very generally becoming to little girls in addition to being in the height of style. This one is unusually attractive because of its big yoke collar, with wide frill, and is made of Persian lawn combined with embroidery, but it is suited to almost all childish materials. The yoke collar is a feature, and a most attractive one, but nevertheless is not obligatory, as it can be omitted and the plain yoke substituted. In the case of the lawn there is no body lin ing used, but the model will be found practical for the dresses of cooler weather as well as for those of immediate use, and when cashmere, challie and the like are the materials chosen the lining is in every way desirable. For a child of six years will be required 3⅝ yards of material 27, 3 yards 32, or 2½ yards 44 inches wide, with one-half yard 18 inches wide for the yoke and 1¾ yards of embroidery and 2 yards of banding.

NEW TEACHERS

Elected at Meeting of the School Committee.

W. H. Bentley New Master at Coddington

Pensions for Teachers Would Require Special Act.

A regular meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening, the first since the summer vacation. Messrs. Hallowell, Burke, Churchill, Hunting and Smith were present.

WORKS OF ART.

A communication was received from Frank F. Prescott relative to the works of art won in the recent Herald contest for the Quincy schools.

It was voted to accept the works with thanks and to distribute them according to the wishes of the committee on contest.

MISS DEARBORN.

Resolutions were passed on the resignation of Miss Mary E. Dearborn as master of the Coddington school.

PENSIONS ILLEGAL.

A communication was received from the City Solicitor giving his opinion in the matter of pensioning school teachers. The opinion stated that it could not be done except by special act of the Legislature.

TEACHERS.

The following resignation of teachers were accepted: High school,—Percy F. Parsons, sub-master; Bion C. Merry, Herman Gammons, Lindol E. French, Martha L. Desmond.

Gridley Bryant school,—Elizabeth B. Thomas.

Lincoln school,—Grace L. Durgin.

The following named teachers were elected:

High school,—Melvin T. Holbrook, sub-master; Clarence I. Lewis, Annie M. Cheever, George A. Rice, Alice A. Todd.

Coddington school,—Walter H. Bentley, master.

Ruth A. Taylor was transferred from the Coddington school to the position of master's assistant at the Massachusetts Fields school.

Isabel Moir of the Lincoln school was granted leave of absence for the month of September, and S. Jean Smith of the Massachusetts Fields until Jan. 1, 1906.

FINANCES.

The financial statement to date was reported as follows:

| | Appropriation. | Expended. | Balance. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Salaries, | $88,632.00 | $52,987.60 | $35,644.40 |

Twentieth Annual Reunion.

Tuesday, the 29th, at the hotel Nantasket, the twentieth annual reunion of Co. A., First Battalion Mass. Vol. Heavy Artillery, was held. First on the program there was an enthusiastic business meeting at 11.30 and the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year:

Honorary president, —Maj. Stephen Cabot, Brookline.

President,—James S. Beal, Cohasset.

Vice Presidents —James Green, Franklin; George W. Hoyt, Merrimac; Charles T. Stetson, Boston.

Secretary and Treasurer,—Benjamin J. Loring, East Braintree.

Mr. Loring endeavored to have a new secretary chosen that he might be relieved of some of his numerous duties but the veterans insisted that he should serve them longer. Let us here state that Mr. Loring is exceedingly popular among his comrades whom he has served as secretary and treasurer for twenty years. He is the man for that position.

The meeting adjourned at one o'clock and the gentlemen and ladies, about 100 in number, proceeded to the Rockland cafe where a bountiful dinner was served. The afternoon was then spent in a social way.

Contract Signed.

The Newell & Snowling Construction Co. have just signed a contract for completion of the boulevard from Atlantic street to Merrymount Park and the Metropolitan Park Commission reports that work will begin at once.

STRANGER WON.

Only a Few Seconds Separated Three Yachts.

The Cape catboats had another very close race on Tuesday at the regatta under the auspices of the Wellfleet Yacht club. The Arawah was leading on the last round, but was dismasted and withdrew. The Marvel was the first to cross the line at the finish, but corrected time put the Stranger of Quincy first and the Hustler of Quincy second.

The summary follow:

| Yacht and owner | Actual time. h. m. s. | Corrected time. h. m s. |
|---|---|---|
| Stranger, F. E. Dawes | 2 22 25 | 2 18 19 |
| Hustler, H. W. Robbins | 2 22 16 | 2 18 35 |
| Marvel, I. M. Whittemore | 2 21 52 | 2 18 58 |
| Moondyne, Shaw brothers | 2 25 31 | 2 23 43 |
| Arawah, H. C. Nickerson. | Dismasted | |
| Notorus, H. C. Whitney | Withdrew | |

In Class E. the order was Tyro, Rube, Nutmeg and Medric.

In Class I,—Hayseed, Osprey and Mirage.

Tomorrow there will be a race at Plymouth.

—Tuesday night the greatest searchlight in the world flashed from Pike's Peak, Colorado. Its light carries 280 miles. It is built on a tract 120 feet in circumference with rotating contact, and has an electric light plant all its own.

Teachers are invited to inspect the newly renovated rooms at the Hancock House. Mrs. W. Rollins Abrams will make special effort to furnish to suit, and give a pleasant home at moderate cost to teachers or students. tf

LARGEST IN THE U. S. NAVY.

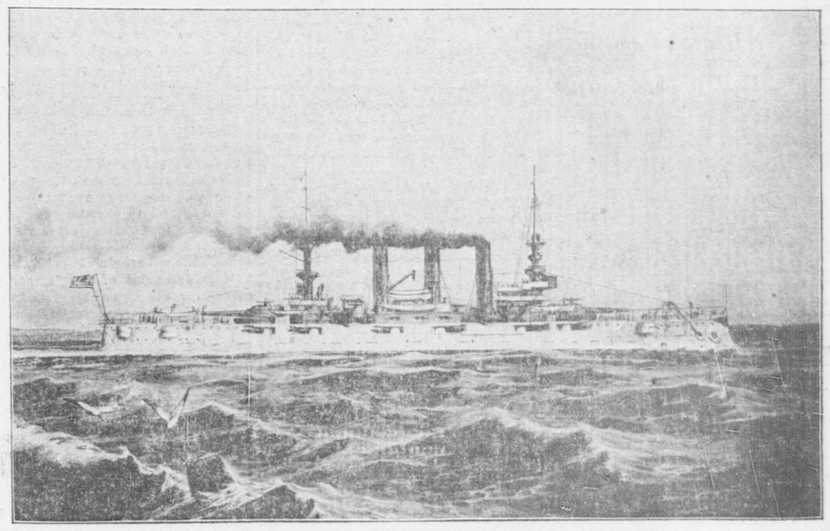
Great Battleship Vermont to be Launched at Quincy Tomorrow.



THE VERMONT AS SHE WILL APPEAR COMPLETED.

Thousands are looking forward to tomorrow when the battleship Vermont, the largest war vessels ever built, will be launched at the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. plant.

The hour set for the launching is 10.30, and it will probably not be many minutes from that time when she will slide into the water and will have been named by Miss Jennie Bell, daughter of Gov. Bell of Vermont.

The official Vermont party will arrive in Boston tonight and will be entertained at the Somerset.

Tomorrow morning at 9.30 they will leave in a special train which will take them directly to the yards.

The launching stand for the christening party, and the two stands for the Vermont association and Daughters of Vermont have already been erected and are being decorated with flags and bunting.

After the launch a lunch will be served by the Fore River officials in the mold loft. It is expected that there will be brief addresses by Gov. Bell and Gov. Douglas, Senator Lodge, President Bowles and others.

The battleship Vermont, which will be launched tomorrow at the Fore River Shipyard, is one of the largest and most powerful battleships ever built for the navy. Her general dimensions are as follows:

Length of load waterline, 450 feet; breadth, extreme, at load waterline, 76 10-12 feet; displacement, 16,000 tons; mean draught to bottom of keel, 24 1-2 feet; gross draught, full load, about 26 3-4 feet; total bunker capacity, 2,000 tons.

The requirements call for a trial speed at sea for four hours of 18 knots.

The hull is of steel throughout, fitted with docking and bilge keels.

In the main battery there will be four 12-inch breech-loading rifles, eight 8-inch breech-loading rifles, 12 7-inch breech-loading rifles; secondary battery, 12 three-inch, 14-pounder rapid-fire guns, 12 three-pounder and semi-automatic guns, six one-pounder automatic guns, two one-pounder semi-automatic guns, two three-inch field-pieces, two machine guns, calibre .30 and six automatic guns, calibre .30.

The arrangement of the battery is as follows:

The 12-inch guns in pairs in two electrically controlled, balanced, elliptical turrets on the center line, one forward and one aft, each with an arc of fire of about 270 degrees.

The 8-inch guns in pairs in four electrically controlled balanced, elliptical turrets, two on each beam, at each end of the superstructure.

The 7-inch guns in broadside on pedestal mounts on the gun deck behind 7-inch armor, each gun being isolated by splinter bulkheads of nickel steel of from 1 1-2 to 2 inches thick; forward and after guns arranged to fire right ahead and right astern, respectively; other 7-inch guns to have the usual broadside train.

The guns of the secondary battery in commanding positions, have a large arc of unobstructed fire, and protected wherever practicable.

All the 7-inch guns are so arranged that their muzzles train inside the line of the side armor, thus leaving a clear and unobstructed side when it is desired to go alongside a pier or vessel.

Arrangements will be made whereby the 3-inch guns on the main deck can be quickly and conveniently dismounted, housed and secured.

HULL ARMOR.

The hull is protected at the waterline by a complete belt of armor nine feet three inches wide, having a maximum thickness of 11 inches for about 200 feet amidships. Forward and aft of this the maximum thickness is nine inches within the limits of magazine, from which points the thickness is gradually decreased to four inches at the stem and stern.

The lower casemate armor extends to the limits of the magazine spaces and reaches from the top of the waterline belt to the lower edge of the seven-inch gun ports on the main deck, and is six inches in thickness, the athwartship bulkheads at the ends of this casemate also being six inches thick.

The casemate armor around the seven-inch guns on the gun deck is seven inches thick, and the splinter bulkheads from one and one-half to two inches thick. The protection of three-inch guns is nickel steel two inches thick.

The upper casemate athwartship armor extending from the shell plating to the 12-inch barbettes is seven inches thick throughout.

The 12-inch barbettes extend from the protective deck to about four feet above the main deck, and consist of 10 inches of armor in front and seven and one-half inches in the rear above the gun deck. Between the gun deck and protective deck there is a uniform thickness of six inches.

The 12-inch turrets have a front plate 12 inches thick, rear plates eight inches thick and top plates 2 1-2 inches thick.

The eight-inch barbettes are six inches thick in front and four inches thick in the rear, with the upper tube 3 3-4 inches thick and the lower tube three inches thick.

The eight-inch turret front plate is 6 1-2 inches thick, the rear plate six inches thick and the top plates two inches thick.

The conning tower and shield are each nine inches thick and the signal tower six inches thick. An armor tube 36 inches in diameter extends from the base of the conning tower to the protective deck, and is six inches thick throughout.

There is a complete protective deck extending from stem to stern, the deck being flat amidships but sloped at the sides throughout and sloped at each end; built up of 20-pound plating throughout, with nickel steel of 40 pounds on the flat and of 100 pounds on the slopes.

The magazines and shell rooms are so arranged that about one-half the total supply of ammunition will be carried at each end of the ship.

EQUIPMENT.

The engines will be of the vertical, twin screw, four-cylinder, triple expansion type, of a combined I. H. P. of 16,500. The steam pressure will be 250 pounds. The stroke will be four feet. The ratio of high pressure to low pressure cylinder will be at least 1 to 7, and the diameters will be sufficient for the required I. H. P. at about 120 revolutions per minute. Each engine will be located in a separate watertight compartment.

There will be 12 boilers of the Babcock and Wilcox type, placed in six water-tight compartments. They will have at least 1100 square feet of grate and 40,750 square feet of heating surface, and must be able to furnish steam for the main engines and all the necessary auxiliary machinery and other steam machinery throughout the ship with an average air pressure in the ash pits of not more than one inch of water.

The vessel is to be heated by steam and lighted by electricity. The electric plant will consist of eight 100-kilowatt steam-driven generating sets, all to be of 125 volts' pressure to the terminals, disposed in two separate and independent dynamo rooms. Ice and evaporating plants will be part of the equipment, and there will be telephones, automatic fire alarm warning signals, alarm signals, etc.

All main compartments of the ship below the gun deck, except the coal bunkers, are to be provided with forced ventilation, and there will be 33 blowers with a combined capacity of not less than 104,000 cubic feet per minute. The ventilation system is designed to cut the minimum number of water-tight bulkheads. All blowers, except forced draught blowers, are to be electrically operated.

The vessel is designed as a flagship, and the arrangement of quarters will provide ample accommodations for a flag officer, chief of staff, 19 wardroom officers, 10 junior officers, 10 warrant officers and not less than 761 men, including 60 marines.

There is a lower bridge forward and aft and a flying bridge forward. On the flying bridge is fitted a screen of bronze for the protection of the men at the wheel, and there is also a bronze chart house forward.

There are steel masts forward and aft, the foremast having an upper and lower top, the mainmast a lower top only. Masts are arranged for wireless telegraphy. There is one signal yard on each mast; also a searchlight platform forward and aft, with a crow's nest on the foremast. The vessel has been constructed under the direction of Supt. H. G. Smith of the Fore River plant.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ After having for 35 years paid its employes in checks drawn on banks near the company's offices and shops, the Pennsylvania has decided to return temporarily at least to payments direct by cash. The change will affect 120,000 men. When the check system was instituted it was thought that the distribution of wages in this form would make the superintendents personally acquainted with their men, but the vast growth in the number of employes has prevented the carrying out of this object.

Prof. Snyder.

The Middletown Pa. Daily Journal of Monday had the following complimentary notice of Quincy's popular organist:

"The large audience room in the St. Peter's Lutheran church was well filled at the evening service Sunday night, when a fine musical programme was rendered by Prof. Landis Snyder, Master John Smith and Miss May King, and a very excellent sermon on 'Being God's and Serving God' was delivered by Rev. S. T. Nicholas. Prof. Snyder has many admirers in town and the announcement that he will preside at one of the organs always draws a large crowd. Master Smith and Miss King, likewise, are very popular with our people and their singing last night was no exception to what they have done on previous occasions and they again won many laurels."

Squantum Yacht Club.

The Squantum Yacht club has arranged for a series of dances to be held at the club house during the fall months. The first will be held this week.

These dancing parties have been very popular in the past and have served to bring out a large number of the members with their ladies.

Base Ball.

Young Woggle Bugs of Water street defeated the Walk Overs in the tenth inning by a score of 7 to 6. The runs were made by Schwart 4, Martin 2, Mitchell 1, of the Woggle Bugs. For the Walk Overs, Stuart 2, McVay 1, McIntyre 1, Carlson 1, T. Carlson 1.

The battery for Walk Overs were Booth and McVay. The battery for Woggle Bugs were Neal and Andrew. The Umpires were Dackers and Jenkins. Jenkins was put out in the third innings.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?

If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Canthrarides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots.

It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

GIVING THE NEWS

First Message of Peace Was Sent to Roosevelt

PIERCE WAS SURPRISED

President's Representative the First One Outside Conference Room to Learn Decision--The News Quickly Sped Around the World

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 30.—Herbert H. D. Peirce, the president's representative at the conference, was the first person outside the conference room to be informed of the peace of Portsmouth. For half an hour he was the only one besides the plenipotentiaries and their secretaries who knew it. By agreement, the plenipotentiaries decided that the first message announcing the conclusion of peace should be sent to President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, and, in the hope that he might receive the news even before Tokio or St. Petersburg, he held the official bulletin for half an hour.

Mr. Peirce had delivered to Baron Komura in the morning a communication from the president which had arrived after the conference began its session. It was just 11 o'clock when Komura was called from the conference room to receive this message, the contents of which are not known and about which it would be idle to speculate. Exactly an hour later Komura sent one of his secretaries to Peirce's office in the same building, saying he wished to see him. Mr. Peirce immediately responded and met Komura in the latter's private reception room, supposing he was to receive a reply to the president's message. He was wholly unprepared for the momentous news which Komura gave him.

Without the slightest evidence of emotion of any kind, Komura quietly said: "Will you be good enough, Mr. Secretary, to communicate to the president this message on behalf of the Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries? We desire that he should be the first to receive the news. We have reached an agreement on all points and will proceed to the elaboration of a treaty."

For a moment the two stood silently looking at each other, but only for a moment. Mr. Peirce quickly recovered from his amazement and extended to Komura his congratulations and at once hurried to his office, where he personally began the coding of the message for the president. He was assisted by his two secretaries, but the work naturally required some little time. Although the message was confined to a brief recital of the fact that an agreement had been reached and of its terms, before the dispatch had cleared the wire here the operators heard congratulatory messages going over the wire to the president.

In the meantime Komura had returned to the conference room and with Witte had prepared the brief statement for the press. Having then allowed an hour's time, it was decided to communicate the good tidings to the world, and Mr. Korostovetz, one of the Russian secretaries, telephoned the statement to the hotel. There was no coding of this message; it went like wildfire around the world and naturally reached the president long before the official dispatch.

When they returned to the hotel for luncheon Witte prepared and sent to the president a message of gratitude and congratulation. He spoke as the plenipotentiary of the emperor and voiced the gratitude of the whole Russian people for the president's efforts.

How impossible it is for any one to satisfy all sides has been illustrated by the receipt by both Witte and Komura of severe criticisms of their respective parts in the day's work. Hundreds of congratulatory messages poured in from all over the world, but mixed with them are criticisms which charge both Witte and Komura with yielding too much.

The two dispatches most appreciated arrived just before dinner from the president. One was for the Russian and the other for the Japanese plenipotentiaries. They have not been made public, but their contents have been communicated to St. Petersburg and Tokio and Komura and Witte have acknowledged the messages with expressions of their heartfelt thanks, again assuring the president that his is the credit and the glory for the peace of Portsmouth.

At the luncheon at the navy yard Messrs. Peirce, Komura and Takahira sat alone at one table, the Russian and Japanese secretaries sitting together at the other table. There were no toasts, no jubilation. The spell of the morning session was still upon them and it was difficult in that moment for the Russians and Japanese to realize that the war was really over.

No Comment From President

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 30.—President Roosevelt received notice of the peace agreement in the form of an official cipher dispatch from Portsmouth. It was sent at the instance of Baron Komura. While the president had been hopeful that such an agreement would be reached, he was surprised that it had come so soon. He expressed to his family his gratification that a peaceful solution of the differences had been reached. He excused himself, however, from making any statement formal in its nature regarding the action of the conferees until he should have been informed officially of that action.

It can be said that the president regards his work incident to the conference as quite as important from the standpoint of humanity and civilization as that in which any President of the United States ever was engaged.

The president, it may be said authoritatively, appealed for peace not only to Emperor Nicholas, but also to the Japanese government. These appeals, while made directly to the emperors of the warring powers, were transmitted also to the envoys of the respective governments at Portsmouth in order to preserve the form of diplomatic etiquette and avoid any possibility of giving offense.

Surprise at St Petersburg

St. Petersburg, Aug. 30.—The news of the result of the peace conference came as an electric surprise, as official and diplomatic circles had been practically without hopes of peace. The result has only become known to comparatively few persons.

Wherever the news was known surprise and even amazement was expressed that Japan had so completely met the Russian demands, but the reception of the news, so far as it had gone up to the time this dispatch was filed, was calm and even apathetic. The foreign office was dark all night, thus giving no evidence that the news had been officially received there.

Wise and Business-Like Course

London, Aug. 30.—In all official circles, in the clubs and elsewhere, the announcement of the terms of the peace agreement came as such a complete surprise that responsible persons declined to express definite opinions until more information regarding the terms has been received. It is conceded everywhere that President Roosevelt is deserving of full measure of credit for his share in the outcome.

The morning papers, while sharing the astonishment of the public at the unexpected nature of the peace terms, accord the greatest praise to Japan for having chosen so magnanimous a course. All the papers express gratitude to President Roosevelt and admiration of his untiring zeal, giving him full credit for being "the one man who made peace possible."

English papers which have been strong pro-Japanese throughout the negotiations express disappointment at Japan's failure to be reimbursed for the expenses of the war. At the same time several of them admit that she perhaps has chosen the wiser and more businesslike course.

Roosevelt the Main Factor

Paris, Aug. 30.—The unwavering conviction of France that President Roosevelt's noble initiative would culminate in peace has received its reward. Members of the diplomatic corps and high officials of the government unanimously express the keenest satisfaction that the heavy strain and anxiety has been removed. President Roosevelt is generally considered to have been the main factor in bringing about the happy results.

Vienna Is Amazed

Vienna, Aug. 30.—The news of the conclusion of peace through Japanese concessions was totally unexpected here, and was received with amazement, so great that many persons are still of the opinion that the publication of the terms will show that Russia has made some valuable concessions. Great praise is given to President Roosevelt for his indefatigable efforts to secure peace.

Impression at Berlin

Brelin, Aug. 30.—Japan has won a great moral victory, Russia a great diplomatic one, and President Roosevelt has become the first figure in international statesmanship—that is what Berlin thinks of the result of the Portsmouth conference.

Money of Secondary Importance

New York, Aug. 30.—That Japan has achieved all she fought for and that the question of indemnity was of minor importance compared to the establishment of her position among the nations and other advantages gained is the opinion of BaronKaneko, the Japanese emperor's financial agent in this country, expressed after he had received dispatches confirming the published reports of peace.

Banker Schiff Is Pleased

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 30.—Jacob H. Schiff said: "Japan's moderation and self-denial redounds even more to her honor than the achievements of her army and navy. My house having staked its business judgment upon Japan's cause by aiding in the financing of her foreign war loans, we feel naturally doubly pleased at the outcome of the Portsmouth conference. The result is to the greatest extent due to President Roosevelt's ability, tact and perseverance. It will forever glorify his name and greatly add to the fame of the United States."

Russia and Japan to Borrow

New York, Aug. 30.—Well informed bank interests are of the opinion that the treaty of peace between Russia and Japan will be followed by a Russian loan and with another later by Japan. Bankers believe that Russia will make liberal compensation to Japan, although this may be provided for in a separate understanding.

CARE OF THE HAIR.

How Following a Few Simple Rules Will Save It.

Hair generally begins to turn gray first on the temples. In most people gray hairs show themselves at about forty years of age, but there are wide variations in time. The immediate cause of gray hairs is in the failure of the cells at the growing point to manufacture the pigment necessary to give the color to the hair, says the Queen. When this change takes place at midlife it marks a gradual lowering of the vitality of the skin and, to some extent, of course, a decadence of general vitality. In estimating, however, the immediate cause of baldness and of gray hair a very important factor must always be taken into account—namely, heredity.

The first rule for the care of the hair is to wash it. This should be done about once a week with lukewarm water and castile soap.

Another important rule is to comb and brush the hair three or four times a day, thus bringing more blood to the roots of the hair, more nutritive material, and carrying away the dead waste. Brushing brings more blood to the scalp, and to this extent tends to promote the growth and vigor of the hair. Massage of the scalp has the same effect, and this must be practiced also if one would care properly for the hair.

Curling of hair is exceedingly doubtful. The heat kills the hair and dead hair tends to fall out. If you must curl the hair use soft silk rags with which to do it. Sheet lead and hard paper are almost as bad as the curling tongs.

A word of advice to men: Don't wear tight fitting heavy hats or caps. These impede the free circulation of blood to the scalp and, as a result, the hair is not properly nourished, nor is the dead waste carried away. The growing root is suffocated through the lack of oxygen and in the end the hair dies and falls out.

How to Make Soaps.

Toilet soaps are, at least ought to be, prepared from a superior quality of fat or oil. They are usually made on a large scale by the cooked process, which may be imitated on a small scale as follows: Boil together in a large vessel one pound caustic soda (commonly called potash) with twenty times its weight of clean fat (beef or lamb being excellent for this purpose) for some hours until a thick mass is formed which will draw out in threads. By adding one-half cup common salt the soap separates, rising to the top. Let it remain until cold, when the soap is easily removed. It is still further improved and purified by remelting with a little water, an attractive white soap resulting. Perfuming may be accomplished at the melting stage by the addition of a few drops of essential oil. Oil of mirbane (which is artificial almond oil) is the cheapest, but the perfumes of real almond oil, citronella, cloves or lavender are more agreeable. If color is desired a small bit of potassium bichromate dissolved in the lye will provide a green color. Brown may be obtained by dissolving a little burnt sugar and adding it to the fat before mixing.

How to Dust Women's Clothes.

A bit of old crape is the very best thing for dusting one's gowns, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The ordinary brush used for the purpose is death and destruction to silk passementerie or any of the soft materials in use nowadays. Flick every particle of dust off with the crape, the corrugated surface of which will make the task an easy one, and then, if there is a good deal of beading used in the trimming, lay between sheets of tissue paper, where nothing will rub against it, for passementerie with some of the beads missing or with the gloss gone is the most distressing spectacle imaginable. If a brush must be used get a soft camel's hair one and use it with a light, quick motion as sparingly as possible.

How to Make Iced Ginger Mousse.

To make a ginger mousse, half a cupful of sugar is first boiled with a fourth of a cupful of water until it reaches the thread stage. Whip the whites of two eggs very stiff and pour the sirup on them, whipping until the two are thoroughly mixed. A cupful of whipped cream is folded into this mixture and a cupful of preserved ginger chopped very fine is mixed in at the last moment. Place in a mold, seal carefully and pack in ice and salt for several hours. The sirup in which the ginger was preserved makes an excellent sauce for this mousse.

How to Improve Shabby Leather.

For improving shabby leather chairs take a pint of linseed oil, boil it and let it stand till nearly cold. Then stir in half a pint of vinegar, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. Stir till thoroughly mixed, then bottle for use. When required shake the bottle well, pour a very little on a soft flannel cloth, rub thoroughly into the leather, turning the flannel as it gets dirty. Then rub with a soft duster till the polish of the leather is restored.

How to Save Carpets.

A half worn carpet may be made to last longer by ripping it apart and transposing the widths so that the most worn parts will come under a piece of furniture and therefore be saved the wear and tear which they have borne hitherto.

How to Wash Cream Cashmere.

To wash cream cashmere make a warm lather and wash gently. Make a little boiled starch and add to some rinsing water so as to make a very thin starch. Rinse, and before quite dry roll up in a cloth for a time and then iron.

PEACE IN FAR EAST ASSURED

Arrangements For Armistice Already Concluded

JAPAN YIELDS ON DISPUTED POINTS

Gives Up Wholly Her Demand For Money, and Half of Island of Sakhalin Goes to Russia Gratis--Abandons Claim For Interned Warships and Limitation of Naval Power--Magnanimity of Japanese Fairly Astounds the Russian Envoys, Who Were Prepared For Final Break--Agreement Is Looked Upon as a "Roosevelt Victory" --Remarkable Demonstration at Portsmouth Upon Receipt of the Glad Tidings

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 30.—The long and bloody war between Japan and Russia is ended. The terms of peace were settled by Mr. Witte and Baron Komura at the session of the conference yesterday morning and in the afternoon preliminary arrangements for an armistice were concluded and the actual work of framing the "treaty of Portsmouth" was by mutual agreement turned over to Mr. De Martens, the Russian international lawyer, and Mr. Dennison, who, for 25 years, has acted as the legal advisor of the Japanese foreign office. The treaty is expected to be completed by the end of the week.

Following is an abstract of the peace terms:

1—Korea under virtual protectorate of Japan, with Russia the most favored nation.

2—Russia and Japan agree to evacuate Manchuria, Russia upon signing of treaty, Japan when order is restored.

3—Russia's lease of Port Arthur passes to Japan.

4—Russia's lease of the Liaotung peninsula passes to Japan.

5—Island of Sakhalin divided, Russia holding northern half, Japan acquiring southern half.

6—Integrity of China to be respected by both nations.

7—Chinese Eastern railroad from point 10 miles south of Harbin to pass to Japanese capital.

8—Manchurian railroad from that point north to remain in possession of present owners.

9—Russia holds road to Vladivostok.

10—Japan has equal fishing rights in Siberian waters.

11—Russia to pay proper recompense to Japan for care of prisoners.

12—Japan waives indemnity.

This happy conclusion of the conference which, a week ago, would have been shipwrecked had it not been for the heroic intercession of President Roosevelt, was sudden and dramatic. For the sake of peace Japan, with the magnanimity of a victor, at the last moment yielded everything still in issue. Russia refused to budge from the ultimatum Emperor Nicholas had given to President Roosevelt through Ambassador Meyer. No indemnity under any guise, but an agreement to divide Sakhalin and reimburse Japan for the maintenance of the Russian prisoners were his last words. They had been repeatedly reiterated in Witte's instructions, and in the form of a written reply to the Japanese compromise proposal of last Wednesday they were delivered to Komura yesterday morning.

Mr. Witte went to the conference declaring he was powerless to change the dot of an i or the cross of a t in his instructions. Emperor Nicholas' word had been given not only to him, but to President Roosevelt, the head of a foreign state. When Komura, therefore, first offered the new basis of compromise (the complete renunciation of indemnity, coupled with a proposition for the redemption of Sakhalin at a price to be fixed by a mixed tribunal consisting of representatives of the neutral powers—in fact, if not in words, the solution offered by President Roosevelt—) Witte again returned a non-possumus.

It was what Witte termed in an interview the "psycological moment." Mr. Witte did not flinch. He expected a rupture and, as he expressed it afterward, he was stunned by what happened. Baron Komura gave way on all the disputed points. With the prescience that has enabled the Japanese to gauge the mental processes of their adversaries on the field of battle and upon the sea they had realized in advance that peace could be obtained in no other way. They had warned their government. President Roosevelt had also, it is believed, advised Japan that it was better to meet the Russian position than to take the responsibility of continuing the war for the purpose of collecting tribute. The mikado, at the session of the cabinet and elder statesmen Monday, had sanctioned the final concession.

When Komura yielded the rest was mere child's play. Articles 10 and 11 (interned warships and the limitation of Russia's sea power in the Far East) were withdrawn. Japan agreed that only that portion of the Chinese Eastern railroad south of Chantfu, the position occupied by Oyama, should be ceded to Japan. Both sides, once the deadlock was broken, wanted a "just and lasting" peace, and in that spirit it was decided to practically neutralize Sakhalin, each country binding itself not to fortify its half of the island and Japan assuming an obligation not to fortify the La Perouse strait, between Sakhalin and Hakkaido, which would bar Russia's commercial route to the Pacific.

The plenipotentiaries went further. They decided to add a new clause in the nature of a broad provision for mutual commercial privileges by which each country will secure for the other the benefit of the "most favored nation" clause and the "open door."

The new treaty will therefore be a wonderfully friendly document.

Before leaving the conference building felicitations were exchanged with the president at Oyster Bay. Both Komura and Witte telegraphed. The former confined himself to apprising Mr. Roosevelt of the conditions upon which peace had been concluded. Mr. Witte, more expansive, frankly laid his tribute at the president's feet. In his message he said: "History will ascribe to you the glory" for the peace of Portsmouth and adding the expression of Russia's hearty appreciation of the president's "generous initiative." Mr. Roosevelt replied with words of thanks and congratulation.

Then began the jubilation. Messrs. Witte and De Rosen returned to the hotel for luncheon. The Japanese had remained at the conference hall to lunch with Mr. Peirce. The news that peace had been concluded had preceded the Russian plenipotentiaries and such scenes of wild rejoicing have never before been witnessed in New Hampshire as greeted them upon their arrival at the hotel.

Mr. Witte, dazed at the sudden and happy termination of the conference, was fairly overpowered by the tremendous ovation he received. He could only express his gratitude by shaking the hands of everybody and in response to the volley of questions fired at him as to the terms murmur "We pay not a copeck and we get half of Sakhalin." Later, in his room, when he had partially recovered himself, he declared that he could not have dreamed of such a victory—for that he regards it as a diplomatic triumph of the first magnitude he makes no attempt to conceal. And that is the general verdict here. The Russians are overjoyed at the result. "We have had our Liaoyangs and Mukdens on land," they say, "and our Teushimas on sea, but the Japanese have had their Portsmouth."

The following statement was issued by Mr. Sato on behalf of the Japanese plenipotentiaries:

"The questions of the final disposition of the island of Sakhalin and the reimbursement to Japan of her war expenses have, from the first, been issues upon which an absolutely divergence of views existed. The difference of opinion upon these points—not one, but both—have frequently threatened the existence of the conference. But his majesty the Emperor of Japan, responding to the dictates of humanity and civilization, has, in a spirit of perfect conciliation and in the interest of peace, authorized his plenipotentiaries to waive the question of reimbursement of war expenses and has consented to a division of Sakhalin upon terms which are mutually acceptable, thus making it possible to bring the important work of the conference to a successful issue."

WASHINGTON COMMENT

A "Roosevelt Victory" Displaces Predictions of Failure

Washington, Aug. 30.—The news of peace, which was heralded on the streets in extra editions of all the papers, occasioned intense excitement. "A Roosevelt victory consummated" is the estimate which displaces a prediction heard in some quarters of late that he has been riding for a fall, in his attempt to get a hand in Old World diplomacy.

It has been assumed here by observers from the start that peace would ultimately result. The powers came together for that purpose, both were tired of war and nearing exhaustion. There was every reason they should stop and none for their going on. It was thus easy to predict peace on general principles. Russia's tendency to "bluff" to the last was well known. She has accomplished much by it. She gets off easy, so far as punitive measures are concerned, but it is perhaps well for the world that this is the case. The poor Russian peasantry, already ground down by excessive taxation, could not afford to pay an indemnity.

The substantial results for which Japan went to war have all been accomplished. Manchuria, into which the Russians were gradually settling down to stay through the centuries, has been saved and will soon develop as a part of China in the new era which opens for that long-lived empire, under tutelage of Japan. Korea falls to Japan, giving her that opportunity for expansion on the continent which her cramped insular position demanded. Japan's place in the world is now assured and the whole future of Asia will be changed as a result of her heroic stand.

Five Shots Without Effect

Rochester, Aug. 30.—John Derea, aged 25, who came to this city from Holyoke, Mass., last evening, fired five shots from a revolver at his bride of a month, aged 23, and sent the sixth bullet into his temple. He died almost instantly. None of the shots fired at the woman took effect, owing to poor marksmanship. Jealousy is supposed to have been the cause for the deed.

ROGERS' LOCATED

Alleged Forger and Wife Visited Providence Doctor

TOLD HARD LUCK STORY

Advised to Send For Deserted Children and Surrender For Wrongful Check Transaction --Slipped Away From Police

Providence, Aug. 30.—The mystery of the whereabouts of John W. Rogers and wife of Washington and San Francisco, who left the Hotel Ten Eyck, at Albany, suddenly last Friday night, leaving behind their little boys, aged 6 years and 6 months, respectively, was solved in this city, when the missing man was identified in the office of Dr. M. W. Houghton, the government physician of this port, to whom he applied for employment, and related a story of hard luck and suffering.

According to Rogers' statement, he and his wife arrived here on Monday from Boston, having walked the distance in three days. Dr. Houghton secured a position for the man, later to be informed by Rogers that last Friday, in New York, he wrongfully made out a check on a Southern California bank for $1500, which he cashed for a portion of the face value.

Suspicion of Rogers' identity was aroused by the reading of an item which appeared in a newspaper relative to the disappearance of the couple from the Albany hotel and a consultation with Dr. Houghton brought about the decision that Rogers and his wife must have been the couple therein referred to. The man was expected to come into Dr. Houghton's office later and when he arrived he was shown the newspaper article. He broke down completely and asked Dr. Houghton what he should do.

Rogers was advised to send at once for the children in Albany. Upon telling of his check transactions he was advised to surrender at once to the police, which the young man promised to do, but first wished to bid farewell to his wife. Mrs. Rogers, however, refused to leave her husband. Rogers shortly afterward left Dr. Houghton's office and when last seen was waiting for his wife on a street corner.

As excuse for his actions, Rogers said he had been in bad company in Washington and in New York and had arrived at the end of his resources when he was seized with the idea that he would not get apprehended and made out the check on the California bank.

Dr. Houghton stated that he first met Rogers and his wife in Washington last November, when he attended Mrs. Rogers on the birth of the younger of the two children. Rogers was at that time employed by the commission on Indian affairs as a stenographer. Since then Rogers had been out of employment for some time. The couple told Dr. Houghton that they were penniless.

The local detective bureau was at once advised of Rogers' presence in this city. Search for the couple by the local police during the afternoon and evening was without result and it is thought that they have left the city.

Wasted Opportunities

Littleton, N. H., Aug. 30.—John H. Sheridan, formerly an investigator of frauds in Cuba, was sentenced here to one year in jail and fined $75 for the embezzlement of money from the postoffice at Lincoln. Sheridan waived the reading of the complaint and pleaded guilty. Sheridan, who is 26 years of age, was employed in the Lincoln postoffice. While in Cuba he assisted in investigating the postal frauds and was appointed to a high position. Later it was charged that he entered into fraudulent schemes and he was imprisoned, but pardoned.

Three Bodies In One Casket

Boston, Aug. 30.—Funeral services were held in the Roslindale Congregational church over the bodies of Edward A. Martin, his wife and son, Spencer B., who lost their lives by burning in the Hotel Maranacook fire last Saturday. The single casket containing the bodies of the three victims of the fire was covered by numerous floral tributes. The bodies were interred in Forest Hills cemetery.

Forest Fires Are Spreading

Millinocket, Me., Aug. 30.—The forest fires between Braggville and Crystal have worked over toward the Patten branch of the railroad and cleaned out the woodland between the two lines, together with 10,000 railroad ties. The loss by this fire is estimated at nearly $10,000. A fire on both sides of Weeksboro station is burning lively today.

Youngsters Charged With Forgery

Albany, Aug. 30.—A requisition for two alleged forgers has been made upon Acting Governor Haines. They are Steward Kennedy, aged 19, and Ethel H. Kennedy, who says she is the wife, and is 16 years old. They are wanted to answer a charge of uttering a bogus check for $150 at Springfield, Mass. The couple are under arrest at Ogdensburg.

Stricken With Blindness

Highlands, N. J., Aug. 30.—William Narcross, while walking home from the beach, was stricken with blindness. There was a flash like lightning and his sight departed. His brother lost his sight in the same manner five years ago.

WANTED RIGHT OF WAY

Italian Paraders Assault Street Car Crew at Boston

Boston, Aug. 30.—Police were called out here last night to quell a disturbance in Postoffice square, occasioned by a number of Italians returning from a day's outing. As a result of the affray a street car conductor, John J. Carter, was taken to a hospital with a broken nose, and Amelio Ferratti, the standard bearer of the Italians, is in jail, charged with assault.

The Ligure club, an Italian organization, headed by the Roma band, was marching to its headquarters. At the corner of Milk and Federal streets a street car interfered with the line of march. Ferratti, who was carrying the American flag, ordered Motorman Lyons to back his car out of the way of the parade, and, according to the police, threatened to assault Lyons with the flagstaff. Lyons and three other men were assaulted and bruised.

Conductor Carter came to the assistance of the motorman and there was a general fight. When the patrol wagon, with police officers, made an appearance, the paraders suddenly disbanded and sought escape.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Did you see the eclipse this morning?

Mr. Turner of Newcomb street continues seriously ill.

Mrs. Robert Baker has returned after a few weeks' absence.

Another patent was issued this week to Perley R. Glass of this city.

Mrs. Pierce will entertain the W. R. C. sewing circle at her home, Edison park, Friday, Sept. 1st.

J. F. Sheppard & Son quote Boston prices today for coal of all kinds. Have you ordered your winter supply?

Daniel J. Hartery of Phipps street, left Tuesday for Petersburg, Va., where he will manage a shoe store.

Those who got up early this morning to see the eclipse of the sun were disappointed, as the sky was overcast.

Mrs. Harry Fisher and children of Upland road have gone to Fall River and Bristol, R. I., for two weeks rest.

The S. of V. Auxiliary held their sewing circle and whist party on Tuesday with Mrs. Rose A. Reed of Liberty square. The prize winners were: Mrs. Sarah Hart, Mrs. Rose A. Reed, Miss Alma Reed, Narcisse LeClair, Miss Eva Hubert and George Dexheimer.

Howard J. Harkins of Main street, a son of John Harkins, leaves next week for Niagara, where he will enter the Our Lady of the Angels seminary to study for the priesthood. He was graduated from Boston college last June.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Dyer and daughters, Mrs. W. F. Carman and Miss Maude Dyer attended Tuesday the twentieth annual reunion and dinner of Company A, First Battalion of Massachusetts Heavy Artillery at Hotel Nantasket.

Mr. Eben Bumstead of Dorchester will speak from his large chart, on "The Broad and Narrow Way," to the Italians, on the M. E. Church green next Sunday, Sept. 3, at 2.30 o'clock. This talk will be as interesting to our own people as to the Italians, as he will speak in English. The public is cordially invited.

Among Tuesday's visitors in town were Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester P. Robertson, who have recently returned to their home in Lexington after an extended stay in New Hampshire and Connecticut. Mr. Robertson is about to open an office for the general practice of the law, at 714 Beacon building, 6 Beacon street, Boston, under the firm name of Robertson, Meins and Chandler.

HIS EIGHTY-THIRD.

Capt. Charles N. Hunt Celebrates His Birthday.

Capt. Charles N. Hunt, a veteran of the civil war and for many years connected with the police department of the city, passed another milestone in his eventful career on Tuesday. It was his 83d and more than that number of friends called during the day and evening to extend congratulations and express the hope that he would live to see many more anniversaries.

It was during the evening that the largest number of his friends called and partook of an excellent lobster salad and other refreshments, and recited incidents of by-gone Quincy days when the thriving city was then but a town.

Many changes have taken place in Quincy during the captain's remembrance and many of those active and prominent in his younger days have gone to their last resting place.

Although well along in years Capt. Hunt holds his age well, and but for a touch now and then of rheumatism would hold his own with many who are much younger.

Capt. Hunt was born in Scituate, Aug. 29, 1822, and was a son of Nathan and Catherine Hunt. He came to Quincy at the age of four years with his mother, and after a brief schooling, learned the granite cutters' trade at which he worked for many years.

He also learned the stone masons' trade and was engaged in building sea walls along the New England coast. He spent much of his time upon the water and has saved eight lives from drowning.

When the call came for volunteers in '61, he enlisted in Co. H, 4th Mass. regiment under Col. Abner B. Packard. He participated in many battles and rose step by step until he was commissioned a captain.

He was first elected a town constable in 1847, and has been elected or appointed every year since.

He was also a volunteer fireman and for ten years was foreman of the old Niagara. For the past twenty years he has been a deputy fish and game warden.

He is a member of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., and a Mason.

PAID HIS BILL.

Board Jumper Weakened When Threatened with Arrest.

Tuesday afternoon a boarding house keeper in City Square rushed up to Officer Murray and informed him that Leon Lounsbery, one of her boarders, had hurridly left.

In leaving he had forgotton to pay his board bill, and had carried off a leather bag which did not belong to him.

Officer Murray soon located the man at another boarding house.

At first the fellow was inclined to be stubborn, but when the officer started to call the patrol wagon he weakened and gave up the bag and paid the bill. As the woman's claim had been satisfied, and she had her property and refused to prosecute, there was nothing to do but let the fellow go.

TODAY'S COURT.

The liquors seized from Solomon J. Hughes at Quincy were forfeited.

Richard, George and William Porter were arraigned for assault at Quincy. Cases continued until Saturday.

The continued case of Charles H. Stanley for larceny at Quincy was heard. He was found not guilty and was discharged.

The continued case of A. A Linscott for larceny of $1,000 from Patrick Flemming at Quincy was called and again continued until Saturday.

The continued case of William J. Kelley for violation of the liquor law at Quincy was heard and continued until Sept. 9.

"Steal Not This Book."

Students of sociology who are fond of tracing back the customs of latter day man to the practices of his remote ancestry will note with interest the fact that there is authority at least 600 years old for the entry, "Steal not this book for fear of shame," by which schoolboys proclaim their ownership of a work.

In a curious volume in the Bodleian library, formerly belonging to the monastery of Robertsbridge in Sussex, is the following inscription: "This book belongs to St. Mary of Robertsbridge. Whoever shall steal it or sell it or in any way alienate it, let him be anathema maranatha."

In the course of the fourteenth century the book came into the possession of John, bishop of Exeter, who seems to have been somewhat troubled by the inscription as being likely to give rise to injurious suspicions with regard to himself. Accordingly he wrote underneath it under date 1327, "I, John, bishop of Exeter, know not where the aforesaid house is, nor did I steal this book, but acquired it in a lawful way."—London Advertiser.

The "Tale of a Tub."

One of the most ancient of all sea "yarns" is one that ships have escaped from the fearsome monsters of the deep by throwing them a tub to divert their attention, in much the same way that a landsman might sacrifice a garment in order to escape a bull. In Munster's "Cosmography," published in 1544, there is a picture of a vessel escaping from a whale by this stratagem, while the earlier editions of Swift's "Tale of a Tub" have a similar one. These stories were usually told in such an incoherent way that people became skeptical of their truth, and when a pleader named Tubb put a cause before Sir Thomas More in outrageously rambling language that chancellor jocularly remarked, "Here is a tale of a tub." Thereafter the expression became part of the slang of the period until much later it was raised to a higher rank by becoming the title of Swift's famous work.

Styles In Africa.

The women bore a hole in their top lip and gradually increase this until it is able to inclose a disk of wood two and even three inches in diameter. A Mubira woman came to call on us whose disk measured two and five-eighths inches across. The size of the wood inserted proclaims the rank of the person. Peasants are only allowed to wear pieces of stick of the same dimensions as a match.

The weight of the wood causes the lip to fall down over the mouth, and in order to eat it is necessary to lift up this shutter with one hand while the other conveys the food to the mouth. Frequently the lip breaks under the strain put upon it, in which case the disconnected ends are carried back and tied to the ear.—"On the Borders of Pygmy Land."

The Catamaran.

The catamaran, made of a hollowed log, shares the popularity of the Massoola boat with the fishermen of Madras. The rickety looking contrivance can weather any storm in the skillful native hands, and letters are sent by this means to ships in the offing when other communication with the shore is impossible. The catamaran requires steering with a paddle through the raging surf, and, though the boatman may be frequently dashed out of the rude skiff by the violence of the waves, he leaps into his frail bark again with the efficiency of long practice, and the catamaran, flying over the crest of the great billows which threaten instant destruction, accomplishes the perilous voyage in safety.

A Hint For Lovers.

Being "in love" is very different from loving and may be only a selfish emotion, which is the direct opposite of loving. Being in love without loving is bondage—sometimes pleasant and sometimes painful, but always bondage, says Leslie's Monthly. True loving means freedom—freedom both for ourselves and, as far as it is in our power to give it, for all whom we love, for when we truly love another human being we love him for the sake of his best strength, his best use and his best happiness, and not at all for the sake of ourselves.

Costly Curds.

The Empress Catherine, noticing that the beautiful Mlle. Potocka, who had lately come to court, had no pearls, immediately commanded a fancy dress ball, to which the girl was bidden to come as a milkmaid. Then while Mlle. Potocka was dancing the empress slipped a superb necklace of pearls into the pail she carried and at her exclamation of wonder said, "It is only the milk which has curdled."

Sydney Smith's Wit.

"By Jove," said a country squire who had got the worst of an argument with Sydney Smith, "if I had a son who was a donkey I'd make a parson of him straight away!"

"Possibly," returned the wit, "but your father was evidently of a different mind."

Could Tell In a Moment.

WISDOM AT THE HELM

UNIONS MUST MOVE SLOWLY, WITH PURPOSE WELL DEFINED.

Good Results Rarely Follow Ill Advised and Hasty Action—Impatience Retards Progress of the Labor Movement.

Impatience has done incalculable harm toward retarding the progress of the workers to industrial advancement, says the Shoe Workers' Journal. Many union men, despite the fact that they have organized for protection and advancement, carry the weaknesses which as unorganized workers denied them improved industrial conditions into their union. Their benighted senses can only grasp the fact that they organized against an enemy. However, they confine that enemy to unjust employers, overlooking the fact that those weaknesses and follies which for almost a lifetime kept them nonunion workers are their most deadly enemies. After almost a lifetime of disorganization and nonunionism they finally comprehend the necessity of organizing, but immediately begin or attempt to apply the tactics which as nonunionists kept their industrial conditions at the lowest level.

The records of defeated strikers and disrupted local bodies show many examples of impatient, hasty, impulsive action. These members demand immediate action and immediate results out of all proportion to plain everyday common sense. Men who were largely responsible for making intolerable conditions and minimizing the efforts of unionism to mitigate them; men, the result of whose own follies actually hounded them into unions, immediately after their advent into the union demand an advance in wages, a strike, changes in the conditions of their employment and changes in the union's policy or officers. Their demands are usually impossible of immediate execution and often impossible of execution at all, or at least until such time as they take a common sense view of the necessary work which must precede them. They denounce unions and their officers for failing to concede impossible demands.

When they dominate the affairs and policy of a union they are certain to destroy it and sink back to their former disorganized state and continue under conditions which their follies have destroyed all hope of improving and which are certain to become worse if they have not already reached the lowest level. Impatient, hasty and ill advised action is a deadly weapon that the workers are constantly employing against themselves.

Even members whose understanding is clear on the experiences of the past, who have actually seen the evil results of impatient action and been its victims, exhibit tendencies to employ the same self destructive action. They patiently bear wrongs, but have no patience with common sense efforts to remedy them which do not promise immediate success. If this class of members and workers would give one-hundredth part of the trial and patience to unions that they give to nonunion conditions they would be rewarded with speedy union successes. Unions must be more than mere associationship and disjointed action. They must embody the best thought, best judgment, best laid plans, best policy applicable to existing conditions and the efforts and undivided support and loyalty of the membership in order to secure even a small share of the improvements demanded by the workers.

It requires none of the characteristics essential to make a union successful to make the sort of union the impatient member or worker apparently wants. Evils are never eliminated or wrongs righted by impatient, hasty or impulsive action. Every detail of grievances or contemplated remedies should be discussed in addition to proposed remedies and the best method of procedure decided. In the event of failure following the first attempt it is not due to organization, but rather the weaknesses of disorganization, which the individual carries into the union and persists in retaining.

An organization for the purpose of mutual benefit means mutual effort. Collective advancement entails collective effort along progressive lines. The union that protects the wages of its members against reduction and their conditions against becoming worse, even though it secures only an occasional improvement of victory, is infinitely superior to the union that destroys itself by impatient, hasty and impulsive action. Unions must move slowly along the lines of a clearly defined policy and with a clearly defined practical purpose in view. If this plan of action is followed, their unwise acts and defeats will be few and their successes many and great.

Child Labor Cause of Poverty.

Child labor thus became an agency for the creation of poverty, because the competition of children, women and machines reduced the wage schedule of men. In very many instances the male wage earner was driven from the factories. He was compelled to seek employment elsewhere in order to earn wages that would keep body and soul together.

Child labor also became not only a menace to the wage schedule and impoverished fathers who had families to support, but it became a menace to the school attendance, to the physical, the mental, the moral development of the American race. It imperiled the very future of the republic itself. It threatened the public schools, the great bulwark of the nation. It presaged social decay.—Edgar T. Davies, Chief Factory Inspector of Illinois.

Vol. 17. No. 203. QUINCY, MASS., THURSDAY, AUGUST 31, 1905. PRICE TWO CENTS.

THE GRANDEST LAUNCHING OF ALL.

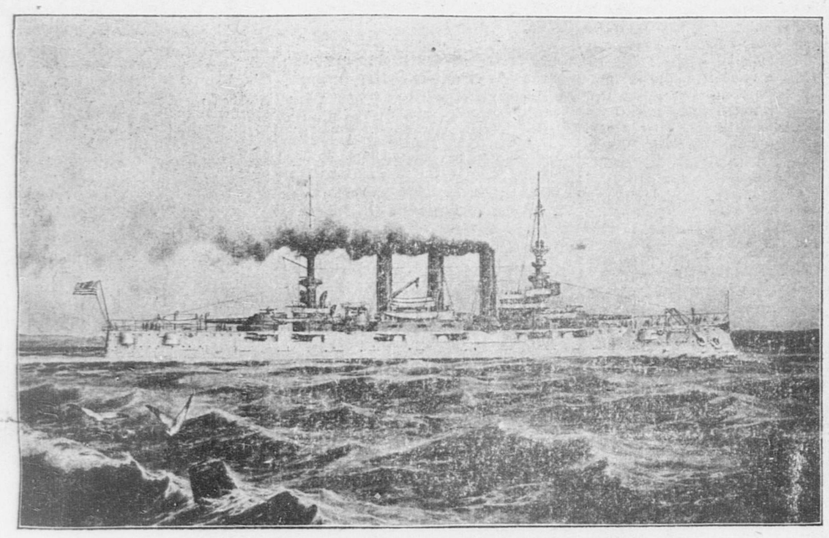
State Officials from Vermont and Massachusetts and Army and Navy Officials See Battleship Vermont Take Her Maiden Dip.



THE VERMONT AS SHE WILL APPEAR COMPLETED.

The big fighting ship Vermont was successfully launched this morning at the works of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. at Quincy Point.

Although launchings of sea fighters have become quite common in this city the interest in these events has in noways abated even though stormy, and like launchings in the past it was witnessed by thousands.

Not only did they come from Quincy and all over New England, but from all over the country. The number of people in the yards was to an extent limited but the shores along the Fore River and the Quincy Point bridge were free to all and these places were black with people. Every vantage point on the Quincy and Weymouth shore was lined with people and umbrellas.

As the new addition to Uncle Sam's navy slid gracefully down the ways into the briny deep the whistles at the works with their wild shrieks proclaimed the event to all the world. As if by one voice the thousands of spectators gave a mighty cheer. Hats flew off and handkerchiefs and flags waved from one end of the shore to the other.

The deck of the battleship was in gala day dress and from her stem to her stern were hundreds of flags while above all were the glorious Stars and Stripes which waved proudly in the gentle breeze as another nation's defender was successfully launched.

It was a glorious sight. One that words are inadequate to describe. Patriotism beamed on every face, from the dirty faced ragged boy, who skipped here and there, in his effort not to miss anything, to the gold laced officials who were on the launching stand.

The distinguished guests of the day came in a special train from Boston which arrived a few minutes before the launch. The Vermont party arrived in Boston Wednesday evening and passed the night at the Somerset. Early this morning carriages were taken for the South Terminal where a special train was found in waiting to convey them.

ARRIVAL OF PARTY.

The special train of six cars arrived at 10 o'clock and one of the first to leave it was Gov. and Mrs. Bell and Miss Jennie Bell, the sponsor.

Miss Bell wore a suit of white cloth with hat to match. She is a petite little lady and her face was wreathed in smiles as she mounted the steep stairway leading to the launching stand.

On her left breast was a large rosette of red, white and blue ribbon.

President Bowles was the first to welcome her to the launching stand and as he did so he presented her with a large bouquet of pink roses.

Before all the party had reached the stand the merry sound of the hammers driving home the wedges was heard.

At 10.45 the last block was knocked from her keel and in a few minute the remaining blocks had been sawed away.

It was 10.57 to a second when the battleship began to move, and then came the crash of the bottle of champagne, the foam clinging to the bows as she slid down the ways.

Such a screeching, shouting and cheering, and above all the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" by the band.

Immediately after the launch pieces of the hawser quickly found their way into the hands of souvenir hunters.

Perfect order was maintained throughout. The police were in charge of Sergt. Barry, and arrangements were admirably carried out.

The stand for the official guests was erected at the bow of the vessel. At the right and left near the bow were other stands upon which were the members of the Vermont Veteran Association and the officers of the Vermont Association of Massachusetts, and the Massachusetts society of Daughters of Vermont.

Shortly before 10 o'clock the tug Iwana from the Navy Yard at Charlestown steamed up to the Fore River wharf bringing a number of Navy officers from Charlestown and the warships in Boston harbor and the Marine band. The gorgeous uniforms of the naval officers added a bit of color to the gay scene. Before the launch the band gave a concert and as the battleship started down the ways the band played the Star Spangled Banner.

Those fortunate enough to have tickets for the launch were admitted to the yard at the gate on Howard avenue, thus saving them a long walk through the yard.

The launching stands were built to accommodate fifteen hundred people and there was no spare room.

Outside of the lines were hundreds of spectators who had tickets admitting to the yard but not to the launching stand. Suddenly there was a shrill whistle and in an instant came the sound of hundreds of hammers driving home the wedges which lifted the ship from the blocks. Another whistle and the merry tapping ceased. Then came the sound of the workmen under the vessel splitting out the wedges. All was now ready. Nothing remained but to saw through two small blocks and the mighty ship began to move. Everybody held their breath in expectancy. Then came the shout "She is going!" Hardly had she begun to move when Miss Bell smashed a bottle of champagne over her bows and said "I christen thee, Vermont."

As the battleship slid gracefully down the ways she gathered momentum and as she struck the water a mighty wave was sent bowling toward the Weymouth shore. Tugs immediately came alongside and hauled the big vessel round to the fitting out dock where work upon her will be completed.

Hardly had the ship entered the water before scores of newspaper reporters were seen hurrying to the telephone stations to give the news to the world of the launching of another fighter. Meanwhile the guests crowded about Miss Bell, and the Vermont officials late of Quincy, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, George H. Wilson and Alvin A Hunt, executors of the will of said deceased, have presented to said Court their petition for license to sell at private sale, in accordance with the offer named in said petition, or upon such terms as may be adjudged best, the whole of certain parcels of the real estate of said deceased for the payment of debts and charges of administration, and for other reasons set forth in said petition.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham, in said County, on the sixth day of September, A. D., 1905, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to each person interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esq., Judge of said Court, this sixteenth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and five.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Only sixteen of the 33 cities of Massachusetts including Boston made a larger actual increase in population than Quincy in the ten years from 1895 to 1905. And only four cities made a better percentage of gain. Quincy's percentage of gain was over twice as large as nine cities.

Such is the demand for houses for employes at the shipyard, that the Fore River Shipbuilding Company may feel called upon to adopt the novel and comprehensive plan of the General Electric Company at Lynn.

In brief their proposition is to purchase land, erect cottages of six rooms and offer them to its employes upon terms that will be as easily met as the rent they now pay. This is the general outline of the plan, but the details make the offer so attractive that the employes are accepting it beyond the expectations of the originators.

The company limits the cost of the land to $400 and the cottage of $1,800, and will build nothing but cottages. The terms are that each subscriber shall have $4 taken out of his wages every week, which includes the interest on the total cost, taxes, insurance ank water rates. The company figures that this instalment will clear the house of all indebtedness at the end of eight years, when the cottage becomes the property of the occupant.

In addition the company agrees to give a life insurance policy to each subscriber for a fixed amount, and if the subscriber should die before the house is paid for, so much of it as is required to pay for the house will be deducted for that purpose, and the house will become the property of the widow or other beneficiaries, the balance of the life insurance also to be paid to them.

Such a plan would not only supply homes to the Fore River men, but they would become more interested in the shipyard and in the city of Quincy. Many men are now here without their families, and do not feel that they are permanently settled. Boarding house life is not desirable to them or to the welfare of the city. It is the owners of homes that Quincy wants, and the Lynn plan is worthy of consideration.

Drift of Opinion.

☞"An act was passed on petition of Sec. Burnett of the Boston Elevated Railway company to prohibit loitering upon the stations and other property of the street railway companies. The act provides: "Whoever, without right loiters or remains within a station or station house of a street railway company, or upon platform, stairs, grounds or other property owned or controled by a street railway company, adjacent to such a station, after being requested to leave the same by a special or other officer, shall forfeit not less than two nor more than twenty dollars." This law has only been in operation about four months, but the travelling public already appreciates it.—Practical Politics.

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

BIG SPOIL OF WAR

Chinese-Eastern Railroad Will Figure as Such

CHINA GETS $75,000,0000

Should She Retain Her Interest In Road, However, the Money Must Be Turned Over to Japan, Besides Reimbursement For Expense Incurred In Making Extensive Changes

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 31.—One additional and interesting, as well as important detail in regard to the conditions of peace, has gained publicity. Most important of all is the fact that the formal recognition of Japan's possession of the Chinese Eastern railroad below Kuenchengtse, the junction of the branch to Kirin, involves payment by Russia to China of a sum estimated at $75,000,000. This is the Chinese interest in the road and for it China must be remunerated.

The question of the ultimate possession of the road is a matter to be settled between Japan and China. Japan can keep the road or surrender it to China, demanding in return the money paid by Russia to China. If she elects the latter course Japan will, therefore, obtain as an indirect "spoil of war" from Russia the above mentioned sum in addition to reimbursement for the cost of maintaining the Russian prisoners of war, for which Japan will present an itemized bill.

Japan is known to have given her word to China not to retain the railroad, which was really built for strategic purposes. But if China prefers the money to the railroad Japan could not be accused of bad faith. Inasmuch as Japan was desirous, even before the war, of extending the then projected Korean railroad (which is already in operation) so as to eventally connect with the Eastern Chinese and Shan-Hai-Kwang roads, and in the negotiations which preceded hostilities asked Russia to bind herself not to impede this aim, it is considered likely that she would herself prefer the railroad to the money.

In addition to turning over the sum obtained from Russia, China, if she took the railroad, would therefore have to reimburse Japan for the expense incurred by her in restoring the road, rebuilding the bridges and changing the gauge. Whether it remains in the hands of Japan or ultimately becomes a part of the system of Chinese imperial railroads a traffic arrangement must be made with the part still in the possession of the old Chinese Eastern company, the stock of which is held by the Russo-Chinese bank. This adjustment will be arranged later.

Both Russia and Japan, if the latter retains the road, are to be allowed to have "railroad guards" for the protection of the railroad property, and, in case of disorder calculated to threaten their interest, are mutually to be permitted to send troops, but the number is in no case to exceed those required and they are to be forthwith recalled as soon as their mission is accomplished.

This, likewise, is a very important provision, and with the east and west Chinese Eastern line and the Southern line as far as Kuenchengtse still in Russia's possession would, in case of a future issue, give her control of the largest part of Manchuria—the whole vast territory from the fertile valley of the Sungari, called the "granary" of the province, northward.

Another important provision is that Japan's succession to the Port Arthur and Liaotung leases which Russia surrenders is conditional upon China's assent.

The armistice has not been arranged. The war departments both at St. Petersburg and Tokio are consulting Linevitch and Oyama respectively, and it is not improbable that the armistice will be concluded directly by the generals on the field of battle.

Remarkable Case of Coma

New York, Aug. 31.—After remaining in a state of coma, as a result of an attack of cerebro-spinal meningitis, for 145 days, Charles Canopi of Yonkers, 8 years old, died last night. On April 8 the boy complained of pains in his head and two hours later became unconscious. The case had attracted wide attention among medical men.

Prince Narrowly Escaped Injury

Toronto, Aug. 31.—As Prince Louis of Battenberg was on his way to Berlin, a German town, the touring car in which he was riding suddenly took to the ditch. The chauffeur had his wrists badly hurt, but the prince was uninjured.

Big Lake Freighter Sunk

Detroit, Aug. 31.—The big steel freighter F. L. Robbins was sunk in Lake Erie in a collision with a dredge scow. The Robbins was launched only this season. She will be floated and taken to Cleveland for repairs.

A Fugitive From Justice

New York, Aug. 31.—At the request of the authorities at Ludlow, Mass., John Bolash was arrested last night and locked up. The telegram from Ludlow merely stated that he was "a fugitive from justice."

Cholera Invades West Prussia

Berlin, Aug. 31.—The Reichsanzeiger officially reports that 20 cholera cases and six deaths have occurred in West Prussia, near the Welchsel river.

THREE HEAVY QUAKES

People In New Hampshire and Maine Towns Shaken Up

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 31.—A series of earthquake shocks, the most severe ever experienced in this section, were felt here late yesterday afternoon. Buildings trembled perceptibly, dishes were shaken from shelves, and in many cases people rushed in terror from their houses into the street.

There were three distinct shocks. In each instance the tremor was accompanied by a sound like that which might be caused by a distant explosion. The first impression was that the powder magazine at the navy yard had exploded, and hundreds of queries along this line were received at the yard.

The first shock was felt a little before 5:40 p. m. and the other shocks followed soon after. In the business section of the city the shoppers and store employes rushed out into the streets, believing that the buildings were about to collapse. Each of the three shocks continued for several seconds.

Three Shocks at Kittery

Kittery, Me., Aug. 31.—Three distinct tremors of the earth were felt in this place yesterday afternoon, accompanied by a heavy rumbling, as of distant thunder. The first shock was felt at 5:38 and was followed by the other two in rapid succession. As the doors and windows were rattled by the vibration of the earth and the lighter bric-a-brac came tumbling down from walls and mantel-pieces, people ran out of doors in considerable alarm.

Biddeford Gets a Touch

Biddeford, Me., Aug. 31.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here about 5:40 yesterday afternoon, but in the outlying districts it was distinctly felt. The shock was accompanied by a sound like the rumbling of distant thunder.

Confidence Resolution Refuted

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 31:—Hebrews of this city, to the number of nearly 600, held a mass meeting last night to protest against a resolution which purported to come from them and which was presented to the Russian peace envoys at Portsmouth over a week ago. The Hebrews claim that their names were wrongfully obtained. The resolution to which objection was made called upon the envoys to do all in their power to secure peace, assuring them of the Lawrence Hebrews' confidence in the "justice of the czar."

Theft of $3200 Charged

Portland, Me., Aug. 31.—Frank H. Collins, aged 55, of Boston, was arrested here on request of the Boston police on a warrant charging him with the larceny of $3200 from the Republic Consolidated Mining company, of which he had been assistant general manager and treasurer. Collins was arrested at a hotel, where he was registered as A. E. Merrill. Officer Burke of the Boston police took Collins to Boston this morning.

Cars Collided on a Hill

Newport, R. I., Aug. 31.—Fifty people had narrow escapes from serious injury when they jumped from a moving electric car to avoid the consequences of a rear-end collision with a work car, and two passengers were badly hurt. The car was descending a hill when a sand car speeded down the incline and struck the passenger car in the rear end. The rear of the passenger car was damaged.

Douglas Refuses to Run

Boston, Aug. 31.—Governor Douglas has announced to the members of the executive council that under no circumstances would he be the candidate of his party this fall, giving as reasons the desire of his family that he should retire, and the state of his health. The announcement came as a great surprise and will be a severe disappointment to some of the Democratic leaders.

Serious Stabbing Affray

Boothbay Harbor, Me., Aug. 31.—Theodore Giton was held in $1000 bonds here, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon on Charles Rich, who received a bad cut extending from the throat down across the breast, and also several gashes in the arm. The police claim that Giton inflicted these wounds with his jackknife. It is feared that Rich will not survive.

Lightning Caused $10,000 Loss

Centre Ossipee, N. H., Aug. 31.—During a terrific electric storm which passed over this town lightning struck a big barn at the Carroll county almshouse, setting the building on fire. Seventy tons of hay, a large quantity of cut wood, all the farming tools of the institution and some live stock were burned. The loss is $10,000.

Young Woman Badly Burned

Newburyport, Mass., Aug. 31.—Alice Hyde, aged 20, is suffering from burns received from the overturning of an oil lamp and her recovery is doubtful. Miss Hyde accidentally upset the lamp while withdrawing a curling iron from the chimney.

Old Man Hanged Himself

Providence, Aug. 31.—Jesse Gray, aged 65, formerly superintendent of highways in this city, committed suicide at his home here by hanging. The reason for his taking his life is not known.

Bomb Thrower at New York

New York, Aug. 31.—A bomb thrown against the front of the house of Michael Palladinak, a wealthy contractor, late last night shattered the front door, smashed the windows and drove all of the inmates in panic to the street. The explosion was attributed to some secret society, but the police could learn nothing to bear out the assertion. No one was injured.

CITY BREVITIES.

Gen. Blackmar's Will.

The will of Gen. W. W. Blackmar of Hingham was probated Monday. The will provides that his property, after public bequests are made, shall be placed in trust, the income to be paid quarterly to his widow, and on her death half the income to go to certain relatives and half to the American Unitarian Association, which shall act as trustee, and which on the death of the above-mentioned relatives shall receive the full income.

The public beqyests are: To the Grand Army of the Republic, $3,000; Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R., $1,000; Massachusetts Commandery Military Loyal Legion of the United States, $1,000, with directions that a tablet be erected in memory of the deceased in the Unitarian church at Hingham; E. W. Kinsley Post, G. A. R., Boston, $1,000; town of Hingham, to purchase steam fire engine to be located at Hingham Centre, $3,000; Women's Relief Corps, Hingham, $200; Edwin Humphrey Post, G. A. R. Hingham, $500; Gwynn Home for Destitute Children, Boston, $3,000; $3,000 to Nancy T. Creel of Louisville, Ky., whose mother nursed him back to life when he was a wounded Yankee soldier in the Civil War. He leaves to the United States Government the chair in which General Ulysses S. Grant sat when arranging the surrender of General Robert E. Lee of the Confederate army at Appomattox.

Battleship Oregon.

The battleship Oregon is to be ordered home from Chinese waters to be reconstructed. Her record of unbroken active service is one of the longest in the history of the navy. She first went into commission in July, 1896. Her performance of racing around Cape Horn, under command of Capt. Charles E. Clark, during the Spanish war, is likely to long remain as the most remarkable run ever made by a battleship. Starting on March 19, 1898, from San Francisco, she covered 13,000 miles in 68 days, and reported at Jupiter inlet at a critical moment. In October of the same year she made a run of 21,000 miles to Manila, reaching there in perfect condition. Hats off to the Oregon! —Herald.

New York Excursion.

October 5th the Boston & Maine Railroad will run the annual New York excursion. A two hundred mile train ride through the Deerfield Valley and the Hoosac Mountains to Troy and Albany, N. Y., a delightful sail on the palatial steamers down the Hudson to New York City; two days in the metropolis and back to Boston via the famous Fall River Line steamers. $5.00 for the round trip.

Write to the General Passenger Department, Boston & Maine Railway, Boston, for beautiful illustrated booklet which describes the trip in detail. It will be mailed free upon receipt of a postal card. tf

Climbing Mountains.

This is a fascinating and invigorating pastime. It develops not the body only, but the mind. The Alpine Peaks of Switzerland have their counterpart in our own country, in the Sierras, the Cascades, and parts of the Rockies.

The greatest glacial peak of the United States is Mt. Rainier in Washington, nearly 14,500 feet high. This magnificent mountain has 15 or more giant glaciers creeping down its sides and discharging their glacial detritus into the Columbia river or Puget Sound.

The climb to the summit of this peak is a feat worthy of any mountaineer. For 25 cents A. M. Cleland, General Passenger Agent of the Northern Pacific Railway, St. Paul, Minn., will send to any address an illustrated booklet called "Climbing Mt. Rainier" describing a climb over the glaciers to the top of the mountain.

COLDLY RECEIVED

No Rejoicing In Russia Over the Peace Terms

HATRED TOWARD WITTE

Intrigue In Military Party at Work to Discredit Him--Japan Silent Concerning Receipt of News, Which Indicates Popular Wrath of the People

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 31.—A very anomalous situation exists as to the impression created by the conclusion of peace. While the outside world applauds, in Japan there is evidently great disappointment in the terms, and in Russia, where it would seem that there should be universal rejoicing over the great diplomatic victory Mr. Witte has won, the government seems to have received it coldly.

With the people it will make Witte a great and popular figure and add to his laurels, but at court evidently the very victory Witte has achieved makes it all the more bitterly resented. It is an open secret that the "military party" hates and fears Witte and that when the czar appointed him chief plenipotentiary they expected him to fail. They did not want peace and it was freely predicted in St. Petersburg when Witte left that he had been given an impossible mission and sent to America to "break his neck." They expected him to fail in the negotiations or to make a "bad peace" and either would have spelled political ruin. Instead, upon the very terms upon which the czar told Ambassador Meyer he would make peace and upon which the military party did not believe it possible for peace to be negotiated, Witte succeeded in securing a treaty honorable and under the circumstanecs favorable to Russia.

This has evidently only exasperated his enemies the more, and intrigue is again at work to discredit him. Since Japan was in a conciliatory mood they now say he made a mistake in surrendering half of Sakhalin. Yet he did so by the czar's orders and himself insists that personally he would have stuck to the end to his original declaration not to cede territory or give indemnity.

In Japan the situation is reversed. The government recognized the advisability of concluding peace, even if all demand for indemnity had to be withdrawn. But the people were incensed even at the suggestion of the division of Sakhalin. That was evident from the expressions in the Japanese press and that was before there was even a suggestion of waiving the demand for any indemnity whatever. Tokio is now silent. Not a word or line about the receipt of the news comes out of Japan. The government has its hand upon every wire. Among those who best know Japan here it is ominous of the popular wrath the receipt of the terms of peace has raised, and they recall with a shudder past tragedies when ministers have been unpopular.

In view of the situation both at Tokio and St. Petersburg alarmists are inclined to make much of the fact that the minutes of Tuesday's fateful meeting have not yet been signed by the plenipotentiaries of the two powers. It is pointed out that either side could still repudiate the agreement, but both plenipotentiaries refuse to admit even the possibility of such a thing happening.

The following statement of the Japanese argument which governed their decision to waive the question of indemnity can be accepted as authoritative:

Japan realized fully she was making a sacrifice for peace, but she was looking to the future. It was not a question of whether peace was not now more advantageous to Japan. Japan had already gained all she fought for. It was only the "spoils of war" that remained and, having achieved the real object of the war, she could afford to forego the spoils rather than be placed in the position of fighting for money. While Japan believed she was entitled to the spoils, she felt that her position was so strong, her successes so complete, that she could yield without detracting from the force of her victory.

Woods Not Yet Cleared

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 31.—"Whistle softly, we are getting into the thin timber, but we are not yet out of the woods." This homely admonition represents accurately President Roosevelt's view of the situation at Portsmouth. Peace is in sight, but yet is not an accomplished fact. The importance of the text of the various sections of the treaty is not minimized by the president and he appreciates thoroughly that obstacles may arise at any moment that might delay seriously the negotiations, or possibly wreck them entirely. The woods will not be cleared entirely until the treaty is signed and sealed. It is proposed that the signing of the treaty take place at Sagamore Hill as a compliment to President Roosevelt for his part in initiating the conference and bringing it to a successful issue. The treaty then would be known as the "treaty of Sagamore Hill. This question lies wholly with the conferees and it is likely to remain undetermined until they practically have concluded their part.

Roosevelt the Man of the Hour

London, Aug. 31.—With the passing away of the first sensation incident to the announcement of peace, the most striking note of public feeling in England is the universality of the tribute paid on all sides to the invaluable services which President Roosevelt has rendered to the cause of humanity. Not England alone, but the whole world is hastening to pay its meed of praise to the peacemaker. President Roosevelt's reply to Emperor William's congratulatory telegram will have a great effect in removing what has been the very prevalent opinion that the emperor had no desire to see peace concluded.

Kaiser Helped Toward Peace

Berlin, Aug. 31.—Emperor William received the following cablegram from President Roosevelt in reply to his congratulations on the result of the peace conference: "I thank you most heartily for your congratulations and wish to take this opportunity to express my profound appreciation of the way you co-operated at every stage in the effort to bring about peace in the Orient. It has been a very great pleasure to work with you towards this end."

Italy Gives Credit to Roosevelt

Rome, Aug. 31.—A paean of joy arose all over Italy at the news that peace in the Far East had actually been concluded. All join in awarding the merit for the achievement to President Roosevelt, who has made for himself a historic name. The pope was informed of the good news early yesterday morning. He immediately rose, exclaiming: "This is the happiest news of my life. Thank God for President Roosevelt's courage."

Roosevelt May Get Peace Prize

Carlsbad, Aug. 31.—There is the highest authority for stating that there is a strong probability that President Roosevel will receive the Nobel peace prize next year.

There are five Nobel prizes, founded by the will of Dr. Nobel, the Swedish engineer and chemist and inventor of dynamite, who died in 1896. The prizes, each of which is worth about $40,000, are awarded each year.

Commercial Understanding Next

Vienna, Aug. 31.—It is expected here that a commercial understanding will be the next result of peace between Russia. It is the understanding here that Great Britain and, to some degree, France and Germany, loyally supported President Roosevelt's efforts. The foreign office organ points out that Japan has attained all the aims of the war.

Working Out the Treaty

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 31.—Messrs. Dennison and De Martens worked until 8 o'clock last night on the draft of the peace treaty. They completed the wording of the preamble and three articles and were discussing the articles relating to the cession of the Chinese Eastern railway when they adjourned until today.

Russians Win In a Skirmish

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—A dispatch from Lidziapudze contains the details of what will probably be the last engagement of the war. This encounter took place on Aug. 28 and resulted in an advantage to the Russians, who took 130 prisoners. A number of Japanese were killed. The Russian losses were eight killed. The remnant of the Japanese retired, bearing their wounded.

Scots Lose Through Peace

Glasgow, Aug. 31.—The conclusion of peace leads to the cancellation of substantial orders for linens and canvas placed by Japan and Russia last week.

Equitable Pensions Stopped

New York, Aug. 31.—The board of directors of the Equitable Life Assurance society voted to abolish the $25,000 pension now enjoyed by Mrs. Henry B. Hyde, widow of the founder of the society, also to abolish the prospective pension of $18,000 to Mrs. Alexander, wife of the former president who recently resigned, which she would have received in case she survived her husband.

No Wrongdoing by Salmon

Washington, Aug. 31.—The investigation of charges that Chief Salmon of the bureau of animal industry of the department of agriculture was a member of the Howard Label company of Washington, which has the contract to furnish meat inspection tags to the government, has been concluded and Salmon is completely exonerated of any wrongdoing.

Vicksburg Has Fever Panic

Vicksburg, Miss., Aug. 31.—Dr. Guiteras of the marine hospital service reports two positive cases of yellow fever in Vicksburg, creating somewhat of a panic. The origin of the fever has not yet been fixed. Both patients are white and neither has been out of town for months.

Czar Pardons Assassin

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—On the recommendation of Grand Duke Vladimir, the czar has pardoned Prokepe, who was sentenced to death for the assassination of Colonel Kremarenko, chief of police of Viborg, on July 21 last.

Separate Towns For Jews

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—It has been decided to form territorial zones for Jews, and lists are now being drawn up of new townships and villages where they will be permitted to live.

Fever Maintains Its Average

New Orleans, Aug. 31.—Report to 6 p. m. Wednesday on the yellow fever situation: New cases, 46; total cases to date, 1878; deaths, 4; total deaths to date, 271.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Friday, Sept. 1.
Sun rises—5:09; sets—6:19.
Moon sets—7:50 p. m.
High water—12 m.; 12:30 p. m.

The weather will be generally fair in New England. It will be cooler.

Irrigation is Independence

In working unirrigated land, the farmer is dependent for success on moisture and sunshine. Irrigation makes him independent of rain but he needs light and heat. In the Yellowstone Valley the sun shines 300 days out of the 365. See the point? The land is rich, markets and transportation facilities of the best.

"The Yellowstone Valley is noted for its large strawberries, lucious raspberries, and richly flavored blackberries. Apples of the finest quality are grown. Pears, grapes, plums and cherries are harvested in great profusion. The people make big displays of tomatoes, sweet potatoes, hops, and flowers at the annual county fairs."

NEGLECT OF DUTY

Court Martial For Commander of the Bennington

ENSIGN WADE INCLUDED

Secretary of Navy Disapproves Part of Finding of Board of Inquiry--Sharp Comment on "a Discreditable Matter"

Washington, Aug. 31.—Commander Lucien Young and Chief Engineer Charles Wade are to be tried by court martial on the charge of neglect of naval duty in connection with the Bennington disaster. Secretary Bonaparte made this announcement in his endorsement of the findings of the court of inquiry. Mr. Bonaparte speaks of the accident as "a discreditable matter" and takes exception to the conclusions of the court on several points. The secretary states:

"The department has very carefully considered the findings and the decision of the court of inquiry, the testimony and exhibits thereto attached and the endorsement of the commander-in-chief of the Pacific squadron thereon. The department approves the several findings of facts by the court of inquiry, with the exception of so much thereof as is in the words following:

"'That (on July 19, 1905) the ship was in an excellent state of discipline and in a good efficient condition, with the exception of the boilers which were in fair condition and efficient considering their age (about 14 years) and the use to which they had been subjected.'

"The department does not consider this particular finding sustained by the evidence. The proof tends strongly to show that the enlisted force of the engineering division had been permitted to fall into habits of laxity and inattention in the discharge of their duties and that at least some of this force were also imperfectly instructed regarding their duties. In the view of the department the evidence renders the statements that the ship was 'good and efficient' and her boilers were in 'fair condition and efficient,' inappropriate to the facts disclosed by the proof.

"The department approves and concurs in the opinion expressed by the court of inquiry respecting the causes of the deplorable calamity as to which the said court was constituted to inquire and the responsibility and consequent culpability of the several persons mentioned in the said opinion of said court."

The secretary then discusses certain parts of the evidence which he says were sufficient to justify the court in advancing another charge of neglect of duty against Ensign Wade and proceeds: "The department approves the recommendation of the court of inquiry that Ensign Charles T. Wade be brought to trial by court martial upon the charges contained in the opinion of the said court of inquiry.

"Such court martial is hereby ordered, but inasmuch as the court of inquiry did not pass expressly in its findings and opinion upon the conduct of Commander Young, commanding the Bennington, and the question of his responsibility for the explosion thereon and consequent loss of life and injuries to persons and property, the department must treat this silence as an implied finding that he was not thus responsible. After very careful consideration the department is compelled to disapprove this implied finding."

The secretary then cites and comments upon the various provisions of the navy regulations and concludes as follows: "The foregoing provisions of the regulations and the facts disclosed by the report of the court of inquiry and by the testimony and exhibits attached, make it the duty of the department to require Commander Young to clear himself of the charge of neglect of official duty before a general court martial. Such court martial is therefore ordered and the judge advocate will prepare charges and specifications in accordance with the views of the department hereinbefore expressed.

"In view of the many painful features of this lamentable affair," the report continues, "it is a source of especial satisfaction to the department to approve the findings respecting the highly creditable conduct of all the survivors of the officers and crew of the Bennington after the explosion occurred.

"It is but just to mention as included in this commendation. Commander Young and Ensign Wade, and also to note that special reference is made to Lieutenant Yates. Notwithstanding the severe loss sustained by the ship's complement and the suddenness and terrible consequences of the accident, discipline was fully maintained; all the officers seem to have discharged their duties with entire presence of mind, intelligence and courage; the crippled vessel was handled judiciously and skilfully and the survivors of the crew showed bravery and humanity in the rescue of their unfortunate shipmates worthy of the honorable traditions of the United States service. The department notes with pleasure these redeeming features of an appalling and also discreditable disaster."

Pleas For Niagara's Beauties

Washington, Aug. 31.—President Roosevelt is being deluged with letters by individuals in all parts of the country praying to do whatever lies in his power to prevent the further destruction of the natural beauties of Niagara Falls as an incident to the development of great power plants on both sides of the Niagara river. It is not improbable that they may serve as a basis for some action by the president in the direction of the creation of an international commission to deal with this subject.

Considering Arcanum Assessments

Put-In-Bay, O., Aug. 31.—The special meeting of the supreme council of the Royal Arcanum to hear protests from delegates representing a number of states relative to the recent advance in assessment rates is in session here. The protesting delegates state that they find the delegates from various sections unanimous in their stand against the new rates and they believe their situation is stronger than at any previous time.

American Consul Criticised

Washington, Aug. 31.—The state department has been supplied with copies of newspapers published in Gothenberg, Sweden, attacking the American consul there, Mr. Bergh, because the flags of their countries were hoisted by every foreign consul in the town except by Bergh on the occasion of the birthday anniversary of King Oscar. Acting Secretary Loomis will call upon Bergh for an explanation.

Defective Switch Caused Disaster

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 31.—City Policeman Murphy, acting as quarantine officer, was killed outright, Flagman Lott so badly injured that he died shortly after, and three others were slightly injured in a wreck of a passenger train within the city limits here. A coach, owing, it is said, to a defective switch, took a siding and the car was thrown completely over.

Jilted Lover a Murderer

New York, Aug. 31.—Rene Sanne, a Norwegian girl, was killed here by her fiancee, Rudolph Williamson, who had paid her passage from Norway in order to make her his wife, and to whom she had broken her promise to marry, preferring another man. Immediately after the murder Williamson shot himself and is expected to die.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Lightning which struck a large barn on the estate of Charles Tourtellot at Cranston, R. I., caused a fire which destroyed three farm buildings on the estate, entailing a loss of $10,000.

The National Laundrymen's association will meet next year in Denver. The officers elected include J. B. Mason of New Haven as fourth vice president.

At a meeting of creditors of the Rice & Griffin Manufacturing company, lumber finishers, Worcester, Mass., counsel submitted a statement that the liabilities are $129,000 and assets $158,000.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

St. Mary's hall has been repainted.

Best prices now for coal at the yard of C. Patch & Son, who sell at Boston prices.

Miss May Coyle is spending the holiday with friends in Fall River and Newport.

Among the visitors to the Dorothy Q house Wednesday were Miss Amy G. Smith of Boston, Miss Isabelle L. Whittier of Milton, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Lamb and Miss Lamb of Milton.

Professor and Mrs. Bertram C. Henry and Mr. Henry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Henry, are moving from "The Mansfield" on Beach street. Mr. and Bertram Henry are to live with Rev. E. D. Webber and his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Henry will live on Brook street.

A LITTLE SURPRISE.

Commodore Bryant Presented with a Bust of Himself.

There was a jolly party Wednesday evening at the club smoker of the Squantum yacht club. Good cheer reigned supreme. Music, stories and efreshments making the hours slip merrily by.

While the festivities were at their height James H. Brougton called for order. When all was quite he made a little speech which ended by his presenting Commodore Charles M. Bryant with a life-sized portrait bust of himself done in pastel.

It was a beautiful affair and almost took the Commodore's breath away as he gazed at the faithful likness of himself. Of course he responded with a few remarks which expressed his pleasure of the gift.

Miss Larkin.

The funeral of Miss Bridget K. Larkin of South Walnut street, was held Tuesday, from St. John's church. Mass was celebrated by Rev. John J. Coan. The interment was at West Quincy, the bearers being six cousins of the deceased.

Miss Larkin was a sister to one of the man killed at Hingham, in a street railway accident some weeks ago, and her death was in a measure due to this cause, as her heart was almost broken over the affair.

New Lighthouse.

The new lighthouse at the Graves will go into commission Friday night. It will flash 2-2-2. Capt. E. C. Hadley is the keeper and he has three assistants.

Teachers are invited to inspect the newly renovated rooms at the Hancock House. Mrs. W. Rollins Abrams will make special effort to furnish to suit, and give a pleasant home at moderate cost to teachers or students. tf extended congratulations to each other.

DYEING.

In case of mourning, Clothes Dyed Fast Black and finished in from 3 to 5 days, at Warshaw's Quincy Steam Dye House.

The official party then slowly wended its way to the mold loft, where a lunch had been prepared by the Fore River officials.

TOAST PRESIDENT.

Gov. Douglas Welcomes Gov. Bell of Vermont.

As soon as the lunch had been served President Bowles rapped for order. He said it was his privilege to extend the welcome of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. to those who regardless of the weather were present. Especially to the Governor, Lieut. Governor and staff of Vermont, and the Governor of Massachusetts.

It was a special pleasure to him to have built the battleship Vermont, for many of us took part in designing and choosing her name. Vermont has many able sons. Let us hope those who are chosen to command this ship will take their cue from the sons of Vermont. In closing he would propose a toast:

"I GIVE YOUR HEALTH TO A SOLDIER, PEACEMAKER, STATESMAN — A BRAVE AND HONEST GENTLEMAN—THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

The toast was drank standing and with cheers.

Charles H. Darling, assistant secretary of the navy, responded to the toast.

Sec. Darling spoke of the bringing about of peace by the President, between Russia our long time and ancient friend, our supporter in peace and war, and Japan this foster child of the United States, the Yankee of the east.

He has added to his glory, and demonstrated the fact that peace has her victory. No man ever took greater interest in the navy than he.

Sec. Darling congratulated President Bowles whose brain conceived, and put on paper the design of the Vermont. He is a valuable officer, and a gentleman.

He expressed a hope that the men who were to man the vessel would do so with the spirit of Paul Jones, "My country! be she right or wrong! my country always!

May she be a credit to our state, the builders, and the President of the United States.

Gov. Douglas was introduced as the business Governor, to welcome the Governor of Vermont. Gov. Douglas was brief. He said: In behalf of the Commonwealth, it gives me pleasure to welcome you to our state.

Gov. Bell was the last speaker. There had been three great events in his life. When he was born, when he was married and today the proudest day of his life. Vermont has no sea; no salt water air to breathe.

We are proud of our little self. We have a battleship. We have a Clark, who was heard from at Manila bay. He felt sure if she was manned by a Vermonter, and was christened by champagne and God's water, her record will no doubt be good.

The after dinner exercises closed with three cheers for Miss Bell, the sponsor.

A few minutes later the special train took the party back to Boston.

The Vermont party was scheduled to leave Boston on their return trip at 1 P. M. via the Southern division of the of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

Sewer Bonds at Premium.

City Treasurer Fay has sold $25,000 four per cent 1-25 year serial sewerage bonds dated Sept. 1, 1905. The award was made to Estabrook & Co, at 104.-781, a 3.57 percent income basis.

—Eliphalet L. Beal of Brockton, an insurance agent, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. His liabilities are $1630.-21, and he has no assets.

The report of the National Mt. Wollaston bank in this issue shows deposits of $479,504.65.

ALONG THE WAYS.

Some Facts and Figures Not Generally Known.

Here are some interesting facts of the launching of the Vermont.

The total launching weight was 7,100 tons, made up as follows: hull, 635 tons; machinery, 520 tons; blocks, 230 tons.

To grease the ways required 5,500 pounds of tallow, 1,563 pounds of hard oil, and 200 pounds of New York launching grease.

There were also 600 fathom of chain in four pieces, used to check the battleship as she slid down the ways.

The links were two and one eight inches in diameter. Each chain was tied up into 61 stops. The stops were made of manila hawser, 9,000 feet being used.

These hawser stops snap like pipe stems as the boat slides down the ways but nevertheless checks the speed.

There was also a large washboard or barndoor across the stern which also checked the speed.

The ways were 42 inches wide and 362 feet long.

New hours at the Thomas Crane public library on after next Tuesday.
